TOWN COUNCIL.

Monday Night's Meeting an Exceedingly Amicable One.

Street Watering the Important Topic.

Monday, July 24.

Present—The Mayor; Couns. W. G. Stevenson, A. W. Pringle, J. G. King, H. A. Ward, H. H. Burnham, F. M. Beamish, A. Winslow, Wm. McKee and E. Budge.

were received from:

The Bursar of Toronto Trinity College with bill for $192 enclosed, as amount of interest due on the Park property.

Col. Williams M. P., setting forth that it was desirable that no delay should take place in choosing an eligible site for the new post office buildings, and asking for a committee from the Council to co-operate with him in securing the same.

Mrs. Paul, to the effect that it was something dreadful to take care of the indigent Mrs. Brien and asking for a grant of $3 per week. She said no tongue could tell the time she had with her, and the doctors state that she is in a very low condition and not long for this world. A change of clothing was also necessary.

FINANCE REPORT.

The following accounts were passed by the Finance Committee, and on motion ordered to be paid:

Men's pay roll..... $112 38
Robt. Orr, gravel..... 10 00
Levi Reynolds, 3 months as night watchman... 12 00
Reidson, collecting arrears..... 16 33
Montreal Telegraph Co..... 63
H. S. Henry, lathing and plastering..... 5 31

$166 52

Couns. Stevenson and Winslow recommended 12 new rubber coats for the firemen. A resolution to that effect was carried.

Couns. Burnham, King, and Stevenson were appointed a committee to co-operate with Col. Williams in selecting a site for the public buildings.

Coun. King seconded by Coun. Pringle, moved that a certain portion of the park be allotted for the purpose of planting shade trees. Coun. King in speaking to the resolution said that it was a very desirable thing to encourage and develop a desire on the part of our citizens to beautify the town. The great difficulty found by the corporation and private people was in getting shade trees from the nursery. If a portion of the park was prepared and a sort of nursery started, the re-plantation of trees would ensure their successful growth. In order that the practice should be cultivated, he thought it would be a good plan to allow any resident who wished to plant trees in front of his place to have the trees free, of course, first obtaining proper authority. The cost of the trees would be very little wholesale, and he strongly recommended the passing of the motion.

The Mayor—I think it is a capital idea indeed.

The motion was adopted unanimously. Coun. Budge gave notice that he would, at next meeting of Council, submit a By-law providing for the erection of a public school building.

Coun. King rose to discuss the question, but the Mayor said that a full discussion would be in order when the By-law was brought in, so Coun. King sat down.

Coun. Ward brought up the matter of a Civic holiday. He said the papers had advocated the 17th of August, and the time was getting short. He, therefore, seconded by Coun. Burnham, moved that the 17th of August be appointed as Civic holiday, and that the Mayor issue a proclamation to that effect.

The resolution was carried.

Coun. Burnham brought up the question of street watering. He said it was shameful the way it was done this year. Last year it was done better than for years, and he could not see why it could not be done this year as well. The main street was about the only part touched. If one man could not do it another could. The only satisfactory way to have the streets watered was to charge frontage tax.

Coun. Budge had been called on by one or two that day, and he understood a petition and a deputation were to have been present. A great deal of complaint had been made to him. The watering could be done more thoroughly if the water could be had from the main street, and he thought there was good ground for grumbling. He would go in for increasing the expenditure for this, $200. What was $200 to the wealthy people of Port Hope. It was no use in the world the way it was done at present.

Coun. McKee said that there was a great deal of dissatisfaction about the street watering. One part of the town gets all the water and another part, where there is more dust, does not get any.

Coun. King remarked that the discussion of this question always brings up the old score—watering one part of the town at the expense of all the rest. This is always brought up. He admitted that the town did not get all it really needed in the way of watering, but the committee were doing all they possibly could with the means at their disposal. The watering team had often to be taken off in order to keep the men employed at something else. The Committee on Streets and Bridges were almost dogged to death by people running after them. If the watering cart stopped at a certain point some person who lived near would know why it was not sent along further, and so on all the way around. The committee were doing all they could with what they have, and if all the town wanted watering, the best thing that can be done is to bring in a By-law providing for it and thus relieve the already over-worked committee of the responsibility. At present it was necessary to keep within certain limits.

Coun. Burnham—What are the limits? Coun. King—The old limits? From the Royal Hotel on Walton street to the old Bank of Montreal; on John street from the Baptist church to Lambert's Hotel, and on Queens street to McNaughton's saloon? There was a very great deal of difficulty in making satisfactory arrangements.

Coun. Ward thought it was a recognized principle that the watering of the main street was a necessity, and a benefit to all parts of the town. It was necessary that the business portion should be protected from dust, and consequently all who did business in or frequented the business portion of the town were equally interested. If there is not at present sufficient watering power, another team should be obtained, and the watering done properly.

Coun. Budge—Hear, hear! That's the idea.

Coun. King—Are we to stop the men working when we want the team on account of the watering? Sometimes we are forced to take the team off the watering cart for other purposes.

A Councillor—Put on another team.

Coun. King—We haven't work for two teams.

Coun. McKee—You neither do one thing or another. (Laughter.) You neither keep the streets watered nor keep the men going now. You might as well not do anything at all as not do either well.

Coun. Burnham thought it was all-important that the west end of Walton street should be watered. The greater part of the dust comes from up there.

The Mayor would not put forward the claims of Base Line being watered, although one-half of the people from the west come into town that way. (Laughter.) There was one thing; he thought the watering cart goes altogether too slow. You have almost to take sight by a telegraph pole to see it move.

Coun. Budge—The people are quite willing to pay for the watering, by frontage tax or any other way, but they want the watering to be done. They will pay any reasonable amount, providing the dust is laid low.

Coun. Stevenson gave notice that he would at next meeting of Council introduce a By-law providing that coal to be delivered to customers in any part of the town, should be weighed at the market scales free of charge. Council then adjourned.

WEST NORTHUMBERLAND.

Both parties in the above Riding are stirring themselves up to face the approaching reality of a local election. Last Saturday the nomination for Local Legislature was made by each party. R. Mulholland, Esq., of Cobourg, is the Conservative candidate and Mr. Field, M. P. P., the Reform candidate. Both nominations, we understand, were unanimous, and when the campaign opens we may expect a close and a hot fight.

The Conservative nominee whose executive ability has been evidenced by his success in business and whose integrity is representative of West Northumberland in the Local House. Of course it is unnecessary to state in which direction our sympathies run; not only do we desire, but we strongly hope to see the return of Mr. Mulholland.

Not only do we desire and expect this result, individually, but as an element in ousting Mr. Mowat, whose arbitrary and blumptious assertions and policy have disgusted so many, even among his own followers.

A WOULD-BE HORSE THIEF.

How an Enniskillen Man Succeeded in Selling His Mother's Horse.

On Saturday a man named Charles A. Markley, of Enniskillen township, rode into town on a horse, the sides of which were "a sea of foam." He put the horse in the stables of the British Hotel and made several unsuccessful attempts to dispose of the animal. He happened to be known by one or two parties in town, who became suspicious of him, and put Constable Gamble on his track. Becoming aware that he was suspected, he went to the stables of the British and asked for his horse. The hostler wanted his ticket, but was informed that the horse was paid for at the bar and "it was all right." The hostler went to the bar and found it was not all right. Mr. M. then cleared out and was not seen until Monday afternoon. Mr. Gamble arrested him about five o'clock, and he then said that the horse belonged to his sister, but that he had a share in it. He said he was going home again, but told another party that he intended going to Toronto and then crossing to Brockville. His hearing before the P. M. was appointed for Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. In the meantime, Constable Gamble telegraphed to his mother in or near Bowmanville, who came down on Tuesday and claimed the horse. She said the horse belonged to her, and that her son asked the loan of it to go out to a cousin's, some six miles away. On not coming back Saturday night, the family became anxious, but heard nothing until they received the telegram. Markley, it appears, works in the Bowmanville furniture factory, and said he was going out to harvest, but instead, he must have come straight to Port Hope, and although apparently sober when he arrived, he states that he got drunk and thus did not know where he was going. It is hard to tell what his intentions really were, as he made a great many contradictory statements. His mother, the horse and himself took their departure for home on Tuesday afternoon. Had he succeeded in selling the horse, the law would have had to take its course, and a term in jail been the penalty.

THE NORTHERN STEAMER.

The Northern steamer last week was unavoidably compelled to go off her regular route for a few hours to take the place of the Magnet, which through an accident was laid up a short time. A few of the Methodist Church Ladies' Aid Society excursionists, who were not aware of the change, were detained in Charlotte longer than was intended. This, however, the passengers did not seem to mind as they arrived home in good spirits, and all spoke highly of the kindness of the officials of the steamer.

MR. D. MARSHALL IN IRELAND.

His Speech at the Grand 12th of July Celebration in Ireland.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Belfast News-Letter containing a full report of the 12th of July celebration. The report occupies twenty long columns in the News-Letter, so that the last celebration of the Boyne victory must have been indeed a red-letter day in the history of Belfast. Mr. D. Marshall, as one of the delegates to the Triennial Council of Orangemen, occupied a seat of honor, and was in the carriage heading the procession. According to the report, the procession was a very large one, and some slight attempts were made by roughs to interfere with it, but without success.

Below we give the speech delivered by Mr. Marshall on the above occasion.

"Bro. David Marshall, Grand Master of Ontario East, Canada, in supporting the resolution, said:—Worshipful Grand Master, ladies, gentlemen, and brethren, I cannot find words adequate to express my thanks to you and the brethren of Belfast for the opportunity you have afforded me of participating in this celebration of the Battle of the Boyne. Though not a stranger in this country after an absence of forty years from my native land, I came as a delegate from Ontario East to represent the Grand Lodge at the Triennial Council which will meet in London next week. When leaving home I arranged that I should see one Twelfth of July in my native country, and my choice would have been to come amongst you had I not received a kind invitation from you to be present here to-day. I hope the meeting will bear with me when I rise to support this resolution, which is a general resolution, with regard to the encouragement and support the Orange Institution gives to order and constitutional government. (Applause.) I come from one of the Colonies where we are loyal and monarchical in principle, but also democratic, and I could not give better evidence of that than that I have been elected as Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East. (Hear, hear.) I hope this meeting will pardon me for any mistakes or blunders I may make in consequence of want of preparation, for I have never prepared a speech for an Orange or any other meeting. Let I should forget, I feel it due to you in Ireland, as a Canadian, that when leaving home I was asked was I not afraid to go to Ireland in the presence of places in Ireland just as quiet, peaceful, and contented as the place I left. (Applause.) I believed, and had a firm conviction, knowing what I did of my brethren in this land and the feeling of the Protestant population, there were places where an Orangeman was safe, where you could hoist your banners and celebrate the glorious anniversary as free and unfettered, and with as little danger as in the Province of Ontario, and I believe in no place more so than in the town of Belfast. (Cheers.) I will go back and tell the people of Canada that you are as progressive, peaceable, contented, and loyal as in any other portion of her Majesty's dominions, and that I had evidence of it in the large, peaceable, and respectable demonstration. (Cheers.) The progress of Belfast, from information I have received—its population, wealth, and increase of manufactures—will favorably compare with any of the western towns in the United States; and why should you in this town and province be annoyed by these Land Leaguers in the manner you are? (Orangemen.) Our sections which affect the Protestant religion or the integrity of the British Empire. Every Orangeman in Canada on his bended knees takes the obligation that he will support and maintain the connection between the British Empire and the Colonies—(cheers)—is bound to be ready to resist any attempt to dismember or weaken British influence. (Renewed cheers.) Are not those your principles in every colony? (Here, hear.) Have we not heard our brother telling us that in the antipodes they are just as loyal to the old truths and principles of the Orange Association as in Ulster? (Applause.) Time after time it has been said in Canada, 'Why bring your Irish Institution here? But those are days of the past. Those expressions were used thirty or forty years ago; but today it is looked upon as one of the institutions that should be depended upon, composed as it is of a body of men loyal to the Queen and Constitution, and who are ready to support and maintain to the last breath the flag that has braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze. (Loud Cheers.) It is sometimes said, 'Why continue to perpetuate these Orange demonstrations, which give offence to Roman Catholics?' Our reply is, 'Do away with our Orange celebrations, and they would ask us to do away with our Protestant churches. (Hear, hear.) There was a time in Canada when the Protestant population would not be allowed to go peacefully to worship God. They were not permitted to do so in the city of Ottawa and the city of Belleville; but the Protestant population of those towns organized Orange lodges for self-protection, and they are now as peaceable and as quiet cities as can be found in the British Empire. (Here, here, and applause.) A great many were of the opinion that by doing away with these celebrations, and endeavoring to conciliate the Roman Catholics, the present disastrous state of things would pass away, and the past be forgotten. I do not agree with them on that question, and I believe the boast of Popery is that it is unchanged and unchangeable; but it has the same persecuting spirit it always had, and it becomes necessary to be on the watch tower, just as it was at the glorious Revolution of 1688. (Cheers.) Lord Macaulay, after paying a very high tribute to the Apprentice Boys of the city of Derry in reference to their anniversary of the closing of the gates, says that the nation which takes no pride or glory in the achievements of their remotest ancestors will never leave any achievements worthy to be remembered by their remotest descendants. No better argument could be used in favor of the anniversaries which we are celebrating from one end of our country to the other. (Applause.) In Canada we are not all one-sided. It has been remarked, and I feel it is a curious position that our Canadian Parliament has passed a resolution approving of Home Rule for the people of Ireland; but Goldwin Smith hit the mark when he said that an election was in view, and it was pandering to the Roman Catholic vote; but I can say there is but one feeling—a universal feeling—to support and back the Orangemen of Ireland in their opposition to Home Rule in Ireland. (Loud cheers.) You could not get an Orangeman in Canada to approve of that resolution passed by that Parliament on that occasion. Before closing, I will only say I will go back to Canada and tell the people there I have seen those in my country—in this town of Belfast—just as cheerful and contented under the British flag as they are in any portion of the Dominion of Canada. (Prolonged cheering.)"

LACROSSE.

Last Friday afternoon an interesting lacrosse match took place at Penryn Park between the Lindsay lacrosse club and the Beavers of Port Hope. The day was fine and the number of spectators about 100. The ball was faced at 2 o'clock and the match continued until 5.30. The first game, a good one and well contested, lasted 33 minutes and was taken by Lindsay boys. 55 minutes was occupied with the second, which shows that the struggle was a hard one, being finally scored for our boys, Lindsay took the Port Hope boys, with remarkable dexterity, won in a minute and a half. With two games against two the fifth was to be tug of war, as it so proved. Both sides fought hard for about an hour, but at last the ball passed the Port Hope goal and the Lindsay team gained the day. All through it was a good game and a very fair test of strength. A black eye and a few bruises were the only casualties of the day.

The Beavers, of Beaverton, and the Independents of Millbrook, aided by one of our Port Hope team, had a match on Tuesday, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. and ending at 1.30 p.m. Millbrook won three straight games. This is the fourth match the Independents have played this season, and on each occasion they have come out victorious. They are a strong team and between Toronto and Montreal it would be hard to find their superiors.

On Whitty's civic holiday, August 3rd, the Beavers play the Oshawa's at Whitty for a cup valued at $25. Reduced rates will be granted on the G. T. R. that day.

It seems that all accounts do not agree in reference to the lacrosse match at Beaverton on Tuesday. A despatch in the Mail says:—"A match game of lacrosse was played here to-day between the Millbrook Lacrosse Club and the Beavers of the place. The first game was disputed, but was allowed to Millbrook by the referee. The next game was taken by Millbrook, and the third by Beaverton. The Millbrook men then refused to play, and left the field, and the referee decided the match in favor of Beaverton. The match was warmly contested throughout, and was characterized by very rough play, three of the Beaverton men and one Millbrook man being disabled by severe blows on the head. The game was witnessed by a large crowd."

At the conclusion of the lacrosse match between Millbrook and Beaverton the junior lacrosse club of Cannington and the junior Beaverton played a well contested match, which resulted in favor of Beaverton.

A wrestling match took place at Lindsay Monday night in the Opera-house between Geo. Mulchay, of Emily, and Robert Harrison, of Toronto, for $25 a side, catch-as-catch-can, best two out of three. The hall was crowded to excess, and there was a great deal of betting, about even. The contest lasted one hour and a quarter, and was won by Mulchay amidst the enthusiastic cheers of the audience.

"Jwine to de Pos' office."

"One of the oddest sights in the South is to see the negroes hang about the postoffices. They are the first ones to call in the morning and the last to leave at night, and it is by no means rare to have them inquire for mail ten or fifteen times a day. I was in the office at Marietta, Ga., when an aged Yankee hopped in and inquired: "An dar' fo' five letters heah for June-broke Duke?" "No, ar," replied the postmaster, after taking a look. "Well, den, I'll take one." "There are no letters for you." "Is't dar a newspaper?" "No." "Hain't I dan got uffin' tall?" "Not a thing." "Dat's curus—werry curus," muttered the man as he walked out. I followed after, and when I asked him if he expected an important letter that day, he replied: "Sartin I does. Dat's why I'se walked fo' miles dis mornin'." "Where was the letter coming from?" "I danna." "Who did you expect to write to you?" "I danna." "Did you expect news or money in the letter?" "D-nd Ledit, sah. I expected dat letter might hab $20 in it." "Who from?" "I danna, but I' speoted it."

Disease in the Schools.

I said, in my address at the Health Congress, at Brighton, what was quite true, that I had never in my life seen a healthy child, by which I meant that I had never seen a child that had not in it either some actual or latent constitutional disease. Touching the subject now in hand, it is equally true to say that it is all but impossible to find, in the board schools of our large towns, any semblance, critically viewed, of health. Constitutional taints, which under favorable circumstances may often be concealed, and which may or may not be apparent, are there. Various conditions of disease are there, independently of the tendency from heredity; there of themselves, in some irregularity of body or limb, in some imperfection of sense, in some deficiency of quality of blood, in some feebleness of respiration, in some nervous irregularities of function, in some shade of mental aberration. The field of disease which is presented in some of the schools situated in crowded localities is indeed a sight at once for anxiety and pity. To the eye of a physician who, like myself, has spent many years in dispensary practice, it tells a story which is absolutely painful, if he permit the results to be calculated out in his mind at leisure hours; if, that is to say, he compares what he has witnessed in his survey with what he has learned, from long observation, of the meaning of the phenomena in the history of life. It is not necessary to strip the children, percuss and sound the chest, examine the spine, or practice any of those refine arts of diagnosis with which he is familiar. He reads from the indications of temperament, of expression of countenance, of color of skin, of position of limb, of build of body, of gait, of voice, sufficient outward manifestation to discern what is the true physical state, what are the stamp and extent of disease, what is the vital value of the lives generally that are before him.—Dr. B. W. RICHARDSON, in Popular Science Monthly for August.

Ismail Pasha, who was deposed for the present Khedive of Egypt, his son Tewfik, has a villa at Naples called La Favorita, where he lives the voluptuous life of peace and plenty that Orientals of every class deem the end of all things. He has grown immensely fat during his exile, and sits all day long contemplating the bay of Naples, twirling his moustache and stroking his beard. He long ago forgot the events which have come to pass in Egypt, and declared that were he restored to power, he would make short work of Arabi and Tewfik.

Newspaper Work.

A few years ago the newspaper profession was looked down upon as nothing but a Gehennah for the wrecks and cripples of other professions. A reporter was the very name of social degradation. Now, however, it is different. Every one of the young men who have just left some alma mater believes that he can write, and that he has but to offer his services to be installed in some responsible position. How many are disappointed when the walls of a newspaper office could relate were they able to speak. Newspaper work is not a matter of writing, but of putting as many facts, and as much of them as is possible, in the briefest possible space. It takes a young man fresh from college a long time to find that out, and until that knowledge is obtained they have to suffer many a pang while seeing an editor's blue pencil making sad havoc with their elegant periods, nice illustrations and wordy introductions. If a man has not instinctively got an eye for news and the faculty of getting it expeditiously, he may "polish the sidewalk" for a lifetime and yet be no nearer the goal he started out to reach. The most remarkable thing, however, is the number of journalists who crowd into the profession of journalism by sheer persistence. One woman lays aside her natural talents, she becomes more pushing and irrepresible than a drummer, and thus many succeed in actually forcing themselves into positions. As a rule, they make good newspaperers in certain departments. A few of them are interviewers, and as such they have succeeded better than most men. But equally, as a rule, women make bad newspaper writers. They are prolix, and the natural female inclination for postscripts follows them throughout. Besides, they are generally awkward penmen, and have in an office. They are apt to be existing, and constantly claim privileges on the strength of the deference due a lady from a gentleman. City editors often find them the bane of their lives, and to male reporters there are twenty unpopular to one popular female scribe.—The Hour.

Some Men's Luck.

A cooper in Carniola, Austria, having one evening placed under a dropping spring a new tub, in order to try if it would hold water, when he came in the morning found it so heavy that he could scarcely move it. At first the superstitious notions that are apt to possess the minds of the ignorant made him suspect that his tub was bewitched; but at last perceiving a shining fluid at the bottom, he went to Laubach and showed it to an apothecary, who immediately dismissed him with a small gratuity, and made him bring some more of the same stuff whenever he could meet with it. This poor cooper frequently did, being highly pleased with his good fortune; till at length, the affair being made public, several persons formed themselves into a society in order to search further into the quicksilver deposits thus so unexpectedly discovered, and which were destined to become the richest of their kind in Europe.

What an Elephant Can Do.

Among the many curious things done by the trained elephants in the London show is a scene where one elephant, dressed as a clown, walks into the ring and sits down on a chair. Reaching out his trunk he picks up a dinner-bell on the table in front of him and rings it for dinner. A servant enters with a loaded tray and places a "square meal" upon the table. The clown elephant then helps himself gracefully to the various dishes, picks up a champagne bottle filled with water and empties it into his mouth. He then takes a napkin and wipes each side of his mouth. The servant removes the tray of dishes, and the elephant, picking up a palm-leaf fan with his trunk, leans back in his chair and leisurely fans himself. Professor Arthingstall, his trainer, proposed teaching him to smoke a pipe of tobacco, but Mr. Barzun remarked that his performers and army of employees were men of exemplary character, and his clown elephant should not be permitted to demoralize them by setting them bad examples.

THE "GLOBE" VIPER STINGING ITSELF.

The poor old Globe is catching it on all sides. All the little Grit papers and politicians who gathered the materials for their columns for their editorials and speeches during the recent contest are busy denouncing it for deceiving them so thoroughly as to the possible result. A few days before the disastrous rout the Globe gravely assured its readers that victory was sure—that there could be no mistaking the temper of the people—and that Ontario would give a majority of over thirty for Mr. Blake and Reform. This bravery in counting their chickens before they are hatched seems to be a weakness of Reformers, but the Globe comes in for all the blame, and nothing is considered too harsh to say about it. It must be galling to see Sir John Macdonald with a handsome majority from Ontario at his back, and the more so, when it is considered that his supporters have been returned by larger majorities than in 1878, when it was claimed the Conservative victory was won by deceiving the people as to the advantages of the N. P. Four years trial of it, the Globe thought, would be sufficient, and the obnoxious Tories would be sent to grass by as decisive a triumph of the Opposition as the defeat which took them from power,—the figures do not show such a result. In 1878 the total sum of the Majorities in every Riding in which the Reformers won was 4,630, and the total of the majorities in those won by Conservatives, 12,661. In 1882 the full returns have not yet been definitely stated, but so far as we have them they give: Total Conservative majorities, 16,039. Total Reform majorities, 4,568. Majority in favor of Conservatives, 11,471. These figures will be slightly altered by the returns of a few constituencies not included in the above, but the general result will not be affected. It is all very well for the Reform press and speakers to cry out against the Globe, but they should be generous enough to take some of the credit of their defeat to themselves. Reformers have lost their hold on Ontario, and they will find it a difficult task to regain it. The people are tired of quack statesmanship, and have expressed their preference for the genuine article. Until the Reform party can agree upon some platform by which they, as a body, are prepared to stand or fall, they will never emerge from the dark, cold shades of Opposition for which they are so eminently qualified as at present constituted—a party without a policy, disunited, suspicious of and divided in their allegiance to their leader.

If the Globe made an ass of itself in its fighting tactics, those journals and those politicians, who followed its lead are not less deserving a share in the approbrium of defeat. They should have the bravery to stand by it or the prudence to keep silent, and not now cowardly cry out: "It was the Globe what did it."

THE LOCAL ELECTIONS.

All indications seem to point to a dissolution of the Local Parliament this fall. Several facts point especially to this. There are now eight vacancies in the Local Legislature ranks and which will have to be filled before another session, and it is thought Mr. Mowat will make one job of the elections, as but one more of the natural term of years remains to expire.

Another suggestive feature is the number of nominations which are talked of and which have already taken place. Reform nominations over one year ahead would hardly be made if some sure prospects of a soon-coming election were not entertained. As it was in the Dominion election so it is likely to be in the Local, for Mr. Mowat in many things strives to copy after Sir John Macdonald. He is, however, a blundering plagiarist.

It is also said that private telegrams have been received from those in knowledge and power confirming the rumor. In fact, the Guelph Herald published a statement to that effect some weeks ago. From these indications and the generally felt feeling, there is no reason why the Conservatives of East Durham, or the Province on the whole, should be caught napping. We scarcely feel a shadow of doubt but what the elections will be sprung upon us sometime this fall, very probably in September or October.

It is not necessary to point out to the intelligent electors the consequent and prompt duty which devolves upon them. The policy pursued by Mr. Mowat is sufficient incentive to action of itself. As to that policy we will take pleasure in dealing with it in future issues; not only it but the characteristics of the gentlemen who have adopted it.

The election at Victoria, B. C., on the 21st instant, has resulted in sending two more Conservatives to the House of Commons to support Sir John Macdonald and his Government. Mr. DeCromon was one of the defeated, the successful candidates being Messrs. Baker and Shakespeare. There was great rejoicing over the victory.

HARBOR TOLLS ON COAL.

The report of the proceedings of the last meeting of the Harbor Commissioners, as published in our last issue, will have given our readers a little insight into the motives actuating some of the members of the Board. The conduct of Mayor Randall, particularly, stands out as being anything but favorable to the people of Port Hope. It will be remembered that during the recent election contest, Mr. Randall made it his special business to proclaim throughout the County that Port Hope was dead, and that our streets were crowded with men unable to obtain employment. This we disapproved at the time. Now, Mr. Randall undertakes the congenial task of endeavoring to secure special benefits for the residents of the town to the north of us, on the Midland Railway, in the item of the purchase of their winter's fuel. It will be observed that the Mayor moved the resolution to the effect "that tolls on all coal passing over the harbor be hereafter fifteen cents instead of twenty-five as heretofore." Col. Williams very properly pointed out that this would be an injustice to our local coal dealers, and also to every citizen purchasing coal in the town, as all coal for local consumption had then been received, and was in store in the yards of the Port Hope dealers. Mr. Benson opposed the reduction under any circumstances, except upon a guarantee that the increased quantity promised would pass over the harbor, believing that our superior shipping facilities placed us in such a position that in some matters other means of conveyance cannot successfully compete with us. While we believe Mr. Benson's position to be the proper one, yet, in our estimation, the securing of the delivery of the coal here for the Midland Railway and points north, would be such an advantage to Port Hope that we would be willing to see the tolls reduced to fifteen cents per ton, provided the consumers of Port Hope could also share in the reduction. Col. Williams very forcibly and ably urged, and his efforts were seconded by Mr. E. Peplow, that the word "hereafter" in the Mayor's resolution quoted above, should be struck out, and that the words "to take effect from April 1st last" be added. This was voted down, only the mover and seconder voting in favor of it. Our people will begin to see through the generous efforts of that wily "ward politician," known so well abroad by his parading himself as the "Mayor of Port Hope," who, thanks to a hint from a friend, voted for the last amendment prepared by Col. Williams. We are sorry that in the course of the discussion Mr. Mulligan impugned the motives of Coun. Stevenson, who, we believe, was nearly innocent of any connection with either his brother, of Peterboro', or the Midland Railway, in recommending to the Council the proposed reduction; at the same time, we give Mr. Mulligan credit for the sincerity of his opinion.

We believe with Mr. Benson that the Town Council has no more right to dictate to the Harbor Board than any other equal number of citizens, and it would be unfortunate for the interests of the town if the Harbor Board should be made amenable to the Council. We feel convinced that was not the intention when the Board of Harbor Commissioners was created; and the town interests will suffer should such a course ever be carried out, or the Commissioners be elected directly by the people. Of course, at a meeting in which any one ventured to express an opinion, in which he did not agree, it would be impossible for the Chairman of the Board to abstain from making himself offensive. The whole responsibility and interests of the Midland Railway would seem to rest on his shoulders, and he drags the Railway into contempt by the persistent advocacy of its cause. The Midland Railway suffers ten-fold greater through Mr. Ross' support than it would if he had neither a seat in the Harbor or Railway Boards. Either Mr. Ross should retire from the Harbor Board or from the Railway. It would then be possible for him to advocate the interests of the body with which he was connected, whereas now whatever course he takes is viewed with suspicion, and we are mistaken if the Railway Co. do not recognize this fact before long.

Our people cannot fail to see the awkward position in which Mr. Randall has placed himself, and we trust they will bear his conduct in mind. Mr. Benson pinched him sorely in regard to his pre-tended tie shipments, but his actions for some time past of being "all things to all men," with a view to the accomplishment of selfish ends, has sunk him so low in the estimation of our people, that we presume even this will not cause him to be looked upon with greater suspicion. The Mayor's resolution finally passed, with a discrimination of ten cents a ton against the people of Port Hope; but we trust the Board at its next meeting will insist on having it altered, for it is certainly unreasonable that the dealers of this town, who have made their importations early, should have to pay ten cents more a ton harbor tolls than the dealers in the towns to the north of us. In addition to this, our local dealers are entirely deprived of their Northern trade, for, with a discrimination of ten cents a ton against them, they cannot possibly sell a ton for export.

We recognize the necessity of yielding in the matter of tolls, to the exigencies of transportation, and we are prepared to consent to reductions, when it can be shown that we will be gainers thereby; but the least our townspeople are entitled to is that they shall not be worse off than strangers.

PREACHERS' PRIVILEGES.

The case of Winslow vs. McDiarmid has given rise to a very considerable amount of discussion, speculative and otherwise. The privileges, or the scope of a minister, is one of the points involved. This is certainly a free country, and so far as law is concerned, a man as a writer or speaker, is allowed to go to almost any length, not absolutely slanderous. A minister in the pulpit has the unassailed privilege of speaking out his mind freely, and while it is generally supposed that he will confine himself to religious subjects, yet the only limit is one of expediency. The question of introducing politics, temperance, etc., in the pulpit, have always more or less been debatable points. Still, we imagine, the great majority of people regard a minister as a sort of moral overseer, whose privilege it is, as well as his duty, to denounce wrong in any shape. It will be further conceded that he has the right of criticizing the action of public characters, acting in any public capacity.

If a preacher consider that a circus exerts a bad moral influence, we can hardly dispute his right to say so. So with the liquor traffic, gambling, dancing, or any other feature or practice considered by orthodoxy as questionable in its effects. On the other hand, the enlarged views of this age make it a very debatable question as to what attitude should be assumed, denunciatory or argumentative. As we remarked before, no one will question the legal right of a minister to say almost what he may please; it is rather a question of expediency. In all due deference to the ministerial and scholastic authority of divines, it is useless to deny that very strong grounds can be taken on both sides of such questions as hinted at above, and one can hardly escape the appellation of intolerant, who will refuse the right of others to take justly opposite views.

Now, then, as to the particular point at issue. No one will deny Rev. Mr. McDiarmid the right to make use of the language he did two Sundays ago, but very many, we are safe in saying nine out of ten, doubt the wisdom of his remarks. We mean, in particular, his personal reference to Coun. Winslow. We have no hesitation in saying that such was not only inexpedient, but entirely uncalled for. The imputation that Coun. Winslow had used his public position to advance his pecuniary interests is not a just one, and not borne out by the circumstances in connection. We admire the rev. gentleman for having the courage of his convictions, neither do we question his sincerity in the matter, still it is one of those extreme views which, though not culpable in a legal sense, leaves the expounder very much to blame. Such expressions are liable to, and as the sequel shows, did give serious offense. Expediency, according to Paul, is a very potent element in advancing the cause of Christianity, and we think we echo the feelings of every member of Mr. McDiarmid's congregation, when we say that, at least, he was imprudent.

On the other hand, Coun. Winslow was indiscreet in his subsequent action, because the extremity or severity of Mr. McDiarmid's remarks was not sufficient to warrant a recourse to law, although, we grant, he or any other person has a perfect right to make a minister as well as any one else, answer for damaging statements from the pulpit. We think that as in the case of Mr. McDiarmid, the consensus of opinion is against his course of action; in other words, both gentlemen are considered by the public as being imprudent, although no one will question Coun. Winslow's right to be indignant, or Rev. Mr. McDiarmid's at being brought before the Police Magistrate. Altogether, the circumstances are unfortunate.

In criticizing these gentlemen we take the same position as Rev. Mr. McDiarmid, that persons occupying public positions are liable to criticism on account of their public actions or statements, and we refer to it in a sense of justice to both parties.

A letter from Mr. Winslow on this subject, taken from yesterday's Mail, appears in another column.

Bob Ingersoll is defending the Star Routers in their celebrated trial. This fact practically demonstrates his disbelief in a hereafter.

According to a table recently published, there are 13,830,349 males in the United States. Of these over 8,000,000 are native whites, 3,000,000 foreign whites and 1,487,344 colored. Therefore one-third of the male voters are foreign and one ninth colored.

The reform of the spelling of the English language is nearer at hand than some people imagine. Everyone admits that the present mode is arbitrary in the extreme and militates against the acquirement of English by foreigners and wastes the time of English speaking children in trying to master its vagaries. The great majority of philologists have pronounced in favor of re-organization of the alphabet and of spelling phonetically. The opinions thus held by these reformers are gradually spreading among the body of the people and now spelling reform associations are becoming quite common in both America and England. The reform is bound to come; what is most wanted is that the change shall be intelligently brought about and that can best be secured by some understanding between the English philologists and grammarians in America and in the old country.—Toronto World.

BRIEF COMMENT.

Fanny Parnell, the celebrated Land Languer, is dead. She died suddenly of heart disease; thus is added another to the list of heroines.

Ex-Monk Widdowhas gone to Ireland, and it is to be hoped for the sake of the cause he has polluted so long in Canada, he will stay in Ireland.

A correspondent of the London Free Press desires to know who is the false prophet now operating in upper Egypt. Probably he is a leading Grit editor, who ran away after the 20th of June last.

Belleville is to have two new manufacturing establishments, an agricultural implement manufactory and an edge tool factory. The tall chimneys are "looming up" quite fast enough to satisfy the demands of even Sir Rich'd Cartwright who a year ago was searching so anxiously for them. "Tall chimnies" is a figure of speech not now used very often by our Opposition friends.

The success of the Canadian team at Wimbledon is very gratifying indeed. What with our Canadian riflemen, weather prophets and oarsmen, Canada is receiving an unusual share of advertising in foreign countries. It will be noticed that the physical development of our people has, so far, earned for them their greatest successes. Let us strive, like the Grecians of old, to keep our intellectuality in pace with our athleticism, and vice versa.

Few editors or newspaper owners get to be as wealthy as James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald. Already worth between six and seven millions of dollars, his income from his papers exceeds $400,000 per annum. He has just built a nice yacht for his own pleasure, which is 216 feet long and magnificently furnished and decorated. 150 electric lights illumine it at night.

A lady who visited the Canadian exhibit at the Centennial Exhibition has been telling a Philadelphia editor about the eccentricities of Canadian governors. During the exhibition the Lieut. Governor of Ontario visited the Canadian department, and after he left there was found in the visitors' book, in gigantic letters, the following inscription, "His Honour D. A. Macdonald, Lieut Governor of the Province of Ontario." Later on Lord Dufferin called in. When he went away the visitors' book contained the word "Dufferin" written in modest and diminutive characters. This is a suggestive story, says the Mail.

We referred in last issue to changes proposed by the Minister of Education. The following are those foreshadowed:— (1) The Government intend to make two long Normal School terms instead of three short ones at present. (2) Teaching to be of a more professional character. (3) Terms of County Model Schools, are to be lengthened. (4) There are to be only four divisions in the Public Schools, the same as in the Provincial Model Schools, instead of six divisions as at present. (5) The course in the Public Schools is to be of a more flexible character, i. e., there will be more optional and fewer compulsory subjects.

It is strange why the New York Sun should continue its bitter attacks upon the memory of Garfield. While his example has been held up to us as worthy of all following, the Sun says it "is one to be shunned politically, personally and morally." It lays charges at his door which very few at least in Canada have ever heard attached to the reputation of the deceased President, and which, if true, would destroy all respect and reverence esteem for Garfield. In a recent issue it says:—

"When Garfield was named as a possible candidate for the Presidency, before the meeting of the Chicago Convention, the Cincinnati Commercial promptly and sternly condemned the idea. The ground of opposition to him was his notorious want of integrity and his connection with the 'moth contracts' and other jobs at Washington. Every word uttered by the Commercial at that time was literally true; but only a fraction of the truth was revealed. Garfield's record was so bad in Congress, and so notorious in jobbery and in morals, that it was feared he would sink the party if put forward as its chosen leader.

As so much has been said about the territory Mr. Mowat claims belongs to Ontario, the following from a correspondent of the Winnipeg Times, who has recently passed over the Thunder Bay Branch of the Canada Pacific Railway, will not be without interest to our readers:—

"The country is throughout its entire extent a wilderness in the fullest meaning of the word; but a grand and mighty wilderness it is, grand in its mountains that kiss the sky; grand in its rushing rivers, in its misty gorges, in its limitless and lovely lakes; grand even in its solitude and all its rugged beauty. Settlers there are none. Here there is no home for the husbandman. The stud of nature may learn many a lesson here; the artist, the angler, and the sportsman may each reap pleasure and enjoyment here; those great hills may have vast stores of wealth buried away beneath their iron-bound breasts; and even those far-off forests may some day reward the labour of man. But the plough would be a useless implement on these hillsides. You couldn't put a crop in the crevices with a shot-gun. In some of the valleys small patches of potatoes and oats may be grown, but the labor would be wasted after all. It may safely be said that there is not one acre of arable or pasture land for hundreds of miles. Mr. Mowat says that should Ontario lose this disputed territory, she will be robbed of millions of dollars worth of timber and minerals. So far as the latter is concerned, nobody knows anything about it. As for the timber, there may be forests worth the cutting in remote districts, though of this there is no substantial evidence. Certainly near the line there is not an acre of one good-sized tree to every hundred acres. The contractors may have removed all the large ones; yet the general appearance of the country presents no indications of those vast pineries we have heard so much about.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

LONDON, JULY 22.—The Khedive has formally dismissed Arabi Pasha from his service, and has issued a proclamation to the Egyptian people calling upon them to support the English.

The first brush with Arabi's forces on land took place six miles from Alexandria on Saturday, when a party of two hundred and fifty mounted rifles met some of the insurgent cavalry. After a few shots had been fired the Egyptians fled, and the riflemen completed the work of blowing up the Cairo railway, which was the object of their mission. Arabi is said to be well supplied with provisions and ammunition, but his forces are not increasing. An effort is being made to induce the Bedouins in his army to return to their allegiance to the Khedive.

The confidence in himself which Arabi Pasha possesses is really wonderful. He has presented an ultimatum to the Sultan, threatening him with deposition and the appointment of a member of a rival race as Caliph of the Moslems if Turkish troops intervene in Egypt. An advance was made by a small force of British on Saturday, and a portion of Arabi's line, which afforded him a means of advance on Alexandria, blown up. Reports from the interior convey news of horrible atrocities committed upon Europeans and Copts, as the native Christians are called. A spy and messenger of Arabi has been captured on a steamer from Constantinople and important documents secured. He has confessed and given much useful information.

LONDON, July 25th.—Turkish intervention in Egypt is now said to be out of the question, as an expedition could not be sent from Turkey without reducing the garrison at Constantinople, and recalling troops from the distant provinces.

It is reported that Arabi Pasha, learning of the despatch of Indian troops to Egypt, has sent a reinforcement of nine thousand men to Cairo. In the meantime he and his troops have been driven out of Ramleh by the British, who are now in possession of the place.

The British troops had another brush with Arabi, their object being to occupy Ramleh, which they succeeded in doing without the loss of any men. In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Gladstone moved for a vote of credit to defray the expenses of the British expedition. He defended the action of his Cabinet, and pointed out the necessity which existed for restoring order in Egypt and maintaining the neutrality of the Suez Canal. Further than supplying a force of 6,000 marines to protect the Suez Canal, the French Cabinet will not participate in the operations. It is known that two of the Khedive's Ministers are in constant communication with Arabi, and their deposition and arrest has been recommended by Admiral Seymour.

LONDON, July 26.—The Queen's message calling out the reserves in England will be considered in the House of Commons to-day. The Turkish Prime Minister has prepared a report asking the conference to modify the terms on which the Porte may intervene in Egypt. Lord Dufferin has been instructed to insist upon an adherence to the original note.

The British military operations in Egypt progress slowly. Arabi is strengthening his positions, and the English cannon well assume the offensive till they have a sufficient number of guns in place. Ministerial explanations in the House of Commons seem to indicate that more than a three months' campaign is not anticipated.

There is no appreciable change in the state of affairs at Alexandria. The British troops are keeping a close watch upon Arabi's movements and holding him in check. At Aboukir, under cover of a flag of truce, Arabi is making desperate efforts to strengthen his already strong position in the breach of being able to withstand the British troops. The Khedive has at last summoned courage sufficient to appoint Oman Supti Minister of War in place of the rebel Arabi. In the French Chamber, deputies yesterday opposed the war credit, and several deprecated French intervention in any capacity. The feeling in England is one of impatience at the necessary delay in embarking troops. The Queen's Message calling out the reserves was read in the Commons yesterday, and the debate on the vote of credit for war purposes was resumed. Italy has been invited to join France and England in their intervention, but her policy is not yet definitely known.

The Preacher and the Town Council.

To the Editor of The Mail.

SIR,—As the report of this case published in your issue of Friday last is most partisan and unfair in its version, I will, with your permission, give you the bare facts.

Though not a member, I attended the Rev. Mr. McDiarmid's church the Sunday before, and was astonished and naturally very much annoyed at hearing a personal allusion to myself in the course of his sermon. Now, I submit that while the preacher has every right to point out and condemn what he may consider the evils and abuses of social life, he entirely goes beyond his province when he begins to indulge in personal allusions. To take such advantages of the pulpit, where the individual vilified is unable to either reply or defend himself, is, I think, universally conceded to be a cowardly abuse of his privileges; and as to the sympathy treated in this affair being entirely on the side of the Mr. McDiarmid (on account of my taking the only means I had of legally replying, viz.: by prosecuting him for using vexatious language in his personal application), it is I think very much the other way.

I believe it is most unusual for the pulpit to be used as the place for criticism of individuals in their public capacity by fair-minded clergymen, nor does it seem to me in accordance with his privileges; and as to the religion they profess to preach of peace, charity, and good will towards our fellow-men, for themselves to indulge in vindictive insinuations. As a member of the brewing firm of Ambrose & Winslow (not an employe, as your prejudiced correspondent put it), it seems strange that I cannot act as one of a committee of the Dominion Day Sports Association without having my motives impugned because possibly there may be a few more glasses of ale, as well as other refreshments, sold on that day. In his defence of the matter, Mr. McDiarmid said it was the traffic, and not the man, he aimed at; but a perusal of the objectionable sentences of his sermon will show to what extent he confined himself to this.

His animus is in fact clear, and whatever extreme and intemperate views he may have on temperance questions, he is before all extreme as a Reform politician, and this is not the first time he has made use of his pulpit for venting his spleen against those who have prominently identified themselves with Conservative issues, as on a recent occasion he took a similar opportunity of criticizing the conduct of our popular member, Col. Williams, as a public man, greatly to the annoyance and indignation of the Conservative members of his congregation; and having actively identified myself with this side of politics during the recent elections, there is no doubt but that he was ready to attack me on the first and most trivial opportunity, and took his cue from an editorial in the previous week's issue of the local Reform paper.

With this explanation of the true "inwardness" of this case. Yours, &c., A. WINSLOW. Port Hope, July 23,

ROUND ABOUT US.

An Epitome of District Intelligence Gathered from Various Sources.

Lindsay's civic holiday comes on the 10th of August.

A new station is to be built at Keene's on the Grand Junction.

On the civic holiday in Lindsay, the Methodists go on an excursion to Toronto.

A man with a beard falling down below his knees, exhibited himself in Kingston the other day.

The young man Rice, whom we mentioned last week as straying away from his home in Oshawa, has returned.

Mr. Nevin, of Seymour, had two ribs broken by being kicked by a colt while attempting to harness it.

Rowell Chapin, of Lakefield, has been appointed Division Clerk in the stead of J. H. Davis, resigned.

Recently the date of the Lindsay and Oshawa was made on the Midland Railway in fourteen minutes.

A scholarship amounting to $40 has been donated to Knox College, to be won this year, by Mr. Mulholland of Cobourg.

Dr. Fielding, of Bowmanville, has decided to go to England as a permanent resident. Before going he was tendered a banquet by the citizens of that town.

Prosperity seems to be the lot of the proprietor of the Brighton Ensign. He has added a new cylinder press to his printing plant.

Campbellford is to have another minister. Efforts will be made to have a Presbyterian preacher stationed there and thus receive services twice a day.

The Rev. Father Brettbragg, late of Trenton, has arrived in England, from whence he will go direct to Rome to lay his case before the Pope.

The material has been purchased and arrangements made by the Midland authorities to have a large and convenient platform erected at Hutton's grove, adjoining the railway track.

The position of Head-Master for the Bowmanville High School, over which there has been so much trouble, has been filled by engaging Mr. W. Tamblin, of Oshawa High School.

On Tuesday last Messrs. J. Davis, W. Pasmore, and A. Davis, of the yacht Delta, from Port Hope, ran in here on their way to Toronto. The Delta is a tidy looking little craft.—Bowmanville News.

Col. Stevenson and Mr. H. Shackell, of Montreal, directors of the new paper mill in Lindsay, were in town last week, making arrangements for stock for manufacturing.

A brisk business is being done near Campbellford, in the capture and exportation of frogs to New York market, where the meat brings 39 cents a pound. People who complain of beefsteak being dear should ponder this over.

Mrs. David Cooley has left at this office a strange curiosity. It is the body of a chicken with four legs and two wings. In fact it is two chickens, though closely united up to the skull, for this double bird has only one head.—Peterboro' Review.

The Lindsay Post, in its last issue, says:—A party of young fellows from Port Hope passed through town Thursday afternoon. They go by canoe through the chain of lakes down to Lakefield, serving an apprenticeship to the paddle on the Pacific Seagoing of the first twelve miles. The certainty of a pleasant trip is before them.

The Globe says that in connection with the Toronto & Ottawa (now the Midland), it might be stated that 400 men are now at work between Peterboro' and Oshawa, and about 450 men between Bridgewater and Perth. The piece between Madoc and Bridgewater has just been completed.

In every window of the weave room of the Trent Valley Woolen Mills, the girls employed therein have made a show of flower pots and flowers—certainly a taste for the beautiful. Flowers also thrive in the yard in the office, and the interior of the building as well as the exterior is as neat as a pin.—Campbellford Herald.

The Globe's theory of degradation amongst female employees in factories does not seem to have much support in the above facts.

The meaneast story on record comes from Campbellford. A new church was being built, and in laying the corner stone a number of coins and other articles were placed therein. During the following night some parties knocked off the top stones and stole the money, bible, and everything worth taking. Stealing the coppers off a dead man's eyes isn't a circumstantial case to this.

In his oration address at Trenton, Bishop Cleary stated that the Protestants of Trenton owed him an apology for interfering in the internal affairs of the R.C. church at that place. The Advocate says an apology is due but not from the people in question. It declares the Bishop to have been wrongly informed by certain busybodies, and persists in vindicating the conduct of Father Brettbragg.

Says the Oshawa Herald: A remarkable coincidence took place in the meeting of the bodies of Mr. Robert Kennedy, of Lindsay, and Mrs. Killaly, of North Vernal, they being brother and sister—Mr. Kennedy being the eldest son and Mrs. Killaly, the eldest daughter of the same family. Each died of a lingering disease within nine hours of each other, and their remains met and were buried together.

Dugald Campbell, Esq., one of the oldest and most respected residents of this section, passed off the stage of life on the 14th inst. at the advanced age of 86 years. He was in mercantile business here a long time ago, but retired many years since and lived with his brother Donald Campbell, Esq. He has been completely enfeebled for several years, and was a bachelor. His remains were interred on Sunday in the Harbor burying ground, and were followed to the grave by a large number of sympathizing friends.—Colborne Express.

Says the Peterboro' Review:—It is currently reported that a co-operative society is about being formed in town to open a butcher's shop, to embrace other staples for domestic use hereafter. The high price of meat has led some men of experience to figure on the matter, and the conclusion they have come to is that they can pay expenses, make 8 per cent. profit, and have their beef and mutton 20 per cent. cheaper. Toronto markets are down 2 cents a pound this week, but there is no change in Peterboro' prices.

The Campbellford Herald says there are now three men employed in that vicinity in the capture of the frog, and the exportation of the meat, viz: Messrs. Christopher Keller, Frederick Hill, and John Brady. On Monday morning last they shipped 115 pounds, and since the first of June, when they first commenced operations, they have shipped between 700 and 800 pounds. They have been catching in the river between Heeley Falls and Hastings, but on Tuesday last they changed their "fishing" grounds to Rice Lake. The meat is shipped to Fulton market, New York City, Albany, N. Y., and the Thousand Islands, and the Thousand Islands. At each of these places it sells at 30 cents per pound. The frogs are caught at night with the help of a jack light, by means of which they are easily approached and captured alive. They are put into a barrel alive, and the catchers do not kill the little creatures until they have a quantity sufficient to make a shipment.

They are trying to work up a new band in Lindsay.

A despatch from Cobourg, dated July the 21st, says that about eight o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the dust room in the north-west wing of Alexander Poe's large flour mill, and in a very few minutes the whole mill, which was frame, was totally destroyed, together with the contents. The brigade worked on the gates of the dam, which they saved. Had those gates been burnt, a great loss of property would have occurred, as it would flood all the west part of the town. The cause of the fire is unknown. Loss $25,000. The building was insured for $8,000 as follows: The English Royal, $6,000; the Lancashire, $2,000. The stock was insured for $5,000, as follows: Commercial Union, $2,000; Western, $2,000; Millers' Mutual, of Hamilton, $1,000.

Cavan Council.

Friday, 7th July, 1882. The council met in the Town Hall, pursuant to adjournment. Present—Mr. Campbell, Reeve, Mr. Ferguson, Dep. Reeve, and Councillors Boyd, Donaldson and Sanderson.

The minutes of proceedings at the last sitting were read, approved and confirmed. Communications were read: From the County Clerk of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, giving notice that the following Rates were required to be levied and raised in the township of Cavan, for the year 1882:—

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. For County Rate, $ 1198 60; For General School Rate, 468 00; For Gravel Road Debiture No. 9 (the last), 2734 34.

From the same, giving notice that a Hawker's License had been issued to J. M. Jackson, for 6 months. From the Clerk of the Township of Manvers, enclosing copy of a Resolution passed by the Manvers Council, granting ten dollars respectively, to Kennedy's and Soper's Hills, on the boundary line between Cavan and Manvers.

Councillor Boyd presented a petition from Alex. Jones and others, asking the Council to close the diverted road on the North part of lots 3, 4, 5 and 6, the 14th concession, which was read and received.

Mr. Ferguson verbally reported that he had made an agreement to purchase from Mr. J. Allen Cathcart, a quarter of an acre of ground on the west corner of lot 19, 10th Con., for the sum of $20, and that Councillor Sanderson and himself had made a similar agreement with Mr. George Long, for about half an acre of gravel on west half lot 6, 10 Con. The report was received and adopted.

Councillor Boyd gave notice that at the next sitting of the Council, he would introduce a By-law to close the diverted road, referred to in the petition of Alex. Jones, and others; and on motion of Mr. Sanderson, seconded by Mr. Ferguson, the Clerk was instructed to give all lawful notice of the proposed By-law for closing said road.

Moved by Mr. Boyd, seconded by Mr. Donaldson,—That Messrs. Sanderson and Ferguson be a committee to examine and report, to this Council, at its next meeting, on the advisability of expending a sum of money in cutting down and improving the hill on the 13th concession line in front of Lot No. 12.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Boyd seconded by Mr. Ferguson,—That the Assessor be allowed the sum of $15, for extra services in filling up additional columns in the Assessment Roll, as required by the Ontario Government, and amended Statutes of this Province.—Carried.

All the barbers in St. Paul are negroes. One of them was refused a drink at a fashionable bar on account of his color. The next time he was informed that no negro shop he was informed that no negro in that city would shave him until he abolished the color line at his bar. He is growing a full beard in consequence.

The living skeleton of a San Francisco side show went out for a walk on a railroad track. A locomotive knocked him down and ran over him. He arose and continued his walk. The four inches between the cowcatcher and the ties had been sufficient for his thinness. He was incidentally well advertised, but paid for it in bruises and scratches.

A Mr. Gutch has started as a rival to Oscar Wilde, and is drawing crowds to his aesthetic lectures in London. The war in Egypt has been carefully studied by the World's Crisis, the organ of the Adventists in America. It admits the difficulty of interpreting prophecy by military movements, but believes that the saints ought to watch the course of events with Bible in hand. It is quite sure that the European Conference is "another united effort of the Revelator's four angels to hold the four winds."

In Cleveland a hack driver was fined $20 for soliciting passengers by saying, "Come this way to ride with a white man." He had a colored competitor and the Justice who imposed the fine said: "Language that tends to degrade or insult a man who has the misfortune of being colored is an outrage, and cannot be tolerated." The soundness of this view is to be considered in a higher court.

Miss Squiggins told the Squire that the wish of her heart was to be married by the man who had married her and pa. In the instantaneous photographs of moving vehicles the only indistinctness is in the portion of the picture which represents the upper part of the carriage wheels. The English Mechanic says the reason is, as can easily be shown, that the spokes of the wheel have a much greater velocity when uppermost than when their extremities are near the ground.

A French war vessel, on her return from a cruise of several months in the South Pacific Ocean, was discovered to have masses of living coral growing upon her hull. It is believed the growth originated from some bits of coral which adhered to the ship from a reef against which she accidentally rubbed while among the Gambier Islands.

An Indiana young man, crossed in love, loaded a gun with a big handful of shot, rested his chin on the muzzle, and kicked the trigger with his toe; but his mother caught him at it, and snatched the weapon, so that he lost an ear instead of his life. As the girl remains obdurate, he says he is glad he did not succeed in committing suicide on her account; and he will have a false ear made, in order that the absence of the natural one may not be a constant reminder of his folly.

Two harnesses or crocodiles tamely drew a wagon into Atlanta.

We lately mentioned the discovery of a subterranean forest in England on Lord Northampton's estate, near Peterborough. We now learn from Nature that about three acres of the underground woods have already been explored. "Some of the trees are in an admirable state of preservation, and one giant oak measures eighteen yards in length. The trees are in such a condition that oak can be distinguished from elm, while a kind of fir tree seems to be most abundant, the wood of which is so hard that the wood can be drawn out of the clay in their entirety." The forest is about ten feet below the surface.

The Church of England has of late been kindly disposed toward that rather irregular religious body, the Salvation Army, and the Bishop of Bedford lately conducted a meeting in which members of the Army did the singing. He spoke of the indifferent masses which the Church failed to save and which the Army was somewhat awakening. "We will have," said he, "no jealousies. Go, in God's name, and drag them out of the mire, if you can." The Bishop of Oxford spoke more cautiously in a sermon devoted to the subject; but he said the Church dare not forbid these zealous men or oppose them, lest it should be found to be fighting against God.

Hon. John W. Shackelford, of N.C., in a recent speech in Congress, gave the following items from gleanings at the Census Bureau, etc.: Total working force of the country estimated at 15,000,000, divided thus: Engaged in Agriculture, 7,050,000 (47 per cent.); in Professional and Personal Service, 3,300,000 (22 per cent.); in Manufacturing, Mining and Mechanical Work, 3,300,000 (22 per cent.); in Trade and Transportation, 1,350,000 (9 per cent.)—American Agriculturist for August.

Mrs. Langtry continues to draw large audiences on her theatrical tour of England, and is making a great deal of money, though a crowded house there yields only about half as much money as in this country. The horses are frequently unhitched from her carriage by young men, who draw her to or from the theatre; but these demonstrations are proarranged by her manager, who employs a few fellows to excite and direct the enthusiasm. "When she visits America," says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, "there will be many discussions as to her beauty. I don't think there will be any as to her histrionic ability." He grants her no merit as an actress, except that of ladylike grace, but thinks she is likely to improve.

At the Hamilton sale in London there was sold a small jug carved out of solid jasper. The stone is variegated with brilliant reds, greens and grays, dotted with tiny gold specks. It must have been highly appreciated in France, for about the year 1745 it was artistically mounted in gold by Meissonier, a famous jeweler of the reign of Louis XV., probably to hide the edges of the jasper, which had been chipped. At the British Museum there is a plateau or shallow basin which matches the ewer in every respect, save that it is unmounted. This came from the collection of Sir William Hamilton (no relation of the Duke) in 1772. The two articles were compared last week side by side. Mr. Wertheimer, who gave $11,500 for the jug, is of opinion that the ewer was originally carried off by a portion of the toilet service of some Byzantine noble.

What Should we Educate for?

I ask myself if the system of education at present going on in our nation is a system which has a proper relation to the necessities of the nation. I look round me, to see the nation in chaos of thought and action, in what Mr. Gladstone has correctly defined as social revolution in one part, and mental revolution in all parts; mental revolution that might, by merest accident, by one or two days' shortness of food, from failure of foreign supply and panic thereupon, pass, after a few years of further chaos, into physical revolution. And the thought which occurs to my mind, as it must to all who think, is, are we educating to prevent catastrophe? Are we educating the young to become useful, independent, and capable working members of society, ready to work with muscle as well as brain, in orderly and profitable form, or are we educating them to become mere troublemakers without design, repiners without hope, schemers without self-endurance, master of the forces of Nature herself, knowing how to use them for temporary, selfish, insane objects, but not knowing how to apply them for splendid results and the general good?

The national necessities as the bases of national education are, first and foremost, these: that although in the early day of youth the three simple elementary educational practices of learning to read, to write, and to calculate, are necessities for the time, they are comparatively valueless unless combined with further necessities of a physical kind—namely, sound and systematic muscular training, freedom of breathing, and circulation of the blood; practical training, so that the body can be structurally built up and sustained in health; preparation for all duties requiring precision, decision, presence of mind, and endurance; and readiness to acquire any craft or handicraft that may bring a useful living; in a word, an education that shall bring the mental and physical qualities of every person into faithful harmony and good-will.—From "National Necessities and National Education," by Dr. B. W. RICHARDSON, in Popular Science Monthly for August.

HEARTH AND HOME.

"Quill Crayon's" Proverbs.

Blessed is the man whose wife is tongue-tied, for she shall be a thing of silence in his "Household," and neither in his going out nor coming in shall she question him in any way.

Happy is the woman whose heart yearneth not after the pleasures of her lord, for content shall dwell in her bosom, and her children shall call her "mother." For like the turtle who wished to fly is the woman who seeketh after the toils of man.

The foolish young man hunteth for a maiden to wed, but the wise man smoketh his pipe and is content.

The aesthete has said in his heart: "I am too ethereal," but they who laugh at his folly call him a fool.

A trifle with hearts is an abomination to true womanhood; and men shun her like an adder.

Her life is not a desert who treasureth the love of her helpmate, for the tears she lets drop at his sorrows shall spring up at her feet in fountains of living water, cooler than the shows of the mountains.

Vex not your husband's heart by extravagance, lest he squander likewise and his wealth depart from him.

Patience and good humor shineth on a woman's brow like the crown of the Queen of Sheba. It shineth in dark places and makes light the heart of the afflicted, and they who bear burdens.

Scorn not the offerings of a man's heart, for I say unto ye, it is a gift of Heaven.

Ride not your "hobbies" on public roads lest ye be trampled on.

Bite off your tongue, ere it speak words which may wound those who love you.

Rather live alone than with a gossiping woman, for she gads about and her children are an hindered.

A modest woman is like a violet, but a pert woman is like a noxious weed that delighteth the earth. Her face is of brass and her heart is a stone.

Build down your manuscripts lest the sharp scissors of the editor clip it.

Fish not in the matrimonial sea with a gilded hook, for sharks abound in the great waters.

Grumble not because there happens to be a few prickles on the hulls of these nuts. Crack and eat, and even if the kernels do contain a little sharp acid, they are wholesome.

Kiss Me, Good-Bye, Dear.

That is a phrase heard in the hallway of many a home as the man of the house is hurrying away to exchange daily labor for daily bread in the mart of commerce. Sometimes it is the wife who says it, sometimes infant lips prattle the caressing words, holding up a sweet flower face for the kiss that is its warm sunshine of life, and the strong man waits a moment to clasp his treasure and is gone; and all day he wonders at the peace in his heart, at the nerve with which he meets business losses, or bears business crosses. The wife's kiss did it, the baby's kiss did it, and he realizes that it is not wealth or position or luck that makes our happiness, but the influence we bear with us from the presence of those we love!

Kiss me, good-by! Oh, lips that have said it for the first time, would you ever ask again in those pleading tones for the kiss so fondly prized? Would we not remember that the relation the flower bears to the universe is as carefully provided for as that of the brightest star; that the little action of a loving heart goes side by side with the deed of heroic worth; that love is the dew of life; that the parting for a day may be the parting of a life-time.

"How many go forth in the morning That never come home at night! And hearts have broken For kind words spoken That sorrow can never set right."

Make the air vocal with kisses! Many tears have been shed over unexpressed kisses, but the time to kiss is the present. Kiss your children, man of business, before you leave home; kiss the mother of your children, and that dear old mother who sits in the chair by the window—no matter if her cheek is wrinkled, her heart is young, and then go about your daily work with a "thank God" in your soul that you have some one at home to kiss.

"For though in the quiet evening You give us the kiss of peace, Yet it might be That never for thee The pain of the heart should cease." —Detroit Free Press.

Some Excellent Recipes.

Cucumber Salad.—Slice the cucumbers an hour before they are needed, and sprinkle the slices plentifully with salt; set them on ice. Just before dinner drain away the salt liquor from the cucumbers and mix them, first with oil, and then with vinegar and pepper. They should be served very cold.

Summer Mince Pie.—Four crackers rolled fine, one and one-half cups sugar, one cup molasses, one cup vinegar, one cup water, two-thirds cup butter, one cup chopped raisins, two eggs, beaten and stirred in last thing, and spices to taste. Put some whole raisins on top of the pie before putting on the crust.

Snowdon Cake.—This is a genuine Scotch recipe, and is a great favorite with Scotch-American families. Beat to a cream half a pound of butter, three quarters of a pound of granulated sugar, the whites of six eggs, half a teaspoon of cream, and one pound of Bermuda arrowroot. Add the beaten yolks of two of the eggs and a very little salt. Bake in a mold one hour or more.

Pickled Apples.—To ten pounds of fruit take seven pounds of sugar, three and one-half quarts of vinegar, three ounces of cinnamon, two ounces of cloves, whole. Pare and core the apples, then boil in syrup till soft.

Spiced Plums.—Seven pounds of plums, four pounds of sugar, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, cloves, one quart of vinegar. Boil thirty minutes.

Orange Pie.—Grate the peel of one fresh orange, take the juice and pulp of two large oranges; add to them one cup of sugar and the beaten yolks of three eggs. Mix one cup of sweet milk with the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Bake in puff paste.

Walnut Catnap.—Take young, tender walnuts, pick them in several places and lay them in a pan with a handful of salt to every twenty-five and water enough to cover them. Break them with a potato masher, and let them remain in this pickle one week, stirring them every day. Drain off the liquor and then cover the shells with boiling vinegar, crush them to a pulp and strain through a colander. To every quart add an ounce each of cloves, black pepper, ginger and nutmeg. Take a half teaspoonful of red pepper, one spoonful of celery seed and tie in a muslin bag and throw in; boil for one hour; when cool bottle.

The simplest and most effectual way of keeping out moths is red cedar chips. Keep them in drawers, wardrobes, closets, trunks, etc. They will also keep away the troublesome ant.

A cooling and healthful drink for warm weather will be found in a glass of oat-meal and ice-water. It is far better than either lemonade or soda-water, can be procured more easily at home, and is perfectly harmless.

W. H. Crooker, Druggist, of Waterdown, under date of July 1st, writes that "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cannot be surpassed, when all other remedies fail them it comes to the rescue, and I find the sales large and increasing." Wild Strawberry positively cures all Bowel complaints.

Agricultural Shows.—Their Abuses.

An experienced stockman, Col. Weld, puts officers, exhibitors and spectators of Fairs on their guard. He writes in the August American Agriculturist as follows:

Influence is brought to bear upon the jury of awards in various ways. One man will openly address a judge in praise of his competitor's exhibit, and loudly call attention to the best points, but quietly regret certain defects, or express doubts about the age or breeding of the animals, or other points affecting the competing exhibit. Sometimes a third party discusses matters with a judge in a disinterested, friendly way, talking up his friend's stock or goods and trying to prejudice him against other exhibits. It is very hard to guard a jury against such influence. I have known the principal officers of agricultural societies take judges to one side and indicate how in their judgment the awards should go, by calling special attention to certain entries of those who were known to be on terms of personal friendship with them, and disparaging others—or damning them with faint praise. There are many men appointed as judges who are unfit to serve, and who know it themselves. It is very easy, if it is known that they are not strong, to influence them. An exhibitor who goes to the show to get prizes, by fair means or foul, will measure such a man at the first glance, and "go for him," as the saying is. A weak judge is of no account in any way. A jury of two judges works better than one of three, and a single good judge better than either; but he must be a man to be depended on.

The system, especially prevalent in small societies, of distributing the prizes about so as to "encourage" all exhibitors, and make everybody happy, is most pernicious. At such shows it matters very little who the judges are. The prizes are worth nothing any way as honors, and very little in money, and so long as such a system is in vogue, they will be worth no more.

A funny man at Jackson, Mich., put a cast-iron bullfrog on a log in the river, and boys threw stones at it all day without discovering why it didn't pogo.

An Inquisitive Cause of Baldness.—A gentleman who is ashamed of his intensely bald head, explains the absence of his hair by saying that he was born poor, and was compelled to scratch his way through life.

Do the souls of great men enter the bodies of other great men? If they do not, what did Shakespeare mean when he wrote: "Imperial Caesar, dead and turned to Clay."

The most wonderful curative remedies of the present day, are those that come from Germany, or at least originate there. The most recent preparation placed upon the market in this country, is the German Invigorator, which has never been known to fail in curing a single case of impotency, spermatorrhoea, weakness and all diseases resulting from self-abuse, as nervous debility, inability, mental anxiety, languor, lassitude, depression of spirits and functional derangements of the nervous system.

An Irish corporal, who now and then indulged in a noggin of right good poteen, was thus accosted by his captain, while standing at ease: "Pat, what makes your nose so red?" "Plase, yer honor," said Pat, "I always blush when I speak to an officer."

It is the common observation that the standard of natural health and normal activity, among American women, is being lowered by the influence of false ideas and habits of life, engendered by fashionable ignorance and luxurious living. It is a happy circumstance that Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham has come to the front to instruct and cure the sufferers of her sex.

A selfish boy having four apples to divide equally between himself and two little sisters, each to have an equal part of the four, he gave them two and kept two himself. On their expostulating against his unfairness, he said, "Why! there's two apples for you two, and here's two for me, too."

Every one, at times, feels the necessity of some restoratives of the vital powers, depressed by mental or bodily exhaustion. In such conditions, let every one, instead of flying to the alcoholic or medicinal stimulants, which must be followed by depression equal to their excitement, reinvigorate his deranged system by the natural tonic elements of the Peruvian Syrup.

Sold by all druggists. The following was evolved recently from the brilliant brain of a Dublin undergraduate who has evidently been thinking seriously of his rhetoric—"Most lies are hyperboles. Hyperbole is a figure; hence most lies are figures. But figures can't lie. Ergo, a lie is not a lie—quod est demonstrandum."

"Your arguments are sound my son, and delivered with force," said a clergyman to his boy, who had been banging away at his drum for an hour or more; "but we have heard quite enough on that head."

The Corn Crop in Canada. It may surprise the good people of Canada to learn that the corn crop has been immensely increased in Canada. No doubt the N. P. people will claim this as a product of position, but Putnam's Patent Corn Extractor alone is entitled to all the credit. It takes more corn to the acre than all else the world can supply. Safe, sure and painless. Take no substitute. Only 25 cents. Try your hand. A good crop guaranteed. R. Deyell, agent, Port Hope.

A young fellow had the habit of addressing one of his neighbors as "Papa." Finally the latter asked him not to do it. "Not," he said, "because it makes me seem so old, but on account of your bad bringing up."

"It is a great public benefit," these significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Elettro Oil by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness.

The customers of a country cooper caused him a vast deal of vexation by their saving habits and persistence in getting all their old tubs and casks repaired and ordering but little new work. "I stood it, however," said he, "until one day old Sam Crabtree brought in an old bung-hole, to which he said he wanted a new barrel made. Then I quitted the business in disgust."

A doctor returned a coat to a tailor because it did not fit him. The tailor seeing the doctor at the funeral of one of his patients, said "Ah, doctor, you are a happy man!" "Why so?" asked the doctor. "Because," replied the tailor, "you never have any of your bad work returned on your hands."

A popular concert singer, advertised to participate in an entertainment in a Missouri village, excused her absence on the ground of having a cold in the head, the next day she received the following from an admirer: "This iz gouse greze; melt in and rub it on the bridge of your nose until kured. I luv you to distrazshun."

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Old Sores, Wounds, and Ulcers.—The readiness with which Holloway's ointment removes all obstructions in the circulation of the vessels and lymphatics explains their irresistible influence in healing old sores, bad wounds, and indolent ulcers. To insure the desired effect the skin surrounding the diseased part should be fomented, dried and immediately well rubbed with the Ointment. This will give purity to the foul blood, and strength to the weakened system, the only conditions necessary for the cure of all these ulcerations which render life almost intolerable. No sooner is this Ointment's protective powers exerted than the destructive process ceases, and the constructive business begins—new, healthy growth appears to fill up the lately painful excavated pit.

A public-house keeper of questionable honesty went to a lawyer to consult him about commencing an action of defamation against a fellow-townsmen. "The scoundrel," said he, "has robbed me of my character." "Ah, has he? Are you sure of that fact?" replied the lawyer, quickly, and in a sarcastic tone; "If so; for heaven's sake let him go; for it is the luckiest thing that ever happened upon!"

When a village schoolmaster entered his temple of learning one morning, he read on the blackboard the touching legend—"Our teacher is a donkey." The pupils expected there would be a combined cyclone and earthquake; but the philosophic pedagogue contented himself with adding the word "driver" and opened the school as usual.

"Have you any fresh eggs?" "Yes, mum; plenty. Them with the hen on 'em!" "With the hen on them?" "Yes, mum, we always puts a hen on our fresh eggs to distinguish of 'em. Beg pardon, mum, don't think you understand. Hen the laird, not 'em the bird. Hen for noo-laid, mum. Take a dozen mum? Thank you!"

Davy & Clark, Druggists, Renfrew, writes us June 3d:—"We have sold Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for a number of years, and find nothing equal to it, for the purpose for which it is designed." Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cures all forms of Bowel complaints incident to Summer and Fall.

Meanness by the St. Paul Pioneer Press.—"Mr. John Toohey, formerly of Minneapolis and now of Stillwater, is anxious to join his beloved wife in the better land. He made an attempt to reach his vital organs with a knife yesterday, but the blade was too short. A subscription to provide him with a longer knife would receive many signatures in Minneapolis."

It is reported that a Brooklyn youth sat beside his girl for just one hour the other night, and during that time kissed her ninety-six times out of a possible hundred. The other four times she got in a hurry and kissed him. This is a Beecher misstatement—in fact, a lie. To make that quick time she must sit square upon his right knee and hold his left ear with her right hand and her left arm around his neck. Then the track is in the best possible condition for making fast time.

Garibaldi's Courtship.

"The Personal History of Garibaldi," told in an interesting way by Mrs. Biancardi, is a timely feature of the Midsummer Holiday number of the Century, and is accompanied by a striking portrait of the Italian patriot. His romantic courtship is described as follows:— Disappointed in his hopes of accomplishing great things for liberty in South America, saddened by the death and imprisonment of his companions, and weary with his personal sufferings, Garibaldi was standing one day on the deck of his ship, when, among the women who came to the shore for water, one suddenly attracted his notice. "I gave orders," says he, "to be put on shore, and I approached the house pointed out to me as her dwelling, with a beating heart, but with that determined will which never fails to command success. A man (her husband) invited me to enter. I should have done so without his invitation. I had seen him previously. And to the young woman I said: 'Thou must be mine by a bond which only death can dissolve.' I had found a treasure, forbidden, indeed, but of what value! If there was blame it was wholly mine. And blame there was! Two souls were indissolubly bound together, and the heart of an innocent man was broken! But she is dead. He is avenged, avenged indeed! And I acknowledged my sin on that day when, striving still to detain her with me, I had her falling pale, and sought to catch her feeble breathing; but I pressed the hand and kissed the lips of the dead, and wept the tears of despair."

Tennyson's Home in Surrey.

Some twelve years ago Tennyson built a house on the northern slope of Blackdown, a lordly hill two miles to the northeast of our village, and just opposite Hindhead, these being the two eminences which guard the valley east and west. The house is a large, imposing structure, built in a free treatment of domestic Gothic of the Tudor period, the entrance being a large porch with five pointed arches. The laureate can be seen here as the most confirmed anchorite, since his is the only residence on the hill. A carriage road winds up Blackdown on the western side as far as Tennyson's enabling too many persons to come near the house for the poet's pleasure. Very many distinguished men are slowly drawn up that hill, on flying visits to the laureate—the Duke of Argyll and his Scotch gillie being on the ascent when we were last that way.

Tennyson naturally dislikes to find persons creeping around his grounds, and plucking leaves from his plants as mementoes, as they constantly do at Freshwater. Once, seeing a face peering at him while eating his dinner, the exasperated poet left the table, exclaiming that he could no longer eat his meals in comfort without being watched.—Alice Maude Fenn, in the "Midsummer Holiday" number of the Century.

"Rough on Rats." Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies ants, bed-bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

In a breach of promise suit in Montana, the plaintiff said that the defendant had failed to appear at the time agreed upon for the ceremony. He afterwards came to the house, but she, being angry, set the dogs on him. The Judge asked the defendant why he had not appeared. "Well, Judge," was the reply, "I was tressed by a bear all day and night, and I couldn't possibly get away in time." The case was dismissed, and in a few minutes the contestants were husband and wife.

Emerson's Gift of Elocution.

I have never met with any allusion in print to Emerson's gift of elocution, and yet no one who heard him read a stanza of poetry was likely to forget it. He indulged in no elocutionary tricks, no studied intonations, but his voice, look on an added sonority, the verna seemed to flow from his lips with a mingled force and sweetness which thrilled through the listener's every fibre. It was my good fortune to hear him read one evening Mr. Steadman's ballad of "Osaawatomie Brown," which was an especial favorite of his. So powerful was the impression created by the subdued organ-tones, the majesty of his delivery, and the heroic ring with which he narrated the stirring tale and chanted the refrain, that I confess to having been then and since utterly unable to form a critical estimate of the poem itself. Whether it be one of the noblest lays ever sung by a man, or a modest and unpretentious ballad, I leave it for unbiased critics to determine; for my part, I am glad to give it the full credit which it merits.

The idea of getting up a cricket club in connection with the Midland train hands has been mooted as probable.

This year the barley crop promises splendidly. A farmer stated to us the other day that there would be two bushels of barley for every one last year.

It will be remembered that some time ago there was a "steam man" on exhibition on John street. This precious curiosity was stolen from the impetuous owner while in Kingston.

NEXT Sunday evening, the Rev. A. P. McDiarmid will preach a sermon on the duty of Christians with regard to the liquor traffic. The event is considered of special interest, and a large congregation is expected.

OUR Market Clerk, Mr. John Gamble, has about fifty tame rabbits, which, though they hop about at pleasure, enjoy special immunity from dogs, cats, and other species of destructive animals.

The increasing business of the Midland Railway, has necessitated the procuring of ten more locomotives, which will be on the road in course of a month. Four of these have been ordered for immediate use, and five of the ten will be used on this division.

The Fountain Hose Co., Cobourg, are selling tickets in Port Hope for the Rochester excursion on the 16th and 17th of August. We are asked to inform the public that parties holding those tickets will have to go to Cobourg in order to take the boat.

"MODESTY is an admirable trait, particularly when exhibited—alas! for the rarity—by a newspaper man," but the limit was reached by a Port Hope editor, who, in publishing an account of an accident to a young lady, said, "she was badly injured in her left forelimb."—Lindsay Warden. Well, really, we are too modest to claim credit for that paragraph. It must have been—we will let our readers surmise.

RETURNS of traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending July 15th, 1882, were as follows:—Passengers and mails, $8,901.73; freight, $13,214.84; total, $22,116.57, as compared with $17,732.39 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $4,384.18; and the aggregate traffic to date is $524,921.33, being an increase of $140,538.87 over 1881.

The meeting of the Celebration Committee, appointed to take place last night was not attended, except by a few, and consequently no action was taken. To dispose of the surplus is now the matter which troubles the committee. The scheme most approved of is to make this $305 a nucleus for establishing a Dominion Day celebration fund, so that another year it would not be necessary to ask the Council for a grant or solicit subscriptions. Some are in favor of spending it on the driving park, and a few would like to have it to form a purse for fall races. The first is by all means the most desirable purpose the money should be appropriated to, unless the committee feel disposed to hand it over to the Benevolent Society.

As we expected our esteemed contemporary the Cobourg World is after our brilliant confere of the Guide, and what it is pleased to call "a piece of 'doggerel' poetry" copied from the former without the proper credit being given it. This is really too bad—a sort of "tempest in a tea-pot" affair, and unworthy of so much valuable space being wasted upon. The World claims the omission was "unintentional," and that it was clipped in the absence of the editor by the party temporarily filling his place. The World is unkind enough to call the Guide "almost the least original newspaper in Upper Canada," the article is said to be a "Powerful" hit, and the Guide is referred to as being "edited, in the days of its most effective advocacy of Reform, by a Conservative from the country!" This latter we take exception to, for we do not believe that any Conservative from the country does now or ever did edit our contemporary. Let the battle go "bravely on!" but, please gentlemen, do not waste so much space, which properly belongs to your readers, on a petty quarrel over a piece of "doggerel" poetry!

The Port Hope Garrison Battery will go into camp in September.

The G. T. R. employees hold their annual picnic in Napanee on Saturday.

The assessable property of Toronto has doubled in the last twelve years.

It was, we understand, stated at the Harbor Board that Belleville charges no harbor dues. We notice incidentally that the receipts of that harbor is estimated at $5,000 for the present year.

Boys are in the habit of bathing in the harbor just after dusk, much to the annoyance of boating parties. The town constables have taken the matter in hand and we expect the trouble will not be lasting.

Don't forget the excursion to Rochester on the 16th and 17th of August under the auspices of Ever Ready Fire Co. No. 2, Cobourg. Tickets for sale at Mulholland & Brown's hardware store: Price $1.50.

Mr. J. J. HONEY, Manager of the Perrytown cheese factory, has sold 12,000 lbs. of cheese at the highest market price. This is a new factory, and as its first production, is considered first-class. All was sold in wholesale quantities.

MR. ALEXANDER JENKINS, of Cobourg, who had the contract of erecting St. Mary's Church spire completed his task on Monday afternoon last, when the scaffolding was removed. This latter was accompanied with no little risk, but was successfully accomplished. The spire now presents an imposing appearance.

DECORATION DAY.—The custom of decorating the graves of deceased Odd-fellows, inaugurated by the Port Hope Lodge of I.O.O.F., has now come to be regarded as fixed and perpetual. August the 1st is the annual decoration day, the ceremonies in connection taking place at 4 o'clock p. m. Programmes and invitations have been issued containing full particulars.

The lecture on "Oldom," advertised to be given on Tuesday evening, had only about twenty of an audience and consequently was not delivered. The stereopticon views with which the subject was to be illustrated are said to be very fine, but our citizens display a seeming apathy as to how oil is or is not produced.

The Cobourg World says:—"The readings by Prof. Bonbright, Van Mercer and Ford, at Victoria Opera House on Friday evening last, gave most excellent satisfaction to the audience,—in fact very few such elocutionary entertainments have ever been given in this town." These gentlemen will give an entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Hall here on Friday evening next, when a rare treat will be given all who attend.

The annual Canadian Press Association excursion is now definitely fixed as to time. The annual meeting will be held in Toronto on the 22nd of August; and the excursion will start that day. This year the trip, through the kind offices of Mr. J. W. Leonard, General Passenger Agent of the Credit Valley Railway Co., will be to Winnipeg via the following railroads: Credit Valley, Canada Southern, Michigan Central, Chicago and Rock Island, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba, and Canada Pacific. It will occupy two weeks, and more than the usual good time may be expected.

A BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT.—Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, "I'll sell the hat from off my head, I'll go without my daily bread; I'll let my children go unfed, and starve the dog till he is dead; my hands of charity I'll spread; all avenues for aid I'll tread, and never pause till hope is fled; I'll work in constant fear and dread; I'll sell my clothing every shred; I'll sell my house and rent a shed; but I will pay up every red I owe unto the printer.

CIVIC HOLIDAY EXCURSIONS.—As intimated last week the Ever Ready Fire Co., No. 2, Cobourg, intend running two excursions from Port Hope to Rochester, per steamer Norseman—one to leave the evening of August 16th, at 9.30 p. m. and the other at 10 a. m. August 17th. The Trenton band, under the able leadership of Mr. Gardiner, will be on board. A monster procession of about 10,000 firemen will be one of the features of attraction on that day in Rochester. Tickets, good for three days, can be obtained at Mulholland & Brown's hardware store.

AN INTELLECTUAL TREAT.—The gentlemen connected with the Philadelphia School of Oratory now in session in Cobourg, will give an entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Port Hope, on Friday evening next, when we trust they will be greeted with a full house, as we are informed by competent judges who attended their entertainments in Cobourg that it is one of unsurpassed excellence. The Sentinel-Star says:—

"The elocutionary entertainment given by Messrs. Bonbright, Mercer, and Ford, in Victoria Opera House, on Friday evening last was of a very superior character, and one rarely privileged to the people of Cobourg. Mr. Bonbright, although young, as a Shakespearean reader has not many peers. His voice is deep and well regulated, while his articulation is excellent. In other roles he is a like success. Mr. Mercer has also great ability, and a very pleasing voice; while Mr. Ford, in his comic readings, is simply immense. These gentlemen are here in connection with the Philadelphia School of Oratory, now holding its summer session in Victoria University, and are all distinguished graduates of that institution. The audience which greeted them on Friday evening, were highly delighted, and the applause which their best efforts met with was very hearty. We are pleased to announce that, at the earnest solicitation of many who heard them last week, coupled with that of many others who did not hear them, but who would have done so had they known the treat that was offered them,—they have been induced to repeat their entertainment to-morrow (Friday) evening, when an entire change of programme will be given, and many new features introduced. Their repertoire is a very large one, and the pieces selected from it, as will be seen by the programmes which have been liberally distributed, are very choice, and should ensure them a large house."

The next meeting of the Peterboro' Presbytery will be held in the first Presbyterian church Port Hope on the third Tuesday in September.

GREAT summer clearance at the Arcade; bargains in every department; Clark & VanEvery are offering greater inducements than ever; now is the time to replenish at low prices.

At the meeting of the Council on Monday evening, the 17th of August was appointed as our Civic Holiday. Rochester will undoubtedly be the point of attraction on that day.

The Streets and Bridges Committee in the spring planned to put down twenty-four cedar block crossings. Twenty-one of these are already down, two of them are double. After the three remaining ones are put down, there will likely be five or six extra ones added to the list.

Rev. D. SUTHERLAND, Campbellford, is attending the National School of Oratory at Cobourg, for the purpose of studying elocution. There are some divines we know of who would not be injured by a similar training—or their congregations either.

The city editor of the London Free Press in his desire to perpetrate a pun says: "England wants A. Bey to abate." That's a weak attempt compared with: "England is bound to make that Mohammedan Mohawk A. Bey her."

A SITE for the new public buildings in Port Hope is now under consideration. The Burton lot, opposite McNaughton's saloon, Queen street, will in all probability, be the one selected and is about the only one available.

The handsome set of garden tools presented by Mr. Wm. Mackie to Mr. Wm. Mitchell, gardener was made by the Oshawa Manufacturing Company. The tools are gold and silver-plated and have taken the first prize at all the exhibitions that have been held since they were made, including the Paris Exposition.

Four or five of the 'Longshoremen,' on Monday afternoon, being slightly under the "influence" had a lively time under the viaduct near Mill street. The melee was general, but the whiskey that they had drank was stronger than their capability of injuring one another and so very few wounds resulted. Our humble representative, whose thirst for items overcame his prudence, ventured near enough to interfere with the aerial passage of a flying missile and thus bore away a memento of the bloodless conflict.

The Midland Railway Company, says the Lindsay Post, are putting up a new telegraph wire along the line of the road from Port Hope to Midland. The general business of the road has grown to such dimensions that one wire does not give anything like the accommodation demanded. The new line will be used for business and the old one altogether for train despatching and matters connected with the motive power and mechanical departments. The wire is up now as far north as Cambridge station. The crossing at the river at Lindsay is made by a cable underneath the water.

AN AID TO MARRIAGE.—We have previously referred to the formation of Mutual Marriage Aid Associations. We are unable to say whether they are very safe concerns or not, but we notice that a number of agencies are being established and some in this district. All parties between 10 and 75 are eligible to become members; the initiation fee is $6 and the annual fee $4. One year after becoming a member a young man if he marries can draw $250; 2 years, $500; 4 years, $1,000. Assessments are made according to age at certain times. Here now is a chance for those young men who are pining and dying of love, but have no means to satisfy their yearnings.

As will be seen by our report of Council proceedings, Couns. King and Pringle made a move which must meet with the approval of every one of our citizens, and that is a provision for the beautifying of our streets with shade trees. It is intended to take a portion of the park to form a sort of nursery, from which the corporation or private individuals may take trees free of charge for the purpose of planting along the streets or in front of residences. The pleasing and beneficial effect of shade-tree planting is too well recognized to require any special comment and we only hope the idea will be thoroughly carried out and taken advantage of. Port Hope, beautifully situated, would become much more attractive if the improvements referred to were to be carried out.

An aspiring editor of a local paper in the west introduced himself to the public as below:—"Sensational, distressing details of revolting murders and shocking suicides respectfully solicited. Bible class presentations and ministerial donation parties will be 'done' with promptness and despatch. Keno banks and their operations made a speciality. Accurate reports of Sunday school anniversaries guaranteed. The 'local' will cheerfully walk seventeen miles after Sunday school to see and report a prize fight. Funerals and all other melancholy occasions written up in a manner to challenge admiration. Horse races reported in the highest style of the reportorial art. Domestic broils and conjugal infidelities sought for with untiring avidity. Police court proceedings and sermons reported in a manner well calculated to astonish the prisoner, magistrate and preacher. Prompt paying subscribers and good advertisers, when stricken with moral illness, will be cheerfully interviewed, when lying at death's door with a view of obtaining obituary items; and the greatest pleasure will be taken in exposing your private affairs to the critical gaze of an uninterested public."

MINISTERS' PERSECUTORS.

Last Sunday morning Rev. R. J. Beattie preached a sermon based on the persecutions which ministers of the Gospel sometimes have to endure. He referred to the case of Paul, who went to Ephesus to preach, where one Demetrius, a silversmith, made silver shrines and accumulated no small gain from his vocation. From the force of Paul's preaching this man's pecuniary usefulness to himself was likely to be gone. He called together others of his craft, and the result was a conspiracy against Paul, whom they tried to destroy.

The same was not without example in more modern days. If a minister should from the pulpit speak out his honest convictions as to the moral effect of any man's business or course of action, the result was a tumult and a persecution not unlike that which Paul experienced. When Paul came to Ephesus he was not disturbed, but as soon as his teachings took effect he was threatened with extinction, and so it is even at this day. Men of inferior mental status, who obtain responsible positions by other means than ability, very often take advantage of the situation, and vex, harass, and annoy superior men who have the courage of their convictions.

Such men as these use their positions to advance their own pecuniary ends, and as such are the persecutors of those who strive after moral reform.

A COW BY-LAW INCIDENT.

The strictness with which the Cow By-law is at present enforced, has given rise to a rather laughable incident and a good joke on a "clear-grit." A certain gentleman on Ontario street,—we will not mention his name for fear of further harassing his feelings—on day last week, noticed, while at dinner, some cows in a neighbor's yard. He at once proceeded to drive them out and down town. His heart failing him when about half-way down to pound, he allowed the cows to stand, and went in search of the Chief Constable, who relieved him of any further trouble. But this is where the joke comes in—the cows belonged to relatives and particular friends of said emponder, but he was not aware of the fact. Two of them belonged to an employer, one of them to a cousin, and the others to next-door neighbors, who each had to pay $2.50 to regain possession of their lactescent producers.

This gentleman's friends make the best of the joke, and it will likely be some time before he hears the rest of it. We understand that he paid one or two of the fines out of his own pocket, which, with other considerations, appeased the chagrin of his friends who owned the bovines. They tease him now, and say it was a mean kind of revenge for being defeated in the election, to put the Conservatives' cows in pound.

This story has a moral. Before taking the pound into serious consideration, always ask: "Whose cows are these?" and if they do not belong to your uncle, or your aunt, or your sister, or your cousins, or your next-door neighbor, you are quite safe in sending for the constable.

SWIMMING AND BATHS.

A general movement is at work in many towns towards the establishment of public baths and swimming places. This is something which should engage the attention of people in Port Hope. The benefit of baths as a health-giving element can scarcely be over-estimated, while a knowledge of the art of swimming in these days of boating and excursions is almost indispensable.

One reason why both practices are not indulged in to a greater extent is the want of private bathing accommodation and the lack of privacy for swimming purposes.—While they are desirable alike for both sexes, it is impossible under existing circumstances for women to enjoy, except to a very limited extent, the luxury of a bath or a swim.

The Wiman baths at Toronto are exciting a good deal of interest and are meeting with good success and the unqualified approval of all. We do not see why something after this idea could not be successfully consummated in Port Hope. We have every facility and the best of advantages. It would require but a limited capital and a joint stock company, similar to the curling and skating rink concern, could be organized and carried on with good prospects of being remunerative.

All it wants is to be started under good auspices to become decidedly popular. We hope the example of other towns will not be lost sight of.

ANOTHER BRAKEMAN GONE.

Details of a Sad Event Which Occurred at Midland.

On Monday, Thos. Gott, a brakeman on the Midland Railway, met with a sad death near Dollar's Mills, Midland. His train was shunting there and he was standing on the top of a car signalling to the engineer. It is supposed, that, being engaged in this, he was not paying attention to his position close to the edge of the car. A sudden jar precipitated him between two cars, falling on the rails. His body slipped along ahead of the wheels for some distance, the conductor signalling to the engineer to stop. The latter brought up the train with remarkable quickness, and Gott would undoubtedly have escaped with slight injuries had not the wheel turned just as the train came to a standstill. One leg was almost completely severed at the thigh, and the other was broken at the ankle.

His body was carried about a mile and a half, his wounds bleeding profusely. Dr. Kidd was summoned. An amputation was decided upon, and chloroform administered, but the poor fellow died during the operation. All that medical aid could do was done for him. He lived about three hours after the accident.

A minister was in attendance to whom he expressed his entire readiness to die. It is said that before dying he offered up fervent and impressive prayer. The deceased was 19 years old, and was a quiet, active and intelligent young man. His only relations are a

THEN AND NOW IN NEW ORLEANS.—The fortunes of the Crescent City in a commercial, financial, social and sanitary point of view were at a very low ebb in 1868, the great terror of yellow fever rendered a residence extremely undesirable, and the entire absence of money vastly crippled the celebrated Charity Hospital. Now everything there is booming, and The Louisiana State Lottery Co. has by contract for its franchise agreed to pay $1,000,000 to the Hospital. The lottery (although fought with unalloyed prejudice) has met with such unprecedented success, owing to the integrity and ability in management, as to cause would be aggressors to bite their heads at all seasons of the year on the second Tuesday of every month divide $265,500 (on an enlarged scheme, with $3.00 tickets, and $1.00 sub-division of fifths), under the supervision of Gen'l G.
