HARBOR BOARD.

An Interesting Discussion on the Reduction of Wharf Tolls.

A special meeting of the Harbor Board was held on the evening of Wednesday, the 12th of July, to consider a petition for the reduction of harbor tolls on coal. A very lively time was experienced but no definite conclusion was arrived at. An adjournment was made in order that the question might be discussed before a full board.

ADJOURNED MEETING.

Tuesday, July 18, 1882. Present-The Chairman, L. Ross, Col. Williams, T. M. Benson, Q. C., E. Peplow, J. Mulligan, P. Robertson, E. S. Vindin, and P. Randall. The resolution passed at last meeting of

Town Council recommending a reduction of tolls on coal was read and received. A letter was received from Mr. A. White, of the Midland Railway giving a statement of coal likely to be brought over Port Hope wharf for the next two years. 20 engines, burning coal would be on the road and would consume 10,000 tons of coal, this amount being exceeded from year to year. He further set forth that the Midland Railway coal was only carried over 10 ft. of dock, while coal for local purposes sometimes occupied the docks for months. .

A statement of coal imported at the harbor since 1878 was submitted by Mr. Cochrane, Harbor Master. The following resolution was then submit-Moved by P. R. Randall, seconded by Peter Robertson, that tolls on all coal passing over the harbor be hereafter fifteen cents instead of twenty five cents as heretofore.

Mr. Benson wanted to know what reasonsthere were for a reduction. He would like to hear them. He had studied the matter very carefully and failed to see any sufficient Surely the Mayor could tell why he wanted the changes asked for in the resolu-

The Mayor thought there was a very good reason in the fact that he considered the tolls had been too high for years. He was satisfied the imports would be larger if the tolls were lower. Some years ago when an effort was made to have the G. T. R. coal depot here it was generally approved of to allow them to ship their coal across the docks for 10 cts per ton. If that was proper then it was proper now. The Midland Railway using coal now would require a much larger amount than previously.

Mr. Benson-We have no guarantee that this coal will be brought over our harbor. Chairman—We have Mr. White's letter.

Mr. Benson-That is no guarantee. From the present low rates it is advantageous to the Midland Railway to ship by water, but let freights go up, and the Midland Railway coal will come by rail. As is shown by Mr. Cochrane's report, no person has been frightened away from shipping with us, by our high rates. The case of the G. T. R. referred to by the Mayor was an entirely different affair. If the G. T. R. had made this a coal station it would also have become an eating station. and in that way have become of material importance and benefit. He thought it most unwise in the present dilapidated condition of the harbor. We have to pay the M. F. D., and if we reduce our income he did not know by what means they would be compensated. As to the resolution passed by the Council, he would simply say: If the Harbor Board is to be ruled by the Town Council, and simply carry out its expressed wishes then the Harbor Board had better cease to exist. The object of such a Board was to have a body independent of the Council, and not amenable to popular favor. He would pay all deference to the suggestions of the Council, and would only be too happy to fall in with them where he saw it desirable, but if the Harbor Board is to do so and so simply became the Council wishes it, then the necessity of a separate and independent Board no longer exists. He had been told that freights would in all probability rise, and then the coal would come by the G. T. R. If the Midland Railway will guarantee a certain amount, he would have no objections to the tolls being reduced.

The Mayor could not see much argument in Mr. Benson's contention about freights. If freights raised, the harbor would lose their revenue anyway. As far as the Harbor Board and Town Council Were concerned he thought the latter had a perfect right to suggest anything to the Harbor Board. He be-lieved it would be better if the Harbor Board were elected by the people and become directly responsible to them. He had been informed, he did not know what truth there was in it, that if the reduction was not made, the Midland Railway would bring their coal over the Whitby Harbor.

Mr. Benson-There's not much more danger of the coal going by Whitby than the railroad

The Mayor jumped to his feet the moment railroad ties were mentioned. He wanted to correct a mis-statement. Mr. Benson in his brave way, while he, the Mayor, was absent took occasion to insinuate that he had made misleading statements to the Board in order to serve personal ends.

Mr. Benson-How many-Chairman-Mr. Benson, Mr. Randall has the floor.

Mr. Benson-I simply wish-Chairman-Order! Col. Williams-I object to this interfernce from the Chairman. Chairman - Nobody's interfering. Mr. Benson-Allow me to ask the Mayor a question. How many ties did you ship over the Harbor?

The Mayor-I will not tell. Mr. Benson-For what reason. Mayor-That's my own business. Mr. Benson-Well did you send any over Port Hope Harbor.

Mayor-I did not. Mr. Benson- How many did you send over Whitby Harbor. Mayor-I will not inform you.

Mr. Benson-You informed the Beard that you had ties to ship and that as Whitby had cheaper tolls, you intended shipping over that harbor unless you got a reduction. Mayor-Yes. Mr. Benson-What are the tolls charged by Whitby Harbor on ties. Mayor - Find out for yourself. Mr. Benson-Upon making inquiries l found they were the same as Port Hope. The Mayor-They are not.

Col. Williams-I was present at the meeting, and I could not possibly construe Mr. Benson's remarks into a reflection upon the Mayor's veracity.

The Mayor—I simply wish to rid the public of a false impression I'm not in the habit | it was taking the money out of one pocket of making false statements and I guess my reputation for truthfullness is as good as some other people's I could name.

Mr. Mulligan referred to the meeting in June, when Mr. Rice, an agent of the Pennsylvania coal mines, stated that he had a contract to supply 8,000 tons of coal, and asked 10 cents a ton reduction. At the present freight rates he made it out that there were exactly 10 cents in favor of the Grand Trunk. Mr. White in his letter says that there are a few cents in favor of the Harbor. It is very difficult to find out from these gentlemen the exact state of affairs. This proposed change is not in the interests of the town, but in the interests of the Midland Railway and private parties in the North towns. Mr. Stevenson, of Peterboro' a brother of Councillor Stevenson of Port Hope, had spoken to him (Mr. M.) about reducing the tolls, saying: "You must reduce or you can't do business with us," stating, further, that he could bring coal cheaper by way of Midland. Mr. Stevenson, Port Hope, gets up a petition for Mr. Stevenson, Peterboro', and presents it to the Council. He would not say that Mr. W. G. Stevenson did it entirely at the instance of his brother but it looked like it. Why does the letter from the Midland Railway and the same meeting? It is simply to bring extra pressure on the Harbor Board. Chairman-What has this to do with the

Mr. Stevenson's petition both come up at

Mr. Mulligan-It has everything to do Chairman-It has nothing to do with it. Mr. Benson-Can we not conduct business without interference from the Chairman? Mr. Stevenson was heard. He stated that he had nothing to do with his brother whatever. He had never spoken to his brother about coal or his brother to him; neither did he know anything concerning the letter of the Midland Railway. These suppositions were entirely incorrect, and it was quite out of place for Mr. Mulligan to make such imputations.

Mr. Benson stated that he had no objection to granting the reduction to the Midland Railway, providing the amount of coal to be was assured, but there is nothing to show that it is.

The Chairman-There is 20,000 tons instead of 10,000. Mr. Benson-What guarantee have we of

The Chairman - The railway has the pockets provided. Mr. Benson-But these pockets would be equally useful if the coal was shipped on the Grand Trunk, would they not.

The Chairman-Of course. Mr. Benson-And the freight might rise, and the Midland Railway would bring in its coal by rail.

Mr. Vindin—But if the tolls were reduced the Midland Railway would lay in their year's supply while the freights continued low.

Col. Williams—All, or about all, the supply for home consumption is already received, so that by reducing the rates now a very great injustice to the townspeople would be done; they would have to pay the 25 cts a ton while the Midland Railway gets an advantage of the 10 cts reduction at once. It was not at all fair to home consumers. Mr. Mulligan-The present state of the docks won't admit of it. Besides repairs necessary, a large amount of money is being received by the Council by which the town's rate had been reduced ‡ of a cent. If we reduce our tolls where is all the money to come Chairman-More coal upon which to collect will be received. Mr. Mulligan-We have no guarantee of that. We all know what promises by the Midland Railway means.

The Chairman-The Midland Railway always does what it agrees to. Mr. Mulligan-They have never fulfilled a single promise to the town. Chairman-They have.

Mr. Mulligan-They have not.

Chairman-It's not true; they have.

Mr. Mulligan-The Vice-President made the statement that the Midland Railway would carry the lumber for the harbor free. Chairman-I did not. Mr. Mulligan-You did.

Chairman-I did-not. Mr. Mulligan-I repeat it. You did. Chairman-If you say so, you say what is not true. Mr. Mulligan -- I state the truth. The Chairman-It's false! Mr. Mulligan-How dare you sit there as chairman and make the statements you do.

Recriminations flew as thick and fast at this stage that our reporter gave up hopes of keeping pace.
Col. Williams interposed stating that this was most objectionable, and if persisted in he would move a resolution to the effect that, hereafter, when the chairman engages in discussion he should vacate the chair. Some more cross firing was indulged in between Messrs. Ross and Mulligan, but calm was restored by Col. Williams moving the following amendment to the motion: Moved in amendment by A. T. H. Williams, seconded by E. Peplow, that the word "hereafter" in the second line be struck ou and the words "to take effect from April 1s last," be added to the resolution.

Mr. Benson thought that the reduction of toll on coal should be made conditional, adding to it the element of encouragement Accordingly he moved the following:

Moved in amendment to the amendmen by T. M. Benson, seconded by J. Mulligan That with a view to the encouragement of the importation of coal over the harbor, it be resolved that in any year (including the current year) in which the importation of coal paying tolls over the harbor shall equal 18,000, there shall be refunded to the person or persons or corporation, who shall have paid the tolls now charged upon such coal (namely 25 cents per ton), the sum of 10 cents for each ton of coal in respect of which such present tolls shall have been

LOCAL SPORTING NEWS.

Mr. M. Hamilton, of Peterborough, won a beautiful bat by making the highest batting average in cricket at Trinity College School.

The Winnipeg cricket team have started on their tour eastward. They will play Port Hope at or about the end of this month.

The Oshawa Lacrosse Club crosses sticks with the Cobourg Club at Whitby on the civic holiday, August 3rd. A match game between the Woodville and Lindsay lacrosse clubs was played at Lindsay on Thursday last. Woodville took two games Port Hope Lacrosse club plays at Whitby on 3rd of August, Civic Holiday in that town, for a silver cup given by the Whitby Athletic club, and valued at $25. The contest will be with the Oshawa club. Ross says that Hanlan is afraid to rowhim, and Hanlan offers to row any five men in the world, two days to elapse between the race with each man. The challenge is open to the first of September. On Friday last Trinity College School, with characteristic pluck, had a tussle with Toronto cricketers, but sustained a crushing defeat. 247 to 49 in favor of Toronto was the way the score stood. A lacrosse match will be played in Penryn Park, on Friday, between Port Hope Beavers and the Lindsay club. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged. Our boys are doing well and bid fair to rival the cricketers in distinction as players. All who take an interest in the Canadian National Game should

An organization has just been formed in Oshawa to be known as the Oshawa Driving Park Association. The object of the Association is, we are informed, to provide amusements for the residents of Oshawa and vicinity such as horse races, foot races, bicycle races, &c. The races this year will probably take place the fourth week in August, when $1,000 will be offered in prizes. An effort is now being made to form a circuit, including Toronio, Oshawa, Belleville and Kingston.

The Trinity College School Olub, the "Rovers," played the Hamilton Cricket Club on the grounds of the latter on Saturday last before a large crowd of spectators. The Rovers went to the bat and lost their last wicket for a score of 83. Hamilton was bowled out for 29, when the School went in again and succeeded in making eleven runs for-four wickets when time was called. The match was declared a draw. The composition of this team was varied from that which suffered defeat at the hands of Toronto the day previous by the addition of three good players. This match was the last of a series played by the School, and the team broke up at Hamil-

The first of the series of Association matches in cricket was played on Tuesday, in Peterboro', between Port Hope and Peterboro' clubs. As the score below shows it resulted in a hollow victory for our boys, who had a regular walk-away with their opponents.

"A TRAVELLING SCOURGE."

Rev. A. P. McDiarmid Denounces Satan, Sin, Circuses and Town Councillors.

Coun. Winslow is Insulted, and Makes it a Police Court Case.

Quite a sensation was created in social circles this week when it was known that Mr. A. Winslow intended to have Rev. A. P. McDiarmid appear before the Police Court Magistrate to answer to a charge of slander from the pulpit. It was thought at first that the matter would not reach a focus, but the Town Hall on Wednesday morning showed the determination of Coun. Winslow to put the affair on Police Court records. The novelty of seeing a minister of the Gospel arraigned before the Beak, was sure to secure a good audience, and especially of resident ministers. The particulars of the case are given in the sworn evidence below. Our representative was not present at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening last, but it appears that the pastor, Rev. A. P. McDiarmid, had given vent, in strong terms, to expressions derogatory to circuses, and reflecting severely on town councillors in general, and Coun. Winslow in particular. The latter gentleman considering that he was deliberately insulted, laid complaint with R. H. Holland, Esq., P.M., and the rev. gentleman was served with a warrant to appear before His Worship on a charge of publicly insulting, vexing and annoying the plaintiff on Sunday evening last. Mr. Moore, barrister, etc., of Lindsay, appeared for plaintiff, and Mr. D. Chisholm for defendant. Police Court was crowded with anxious spectators. but as the sequel shows the event was not equal in interest to the occasion.

A. Winslow, sworn, said:-There was action taken by several councillors for a Dominion Day celebration. Mr. H. A. Ward, F. Beamish, J. G. King, His Worship the Mayor and myself acted on that committee. We asked for a guarantee fund of $200 from the Council and it was granted. If we had a surplus, we were to return the $200. There was a surplus, and the money was handed back by myself at a meeting of the Council. I do not know the defendant, never was introduced to him, am not a member of his church, do not attend regularly, and never My wife and myself were invited by Mr. Wm. Craig, a prominent member of his church, to go. We occupied a prominent seat in the Baptist church, and could hear the minister, Rev. A. P. McDiarmid, quite distinctly. There was allusion made to me in the sermon. When he began, (I forgot the text, but will never forget the sermonlaughter.) He abused Satan, Sin, the circus, the Council, and myself. He said the town had been polluted by a travelling scourge; I suppose he meant the circus. "It was no wonder, he said, when there were such miserable councillors in the country. No wonder when at the last meeting of the Council a member who handed back the cheque had made the remark that he hoped it would be granted, as it was plain to be seen that this gentleman had a personal and pecuniary interest in these things. No wonder we have these scourges passing through the town."

I was known to most of the congregation; have lived six or seven years in town. I took no more prominent or active part in this celebration than being simply chairman of the committee. This was the first and only time I ever entered his church. Cross-examined—I go to the church of England, and attend pretty regularly. I do not know whether the minister knew I was in church or not. My wife was asked several days previous. An immersion-was likely to take place, and my wife was invited, I went because my wife went. Mr. Craig after-wards regretted that I had went there. I suppose he was sorry he was the means of taking me there to be abused. I was not vexed because he abused Satan and Sin. I thought the expression out of place, calling the circus a "travelling scourge." that the reference to the Councillors was personal. Calling them "miserable." I felt that as a Councillor, I was termed a miserable man too. Here an extract from THE TIMES of last week, being the report of Coun. Winslow's speech in the Council, with reference to the Dominion Day grant, was read by Mr. Chisholm, to show that Mr. W. had used insulting language himself to other Councillors. After some considerable bandying in the cross examination, Mr. Wm. Craig was called on as witness. His Worship interposed, however, stating that unless some evidence of a more damaging character could be produced, it would be use less to examine any witnesses, as he had already decided that there was no case under the indictment. He held that the By-law as framed in accordance with the statute, was intended for the maintenance of peace in public places. The plaintiff's solicitor contended that a church was a public place, and that insulting language by a minister, as well as by any other person, was liable to create a disturb-ance of the peace.

His Worship maintained that according to the B -law no case could be made, and he accordingly dismissed it with costs for plaintiff. There was no help, he said, for his course of procedure in this instance, and he regretted that ministers in many instances were allowed so much latitude. They were sometimes deserving or punishment for the extremity to which they carried certain

PYROTECHNIC SEVEN AGES OF MAN.

MAN.

All the world's a First of July,
And all the men and women are but fireworks.
They have their fizzles and explosions,
And one man in his time sees many stars.
At first the infant, win fireracker,
That burns the house and frightens all the women.
Then comes the pistol, when the boyish fiend
Shoots out the jackstones, marbles, junk and nails, Dislodges fingers; puts out people's eyes,
And maims for life a great part of his friends,
Then comes the lover, with his pulling crackers,
His mild torpedoes for the frightened girls;
And thus he plays his part.
Then comes the justice with his ponch and gun,
Who tramps a field to shoot one little bird.
And then the soldier, with his rified cannon,
His howitzer, petard and bomb;
His Reming and Enfeld, shot and shell,
And all his dread accourtements of war.
And last of all, that ends this py retechnic history, Comes second childhood's exhibition—
the Roman candles, foods of colored light;
Its pinwhee's scattering flery spray;
Its Bengal lights emilting flory heen,
Yet dim and shadowy to its failing sight,
Then disappears he in the realms of space,
Like some great rocket gone up to the sky
With dazzling train of many-colored fire,
His mind, his heart, his thought, his soul, are gone;
His body useless as a rocket stick. His body useless as a rocket stick.

ONLY A BRAKEMAN.

"Accident.—An extra freight train on the B. & C. R. R. was wrecked last night by a broken bridge just beyond Carlyle. A son of the Hon. Carlton Ballou was on the train, but fortunately escaped injury. A brakeman him to ha by the name of Marshall was the only he did so. person killed."

It was only a short dispatch, cast into one corner of the morning paper, amid a score or two of others, but it interested me; for I knew the whole brave story so well, and I felt in my heart almost a hatred for the writer who had done such injustice to a noble life and overlooked so grand a deed.

I was only the night operator at Carlyle-not a very exalted position, perhaps, but yet one of considerable responsibility and trust. From seven in the evening until the same hour in the morning I held in the hollow of my hand the life of almost every man passing over our division of the road

I remember one night, when I was sitting alone in my little, cramped-up office, and listening, from mere force of habit, to the varied messages as they went clicking by to the other stations on the road. The last train for several hours—the freight accom-modation from Brighton—had been in for some time, and I had nothing to disturb me but my thoughts.

"Well, Billy, how's No. 5?" a voice suddenly asked, as the outside door was pushed ajar.

"One hour late," I replied, hastily; and then, looking up, I saw Tom Marshall, a brakeman on the last freight, filling up the doorway. "Come inside and have a chair, Tom," I added, as I recognized the face of my questioner.

"Only for a moment to-night," he answered me, as he sat down at my invitation, his lantern resting between his feet on the floor. "I have a call to make this evening, and must wash up a little first."
"Where away to-night, Tom? Not up on the hill again, surely?"

He shook his head in the affirmative, his eyes fixed upon my table, where the instrument was ticking

"Of course it's none of my business, my boy; but it seems to me you go to the great white house too often of late. Ballou might object, and 'tis said they are engaged, you know." And I looked up at his strong Saxon face from where I lay stretched on a bench by the wall.

"I think they are mistaken about plied, very slowly. "I only get in here two nights a week, you know; but I do the best I can.'

"Then it is serious, Tom?" I asked; for I liked this broad-shouldered, fair-haired fellow, brakeman though he was.

"I'm afraid it is with me, Billy," he replied, his eyes gazing steadfastly at the lantern between his feet. "But, good-night; I must go; will see you again as I come in." And the heavy door closed behind him.

As I sat there alone in the office after he had gone, I thought of all these things—thought them over and over again. I had known Tom for two years, and I liked the boy. I knew, or thought I knew, Kate Carr, up in the big white house on the hill. A proud girl in her way—proud of her father's riches, her own beauty, and the dozen suitors who had knelt at her feet. Ever since Tom first sought her society I wondered at his welcome. It seemed so strange a thing to me that one so proud of her position, so thoroughly a slave of society so openly encourage the attentions of a mere freight-brakeman—a man of whose family connections we know nothing, and whose only wealth was his monthly pay. Still Tom was a young and good-looking fellow enough, and, perhaps, after all, she was a little vain at having so handsome a suitor, even though so poor, to add to her lengthy string of victims. I never could believe that she had the heart to return his great, honest love, and be willing, in exchange to sacrifice all her hopes and pride for his sake, and then, besides, rumor had it that George Ballou, the son of a rich banker of a neighboring town, had already gained her promise, and from many little things which had fallen under my notice, I began to believe that rumor for once was right. And Tom loved her, and I thought it over all night when I was not busy, and wondered in my heart how it could end.

It was almost a question, and the silent listener outside in the moonlight bent forward to catch the low tones of the reply.

"Oh, George, how could you? Why, he's nothing but a freight-brakeman! What would papa say if he heard that?'

It was the soft, tender voice of Kate.

"And you truly only cared for me, darling?

"I only loved you, George." That was all; and the strong man who listened, whose only crime was poverty, turned back quietly in the darkness-turned back through the low hedge and out into the moonlit road, with pale face and heavy heart. doubt. My instruments were almost unmanageable, owing to the electricity in the air, but about midnight a message came through in jerks from the division superintendent at Balton:

Just as the engine backed down from the tank and was being coupled on, George Ballou, muffled up to his chin, and holding a small leather valise in as Kate Carr appeared to be, should his hand, came hurriedly around the edge of the depot building.

"Bond," he said to the conductor, who stood there with his lantern raised to give the signal for starting. "I want to go down with you. I must be home to night.'

Bond looked around rather surprised at the request. "We are likely to be wrecked before ever we get there, Mr. Ballou," he said quickly. "But, if you must go, take your own risk and get on. I don't care."

"Ballou, don't go!"-it was Tom's voice, speaking very low. "Take my advice, for there's not one chance in ten of our going through to-night without trouble.'

"But I must go," come to answer. "My mother has been taken ill-a telegram just received."

When the first terrible crash came, the caboose had been pitched violently forward and then flung down, and now hung tremblingly suspended upon a single timber of the culvert, which trembled and threatened each moment to part and let the battered car fall onto the ragged rocks below.

"Is there any one hurt, Cal?" Tom asked, anxiously, as he finally found the conductor standing alone in the rain beside the track.

"No; all out safe, I think-close call, though, Tom; awful wreck! I never saw a worse in thirty years!" "Help me! help!"

Worth Mentioning.

When anything worth saying is spoken in that terse and pointed way that bears the impress of honest conviction, we like to have people know the nature of the communica-tion. Of such a nature is the following from Mr. W. F. Haist, Camden P. O., Lincoln Co., Ontario. Mr. Haist says: "With great joys over my restored health, I would write a few lines concerning that wonderful remedy, St. Jacobs Oil. For the past six years I have been using various medicines internally and externally, but nothing would help me. Finally I procured a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, which cured me after a few applications. My mother in-law, who has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, was also relieved by the use of the Great German Remedy. St. Jacobs Oil is a great blessing to suffering humanity, and I shall do every-thing in my power to make known its merits.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Female Complaints.—On the mothers of England devolves much and serions responsibility in securing for their daughters robust health; frequently, alas! thoughtlessly sacrificed by culpable bashfulness at a particular period of life, when all important changes take place in the female constitution, upon the management of which depend future happiness or misery. Holloway's Pil s, especially if alded with the Ointment, have the happiest effect in establishing those functions, upon the due performance of which health and even life itself depend. Mother and daughter may safely use these powerful deobstruent remedies without consulting any one. Universally adopted as the one grand remedy for female complaints these Pil's never fail, never weaken the system, hotel the place afforded, and I caught it is my duty to go, not yours." And and always bring about the desired result.

but a glimpse of him as they swung around the curve. I afterwards heard away. Only a moment did Ballou Carlyle and Two of his Contemporaries.

He could not fall in with the current of his time, as Emerson and Victor Hugo did; his philosophy was reactionary, and his influence shortlived. He united with German mysticism and romanticism an English worship of force and a caustic Scotch humor that were quite foreign to it, and the compound of foreign philosophy and native practice was not a stable one. Mr. Emerson had the mysticism without the pugnacity, and he elevated our souls. Victor Hugo had the vehemence for action without the passive philosophy, and he swept the French people on in a flooded-tide of passion. Carlyle united both, and did not reach either mind or heart so perfectly. While Emerson was teaching idividualism and avoiding self-assertion, Carlyle preached hero worship with unbounded egotism, and urged action while he flouted reform. An idealist, he grew to scorn ideas. He threw himself into the past to mate a world that no present could ever give. These three men, Emerson, Hugo, and Carlyle, belonged to the same general awakening, and need to be studied together: the first representing the ideal, the second the real, and the third the reactionary elements. They were all three men of strong imagination, though of very different kinds. They were almost poets. Neither Carlyle nor Victor Hugo had the lofty and refined spiritual insight of Emerson, but they had far more pictorial imagination. Both of them, and especially the Frenchman, could conjure up before our eyes the scenes of their fancy with a life-like reality and vividness that no other author of our time, except Hawthorne, has approached. But both, in their weaker moments, load their pages with an intolerable mass of detail, from which Emerson's are free.

The intellectual methods of the three men had much similarity. They each broke away from the old creeds without losing their reverence for the Divine. Not one of them was a vigorous reasoner or a sound critic. They swayed us by their eloquence, not their logic. But their individualism led them into extravagance and an egotistic brusqueness of style that at times became harshly abrupt.

The dreams of Carlyle and Emerson and Victor Hugo were an epoch in the intellectual growth of the century, but the world moves on by more substantial means than dreams. It has left them behind, and we do not believe that it will ever return to them. We turn back often to the sound thought, the careful reasoning of the past, but not to its conjectures, how-ever splendid. For permanent progress is made by accurate reasoning, in which each successive step is firmly fixed, and not by soaring intuition, however lofty its flight.

In Carlyle, as in Emerson and in Victor Hugo, there was the same unconquerable rebellion against the narrow and tyrannous spirit of the time, and a return to humanity, a devotion to it, an adoring love of it, as the motive of life. But the manly enthusiasm for reality of the followers of the Scotchman has faded before a new gospel of clothes; and in America transcendentalism melts away before the positive spirit of the new culture. In France, in a general way, Victor Hugo has triumphed, for he threw himself into the democratic current of time, and now the stage is free from the classic fetters that he strug gled with in youth; and the democracy that he gave his maturer life to has gained at last not only the sceptre, but the power to use it, as well. The new literary elements, however, that he contributed, the romance, the melodram, the horrible violence, have not been lasting either in plays or novels. All his wondrous powers of enthusiasm and imagination have not founded a school, or reconciled gay Paris to the terrible conceptions of Le Roi s'Amuse. These men were the prophets of a new era, which they felt rather than saw; and the world hailed them with delight. But it soon craved something solider than prophecy; something which neither Carlyle, nor Emerson, nor Victor Hugo could give, -science.-July Atlantic.

Bronchitis.

From John Flagg, Esq., of Benningtor, N. H. "Three years since I was very much reduced with a dreadful cough, which resulted in Bronchitis, affecting me so severely as to render it difficult to speak in an audible voice. To this was added severe night sweats, and I was fearful of going in-to a decline. After recourse to various remedies, to no purpose, I made use of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, a few bottles of which fully restored me to health. Since that time I have had several attacks of of cough, but the BALSAM has always removed them. I always keep it by me, and should not know how to do without it." 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all drug-

The parishioners of a clergyman in Scotland, in expressing to him their aversion to the use of manuscript sermons, asked: "What gars ye tak up your bit papers to the pulpit?" Josh Billings on Courting.

Courting iz a luxury, it iz sallad, it iz ise water, it iz a beveridge, it iz a pla spell of the soul. The man who haz never courted hez lived in vain; he haz bin a blind man amung landskapes and waterskapes; he haz bin a deff man in the land ov hand organs, and by the side ov murmuring canals. Courting iz like 2 little springs of soft water that steal like 2 little springs of soft water that steal out from under a rock at the fut over mountain, and run down the hill side by side, singing and dansing and spattering each uther, eddying and frothing and kaskading, now hiding under bank, now full ov sun, and now full of shadder, till bimoby tha jine and then tha go slow. I am in favor ov and then the go slow. I am in favor ov long courting; it gives the parties a chance to find out each uther's trump cards, it iz to find out each uther's trump cards, it iz good exercise, and iz jist az innersent as 2 merino lambs. Ccurting iz like strawberries and cream, wants to be did slow, then yu git the flavor. I hav saw folks git ackquainted, fall in luv, git married, settle down, and git tow wurk in three weeks from date. This iz jist the wa sum folks larn a trade, and akounts for the great number ov almightey mean mechanicks we hav, and the poor jobs tha turn out.

Perhaps it iz best i shud state some good advise to young men who are about tew advise to young men who are about tew court with a final view to matrimony, az it was. In the first place, yung man, yu want to git yure system all rite, and then find a yung women who iz willing tew be courted on the square. The next thing iz tew find out how old she iz, which yu kan do bi ask-ing her, and she will sa that she iz 19 years ing her, and she will sa that she iz 19 years years old; and this yn will find won't be far from out ov the wa. The next best thing iz tew begin moderate; says once every site in the week for the fust six months, increasing the dose az the patient seems to require it. It is a fust rate wa tew court the girl's mother a leetle on the start, for there iz one thing a woman never despites, and that iz. mother a leetle on the start, for there iz one thing a woman never despizes, and that iz, a leetle good courting, if it iz dun strikly on the square. After the fust year yu will begin tew like the bizzness. Thare is one thing i alwus advise, and that iz not to swop fotograffs oftener than once in 10 daze, unless yu forget how the gal looks.

Okasienally yu want tew look sorry, and draw in youre wind as tho yu had pain, this will sat the cal tew tagzing you tew find out draw in youre wind as the yu had pain, this will set the gal tew teazing you tew find out what ails you. Evening meetings are a good thing tu tend, it will keep yure religgion in tune, and then if the gal happens to be thare, bi accident, she can ask yu tew go hum with her. As a general thing i wouldn't brag on uther gals much when i waz courting, it mite look azathe yu knu tew much. If yu will court 3 years in this wa awl the time on the square, if yu don't sa it iz a leetle the slikest time in your life, you kan gat measured for a hat at my ex; you kan git measured for a hat at my expense, and pa for it. Don't court for munny, nor buty, nor relashuns, these things are just about az onsartin as the kerosene ile refining bissness, liable tew git out ov repair and bust at any minnit.

Not Necessary to Drown.

Man is the only animal that drowns naturally. He does so because he is endowed with reason, that is to say, with a large spherical brain with a skull on it, which rises above his nose. If he falls into deep water, in spite of his great brain he has not presence of mind enough to stick his nose out and keep it out, as he easily might do, but lets his heavy head, Tike a stone, press his nose under water. In this position he inhales, and fills his chest with water, so that he becomes on the whole so much heavier than water as to sink. While the lungs are filled with air the body is lighter than its bulk of water, and of course swims, just as an iron vessel does. All, therefore, which is necessary to keep a person from drowning in deep water is to keep the water out of the lungs. Do you ask how that is to be done? Suppose yourself a bottle. Your nose is the nozzle of the bottle, and must be kept out of the water. If it goes under, don't breathe at all till it comes out. Then, to prevent it going down again, keep every other part under-head, legs, arms, all under water but your nose. Do that and you can't sink in any depth of water. All you need to do to secure this is to clasp your hands behind your back, and point your nose to the top of the heavens, and keep perfectly still. Your nose will never go under water to the end of time, unless you raise your brain, hand, knee, or foot higher than it. Keep still with your nose turned up in perfect impudence, and you are safe. (This will do in tolerably still water: in boisterous water vou will need a little of the art of swimming, which if you don't get you deserve to be drowned.

scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much again my wish, to use a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to ever expect, she was completely-cured. The name of this remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice.— Leading, M. D., Evansville. Trial bottles free at Mitchell's Drug Store. Large size alone. - Firginnia City (Nev.) Chronicle.

A New and Wonderful Disease.

It has been observed that the manufacture of bichromate of potash has a singular effect upon the nose, manifesting itself in a curious manner. A little hole is formed on the septum or partition of the nose dividing the nostrils, and increases gradually until the partition entirely disappears, with the exception of its lower par, so that to a superficial observer there is nothing the matter with the nose, except a little outward depression. It is noticed that as soon as the partition is destroyed the process appears to stop there, neither the lungs, air-tubes, nor throat being in the least degree affected. Some workmen at the chrome factory in Russia, where the disease has been chiefly watched, have been employed for ten years and remained unaffected, while with others after one month's work. But that the dispecularity is evident from the fact that an inspection of all the hands proved that more than fifty per cent. of the men had diseased noses. The early symptoms are a slight fickling of the part affected, followed by bleeding, but no uncomfortable feelings, and, in fact, the destructive process is painless.

Liver Complaint.

Is rather an indefinite term, as commonly understood it consists of a torpid sluggish state of the liver, a deficiency or a superabundance of bile, or an alteration from its proper character. All disturbed action of the liver and biliary organs giving rise to pain in the side, or under the shoulder blade, headache, weariness, dixziness, sick stomach, loss of appetite, bad bowels &c., are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters.

Fulfils a Strange Purpose.

The prickly pear, that ugly, fleshy little cactus, with its blessoms, fulfils a strange purpose in the animal economy of the western prairies. In itself it appears to be one of the veriest outcasts among vegetables, execrated by man and refused as food by beast. Yet, if it were not for this plant, the herds of prairie antelope would have fared badly enough. For the antelope, whenever they found themselves in straits from wolves or from dogs, made straight for the prickly pear patches, and there, standing right out on the barren, open plain, defied their swift but tender-footed pursuers to come near them. For the small thick pads of the cactus, though they lie so flat and insignifi-cantly upon the ground, are studdled with tufts of strong, fierce spines, and woe to the welf or dog that treads upon them. The antelope's hoofs, however, are proof against the spines, and one leap across the belt suffices to place the horned folk in safety.

Canada Short-horn Herd Book.

The fifth volume of the "Canada Short-horn Herd Book," just issued, is a remarkable advance upon its predecessors. The arrangement has been simplified in many ways. The bulls are all entered alphabetical and the cows under the names of the breeders, the latter being alphabetical. An immense labour has been bestowed upon the details, with the object of compressing the information into smaller space and avoiding repetition, at the same time om tting nothing material, and making this volume complete in itself. This is the first volume issued since the new standard was adopted. All animals to be registered must now trace in all crosses to imported cows or to cows. already registered having seven crosses or 99.21 per cent. of pure blood. This volume practically, therefore, begins a new Herd Book, and it is so constructed that purchasers will not need to buy the former volumes. The whole arrangement reflects the highest credit upon the skill and patience of Mr. Wade Secretary of the Association. from whom copies of the volume (reduced in price to $2.50 can be

Going to His Grave.

There he goes again direct to a saloon and pours down another heavy draught of strong drink, not so much because his appetite demands it, but for the artificial buoyancy it produces—the after effects of which leave him more miserable than before; it is this dreadful practice that is daily sending thousands to their graves. A re medy for all this is found in the true friend of temperance, —The best and purest of all medicines,—Electric Bitters. Sold by G. A. Mitchell at 50c.

An Anxious Capitalist.

"I came to ask," began a little eld man in a whisper, looking as if fearful of being overheard, and drawing his chair close up to the editor, "if you know anything of the condition of the Nevada Bank?"

"No special information," replied the "Then you think it solvent-perfectly solvent?" demanded the little man, with intense eagerness. "Certainly: "Might I ask what the capital is-it's paid up capital?"

"Three millions, I believe," said the editor, beginning to wonder what manner of man had floated against him.

"And," continued the man in black, tugging in nervous excitement at his thin and straggling iron-groy beard, "what's the Nevada Bank's reserve—its reserve—that's what I want to find out?"

"Four millions, I think."
"And how is it invested—how is it.invested?" He fairly gulped with eagerness as he glued his eyes upon those of the editor and awaited the reply.

"In United States bonds."

"Ah," he said, with a great sigh of relief. "I'm glad of that. Then"—here he looked all round to make sure that there were no listeners—"then you think a man could safely intrust his money to it?"
"Why, certainly. There's no safer bank in the world. It has unlimited backing." The little old man chuckled and took the editor's hand, which he shook almost gleefully.

"You have done me a great favor, sir," he exclaimed, "a great favor-and I shall not forget it!"

"It bothers you to be sure that your money's safe, I suppose, sir?" said the editor, with that respect in tone and manner which every independent citizen instinctively assumes when addressing a wealthy man.

"Well-er-no, not just yet. The fact is," he cried, with a burst of confidence, The Doctor's st Mappy Resort.

I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most that henceforth I shall save my money in that henceforth I shall save my money in stead of spending it, as I have done from my youth up, and I have suffered considerable anxiety about where to put my money when I get it. In point of fact," he went on, his cadaverous face beaming, "I am just now excessively hard up, and if you could oblige me, sir, with the loan of a dol-lar until I am started on my new career, you would lay me under a heavy obliga-

Fishing With Electric Light.

A French yachting paper describes the new apparatus which is used with the permission of the Government of that country for fishing by electricity at night. It consists of a globe of glass within which the electric light is shown. Two conductors encased in guita-peroba are arranged so as to meet one another on the inside, very much on the same principle which is now familiar to all visitors to the Crystal Palace. They communicate with a fishing boat anchored at a convenient distance, and can. of course, be set into activity by the occu-pants of the boat. As to the globe, it is attached to a weight below and affeat above, so that it can be raised or lowered to the desired depth. As soon as the carbons are ignited and the glass is in proper position, all the sea in its vicinity is illuminated bril-liantly, and the fish, over whom light is well known to exercise on irresistible influence at night, come eagerly, and sometimes in large schools, within the rays. They may be seen from above disporting themselves in the hole in the nose begins to be formed the unaccustomed brightness, and little dreaming of the sinister purpose with which ease is something more than an individual the little fete is organized for them. It is pecularity is evident from the fact that an nets, come up and set to work at the unconscious victims, which they surround as well as they can without interfering with the apparatus connected with the lighted globe. It may be supposed that this device is calculated to operate with much deadly effect whenever it is used; and there seems to be much doubt whether it will ever be-allowed as a recognized kind of fishing within territorial waters. Indeed, the license granted by the Government is said to be merely provisional, and for the purpose of testing the new machine.

BOB INGERSOLL VS. CLARK BRADEN.

In referring rather unfavorably to Clark Braden's pamphlet last issue we did not imagine we would tread on the corns of so worthy a contemporary as the Belleville Intelligencer. We are told that Clark Braden is an M. A., "formerly President of two well known colleges in the United States, and as a lecturer possessing unusual eloquence and power.' This may all be true. The fact of his being an M. A. and a President of a United States college is not of itself the now being a President of a college is significant. If we are allowed to judge men by their works, his little work 'Ingersoll Unmasked" is sufficient to justify our calling its author "a buffoon and a conceited ass," characteristics which are not always irreconcilable with being an M. A., and a President of a United States seat of learning. We acknowledge the trivial error of saying the title of the pamphlet was "Bob Ingersoll Unmasked" instead of "Ingersoll Unmasked," not paying every great attention to title pages, but we did read carefully the contents of the inside pages because we wanted to see Bob with his mask off. From this careful perusal, having all our sympathies with the object of the writer, we came to the conclusion expressed in last issue of the TIMES. We have subsequently heard and read opinions strongly concurrent with our

We are further informed that Bob Ingersoll does not carry on his warfare in a legitimate manner. But does that excuse a grossly personal attack on the part of Clark Braden. If Clark Braden is fighting the battle of Christianity what modes of warfare should he adopt? Does the lessons of Christianity teach us that we should return evil for evil? or have we any instances of where Christ fought Satan with his own weapons?

Then aguin, granting that it would be advantageous to have Ingersoll's personal character exposed, how are we, who are unacquainted with either Ingersoll or Braden, to know whether these charges are authentic. Baseless slanders are circulated concerning almost every public man, and if we were to trust implicitly all we hear or read, the bottom would fall out of society before to-morrow morning. If all is true and ten times more, after all, what effect can it have on Ingersoll's teachings? A man might have a heart as black as Beelzebub's and still be as wise as Solon, and as logical as Aristotle. It is quite possible for wickedness and wisdom to co-exist; in fact we are informed in Holy Writ that the people of this world are wiser after their own day and generation than those more spiritually inclined.

We are promised two more pamphlets from the same writer, in which the arguments of Ingersoll will be completely torn to pieces. We imagine it would have been more satisfactory to the public to have done this at first and left the consideration of his personal character until

The Intelligencer hopes that we are not annoyed because it has not accepted our estimate of Clarke Braden. Our dear confrere, not in the least. We are only disappointed-in too highly estimating the discriminatory powers of our cotem.

We are not championing Ingersoll's cause, reither do we deny that the author of "Ingersoll Unmasked" may be highly educated, a powerful reasoner and an eloquent lecturer; but if he is, his circumstances must have been sadly against him when he made his latest effort. His pamphlet gives no evidence of learning, or developed reasoning faculties, and betrays a remarkable paucity of expression. It is ill-advised, indiscreet, and what is more is neither christlan-like or necessary. Alexandria, of which we read so much in the papers these days, is a celebrated city and seaport in Egypt, and is situated on the Mediterranean coast. It is the great commercial emporium of Egypt, is an important station over the overland route to India, and is connected by railway with Calro and the Suez Canal. The population is over three hundred thousand, comprising Arabs, Turks, Jews, Copts and many other Europeans. The chief remains of the ancient city of Alexandria, which was built upon the mainland, the modern city being built upon a peninsula, are the cisterns, catacombs, and Pompey's Pillar. England got one of the obelisks from Alexandria and the United States got the other.

A NEW DANGER.

The war in the East is rapidly taking a fresh aspect. Politically and numerically considered, the Egyptians as opposed to Britain are mere pigmies in comparison with their mighty foes. Many regard the present war as a farcical undertaking on account of the diminutiveness of the enemy; they look at it as a mountain making mighty efforts to bring forth a mouse-a Caliguan triumph at most when ended. But while in one sense this is true, yet there is, as we observed, a new danger ahead. It is not Arabi Bey and the Khedive, or Arabi and England, laughable as they are in proportion. The way events are shaping now, the contest is to be between Moslemism and Christianity-in other words, a religious war.

Arabi Bey is possessed, by race and inclination, of wild, enthusiastic Moslem spirit, and fanaticism is what moves the Mohammedans. Alexandrian papers, and North Africa as a whole, look upon it as a war of creed, and are crying wildly for the Unbelievers to be extinguished. A war with Egypt means nothing, but a war with over 100,000,000 people means a gigantic undertaking. India, where England expects to find endless resources in case of a prolonged war, has alone 40,000,000 of the Moham-

Religious feeling has in the past proved to be a stronger element in union, than political, social, or even family ties. If Arabi Bey succeeds in arousing a religious feeling in his favor, as he has partially succeeded already, the consequences may be highest proof of his ability, while his not | more serious for England than she anticl-

THE CROPS OF ONTARIO. Conditions and Prospects Throughout the Province.

The July Report of the Bureau of Industries gives a summary of the condition of grain, hay, and fruit crops in Ontario, together with statistics of acreage of grain crops and estimates of produce, and of the years clip of fine and coarse wools.

The condition of the crops is compiled from the reports of five hundred correspondents, made on the 1st of July, and covering nearly every township in the Province. It is not claimed that the figures are strictly accurate, but it is believed that if they err at all it is not on the side of excess. The estimates of produce are, of course, good only for the time at which they were made by farmers; they are too great or too small in the proportion that the crops have since been modified by conditions.

It will be noticed in the summary of acreages given below that the area under fall wheat is nearly double the area under spring wheat. This is a great relative change since 1870, when the crops were of nearly equal area. In that year the total area under wheat was 1,365,872 acres, and the product 14,233,389 bushels. This year the total area is 1,763,876 acres, and the estimated produce 30,783,683 bushels. The increase and the change have taken place chiefly in the West Midland, Georgian Bay and Lake Huron

The fall wheat is reported very good throughout the western half of the Province. It has recovered admirably from the effects of spring frosts, and if the weather continues favorable until the harvesting, the yield will be better than an average. In the eastern half the reports are less fayorable. In the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties it will be not more than half a crop. It must be remarked, however, that eastward of York county a much greater area of spring wheat is grown than of fall wheat, and the condition of spring wheat is reported excellent. The indications are, indeed, that the estimated produce of the returns for wheat will be exceeded. But assuming that it is fairly realized, and the crop is safely harvested, Ontario will have a surplus for outside markets of fully 20,000,000 bushels.

Oats promises to be an excellent crop in all sections of the Province, and barley and peas fairly good. The heavy rains of May and June, while favorable to the former grain, were somewhat injurious to the latter; but the warm days of the last two weeks of June caused all crops to thrive wonderfully. It is a season of slow maturity for cereals, and harvest time will be fully two weeks later than usual. Corn seems destined to be a failure; the temperature has been too low for it.

The fruit crop has suffered severely throughout the western counties, the cold weather and east winds which followed the blossoming season having blighted it. In the eastern counties the trees came later into bloom, and apples especially promise to be a large crop. There will be scarcity of peaches and plums, but small fruit is abundant.

The following table gives the returns of acreage and estimate of produce for the whole Province, and for the County of Durham.

Mr. Mills is going to carry the Bothwell election dispute to the election court. The case will be heard before two Superior Court Judges in Chatham, probably about October. We'll be able to tell better then who is the dog in the

Mr. John Bright has withdrawn from the English Cabinet, not being in accord with Mr. Gladstone's war policy. This statesman, as is well known, believes in a peace at any-price policy. Although very few of the English people agree with him in this, yet he is consistent, and thus differs very materially from Gladstone. Peace is always desirable, but situated as England is, with manifold interests at stake, she must be ever on the alert, and always be ready and prepared to demand respect for her rights.

It is very satisfactory to find that the French Canadians, whose sympathies and race instincts all belong to Canada, although many thousand of them are in the United States, are returning again from that country. Over 8,000 have been repatriated, and find plenty of work in cotton factories and other manufacturing industries. La Minerve, of Montreal, in commenting upon the fact says: "To what do we owe the return of these exiles? To that protection which permits us to create a national industry! To that protection which permits our compatriots to find in their own country the work which they went to beg from our neighbors!"

It is a terrible thing to edita (politically) Liberal paper in Spain, says the Pall Mall Gazette. To say nothing of duels, imprisonment, and the other little trifles to which continental journalists are exposed, the Spanish Liberal editor stands in dread of the anathemas of the church. Here, for instance, is an extract from the comprehensive malediction which the Bishop of Santander has launched at the Liberal editors of his diocese: "May Almighty God curse these Journals with the perpetual malediction launched against the devil and his angels! May they perish with Nero, Julian the apostate, and Judas the traitor! May the Lord judge them as he judged Datham and Abiram! May the earth swallow them up alive! Let them be cursed day and night, sleeping and waking, in eating, in drinking, and in playing, when they speak and when they keep silence? May their eyes be blinded, their ears deaf, their tongue dumb! Cursed be every member of their body? Let them be cursed from to-day and forever! May their sepulchre be that of dogs and of asses! May famished wolves prey upon their corpses, and may their eternal company be that of the devil and his

A pertinent question is asked by the Owen Sound Times in discussing the re buke received by Mowat in the Boundary question at the hands of the people. It says very truly that by his reckless course he has provoked this rebuke, and few will be sorry that he has got it so emphatically. But the question of interest to the Province now is, what will he do about it? Will he acknowledge himself beaten in his appeal to the electors on the question, get down on his marrow bones, and accept the offer of the Dominion to let it go to the Privy Council, after refusing to do so before? This is the only sensible and practicable course out of his difficulty, and if there is humiliation in it now, he has brought it on himself, and ought not to let the interests of the Province suffer by refusing to take it. Or will he follow up his bluster of last session by carrying out his threat to go and take forcible possession; at the risk of blookshed and civil war, though a peaceable solution is offered?

Our Grit contemporaries are a long suffering race, but the point where endurance ceases to be a virtue is about reached, and some of them have already reached and passed it. Since election is over the Globe has been thrown from the directorate; now Hon. Adam Crooks is beginning to feel the retribution of a career of inflicting blunders. The Peterboro' Examiner which very seldom kicks over the traces, complains of our school system in the follow :- "The school system of Ontario has been held up as one of the most perfect and liberal systems extant, but that it is susceptible of vast improvement is a conviction that has been growing in strength, and gradually compelling educationists to wish that steps could be taken to amend it in such a way as to give it what it now greviously lacks, a predomination of the practical element over that of the merely theoretical and ornamental. We are glad that Mr. Crooks, the Minister of Education for Ontario, sees the importance and necessity of taking action in the direction of securing the desideratum alluded to." The changes hinted at in the last sentence are those we referred to in our last issue, "the wisdom of which will depend upon how the details are carried out." There are good and sufficient reasons why Mr. Crooks should try and do something wise. Elections are coming on, and, as we heard a good authority on educational matters remark, he is trying to redeem himself. The province is sick of him and the party is sick of him; and he finds it necessary, in order to save his position, to do something to meet with popular favor. Should fortune favor his political extinction we think both parties would gladly unite in twining a wreath for his tombstone and inscribing thereon;

requiescat in pace.

Full Statement of Receipts and Expendi-

The members of the Dominion Day Celebration Committee met on Tuesday evening, when the business was finally wound up. The statement, as published below, speaks for itself, showing that the recent celebration was the most successful ever yet held in Port Hope. An item of $39.20, paid to Mr. Glendenning, Trenton, in part remuneration for horse killed, will be found among the disbursements. $100 was given altogether, but the complement was previously obtained through subscription. Another meeting will be held on Tuesday evening to consider the best means of disposing of the surplus. The following is the statement, as furnished by the Treasurer :-Thos. They were addressed by Mrs. Rogers, of Ash-burnham (Peterboro'.) The next meeting will be addressed by Mrs. J. M. Douglas, of Port Hope, late of India.

What England wants is another Beaconsfield. She misses that renowned veteran just now. Were he still living and holding the reins of Government, either the war would have been averted and England's prestige sustained, or else Egypt and her allies would have received such a shaking that they would have given Britain a respectful, if not submissive, hearing, for at least the next century. A shilly-shallying policy has only had the effect of emboldening Arabi Bey, and causing England to appear in anything but a favorable light to other pations.

THE DEFENCE OF CANADA.

There is no little talk, especially among volunteer officers and volunteers in regard to the probability or at least possibility of their being called out in case a general war should burst over Europe. A World reporter yesterday, in conversation with an old army officer and who is an active member of one of our best corps, gave in substance his opinion

The Egyptian affair may be settled without much commotion in Europe, but there is also a prospect of therefrom. If Russia was not so much torn by internal dissensions, for plotting ing of Nihilists and fear of her king of assassination, and the ignorance of her people, there is little doubt that the present crisis would have been seized upon by Russia as her opportunity, and she would have

MARCHED TO CONSTANTINOPLE, long the object of her dreams and of all her movements. England, as a consequence, would then have been compelled to join issue with Russia and to have endeavored to prevent her from becoming MISTRESS OF THE GOLDEN HORN.

The upshot of it would be that Europe would be thrown into a general war; that England now with her hands filled with Ireland would have still more trouble from that unhappy island and the sympathizers of Ireland in America would give no small amount of

TROUBLE TO CANADA.

And it was just at this point where the interest to Canadian volunteers comes in. Were England at the present moment involved in a great war, Canada would be compelled to look out for herself. Our volunteers would have to garrison Halifax, St. John and Quebec. Toronto and Montreal would have to be strengthened and the entry to the Northwest in southern Manitoba would require a strong guard.

THE FENIAN ORGANIZATION

is by no means dead in America. The fact that thousands and thousands of dollars are readily raised for the purpose of keeping up the sgitation in Ireland is the best proof of this, and those who sixteen years ago subscribed money to assist in the invasion of Canada would not be slow to repeat their former acts if they saw the opportunity thereby of embarrassing England.

The gentleman then went on to say that from a conversation he had recently had with it is apparent the most England can do for Canada in case of war would be to furnish us with some material in the shape of artillery for defence and rifles. The men we would have to furnish entirely ourselves, indeed England would look upon for herself. All the Canadian volunteers would have to go into active service, and a full and complete enrollment of the reserves would also be made. He stated, further, that the English war, office had a pretty accurate estimate of the military resources, of Canada, and that only recently the commander of the forces in Canada had sent to England a. report on the defence of the country.

AN ENGLISH OFFICER,

But, said the reporter, "Is there not too much hypothesis in all these statements of yours?"

"You may think so," said the gentleman, "but remember that I am speaking as an officer and a soldier, and one who has seen a great deal of service. And wars spring up sometimes when people least expect them. I don't say that there is to be a war, but do not be surprised if you see the Canadian militia months have expired. We are on the eve of great changes.'

TOWN COUNCIL.

SPECIAL MEETING.

A special meeting of the Council was held last Friday evening to consider the advis-ability of reducing the harbor tolls on coal. Present-Couns. Beamish, McKee, King, Pringle, Ward, Winslow, Stevenson, and the Coun Stevenson introduced the following resolution, which carried unanimously:Moved by Coun. Stevenson seconded by Coun. King,-"That in the orinion of this Council it is desirable and expedient that the trade arising from the large and increasing consumption of coal should be encouraged to come over the harbor, and that the toll levied by the Harbor Commissioners should be reduced from 25 to 15 cents per ton.

"And that a copy of this resolution under the corporate seal of this Council and signed by the Mayor, be forwarded by the Clerk of the Chairman of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, and that the Chairman of the Harbor Board be respectfully requested to call a meeting of the Board at the earliest possible day to take the matter into consider-Coun. King addressed the Council at some length on the advantages to trade and labor which would accrue from the tolls being reduced. Efforts, he thought, should be made to secure the trade in coal of the north country. Insinuations had been made that the Conncil was being influenced by the Midland Railway, but he denied the charge, stating that he had never been approached, directly or indirectly, by any person.

Coun. Stevenson expressed the opinion that the Harbor Board, as it was appointed by the Council, was, to a certain extent, responsible to the Council. He disclaimed all connection, in any way, with the Midland Railway, and thought that the more coal passed over the harbor the better for all parties concerned. If the tolls were reduced t would make coal all the cheaper for consumers, as coal dealers promised to take off the reduction from their customers.

The question of appointing a Civic Holiday was next taken up, and the 17th of August as suggested by the papers was considered as being without objection.

No more business being before the Council, the Board adjourned.

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

The following is a poem written on the situation in the East by the talented and scholarly editor of the Chatham Planet, W.

"England we love thee better than we know,"
And blush of shame o'er loyal cheeks is stealing,
To see thine honor, in the dust laid low,
While laughter of Egyptian scorn is pealing.

From potters' raft on Nilus, and afar, The tameles Bedouin, in his tent doth tell, How that we shrank from fear of Moslem war, And when our seamen foolly slaughter'd fell, Avenged him not, with cannon's iron hail, Entombed him not, in mode beseeming well.

But stealthily, as from a conqueror's thrall, In fear escaping, when the twilight fell, Bore him to sepulchre of ocean's ocea, While brave marine with moistened eye did stand, And Nelson and Aboukir did refuse And Nebon and Aboukir did refuse To leave his thoughts, who blush'd for native land.

Arose thee England! Let thy people spurn Their coward rulers; be thyself again, -Once more, and let the march of battle turn, In vengeful speed to Egypt's hoary plain.

What, shall Egytian slime that flag defile, Whose honor'd folds, through many a gory field, Victorious way'd despite of hate and wile, From century to century, revealed.

As centre of the dauntless and the free, Cressy-Trafa gar-Alma's bloodstain'd vine, In spectral march of bygone history, De tell thee of the honor that is thine. "To arms, to arms," dead heroes ery to thee!

The Belleville Intelligencer says: - The excursion to Peterborough yesterday (the 12th) was probably the largest railway excursion that ever left Belleville. When the immense train, consisting of 21 cars drawn by two engines, arrived in Peterborough there were 2,070 people on board. The excursion did not arrive in Belleville until after 11

As there are to be great athletic sports at which large prizes are offered for competition, Oshawa and other towns, it is said, will also appoint the same day for their civic holiday. A great feature of the day will be the band competition, in which some dozen bands are expected to compete for the three prizes of $175. County Constable McFadden, of Lindsay, received a telegram not long ago stating that a burglary had been committed at Uxbridge, receiving at the same time descriptions of three supposed burglars. McFadden seized on the first three men whom he supposed to look like them. These happened to be Midland Railway employees, whom he put in the lock-up. They were liberated, but not before conductor Lethbridge proved their innocence.

WAR IN EGYPT.

The Fate of the Moslems Trembling in the Balance.

In our last issue Alexandria was reported as having surrendered. The news was partly correct. Arabe Bay had deserted the city, and kept up the flag of truce as a sort. of ruse to give him time to escape, which he successfully accomplished. It was several days before his whereabouts was known. A terrible massacre was reported at Cairo, but the rumor was unfounded. The following condensation of war news gives the position up to yesterday afternoon.

London July 18 .- No doubt exists that Arabi Pasha meabs to fight, and that he will avail himself of all his resources before yielding. His force is divided into two corps, one of which is reported to be marching on the Suez Canal for the purpose of blocking or cutting it. The main body is still entrenched within easy distance of Alexandria awaiting the arrival of fanatic reinforcements from the interor, where numbers of Europeans are reported to have boen massacred, In Alexandria the work of restoring order is go on under the direc-tion of Lord Charles Bereaford, whose sum-mary and exemplary manner of dealing with pillages is calculated to put a stop to this work. The conflagration has been stopped, and business is being slowly and cautiously resumed. Meanwhile every preparation is being made for an advance on Arabi's entrenchments, should such a course be deemed necessary. The Khedive has issued his order dismissing Arabi from the Ministry of War, but the document has not yet been delivered to him. France appears to have adopted a new line of policy, and a corps of eight thousand men is now ready for embarkation should Turkey decline to intervene in Egypt, and European intervention be resolved on by the Conference.

London July 19 .- Arabi Bay's troops are said to be much disaffected. Starvation and misery have taken possession of his camp, and the soldiers threaten to desert him. His cowardice during the bombard-ment has almost destroyed his prestige. He enlists new troops by promises of unlimited plunder, and keeps his old supporters by declaring that the English will kill all who return to Alexandria. It is stated that during the bumbardment the Egyptian gunners, who were so highly prized for their courage, were kept at their guns by being covered by the rifles of infantry stationed under cover. Later despatches state that the Prophet Ei Mehdi is advancing to Arabi's support and that he will be able to bring under the rebel standard the whole population along his line of march. Arabi the entrance examination, Lindsay, that is now reported to be retreating on Cairo, Wm. David Cavano and Wm. J. Sisson, of and great fears are entertained for the safety and great fears are entertained for the safety of the Europeans there. The Governor is loyal, but it is more then probable that the from a gooseberry bush in his garden last week a berry measuring 34 inches in circumference and 34 inches long. troops will not make a very vigorous opposition to Arabi's forces, if, indeed, they do not join them in their work of pillage do not join them in their work of pillage and destruction. Ineffectual attempts have already been made to fire the city. De Freycinet in the French Chambers yesterday enunciated his policy, which includes European concert, speedy restoration of order in Egypt, in which she will assist at the mandate of Europe, and the continued neutrality of the Suez Canal, which she will protect. Gambetta censured the Cabinet for accepting Turkish intervention, .but supported the war credit in order to free

The crops in this locality are looking very favorably at present, and there is every indication of the coming harvest being a very promising one. The meadows in some places are somewhat lighter then others, but, on an average the product will be fair. The fall wheat will be, as the most of the people predicted, an excellent crop, which will encourage our farmers to go more extensively into seeding in future years. Fruit trees will not be abundant in some places.

Bird's-Eye View of New York.

To the Editor of THE TIMES. DEAR SIR, -In my last letter to you our pilgrim had disembarked and entered the portals of New York. We will accompany him on his march through some of the most noteworthy streets and squares of the lower part of the city, known as 'down town.' Taking the Battery as a starting point, which is now a prettily-arranged minor park and a comparative oasis amidst the feverish strife and turmoil incidental to a closely-packed business community, walking up Broadway a few blocks he soon finds himself in a perfect network of streets lying adjacent to Wall street, the great financial centre of the continent. Wall street, it may be here interesting to note, derives its name from being the site of the original wall which marked the boundary to the north of the city in the Dutch days. The first object that strikes the attention at the head of Wall street on Broadway is Trinity Church, its beautiful spire, the grace of which is generally admired, pointing probably to better things above, though to con-template the busy throng of money grabbers in front and about it which swarm like locusts, you may be pretty safe in assuming that they do not linger over such reflections. In the streets running parallel and at right angles with Wall for some three or four squares, massive and stately structures are to be met with, where the principal banking and railway business of the country is carried on. Wall street is about half a mile long, extending from Broadway to the East River, and on it are situated the Stock Exchange, the Sub-Treasury and the Custom House, a particularly fine structure. known as the Drexel Building, built of white marble, six stories high in the renais-sance style of architecture. Near it is the nearly every available building, are to be and have their being in this excited atmosphere of speculation—the gentlemen who manipulate the greater part of the stocks of the country. Let us halt here and use our analyzing powers, attempting a little study of human nature. The multitude of animate clay is vast, and the throng continues.

It is a field day in the stock market, and the excitement reaches a pitch approaching delirium which presents the aspect of a lunatic asylum out of doors. -If you are at all good at "placing" men, your keen eye will easily detect in the crowd about you bank messengers with bags of gold and parcels of securities, unobtrusive detectives, and the best of that class of gentry about here; office boys with marvellous cheek;

telegraph messengers in neat uniforms, carrying despatches, some of which will be apt to disturb the equilibrium of many a well balanced mind; railway magnates, with prowess greater than many kings; nobby clerks and muscular porters. This is the living picture presented to the eye-a scene that will not fail to rouse the most nonchalant. Amidst all this uproar the ear now and again catches some of the notes from a hymn ringing forth from the chimes of Trinity, but they may sound for ever more in the ears of the wolfish crowd about for all the impression they are likely to produce upon natures such as theirs-thor-ougly sordid. I have not been in the interior of the Stock Exchange during a time of excited speculation, but I am told that the scene approaches as near Bedlam

as well may be conceived. Nassau street is a busy thoroughfare, with many fine banking establishments. Strolling down

Wall street, which will repay any one interested in fine architecture, we cross Pearl street, where is the Cotton Exchange and wholesale houses of various kinds of merchandize. At the foot of Wall street is one of the principal ferries to Brooklyn, the great dormitory of New York. Not any of the down town streets afford more variety than Fulton, at either end of which is Washington and Fulton markets, on the Hudson and East River, respectively. This street is the approach to Fulton ferry. This ferry affords the chief communication with Brooklyn, and in the evening presents a very animated appearance. At these hours the ferry boats are packed with people jammed together, all kinds and conditions, like sardines in a box. In the street itself diversified things move to and fro. The shops are mostly small, but become better nearer the ferry, and approaching Broadway are to be found many large wholesale establishments. Every variety of stuff is offered here for sale, from pins and needles to an anchor. Fulton market is an interesting place to visit, and is remarkable for the display of fish on the one side, and its oyster shops on the other. The variety of the people who throng this street, the street car line and omnibuses, the drays, trucks and vehicles which traverse it, combine to make it an amusing ensemble. Standing on the corner on Broadway at the Post-office, nothing in the street life of New York is more striking. The crush of conveyances of every kind here is so great that it has become a chaotic mass, being repeatedly choked and requiring the greatest exertion of the police to disentangle the mass and set it in motion. Tall swearing to any extent is indulged in by drivers of omnibuses and truck men, and policemen howl and raise their clubs (using them often) in their attempts to clear the way. From Chambers street to 14th street Broadway presents an ever changing kaleidoscope; every de-partment of trade is represented here, save the more heavy articles of merchandize.

Every square is massively built, and during the busy seasons the pavement is so encumbered with boxes and bales that walking becomes a difficult feat. Within the above-named streets most of the wholesale trade of New York is confined, as well as in several squares on either side of that thoroughfare. For three miles up the change is continual, and during the walk you may notice some well known hotels, such as the St. Nicholas, Metropolitan, and the Grand

Central, eight stories high, and with marble fronts. We are now approaching "Stewarts," well known all over the Dominion by reputation. It is probably the largest establishment of its kind in the world, occupying an entire block. Only by entering it can you thoroughly appreciate its immensity.

In this palace of trade there is nothing that a lady cannot buy from a hair-pin to a carpet for her drawing-room. We are now at the Union Square, where "down town" may fairly be considered to have ended, but before concluding this letter it may not be out of the way to note some of the curious features of a Broadway crowd. It presents different phases at different hours. In early morning you will see the working people, sewing girls and clerks pouring into the street right and left, moving downwards. At nine or ten o'clock, business men who fill the counting houses and law

Mr. Parnell, whose health has been seriously impaired by the worry and vexations of his position as leader of the Irish party, has determined upon retiring from active politics for a brief period of rest among the Swiss mountains. The Canadains scored.a great success at Wimbledon on Saturday, when Lieutenant Mitchell, of the 32nd Battalion, won the Prince of Wales' Prize of £100. Three other members of the team won prizes in the same competition. In other contests members of the team also won prizes.

The Customs Department has made an extensive seizure of tea sent to Montreal from New York, consigned to a prominent firm, and entered as a direct importation to save the duty of ten per cent. The value of the consignment is variously estimated at from thirty to forty thousand dollars.

Small hopes are now entertained of a settlement of the difficulty between Chill and Peru. In the latter country all prospect of foreign intervention has died the United States having declared that they will take no further action in this direction unless officially requested to do so.

Mr. Bright, in announcing his retirement from the British Cabinet, stated in the House of Commons Monday that he regarded the proceedings at Alexandria as a lation of the moral law, and that he had afforded his countenance thereto by remaining in the Cabinet as long as he had done only on account of his high regard for Mr. Gladstone.

The fact is only worthy of note in that Mr. Cox makes a frantic effort to insult Mr. Lowell by speaking of him as "nominally American Minister to bound. From then until morning the street is given up to pleasure seekers, midnight prowlers, the police and the demimondane Great Britain, but really doing police duty or detective work under Lord Grandville."

Mr. Cox seems to think that the moon's course is influenced by the dogs baying at it.

"'I can't say as to that,' says I. "'Well,' says he, 'call your men up from forrard and we'll soon find out., "'No,' said I: 'I don't want no. thin' to do with that kind of business. You can look for yourself if you like.' "So he and his gang went forrard and hauled out the stowaways, and put 'em aboard their boat, and pulled ashore, appearin' to be satisfied. "As soon as they were gone,- half crazy, says to me: 'My God!' it's all up with me! What can I do? They'll come back for me, but I'll never be taken alive!'

"I knew he meant what he said; for the priest had told me he'd tried to commit suicide, and, if he couldn't escape, he determined to kill himself. I calmed him down; told him to go below and keep out of sight, and I'd I, 'You sha'nt be taken as long as I can stand by you.'

"I know very well that as soon as they got ashore those ticket-of-leave men would blow on him; and I really didn't know what to do. Things looked black.

"By this time it got to be dark, and I sat down by myself to think. Then I remembered a kind of locker under the stairs, where the steward sometimes kept the dishes he wasn't usin'. It was shut by pushin' one of he went to—and told him to go and find a little grindstone there was on the ship, while I kep' the men busy forward. When he came back I'd stop a spell and talk with the steward; and when he heard me talkin' he must throw the grindstone and his hat overboard, give a shriek and then run and stow himself in the | numbers nearly 12,000 officers and members,

"When I come along back I stopped and says to the steward, 'I don't know what will happen when those fellows come aboard to-morrow morning.-will never be taken alive. He'll kill some of 'em and kill himself, he threatened to do it in Australia.

"Just then we heard a great splash and a scream. 'What was that?' says

"'Its-,' says the steward; 'he's thrown himself overboard.' "Everybody heard it. The captain was off that day. I rushed aft, told the other officers and ordered out the boats. The men felt terribly. Every one of 'em was fond of him. We got out four boats and swept that harbor for hours. I was the last boat in. When I got aboard I found the second mate leanin' over the ship's side, cryin' bitterly. 'He's court his fate. He was in constant dispute gone poor fellow! here's his hat,' says he; 'the men have just picked it up. We never shall see him again.'

"There wasn't a wink of sleep on I put the flag at half-mast. Every-body was solemn as death.—'s wet hat lay on the hatchway. They all

One of the best things ever said by Travers, the Wall street broker, is to'd in the following story: Shortly after he had removed from Baltimore to New York city he met aupon Broadway and old friend from the former city of his residence. They were glad to meet each other, and fell into an easy chat. During the course of the conversation his friend said: "Why Bill, you stammer more since you have lived in New York—more than you did in Baltimore." "B-b-bigger place," replied Travers. This delightfulv illogical reason sufficed as an explana.

Just before the doxology Descon Bramley handed in the following note to the clergyman, who opened it and said, "Brother Bramley wishes me to make the following announcement:

MY OWN PET BRAM: Are you never comming to see me again? I am dying to see my darling once more and gaze into his beloved eyes. The o'd mummy that calls herself your wife will never find it out. How can you endure her? Come darling, to one who truly loves

Your own and only MARY. At the very first word Brother Bramley knew that he had handed up the wrong piece of paper. When it was finished, he arose amidst the consternation of the people and the anger of his wife and spoke thus:

BROTHERS AND SISTERS: It may appear strange to you that I should ask our beloved pastor to read such a terrible thing as that from the pulpit, but the best way to fight the devil is to fight him boldly face to face. The writer of that vile note is unknown to me, but is endeavoring to besmirch my Christian reputation. I shall use every endeavor to ferret out the writer, and, if discovered, will fearlessly proclaim her name and hold her up to the contempt of all good Christian people.

And then they sympathized with him and said she was a shameless hussy.

The Bad and Worthless

are never imstated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it has been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way was trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H.B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., money while the collectors are passing | with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style of name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or shown in the fact that Darwin left an in any way connected with them or their estate valued at $730,000. UNORTHODOX SURGERY

A Lesson in Dentistry.—The Latest Popular Craze,

Montreal has a new craze, restheticism is waning, and the morning salutation now is not "Are you intense?" but "Have you had a tooth pulled?" If your friend slips two fingers into his waistcoat pocket, two to one he pulls out a treasured molar, as a trophy of his mingled sagacity and daring. If the fashion lasts much longer Montreal will be toothless and the meat question will have found an unexpected solution. Meanwhile the dentists are not only gaining nothing by actually losing their everyday business. Their brass plates, and their operating chairs and their D. D. S. for a time have lost their charm, and all the swollen faces are turned towards the Champ de Mars, where the lady in the wonderful apparel and the eccentric surroundings is daily drawing teeth by the hundreds. As she makes no charge for her services, the regular practitioners cannot prevent her practising.

Yesterday, one of them, with a laudable desire to increase his knowledge of | will never take a girl riding again withdental surgery, or with a pardonable curiosity, climbed into the gilded chariot, and sitting down, asked, "What is the matter with this tooth?" at the same time pointing out a perfectly sound grin-

"Nothing," was the reassuring reastonished and angry dentist. This was more than the D.D.S. had bargained for, but his expostulations received little attention. Altogether the show is a great dental exhibition, the chariot is surrounded by a thousand or two spectators nearly all on the broad grin, and thus contributing to the dental exhibit. The horrors usually associated with dentistry are conspicuously absent; the patients climb into the vehicle in fear and trembling, and some of them, while apparently trying to indicate the identity of the offending member, are astonished to find it held up to be admired by the crowd. No time is wasted, as soon as the tooth is out, the patient is seized by the back of the neck by the lady and hustled out of the carriage to make room for another. Our reporter saw fourteen teeth taken out of a lady's head in an incredibly short time and the patient came up smiling. The band, seated on the roof of the carrisge, plays a lively accompaniment to the diverting performance. The practice is not, however, confined to dentistry; most marvellous cures of nearly all the ills that flesh is heir to are reported. A lady makes her appearance on crutches. and is assisted into the carriage apparent-ly with the utmost difficulty. The curtains, with becoming delicacy, are drawn and a moment or two later are flung open and the fair patient emerges and walks off without her crutches.

A gentleman who had lost the use of one side of his mouth, through an ulcer, was set to work in a few minutes to crack nuts with the teeth on that side for the diversion of the crowd.

Among the lady's distinguished patients is His Honor the Recorder, who at the Richelieu Hotel the other day, was engaged in pointing out a tooth which has long embarrassed the fountain of justice.

"Is this the one?" asked the lady, holding it between her finger and thumb, and justice was satisfied.

There are many theories as to the source of the lady's "power." Some say it is magic and some ascribe it to better sources and some to worse, and some deny its existence. Perhaps the best is that she is the seventh child of a seventh child .- Montreal Daily Star.

The Pocket Flask.

Frank Head, teller of the First National Bank of Moline, Ill., is one of the most splendid chaps in the State. He is a strictly honest treasurer of the church and Sunday school, and as temperate a person as ever lived, never drinking a drop under any circumstances. He invit-ed one of the brightest, sauciest, sweetest, darlingest girls in the city to go to a picnic with him, the other day, a girl who is so full of fun that it shows in hey eyes every time they wink. Frank went to the girl's house, put his overcoat in the buggy, and went in the house to wait for his charmer to get ready. There is a saloon near where she lives, and some boys that didn't have girls to go riding with were in there playing "seven up," when they saw Frank's buggy. In a moment they had decided to commit a wicked deed. They knew Frank was a temperance man, so they got a couple of small flat bottles of whiskey and put them in the pockets of his summer overcoat on the buggy seat, and went on with the game. Frank came out with his girl, looking as happy as a May morning, and she looked too cunning for any kind of use, and they got into the buggy and drove off, the boys watching them from the saloon. On the trip to Linwood Springs the young lady thought she detected a slight odor of some kind, and she told Frank that sometimes she had had a a faint suspicion, a vague surmise, as it were, that on unusual occasions, such as holidays for instance, that he might have taken a drink of the soul-destroying beverage, and asked him if he had not looked upon the wine when-it was red that day. With a pained look upon his face, he swore by the bald-headed, Elijah, who went up in a Roman chariot such as Coup's hippodrome uses, soaked in kerosene and touched off, that he never touched a drop. That seemed to settle it, and in fact she knew it all the time. Of course we did not follow the young people on that drive, but when they arrived at the hotel, and she got out, and he took out his coat and gave the horse to the hostler, there was a strange edor, like that given out by a government gauger when it is guaging, and one side of his coat was sopping wet. The young lady called his attention to it, and the other couples surrounded them, and Frank felt in the pocket and said, "What is this?" and brought out a handful of broken glass, a soaked cigar, a wet pair of gloves and a handkerchief that smelled like whiskey sour. "I must have got the wrong coat," said he, and she said, as she looked at the wreck, and knew somebody had played a joke on Frand, "Why, Mr. Head, I am astonished!" Frank felt as though he would sink, but he put his hand into another pocket and brought out a bottle that was not broken, and then he looked at the coat, the boys looked at him, and he turned white around the mouth. He felt at the elbow of his thought I felt something break about label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitaright, Frank," said one of the boys, who was a joker, as he winked to Frank's jolly partner, and she added, "Let's go in the house. You will feel better after you dring a little soda. I knew a fellow once who used to drink awfully, and he was all right after he took a little soda." They went in the hotel, and Frank, being more dead than alive, stood thinking it over, and wondered who was the author of his ruin. For an hour every time he would attempt to explain the matter the boys would look solemn and tell him it was of no account; that good men at times fell, but they reformed eventually, and became useful citizens, and then they would try to get him to change the subject, and tell him it was not as bad as the sudden boom in tooth-ache but are it would have been if he had got full enough to fight and bring disgrace on the party. He could have killed the fellows who perpetrated the joke upon him, and was getting so he almost wanted to hurt some of his companions who chaffed him, until finally they began to help him to think up the crowd that filled up his pockets, to punish them, when he regainhis cheerful characteristics, and the day was spent pleasantly, and all went home happy, resolved to find the enemy. But it is a dead sure thing that Frank Head

An exchange remarks: "A good reporter is always first cousin to a necrosponse, as the unoffending ivory came out | mancer, and can introduce himself to you and was slipped into the hand of the in such a genial way that for the time being, he seems like your long lost brother, who his anxious to show you the strawberry mark on his left arm in proof of his indent ty. You talk with him about the inner secrets of your life in a profuse sort of way, give him your opinion about the resumption of specie payment, and, as the conversation flows, freely unfold yourself on various other matters. He sits a silent and admiring listener, encouraging you by a nod when you are hunting for the right word, or possibly supplying it himself, and gives you the impression that he wouldn't disclose what you have told him -no, not for worlds on worlds. The next day you take up the paper, and, while carelessly looking over its columns, see your own name in capitals which seem to your astonished gaze as long as Bunker Hill monument. Every word you have said is there. That man with the strawberry mark on his arm was the small end of a speaking trumpet through which you unconsciously told the whole world all about yourself. He had no pencil or paper, and didn't evence any desire to write in shorthand. Oh, no; that is the clumsy way in which beginners work. His skill is not in his fingertips, but in his memory. He memorized every word you said, and reproduced it with perfect accuracy. The accomplished reporter is as nearly ubiquitous as a merely human being ever becomes, and is beginning to be regarded as a moral restraint in many respects superior to the Decalogue. A man in the olden time might possibly break the Decalogue and hide the pieces, but nowadays the moment the law is broken the quick ear of the reporter catches the sound and his persuasive lips compel you to tell him all about it. He is an animated interrogation point; a human corkscrew, who gets a deeper hold on your secret every time he turns around. His mission is summed up in the short, but terrible, sentence 'If you do it I'll Bucklen's Arnien Salve.

They instructed the Secretary to advertise for a competent and experienced man. Mr. Bald. erson gave no reason for resigning, but it is surmised that he has obtained some appointment under the government.

EXCURSIONS TO ROCHESTER .- On the 16th and 17th of August, excursions, per steamer Norseman, will be run to Rochester. One leaves Port Hope at 9.30 on the evening of the 16th, and the other at 10 a.m. the day following. The 17th will, in all probability, be the Civic Holiday here, and the excursions are likely to be well patronized. They ar under the auspices of Ever Ready Fire Co., No. 2, Cobourg, who go to Rochester to take part in the grand Firemen's demonstration. Races on the driving park will also take place the same week. The Cobourg band will be in attendance, and enliven the pleasure seekers on the way. Fare for the round trip, $1.50.

CANADAIN PRESS ASSOCIATION .-- A meeting of the Executive Committee of this Association was called by the President, to meet at the St. Lawrence Hall, Port Hope, on Monday evening last, to discuss with Mr. Leonard, General Passenger Agent of the Credit Valley Railway, a proposition to hold its annual excursion over that Co.'s route to Winnipeg. Owing to the trains being off their regular time, only Messrs. W. R. Climie, Secretary of the Association; C. D. Barr, of the Post, Lindsay; and J. B. Trayes, of THE TIMES, Port Hope, were able to be present, but they were so favorably impressed with Mr. Leonard's proposition that it is very likely their recommendation to accept his offer will be approved of. Mr. Climie goes to Torouto today to make final arrangments.

THE Globe's dishonesty in political matters may be excused by its most ardent supporters on the score of political expediency, but when it resorts to stealing dispatches from the Mail and publishing them in after editions as special cablegrams it resolves itself into what Artemus Ward termed a case of "cussedness" pure and simple. Every journal in the land should, figuratively speaking, point the finger of scorn at the Globe and cry:

> Out upon you, Fie upon you, Bold faced jig.

If this journalistic pilferer has not enterprise and capital enough to secure as full reports as the Mail, it should at least honestly acknowledge its obligations.

OUR up-street St. Jacobs Oil, "Kiss me," and Spring Blossom contemporary has been quarrelling with the Cobourg World about a political alphabet in verse-rhyme without reason-which the Powers that be, constructed while, like Robbie Burns, Guiding the plough handle. The World retorts thus:-"It is a well known fact amongst newspaper men that the papers which are least original in their writings always cry the loudest if anybody accidentally gets hold of one of their productions without parading its source; and we should, as a general thing, be a little afraid of crediting the Guide with anything outside of a necessarily original local, for fear of falling foul of some other in whose columns it had appeared before. * . * *

But especially, we hurry up to say that we are sorry the production was given a place in our columns at all." The Guide is very choice in its reply. It calls its Grit brother a blatant ass; his paper, a semi-occasional hepdomadal; a pompous pigmy; an egotistical, self-sufficient, all important papinjay; an inflated wind bag; a 7x9 blizzard. It will now be in order for our Cobourg confrere to recommend the journalistic adventurer of the Guide as chief compiler for the new encyclopædia

SABBATH BREAKING .- The case of the Midland Railway referred to last issue, was decided on Tuesday by the Peterboro' Police Magistrate. The substance of his ruling is contained in the following extract from the

The defendants were the hands in charge of the train referred to. The ordinary calling was to run that train on week days, from Belleville to Peterborough and return. They were not pursuing their ordinary calling in running an empty train to meet a special emergency, as this was shown to have been. He did not think it was such a case as was intended by the defendants to be a descration of the Sabbath, or that they thought they were doing anything but a work of necessity or running the train as they did. The necessities of life, society and business, now require that broader views should be taken of what is not at a work of necessity, than were required when the statue under which this complaint was laid was passed.

The case was dismissed without costs.

THE NORSEMAN .- One of THE TIMES staff had the pleasure of going to Rochester on the Norseman a few days ago, and was greatly pleased with the trip, the steamer, and the gentlemanly manner passengers are treated. Capt. Geo. Crawford is making himself very popular on the route by his kind, genial manner. He is an excellent sailor, and appears thoroughly to understand his duties. Mr. A. Forin, the Purser, has a difficult position to fill, but is always equal to the occasion. If he has thirty passengers or three hundred to provide for, he gives every one the best stateroom-consequently all are satisfied. Mr. James Riley is at his old post as Chief-Engineer, and he has been on the steamer so long that every one feels his duties will be properly discharged. Mr. Robt. McChesney, the mate, is putting in his first season, but has shown such good qualities as a seaman that RESIGNED .- On Monday morning, Mr. we hope he may become a permanent fixture on our popular steamer. Another new face is the steward, Mr. A. Stevenson, and as he has filled a similar position on the R. M. Line of Steamers for a number of years it can be taken for granted the tables will always be abundantly supplied. The dinner provided the other day was fully equal to that of our best hotels, and we hope Mr. Stevenson may be induced to become permanently connected with the Norseman. The steamer, with her recent repairs, is probably stronger than when she came on the route here, direct from the shipyard, new, and as her state room accommodation has been increased, she is in a position to give greater satisfaction to the travelling public than ever. The trip across the lake is a cheap and pleasant one, and the Torseman should be liberally patronized by our people.

MASONIC.

At the Annual Communication of Grand Lodge of A. F. & A. M. of Canada, which opened at London on the 12th inst., among those well known here elected to office were M. W. Bro. Daniel Spry, P. O. Inspector, Barrie, Grand Master; R. W. Bro. E. H. D. Hall, Peterboro' D. D. G. M. of Ontario District; R. E. Comp. Chas. Doebler, Grand Superintendent, Ontario District; and R. W. Bro. J. B. Trayes, as a member of the Board of General Purposes. The selection of M.W. Bro. Spry as Grand Master, though a surprise to himself and friends, gives the liveliest satisfaction throughout the jurisdiction. The meeting was a large and influential one, and exceedingly interesting. Many important subjects were discussed and passed upon of great interest to the Craft. Besides those named above from Port Hope, W. Bro. D. J. Goggin, W. M. of Ontario Lodge; W. Bro. John A. Cheer, W. M. of Hope Lodge, and Brother W. J. Robertson, were in atten-

CREDIT VALLEY RAILWAY.

Among the many friends we had the pleasure of meeting while in London last week, was Mr. Robert Cochrane, until lately connected with the Midland Railway, but now on the Credit Valley, with headquarters at St. Thomas. A few minutes' conversation induced us to promise to return home via St. Thomas, and a telegram to our good old friend, Mr. H. G. Taylor, brought us the pleasing intelligence that he would meet us there. Accordingly, on our arrival, we were met by Mr. Cochrane, and escorted to the hotel, where Mr. Taylor had preceded us a short time. St. Thomas is what may be fairly termed a progressive town, and we believe will, in the near future, be a large city, its railway facilities giving it considerable prominence. We were greatly pleased with the immense bridge of the Canada Southern Railway, which is probably unsurpassed in the Province. Our main object, however, in going to St. Thomas, was to have an opportunity of going over the Credit Valley road, and the trip well repaid the inconvenience of going a little out of the way, for the equipment throughout is unsurpassed by any line in America. The road-bed is thoroughly ballasted, the locomotives of the greatest power and latest pattern, while the passenger cars are the very best made, all of them being as good as the parlor cars on many other roads, and they ride fully as easy. The country through which the line runs is a perfect garden, scarcely an acre of poor land being visible between St. Thomas and Toronto. No more delightful railway trip can be found anywhere. We were greatly pleased with our run over the Credit Valley, and would recommend that route to any of our citizens going west. Our thanks are due to Messrs. Taylor and Cochran for so pleasing a trip.

A Young Man who Celebrates the Twelfth for the last time.

There are very few days of public cele bration which are not marked by the occurrence of some sad or fatal accident, either to man or beast. One of the most distressing which we have chronicled for a long time took place at Millbrook last Thursday morning between 3.45 and 4 o'clock. Three young men living some distance north of Millbrook, started from the village about 3 o'clock, considerably under the influence of liquor. They had gone north as far as the first crossing, when they apparently became overpowered with sleep and lay down on and near the railway track. One of them, George Haggart, lay across the rails, and was still there when a special train going north came along. He was struck by the cow-catcher and carried for a short distance, and, it is believed, would have been thrown off the track without serious injury, had it not been for the culvert at the crossing. When that was reached his body fell head downward, and the wheels passed over both legs at the thigh, cutting them completely off. The accident waked him out of his stupor, and he sat up and called to his companions for help, telling them that his both legs were cut off. He was immediately removed to the freight station and medical aid summoned, but it was evident that he could not live. At noon on Thursday, when our reporter saw him, he was suffering intense agony, and it required nerve to look at him. He died at 3 o'clock on Friday morning, and was sensible to the last. Some time before dying he was attacked with spasms. in which those who attempted to hold him were thrown from side to side as though they were mere children. He grasped one man's arm so tightly as to make him screech with pain. Four ministers attended him at his death-bed, and the last words he spoke were supplications for Divine mercy. Before dying, he called his companions to his side and warned them against the habits which had resulted in his own sad end. He was twenty-one years old, and possessed a strong, hardy constitution. One of his companions, at the same time, 'narrowly escaped a similar fate, his arm being pinched by the car wheels and a portion of his clothes torn off.

THE CIRCUS.

The great annual event in the life of every small boy, transpired on Monday, when Ryan & Robinson's Grand Pacific Combination made its appearance. Early on Sunday morning our citizens were roused from their slumbers by the sound of wagons and starting up and looking saw by the painted caravans that the circus had "arrove." There seemed to be a general feeling abroad, that this "only greatest" would not be extensively patronized, and it proved true. Farmers about this time are busily engaged having, and although farmer's boys would almost sacrifice a ton of hay to see a circus, yet no mount of entreaties will move "the old man's" heart at this particular season. A boy will hoe corn for a whole week with the zeal of a Trojan if the prospect is good at the end of that time, but in haying-you've got to make hay while the sun shines, and the agriculturist who would yield to the tender entreaties of his offspring and give up the chances of a safe day's harvesting for even the wonders of a travelling hippodrome, would be boycotted out of the profession. So, as our readers will already have inferred, there were not many farmers or farmer's boys to see Ryan & Robinson's show, no matter how strongly they yearned. The street parade was not the most striking we have seen, nor was the afternoon performance at all a success in numbers. In the evening the seats were about half filled. The circus' performance, although not extensive, was first-class, the riding being a special feature. Fine horses and fine riders are a particular attraction of Ryan & Robinson's Combination. The lady riders were simply "immense," and the riding of Robinson cannot be surpassed. As to a menagerie scarcely a pretense is made, although one or two zoological wonders are possessed. To the small boy who was prevented by the exigencies of agricultural undertakings, from being present, we would say: Grieve not, a greater is coming. Old Forepaugh and Barnum are on the strings, and when the hay and the oats and the corn and the wheat are safely stowed away the parental bosom will melt and you'll not only get a ticket but an extra five cents to invest in a long glass of red lemon-

THE FELLOW THAT LOOKS LIKE

ME." According to the Omemee Herald our town constables recently got hold of the wrong man. We noticed on the occasion referred to below that constables Reynolds and Gamble were keeping a sharp look-out for some one, but were not aware that they collared any porson. It says that one of their most respec table citizens, a young man, conceived the idea of visiting Rochester for the purpose of assisting in the celebration of the 4th of July in that city. All went well till he arrived in Port Hope, and was standing on the dock waiting to embark on the steamer when two men, one a police and the other a detective, walked up to our villager, tapped him on the shoulder and kindly informed him that he was their prisoner. After remonstrating for a short time he asked if he got a person to indentify him would it be all right, and being answered in the affirmative took them to another Omemeeite who of course vouched for the honesty of the prisoner, and he was let go. The man referred to asked the officers on what grounds they arrested the young man when they showed a photo and a telegram from Belleville to arrest such a person, seen, as he was wanted to answer to a charge of forgery. The picture is said to have resembled the young man very much. "Oh! wouldn't I like to catch him, Whoever he may be, Would'nt I give him particular fits. The fellow that looks like me." No doubt those were the sentiments of the young man as he was carried away on the steamer from Port Hope.

IT HAS A MEANING.

We observed this notice in the Cobourg World:- "A Convention of Reformers of the West Riding of Northumberland, for the nomination of a Candidate in the approaching Election for the Ontario Legislature, will be held in the Rooms of the Young Men's Liberal Club, Cobourg, on Saturday of next week, July 22nd, at 2 o'clock. All Reformers are invited to be present." This means that the Ontario elections are going to be on Irving, Ida Haseman. J. J. Soden, teacher, us shortly-possibly and very probably in September. Reform conventions are stirring up generally, and it means, or should mean to Conservatives not to allow the elections to be sprung on them.

PERSONAL.

Mr. D. J. Goggin intends taking a short vacation tour before settling down again to the laborious duties of his profession.

We are pleased to see that Mr. Daniel Spry, of Barrie, Post Office Inspector, was elected Grand Master at the recent meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge held in Lendon.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, president of the Midland railway, who is at present in London, England, has secured passages for himself and family in a steamship which will sail from Liverpool on Thursday, Aug. 10th. Before leaving, however, he intends to take a trip on the continent.

We notice by the Mail that the Rev. W: H. Laird, of Elm street church, Toronto, preached a funeral sermon on the late D. I. K. Rine. It is denied that this temperance lecturer fell back again into his old habits. It was over zeal, it is said, which turned his Although aged and his locks white, the reverend gentleman has not lost much of his vigor of thought. He is informal and pleasing in his style, and his sermon on Sunday morning, delivered extemporaneously, was relished by the large congregation present.

PROF. WILLIAMS is now moved into his new quarters, Queen's Hotel block, and has fairly got to work again. He claims to have the most complete tonsorial estab lishment in Port Hope. -
