Text: Ezekiel xxxvii, 22: "And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king to them all; and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all."

So says the prophet Ezekiel concerning the house of Judah and the house of Israel. At the time the prophet wrote the words of our text these two houses had been divided for some 400 years. The house of Israel went by itself under its first king, Jeroboam, the son of Nebat. The house of Judah continued on under Rehoboam, the son and successor of Solomon. From that day to this, these two houses have been separate. They Money obtainable from this Company on good Real Estate security, at the lowest arrent rates, and on terms to suit borrowers.

cessor of Solomon. From that day to this, these two houses have been separate. They lived side by side in the land of Palestine 254 years, each kingdom having its own part of the country, its own throne and kings, and its own policy. They were two nations on the mountains of Israel, in the land of Abraham. King Jeroboam had eighteen successors. In the ninth year of King Hossucessors. In the ninth year of King Hossucessors. In the kingdom of Israel was broken up, the people were carried captive into Assyria, and they have remained in exile ever since, and separated from the mountain of Israel and the house of Judah. After the dissolution of the house of Israel the house of Judah continued in existence for 135 years, Rehoboam having nineteen successors. Under the rule of Zedekiah the house of Judah was virtually dissolved, the people carried captive to Babylon, and though they returned after seventy years, yet they never were an independent house of the people in Politics (Politics). pendent house after, and in Palestine King Zedekiah has had no successor. Taking these facts into thoughtful consideration you will at once see the meaning and feel the force of the prophetic utterances of Ezekiel in our text. God promises to make them one nation, giving them one king; neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more

No one familiar with sacred or profane history can truthfully assert that this prophecy has been fulfilled. And I think it is a very fair and reasonable inference to draw from these premises that before these two houses are made one they must be discovered. The house of Judah is known, but surely the house of Israel, which by all fair reckoning is five times larger than that of Judah, must come to light and be acknowledged. But the sad conclusion is forced upon us that the pulpit, pew and the world, are slow to believe God in reference to these great temporal facts. Are the words of the text the words of God? I answer most emphatically they are. Then as sure as the heavens above and the earth beneath they will come to pass. God has declared-Is. ly. 11, "that His word shall not return unto Him void, but it shall accomplish that which He pleases, and shall prosper in the thing whereunto it is sent." wonder that infidelity is so bold, and the Church so cowardly, when the pulpit hesitates to believe and teach the sure part of God's word, for so Peter calls the prophetic portions of the Bible. Colonel Robert Ingersoll, nor no other man, can deny but that our test is true in what it implies. The houses of Israel and Judah are separated, and have been for 2,6000 years. The same God that foretold their division and scattering has foretold also that they shall be gathered together again, and placed in their own land. The gathering from Ezekiel's standpoint was to be "after many days thou shalt be visited; in the latter years thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, and is gathered out of many people, against the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste; but is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall dwell safely all of them." These words are addressed to the chief prince of Meshec and Tubal, who, on seeing Israel and Judah settled and united in Palestine, will be tempted to make war with them. Ezekiel was taken captive when young, in connection with one of the invasions of Nebuchadnezzar during the reign of Jehoiachon, about eleven years before the great Babylonian captivity. He was a member of a community of Jewish exiles, who were settled on the banks of the river Chebar. On these banks history tells us were many factories. This barmonizes with his vision of wheels. His very name, like most of his prophecies, signifies or refers to the future. Yechzkel means God's determined strength, and Ezekiel, as a name, means a narrator of the might of God in the weak arm. Hence, if a thing don't seem reasonable and feasible to us we doubt. Seeing that these houses are divided, and the larger one lost to sight, and the land of | rod. There were in olden times royal rods, Palestine in the hands of the Gentile Turks, we are apt to conclude their restoration to be a thing impossible. But our own reson should teach our faith that what is impossible with us may be possible with God. It ought to be sufficient to every child of God to know that it is written "thus saith the Lord." Jealousy and unbelief can make a big meal out of little crumbs. Now, let any man of common sense read the chapter of the text bands, when it was made into a covenant and he will see that the whole theory of Israel's identification and their union with Judah is as literally portrayed as Oriental language could express. The valley of dry bones to which the prophet is directed to speak, represent lost Israel. Being lost, they are represented as being dead. You say I am now figurizing. So I am, because the prophet does. He does not, however, leave us in the dark or uncertainty in this matter. The Lord told Ezekiel what the bones stood for, future; but for all that none the less sure.

I wish our faith was strong enough to believe in the determined might of God. We are guilty of subjecting the Divine purposes to human criticism, measuring them by our

and who they represented. "Then He said unto me: Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel." This is a plain statement. Israel in their lost condition would naturally think they had forfeited the Divine favor. "Behold," they say, "our bones are dead, and our hope is lest. We are cut off for our parts." That is, when one shall tell them they are the house of Israel, they will the other I called Bands; and I fed the flock."

ONENESS OF ISRAEL AND JUDAH | the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor numbered; and it shall come to pass that in the place where it was said unto them, ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, ye are the sons of the living God."
Here we have their number and lost condition plainly set forth. People say in England, this country and many other countries, the

this country and many other countries, the Saxons are not Israelites, although according to the promise for the latter days, they are multiplying very fast, much more so than any other race of people on the face of the earth. You know God called Israel His people. He claims none other in the same sense. Hence He said that other people would say, "Ye are not My people." Then He says the time would come that in the very place where it was said, "Ye are not My people," there it shall be said unto them, "Ye are the sons of the living God." This Scripture has been many times fulfilled in your hearing in this church the past few years. Many persons have come here, and on hearing me state that the Saxons were the house of Israel have ridiculed the idea, and have said they are not the people of God. In the lobby of this the people of God. In the lobby of this church they have buttonholed their friends and denied with Peter-like vehemence that they, or we, were the sons of God. A few months after the same parties might be seen in the same place, avowing most earnestly that we were mone other than the sons of God, Israel's descendants.

dren of Judah and the children of Israel be gathered together and appoint themselves one head." And this same truth Ezekiel prohouse of Israel his companions, and join them one to another into one stick; and they shall become one in thine hands. And when the children of the people shall speak unto thee, saying, wilt thou not show us what thou meanest by these? Say unto them, thus saith the Lord God; behold, I will take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the stick of Judah, and make thee one stick, and they shall be one in mine hand. And the stick whereon thou writest sha'l be in thine hand before their eyes. And say unto them thus saith the Lord God; behold I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will day, for instead of longing for such a thing gather them on every land; and I will make and rejoicing in that it is nigh at hand, it them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king to them all; and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all." If a doctrine can be more plainly stated, or an argument more conclusive, I would be glad to know. If | ter in a vain effort to explain the Bible witha boy save that two and two make four, he out a literal Israel, and so they mystify the speaks the truth; and if a man says that the samplest truths, and if identification of lost Israel is not taught in or of civilization. the Bible, then he speaks unwisely. A knowledge of Oriental covenant-making may help you to better understand the stick theology of Ezekiel. In the Savior's time they had begun to write their arguments upon parchment. These agreements they had two ways of destroying, one was crossing out or over the writing. The other was nailing the document to a tree—this latter mode men carried out when the parties were wont to meet in the country, and not having pen or ink. They would fold up the document, then make a wooden pin or nail if they hadn't a metal one, and drive the nail or pin through the parchment into a tree. This broke the covenant or canceled the agreement, whichever it might be. You will see how Paul makes use of these things in enforcing the doctrine of the atonement of Christ upon the Colossians. "Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross." To convey the certainty and surety of the atonement Paul says our sins were both erased and nailed to a tree. Further back in Hebrew history sticks were in use in connection with covenant making. By tying a string on a staff a bargain was made and sealed. To unloose the string was to dissolve the agreement. A person placed in authority had a stick given him as a symbol of power. If a master wished to dismiss a servant so hired he would take the staff or stick of agreement and break it. That plainly told the servant he was dismissed. A relic of this custom is still maintained in Israel-England. When the lord high stewart takes office, the badge and symbol of power is a stick, and when he leaves, his last act is to break this stick. The royal scepter of England represents the queen. In the House of Commons they cannot open till the mace-bearer places the royal staff upon an open table. When it is removed the house ceases to be in lawful session. It represents the queen. It corresponds to Aaron's princess rods, and tribal rods. When a king made a covenant with one of his subjects, the same was ratified by the subject tying a green string on the royal staff. Such a covenant was dissolved by untying the string. The royal stick was called beauty staff, because it was handsome, generally being covered with gold and adorned with . precious stones. If the covenant was between a servant sign. and his master, or between the subject and the ruler, it was tied with two strings, a rise to the saying "that a three-fold cord is not easily broken." A knowledge of these ancient customs, as I have often told you, aid us very much in understanding the Scriptures. Take the foregoing, and read the eleventh chapter of Zechariah, and you will see how the same is From this quotation you will see serviceable. God, through this prophet, says:

"And I will feed the flock of slaughter, even you, O, poor of the flock. And I took unto Me two stayes: the one I called Beauty, and Again, in the tenth verse, He says: "And I bemoan their condition, and say that it Again, in the tenth verse, He says: "And I matters not because by reason of their sins took My staff, even Beauty, and cut it asunand rebellion they have been cut off from the | der, that I might break My covenant which I purposes of God in Providence. God tells had made with all the people." Then, also, them they are not cut off, but that they will | in the fourteenth verse: "Then I cut asunder live, that they will live and stand upon their | Mine other staff, even Bands, that I might feet an exceeding great army. string. Such a covenant was supposed to be gether making them one stick to express their union and oneness. The sticks would be tied, and sometimes they would write on them, the same would then be kept just as we in this day keep sacred a document. Ezekiel was ordered to join the stick of Israel and the stick of Judah together, "and make them one stick, and they shall be one in Mine hand. And the sticks whereon thou writest shall be in thine hand before their If there be one fact more prominently taught than another in the Bible, and if any one truth is more distinctly set forth than another in Providence and history, it is that God is conducting His government through His chosen people, Israel and Judah. And seeing that so much which had been foretold concerning this people has been fulfilled, how can we, yea how dare we, disbelieve in the sufficiency and certainty of God in the performance and fulfillment of the rest. Call to mind for a moment the wonderful dealings of God with this people. Look and see what an extraordinary history they have had; how exceptional and marvelous it has been. Angelic commissioners have waited upon them; the sun, moon and stars have done irregular and special service on their behalf; the powers and forces of air, earth and seas have been made to contribute to their interests. The words of the Psalmist, cxlvii. 19, are verily true: "He showeth His word unto Jacob, His statutes and His judgments unto Israel. He In the next verse Hosea sets forth the union of the houses. "Then shall the chilar an accumulated mountain of evidence the career of this people furnish in favor of God.

Providence and Christianity. Well may the Psalmist call the person foolish who says in his heart "there is no God." And well may head." And this same truth Ezekiel pronounces. I must here quote from the law and testimony, in the chapter of the text. "The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying, moreover, thou son of man, take thee one stick, and write upon it, for Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions; then take another stick and write upon it, for Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions; then take another stick and write upon it, for Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions; then house of Israel his companions, and join them 3,000 years he stands with but a tithe of the evidence we have of God's peculiar dealing with Israel, yet his faith pierces through the centuries and drinks in assurance from the knowledge of Israel's restoration. By inspiration he felt and knew that the sad experience that would befall his people between then and now. By faith, however, he sees the end of their wanderings and restoration. No wonder then that he should long for the salvation of Israel, and exultingly say: "When the Lord bringeth back the captivity of His people, Jacob shall rejoice and Israel shall be glad." Thank God that somebody has lived and rejoiced in anticipation of Israel's restoration. It is very different with some in this day, for instead of longing for such a thing breeds in their hearts contempt, in their mind anger, and in their conduct opposition. They want nothing to do with Israel, though God specially cares for them. They don't want to hear about them, though four-fifths of their Bible is about them. They bluster and flut-

Last Monday, when walking the streets, a brother minister tapped me on the shoulder and said: "Brother Wild, I wish you would preach salvation to your people. You have some of my people running to your church and they are getting their heads filled with the stuff about the lost tribes. Now let me advise you to preach salvation. You are too smart a man to be wasting your time that way." This is this brother's idea about the identification of Israel. One thing I am more and more convinced about, and that is this, that some people's religion is altogether too heavenly and too little earthly, too much spiritual and too little physical, too much a matter of eternity and too little a matter of time. They are more ethereal than material and more ideal than real. I believe the harmonies of heaven will harmonize with the sincere work and loving duties of earth. A man will be alright for heaven, and heaven suitable to him who does a noble part on earth. Let Bible readers hear the word of the Lord, as Jer. xxxi, 10, says: "Hear the word of the Lord, Oh ye nations, and declare it in the Isles afar off, and say, He that scattered Israel will gather him, as a shepherd doth his flock." The fact is that many are neither willing to hear the word of God nor history on this important subject. Let me quote from Josephus, that wonderful Jewish historian, who flourished in the latter half of the first century. In one place he says: "Wherefore there are only two tribes in Asia and Europe, while the ten tribes still remain beyond the river Euphrates, and are now a vast multitude, not to be estimated on account of their number." On page 91 of Whiston's translation of Josephus, we find him almost prophetic in his utterances .- "Happy is this people on whom God bestows the possession of innumerable good things, and grant them His own Providence to be their assistant and their guide, so that there is not any nation among mankind but you will be esteemed superior to them in virtue and in the earnest prosecution of the best rules of life, and of such as are pure from wickedness; and will leave those rules to your excellent children; and this out of regard that God bears to you; and the provision of such things for you as may render you happier than any other people under the sun. You shall retain the land to which He hath sent you, and it shall ever be under the command of your children, and both all the earth as well as the sea shall be filled with your glory, and you shall be sufficiently numerous to supply the world in general, and every region of it in particular, with inhabitants out of your own stock. called to be a witness, he would tie a purple | However, oh, blessed army ! wonder that ye are become so many from one father; and extra strong and binding. From this quotation you will see that Jose phus believed in the literal fulfilment of the promises made unto the patriarchs. And so, dear friends, I could go on quoting from history, from such authors as Herodatus, Strabo, Diodorus, Ptolenz, Pliny, and the early church fathers. The truth is that prophecy, history and facts do agree in pointing out the Saxons to be the Lost House of Israel. Con-cerning this all Bible students will agree on that whoever Israel is, they are to have supreme rule finally, and all other nations and people will be subject to them. So if the Saxons are not Israel, they in due time will union with the house of Judah is very point-edly expressed by Hosea i. 10: He says: "Yet one people, they spliced their tribal staves to

A DEAD LOCK.

The Conservative Convention Fail to Agree on their Candidate.

WHICH? BRERETON OR MAR-SHALL?

Not Yet in Sight—The Man on the Dark Horse

A great deal of interest had been felt in the result of Monday's Convention, held in Millbrook, not only by the delegates, and Conservative party in general in East Durham, but by outsiders. The fact that Dr. Brereton, M. P.-P., and Mr. D. Marshall had openly announced themselves as candidates, and each party being pretty evenly divided in regard to support, lent fuel to the flame. "North" and "South" was expected to have as a dividing line. The people of to hgure as a dividing line. The people of Manvers and Cavan, having for years elected the Conservative candidate, and being for one term only represented by a "North" man, felt that from amongst them the candidate should be elected. Hence the great interest, and hence the result. On Monday 92 of the 100 delegates chosen were present, and the Convention proceeded to business shortly after one o'clock p.m. Mr. Craig, President Central Association, not being present, Mr. T. B. Collins was unanimously appointed chairmain, pro tem.

A telegram was received from Col. Williams, stating his inability to attend, owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Williams.

Dr. Brereton, seconded by Marshall Thompson, moved that a letter of sympathy should be sent by the secretary to the relatives of the late John Tamblyn. The motion was carried unanimously.

A communication was read from Judge Benson, who, owing to his recent elevation to the Bench, was obliged to sever his connection with the Conservative Association. The tollowing resolution was then put to the meeting and carried unanimously:-"Moved by Robert Touchbourne, seconded by Robert Vance,-That in view of the retirement of Mr. Wm. Craig, Esq., the late President of this association, from his official connection therewith, this meeting desires to convey to Mr. Craig, and to place on record, its high appreciation of the valuable services rendered by him to this association, and to the great Conservative party in East Durham, during the many years through which he has been actively connected therewith; and, further, whilst regretting the cause of Mr. Craig's retirement, express the hope that, though no longer connected with the association, he may be long spared to assist in the furtherance of those great Conservative prin-ciples for which he has fought so nobly in the past, and to help on the great cause by his weighty influence and sound counsel and advice; and that the secretary be, and is hereby requested, to forward a copy of this resolution to Mr. Craig." The above was followed by another, in reference to the resignation of Judge Benson:

Mr. D. Chisholm,—That in accepting the resignation of Mr. Benson as 1st vice-president of this association, we record our regret at losing his valuable aid and services as a member of this association and of the great Conservative party, and our congratulations on account of his appointment to the judicial position which he is so well qualified to fill; and that the secretary be, and is hereby requested to forward a copy of this resolution to Judge Benson."

This resolution was adopted as unanimously as the preceding ones, but was followed by one upon which there was a square division.
"Moved by C. W. Winslow, seconded by J. P. Clemes,—That this Association, at the annual meeting, desire to place on record its confidence and appreciation of the success of the present member of the Local House, Dr. Brereton, and of his assiduous attention to his arduous duties as a member of that Assembly." Mr. Marshall's friends objected to this resolution, they terming it a "catch." They were quite willing to vote for the former part of the resolution, but objected to a "vote of confidence," which was equivalent to selecting Dr. Brereton as candidate if it carried, and asked for its modification or withdrawal. The mover and seconder refusing to withdraw, the resolution was put and carried, 43 voting for it and none voting against.

one voting twice. There being shown no disposition to yield on either side, it was proposed that the candidates should each address the meeting ten minutes, which proposition was accepted. Dr. Breceton contended that he had a prior claim, he being nominated last time against his will. He did not think it was right to throw him overboard now, unless they had some charge to make against him, which he challenged. The north was entitled to a representative; if not him, some one else. Mr. Marshall based his claims on precedent. The minority, in every instance, had yielded to the majority, he himself having given away on previous occasions. He referred to his long and active service in the party. He further claimed that the Orangemen were entitled to a representative in the House. They had long enough been hewers of wood and drawers of water for the Conservative party.

Speeches through with, another ballot was taken, which gave 44 votes for Dr. Brereton and 48 tor Mr. Marshall. A truce was then called, and the meeting was addressed by Mr. Chisholm and Capt. Preston, but without the desired effect of bringing about an understanding between the conflicting parties. Another ballot was taken giving Marshall 50 How a Process-Server Was Forced to Est His

At the usual fortnightly petty session held last week,—the presiding magis-trates being Col. Stuart and Mr. T. B. Wilson,-three young men named Corbett, and a man named Sena, were charged with having murderously assaulted a process-server named Sheedy. Patrick Sheedy deposed that he resided in Carrickon Suir, and was a process-server. Thursday, 29th December last, he got a number of writs to serve on the tenants of Mr. Seally. The writs were for rent due. In the discharge of that duty he proceeded to Ballyneal, and served some of the tenants with

"Did anything happen to you then?" "Yes, I heard voices in the kitchen, and I became frightened, and turning, ran; but before I got twenty yards I was seized by three or four persons, and dragged back into the kitchen."

Thought It Was Her Brother, but Took the Chances.

Traveling into town about dusk, Mr. Hendricks had occasion to call at the mansion of an esteemed friend, who had, among other worldly possessions. He had scarcely knocked at the door when it was opened by one of those blooming maidens, who, as quick as thought, threw her arms around his neck, and before he had time to say "Oh, don't!" pressed her warm, delicate lips to his, and gave him as sweet a kiss as ever swain desired or deserved. In utter astonishment, the worthy gentleman was endeavoring to stammer out something, when the damsel exclaimed:

"Oh, mercy, mercy! Mr. Hendricks, is this you? I thought it was my brother Charley."

"Pshaw!" thought the gentleman to himself, "you didn't think any such thing." But taking her hand, he said, in a forgiving tone, "There's no harm done; don't give yourself any uneasiness; though you ought to be a little more careful."

After this gentle reproof, he was ushered in the parlor by the maiden, who, as she came to the light, could not conceal the deep blush that glowed upon her cheeks, while the boquet that was pinned upon her bosom shook like a flower-garden in an earthquake. When he rose to depart it fell to her to wait upon him to the door; and it may be added that they there held discourse together for some minutes-on what subject, it is not for us to say. As the warm-hearted youth plodded homeward, he argued with himself in this wise:

"Miss Allen knew it was I who knocked at the door, or how did she recognize me before I spoke? And is it probable that her brother would knock before entering? She must be desperately in-Pshaw! Why, if she loves a brother at that rate, how must she love a husband? For, by the great squash, I never felt such a kiss in my life."

Three weeks after the incident above described, Mr. Hendricks was married to Miss Allen. Did she ever confess that the kissing was not a mistake? Probably not.

A Valid Marriage.

A Maine justice of the peace used this ceremony at a mock wedding:

Beneath this roof in pleasant weather, I join this man and maid together. Let none but Him who rules the thunder Put this man and maid asunder. The courts held the marriage was legal, and the town had to support the wife, who was abandoned by her husband, although it set up the claim the contract was a bogus one.

The brokers, or agents de change, at Paris, are limited by law to sixty, and each member pays a caution money of $50,000, while the profits are so large that the seats sell at from $400,000 to $500,000. The agents de change are said to have made during the past year ten million dollars in commissions.

A New Revelation.

Miss Rose Cook, the poetess, begins a poem, in Lippincott's Monthly, in this

She sat upright in her bed, The gold hair from her head Crisping, colling, wandering low Over her bosom cold as snow."

This may be all true, Miss Rose, but we have always understood that most of the girls lay their hair on the back of the chair, with several other things when they His Wife.

It is not necessary to go to works of fiction for pathetic scenes to show how the demon of intemperance can destroy the happiest homes and make miserable Dramas of this kind are happening about us every day. The following account of a recent scene in Boston could not well be more touching. A writer in the Boston Journal says that a little before dark, a few evenings since, a group of a dozen men, with one wom-an in their midst, stood on one of the side paths of the Common. Near the woman, who was young, neatly dressed and of intelligent appearance, was a man about thirty years of age, whose staring eyes and vacant expression showed that he was intoxicated. A stalwart policeman had his hand on the drunken man's collar, while the woman clung to him and besought him to let her husband go.

This is what had happened a moment before: As the staggering man, half, led, half supported by the woman, turned from the Tremont Street mall, he half struck, half pushed her, so that she fell violently to the ground. She arose and again was thrown down, but in spite of all clung to his side, and walked with him, he striking and pushing her as they went. In a minute a dozen men were rushing after him, and it would have gone hard with him if a policeman had not been in the front rank. As he stood there with the policeman's hand on his collar, he did not utter a word, but stared about stupidly at the men, whose angry faces and clenched hands showed how strong was their feeling, and there were rough-looking fellows among them,

But what was the use?-every blow iven him would have made the poor little wife suffer ten times more than he. When the burly policeman had mas-tered his indignation sufficiently to per-mit him to speak, he blurted out, "What do you mean by striking a woman?"

"She's m' wife," was the sullen reply.
"And what if she is, you brute! Isn't that all the more reason why you should not harm her?" roared the policeman. And right there came in that touch of feminine nature by which thousands of times wives have aroused at once the anger and admiration of the officers of the law.

"Oh, he didn't hit me!" and then, when a dozen men said, "I saw him do it." and she saw how useless it was to deny it, her flushed and tear-stained face dropped and she said, tremblingly:

"I mean-he didn't hurt me." Then the policeman said to the besot-ted wretch, "Come along!" and started as if to drag him off, but in an instant the wife was upon them crying and pleading that she might be allowed to lead him away.

"He's always good to me," she cried, "and he wouldn't have done it only the liquor was in him. We came in from Cambridge this afternoon to look for a tenement, and all the way in he was talking about our little place; but he be met some friends, and then—then," and she could not say any more.

What was the big, soft-hearted policeman to do? His feelings were like those of the angry, sympathetic men about him—when he looked at the man his grasp tightened and his body straightened; when he turned to the woman his hold relaxed, and at last he let go, and pushing him slightly towards her, said:
"Well, take him!" and then, to those standing around-"It does seem to me, and I've seen a good many cases like that, that women are a queer lot. It seems as if the more you licked 'em the better they liked you."

Then the little woman drew the drunken man's arm under her own and started off up the hill, and if he had abused her while he was in sight, the owners of the score of eyes that were eagerly following them would have had an account to settle with him.

Headache.

One of our English cotemporaries has wisely been devoting some thought and space to the common and distressing fact that a great many English women suffer from headache. The same trouble prevails in America, and men, no matter how selfish they may be, are deeply concerned about it, for a wife with a headache cannot be companionable; the best of sweethearts with a headache is sure to be unreasonable, while a lady who has neither husband or other special cavalier to engross her attention can ruin the peace of mind of every one she meets while she has a headache of perceptible size. No amount of masculine grumbling is likely to change all this, but women themselves might change it if they would comprehend the causes of the malady, and then apply their nim-ble wits to the work of prevention or cure.

The trouble is that all American women who have headaches live indoors, where the best air is never good and the worst is poison, and they have none of the exercise which saves man from the popular feminine malady. Were a strong man to eat breakfast at any ordinary American table and then sit down at a work-table or even move about briskly from one room to another, he would have a splitting headache before noon, and the chatter of his innocent children would seem to be the jargon of fiends. The midday meal would increase his wretchedness, and by dusk he would be stretched in misery upon his bed, with one hand mopping his forehead with ice-water, while the other would threaten with a club or pistol any one who dared to enter the room or make a noise outside. There is no rea-son why women should not suffer just as severely for similar transgressions of physical law. True, indoor life is compulsory for a large portion every day, but special physical exercise in a wellaired room is within the reach of almost every woman, and so is a brisk walk in garments not so tight as to prevent free respiration. There is very little com-plaint at summer resorts, where windows are always open and games and excursions continually tempt women who do not value complexion more than health. Girls who ride, row, sail, and shoot, seldom have headache; neither do those unfortunate enough to be compelled to hoe potatoes or play Maud Muller in hay-fields. Let women of all social grades remember that the human machine must have reasonable treatment, and be kept at work or play to keep it from rusting, then headaches will be rare enough to be interesting .-

BY ELLA WHEELER.

Out on the plains I saw an Indian maid, Half-nude she stood, and listened to the Her rapt uplifted countenance betrayed The keen delight of one who haply finds
The bilss of true companionship. Alone
She stood so near the Infinite Unknown
That all the gods talked with her as their own

The undulating grasses, rank and wild,
Billowed in seas of beauty at her feet.
She watched them with the pleasure of a child;
She found the whole earth levely and replete
With the exquisite music of the spheres
That falls but on the few attuned ears
Not dulled by the world's plaudits or its cheers.

I saw a beauteous woman in a crowd; She sat in her rich garments like a queen, Her face was cold and passionless and proud, The pride of wealth and place was in her

Effect of Heat on the Nerves.

" Culture l leave me savage, I implore.

Dr. William A. Hammond, the distinguished neurologist, in an article in Our Continent with the taking title, "How to Escape Nervousness," warns against overheated apartments. He says: "An overheated apartment always enervates its occupants. It is no uncommon thing to find rooms heated in winter by an un-derground furnace up to 90 degrees. Fights and murders are more numerous in hot than in cold weather, and the artificially-heated air that rushes into our rooms, deprived as it is of its natural moisture by the baking it has undergone, in even more productive of vicious passions. It is no surprising circumstance, therefore, to find the woman who swelters all day in such a temperature, and adds to it at night by superfluous bed-clothing, cross and disagreeable from little every-day troubles that would scarcely ruffle her temper if she kept her room at 65 degrees and opened the windows every now and then."

How Young Italian Girls Live. The Italian girl is kept as close a pris-oner as her French sister. She must never be seen unaccompanied, either by a mother, father, elder brother, or married sister. She sleeps in a room close to her mother, and which has no other entrance or exit, save through her mother's hearing, and when engaged she is not permitted a moment to say a word unheard by her mother to the man who is to be the companion of the rest of her life. However old she may be, if unmarried she must not be seen out alone;

whereas, on the contrary, if married, however young she may be, she is allowed every freedom. A married woman of fifteen may be chaperon to a girl of forty or fifty years of age. An unmarried woman cannot even cross the street to buy a yard of ribbon alone. She is rarely trusted alone with servants. That she has her love romances despite the watching need not be added.

Too Careful.

Just before New Year's Day a young Parisian happens in upon a dealer in curios, and finds him in despair; the dealer has just broken an elegant and very costly Sevres vase.

"I'll buy those bits of you," says the "But it is impossible to put them together again." "Never mind about that. Put them into a box and tie it up carefully, and send the package to Madam V."

Then, throwing down a five-franc piece, the young prodigal goes his way, muttering, "Capital idea! She'll think it was broken on the way!"

The day after New Year's he goes to pay his respects to Madam V. "I have received your singular present," she said to him. "Singular?" Why?"

"Look here."

And she exhibits to the stupefied young man the separate fragments of the vase carefully wrapped up in tissue paper, each piece by itself. The dealer had been rather too careful that time!

A Much Mystified Young Man. A mystified youth writes to ask us to unravel and generally decipher a remark made to him the other night by a young lady, with whom he had repaired to a restaurant for supper, after visiting Wallack's theatre. It seems they were demolishing some broiled frogs, and the conversation being on the subject of flirting, the young lady expressed herself as follows: "I think the way you men 'do go on' is perfectly outrageons. You flirt with every girl you see, and when you have broken their hearts what do you care for them?—why nothing. You act exactly as the men do who catch these poor little frogs, the hind legs is all they care for." Now, what in heaven's name, says the young man, did she mean by that? How on earth should we know? The idea!

There had been a seeming coolness be-tween the lovers. One day Emily's schoolmate ventured to refer to the subject and asked her: "When did you see Charley last?" "Two weeks ago to-night.", "What was he doing?" "Try-ing to get over the fence." "Did he appear to be much agitated?" "So greatly," returned Emily, "that it took all the strength of papa's new bull-dog to hold him "There's too much horse-racing at your agricultural fairs," remarked Parson Jones to the secretary of the county society; "I should like to know, sir, what horse-racing has to do with agri-culture?" "Well, parson," replied the secretary, with a pleasant smile, "nothing, perhaps; or, at least, no more than church lotteries have to do with the spreading of the gospel." [Parson Jones saw the point, and changed the conver-sation immediately.]

Strangely Ignorant. The school superintendent of Knox County, Illinois, has furnished notes from an official diary, which indicate that the applicants for teacher's certif-icates are strangely ignorant in some instances. The answers to questions are on file, and these are some of the edifying responses: One youth mentioned the Chicago Times and the New York World as the "educational journals" he had read, and declared that John Hancock was one of the commanders at Gettysburg. A sister of this man blessed with such a vivid imagination produced the following historical information:—
"Balabo crossed the Isthmus of Suez and discovered the Pacific ocean; he named it the South Sea because it was free from storms. He was a Spanish 'enthusiasm,' looking for the fabled fountain of immortal youth.'' One of these Illinois historians had a rank of ninety per cent. in arithmetic.

Among the living American authors, other candidates enumerated Chaucer, Spenser, and Shakspeare. The department of American politics was repre-sented ably by these seekers for a certif-icate. "Senator David Davis represents Utah and has six wives," is a specimen reply. The following reference to a national sorrow is among the answers:

"A. Lincoln diede April 19 he was berried at Spring field III over the Same roote in which he went to Washington. The cares were Draped in black the principil buildings ever person wore badge of mourning."

The superintendent who tells this sad the superintendent who tells this sad tale is a woman, and her thoroughness has enriched the archives of Illinois with these and many similar contributions to knowledge. She declares that the result of her questioning has been sometimes almost "appalling," which would seem to be a moderate statement.

A Pleasant Experiment with Salt. Do you want to grow salt and at the same time have an interesting, hand-some ornament? The proceeding is a novel chemical experiment that may be tried by any one, says the Troy Times. Put in a goblet one tablespoonful of salt and one spoonful of bluing; fill the gob-let two-thirds full of water and set it in position where it will have plenty of warmth and sunlight. In a little while sparkling crystals will commence forming on the outside of the glass, and it is both a novel and interesting sight to watch it gradually growing day by day until the outside of our goblet will be entirely covered over with beautiful white crystals. Another variation of this beautiful experiment would be to take a goblet with the base broken off and fasten it in the center of a thin piece of board, which may be round, square or oblong. After the crystals have formed on the glass, set it on a tiny wall-bracket and place a bright holiday or birthday card in front of it; this will hide the base, on which no crystals will form. After this is done fill the goblet with flowers or dried grasses, and you will have a vase which will cost comparatively little and in reality adds to the bric-a-brac of a room. We wonder how many of the young readers of the Times can tell us how it is the crystals of salt form on the outside of the goblet?

He Fooled with Bolivar's Trunk Surfeited with spangles, flip-flaps, ambling horses, double-jointed riders, and the hair-curling repartee of the clowns, William Malloy, of Delaware county, hied him to the elephant tent at the circus, for the purpose of solving a conundrum that has troubled his somewhat inquisitive mind a long time. "Is an elephant's trunk hollow or is it solid is the question the Delaware county representative has asked himself many times. Excepting a few philan-thropic individuals who were feeding peanuts to the elephants, the tent was empty when Mr. Malloy entered and made a bee-line for the biggest beast in the place. He got to work at once, and tapped and handled Bolivar's proboscis critically, but in less than five seconds after he poked his cane up one of the monster's nostrils he was making more revolutions per minute than a circular sew running with 1 000 pounds of steep saw running with 1,000 pounds of steam on. Lulu when shot from a cannon may fly through the air more gracefully than Mr. Malloy, but certainly not half so speedily. He fell promiscuous-like about thirty feet from the spot he soared from and see the struck the graceful. from, and as he struck the ground, Bolivar, who had watched his victim's progress through the air, raised his trunk picked Mr. Malloy out of the indention his bruised person had made in the earth, and carried him out, Bolivar evinced his satisfaction by numerous

About Crows. Professor Linden said a good word the other day at Buffalo for that much-persecuted bird, the common crow. The crow of America belongs to a scattered family of about two hundred species, including among them the buzzard, jay, raven and magpie. Of the genus proper to which the crow belongs, seven examples are found in the United States, the great black raven being at the head. In the wilderness about one hundred miles from Buffalo, on the shores of Lake Ontario, ravens were found. Their nests were so secluded as rarely to be discovered. So wary were the birds that Mr. Linden had found it impossible to ob-tain a specimen. They were reported more abundant on the Canada shore of Lake Ontario, but it was impossible to procure a specimen even there, though a liberal reward had been offered.

The crow was only preserved from annihilation by its great cunning. Even in captivity the bird displays a degree of sagacity which almost resembles human intelligence. Mr. Linden admitted that the crow could hardly be called a sweet singer; still when tamed he made a very interesting pet. On the whole, he might safely be set down as a useful bird and a real friend of the farmer. He eats large quantities of noxious insects, and though he has a bad habit of pulling up young tender shoots of grain, it was a question whether the damage was not more than compensated by the number of larve of beetles thus brought to light and devoured.

The ladies of Ireland have done it at last, or, at least, those ladies of the Land League of Rosscarberry, who have columnly and unanimously resolved: "Never to marry a landlord, agent, bailiff, land-grabber, or peeler who is not a Land-leaguer."

Happy Thought For Pickpockets. A singular charge of theft was heard before the Brighton magistrates on a recent morning. The prisoner, a do-mestic servant named Rice, went to a shop to try on a bonnet, and having her mistress' child with her, placed it on a settee in the waiting-room. Meanwhile a lady, who was also trying on a bonnet, placed her purse, containing be-tween £6 and £7 on the settee. When the girl Rice left the purse was missed. She was followed home, and the purse was found in the pocket of the child's jacket. Rice was thereupon given into custody. The theory of the prosecution was that she had stolen the purse and hidden it in the child's pocket. suggestion for the defense was that the child had itself taken the purse. The child being only a few years old—in fact, a mere baby—was too young to give its account of the matter, and in the end the magistrates sent the case for trial. They, however, expressed surprise at the purse being left about in the way it admittedly had been but this the way it admittedly had been, but this was explained as due to some difficulty with the pockets.—Liverpool Courier.

Intensely Dramatic.

A sensational drama has recently been performed in the chief theatre of Moscow, the crowning situation of the piece being a combat in a rocky pass between a lion and an Arab chief. The lion scrambles up a steep ascent, and is about to spring from its summit upon his foe, when the man brings him down with a well-aimed shot. The part of the lion had been sustained most successfully by a trained gymnast named Alexeivitch until a short time since, when that artist suddenly fell ill, and the manager was compelled to intrust his role to an active super, who undertook it at a few hours' notice. When the time arrived for his debut, he bounded on the stage with admirable vigor, and scuttled up the cliff in irreproachable style. But when the Arab chief discharged his musket, the lion, utterly thrown off his guard by the report, stood erect on his hinder paws, crossed himself devoutly, and, exclaiming, "Heaven help us!" hurriedly descended the cliff tail foremost, amid the jubilant shouts of the audience.

Uonsiderate.

A California bear seems to have been so much of a gentleman as to quietly depart from a house when a lady told him that his room was better than his company. The Wood River Times tells the story, as follows:

About ten o'clock in the evening a lady living in Wood River, California, was followed home by what she took to be a large Newfoundland dog. Arriving home, she paused at the door to open it out it was some time before she succeeded. During this delay the animal got quite close to her, and as he seemed narmless, the lady called him in.

Her surprise may be imagined when, on striking a light, she saw a huge baldfaced bear looking at her, showing his eeeth as if grinning at her mistake. More dead than alive, the lady opened the door, and gathering or skirts as women sometimes do, began 'shooing' the bear. Bruin, as if appreciating the gravity of the situation, hurried out, whereupon the frightened lady fell into a chair, and did not recover her presence of mind for at least fifteen minutes, when she ran to a neighbor's and told of her adventure.

The Cotton Stone.

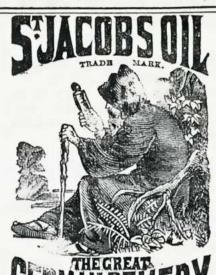

Mr. James A. Montgomery, of Dan-ville, Canada East, is the guest of his brother, the Rev. Hugh Montgomery, of this city, for a few days, says the Norwich Bulletin. He brings with him a mineral specimen from Danville, known there as "the cotton stone." It is mined in large quantities and shipped to England, where it is manufactured into ropes. It is a long-fibred asbestos, is tough and cottony when prepared for use, and is readily spun into ropes or fabrics. The finest minerals for such use are mined in the East, where they have been woven into fire-proof goods from time immemorial. Where bodies were cremated they were wrapped in a mineral blanket formed of asbestos, and thus their ashes were preserved. There is a variety known as the cork asbestos, so light that it will float upon water. The amianthus is the best known variety for weaving. It is said that Charlemagne had an amianthus tablecloth which he used to throw into the fire after dinner for the astonishment of his guests. Ropes made of the mineral are fire-proof and cannot be burned off.

A Cure for Dyspepsia.

We have never experienced the misories of dyspepsia, but those who have "gone through the mill" tell us the different stages of the ailment are far from being enjoyable. Of course, for that, as for every other disease, there are one hundred and one remedies, more or less effective. We copy from an exchange the following cure, which is said to be infallible, and, as it is very simple, those who are afflicted may be cled to try it. who are afflicted may be glad to try it: On the first day, take from the time of rising, once an hour, one tablespoonful of skim-milk, omitting it one hour before and one hour after dinner. For dinner, rare roast beef—all the patient desires—and half a cup of clear coffee; nothing else. After dinner resume taking the tablespoonful of milk once every hour for the rest of the day. On the second day let the dose of milk be two teaspoonfuls, the other details remaining the same. On the third day take three teaspoonfuls of milk, and after that a little bread may be crumbled in if desired. This diet should be continued fifteen days, at the end of which time the worst case of dyspepsia will be cured-so it is said. Don't take our word fer it, however.

Goats and Dogs.

In some parts of the West goats are placed in sheep pens to drive away wolves, a service for which their superior butting powers peculiarly fit them. The experiment has been tried in Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, N. J., with complete success, as a protection for sheep against dogs. Two goats, it is said, can drive away a dozen dogs, and said, can drive away a dozen dogs, and two are about all that it is necessary to keep with a moderate-sized flock. As soon as a dog enters the field at night the goats go at him, and send him rolling over and over in short order. A few doses of this heroic treatment prove quite enough for his dogship, and he is glad to limp howling away as best he can. Formerly, the farmers say, when a dog entered a sheepfield at night, the timid creatures would run wildly about and cry piteously. Since the goats have been used to guard them, they form in line schind their sturdy defenders, and seem to enjoy the fun. Subscribe for The Times.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD AS GOV-ERNOR-GENERAL.

The article in the New York World referring to Sir John Macdonald as the probable Governor-General of Canada to succeed the Marquis of Lorne, has called forth considerable comment from the Canadian press. It is not a new suggestion. It was said by knowing statesmen some years sgo that Canadian Governors-General would yet be appointed, and that Sir John Macdonald would be the first on the list.

It is amusing to read the Globe's objection to Sir John Macdonald as the vice-regal power. It prophesies that if a Canadian was appointed, the last link binding Canada to Britain would be broken. We were told that the N. P. was to have the same effect. The N. P. is kicking lively and strong, and we still remsin an integral part of the British empire, none of the weakening influences having yet shown themselves. It is urged, too, that Sir John Macdon 'd having always been a politician of one stripe, he would be too partizan in his sympathies to impartially perform the duties of Governor-General. This objection is even more silly than the former. Have not our judges in most instances been politicians, and received their appointments through political standing and influence? Wree not our Lieu.-Governors politicians? Who finds fault with our judges or Lieu. Governors? The Globe is no more absurd than usual, but, it is surpassed by the London Advertiser. Hon. D. Mills contributes a long article on the question, the sole object of which is to belittle Sir John Macdonald. As a sample we quote: 'As an administrator he has been a synonym for failure in whatever he has undertaken. In the admission of Nova Scotia, in the admission of British Columbia, in the acquisition of the North-West, he exhibited an amount of incapacity which would have ruined the reputation of any other public man in Canada." The same spirit pervades the entire article. The public want no stronger argument in favor of Sir John Macdonald. But when it is known that Hon. D. Mills, and his organ, the Advertiser, are strong advocates of Canada being ruled by her own people-that the office of vice-regent has been time and again sneered at by them, the only requisites of the holder, it is said, being a capacity to draw $50,000 and look dignified,-the anomalous position of Mr. Mills becomes still more apparent. If the Governor-General should be a Canadian, and the position of Governor-G-neralship is a sinecure; and if Sir John Macdonald is all that the Hon. D. Mills would make him out to be, what possible objection could there be to the present honored premier. If he were the nonentity and know-nothing a column and a half of Advertiser diatribe would make him out to be, Sir John Macdonald is still, by the rule of Mr. Mills, not incapacitated for the position. Canadians, we are told, would not tolerate him in such a position. Canadians tolera'e and honor him in a still more responsible position-that of premier, and will continue to tolerate him as long as that indefatigable statesman desires it. There is one thing Canadians can not tolerate, and that is the stuff which Mr. Mills employs his leisure moments in writing for the Advertiser. It is useless to refer to the qualities as a statesman which suggested to the New York World the appropriateness of Sir John Macdonald as next Governor-General. He is the greatest constitutional lawyer in Canada; his instinctive shrewdness is proverbial; his popularity is great, and he is in high favor with the Imperial Government. The Dominion, we believe, would gladly hail Sir John Macdonald as successor to the Marquis of

A NEW LICENSE LAW.

The following has been suggested as the elementary provisions of a new license law:

1. The maintenance of license inspectors who shall be the County Judge (appointed by the Dominion Government), the registrar (appointed by the Ontario Government), and the county treasurer (appointed by the county council) in each county. In this way political influence will be reduced to a minimum.

2. The appointment of inspector to rest with the county council, who shall also fix his salary. His property qualifications to be the same as councillor, bellion and confiscating their property.

and to give security to the council for the due fulfillment of all his duties. 3. The rules of the commissioners to be made part of and have the force of the License Act itself. These being made with the assistance of the county judge, would be sure to be in accordance with the law.

4. All monies imposed for licenses to be paid to the county council, who out of the same shall pay the salary and necessary expenses of the inspector and commissioners, and return the balance proportionately to the municipalities.

THE MAYORALTY.

Mr. Hugel in the Field.

Notwithstanding the pledge given the electors last year by Mr. Randall, that if he was returned on that occasion by acclamation he would be perfectly satisfied, and not seek re-election, he is again in the field for the civic chair-and for that matter has been canvassing for the past six months, though not as actively as at the present time. Mr. Randall has been Mayor for four years, and seems to think he has acquired a patent on the position. No doubt he will live long enough to be rudely awakened by a vote of the people to the fact that they are the masters of the situation, if he persists in his present candidature. In the whole history of Port Hope, the Mayor's chair has never been so incapably filled as under the present incumbent. Mr. Randall is a man of magnificent promises-he has always some grand scheme on hand-but he fails to make his promises good, and his grand schemes always turn out to be wind bubbles, and it is a surprise to us that he has been able to deceive the people so long. That day is past, however, and Mr. Randall will be permitted to take a back seat, whether he desires it or not, and then perhaps he will realize he would have done better to keep at least one promise in the course of his life, and retired now in accordance with his pledge at the time of his last nomination.

Several gentlemen are mentioned as probable candidates against Mr. Randall, the most prominent at present being Mr. A. Hugel, and Mr. H. H. Burnham, either of whom would be far preferable in every respect. Mr. Burnham has been frequently mentioned during the past two years, and would certainly defeat Mr. Randall. Mr. Hugel's name has been used a great deal the last few days, and we believe, if he concludes to offer himself, he will be well supported and triumphantly elected. We are in a position to state that Mr. Hugel has the subject under consideration, but has not yet made up his mind, though he will likely do so in the course of a few days. In ability he stands head and shoulders over Mr. Randall, and we believe he would make a good and efficient Mayor.

Besides the gentlemen already named, Messrs. Wm. Craig, Jr., James Craick, Stanley Paterson, W. G. Stevenson, J. G. King, Peter Robertson, David Smart, H. A. Ward, and others, are frequently mentioned, any of whom would be a vast improvement on Mr. Randall, whose uselessness is universally admitted.

As we were going to press, a telegram was received from Mr. Hugel, authorizing us to announce him as a candidate for the Mayoralty. Good-now, look out, Mr. Randall.

SIR HUGH ALLAN, DEAD.

A most remarkable feature of the past few years is the great number of exceptionally great men who have died. Not the least among these was Sir Hugh Allen, the news of whose death was flashed across the ocean last Saturday, taking the Dominion of Canada by dumb surprise, and casting a gloom over it from one limit to the other.

Sir Hugh Allan was without doubt the greatest Canadian speculator who ever lived. His history is similar to many other great men, starting a poor boy, and gradually rising until the pinnacle of greatness was reached. He was 72 years old, and since 1829 resided in Bionireal. His inclination and fortunes ran in the line of shipping, and at the time of his death he controlled the largest line of steamers in the world. In business he was prompt, and had connection with a great many huge concerns, the demands of all of which he attended to with re markable precision. Montreal will miss him more than any other place. For years he was its soul of business, his vast concerns building up its trade and importance. All through life Sir Hugh was noted for his moral character, and was an active member of the Old Kirk of Scotland. His knowledge was great, and his judgment sound; to such an extent indeed as to be remarkable. A few years ago the politics of Canada was profoundly affected by an offer of Sir Hugh Allan to build the Canada Pacific Railway. It is in this connection that he is best known to the greatest number. Had his offer been accepted, that vast enterprise would have been, at least, ten years ahead of its present stage of advancement. Socially he was equal to himself in other respects. His palatial home in Montreal was the centre of polite society, and his genial intercourse made it one of the most attractive. All the members of the Royal Family who visited this country have enjoyed his hospitality. He was the merchant prince of Canada, and his name will be an enduring one in its history.

Within the next few days a proclamation will be issued at Cairo degrading Arabi Pasha and his lieutenants in the recent re-

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Dr. Orton, it is rumored, is a candidate for the Speakership.

There are now four vacancies in the Senste. The Conservatives of East Durham should press the appointment of Mr. Wm. Craig.

The United States Government is likely to reduce the postage on letters to two cents. Of course, Canada will eventually have to follow suit.

Says the Toronto Telegram: "The day of Gritism is past. The country has had enough of it, and it is not anxious to return to the old order of things."

If one is to judge from President Arthur's message to Congress, the United States is going to make a move towards reducing its tariff. Where a nation has an annual surplus of $100,000,000, it can well afford to.

A company called the Coal Mining Company has been formed to work the much talked of Saskatchewan coal fields. If reports are true, Manitoba and the North-West have an inexhaustible supply of fuel in these mines.

Mr. David Glass, Q. C., is talked of as the coming leader of the Manitoba opposition, Mr. Greensway proving a failure. If Mr. Glass is not more successful in controlling the Manitoba Grits than the shareholders of the several monetary institutions for which he was solicitor, we do not bespeak for him a glorious future.

Ottawa has been given the "go-by," and Guelph is to have the next Provincial Exhibition. The question of continuing the grant to the Agricultural and Arts Association, will no doubt be prominent among the questions to be discussed at the coming session of the Local house.

Some time ago ladies were admitted to Kingston Medical College. It appears, however, that co-education in the study of medicine is not feasible. Many of the subjects necessary to be taught, preclude the idea of modesty on the part of the lady students. Trouble over this has arisen in the college referred to, and the male students are asking for exclusion of the ladies. Their requests have not been acceeded to, and they threaten to leave. We imagine that if the former are willing to swallow their modest scruples, the boys should not object. The difficulty is, though, the male students take advantage of the situation-to embarrass those of the opposite sex, by giving a lewd turn to the delicate points of the lectures. The ladies become offended; the male students think they have no business there, and hence the

WELCOME.

Business has been on the hum in the Welcome carriage works for the last two or three weeks, the workmen, on account of so many orders being received, having to work extra time.

Mr. Roberts had, at the beginning of winter, quite a stock of cutters on hand, but every one, we believe, has been sold, and orders received for more. He has ordered a large amount of stock, and intends going into carriage building extensively for the trade next summer.

The Welcome choir attended the funeral services of the late John Tamblyn, Esq., at Zion.

The roads, at present writing, though pretty well filled with snow in places, are seemingly in passable order, if we can judge seemingly in passable order, if we can judge here every day. It is time, we think, that the Road Company would consider the advisability of putting wire fences along the road in certain places. Many farmers would, we believe, build the fence did the company furnish the wire. It would cer-tainly, in the end, be cheaper, as well as more convenient for the public on account of the better roads.

We are sorry to have to record the death of Mrs. Grass, a daughter of H. Walker, Esq., and her three children, in Belleville, Mr. Walker and family have the sympathy of the community in their affliction. Cause, diphtheria.

Josie's Thanksgiving. There was a very happy Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of No. 319 East Fifty-second street, New York, and as the hitherto moderately furnished apart-ments were freshly burnished up with the addition of two cosy arm-chairs, a reporter inquired of Mrs. Miller how she had been construct, if only their individual opinions could be given effect to !—Belle-ville Intelligencer.

Individual of Mrs. Miller now she had been able to make so many comfortable changes, to which she replied: "It is all due to our dear little daughter, Josie; she is a great pet and solace to me and her father, and although only 15 years of age, has worked very hard as a seamstress, earning but a modest pittance to help us pay the rent."

"I was afraid," interrupted Mr. Miller, and the tears came to his eyes as he spoke, 'that the little darling would overwork herself, and I encouraged her to save a few dellars for a dark day. About the beginning of November I was surprised when she told me that she had sent a dollar by mail to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., with the expectation of making a large fortune. I did not approve of it at first; when she said she had done the same thing before, and had implicit faith in the Louisiana State Lottery Company. Imagine what an agreeable disappointment we received on the 14th of November last, when we were notified that ticket numbered 52,115, which she held was entitled to one-fifth of the capital donation of $75,000."

"Did Miss Josephine collect her share promptly?" queried the reporter. Oh, yes indeed; Mr. Dauphin paid over to the express company $15,000 to the order of Miss Josephine Miller, and she got the money last week." "Was sheel tod with her success?" suggested the reporter.

'The little darling was so crazy with joy that I asked her to take a little vacation," and the old gentleman smiled, as he thanked the reporter for congratulating him upon his daughter's good fortune."—Philadelphia Record, December 6.

The Chief Constable was at once notified, and he telegraphed for their arrest at Young's Point, which was promptly attended to. Mr. Marshall went out on Tuesday evening to Peterboro' by train, and took a horse and cutter for Lakefield, where the two young men were put in his charge by the Lakefield Constable. The Chief Constable drove home with his prisoners, reaching here about eleven a. m. yesterday. The prisoners, who are two Frenchmen, aged about 20 years, were remanded until this morning. They will likely be tried at the present session of the County Court, Cobourg. We omitted to remark that the horse and rig found in their possession was the property stolen from Mr. Christopher. One of the thieves had been in his employ for some time.

TIRED OF SUFFERING.

An Ex-Police Officer's Story - The Agony is Over.

"IT DID NOT FAIL HIM."

Mr. M. Hymen, proprietor of the Pioneer Store, No. 102 J street, is now one of the happiest men in Sacramento, where as a short time since the fields for him strove in vain to look gay in their garb of winter-green, and the sunshine of California was as a glimpse of the midnight sun at Spitzbergen. He had the rheumatism. What man tortured with rheumatism can delight in the beauties of nature or care a fig whether the sun shines or not? Mr. Hymen did not know what to do about it. He had taken the precriptions of physiclans, but the dull, dead ache and the horror and dread agony was still there; The heavens to him were as though covered with the pall of unending night. Others might smile, but Mr. Hymen found no cause to allow a ray of mirth to creep into his face. This sort of thing had gone on with him at intervals for years, and there seemed no help for him. But the poet tell us that the darkest cloud has a silver lining. The darkest hour is always just before the dawn. There was help for him-relief present and permanent for his racked body. At last some one told him of the Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil. "What! use a mere liniment, after exhausting the skill of doctors? Why, it madness to talk of it!" "Well, just try the Great Remedy," said the voice of his friend. He tried it!" "What is this!" Relief! He tried it again. More relief! "Is this the wand of the magician? Yes, it is relief-sweet relief, after wakeful nights of agony and days long drawn out with "suffering?" At last he had discovered the spiritual of his trouble. He was cured. Since this happy recovery the gentleman cannot say enough in praise of the Great German Remedy. He advises all to use St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism. He says their is nothing under the dome of the universe comparable to it as a pain annihilator. His recommendations in the past few weeks have been the means of selling hundreds of bottles of the wonderful specific, and many are glad of the time when he urged them to use it. His was a wonderful

Mr. W. B. Ferrall, the well-known policeman of this city, has also felt the powerful friendship which the St. Jacobs Oil extends in the hour of physical suffering. Mr. Ferrall was severely afflicted with rheumatism. He got tired suffer ing, and determined to call in the aid of the grand old specific. It did not fail him. The disease was deep seated and declined to yield without a struggle; but the application of two bottles of the Oil made it fly away and cease from troubling. He is now well and hearty. He recommends the afflicted to rely on St. Jacobs Oil as the most ready and efficient cure for pain in the world. Captain O.O. Laraway, who runs that most thriving and well stocked grocery, corner of Sixth and N streets. is a great sufferer from neuralgia. While the reporter was in there the other day, waiting his turn for supplies, the Captain told him that the Ointment should be rubbed upon these Great German Remedy was a powerful liniment. It had relieved him of neuralgia, and given him many hours of ease. His clerk also owned to having had the backbone taken out of some ugly rheu-matic pains which had possessed his legs, much to his annoyance, for some time.

most skeptical that the article in question | liable. is indeed a great remedy and conquerer of pain. "We indorse it," is heard on all sides. - Sacramonto (Cal.) Record Union.

Consumption Cured.

From Andrew Archer, of Fairfield, Me. "Seeing numerous certificates in the Maine Farmer, endorsing the Great Lung Remedy, Wis-Tak's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I take great pleasure TAR'S BALSAN OF WILD CHERRY, I take great pleasure in giving publicity to the great cure it accomplished in my family in the year 1855. During the summer of that year my son, Henry A. Archer, now post-master of this place, was attacked with spitting of blood, cough, weakness of lungs, and general d blity, so much so that our family physician declared him to have a 'scated consumption.' He was under medical treatment for a number of months, but remedical treatment for a number of months, but re ceived no benefit. At length, from the solicitation of himself and others, I was induced to purchase one bottle of Wistar's Barsan or Wild Chrary, which benefited him so much I obtained another, which has abort time restored him to his usual state which in a short time restored him to his usual state of health. I can safely recommend this remedy to others in like condition, for it is, I think, all it purports to be—THE GREAT LUNG REMEDY FOR THE TIMES! The above statement, rentlemen, is my voluntary offering to you in favor of your EALSAM, and it is at your disposal."

BRIU-A-BRAC.

A soldier under fire in Egypt for the first time, commenced a strategical movement to to the rear. "You are a wretched coward," said one of his companions. "Possibly I am," replied the retreating sage, but I prefer being a coward for five minutes to being a corpse for all time."

Pimples and Blotches vanish like chaff before the wind, when Churchill's Climax Eye Salve and Ointment is applied. Price 25 cents.

A Georgia man who lives at Conyers in that State, and who must have Yankee blood in him, claims to be the boss swapper in that section. Ten years ago he bought a pocket knife for which he paid $2. He aide surgeon of the French Army, which swapped this for a pistol; he swapped the conveys the medicines in the form of cold pistol for a shot gun, the gun for a cow, the cow for a horse, and sold the horse for $500. This sum he invested in such a manner that he has $3,000, all the result of his knife trade.

Mothers Don't Know .- How many children are punished for being uncouth, wilful, and indifferent to instructions or rewards, simply because they are out of health! An intelligent lady said of a chlid of that kind: "Mothers should know that if they would give the little ones moderate doses of Hop Bitters for two or three weeks, the children would be all a parent could desire."

An Arkansas editor was arraigned before a court on a charge of assaulting a reporter. The judge, who was formerly a newspaper man, but who had been accused of political fraud and consequently elected to office, was very much interested in the case. "I acknowledge that I assaulted him," said the editor. "One morning when I took up the paper I saw the following, which the reporter had written : 'An nnknown stranger. whose name we failed to get, committed fatal suicide yesterday." "Your defence is sufficient," said the judge, "and I have the pleasure of discharging you."

Mr. Gladstone stated in the House of Commons Tuesday that the total cost of the Egyptian war, including the transportation of the troops homewards, would be about three and a half millions.

Undoubtfully the best medicine to keep on hand for Colds, Coughs, Asthama, Bronchitis and Pulmonary troubles generally, is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It will not cure consumption, but it will care those trcublesome conditions leading thereto.

Twelve years ago Mr. Joseph Morgan started a cattle ranch in Ford county, Kansas, on borrowed capital. He recently sold a choice herd of 4,000 head for $100,000 cash.

A Big Investment.

G. M. Everest, of Forest, states that Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam still holds its own amongst the many cough medicines in the market. He says that he has sold it for nearly sixteen years, and the sales are steadily increasing. One Family has purchased over 50 bottles for various members

The 10th of Nevember received much attention from the German press as being the birthday of three men to whom Germany owes most that has given her distinctiviness among the nations-namely, Luther. the founder of Protestantism; Schiller, one of the chief creators of German literature, and Sharnhorst, the organizer of the Prussian army.

There are in San Francisco four palatial houses, worth together more than $3,000, 000. Their owners, ex Gov. Stanford, Charles Crocker, Mrs. Mark Hopkins, and Mr. Clinton, represent about $130, 000,000. The magnificent structures stand unoccupied about ten months of each year.

In Cuba it is one of the duties of the Alcade, or Justice of the Peace, to superintend dramatic performances and other public enterainments, and to punish the performers, if in his judgment, they deserve it. Not long since a little travelling dramatic troupe, of the order known in the United States as "barnstormers," played the "Gordian Knot" in one of the small country towns, and played it very badly, in conse quence of their imperfect knowledge of their parts, which compelled the prompter's voice to be heard continually. The Alcade who was present was much disgusted. At the end of the leading man of the company, according to custom, advanced to the footlight and announced: 'Ladies and gentlemen, tomorrow we will have the honor of presenting before this illustrious public "The Philosopher Without Knowing It." "Sto !" shouted the Alcade furiously, "you have given us this evening 'The Knot' without knowing it, and if to-morrow you don't know 'The Philosopher,' I warn you that you shall all go to jail."

Halloway's Ointment & Pills .- Though it is impossible, in this climate of changing temperature, to prevent ill-health altogether, yet its form and frequency may be much mitigated by the early adoption of remedial measures. When hoarseness, cough, thick-breathing, and the attending slight fever indicate irritation of the throat or chest, Holloway's parts without delay, and his Pills taken in appropriate doses, to promote its curative action. The young lady listened to his suit and accepted He took a fresh farm, nicely furnished the house and fixed the happy day. > MIND YOUR P'S AND Q'S .- We were asked the other day to explain the foregoing expression. Several explanations have been given, but none seem to be wholly satisfactory. The following comes nearest the point of the caution: In the reign of Louis XIV., when wigs of unwieldy size were worn, and bows were made with great formality, two things were especially required, a "step" with the feet and a low bend of the body. In the latter the wig would be very apt to get deranged, and to even fall off. The constant caution therefore of the French dancing master to his pupils was "Mind your P's (i.e., pieds, feet,)

When we reflect that Phosphates of nerve power, are necessary to the healthy development of tissues, are essential elements of the gastric juice, are required in a uniform quantity daily to maintain functional activity, it is easily seen why Wheeler's Phosphates and Calisaya is so valuable in all prostrate conditions of the system when the digestive apparatus is too feeble to prepare from the food the necessary supply of those agents for the wants of the body.

A Dog's Funeral. Nearly a year ago a gentleman died in affluent circumstances at Kirkwood, and left a childless widow. The husband, who never enjoyed the proud distinction of being called a father, lavished his surplus affections on a fine shepherd dog by the name of Dash. This canine was provided for in his master's will by the setting aside of a certain house and lot, the monthly rent from which was to be appropriated to "Dash's sole benefit during his natural life." In this way the dog's days were comfortably provided for, and the gentleman's wife was named as Dash's guardian.—Shortly after her husband's death the lady went to New York to assuage her grief, but she didn't take the dog along. In her absence Dash was taken very sick, and a telegram informed her of the animal's affliction. True to the last will and testament of her late husband, she telegraphed to employ the most eminent physicians for Dash's treatment, which was done by a faithful servant. In a few days the wires informed her of the Dash was done. She admitted.

Garibaldi, bowed down by age and infirmities, presented a pitiable sight on his recent visit to Sicily to attend the celebration of the "Vespers." The difficulty of moving him from the railway coach to the carriage at Palermo caused him to be placed in the vehicle with his back to the horses, and it was thought best not to try to move him around. So he rode to the villa prepared for him backward and doubled up with his head on the knee of his wife, who sat opposite to him. In sympathy with his sufferings the 60,000 persons who had assembled to greet him attempted no demonstration, but stood in silence, with bared heads, as their illustrious guest passed

THE SUN."

NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read The Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women. We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like THE SUN for the following reasons. Among so humble that THE SUN is indifferent to his we fare and his rights. No man is sorich that it can allow it justice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong. Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, THE SUN stands, and will continue to stand, like a rock for the interests of the people against like ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest shemes of public monopolists, and the dishonest s hemes of public robbers.

All this is what we are fold almost daily by our friends. One man holds that The Sun is the best refriends. One man holds that The Sun is the best religious newspaper ever published, because its Christianity is undiluted with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper printed, because it has already whipped half of the rascals out of that party, and is proceeding against the other half with undiminished vigor. A third believes it to be the best magazine of general literature in existence, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that is current in the world of thought. So every friend of The Sun discovers one of its many sides that appeals with particular force to his indi-

So every friend of THE SUN discovers one of its many sides that appeals with particular force to his individual liking.

If you already know THE SUN, you will observe that in 1883 it is a little better than ever before. If you do not already know THE SUN, you will find it to be a mirror of all human activity, a storehouse of the choicest products of common sense and imagination, a mainstay for the cause of honest government, a sentinel for genuine Jeffersonian Democracy, a scourg: for wickedness of every species, and an uncommonly good investment for the coming year.

The Pope has been for some time past becoming more and more gloomily preoccupied by the general signs of the times in Europe. Those near his person affirm that he has recently written autograph letters to many sovereigns, urging them to rally all conservative social forces for stemming the torrent of radicalism, which menaces the de struction of the present order of society and all existing institutions. He also occupies himself in the composition of lengthy memorials showing the present theories to throw back civilization into barbarism.

A Governmental decree has just been issued in France containing six articles relating to the employment of children in French factories. It is absolutely forbidden henceforth to employ children in manufacture of certain dangerous chemicals, or to let boys under 16 or girls under 18 years of age do hand work at mills. It is also made illegal to allow boys or girls under a certain age to draw trucks on the public streets or highways, or when inside the manufactories to draw any vehicles which, together with their load, shall weigh more than 100 killogrammes. Neither must children be employed in the manufacture of bone, horn, or mother-of-pearl articles, the dust from which is injurious to to the lungs, nor in business involving risk to life and limb, as for instance, in slating roofs. Proper ventilation of the factories is, moreover, made compulsory.

THE AGE OF MIRACLES

is past, and Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will not raise the dead, will not cure you if your lungs are almost wasted by consumption. It is, however, unsurpassed both as a pectoral and alternative, and will cure obstinate and severe diseases of the throat and lungs, coughs, and bronchial affections. By virtue of its wonderful alterative properties it cleanses and enriches the blood, cures pimples, blotches, and eruptions, and causes even great eating ulcers to Ponfick of Breslau has lately been makiug experiments on the common mushroom, from which it appears that all common mushrooms are poisonous, that cooking deprives them in a greater or less degree of their poisonous qualities. The repeated washing with cold water which they usually undergo to clean them takes away a portion of the poison, and boiling does the rest; but the water in which they have been boiled is highly poisonous, and should always be care fully disposed of. Experiments which Prof. Ponfick made on dogs show that if a dog ate one per cent. of its own weight of raw mushrooms fell sick, but recovered; if it ate one and a half per cent. the poison had a more violent but not fatal effect, and if it ate two per cent. it was inevitably fatal. The water in which mushrooms had been boiled was far more poisonous than the raw mnshrooms, while the mushrooms thus boiled could be taken without hurt to the amount of ten per cent. of the weight of the dog's body. Washing with cold water does not remove all the poison, so that mush-rooms thus prepared were poisonous mhen taken in large quantities.

The Bad and Worthless are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it has been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way was trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H.B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style of name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green Hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

Remedies North Trying. The Paris correspondent of a Bostou paper, referring to his recovery from a dangerous illness, says:-I mention this illness that I may tell you how easily I was cured. I was bent double. I could not breathe. My physician ordered me to take a flat-iron and heat it as hot as I could bear; put a double fold of flannel on the painful part, and move the iron to and fro on the flannel. I was cured as by enchantment. My doctor told me some time since a professor in one of our colleges, after suffering some days with neuralgia in the head, which he himself had tried to cure, sent for the former, who prescribed a hot flat-iron. The next time the doctor saw the professor, the latter exclaimed with mock anger,-

"I really shall not pay you any fee! What! I had no sooner applied the heated iron to my head than instantly all pain vanished! That is as simple as good-day; surely you cannot expect a fee for so simple a service!"

My physician was summoned recently to the bedside of a woman who had neuralgia in both sides, and so violently that she alarmed the whole neighborhood by the screams which her intolerable anguish wrung from her. She wantaken from her bed and borne near the fire. In such severe cases a heated iron is not energetic enough. He has an iron rod fastened in an ivory handle. He heats this rod to white heat (which causes less pain than red heat) and applies it very slightly to the seat of pain, first in longitudinal, then in latitudinal lines. The application is so light that no trace is left but red lines on the epidermis, which are soon effaced. In twenty minutes the woman walked back to bed, and the third day afterward quitted it, entirely freed from neuralgia. This instrument is not to be entrusted to awkward hands. Three weeks ago one of our brilliant artists was invited to shoot by the owner of a chateau in whose grounds there are wild fowl in abundance. He woke, the morning after arriving at this gentleman's house, with sciatica in his right thigh. The nearest doctor was sent for. He said he could do nothing which would give the patient immediate relief. The artist is a patient of my physician and told the doctor what to do. The latter declined taking the responsibility of any such violent treatment. The artist insisted, however, and the doctor applied an iron rod heated to white heat, but so awkwardly that the patient has sears the size of a five franc piece on his thigh. He was nevertheless cured, and enjoyed a week's sport without another twitch of pain.

A South Carolina negro has been doing a profitable business with a phonograph. He put one of these talking instruments inside a rude figure of a devil, and at tached a spring in such a manner that the cylinder would revolve on being started without the use of a crank. Thur provided, he set up as a fortune-teller The negroes had never heard of a phonograph, and its voice filled them with superstitious awe, particularly when the seer, having drawn from his dupes som information on the subject of their call and filled the machine with astonishing answers, make it speak oracularly.

The twins who were born into the Chapin family, of Gilbert's Mills, and who were named Garfield and Arthur by the neighors, in spite of the fact that their parents had chosen two very different names for them, are so exactly alike that a ribbon around the neck of young Arthur is absolutely essential to distinguish them. This assertion is made in the most positive manner by their mother, who certainly ought to be an expert on the subject.

An Astonished Countryman.

Conjurers, and even men skilled in the graver dexterities of science, commonly retain humor enough to amuse themselves at the expense of the ignorant, when the temptation is strong. The Hartford Times says: Professor' E. C. Bassett, of this city, can tell many interesting incidents connected with his experience as a psychologist and balloonist, but he was never taken for "old cloven-hoof" but once .-This was on Talcott Mountain, where he was making a cup of "French" coffee by the road. This was done by pouring a little brandy into a cup of cold coffee, and then setting fire to it.

While he was employed, a farmer came jogging by in his wagon, and stopped to see what Bassett was up The latter invited the old man to take some coffee. The brandy was still blazing, but the more brilliant blaze of the noonday sun completely obscured the flame. The countryman alighted and asked for a match with which to light his pipe.
"I don't use matches," was Bassett's answer. "See?"

And Bassett held a piece of paper over the cup of coffee and it ignited instantly. He turned to hand the light to the stranger, and saw him clambering into his wagon.

"Get up!" shouted the man to his horse. "I never have dined with the devil, and I don't propose to begin And he drove furiously away.

A Wonderful Creature.

When a "critic begins to gush there is no stopping him. For example, take this "masterpiece of criticism" upon Patti, from the Cincinnati Commercial:

She could not have been painted by any artist whatever. She stood there beyond the brush of even Bonnat; she stood there, not only the artist without a peer, she stood there art embodiedshe was art. The first effect of her presence was so dazzling that the people held their breath; they knew that she dazed them, but did not at first know why. In her ears and around her neck she wore diamonds, and each one of those stones would have made the dower of a princess, the ransom of a king. They flashed and flashed, until around her face played the exquisite tints of the rainbow; the necklace looked like an aureole dropped from the head weary of its weight of glory; yet the aureole seemed not content to be thus placed, but sent its lines of light to encircle the head above that needed no longer to wear a crown. Any other face would have grown into almost indistinctness thus lighted with the rainbow flashes of the diamonds, but not Patti's. Bright as were the jewels they were not brighter than her dark eyes; dazzling as were their flashes, her face gave out glories as brilliant. It was not until the graceful salutations she gave to every part of the house-to the box on the right she gave her first bow-not until her arms were raised that any eye was taken from her face, set as it was in the glorious light of the flashing jewels; then her arms flashed like electric fire; they were the diamonds that in that light and with the motion gave another kind of brilliant setting to the shapely arms. Then, perhaps the eyes wandered to the dress she wore.

A New Invention.

The Parisians have found out a new invention for increasing the feminine power of fascination. Long eyelashes have always been much admired. but, unfortunately, there are a great many charming women to whom nature has denied this enviable veil for beautiful eyes. Those who would possess this winning grace need despair no longer, for long eyelashes are at anyone's command who is disposed to take a little trouble. This is the simple way in which the desired end may be attained: A fine needle threaded with dark hair must be drawn through the skin of the eyelid, forming long loops. When the process is completed, if the work be deftly done, the result is wonderful. The eve is coquettishly veiled by a beautiful dark fringe, so like the handiwork of nature that the deception can scarcely be detected. The process is said to be as painless as it is simple.-Providence Journal.

"Pure Fruit Syrups."

A prominent down-town druggist was asked about the purity of so-called soda water, and of the syrups used with them. "It is two-thirds bogus," he replied. "Soda water as usually prepared contains no soda in any form. water with carbonic acid gas is all that it is. Bicarbonate of soda is sometimes used. Nearly every druggist makes his own soda water, and I know of one case in which the proprietor of a large drug store has sunk an artesian well for the purpose of having plenty of wa-

"What about syrups?" "In most cases they are unfit to drink, positively injurious, and very often made from an inferior quality of drugs. The so-called pure fruit syrups, in nine cases out of ten, do not contain a smell of the fruit they are supposed to be made of, but they are concocted with such skill as to deceive the sensitive taste."

"How many soda-water stands are there in New York?" "Thousands; one place alone that I know of sold over 3,000 glasses of soda a day last Summer. Profitable? Well, I should think so."—New York Mail.

George Washington Greene, the friend of Longfellow, who is to write his biography, lives in an old-fashioned house on a hill overlooking the Village of Greenwich, R. I. From its upper windows there is a view of long stretches of cultivated country and of the waters of Cowesett Bay, an arm of the Narragan-sett. Several years ago Prof. Greene had an old wind-mill, which stood in an adjoining field, moved up to his house and fitted as a library. In this old house have been entertained Washington, Lafayette, Longfellow, and a host of other distinguished men.

Plugging Diamond-Drilled Holes. It is no easy matter to plug up a diamond-drill hole from which there is a strong flow of water, frequently under great pressure. When a hole is to be olugged there are forced into it small bags of beans and flaxseed. The plugmade of dry pine and from ten to fifteen feet in length-is driven in after these bags and forces them forward in the drill hole. Also, a hole is sometimes bored into the end of the plug, which hole is filled with flax-seed. The flaxseed and beans are caused to swell to such an extent by the hot water that the hole is as compactly filled as though closed with molten lead.—Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.

The overdoing of the modern æsthetic business is illustrated in an exchange by these incoherent words: "Bridget, why hast thou to me so well recommended by Mrs. Bongtongs not as I bid thee these many times conformed to wishes of mine expressed in this respect for sooth that though time beyond laundry day is by two days extended, yet thee no sprinkle to the articles hath given, nor doth to me anywhere upon the range appear the sad iron which ere this in times that were to and fro to glide was wont. Per-adventure—" "Well, mum, in a Quaker family working was I once, but long enough not I the language to learn: an' if in a furren tongue ye spakin' be, it's to me intirely unbeknowest."

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

Messra, Editors .-The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pink ham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman, as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weak-ness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show. "Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifler works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others. Mrs. A. M. D. Philadelphia, Pa. Factory at Stanstead, P. Q .- Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, General Agents for Ontario.

THE first annual meeting of the Ontario Trade Benevolent Association was held in Toronto on Tuesday. Mr. A. Winslow was present representing the Port Hope branch.

THE latest and worst is: Dip-theory is a Baptist disease. It will only be in justice to local punsters to say that the above is accredited to a Toronto wag.

MR. Thos. Neelands will lead the prayer meeting held in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Service of song at 7.30. to which all are invited. Good music and singing.

A Xmas Tree entertainment will be give in the Bible Christian Church, Port Hope, on Wednesday evening, 20th inst. A good programme will be provided. Admission, 10

THE anniversary services in connection with the Garden Hill Presbyterian church, take place Sunday, Dec. 24th. Rev. R. J. Beattie, of Port Hope, will preach on that

REV. Mr. Jeffrey told his congregation last Sunday, so we are informed, that Cain was not a son of Adam, and it could not be proved from the Bible. Perhaps not, but we

All who attended church last Sunday would hear the announcement that the Bible class held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Tuesday evenings at 8 o'clock, is now open to all, it having been decided at the last meeting to admit ladies. Rev. Dr. O'Meara will lead the class during the month of De-

An exchange gives an account of an unique and novel feature of a concert given in Chatham Music Hall, recently. A game of chess was played on the stage, ladies and gentlemen, dressed in beautiful and appropriate costumes, being the pieces. They were moved from square to square by graceful ushers, as directed by two good chess players.

OUR up-street contemporary hints that a Xmas present from the Town Council for reporting its meetings would be acceptable. If each member of that august body would send their compliments to the editor of the Guide, accompanied by a small remittance,—say 25 cents-no doubt he would feel satisfied that the City Fathers can take a hint.

THE sermon found on first page is by Dr. Wild, preached in Bond street church, Toronto, from the same text which formed the basis of Rev. Mr. Cleland's remarks several weeks ago. It was preached previous to the lecture by Mr. Cleland, but has been sent to us by Dr. Wild as an indirect reply. We recommend it for perusal by our readers.

L. O. L. OFFICERS FOR No. 311 .- The re-elected; W. D. M., Bro. G. T. Handcock; W. C., Bro. A. Hooey; W. T., Bro. J. Lowery; W. Sec., Bro. S. Arnett; First Committeeman, Bro. W. J. Ovens; D. of C., Bro. J. Nesbet. Lodge meets the first Monday in each month.

Astronomers were not generally fortunate in obtaining observations of the transit of Venus. At many points the weather was unfavorable, and on the whole but few complete observations were made. The results of these may not be known for some years yet. The data furnished by the transit of 1874 has not yet been fully utilized.

A MARK OF ESTEEM .- On Monday, at the Conservative Convention, the news of Mrs. Williams' illness was received with deep regret. A resolution was moved by Capt. Preston, seconded by Geo. Campbell, giving expression to this feeling, and upon being put to the meeting, every man stood on his feet, showing clearly the esteem in which the wife of our member is held throughout the

BETTING ON THE BIBLE. - In his last Sunday evening's sermon Dr. Wild said he would give $25 to the St. George's society if any person could point out a single established fact of science which was not to be found in the Bible, or show anything in nature contradicted by the teachings of the Bible. Members of the Free Thought society, Toronto, have taken him up, and deposited $25 with the editor of the World. We wait with anxiety to see whether the "Dr." will "put up or shut up."

"In selecting a candidate, we should only consider men whose past record will be their credentials for the future. Old residents of the riding are preferable, and above all things, select a man who will not make his party a target for mud balls."-The Guide.

Several ambitious young men have been left out of the Guide's list of probable candidates on the Reform side, towards which the above seems directly pointed. The Guide faction wants to shunt the chief spouter of the party off the track, but the latter, if cheek can accomplish it, will not be shunted. The prayers of a certain reverend gentleman are evidently not out of season. FATHER STAFFORD'S SUCCESSOR.—A successor has been found to the late lamented Father Stafford in the person of the Rev. Father Lynch, of Peterboro'. This reverend gentleman has labored in Peterboro' for the past twelve years to the entire satisfaction of his flock. In leaving he was made the recipient of addresses and presentations, and the parting between pastor and people was said to have been very affecting. Like Father Statlord he labored for the educational advancement of his people, and left behind many mementoes of his zealous care. Rev-Henceforth the united bodies will be known | Father Conway succeeds, for the time being, ever saw. They appeared suddenly and disappeared in the same way.

Dr. Wild attended the supper given by the United Trade Benevolent Association on Tuesday evening, in Toronto, and made a speech. In doing this, he risked a good deal as a minister. His speech was a very sensible one, and his position in regard to the liquor business is one endorsed by most liberal minded, common sense people.

Y. M. C. A. CONVERSAZIONE .- The programme for the above is about completed. It is to consist of a promenade concert, singing, promenading to music by a string band, recitations by Miss Vickers, Eastern and Indian curiosities, stereoscopic and microscopic views, etc., to be the attractions of the occasion. Refreshments will also be served.

Model School Examination .- The closing exercises of the Model School took place on Friday afternoon last, after the examination of the modelites had closed. A number of visitors were present, who were shown the actual work, and the nature of the instruction given and received by the Model School pupils. Several of these took classes in the Public School through lessons in various subjects, performing their tasks in an admirable manner. Congratulatory speeches by the visitors concluded the programme.

THE Kingston News says: At twelve on Friday, the schooner Mary, of St. Gatherines, arrived in the harbor looking as if she had a hard time of it coming down the lake. Captain Chisholm reports that, notwithstanding that he has been sailing a vessel for over 40 years, last night was the worst he ever experienced. He left Port Hope last night under favorable circumstances, but before the night was half gone he had reason to regret his departure. He was nearing Salmon Point, keeping well in, when the wind, which was coming from the south, changed and blew a terrible gale, and snow began to descend, so that he could not see twenty yards ahead of the vessel. The waves rolled over her incessantly, knocking ont the bulwarks and sweeping the deck of almost everything. A large box, filled with iron, ropes, etc., was carried from one end of the deck to the other. After passing Salmon Point, the jibboom snapped and the canvas suffered to such an extent that the fore-sail was torn in several places, and the gaff-topsail literally torn into shreds and carried off by the wind. Other portions of the rigging suffered. Being an old navigator, the captain managed to get past both Ducks all right, when it was plain sailing into the harbor. He loaded 7,000 bushels wheat at Rondeau for Portsmouth at 6 le. He thinks that he has earned his money. The Mary will winter here. A peculiar phenomenon that the captain mentioned was the fact that when off Salmon Point, a ball of light settled on each of the masts, and shone so brilliantly that the deck below was brightly illuminated. He terms these lights "compagantes," and says that they are caused by foul air overhead. They gave more light than any four lamps he all announcing as he left that he would be a candidate in any event. Still another ballot was taken, but as sufficient were not left to form a quorum, the result is of no consequence. It was finally proposed by those remaining to adjourn until the second Wednesday in January, which proposal was readily agreed to, as it was then late and most of the delegates were tired.

An uncouth mender of old umbrellas walked into McNaughton's saloon one night last week. It was the evening of the memorable day when fair Venus kissed the stern countenance of Old Sol, and bade him a century's farewell. It was on the evening of this memorable day, we say, when a long-haired tramp, dressed a la mode, unburdened himself, in the aforesaid social rendezvous, of a bundle, from which protruded umbrella springs and the remnants of a loaf of bread. He bade the "gintlemin" standing around "good avening," and immediately afterwards got outside of a tumbler of malt, for which he deposited a rusty nickel, leaving the landlord to calculate on the pro rata of profits, after deducting freight, gas, rent, etc. Mr. Trampus showed no disposition to investigate the economy of the transaction, but was loquacious enough on other topics, particularly that of securing a berth in the "Hotel de Gamble." It was the opportunity of the bystanders to have a little "chaff" with their erratic-looking friend.

One of them asked: "Did you come far?" "Well, now, yer talkin', surr," replied he, the malt warming him up to the "rale

Another chimed in: "I suppose you took observations of the transit as you came along?"

"Dhe phwat?" enquired the impecunious restorer of umbrellaic completeness, with a look of injured innocence, combined with surprise. He had, no doubt, assumed that taking observations referred to something he had stolen on his way.

"The transit of Venus," reiterated the questioner.

"The 'tarins uv ainus! An' phwat's that same?" and he looked furtively at his knapsack, to see if it was sticking out any place, as he cautiously proceeded with: "I'm not egsactly up to yer maning."

"I guess," spoke up a third, "you're not n astronomer, are you?"

He convulsed his audience with: "No, surr, I'm an Irishman."

Exit-audience leaving Mr. Tramp quaffing malt in Scripture measure.

THE REFORM CANDIDATE.

Some time soon the Reform Convention to select a candidate to stay at home, will be held. The Guide gives excellent advice as to the qualifications of the important individual to be chosen for this onerous duty. He should be intelligent, well-posted, etc., and then follows a list of those who, in the opinion of the rural correspondent of the Guide, would make suitable gentlemen to attend to domestic and private hydrogen definition. domestic and private business duties during the next term of the Local Legislature. We agree with this writer in thinking that all these qualities of mind are desirable, but why they are necessary to constitute a Reform candidate, we fail to see. Considering that no one of these gentlemen have any prospects of ever representing East Durham, we do not see why any one man in the Grit party would not do as well as another to act as candidate even to the erudite and well-informed editor of the Guide. Suggestions, taken from our contemporary, such as follows, are good, but somewhat superfluous: "Each municipality should be judicious in selecting its delegates.' "They should be intelligent, representative men," etc. "Selecting delegates should be a deliberative act," and so on.

P. R. Randall, A. Hugel, David Smart, John Wright. S. S. Smith, Drs. Gilmour, Clemesha, Corbett and Ough; A. Wood, Millbrook; C. Chittiek, Manvers; Henry Elliott, and Samuel Caldwell, Hope, are the men suggested by the Guide. The selection by our contemporary is indeed a good one, the poorest in the list being well qualified for the duties he will be called on to fulfill during the next four years, viz., to stay at home and attend to his own business. The net of "the ten friends" is left out by the Guide, and he is the gentleman who is working the hardest and feels the surest of getting the nomination. This is a strange oversight on the part of the Guide, which, it is to be hoped, considering the importance of securing a firstclass candidate, it will hasten to make right. In the meantime, we trust the valuable suggestions of the rural correspondent will not be forgotten by our Reform friends.

HAMLET REVISED-OR THE MAYOR'S SOLILOQUY.

To run, or not to run,-that is the question! Whether it is more honorable in me to retire, and thus avoid the scorn of an outraged public, or to take arms against a host of candidates, and by opposing, squelch them. -to run-to win, -no less!-and by a walk over, to teach a lesson to those conceited ones, who imagine they can whip me,-'tis an expectation I'm not liable to be slipped up on.

To run,-to win;-To win!-perchance to be defeated—aye, there's the rub! For, if a fellow's lett, what the papers say when I have kicked the municipal bucket, would be rather agonizing! There's the respect that makes office-hunting so long-lived; for who would bear the newspapers' raking and the public kicks, the News' ingratitude and the Times' contumely, the pangs from big heads, the preacher's hints, the insolence of office, and the racket on the streets, which even urchins sling, when I myself might my quietus make at home with a b-k b-e.

Who would office bear,-to groan and grunt in getting factories, but that the vain thought of something higher-that envied "M. P. P.," and the cork-screw brigade with which it travels-urges one on, and makes a fellow cling to the honors he has, rather than try for others he may lose.

Thus, these things make all men brave,— and thus, the native hue of resolution, is bolstered up with ambitious thoughts, of parliamentary honors, and talk of great enter-prises, with this peculiarity, the latter turn away from us, and I still remain expecting.

PATTHESON-In the Township of Hope, on Monday, Dec 11th, Arthur Campbell Parterson, eldest son of Mr. Geo. N. Patterson, aged 4 years and 3 months.
