CAY! FANTASTIC! BRILLIANT!

A Fairy Scene by Gaslight.

It was a custom in days gone by in Italy and other Catholic countries to celebrate in a grand festival the week before Lent. We do not know that traditionary customs formed any precedent in this instance, but by a "fortuitous combination of circumstances" no doubt directed by the Fates, our carnival fell upon a time and in a manner similar to W. B. Budge—Yankec Swell.

The control of the control o to those of olden times. This remark is not all suggested by the fact that the costumes were in many instances borrowed and lent, detract from the success of the affair; but, on the other hand, enabled both the managing committee and the participants to perfect their arrangements, which, when completed were indeed very complete. Not a single incident occurred during the whole evening to mar the pleasure, or to-cause displeasure.

At eight o'clock skaters in costume went on the ice, and in a very short time the rink was gay with gliding figures, representations of characters, real, fictitious, ancient, mythical and renowned. The ice was in very good condition, the spirits of spectators and performers "flowed happily;" and when the music of the band struck up, the masked and fantastic troupe throwing themselves into sympathy with the music, glided tunefully along, the whole scene to the mind of the spectator forming a sort of beautiful apparition, often dreamed of in conceptions of the fairy world, but never before realized.

About 168 appeared on the ice in costume,
28 of these being from Peterborough and 16

We are requested to state that those from Peterborough were entirely satisfied with their treatment and their share of the honors.

About 8.30 p. m. most of the masks were removed from the faces and a wealth of beauty was exposed. We heard it remarked by several of the "oldest inhabitants," that they had no idea there were so many handsome faces and figures in Port Hope. There were so many nice costumes it would be hardly fair to individualize, but the following were a few of the most conspicuous: St. Jacob's Oil was food for general laughter. All that could be seen was a huge black bottle with a cork in it and labelled; Betsy Bobbett and her Hus-band, Old Mother Hubbard, Liberty, the Esthetic Lady, decked in sunflowers and fanning herself with a lily; Oscar Wilde, after the Irish idea of estheticism; stars; two Grecian Warriors, dressed in full Grecian armory; Mother Goose; a college student in academic The representations were varied, and included some of "the most stunning personages" of the day, mythical, barbaric, fictional and historical.

There was a large number of spectators, who all enjoyed the scene, and despite the chilling effects of sitting and standing in a skating rink for two or three hours, they were the very last to leave the building. The band played a number of pieces and their music was greatly appreciated. Chinese lanterns enclosed the gas jets and added greatly to the the fantastic effect. A few, not in custom, entered the ranks after the masks were removed.

The competition for prizes in skating was much enjoyed. Five entered the list, and the figures they cut showed remarkable proficiency in the skating art. Mr. E. J. Hartley, of Peterboro, however, being something more than an amateur, if not a skilled pro fessional, carried of the prize. He performed two or three almost astounding feats. Several other of the competitors did equally as well if not better, but the last two or three gyrations was a little beyond their powers and they had to give up the fight.

Only one lady competed for the ladies' prize. Miss Marion Wallace, and she was of course successful in securing the medal.

The carnival concluded about half-past ten. On the whole it was considered by everyone the best ever seen in Port Hope before, and certainly ahead of any this winter in this district. So far as we know all were perfectly satisfied with the success attending it. A number thought, however, that some of the prizes given were not as valuable as they might have been for an occasion of this kind. Below we give a complete and correct list of the participants and the characters represent-

From Samasa, one of the most flourishing towns in the Volga Government, is reported the following tragical incident, painfully illustrative of the baneful influence exercised upon overwrought natures in Russia by the that he was indisposed. Attention is now Nihilist propaganda. Some weeks ago a popdrawn to the fact that on the same evening ular preacher in one of the Samasa Orthodox churches gave deep umbrage to the revolutionary committee of that city by recalling, with fervent eloquence, the assassination of Alexander II. to the remembrance of his congregation, and vehemently inveighing against the murderers of the late Czar. A few hours later the committee held a meeting for the purpose of deciding what punishment should be inflicted upon the offending priest for his inflammatory utterances. After some dis-cussion the committee decided that he should be put to death, and its members drew lots for the executioner's office, which fell to a girl of nineteen, affiliated to the society only a few days previously. Upon drawing the fatal lot she exhibited some agitation, but, speedily collecting herself, she accepted her murderous mission with the words, "the committee will have reason to be satisfied with the manner in which its decree will be carried out." morning the doomed priest was awakened by the report of a firearm, discharged in a room contiguous to his own bedchamber, shortly after daybreak. Upon entering the room in question he beheld his only daughter stretched out at full length upon the floor near the foot of the bed, and weltering in her blood. She had just strength enough left, before expiring, to confess to him that she had pledged herself to take his life, in obedience to the orders of the secret committee, but had preferred killing herself to fulfilling her oath. Exhorted to reveal the names of her fellowconspirators, she steadfastly refused to do so, and died without having afforded any clue which could lead to their detection.

An Epistle to David Kennedy.

(From the N. Y. Scotsman.)

Oh Kennedy, oh Davy, man, we want ye to come back—
We want to bac anither sang, anither couthic crack;
We were blithe when ye were wi'us, we are was sin'
ye're awa'.
Hae pity on us, Kennedy—come, gi'us anither ca'

We want to hear the guid auld sangs, that carry back

To the faces, and the friendship, and the hame scenes o' langsyne; We want to hear the Doric braid, and laugh and greet

As ye sing the sangs o' Tannahill and oor ain brither

Ye'll bring the bairns a' wi' ye-we maun hear sweet Helen's sai g. Like the liltin' o' the mayis the lowlands woods amang; We maun hear wee Meggie's music, and see fair Marjory, Wi' the ripric in her sweet voice, and the twinkle in her o'e!

Ye'll bring Johnny wi' his fiddle-oh, he plays it wi sic skill;
That oor very e'en gang dancin', and oor feet 'll no cital would not disturb the invalid, Nan-And Robert, he'll be wi' ye, and thac grand war sangs he'll gie, Till every Scot amang us is on en' to dae or dec.

Sae ye'll come back, Davy Kennedy, and mak oor hearts rejoice, Wi' your cheery face, your cantie ways, and the music o' your voice. And if the warl' wad spare ye, we'd keep ye for a year.

And ye'd has concerts nichtly, and we'd a' be there to hear!

A HAPPY OMEN.

Noise, babble, little learning and learning little, great display of affection and little affection to display-such are the evident features of a ladies' school.

"Ron ciel! Goodness gracious! Mon Dieu! Oh, Nannie Barker, what have you done! Oh, dear, dear! what will the professor say! Was there ever such a ess? Bon ciel?" and with slight variations the Babel of tongues went on, as a score of the larger girls at Madame D'Oreay's institution, gathered around a box of shivered glass, and surveyed the crystal atoms.

There was a momentary pause as Nell Hunter stooped down and gathered the broken fragments; but the solemnity with which she shook her head and the unusual depth of her voice as she exclaimed, "All shattered and shivered and gone to smash." quite awed the party, and again the will ted to the exclamatory rener.

"Oh, Nannie Barker! I wouldn't stand in your shoes! The professor will annihilate you for the destruction of his pet Instruments!"

"It is unlucky to break glass! I should expect to hear of the death of all my friends," whined Jane Morton in a tone decidedly doloroso. "Fiddle-faddle!" sneered Hattie Clark. "Jane Morton, you had better hang a horseshoe over the door to keep the witches away. Of course, it is unlucky to break a surveyor's transit, a compass, and all these delicate instruments, but don't be such a fool as to suppose this accident will influence Nannie's fate otherwise. Not a word said Nannie Barker all this time.

"To think that I should do that! If it were any one else, the professor would be less severe, for I have always been the most aggravating pupil in his class, and he likes me least. Only think how saucy and provoking I was yesterday; and he worships these instruments as much as he despises me. Oh, dear, I feel like one of the little creatures we read about, who was going to be eaten up by draand my mother had thrown me into the Ganges to a crocodile when I was an infant, before I knew the horrors of mathematics or the terrors of Prof. Sterling's wrath.

We could not refrain from laughing at Nannie's characteristic language; though her sufferings were not in the least affected, for if Madame D'Orsay had a pupil who was Prof. Sterling's aversion, that pupil was saucy Nannie Barker. "What is their value?" asked practical Nell Hunter, toying with the bits of glass and metal.

"The transit alone is worth more than twenty pounds," I replied. "I think it was the only careless thing Professor Sterling ever did, to leave that case here yesterday. He was absent-minded all through our recitation.

"More than twenty pounds!" echoed Nanny Barker. "And the compass and What-oh, what shall I do?"

Every girl glanced at Nannie's dress, the plainest and cheapest in the institution; but the clear, sharp ringing of the prayer bell arrested all further speculations and comments, and the group paired off in congenial couples, chatting on their way to the chapel, of Nannie Barker's wild race through the study-hall, and her unfortunate stumble against the table where stood the professor's instruments. Such remarks as these might have been heard:

'Nannie is very poor. Her uncle is educating her for a teacher. She can never pay the value of the broken instruments.

In the meantime Nannie had linked her arm in mine, and we were slowly an equivalent I would be defiant as ever; but I have no money. I dare not ask my uncle, and my poor mamma has none. The only article of value I possess is this watch, mamma's watch. If Professor Sterling were a woman I would know how to manage; but I am afraid of men -I never knew any to speak of-but they are all so high and lofty, and are not tender and gentle like women. I can't understand them, and I fear Prof. Sterling if I am saucy and contrary.'

"You do the professor injustice." I began. But the chapel door was reached, and further comment was checked.

"There will be no recitation in Professor Sterling's room to-day," said Madame D'Orsay as we left the chapel. "The professor's wife is dangerously ill. He has sent for his case of instruments he unintentionally left yesterday. Will some of the young ladies give them to his servant?"

Now was the time for Nannie's confession, and with sobs and tears she then explained to madame the ead misfortune. "Je ne sais qu'e fairie," began madame; but seeing Nannie's puzzled looks at her French comfort, she continued: "The professor loves science; he loves his instruments. He will be exceedingly vexed perhaps, but you had better frankly tell He has a kind heart, I assure you. He will expect his instruments, and it will never be so cary to tell him as now. I morning recitations, if you choose to accompany the professor's servant."

whereabouts, for the professor never knew my father's name."

"Tell Jane Meeting my mamma's knew my father's name."

An hour later, Nannie Barker and my self were standing in Professor Sterling's handsome parlor awaiting the entrance of our stern old tutor.

"Did you bring the case?" we heard him ask from an adjoining apartment; and Nannie trembled at the reply, that some young ladies would account for his

"Conduct them here," we heard him say; and we were ushered into our professor's presence.

And not the professor alone. In the darkened light of the room we saw our tutor sitting by a low couch, and supporting with his strong arms a pale, haggard woman, with a gentleness and tenderness we had thought inconsistent with this grave man of science.

He greeted me kindly, but looked puzzled when he saw Nannie.

Only waiting to be assured that her renie, with a trembling voice told her story, her sorrow, her incompetency to remunerate the loss: and then unfolded her plan of restoring their value when she had completed her studies, begging him to take her watch as a pledge.

The professor listened quietly, with his eyes fixed on the pale face at his side, and when Nannie had finished, simply remarked:

"I am sorry. We will talk about it some other time."

We rose to go; but the invalid beck oned us to her murmuring; "So young and happy! God bless you?" Then she looked at Nannie steadily, and turning to her husband, said;

"Her eyes are like those of Alice, in the little picture." "Not usually, but to-day they are, said our professor, looking searchingly into Nannie's clear blue eyes.

Then we passed out, sad for our professor and happy for ourselves; and that day witnessed a vow of Nannie Barker's that her errors of judgment and conduct in her past treatment of our tutor should be atoned for in the future.

A week past by, and there was no recitation in Professor Sterling's room, for he had buried his wife.

Then we met a quiet lonely man there one morning, who mechanically went through the recitation, and at the close requested Nannie Barker and myself to remain. He drew Nannie's watch from his pocket saving:

"I did not know until to-day, you left this in my possession. You will please take it again. I see by your face that I can trust you now without this pledge. In examining this watch, I see upon it the name of Alice. That is not your

"No, Alice is my mother's name." answered Nannie. "It was when she was Alice Carroll."

"Alice Carroll is your mother, then!" said the professor in a tone of amazement, and with a far-off look in his deep set eyes. "I knew her once." Then followed such inquiries as old friends ever put, and our tutor left us to wonder over this strange coincidence.

More than a year had glided swiftly by, and the pupils at Madame D'Orsay's were prepairing for Christmas holidays, when entered the deserted drawing-room one dark rainy evening. There were no lights; and as I groped my way to the register I was surprised to find a chair occupied by a form wrapped in a shawl, and a face muffled in a handkerchief.

"Ah," thought I, "here is some poor girl who has no home where she can spend her vacation.

But Nannie Barker's low voice broke the allence with: "Oh, Mary, I am so wretched and miserable."

"You wretched!" I exclaimed. "I thought you were happiness incarnate. The pet of your schoolmates, the admiration of your teachers, Professor Sterling's acknowledged favorite, bearing off the honors like a Dutch woman blackberries, and within three days of home. I don't understand this emotion."

"I have been happy here," she responded, "and I have longed to go home to mamma; but now, oh, Mary, she is going to be married!"

I whistled, impolite and unladylike though it was, for I knew not what comment to make.

"Yes," continued Nannie, checking her sobs; "I have been pleased for a long time that mamma wrote me such happy letters. She has had much to make her unhappy. When very young she loved some one whom her father forbade her to marry. Then she married Clarance Barker, my father; and it grieves me to say he treated my mother unkindly. I used to shrink from him in dread; and hence my fear of men. After all mamma endured, I never believed she would marry again and allow a stepfather to

I tried to comfort her, hinting that this might be her first love:
"Yes," she answered. "Mamma writes me that before she knew my father she loved this man who is to be my stepfather. Step-father, indeed!" How could my mother?"

Scarcely less resigned was she when she left for home; but the next day came a note saying:

saying. "In half an hour the stern old ogre will be here. If I could give him an equivalent I would be a few and a mon Pisgah's top. I met my mother in a melting mood in which I have indulged since the receipt of the vale of tears." "I have come out of the vale of tears and went about with my head bowed down like a bulrush for the rest of the day. Just at night, I went out for a walk, and who should I meet but Professor Sterling. Oh how glad I was! I felt like sobbing out all my grief, and answered his kind inquiries with gushes of tears.

"Is the child unhappy?" he asked kindly, peeping into my sad face.

"Yes, I am vory miserable." "And it is because of this new stepfather?" he inquired anxiously.

"I was amazed at his knowledge, but supposed the gossip had circulated until it had reached his ears.

"I acknowledged this was the burden of my grief, and the professor said no more until we reached home, and he accepted my invitation to enter.

"Imagine my surprise when my old tutor took both my hands and said "So Nannie Barker dare not trust her Yoyagers. At 9 o'clock on the morning of the 30th of last December, the steamer Moravian, of the Allan line, bound for Liverpool via Halifax, while on her way from Portland to the latter place, ran ashore on the southwest point of Mud Island, some fifteen miles from the town of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. A stiff breeze was blowing at the time and a heavy surf running, and the situation was one of peril. It was found that the forward compartments had filled with water and orders were given to lighten cargo while prepara-tions were made to land the passengers on the Island, with a apply of food and clothing. The landing was say effected, but the cold was intense and some of the party were severely frostbitten. On the ship's manifest was a consignment of St. Jacobs Oil, which the Toronto House of A. Vogeler & Co., of Baltimore, Md., had just shipped to Francis Newberry & Sons, London, to fill English orders. The part it played in the catastrophe is described in the following article, which we quote from the Yarmouth (Nova Scotia) Tribune of January 18th:-"The passengers and crew of the wrecked steamer Moravian, during their brief en-campment at Mud Island, suffered severely from exposure to the weather, and some of them were severely frostbitten. Fortunately, among the lading of the ship was a package of proprietary medicines; more fortunately still, the bulk of these consisted of St. Jacobs Oil, and by the prompt and liberal use of this invaluable remedy, the parties were speedily relieved and all unpleasant after consequen ces averted."

A Remarkable Race of Men.

The Monakees, or inhabitants of the western Moon Mountains, appear to be unlike any other race of the known world. In mechanical arts advanced far beyond their neighbors, they are at the same time addicted to most preposterous habits and superstitions. With the aid of an interpreter, and his knowledge of the Fant-Arabian dialects, the Hakim interviewed their priests and medicine-men, inspected their dwellings, caves, and temples, and visited many of their outlying villages, and continued his investigations even after his official duties had recalled him to Khundabad. For the Khundi chieftain, in the mean while, had ascertained the whereabouts of the captive traders, and finally effected their release, and after the end of the next rainy season the Tripolitans returned to Darfoor, where the Hakim took charge of the sick, and employed his leisure in writing the chronicle of his discovery. This chronicle, addressed to his kinsman, the mollah of Tripoli, gives a circumstantial description of the Monakee race, their habits, physical peculiarities, and singular superstitions-interpersed with an account of his personal adventures and of the reflections which occurred to him while traveling through their country. "The work abounds with incidents and graphic descriptions," says the reviewer of the first German translation, as with scientific disclosures that throw a suggestive light on the origin of the customs and vices of civilized life." Besides his first professional trips across the frontier, the Hakim seems to have spent nearly eight months among the Monakees, collecting information on all possible topics, interviewing the just and watching the wicked, traveling from village to village, often at the risk of his life, but always sustained by the conviction that "Allah had appointed him to perform this work," and the hope that the world would recognize its importance.-From "The Chronicle of Hakim Ben Sheytan (Servant of Allah)," in Popular Science for March. ### The Hairpin.

To the ingenious girl the hairpin is a perfect tool chest. She is rarely at a loss while provided with this little instrument. It is an excellent button hook. The man who is in reach of a convenient girl can always button his gaiters and fasten his gloves with the aid of a hairpin, and is thus freed from that slavish dependence on button hooks, which is otherwise the inevitable fate of the man who wears buttoned gaiters. Women also use the hairpin as a substitute for a gimlet. When a woman wishes to make a hole through a piece of cloth or pasteboard she always disinters a hairpin, and with it quickly accomplishes her purpose. Two hairpins properly bent from an admirable substitute for a clasp or buckle. What can be better for the purpose of stirring lemonade or medicine? Two or three hairpins held closely together may be used as an eggbeater. When palm leaf fans are in use the hairpin is mightier than the lead pencil. An intelligent young lady can write a beautiful note on the surface of a palm leaf fan with the point of a hairpin, and can carry on an important correspondence with the young man in the next pew by handing him her fan while the sermon is in progress. There are cases on record of letters having been hoisted up to the second and third stories of a female seminary by cards furnished with extemporized hoeks made by hairpins. As a pick lock the hairpin is invaluable. No man who smokes a pipe can dispense with it. All pipes will at times become choked, and when this is

Cards and Croquet.

One day we rode fifty miles in a railway car, seated behind four men who were play ing with those awful playthings of the devil—car.ls. They played eucher until they were tired of it. They played a little sevenup, pedro, and occasionally a trifle of peker. We never heard a dispute. Their bursts of merriment occasionally, at some unexpected play, repeatedly drew our eyes from our book. They never quarrelled, and never called names once. After we got out at the station, we sat at the window and watched a party of young men and maidens playing croquet. In tifteen minutes we saw two persons cheat successfully. We heard the one player who did not cheat accused of cheating five times. We heard four dis-tinct bitter quarrels. We heard a beauti-ful young girl tell two lies, and a mecklooking young man three; and, finally, we saw the young girl throw her mallet against the fence so hard that it frightened a horse; the other young girl pounded her maliet so hard on the ground that it knocked the buds off an apple tree; they both fanged into the house at different doors, and the two young men looked sheepish and went off after a drink. Now, why is this?

"The Superlative" at Public Dinners.

I once attended a dinner given to a great state functionary by functionaries,—men of law, state, and trade. The guest was a great man in his own country and an honored diplomatist in this. His health was drunk with some acknowledgement of his distinguished services to both countries, and followed by nine cold hurrahs. There was the vicious superlative. Then the great official spoke and beat his breast, and declared that he should remember this honor to the latest moment of his existence. H was answered it off sure." again by officials. Pity, thought I, they should lie so about their keen censibility to warm beefet the nine cold hurrahs and to the commonplace compliment of a dinner. Men of the world value truth, in proportion to their ability, not by its sacredness, but for its convenience. Of such, especially of diplomatists, one has a right to expect wit and ingenuity to avoid the lie, if they must comply with the form. Now, I had been present, a little before, in the country at a cattle-show dinner, which followed an agricultural discourse delivered by a farmer; the discourse, to say the truth, was bad; and one of our village fathers gave at the dinner this toast: "The orator of the day: his subject deserves the attention of every The caution of the toast did honor to our village father. I wish great lords and diplomatists has as much respect for truth.—Ralph Waldo Emerson, in the February CENTURY.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS.

BY E. P. WHIPPLE.

For many years he has written, month after month, short essays, displaying exquisite literary workmanship, for Harper's Magazine, under the leading title of The Editor's Easy Chair. Every cultivated reader of that excellent and widely circulated periodical turns instinctively to Curtis' department as soon as a number is issued. A selection from these charming essays would fill more volumes than Addison's contributions to The Spectator, and would now be much more attractive than Addison's, because they relate to subjects which interest the England and America of to-day. Yet Mr. Curtis is still represented as an American author by a few volumes, which however good in their kind, convey no adequate idea of the force of his character, of the ripeness of his culture, of the variety of subjects on which he ventures to give intelligent opinions, and of the sweet persuasiveness of his method in discussing controverted topics. He was among the first to adopt unpopular doctrines; he has made them more or less popular by the beautiful urbanity of pature with which he has enforced their claims on public attention; and he has managed to insinuate into minds most reluctant to receive new ideas-especially when stermed in upon them according to the violent method adopted by most earnest reformers-a whole code of novel opisions. This he has done by the airy ease and elegance of expression with which he warns fashionable people that they will lose ton if they continue to resist principles which have become accepted by the acknowledged leaders of society. He has not only conquered gentility, but made philanthropy genteel. Among these four or five hundred brief essays, there are also delicious criticisms on art and literature, on great authors, composers, singers, actors, and musicans; there are memories of travel in foreign lands, recording fine and exceptional experiences; and there are little suggestive treatises on matters of domestic and business life, which appeal directly to our homely good sense. Indeed, whatever may be the subject on which he discourses, his manner of doing it leaves on our minds the impression of a certain indefinable grace and charm. Yet Mr. Cartis has never condescended to gather into volumes even a selection from these delightful products of his mind. - February

In one of the eastern counties of England the office of Sheriff, once so coveted and sought for an honor, has been refused by no fewer than seven gentlemen in succession, all landed proprietors and on the county roll for Sheriff, each pleading poverty and total inability to stand the expense. The Lord Lieutenant has, after inconceivable difficulty, met with a gentleman who, having made his money in commerce, and purchased one of the old landed estates merely as a luxury, was willing to accept the office.

There was a ball in Elliott County, Ky., and it had been given out that nobody from Rowan County would be permitted to dance. Nickell, a young bully from Rowan, entered the hall with some comrades, and took entire control of the affair, not only dancing himself with the Elliott girls, but preventing any Elliott fellows from going on the floor. In this emergency the best pugilist in Elliott was hurriedly sent for. His name was Tolliver. He came with alacrity, and boldly took his place with a partner in a Virginia real. The expected fight between the champions took place at once. But It was not an encounter with fists alone. Both used pistols. Nickell was killed and Tolliver wounded.

A Bloomington eigar dealer has a sign up which reads: "If you want the worth of your money, smoke the Big Gun." As a little gratis advice, we would say that you can get more than the worth of your money; smoke at the small end and have some one else pull the trigger.

"Who is he?" said the passer-by to a policeman who was endeavoring to raise an intoxicated individual who had fallen into the gutter. "Can't say, sir," replied the other, "he can give no account of himself." "Of course not," said the other, "how can you expect an account from a man who has lost his balance.'

A youth of Hibernian extraction in chopping wood with a hatchet the other day was so unfortunate as to graze the thumb of his left hand, with which he was steadying the piece of kindling he was splitting. Ruefully gazing at the injured member he remarked:

An elderly fat gentleman, in discussing a warm beefsteak at Highland Inn, called to the waiting boy, "Donald, bring me more bread, for I eat a great deal of bread to my steak." Donald answered, with much modest simplicity, "Aye, and please your honor, and ye eat a great deal of steak to your bread."

It was evening. Three of them were killing a cat. One of them held a lantern, another held the cat, and a third jammed a pistol into the cat's car and fired, shooting the man in the hand who held the cat, and the one with the lantern was wounded in the arm. The cat left when it saw how matters stood and that ill-feeling was being

Two sons of Erin, shovelling sand on a hot day, stopped to rest and exchange views on the labor question. "Pat, this is mighty hard work we're at." 'It is indade, Jimmy, but what kind of work is it you'd like if ye could get it?" "Well," said the other, leaning reflectively on his shovel and wiping the perspiration with the back of his hand, "for a nice, aisy, clane business, I think I would like to be a bishop."

"He blew out his brains after bidding his wife good-bye with a gun"—an extract from a Connecticut paper—is pleasing; and there is a fine Irish flavor in the Ulster epitaph, "Erected to the memory of John Phillips, accidentally shot as a mark of affection by his brother." But the gem of the collection is an advertisement from an English paper: "A piano for sale by a lady about to cross the Channel in an oak case with carved

A correspondent writes us to know which in our judgment, is the safest seat in case of a railroad collision, as he wishes to settle a controversy with some friends. TIT FOR TAT .- A Griswold street lawyer was sitting in his office the other week, when a stranger appeared at the door and said, "Beg pardon, but can you tell me where Smith's office is?" "Yes, sir; next door." The stranger uttered his thanks, and passed to the next door, which was locked. Returning to the lawyer, he observed, "Smith seems to be out?" "Of course he is. If you had asked that question in the first place I should have answered it by telling you so." The visitor had a troubled look on his face as he passed out of the building, but that look was gone when he returned next day and enquired of the lawyer, "How much will you charge me for a verbal opinion in a little matter?" "Oh, about $5." The case was stated and the opinion given, and the stranger was moving away when the lawyer said, "My fee, please." "I haven't a cent to pay you." "You haven't?" "Of course not. If you had asked me that question in the first place, I should have answered by telling you so. Good morning, sir!"-Detroit Free Press.

A gigantic seaweed grows on the coast of India and has sometimes been mistaken for a sea serpent. Capt. Taylor, Master Superintendent of Madras, relates that about fifteen years ago, while his ship was anchored in Table Bay, an enormous monster, as it appeared, was seen drifting, or advancing itself round Green Point, into the harbor. It was more than 100 feet in length, and moved with an undulating, snake-like motion. Its head was crowned with what appeared to be long hair, and the keen-sighted among the affrighted observers declared they could see its eyes and distinguish its features. The military were called out, and a brisk fire poured into it at a distance of about 500 yards. The creature becoming quiet from the apparent effect of its wounds, boats went off to examine it and complete its destruction, when it was discovered to be seaweed.

Port Hope, Thursday, Feb. 23, 1882,

OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The subject of education has come very prominently before the Ontario public in the last few years. It is perhaps an opportune occasion to refer to what is occupying such a share of the public attention. By the frequent changes in the school law since Hon. Adam Crooks undertook the management of the Educational Department, people are beginning to become disgusted with what we as Canadians, and especially as Ontarions, were feeling a justifiable pride in. Our present Minister of Education is well meaning. He is evidently trying to do the best he can and all he can. He is a hard and indefatigable worker, but without the aid of well defined principles to guide him he has degenerated into a mere experimenter. It is but fair to say that he has among his faults as an educationist many good ideas, and had he but a little more brains, or perhaps better, administrative ability to properly formulate them, he might make a tolerably successful Minister. It is a well known fact, that like the fabled man with the ass, he has been trying to suit the views of every school inspector, school convention, his party, etc., and his fate must be similar. The result is a continual changing from one plan to another, until there is scarcely a teacher, trustee or lawyer that can be sure at any one moment what the law really is.

The flagrant error of our school system at present is, the attempt to crowd too much into the curriculum of the common school. A celebrated authority on education endeavored to attain the true principles of the civilizing art, and to this he made enquiries of all the leading educationists of the day. After considering carefully all the opinions, together with his own experience and observation, he thus sums it up: "Education implies a little knowledge of everything and to know all about something." Hon. Adam Crooks succeeds very well in teaching the rising generation a little about almost every imaginable subject, but leaves them master of no An attempt has been made to crowd reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, composition, geography, history, euclid, algebra, calisthenics, gymnastics, physiology, natural history, book-keeping and a score of other subjects, all into the cranium of some boy or girl, and all at the same time.

At this age of the world and in the present state of society, a man in order to succeed must know all about what he takes up as a profession or calling. The sciences, arts and trades are too extensive in their demands and too numerous to be all grasped by one mind with any hope of mastering them successfully. Specialists are the need of the day, and our school system in trying to teach a child more than he can thoroughly comprehend, not only destroys his individuality but confuses him as to the real objects of life. If a child shows an aptness for any particular line of study, no provision is made in the common school course for developing his aptitudes. Again, if a child shows an inclination for the study of what is known as the higher branches, it is well if the teacher can aid him, but in the majority of cases it is forced upon him against his will, and is about as healthful to his intellectual constitution as unassimilative food to the physical.

A common school should above all other things, thoroughly impart that which forms the basis of subsequent instruction. Very few, even those who have the best advantages, leave the public school with anything like a thorough knowledge of the subjects taught them, or can even write a letter correctly or a decent communication for a paper. Not one out of a hundred can talk with any degree of grammatical accuracy, or make a useful, practical calculation as to the amount of lumber, brick, shingles etc., required for a certains sized building. All this is not the fault of the teachers or the fault of the scholars, but the fault of a system of cramming which divides the attention to such an extent that nothing is acquired thoroughly. The question of the division of labor is involved here, for a school education cannot be, successfully, elementary and technical; at the same time, i. e., common schools cannot make us musicians, tradesmen, scientists, all at once, or any one of them, and at the same time furnish us with the rudiments of general instruction.

Mr. John E. Gemmel, a late acquisition to the Mail and News reportorial staff, has tendered his resignation and intends trying his fortune in the North-

Dr. Egerton Ryerson, who was not less an educationist than Dr. Arnold, died on Sunday morning; and although his life's work was done, his death will be regretted by all Canadians. His career, which has been made familiar to our readers, is one presenting a peculiar combination of versatile talent and effort. Coming of the most pronounced U.E. stock, his hereditary instincts and his early training developed in him a strong individuality and determination. As a farm laborer. scholar, minister, educationist, politician and letterateur, everywhere he gives evidence of restless energy, which eventually placed him without a peer in his native country.

The department of life in which he excelled, perhaps more through the circumstances connected with his early life than from personal inclination, was that of education. He was the father of our school system, which, as he left it, was without a superior in the world. Although we do not claim that it was perfect, and should remain a permanent model, it was one best suited for the period of history for which it was invented, and was only brought to that stage after the most vigorous research and profound study on the part of Dr. Ryerson. The work was placed in his hands, and he

The example he left is one of untiring industry-a life full of good works. From the time he left his father's home rather than submit to a contravention of his religious views, independence and freedom from wirepulling a ways characterized him. Although there are Canadians who have attained to greater fame, we venture to assert that no other man has left a more indelible impress of his labors upon Canadian history than he. His every act is associated with the first principles of our national and more especially intellectual life. We append a short sketch of his life, which we trust will be of interest to many.

The late Dr. Ryerson was upwards of 78 years of age, having been born in the township of Charlotteville, county of Norfolk, on the 24th of March, 1803. His father, Col. Joseph Ryerson, a native of New Jersey, distinguished himself for his bravery during the revolutionary war. When hostilities came to an end he and his brother Samuel settled in New Brunswick, where Col. Ryerson married 'Miss Mehetabel Stickney. In 1799 he moved to Upper Canada, and settled near Long Point, where he became the father of six sons, five of whom were afterwards min-

Young Egerton, as well as his brothers, was bred to farming pursuits, and expected to do a man's work long before he was a man in years. He was always given to study, however, and even when his daily employments were most exacting, could always find time to acquire useful knowledge. He attended the District Grammar School as opportunity offered. When eighteen years of age he united in membership with the Methodist Church, having for some time previous been in sympathy with its views and doctrines. His father, however, was deeply opposed to this step, and gave Egerton the choice of leaving the Church or quitting his house. Needless to say, he chose the latter alterobtained employment as assistant teacher in the London District Grammar School, where he taught successfully for two years, when at his father's request he returned home, and again devoted himself to farming pursuits. He continued his studies with the view of entering the ministry, and when twenty-two years of age was received as a minister of the Methodist Church and assigned to the Niagara circuit. For many years his life was one of constant strenuous toil and effort: He was frequently compelled to compose his sermons while riding from one part of his circuit to another. estimated that during his long and active ministerial career, he preached at least 10.000 sermons.

The first appearance of Mr. Ryerson as an author was made in 1826, in reply to a sermon preached by Rev. Archdeacon Strachan, in which the latter had attacked the Dissenters. Dr. Ryerson's pamphlet created no little excitement and speculation as to who the author might be. Two years later the author published a series of letters in which Archdeacon Strachan's famous chart of the various religious bodies in Upper Canada was keenly criti-In 1829, the Christian Guardian was founded at York in the interests of the Methodist body, and Mr. Ryerson was installed as joint editor with Rev. F. Metcalfe. The editorials were from the first noticeable for their force and trenchant phraseology. In 1833, Mr. Ryerson was appointed a delegate to England, and attended the Conference of the British Methodist Church. In 1735 he again visited the mother country, with the object of obtaining a charter for the Upper Canada Academy as a seat of Methodist education. He was successful, and Victoria College was established in Cobourg. While in London, he contributed a series of letters on Canadian affairs to the Times in order to counteract the influence of Wm. Lyon Mackenzie. His letters, which were republished in pamphlet form, and distributed amongst members of Parliament, attracted much attention. On the occasion of a noted speech in the Commons by Mr. Joseph Hume in support of a petition by Dr. Charles Duncombe, setting forth the grievances of the people of Canada, Mr. Gladstone, who was desirous of replying to him, put himself in com-munication with Mr. Ryerson, who was present in the gallery, and from the ma-terials furnished by the latter made a speech which sealed the fate of the peti-

The rebellion broke out in 1837. He had no sympathy with the revolutionists, but was opposed to the employment of harsh measures towards Mackenzie's fol-He strongly championed the cause of the former Speaker of the House of Assembly, Marshall Spring Bidwell, wrongfully accused of participation in the rising. During Lord Durham's memorable visit to this country, he had frequent interviews with Mr. Ryerson, who furnished numerous data for the celebrated report of that nobleman. In 1840, Mr. Ryerson again attended the English Conference as a delegate from Canada. Upon the incorporation of Victoria College in 1841, Mr. Ryerson was unanimously chosen President of the institution.

The Founder of our School System. 1844, Dr. Ryerson received the appointment of Superintendent of Public Schools for Upper Canada. He accepted th's post, and at once devoted himself to the task of remodelling the educational system of the country, making an extensive tour in the United States, England and Continental Europe to familiarize himself with the most modern educational systems. The results of his tour were published in an elaborate report in 1846. School Act drafted by him became law, and remained in force about three years. Owing to the representations of Dr. Ryerson, however, the Governor-Genera suspended its operation, and Mr. Baldwin and Dr. Ryerson prepared a new Act. This new measure was sanctioned in 1850 and forms the basis of our present educational system

Despite his activity in other departments Dr. Ryerson's life work, by which he will principally be remembered, was essentially educational. From the time of his appointment until 1876, a period of 32 years, he continued to administer the school affairs of this Province with zeal, energy and efficiency. In 1853, chiefly in consequence of Dr. Ryerson's strong representations, the Legislature caused the Grammar School law to be thoroughly revised, further improvements made in 1855 being also traceable to his influence. In 1855, with the aid of Col. Lefroy, he established several meteorological stations in connection with the County Grammar Schools, the number of which was afterwards increased. In 1857 the Doctor again set out on a comprehen sive educational tour in Europe, visiting the principal seats of art. On his return he began advocating a system of Government grants to outlying universities, and drafted the Education Bill of 1860, which effected some improvements in our school system. In 1861, he received from Vicoria College the honorary degree of LL. D. In 1874, he was elected President of the first General Conference of the Methodist Church, held in Toronto, and was elected for the third time to represent the Canadian Conference in Great Britain in

In 1876, owing to the infirmities of his advanced years, Dr. Ryerson, at his own request, was relieved from the arduous duties of Chief Superintendent of Education, the office was abolished, and its functions vested in the Minister of Education. Dr. Ryerson retired on full salary after 32 years' incessant service. He has since lived in quiet seclusion, devoting himself principally to literary labors and to pastoral work as a Christian min-

APROPOS of the great excitement now prevailing in speculative circles in all parts of the world, and more particularly in America, the Monetary Times re-

"Speculation and legitimate business, at some points, run into one another, in fine and imperceptible shades, and it is often difficult to know to which side of the line a particular transaction properly belongs. If men would exercise common sense and keep their wits about them, these speculative excitements, which are the mother of panics, would become rarer than they are; if the world were better instructed in the results of a course of procedure which always leads to disaster, the quickeands on which many a bark is wrecked would be avoided. No intelligent man should be ignorant of the causes of the numerous financial disasters which have desolated the world of commerce; but it is certain that thousands act as if they were; and the result may be read in any recurring financial panic.

In moving the adjournment of the Local House on Monday last, Hon. O. Mowat paid the following tribute to the memory of Dr. Ryerson:-"I intend to move to-morrow, Mr. Speaker, that this house adjourn on Wednesday to allow of the members attending the funeral of the late Rev. Dr. Ryerson. would suggest that, not merely out of the respect which we all entertain for his memory and the esteem with which so many of us regarded him-not only because he was a prominent man in this country, a distinguished Canadian for over half a century, or because of his eminent abilities or the high honor with which he was regarded by the body in whose services he spent so many years, but I think such an action especially appropriate on our part because for thirty years he was at the head of one of the most important Departments in the Government of this country. During that long period it was by Dr. Ryerson that the educational laws were framed and so ably administered. He had many difficulties to contend with, which have disappeared through the energy and ability he manifested in the responsible position he occu pied. The schools under his superintendence were possessed of a character inferior to none in the world. In view of the position he occupied, of the high respect which he was regarded, and of his faithful services to the State, it was thought proper that the members of this House should attend the funeral.

WE are pleased to observe from the Votes and Proceedings of the House of Commons that Col. Williams is making another effort to induce the Government to place a mail on the Grand Trunk train going West on Monday morning. Following is the notice:-

"Mr. Williams-On Wednesday next-Order of the House for Copies of all Petitions, Papers and Correspondence having reference to the desirability of granting Mail accommodation on the Grand Trunk Railway morning express train going West on Mondays for points between Belleville and

For several years past efforts have been made by different parties to secure this very important object, but thus far without success. Some four or five years ago, we wrote the Inspector of Toronto East on the subject, and after investigating he replied that the P. O. Department had previously submitted the matter to one of the Inspectors, who reported that the convenience to the public would not be of sufficient importance to justify the expense. It is to be hoped that Col. Williams will be able to secure the desired result now, as the convenience to all the towns along the line of the Grand Trunk from Belleville to Toronto. and also to points on the Midland Railway, will be very great, and we have no doubt the expense, on a full investigation of the question, will be found quite justifiable, as any report made years ago cannot be said to hold good to-day.

The Toronto Telegram publishes a sworn statement that it has a larger circulation in Toronto than the Globe, Mail. In | World and Evening News combined.

DIVERS DOTTINGS.

The Mail is favorable to the Temperance colony scheme.

Twenty cent pieces are to be withdrawn from circulation. This is a sensible move, as they were a continual nuisance.

The tetal population of Manitoba is 65,954, and of the North-West Territories 56,446, or about 125,000 for the whole of the North-West. In round numbers there is 400,000,000 acres of land in that country, which leaves the present population at about one person to every 3,000 acres. There is a big gap yet to fill.

It would appear from the following telegram that General Hammond has got the best of the fight in connection with the Manitoba and South-Western Railway. It reads: "The injunction suit argument is concluded. The points are all ruled in General Hammond's favor. The Schultz party were ordered by the court to give an undertaking not to interfere with the management pending the preparation of a formal judgment."

We don't believe that heterodoxy and infidelity are the principal foes with which the Church has to contend. One prominent hypocrite in a congregation does it a thousand times more harm than Huxley. An egotistical, quarrelsome "crank," who has been hustled out of half a dozen congregations, is far more dangerous than Darwin. One long tongued, slanderous viper, whose mouth has been transformed into a sluice for gossip and slander, can do more harm in a congregation in a day than Bob Ingersoll could do in a year. So says the Canada Presbyterian. Very true, but is not our contemporary becoming too, too hyperbolical-a something it berates in Tal-

We have received the Government report of the Penetentiaries in the Dominion for the year 1881. There are five such institutions. It is shown that crime is decreasing. The total number of convicts in all the Penetentiaries on June 30, 1880, was 1279; on the same date, 1881, 1218; showing a decrease of 61. Thirtysix convicts were pardoned during the past year. Of those in Kingston Penetentiary there are 200 male, and 11 female; 153 single; illiterate, 87 over; 60, 7; under 20, 30; intemperate, 74; the highest number of foreigners, 20, are English; 83 Catholic; 72 Church of England; and 27 Methodists; 170 of the crimes are some form of theft. Ontario makes the best showing as to the general morality of her population.

The following resolution passed by the recent Synod of the Church of Scotland, in reference to the Temporalities Fund. will be of interest:

Moved by Rev. Gavin Lang, seconded by Mr. Wm. Turner, "That, having regard to the procedure in similar circumstances to those in which the Church has been placed by the secession of 1875, Presbyteries be specially empowered to consider and determine any applications on behalf of congregations and ministers, for admission, or re-admission, into the communion of this Church, always providing that those admitted, or re-admit ted, distinctly declare, each and all, that they are prepared to uphold the Presbyterian Church in Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland; all action upon such applications to be reported to the immediately following meeting of the Synod.

WE regret to learn of the death of Mr. Wm. Jex, Barrister, of Cobourg. The funeral will take place to day (Thursday) from the family residence, at 2 o'clock p. m. As deceased was an esteemed member of St. John's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Cobourg, the remains will be buried with Masonic honors. Members of the Port Hope Lodges are invited to meet at the Masonic Hall, Cobourg, at 1 p. m.

WEST DURHAM .- The annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of West Durham, was held at the village of Tyrone, on the 7th inst. The following brethren were elected County Officers for the current year: -C. M. Bro. J. R. Reid, (re-elected); D. C. M., Bro. J. H. Devett, (re-elected); C. Chaplain, Bro. Wm. The next meeting is to be held in Newcastle.

Photography.-Attention is directed to Mr. R. W. F. Craig's advertisement in another column, from which it will be seen he has opened the photograph gallery over Mitchell's Drug Store, Walton Street. Mr. Craig's work is highly spoken of by the press, as the following from an Ottawa paper will show: -

"A WORK OF ART .- The recent carnival at the Royal Rink, given under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General was, as we all know, a grand success, and it will be gratifying to those who participated know that an artistical memorial of the merry making has been prepared by Craig, manager for Messrs. Notman and Sandham, in Ottawa, in the shape of a composition photograph, now on exhibition at their studio. The picture gives a splendid idea of the fairy-like gathering and brings well out the chief actors in the revel. The movement selected is during the performance of the Maypole dance. Not only the skaters, but the principal visitors are graphically repro-duced. The work reflects great credit on the artist, and should receive a liberal patronage.

THE HALL IN THE GROVE. - We have just received another of D. Lothrop & Co.'s new works, bearing the above title, by Pansy. Of all Pansy's books this bids fair to be the most popular, as it deals with a subject in which tens of thousands are specially interested and furnishes exact information regarding the most extraordinary educational movement of the age, a movement which, beginning a few years ago in a humble way at the camp-meeting grounds at Chautauqua, has reached and affected every city and town of importance in the United States.

DIED .- On Tuesday, 22nd of February, Wm. Curran in the 22hd year of his age. The funeral takes place at 2.30 p. m. from his father's residence Harcourt street. The remains will be interred in the Union cemetery. A meeting of the Seamen's Union will be held this afternoon at 1.30 p. m. for the. purpose, of attending in a body, the funeral of the departed brother.

MR. JOHN ADAMS, the well-known lumberman, of Orillia, who had a very serious operation performed on his head some time ago by Dr. Hamilton, assisted by Dr. Clemesha, and who returned home about ten days after apparently better, owing to a relapse had to again come here for treatment. We are glad to state he was so far recovered as to permit of his going home yesterday. The disease was a very difficult one to reach, but through the careful treatment of Dr. Hamilton it is hoped a permanent cure has been effected. Mr. Adams, who is a giant in stature and strength, has many friends in this vicinity who will be heartily glad to hear of his recovery.

A. O. U. W .- The Grand Lodge of th Ancient Order of United Workmen is in session at Hamilton. The Grand Recorder's report states, among other matters, that the increase of membership has been largely in excess of previous years, having risen from 3,200 to a total of nearly 5,700. The number of assessments during the past year was thirteen, an increase of three over the previous year. During the year twenty-three death claims have been paid in all, $46,000. The total receipts on beneficiary fund account amounted to $50,067, which, with the balance from last year, makes a total of $50,853. The general fund receipts amounted to $11,123,17, making with the balance from last year a total of $14,122.69. The amount disbursed was $9,316.30

POLICE COURT .- Robt. Gibson was arraigned on Tuesday for creating a disturbance on Walton street by being drunk. He admitted the charge, and was sentenced to one dollar and costs or thirty days in gaol. He is a farmer's son, living in Hope Township. Thos. IT would appear that casualities always come in a line of sequence. The news of Dr. Ryerson's death was scarcely received when that of another prominent educationalist comes almost directly after. Mr. Marling, one of the Inspectors of High Schools, died on Sunday night. His death was quite unlooked for. During a distinguished university career he uniformly obtained first-class honors in classical literature. In 1851 he obtained prizes for proficiency in Greek and Latin classics and in composition in English verse. In 1852 he was placed first in the first-class in Litteris Humanioribus, and gained the Chancellor's medal for the "Evidences of Natural and Revealed Religion." In 1853, on taking his degree, he carried off the highest University distinction, the gold medal for classics. Mr. Marling has during the subsequent twenty years been a successful head master of Grammar and High Schools in Bondhead, Newmarket, Chatham and more recently at Whitby, where he has been very fortunate in his administration. Mr. Marling was at the same time appointed a member of the Central Committee of Examiners, and continued to serve on that Committee till his decease. He has, therefore, as a master, inspector and examiner, given nearly thirty years of active and efficient work to the service of the youth of

TRINITY COLLEGE ENTERTAINMENT .- A large and select audience assembled in the Trinity College dining room on Tuesday evening when the programme published in last issue of the Times was carried out with two omissions, a song by Mr. J. P. Hunter and one by Mr. H. Hall. The instrumentals by Messrs Wadsworth, Hall, Robertson and Perry, were in good style and well received. "Poor Pillicoddy" was a success. Mr. Pillicoddy and Sarah, two characters in the farce, taken by Mr. Jas. Simpson and Master G. E. Powell, respectively, were impersonated very successfully. Mr. Coleman as Capt. Scuttle was good, but we imagine that, had the lady characters been real females, they could have done better. It is hard to improve upon the original in this respect. The choruses by the pupils were enjoyable; the recitation by Mr. J. Simpson, was good for an amateur; the rendition of Mr. H. A. Ward's song was in his usual good taste. In the farce, "Ici on parle francais," Mr. Simpson, as Spriggins, took his part splendidly, as did also, T. Arnton as Anna Maria. Mr. Nichol made an excellent Frenchman, while the object of his affections, Angelina, (Master G. E. Powell) was quite equal to the occasion. The other characters do not require special mention, all having acquitted themselves creditably. The stage improvised was well arranged, and tastily ornamented. After the entertainment had concluded a number remained for the purpose of enjoying a social evening.

To the Editor of THE TIMES. DEAR SIR,-For the enlightenment of those who do not remember such a mild Feb ruary, allow me to say that my diary records for February 1877, as follows: From January 20, the weather has been delightful, more like May than January and February; very little snow, no sleighing, thermometer rarely below freezing, only twice in that time down to 16. From the 18th to 28th February, the roads dry and good, plenty of dust, weather lovely, warm and pleasant, played croquet on lawn on the 27th; could have done so for a week previously; base ball in the Park 28th. Played croquet again to-day, a butterfly caught in the open air a week ago. Base ball in the Park to-day. Extraordinary season. Yours,

From Mr. Geo. Gibbs, stating that he had noticed in the papers that Coun. Smart had drawn the attention of the Board to the injustices received by ratepayers in Port Hope, who had gone to Midland to work. He was one of the victims, having had to pay a poll tax of $2, while he was assessed and paid taxes in Port Hope. When he refused to pay it they issued a summons for him, making him pay a fine of $5 and costs, or in default of paying the same to go to Barrie goal. His tools were seized and kept for three weeks and then sold. He had

Midland for the recovery of damages and asked the council for $25 to aid him in carrying it on. In accordance with request the notice of Coun. Burnham's By-law for the regulation of billiard licenses, was extended one week. Tenders were received from three or four

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Progress of Legislation -The Burden of Private Bills-A Bill to Relieve the Supreme Court-Dakota wants to be a State-Mrs. Garfield's Pension-

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18, 1882. The present Congress is making very fair progress with its legislatire work, and is ahead of any previous Congress for some years past. Five of the appropriation bills have been considered, and one passed. The apportionment bill has been disposed of by the House. During the session, nearly five thousand bills and resolutions have been offered in the House. This is more than twice as many as were ever before filed so early in the session. The committees are very industriously at work, and, since Lent will begin on the 22nd inst., and put a stop to fashionable nocturnal gayety, Congress will be able to give less divided attention to public business. Many members think Congress will adjourn as soon as the first of June, but the majority are of opinion that the session will continue until the middle of

A large majority of the thousands of bills that have been introduced are of a petty private character, and it is ridiculous that our laws furnish no other court than an unwieldy and expensive national legislature for their adjudication. There appears to be an absolute necessity of some measure to relieve Congress from the burden of private legislation in the form of petitions and bills for the relief of individuals. The single Committee on Claims, of the House, has al-ready had nearly a thousand bills referred to it, and the Committee on Invalid Pensions is still worse off. It is said that there is not a standing committee of the House which has not more or less private business on its calcular.

Among the bills providing for the relief of the Supreme Court, one was introduced in the Senate by Mr. Pugh, which proposes to divide the Court into three divisions, with three Justices in each, to be known as the Federal, Equity, and Admiralty Law divisions. These divisions are empowered to sit separately, and all causes are to be heard in the first instance by one of the divisions except causes in which a jury is required; these are to be heard by the Court in banc. Mr. Cox, from the committee to audit the expenses growing out of the death and burial of the late President James A. Garfield, reported a bill granting a pension of $5,000 a year to Mrs. Lucretia R. Garfield. Mr. Atkins, of Tennessee, said he would not object to the bill, but he thought that a similar measure should be adopted to pension the widow of any other President. The bill was then passed.

The sub-committee of the House Committee on Territories has agreed unanimous-ly on a bill to provide for the admission into the Union of all that part of Dakota Territory south of the forty-sixth parallel.

A bill has been introduced to make the Bureau of Agriculture an Executive Dapartment, placing it on an equality with the Post Office Department, the Department of War, and the other executive branches of the Government that have a Cabinet officer at their head. The chief of the Bureau would then be a member of the Cabinet, with the title, perhaps, of Secretary of Agriculture. The representatives from non-agricultural states have, heretofore, opposed a bill of this character on the grounds that agriculture has no more right to Executive consideration than any other industrial interest, and one member, some years ago de-risively proposed an amendment that the interests of boots and shoes should also have a place in the Cabinet. But there is a growing sentiment in favor of adding this Department to the Cabinet, and of following the precedents of other civilized nations in this respect. The United States has only seven Cabinet places. France has twelve, and I think the other first-class European powers have as many.

Messrs. N. Peters and E. A. Powers, auditors, submitted their report of the township accounts and Treasurer's books, both of which they found correct. Moved by Mr. Tamblyn, seconded by Mr. White,-That the report of the auditors be received and adopted, and that the Clerk be directed to have 200 copies of the same print-ed in pamphlet form, for distribution among the ratepayers. Carried.

Mr. Walker gave notice that he would, at the next regular meeting of the Council, introduce a by law to appoint pathmasters, poundkeepers and fence-viewers for the current year. Moved by Mr. Tamblyn, seconded by Mr. Walker,-That the Reeve be authorized to settle the claim of Dr. Gilmour for medicine and attendance upon Jonathan Brown, deceased. Carried. Mr. N. Peters addressed the Council, respecting, allowance for road immediately north and west of McCormack's Hotel, Canton. He was entitled to a right of way and wished the Council to see that all obstructions to the same were removed. No

By-law No. 406 was introduced by Mr. Walker, increasing the salary of the Clerk $40 per annum, on account of additional work in connection with the several school sections, official returns to the Ontario Government re Bureau of Agricultural Statistics, &c., which was passed in the usual manner, signed and sealed. The Council, on motion, went into committee of the whole, and discussed the ten-ders received for cedar, when it was decided that parties having cedar to dispose of should apply to any one of the members of the Board, who would furnish any information required respecting price and delivery of the same at certain points in the several subdivisions of the township. Moved by Mr. White, seconded by Mr. Walker,—That Mr. Welch be appointed a commissioner to sell timber on allowance for road opposite lot 29 on 1st concession line.

Moved by Mr. Walker, seconded by Mr. White, -That hereafter this Council will not be responsible for the burial or funeral expenses of any indigent person or persons found dead within the corporation of Hope, either on Coroner's warrant or otherwise, unless especially directed by a member of said Council, and then the whole expense, including ground for grave, digging same, &c., not to exceed the sum of $10, as fixed by resolution passed in 1880. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Tamblyn, seconded by Mr. Welch,—That this Council do now adjourn, and that the next regular meeting be held at McCormack's Hotel, Canton, for the purpose of appointing pathmasters, poundkeepers and fence-viewers, on Wednesday, 15th of March, 1882.

It's A Poor Rule, &c .- "How is it Mr. Brown," said a miller to a farmer, "that when I came to measure those ten barrels of apples I bought from you I found them nearly two barrels short?" "Singular, very singular; for I sent them to you in ten of your own flour barrels." "Ahem! Did, eh?" said the miller. "Well, perhaps I made a mistake. Let's imbibe.'

A REAL NECESSITY. - No house should be without a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, in case of accident. There is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angel of Mercy.

A neglected cough brings on consumption —the most fatal prevalent of all physical ills that flesh is heir to. To check the malady in its early, before the deadly tubercles develop themselves in the lung, use Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, which also annihilates bronchitis, asthma, catarrb, piles, kidney troubles, and soreness of the muscles and joints.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills .- Notable Facts. - Intense heat augments the annoyance of skin disease, and encourages the development of febrilo disorders, wherefore they should, as they may, be removed by these detergent and purifying preparations. In stomach complaints, liver affections, pains and spasms of the bowels, Holloway's unguent well rubbed over the affected part immediately gives the greatest case, prevents congestion and inflammation, checks the threatening diarrhora and averts incipient cholera. The poerer inhabitants of large cities will find these remedies to be their best friend when any pestilence rages, or when from unknown causes eruptions, boils, abscesses, or ulcerations betoken the presence of taints or impurities within the system, and call for instant and effective curative medicines.

In Irritability, RESTLESSNESS, want of sleep invalids will profit by contrasting the physiological nut-litive method of furni-hing the nervous system elements of repair as in Dr. WHEELER'S Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya, with the practice of exhibiting stimulants and anodynes to spur up the tired nerves. The nutritive method is restorative and permanent, while stimulants and anodynes are temporary in effect, contribute nothing to build up, and are mischevious in inducing a train of labits that they may wreck the general health.

The schoolmistress told the boy to prepare a composition on "Winter," and this is how he did it:-"Winter is the coldest season of the year, because it comes in the winter mostly. In some countries winter comes in the summer, then it is very pleasant. I wish winter came in summer in this country, which is the best government the sun ever shone upon. Then we could go skating barefoot, and slide down hill in linen trousers. We could snow-ball without getting our fingers cold, and men who go out sleighing wouldn't have to stop at every tavern to get warm, as they do now. It snows more in the winter than it does at any other season of the year. This is because so many cutters and sleighs are made then."

How Macaroni Got its Name.

Macaroni is eaten with relish equally by all civilized European peoples. At the commencement or the close of a dinner, in the character of sweet or of savory alike, it is deservedly as popular without as within the frontiers of its native land. But the incident which originally gave it its name is, we venture to believe, known to few of those—even in Sicily, its birthplace—who hold it in the highest esteem. Once upon a time a wealthy Palerm tar noble owned a cook not only accomplished beyond compare in the practice of his profession, but gifted by nature with an inventive genius. One day, in a rapture of culinary composition; this great artist devised the farinaceous tubes which all loved so well, and the succulent accessorles of rich sauce and grated Parmesan familiar to those who have partaken of "macaroni al sugo" in Southern Italy. Having filled a mighty china bowl with this delicious compound, he set it before his lord—a gourmet of the first water and stood by, in deferential attitude, to watch the effect of his experiment. The first mouthful elicited the ejaculation "Cari" idiomatically equivalent to "excellent" in English, from the illustrious epicure. After swallowing a second modicum, he exclaimed "Ma, cari!" or 'Excellent, indeed." Presently, as the flavour of the toothsome mess grew upon him, his enthusiasm rose to even higher flights, and he cried out, in a voice tremulous with joyful emotion, "Ma, caroni!"
—"Indeed, most supremely, sublimely, and superlatively excellent." In paying this verbal tribute to the merits of his cook's discovery, he unwittingly bestowed s name upon that admirable preparation which has stuck to it ever since.

Anthony Elton was arrested in New York recently, for wearing women's clothes. It seems he is a wealthy, respectable old gentleman, perfectly sane in business matters, but was occasionally overcome by a desire to don female apparel and masquerade in the streets. This mania did not develop itself until after the death of his wife, whom he fondly loved, and it was her clothes he wore when the crazy fit was on him. He was discharged by the magistrate because there is no law in New York against a man wearing woman's clothes.

The irrepressible publisher is out with "the life and trial of Guiteau.",

The Indignant Subscriber.

Tae most deluded individual on this broad hemisphere of civilization and high taxes is the indignant subscriber.

He will neither listen to reason or reorgaize reason when he hears it, so that it is always safest for an editor to lock himself in the safe when he comes around. When he is bald-headed, additional precaution must be taken, as a man whose head is as devoid of hair as a sal mon can, is worse than canned small-

He don't seem to be able to control his passions.

A subscriber often gets worked up to the "inspiration" pitch when he discovers something in the paper which he thinks refers to him.

It dosen't make any difference if the article refers to a yellow dog or a dead mule, for some one is sure to be enraged about it.

Then, instead of soaking his head, he sends in to the publisher to "etop his paper," and gloats over his revenge. But his revenge is a poor one at best.

No newspaper was ever known to sink in the whiripool of poverty because some one told the publisher to "stop his

It's not that kind of a subscriber upon whom the publisher gazes with dread. It is the bald-headed gentlemen who comes through the door sideways and throws a shovel at him.

He generally grows angry by sceing a mention in the paper of a bald-head be ing seen near the stage at a variety

Although there might be two hundred bald-heads there (and there generally is), this gentleman thinks that he is the one referred to, so he hunts up the editor and smashes in his head until it would hold water like a cup.

You can't stop a conscientious editor from expressing his opinion any more than you can kill a cat with lard, and it might as well be known now as at any other time.

No Hesitation.

Bishop Gilmour, of Cleveland, Ohio, bas ased the Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, and endorses it highly. He writes about it as follows:- I am pleased to say that the use of St. Jacobs has benefitted me greatly, and I have no hesittation to recommend it to all as an excellent curative.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. From the Kingston (Ont.) Daily Whig. This old medicine, the ever-effective healer of ills that flesh is heir to, is still before the public in its full favor. It started on its career of mercy (for a good medicine is merciful agent), forty years ago, and is today sought after by the children of the men who first sought out its virtue and establishits name. Were it not for its merits it would long since have "died and left no sign", like many a one popular curative has done even in the last five years. WISTARD'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY is no artificial, deleterious compound, certain to afford temporary relief only by cutting its way by powerful agents through vitality, yet leaving a worse injury behind it. It is a vegetable, and by natural remedies works off complaints from a slight cold to a threatening consumption. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

A Novel Will.

An old farmer, living about twelve miles west of Guelph, died recently, leaving a will, of which the substance is as follows:-The son works the farm till his step-mother's death, at the end of which time he has to commence paying instalments on $3,000 to the rest of the family at a yearly rate of $50 a year, and when he gets all paid off he will then get the farm into his own possession. It will be seen that after the s'ep-mother's death it will be 60 years before the son gets the farm, and as the woman is yet in the prime of life and healthy, it is calculated she may live another 40 years. The son is now 30 years of age, and when he can claim the farm, by this reckoning, he will be 130 years old. The old man must either have thought life is much longer then it is, or else he was afraid his boy might turn a spendthrift if allowed to get the property sooner.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH. - Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung diseases by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medicinal properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all firstclass hospitals, and prescribed by leading physiciaus. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. Hanlan is in England, and is being feted very liberally. He said, in responding to a toast in honor of himself, that he was determined to win if he could. From the peculiar constitutional liking of Englishmen, there certainly can be no more favorable way of introducing Canada to their notice than by sending out champion athletes.

Railway monopoly is receiving some vigorous knocks at the hands of our sprightly contemporary, the Toronto World. It has certainly a much better chance to succeed in this field than in forming a "third party."

A youth at Portland, Maine, made $2000 on a land speculation. This success turned his head, and he has been sent to an insane asylum, absorbed in fancied negotiations for all the towns in the State. It is not individual success that is turning the heads of so many Ontario people over the Ontario land craze; it is hearing of the success of others.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Tedlous Debate - Polygamy before the Judiciary Committee Work before Congress the Government of the City of Washington.

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.) Washington, D. C., Feb. 11, 1882.

The debates in the House and Senate are, at present, somewhat tedious and unexcit-The re-apportionment of Congress, made nec stary by the new census, is not a question that draws popular attention. Nor does the $300,000,000 prodigality, now discussed or post facto, do more than excite a feeling of remorse that we should have given such an immense sum into the management of claim agents. Beyond the passage of the funding bill, little business of importance has been transacted in the Senate during the week. This bill is now in the hands of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, where it is meeting with much opposition. It is evident that it will not be reported back to the Senate, until it has been amended so that Mr. Sherman will not know it.

In the House, Mr. Burrows introduced bill, which was promptly passed, providing that no person guilty of having more than one wife shall be eligible to the office of delegate in the House of Representatives from a territory. This bill was leveled at Mr. George Q. Cannon, a Mormon with considerably more than one wife, who has long been the delegate from Utah in Congress. During the week, Mr. Cannon was called before the Judiciary Committee of the House, and asked many questions relative to the social and marital status of his co-religiouists in Utah. Some of his replies were not suitable for publication, but, among other curious statements, he said that spiritual marriage, in the belief of the "Latter Day Saints," meant that no woman could attain Heaven unless married to a Mormon on earth. He expressed his belief that the principles and practices of the Mormon church would finally spread over the whole earth, and that the present persecution of the church by the United States could have no other effect than to solidify the organization, and increase the zeal of its communicants, for doctrines which they earnestly believed to be revelations from God. With reference to the bill before the Judiciary Committee p eventing polygamists from voting or holding office, Mr. Cannon said it would be more equitable if amended so as to disfranchise and disqualify all offenders against the laws of chastity and single marriage.

The enormous number of four thousand bi ls have been introduced in the House, and there is little prospect of an early termination of this Congress. Many Senators and members believe that the session will last until the middle of July, or until the heat and malaria snall drive Congress to more healthful localities.

The tariff, funding and appropriation bil's will be debated at considerable length, but only a few of the thousands of bills introduced will be heard from again. A very determined effort will be made by the friends of this forlorn District, to improve the Potomac marshes, with a view of suppressing the malaria which infects everything here, not excepting legislation. The District of Columbia is an oligarchy, governed by Congress and the President. Her citizens have no votes, and no influence. Congress is a chameleon that seldom reflects the color of the Capitol. The personel of Congress is continually changing, and, like non-resident landlords, they are more interested in improving the navigation of the rivulets of their own homes, than in the sanitary condition of this fountain of laws. This is a short sighted view of a very serious matter, but it is the view of Congress.

NEWS ITEMS.

A boy baby has been born in Toronto minus both arms. The right leg consists of ankle and foot only, joined to the thigh, and on the left leg the foot joins the knee. The child is in every respect healthy and is expected to live.

A net underneath a trapeze is not a perfect safeguard for the performer. A girl with Barnum's circus was killed last summer by a fall into a net, her chin striking on her knee so violently that her neck was broken; and now Zorello has lost his life in the same way in San Francisco.

The newspapers are still discussing some remarks made by Gladstone in the English House of Commons on Thursday night last, which are said to have given encouragement to the Home Rulers to persevere in their agitation. The New York World's London correspondent speaks of the remarks as a direct bid for Irish support, but the Tribune's correspondent does not think they bear the construction which the Tories seek to place upon them. All appear to agree that cloture can only be passed with great difficulty, although a safe majority for the Government is claimed. The government does not intend to make any concessions, and will stand or fall by the rules as introduced. The Globe says: the proposed Midland Railway extension from Toronto to Buffalo, by way of Hamilton, is urgently demanded for the accommodation of the rapidly increasing himber and coal traffic, as we'l as for the development of local trade. Of late years a very large lumber business has been done over the Midland Railway, a large porportion of the supply from the Georgian Bay and Muskoka waters being shipped to Western Ontario and the United States by way of that line. Last season, owing to the pressure for cars and the difficulty of obtaining them from other reads, the Midland had to decline a considerable amount of business, being unable to extend traffic facilities to its customers. The largely augmented coal trade between the United States and Canada has lately shown an increasing tendency to to the use of rail instead of water routes, thus avoiding the trouble and expense of transhipment at the American lake ports. The coal traffic centering in Toronto now amounts to about 300,000 tons annually, and with the growth of the demand for coal in the cities and towns, as well as in connection with the railways, would be very largely increased provided a direct communication with the eastern section of the Province were secured and return freights obtainable. By the proposed Midland extension this desirable object will be attained, and coal can be forwarded from Buffalo to Eastern Ontario over the Midland system of lines, the lumber of the districts tapped by the line and its connections being shipped as return freight.

Taking in the Small Towns.

A tall, pale young man, with carefully toweled hair, a silk hat one season behind the fashion, and fur trimming on his overcoat, took a small back room in an up-town boarding house. He said that he was an actor, but the landlady thought there would be no objection to him on that account, if he boarders may object to that." which the anticipated mumbling of lines from plays was alternated with hours of the deep, grating, dreadful blowing of a trombone-she informed the actor that he and she must part. The actor went away, but not before talking in-structively as to the little misunderstand-

The annual meeting of the Victoria Railway Company was held on Wednes-day the offices of Mesars. Crooks, Kingsmill & Cattanach, in Toronto.

After the transaction of routine business the following officers were elected:-Mesars. John Proctor, J. C. Fitch, C. J. Campbell, Robert Jaffray, Alex. Cameron, Robert Elliot, Donald McInnes, Nicol Kingsmill, and A. J. Cattanach.

A anii has been entered against the Grand Truck Ratiway by a large share-holder asking for an injunction to reatrain the Company from their traffic rebate agreement with the Grand Junction Railway and the Nipissing Railway Compuny in Ontario, and the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway and Michigan Air Line Company in the United States. It is contended that the Grand Trunk Railway Company has no power to guarantee the bonded interests of these companies as intended.

The annual meeting of the Ontario and Quebee railway pas held on Inesday afternoon of last week at the head office of the Company, No. 18 King street West, Toronto. Mr. E. B. Osler, President, occupied the chair. It was reported that considerable progress had been made in the purchase of the right of way, and resolutions were passed authorizing the Directors to proceed with the con-struction of the road in such a way, as would seem most advisable. The follow-ing gentlemen were elected Directors:— E. B. Osler, Hon. J. R. Thibaudeau, Duncan McIntyre, Geo. Stephen, Hon. Peter Mitchell, Adam Brown, H. S. Howland, Wm. Hendrie and A. B.

The following gentlemen. a deputation from Lindsay to oppose the amalgamation of the Middinia Railway system. arrived in Toronto on Wednesday: F. C. Taylor, Mayor; A. A. Melville, 1st Deputy Reeve; A. O'Leary, 2nd do; Wm. McIntyre, A. Hudapeth, D. J. McDonald, John Debann, W. L. Russell, W. Crace John Delmon, W. L. Russell, W. Grace, and C. D. Barr. Mr. Russell stated that the deputation were here to oppose the Bill now before the Local House to amalgamate the Midland, Victoria, Port Perry and Whitby, Grand Junction, Toronto and Ottawa, and Toronto and Nipissing Railroads. Lindsay had given $250,000 in bonuses to these railways at different times, and he said the amalgamation would not benefit the town.

On Wednesday morning a deputation composed of Mayor MuArthur, of Bowcomposed of Mayor Muarthur, of Bow-manville, and Dr. Bogel, Reeve, repre-senting the Corporation; Messrs. John Wesley and George Piggott, of the Do-minion Organ Company; and John Mac-dougall and John Lyle, produce mer-chants, all of Bowmanville; Mayor Rae, Dingle, Lark, John Steel, Cowan, and Jan. Smith, of Oshawa; James Rundell, Reeve, Vancamp, Deputy Reeve, of the township of Darlington, and others re-presenting Pickering, waited upon Mr. Oaler, President of Ontario and Quebec Railway, at Toronto. They urged that the Company should endeavour to locate the line as near the front as public, so as to touch the towns of Whitby, Oshawa and Bownsanville. Mayor McArthur, of Mr. Cowan, of Oshawa, pointed out the importance of these points as business Farming. centres, and quoted statistics showing the volume of local freight and pass traffic which the Grand Trunk obtained from their respective localities. They complained that the Grand Trunk did not provide cars in sufficient number to meet local requirements; and promised to give the Ontario and Quebec liberal bonuses, if the company would accede to their wishes, and touch either of the three points named, and all if possible.

Mr. Osler, in reply, stated that the Company were nowmaking another survey south of the one which had formerly been made, and it would be finished in about three weeks. At the expiration of that time he would be able to state whether or not the Company would accede to the wishes of the deputation. The deputation then withdrew.

Hunting a Bear. Tuesday afternoon a man with grizzly beard and unkempt hair went down to the market place, Toronto. He had several skins for sale, and among oth rs that of a large bear. On being asked if he killed the bear himself he said he did, and that he had killed a half dozen others as well "this winter." A series of ques-tions elicited the facts that the man was s hunter; that the untrodden ways in the wilderness of Muskoks were his chief hunting resorts; that he goes in every autumn as the snow begins to fall, and remains in during the winter, except to "take a run out now and again." He went in about two months ago, repaired his camp, laid in his provisions, and lo-cated places to set his traps. Since then he has taken a good deal of game, includ-ing seven boars. One morning last week rose as usual with the dawn and set out to examine his traps. Taking a new route to one lying at some distance, he passed by a tree which he knew from its appearance to be hollow. He noticed also that there was no snow about the base of the tree, whereas the ground about was covered to the depth of a foot. He concluded that a bear was within, and set his dog to turn the animal out and then cocked his gun. The dog growled, and presently a pair of glaring, black eyes pecred through the opening.
Then the whole head appeared and the heat appeared and the hunter fired. The bear gave a growl ard bundled out of its burrow. It was bleeding profusely about the head and one eye was shot away. But instead of refreating, mad with pain it advanced upon the man, whose gun was empty. But he was prepared with his axe and cloys the scull of the bewildered atting. HIBERNIAN MINSTRELS .- This company appeared in the Music Hall on Wednesday, and had a good house. They were only a tolerable success as minstrels, and as hibernians, on the whole, a total failure. Some of their songs took well, but most of their jokes were very stale, having been going the rounds in the almanacs for years. Their orchestra and band was good, Prof. Armstrong, an old Port Hope man, being the principal player. They are much better minstrels than Irishmen; we have seen more successful minstrels.

NEW MUSIC .- We have received four pieces of new music, published by Messrs. I. Suckling & Sons, Toronto. "Heart and Hand" and "Dawn of Hope," the former by John Post, the latter by Estelle Stanfield, are two new waltzes. "Twilight" a ballad, the words of which were composed by Emily Kia"or and set to music by L. S. Butler, is a beautiful thing, both as to sentiment and art. The gem of the collection, however, is "La Napolitaine," the new dance, by Estelle Stanfield. All of these pieces can be obtained at the book stores of Messrs. W. Williamson and W. H. Parsons. They range in price from 25 to 50 cents each.

A Novel prairie plough will be shipped from Hamilton to Winnipeg in a few days. It will be tried on the Lowe farm near Morris. (which contains 18,000 acres), this spring, and the inventor-a Hamilton gentlemansays he will be able to break up twenty-five acres of sod per day. If it wi'l only do half of what the inventor claims for it, the owners of the Lowe farm will be satisfied. It is built on the principle of a traction engine, the wheels being very broad, to prevent their sinking in soft yielding land. The furnace is constructed so as to burn straw, and the cost of fuel will therefore be trifling. The inventor has such faith in it that he has made an agreement to work the plough on this farm during the coming spring.

WIDE AWARE FOR MARCH, 1882 .- The March Wide Awake is brilliant with fine pictures, one of Charles Volkmar's famous duck-paintings heading the list as frontispiece. This number is replete with prose. poetry and art, which, to enumerate in their various parts, would be altogether too lengthy. To crown this, the month's Reading Course for the Chautauqua Reading Union, is sparkling with wit and wisdom, healthful with practical suggestions and brilliant with fine engravings, among them a very fine drawing by Lungren for the music article entitled "Mozart playing for friends." The music this month is by Mr. G. W. Chadwick, the musical conductor of the Greek play, Edipus, he having set Miss Muloch's "Mill Song" especially for Wide Awake. $2.50 a year. D. Lothrop & Co.,

THE West Durham News has improved in every way, lately.

THIS day 1792, Joshua Reynolds, the great English painter died.

PURPLE HILL is the name of a new post office in Durham Co.

PETERBORO' is trying to get rid of her unsightly telegraph poles.

COROUGG has been granted $12,000 for harbor improvements.

AT the Town Hall yesterday the flag was hanging at half mast. THE official report of the census commissioners has been issued. NEARLY the whole of our christian population back-slid on Sunday morning. A LOAD of hay was upset Monday noon, on the corner of Pine and Walton streets.

A BILL to amend the Act incorporating the Midland Land Company is before the Ontario Legislature. It confers power upon the company to acquire additional lands in the Township of Tay, county of Simcoe; to distribute moneys realized among the shareholders; and to borrow money and issue bonds.

A meeting of the Committee on Manufactures was held last Tuesday afternoon, in the Town Hall. The discussion was quite informal, and nothing of importance was transacted. The establishment of a knitting mill was the object of the meet-

To BE SLIGHTED .- Mr. Geo. Cox passed through here on Monday evening; a deputation from the Council went to the station to confer with him, regarding the claims of Port Hope to a representative on the permanent Board of Directors of the Midland Railway. Peterboro', Lindsay, Belleville and Whitby have, it appears, greater claims than Port Hope in this respect, and we are to be entirely

BETHANY.-The rendition of that wellknown drama "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be given in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening next, 28th inst., by the Bethany Dramatic Society: This entertainment promises to eclipse all others given there, and there is sure to be a large attendance. The Midland Railway will issue tickets at single fare to those desirous of attending. Tickets for the concert 25 cents

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY .- The March number of this popular monthly is already here. Mr. N. H. Eggleston writes the story of the Hosasc Tunnel, a narrative of much interest. This with Life and dream of Life form the leading themes of the present number, while others of more or less interest complete a rich fund of literature. The Atlantic is always readable and maintains a proud position among journals of its class.

A LAKE MONSTER. - A steamer, to run or the lakes next summer, has been launched. lately, that will carry as much as the John Gaskin and her mate together, when the latter is completed. The name of the monster is the Onokol. Her keel is 286 feet long; over all, 3021 feet; breadth of beam, 39 feet; depth of hold, 25 feet. The estimated capacity of the Onokol is 100,000 bushels of corn, or 3,000 gross tons of iron ore, on a draught of 141 feet. The cost of the steamer is about $225,000.

THE MARCH CENTURY .- Even a list of the contents of this valuable magazine for March. would form a lengthy article of itself. A beautiful frontispiece, a large and varied list of illustrations, its literary, philosophical, and scientific fund of entertainment and information is of the most varied character, brimful of interest to all earnest students of life. "Topics of the Time" and "Book Notices" are valuable features. One can form no adequate idea of its store of riches in art and literature, until he reads it for himself

IN THE TOILS .- A smooth-tongued, consequential individual, who gave his name as A. S. Leavitt, and styling himself an "M. D.," has paid Port Hope several visits during the last few months. His occupations were varied. On his first visit he advertised himself as owner and manager of an institute in Toronto, for the curing of all manner of rheumatic diseases. He made his next appearance as a vendor of water-proof blacking, and the last time he was here, occupied himself in painting "Wahoo" on every fence-board, telegraph pole and sidewalk in town. The last heard of him is from Caledonia, Ont., where he was put under arrest for practising medicine without a certificate.

THE ESTHETIC VALENTINE. - A New York report says: The sunflower is the reigning fashionable pattern in valentines. They are immense in size, and some of them are weighty, being hand-painted on sole leather and suspended by skeins of floss. Anch has contributed most of the mottoes for them. The prices of these leather valentines vary from $4 to $10. Some large ones, eighteen inches square, bearing a cushion of plush and satin hand-painted sachet pockets on one side and St. Valentine's Day, 1882, on the other in raised script letters of silver, are selling now from $12 to $15. There are also valen tines in bon bons, and there are some candied flowers, violets and roses glacees, which are imported from the south of France.

POSTAL STATISTICS .- The annual report of the Post Office department, brought down by the Hon. John O'Connor, shows that on the 1st of November 1881, there were 5,935 post offices in Canada. The number of miles of post route, 41,6811. Number of letters sent by post last year, 48,170,000; postal cards, 9,640,000, registered letters, 2,253,000, free letters, 1,838,000. Newspapers posted elsewhere than at office of publication, 5,980,600. Newspapers posted at office of publication at one cent per lb., 4,745,452. Books, packets, and miscellaneous articles, 6,000,000; parcels, 321,500. The revenue of the year amounted to $1,767,162.70, and the expenditure to $2,332,-398.80. No loss by fraud or otherwise has occurred during the year, and irregularities on the part of postmasters have been excep-

RETURNING FROM MANIFORA.-The Globe of Friday says:- "Some fifteen carpenters, bricklayers, and laborers returned to the city vesterday morning from Winnipeg. One of them stated that there was as good, if not a better, chance of getting employment in Toronto as there was in Winnipeg."

GRAND ORANGE LODGE OF EASTERN ON-TARIO. - The twenty-third session of the Grand Orange Lodge of Eastern Ontario is convened to meet at Millbrook on Tuesday, 28th inst., and the Provincial Grand Black Chapter of that Province will open its annual session at the same place on the evening of the 27th. A full representation of delegates. will be present. Among other important matters for discussion, a mutual insurance scheme for Eastern Ontario will be laid before the Grand Lodge.

As is well known, the late Dr. Egerton Ryerson was once stationed in Cobourg, where he first came prominently before the public, not only as a divine but as a politician. The Mail in reviewing his life gives this incident:- "Thenceforth the bold champion of Methodism was a marked man, and, although only an auditor at the Cobourg nomination, was directly assailed by the Government candidate. Mr. Ryerson essayed to mount the hustings to reply, but was refused permission to speak. His friends immediately improvised a rostrum upon a farmer's waggon, and belabored the dominant party with such vigor and effect that Mr. Lyons, a Methodist, triumphed at the polls."

LINDSAY is making desperate efforts to have manufactures established in her midst. A despatch to the Globe dated Feb. 18. says. The committee on manufactures vesterday afternoon met Col. A. A. Stevenson and Mr. H. Shackel, of Montreal, who, with Senator Ogilvie and other Montreal capitalists, are going into a paper mill at this place. Exemption from taxation for a period of ten years, with renewal for another period, was agreed to, with some other conditions. The company will carry on the manufacture of strawboard. millboard, and paper pulp in a large building that has for some years remained idle, and that has very fine machinery. Twenty hands are to be employed from the start, and it is expected the business will soon require fifty hands or more," Besides this one a number of other schemes is talked of.

THE SUCCESS OF THE SEASON .- We have not had the pleasure of noticing very many theatrical successes this season. This is accounted for, as much perhaps, on account of our poor accommodation in the way of a Music Hall and the name Port Hope has for furnishing poor houses to good companies, On the evenings of Thursday, Friday and Saturday last, the Herndon Opera House Company presented the following plays:-"Divorced or, Lost and Won," "Kathleen Mayourneen" and "Out of the Fire," each supplemented with side-splitting farces. Mr. T. J. Herndon, the star actor, is a superb comedian. In the impersonation of Mortimer Theopholis Muggs, Gregory, Solon Shingle, Jonas Jonah and Timothy Toodles, his every move and look was greeted with roars of laughter. Clara Goldsby is the ideal of poetic sentimentality; Mr. Jas. Harrison makes a powerful support in the role of an honest manly hero; Mr. C. E. Cadden takes the part of the venerable bachelor uncle or kind hearted farmer, to perfection; Miss Hattie Morris is the designing old maid; Miss Pertie Harrison as the saucy, pert maid is a great favorite with the audience: Mr. H. P. Keene figures to advantage as the fast young man, or as the cold unsympathetic lawyer; Herndon "is a whole show in himself" was the general comment of the audience. They are all good actors and deserved better houses than they received. In Kathleen Mayourneen, however, they are not a success, not being able, with the exception of Mr. Cadden, to master the Hibernian accent.

THE TEMPLE REBUILT .- A new edition of this poem, re-written, enlarged and rearranged, has been brought before the public. Mr. Abbe is a poet in the truest sense of the word, and his subject is one which gives the largest opportunity for thought and expression. The poem involves the story of primal innocence, the fall of the soul, its restoration through Divine grace, and final salvation. By the "Temple" the author typifies the soul of man; it is cast into ruins by sin; the new foundation a the plan of salvation as laid down by Christ; the builders are the Christian virtues and graces; the implements are prayer and good works; and through these the edifice again arises in its pristine purity and beauty. The author paints in vivid language the various scenes which rise before him during the progress of the poem; the bright radiance of the heavenly courts; the thronging scraphim and white-robed angels; the star-gemmed skies; the beautiful things of earth; the horrors of the pit, and the terrible scenes of the last day. The closing portion of the poem is entitled "Hallelujah," and is a call to all created things on earth and in heaven to praise the Lord for his redemption. We quote briefly from this section:-Praise Him, ye mountains! on whose bleeting crag-

Nestle the cagles, peering for their prey;
Where from the clouds of thunder tempests bind
Their brows with terror, and the sullen snows
With cold caressing lap the traveller;
Or where the motten entrals vomit fire
In furious miniature of final doom. In furious miniature of mai doom.

In higher grandeur yet will you arise,
Under a fairer sky, a calmer clime,
Bright pillars of the sun; your radiant brows,
Disarmed of every weapon of dismay,
The purple pavement of angelic feet,
With sovereign peace on every peak enthroned. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston; $1.25.

Congress has succeeded in passing a bill excluding bigamists and polygamists from legislative honors. This indeed is too utterly It is somewhat inexplicable that Mr. Mowat with his yearly surpluses, should keep the pile n the Treasury always the same. We have een having a half a million or so to the good each year, and strange to say the surplus is no larger than it was some four or five years A writer in the Guelph Mercify, who has had seven years of sad experience in the West and North-west, gives the following advice: -"To the youths and young men of this neighborhood I would say-stay at home and stick to business and prosperity will attend you. Go east or go west, and in at least one half the cases disappointment or demoralization is the result." ST. NICHOLAS for March is again to hand.

Merrill, J. G. Francis, George D. Brush, H. P. Share, R. B. Birch, H. Sandham, Miss R. H. Muller, nd many others.

Working with fire-works and dynamite is now to be put under special restriction, and not too soon. An explosion occurred at the pyrotechnic works of Prof. Jackson (formerly Admiral Porter Homestead) in Chester, Pa., Saturday morning. The building first took fire while the firemen were playing on the flames. A large crowd surrounded them and an explosion occurred scattering destruction far and wide. The number killed is fourteen, and fifty are said to be wounded.
