A DEATH NOTICE .- We notice in the Rochester Democrat the following death notice which Port Hope papers are requested to copy:

BRYGH-Entered into rest, in this city, on Sunday morning, February 19, 1882, after long and patient suffering, Maggie, wife of Robert W. Bryce, aged thirty-eight years and eight months.

YANKEES ALWAYS GET THE CREDIT .--With much more truth than poetry the Campbellford Herald remarks:-

"Mr. Eames, an American buyer, took away from Campbellford, one day last week, fifteen horses which were intended for shipment to Ogdensburg, N.Y. They were all purchased in this neighborhood. When they get across the lines they will become Ameri-American animals, reared by Americans, from American stock, and foreigners will say what fine stock-raisers those Americans are!'

THE UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL .- This we believe was the expression once used by a very worthy gentleman, Mr. Wm. Shakespeare. If the Colborne papers keep on we will soon have a very poor opinion of Colbornites. Brutus-like the Express stabs at its native village thus:-

"From all we hear on the subject it seems Colborne is to have a weeding out in the early spring. We are glad of it, as we have a squad of stalwart fellows whose only aim at home is consuming bread and butter which they are unwilling to earn by any effortmental or physical. They should be checked to the uttermost part of civilization and dumped out with a brisk kick.

AN old subscriber in the Northern wilds sends us the following curious conundrum:--SIR,-Would you be kind enough through your next issue of TIMES to inform me if Osaca Post office is knocked out of existence or has it changed its name to some other more romentic, or is that Venerable Town Burnt up, as i have sent a lot of letters there and i cannot get an answer i have concluded somethin was wrong hence my Enquiry. AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

As far as we are aware the classic village of Osaca still lives and flourishes, but our enquirer's girl may have moved away as one of the Manitoba brigade.

on "Palestine," last Monday evening, in the Town Hall, was not large. The lecture was specially entertaining. A lecture on the "new land of promise," Manitoba, would, without doubt, draw a larger house.

FAREWELL SUPPER.-A number of the "b'hoys" assembled for an oyster stew in the Turner House on Tuesday evening, the occasion of Robert Munroe and "Jimmie," of the Queen's, leaving for the North-west. Mr. Nixon catered in good style, and a jolly time was spent.

A TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN ENTERPRISE .---A meeting was held in London, Eng., on Monday in furtherance of the great International Fisheries Exhibition in that city. The Prince of Wales presided. The Duke of Edinburgh, Prince Teck, Lord Granville, Earl Kimberley, Sir Vernon Harcourt, Lord Salisbury, and Sir Stafford Northcote were present. Sir A. T. Galt, in seconding a resolution moved by Earl Kimberley, that it was desirable to secure the support of the colonies in the exhibition, said that he had the authority of the Government of the Dominion and Newfoundland to express their hearty desire to co-operate. If their was one part of the empire more than another which felt any interest in the proceedings, and was grateful for the Princess' support, it was certainly Canada. The modes of fishing in Canada are the crudest and therefore the exhibition would be peculiarly valuable to them. He had received a message from Sir John Macdonald authorizing him to subscribe £500 to the general prize fund. His remarks were loudly cheered. The Standard in an article speaking of the great success of fish breeding establishments in Canada says: well may Mr. Samuel Wilmot be proud of such results, for they are due to his initiative and enterprise. It must certainly be a matter for our Newcastle friend, Mr. Wilmot, to congratulate peats itself. There are instances of it every himself upon a compliment, bestowed from so

A Current Dead-Beat. There is a species of dead-beat infesting this section of country at present whom it would be well for our townspeople to look out for. There is a class of business people who never advertise, or in fact do business with the established local newspaper, on ready to fall in with every catch-penny institution that happens to strike the town. This disposition on the part of so many gives the respectable advertising tramp an excuse for pursuing a dead-beating vocation. An "illustrated hotel scrap album" is the latest device for wheedling business men into paying $5 a page for imaginary

"Some three weeks since a whiskey-blossomed individual giving the name of Russell, and representing himself as a member of the Toronto Advertising Company," made his advent in Stirling, soliciting advertisements for a poorly illustrated hotel scrap album. Ten orders were to ensure five books in that number of hotels, placed where 'everybody would read them.' For each additional five orders, an extra book was to be published. He had a large number of Picton and Campbellford advertisements as samples, and on the strength of these, and the slight plausibility of the scheme, a few orders were secured at Stirling. Our business men, however, to their credit be it said, were quite too wary to be easlly gulled, and, although some orders were given, all, or nearly all, refused to hand over the cash until satisfied that all the fellow promised was accomplished. This, as a certain criminal said when the judge assured him he should have full justice, was 'just what he did not want.' Getting the advertisements printed, he posted them in the sample book, showed them to the customers, and demanded the pay therefor. As it turned out, he had only the one book, did not leave any at the hotels, and did not intend to. Not being able to raise enough here to pay his hotel bill, he had to 'silently steal away,' taking his book with him to attempt the game elsewhere. "Having written to a friend at Campbell-

ford, enquiring as to his career there, the

From here he went to Hastings, and in a few days returned. He came to me to borrow 25c., saying he had been robbed of $50 or $70, and some jewelry. The 25c. he said was to nee Control in the money. PORT HOPE is to have a Director on the Midland Railway after all, Mr. Cox informing us it was not at any time the intention to deprive our town of representation.

IN A NEW ROLE .- "Coggy," the too, too cheekey newsboy, figured in a new role on Tuesday. The managers of the "steam man on John street" concern had him decked in clown's attire, ringing a bell up and down the streets. As a comic advertising medium "Coggy" is a success.

PARTICULAR attention is directed to Mr. D. R. Dingwall's advertisement, from which it will be seen he has determined to sell out his entire stock, and remove to Manitoba. He is offering special bargains for a short time.

THANKING COL. WILLIAMS .- At the last meeting of the Council Board the efforts of Col. Williams, M. P., in securing a grant of $10,000 for the improvement of the Harbor in Port Hope, was shown to be fully appreciated, as will be seen by the following resolution, which was carried most unanimously :----

Moved by Coun King, -: "ad by Coun. Pringle, - That this with great satisfaction that Col. Wilhams, the representative of this riding in the House of Commons, has succeeded in obtaining a further grant of $10,000 in aid of the Harbor improvements at this port, and desire to tender him the thanks of the town for his efforts in their behalf.

Furthermore, that this Council looks upon this grant as a pleasing recognition, by the Government, of our Harbor as a present outlet for the trade of the Midland section, and of its importance as such for the vastly increasing volume of trade which the rapid development of the great North-west is certain to send this way in the near future, as well as of its usefulness as a commodious harbor of refuge for vessels driven by stress of weather on the lake.

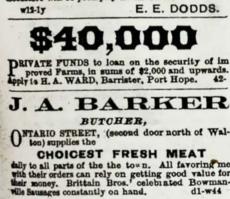

That copies of this resolution be forwarded by the Town Clerk, to the Hon. Sir Hector Langevin, K.C.M.G., Minister of Public Works, and to Col. Williams, M. P.

requires the headings to make it fully intelligible. It is about as follows :- The daughter of well-to-do parents falls in love with an impecunious wayfarer of several weeks acquaintance-daughter only nineteen-parents object -young lady gets desperate-flees with her lover-parents distracted-go in search of her -they find the fugitives have just left on the last train-are married and going to Manitoba -parents return broken-hearted. We hope the sequel will be that the young man may prove steady and industrious, that the parents become reconciled, and in ten years from now get happy nursing their grand-children, and telling them how naughty their mamma used to be.

THE WILSON CAR .- The owner and inventor of the Combination Car. Mr. T. L. Wilson, is away in the Western States with his car. We notice by the Evening Wisconsin that Mr. Wilson has been interviewed by a representative of that paper, as to the merits of his invention. The substance of what Mr. Wilson said has been published in our columns before, but the following will be of interest:---

"The present car has been on test throughout Canada and the United States, and has travelled the great distance of 10, 000 miles, carrying the tremendous cargo of 27 tons, without the slightest perceptible weakening in the wearing parts, and the time made averages 35 miles per hour. Parties in the United States have offered me $50,000 for my patent, but I hold it higher than that. And in fact I do not wish to sell it, as a stock company is about being organized to manufacture the cars and is now looking for a suitable place to erect works. I am much pleased with what I have seen of Milwaukee, and shall recommend that the works be located here." The car was in the city yesterday, but passed on north, where it will be inspected by the Northern Pacific officials and the officers of other roads. It will then return to Milwaukee, for the benefit of the St. Paul folk. The Canadian Government has already ordered 200 of these cars for the Inter-Colonial road, and other extensive orders have been received.

SOUTH ONTARIO NOMINATION .- The Mail says :- One of the largest Liberal-Conservative meetings ever held in South Ontario took place at Whitby to-day, (Feb. 28.) representatives being present from all parts of the riding. The business was the selection of a candidate to contest South Ontario at the coming election for the Dominion House, The following gentlemen were nominated :-Messrs. John Miller, Pickering; Wm. Smith, Columbus; J. Bickell, Brooklyn; Sir. John Macdonald; F. N. Cowan, Oshawa; N. W. Brown, Whitby; Dr. Gunn, Whitby; J. S. Larke, Oshawa; J. H. Long, Whitby; N. F. Patterson, Port Perry; Mr. Hamlin, Oshawa; M. O'Donovan, Whitby; A. Johnston, Pickering; and J.R. Philip, Whitby. A telegram was received from Sir. John declining the nomination, and all but the three first-named gentlemen resigned. The ballott resulted in favor of Mr. William Smith, of Columbus, and the nomination was enthusiastically made unanimous. After stirring speeches and cheers for the Queen, Sir. John, and the candidate, the meeting broke up.

in so eulogistic terms. In such an exhibition as is proposed we expect to see Canada, and particularly Newcastle, take the first rank.

WE STAND CORRECTED .- The Peterboro'

Review takes exception to our referring to Mr. Hartley as something more than an amateur, "if not a skilled professional" skater. Not knowing anything concerning Mr. H.'s antecedents, we made those remarks on account of his proficiency. If he is not a professional in the ordinary sense of the word he is as far as skill is concerned, so that our reference was strictly correct, although it might have given a wrong impression to the public. The Review says: "As we stated to the judges, on the night of the carnival, Mr. Hartley is an amateur in every sense of the word, and has not the slightest inclination to enter the professional arena. As we have been present at every contest that Mr. Hartley has ever taken part in, we know whereof we speak." We would not doubt this for a moment, and we can assure our contem, we meant to be complimentary, without entertaining the first jealous thought. We had not the slightest objection to Mr. Hartley carrying off the prize, in fact, we never entertained the thought for a moment that he should not be allowed to compete. Our contemporary says we cast a "slur" on that gentleman by styling him "something more than an amateur.". If he feels insulted on that score, we will certainly apologize as humbly as we possibly know how. Such a flagrant breach of etiquette on our part, must be credited to a defect in early training rather than to our heart. Or if Peterboro' as a community is humiliated and heart-sore over the unkind reference, we expatiate our error by herewith falling on our knees and begging Peterboro's pardon. We thought-indeed we did-that we stated the naked truth, for we overheard the popular representative of the Review remark that Mr. Hartley skated every day, and in fact did hardly anything else but skate. The Review admits, very modestly itself, that Mr. Hartley is the most graceful skater in the world; and so in view of these facts, if we did not hate polemics, we could soon prove to even the satisfaction of Peterboro', that that gentleman is a professional in the sense of high proficiency in an art he pursues for pleasure rather than profit. Sooner, however, than keep the Peterboroughites in a state of distraction, we will state publicly-to the world-that Mr. Hartley is an amateur, and don't let anybody forget it. We will not say anything about the self adulatory remarks indulged in by our contemporary, who rejoices in the "boss" skater, and plate-glass fronts; we will bury the hatchet in the darkest abyss of oblivion, and in the language of Theophilus Muggs, "let that pass." If ever the people of Peterboro' find any person who thinks more of them than they do of themselves (?) we will take occasion to rejoice with them over their success. We will go still further. If ever it should transpire that anybody is discovered, a better skater than Mr. Hartley, we will weep bitter tears of sorrow and mourn with them in their distress. We are with you under all circum-

him 'drunk as a lord,' and since then he has been helplessly drunk. He appears to be a worthless scoundrel, and should be exposed.

"A similar performance was gone through at Madoe by a brace of precious worthies. who are wanted at several points for their peculiar ways of 'turning an honest penny.' Such an individual, his name we did not learn, it may be Russell, or it may not, visited Port Hope this week and was engaged in a similar business as the Russell referred to above. So far as we can learn he has not succeeded to any great extent in getting business men to put their advertisements in his "album." He promises to get out a certain number-fourteen, we believe-and leave them at the different hotels in neighboring towns. As we know nothing concerning the gentleman more than the reputation generally borne by such characters, we will not denominate him a humbug, a swindle, or a dead-beat, but the man who wants to beat the printer down to a price one-tenth of what he expects to receive for the work when done, is trying to run a game too sharp to be strictly honest, and his intentions as to giving "business men" the worth of their money. might very naturally be doubted. We would add in a friendly way, be sure of your man, and do not pay money in advance.

CALCUTT'S WINNIPEG BREWERY .- Mr. Jas. Calcutt, our well known brewer, has a brother, Mr. Henry Calcutt, doing a big business in the same line in Winnipeg. A work lately issued, entitled "Winnipeg and her industries," has this concerning his prosperous business:-

"This brewery was built in 1871, and after a series of changes is now owned and operated by H. Calcutt, who manufactures large quantities of ale, porter, and lager beer. The capacity of this establishment is 400 barrels of ale per week and the same of porter, and sufficient evidence of the quality of the productions lies in the fact that he is unable to produce a sufficient quantity to supply the great demand for his make of ale and porter. In the manufacture of cider they drive a thriving trade, making about 60 barrels per week. The dimensions of these works are 60 by 100 feet in area, with three flats and commodious cellars and vaults, where the sparkling beverages are produced. The barley of the North-West is far famed for its richness, and the quality of ale and porter produced from the same is correspondingly excellent, and by manufacturing his own malt Mr. Calcutt enjoys superior advantages. In conducting this extensive establishment employment is given to fifteen hands, and the management is entrusted to Mr. M. Y. Calcutt, a young gentleman of ten years experience, who is a practical brewer. Mr. Calcutt is making many improvements and is at present constructing another brewery in St. Boniface, with the same capacity as his Silver Heights establishment, and will continue to increase his capacity with the growth of the country."

with the new Company that every transaction will be conducted in the most careful, straightforward manner, and that both depositors and borrowers will have their interests as heretofore efficiently looked after. It is the intention of the Co. to do a general banking and loan business, and its success may be said to be assured from the start.

THE FRESHET .- There was quite an excitement in town yesterday over the freshet in the creek. The soft weather and rain caused an unusual quantity of water to come down; fortunately, however, there. was but little ice. The railway track at Beamish's mills suffered to some extent by the water submerging it, and making considerable of a "wash-out." The trains are still able to pass over the weak portion of the track by going very steadily. No damage is anticipated there. The Lambert Hotel property is but little damaged, though the cellar is pretty well flooded, as was also the first floor of Beamish's Mill, yesterday morning. Mill-st., opposite Salter's dam was completely flooded over, but the ice in the pond was soon washed off and the water then had a clear passage. Fears are entertained, as we go to press, that some of the country dams have broken away but nothing certain is known. The creek has risen several feet since morning, and is still rising as we go to press. A good deal of rubbish and a few logs have come down in the stream, which is rushing along with great force.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE .- The twentythird annual session of the R. W. Provincial Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East commenced at Millbrook at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The chair was occupied by M.W. Bre. David Marshall, Grand Master, the other officers being in their respective places. Among the brethren present were William Johnston, D.G.M.; Robert Craig, Robert Gordon, G.T.; A. J. VanIngen, G.S.; David Ewing, George Bell, R. W. T. Smithett, R. A. Fowler, Edward Cochrane, John Kelly, James L. Winters, James R. Reid, W. Henderson, John Goffin, John Smith, W. C. Saunders, D. A. McFarland, Hugh McPhail, Jno. C. Rosevear, John McCaughey, Wm. We make the following extract from the March in-stallment of Edward Eggleston's serial "The Hoosler School-Boy," now appearing in St. Nicholas. Jack, the "Hoosler School-Boy," has discovered some unencumbered property in Kentucky belonging to Mr. Francis Gray. This he intends to attach for a debt owed his father. His mother having declined an offer of compromise from Tinkham, Gray's lawyer, these latter are discussing the reason of her refusal. ("They're are trind of something" sold to take it.

"They've got wind of something," said Mr. Tinkham to Mr. Gray, "or elso they are waiting for you to resume payment,or else the widow's got money from somewhere for her present necessities."

"I don't know what hope they can have of getting money out of me," said Gray, with a laugh. "I've tangled every-thing up, so that Beal can't find a thing to levy on. I have but one piece of property exposed, and that's not in this State."

"Where is it?" asked Tinkham.

"It's in Kentucky, five miles back of Port William. I took it last week in a trade, and I haven't yet made up my mind what to do with it."

"That's the very thing," said Tinkham. with his little face drawn to a point,-"the very thing. Mrs. Dudley's son came home from Port William yesterday, where he has been at the she will not sell the claim at any price."

"I'll make a mortgage to my brother on that land, and send it off from the mail-boat as I go down to-morrow," said

Gray. "That'll be too late," said Tinkham. "Beal will have his judgment recorded as soon as the packet gets there. You'd better go by the packet, get off, and see the mortgage recorded yourself, and then take the mail-boat."

To this, Gray agreed, and the next day, when Jack went on board the packet Swiftsure, he found Mr. Francis Gray going aboard also. Mr. Beal had warned Jack that he must not let anybody from the packet get to the Clerk's office ahead of him,-that the first paper deposited for record would take the land. Jack wondered why Mr. Francis Gray was aboard the packet, which went no farther than Madison, while Mr. Gray's home was in Louisville. He sooned guessed, however, that Gray meant to land at Port William, and so to head him off. Jack looked at Mr. Gray's form, made plump by good feeding, and felt safe. He couldn't he very dangerous in a foot-race straight-away run when he was fox. He would certainly leave the somewhat puffy Mr. Francis Gray behind.

But in the hour's run down the river, including two landings at Minuit's and Craig's, Jack had time to remember that Francis Gray was a cunning man, and might head him off by some trick or other. A vague fear took possession of him, and he resolved to be first off the boat before any pretext could be invented to stop him.

To every æsthetic young man I'd give an emetic; young man ! A powerful emetic To each unathletic ! Real jack-æs-thetic young man.

Meantime, Francis Gray had looked at Jack's lithe legs with apprehension. "I can never beat that boy," he had reflected. "My running days are over." Finding among the deck passengers a young fellow who looked as though he needed money, Gray approached him with this question :-

"Do you belong in Port William, young man?'

"I don't belong nowhere else, I reckon," answered the seedy fellow. with suuffling impudence.

"Do you know where the county clerk's office is?" asked Mr. Gray.

"Yes, and the market house. I can show you the way to the gaol, too, if you want to know, but I s'pose you've been there many a time," laughed the "wharf-Tat.

Gray was irritated at this rudeness, but he swallowed his anger.

"Would you like to make five dollars?" "Now you're talkin' interestin'. Why didn't you begin at that eend of the sub-jick? I'd like to make five dollars as well as the next feller, provided it isn't to be made by too much awful hard work.

"Can you run well?"

"If there's money at t' other cend of the race I can run like sixty fer a spell. 'T aint my common gait, howsumever.

"If you'll take this paper," said Gray, "and get it to the county clerk's office before anybody else gets there from this boat, I'll give you five dollars."

"Honor bright?" asked the chap, taking the paper, drawing a long breath, and looking as though he had discovered a gold mine.

"Honor bright," anwered Gray. "You must jump off first of all, for there's a boy aboard that will beat you if he can. No pay if you don't win.

"Which is the one that'll run sg'in' me?" asked the long-legged fellow.

Gray described Jack, and told the young man to go out forward and he would see him. Gray was not willing to be seen with the "wharf-rat," lest suspicion should be awakened in Jack Dudley's mind. But after the shabby young man had gone forward and looked at Jack, he came back with a doubtful air.

"That's Hoosier Jack, as we used to call him," said the shabby young man. "He an' two more used to row a boat acrost the river every day to go to old Niles's school. He's a hard one to beat, -they say he used to lay the whole school out on prisoners' base, and that he could leave 'em all behind on fox."

"You think you can't do it, then?" asked Gray.

"Gimme a little start and I reckon I'll fetch it. It's up-hill part of the way and he may loose his wind, for it's a good half-mile. You must make a row with him at the gang plank, er do somethin' to stream to-day, and the boat's shore to swing in a little aft. I'll jump for it and you keep him back," shake off the crowd. So into the alley he darted, and the bewildered pursuers kept on crying "stop thief" after Long Ben, whose reputation was none of the best. Somebody ahead tried to catch the shabby young fellow, and this forced Ben to make a slight curve, which gave Jack the advantage, so that just as Ben neared the office, Jack rounded a corner out of an alley, and entered ahead of that Jack had given out. Jack had play-him, dashed up to the clerk's desk and deposited the judgment. "For record," he gasped.

The next instant the shabby young fellow pushed forward the mortgage. Mine first!" cried Long Ben.

"I'll take yours when I get this entered," said the clerk, quietly, as became a public officer.

"I got here first," said Long Ben. But the clerk looked at the clock and entered the date on the back of Jack's paper, putting "one o'clock and eighteen minutes" after the date. Then he wrote "one o'clock and nineteen minutes' on the paper which Long Ben handed him. The office was soon crowded with people discussing the result of the race, and a part of them were even now in favor of seizing one or the other of the runners for a theft, which some said had been committed on the packet, and others declared was committed on the wharf-boat. Francis Gray came in, and could not conceal his chagrin.

"I meant to do the fair thing by you," he said to Jack, severely, "bu you'll never get a cent out of me."

"I'd rather have the law on men like you, than have a thousand of your sort of fair promises," said Jack.

"I've a mind to strike you," said Gray. "The Kentucky law is hard on a man who strikes a minor," said Judge Kane, who had entered at that moment.

Mr. Miles came in to learn what was the matter, and Judge Kane, after listening quietly to the talk of the people, until the excitement subsided, took Jack over to his house, when the boy walked home that evening, full of hopefulness.

Gray's land realized as much as Mr. Beal expected, and Jack studied Latin hard, all summer, so as to get as far ahead as possible by the time school should begin in the autumn.

Stupidity in Court.

Mr. Howells, in the Atlantic Monthly, ives his observations in a police court. to show the difficulty of getting an answer out of a s upid witness, he says, if It were necessary, for example, to estab-lish the fact that a handkerchief was white, it was not to be done without some such colloquy as this:

"Was it a white handkerchief!" "Sor!"

"Was the handkerchief white?"

"Was it white, sor ?" "Yes, was it white!"

"Was what white, sor ?" "The handkerchief, -was the handkerchief white?"

"What handkerchief, sor !" "The handkerchief you just mentioned, _the handkerchief that the defendant dropped." "I didn't see it, sor."

"Didn't see the handkerchiel?" "Didn't see him drop it, sor." "Wel!, did you see the handkerchief?" "The handkerchief, sor? Oh, yer, sor! I saw it, -I saw the handkerchief."

'Well, was it white?"

"It was, sor." "A boy who complained of another for assaulting him said that he knocked him down. "How did he knock you down?" asked the judge: "Did he knock you down with his fist or his open hand?"

"Yes, sor." "Which did he do it with?"

"Put his arms round me and knocked me down.'

"Then he didn't knock you down. He threw you down." "Yes, sor. He didn't t'row me down.

He put his arms around me and knocked me down."

How Much Land for Each.

The recent Census gives the total area the United States (not reckoning Alaska) at 3,025,600 square miles, of which 55,600 square miles are occupied by water-lakes, rivers, bays, etc.,-leaving 2,970,000 square miles of land, or 1,900,800,000 acres.—The total popu-lation is 50,155,783. This land, evenly divided, would give to every man, woman, and child 37⁴ acres, and an onion patch⁻³ by 9 rods, over. If we divide the population into families of six per-sons, each family could be allotted 227 acres. Allowing one quarter of the land section" (160 acres) for each family .--But the census figures now being made up are for June 1880. Since then over one million people from foreign lands "have come to stay," as American citizens, and the natural increase has been considerable; the total increase from 1870 to 1880 was 3 per cent. per annum. So we have now (March 1, 1882) nearly fifty-four million inhabitants. As the area of land does not expand, there are now less than 36 acres each, or not 152 acres per family, and the average amount is rapidly decreasing.-No cause for alarm, however .- American Agriculturist for March.

AMONG THE RIFLE-PITS.

Fifty yards in front of the abatis the pickets were stationed. When first the slege began, picketing was daugerous business. Both armies were bent on fight, and picketing meant simply sharpshooting. As a consequence, at first the pickets were posted only at night, so that from midnight to midnight the poor fellows lay in their rifle-pits under a broiling July sun, with no protection from the shede of a little pi ish erected over head, or in front of the pit as a screen. There the picket lay, flat on his face, picking off the enemy's men whenever he could catch sight of a head or even so much as a hand; and right glad would he be if, when the long-awaited relief came at length, he had no wounds to show. But later on, as the siege progressed, this murderous state of affairs gradually disappeared. Neither side found it pleasant, nor profitable, and nothing was gained by it. It decided nothing, and gaded by it. It decided nothing, and only wasted powder and ball. And so, gradually, the pickets on both sides began to be on quite friendly terms. It was no unusual thing to see a Johnny picket— who would be posted scarcely a hundred yards away, so near were the lines—lay down his gun, wave a piece of white paper as a signal of truce, walk out into the neutral ground between the picketlines, and meet one of our own pickets, who, also dropping his gun, would go out to inquire what Johnny might want to.

produce a boat that shall be self-righting, that shall be very fast, and that cannot sink unless entirely torn to pieces. The boat is comparatively small, as it is intended only for an experimental or model boat. If successful, it is intended to build ocean steamships upon the same principle. It appears that the inventor's aim is to make a selfrighting boat by carrying the sides over the deck in the form of a dome. The side frames are made continuous and meet over the center of the hull, or, in other words, the frames begin at one side of the keel, rise directly at an angle of about forty-five de-grees to the water-line, and then curve in-ward over the deck and back on the same lines to the keel. A section of the hull taken in the center is thus of a wedge shape, with a sharp edge below and rounded top above. This wedge form is preserved hrough the entire length of the hull. There are no hollow lines in the boat, and the sharp, overhanging bow is intended to part the water near the surface and to form a long, tapering wedge. The widest part of the hull is exactly at the middle, both ends being precisely alike. This is quite different from the flat bottom and straight sides, with comparatively bluff or rounded bows, of the ordinary ocean steamship. The boat is intended to be much deeper aft than for-ward, and the deck will be much higher above water at the bows than at the stern. There will be no houses or raised construc-tions of any kind on the deck, except the dome-shaped pilot-house, the ventilators, and the smoke-stacks. There will be an open railing around the center of the deck, so that it can be used as a promenade in pleasant weather or whenever the seas do not break over the boat. The object of this unbroken dome-shaped deck is to enable the boat to throw off all waves that break over the bows or sides in rough weather. It is thought that, instead of shipping tons of water and retaining it on deck till it can be drained off, the boat will shed or throw off the water from the long, sharp bows and open deck, and will at once relieve herself of the weight of the water. Waves striking the rounded deck will have no hold on the boat, and their force will thus be spent harmlessly. The sharp wedge shape and rounded top of the hull, and the fact that even when fully loaded the center of gravity

the Hudson, an attempt is being made to

In a new steamboat now building upon

will be below the water-line, makes the model self-righting. From experiments with a small model, this claim of the inventor seems to be clearly proved. In lay-ing out the boat, only the spar deck will be used for passengers, the main deck and all below being intended for cargo, coal, and engines. The state-rooms will be arranged along the outside, each room having a port in the side of the boat, while the celing will be formed of the curved deck above. The to be mountain ridges, sandy and stony tracts, and other "bad lands," there would still be left the regulation "quarter saloons there will be sky-lights in the center, and as these in rough weather may be covered by the seas that sweep over the deck, they will be very strong, and will be air tight. To secure ventilation there will be steam-fans, kept in motion at all times, and maintaining a good circulation of air through every part of the boat. For this purpose the fresh air will be taken through wind sails on the deck, and the exhaust air from the rooms will be turned into the blast used in forcing the boiler fires. No boats are to be carried on deck; the life rafts and boats will be kept in an apartment under the domed deck at the stern, and when they are to be launched, doors will be opened in the deck and the boats launched in the usual way from davits through these doors. The pilot house will be at the bows, and will be entirely inclosed. It will not rise much above the deck, and will be entered from below.

There will be no masts or sails, as it is intended to depend wholly on the engines -wG for propulsion. In constructing the hull, to secure great strangth, three heavy trusses or "hog frames," are to be placed on the keel, each one rising to the spar deck and securely fastened to the side frames of the boat. The ceiling will be double, and placed diagonally on the frames. In the larger steambins, the absence of sailing obtained, and all business in the U. S. Patent Office, or in the Courts attended to for moderate fees. We are opposite the U. S. Patent Office, engaged in Patent business exclusively, and can obtain Patents in less time than those remote from Washlarger steamships, the absence of sailing power will be compensated for by two extra engines and two supplementary screws, that intolerable heat, excepting the scanty can be employed in case the larger screw is ington. When model or drawing is sent we advise as to est or the main engines break down.-The World's Work, in THE CENTURY for March.

some coffee to trade for tobacco? 'Johnny Picket,' here, wants some coffee." Or, may be he wanted to trade papers, a Richmond Enquirer for a New York Herald or Tribune, "even up and no odds." Or, he only wanted to talk about the news of the day—how "we 'uns whipped you 'uns up the valley the other day"; or how, "if we had Stonewall Jackson yet, we'd be in Washington be-fore winter"; or may be he only wished to have a friendly game of cards!

There was a certain chivalrous stiquette developed through this social intercourse of deadly foemen, and it was really admirable. Seldom was there breach of confidence on either side. It would have gone hard with the comrade who should have ventured to shoot down a man in gray who had left his gun and come out of his pit under the sacred protection of a piece of white paper. If disagreement ever occurred in bartering, or high words arose in discussion, shots were never fired en/e. until due notice had been given. And I find mentioned in one of my old army letters that a general fire along our entire front grew out of some disagreement on the picket-line about trading coffee for tobacco. The two pickets couldn't agree, jumped into their pits, and began firing, the one calling out: "Look out, Yank, here comes your tobacco." Bang! And the other replying: "All right, Johnny, here comes your coffee." Bang! —From Harry M. Kieffer's "Recollec-tions of a Drummer-boy," in March St. Nicholas Nicholas.

The Black Bear's Cunning.

In THE CENTURY for March, Charles C. Ward has an entertaining illustrated article on "The Black Bear," in which he describes Bruin's haunts in Maino and New Brunswick, relates several hunting incidents and depicts Bruin's peculiarities, in part as follows:

I really think that Bruin possesses the sense of humor; at all events his actions point that way, and there is no doubt that he is extremely cunning and observ-ing. I once had an English friend visiting me, who played the flute. He was in the habit of marching up and down, while playing, near a tame bear I had at the time. The bear had a piece of stick about two feet long, which he tossed about for amusement. After a time, he came to handle the stick very much as my friend did his flute. This annoyed my sensitive friend, and in revenge he teased the bear with uncouth noises. Bruin sniffed and whined, and waited his opportunity for delivering a tremendous blow with his paw at the enemy, whose hat was knocked completely over his eyes. He escaped being scalped by drop-ping flat and rolling out of the reach of the bear. This bear spent much of his time in the tree to which he was chained, and when climbing usually got his chain twisted over and under the branches in a most intricate manner, but never failed to take out every turn as he descended. A friend who owned a tame bear told me that, for a long time, he could not account for the mysterious way in which the poultry disappeared. Observing, at different times, a good many feathers around Bruin's pole, he began to suspect that the bear was the culprit. Close watching confirmed his suspicions. When Bruin thought he was unobserved, he would seize any unfortunate hen or chicken within his reach and devour it; but if any one approached before he could complete the meal, he would sit upon his prey until the danger of discovery was passed. He was betrayed, at last, by the cackling of an old hen, that he had failed to sil-

HER MAJESTY'S MAILS.

THE report of the Postmaster General for the last fiscal year, came to hand a few days ago. It is commendable, to say the least, that the departments have issued, so early in the session, their exhaustive reports of the years' doings. From this report a great deal of interesting information can be gleaned, as to the working and management of the Post } Office, Money Order, and Savings Bank Departments.

The post office business in Canada has rapidly assumed enormous proportions. There are now in existence 5,935 post offices, and the distances in miles the mails to these offices travel, is 41,6185. The letters sent by mail during the last fiscal year is estimated at 48,170,000; post cards, 9,640,000; and registered letters, 2,253,000. This great amount of mail matter, in the words of the report, "shows that the continued prosperity of the Dominion has had its natural effect in giving increased activity to correspondence." The weight of paper posted from the publication offices in Canada was 4,745,452 lbs., and papers to the number of 5,980,000 were posted by individuals.

Money Orders, as means of sending money, are extensively used now-a-days. Nearly $8,000,000 was last year sent through the post. The local money order business is considerable. There were issued from the Port Hope office. for the year ending 30th June, 1881, 1,739 orders, of the amount sent by our people $25,132.28 was payable in Canada, $1,796.68 in Great Britain, and $1,378. 26 in the United States. A showing of the amounts paid for the transaction of the local Post office business might not be uninteresting. The Inspector of this district, Mr. M. Sweetnam, is in receipt of a salary of $2,600. The two popular and accommodating mail clerks, Mr. M. E. Kelly and Mr. Robt. Murray, receive as their share out of the public chest, together, something over $1,800.

The Postmaster here, Mr. E. J. Baird, is paid a salary of $1,820, which is about the average for towns of this size. The Cobourg Postmaster gets $1,870; Peterboro', $2,192, and Lindsay, $1,800. The Postmaster here last year received as compensation for transacting the Money Order business $78.93, and is allowed $240, per annum, for rent, fuel, etc., and $240 as a "forward allowance." The gross revenue from sale of stamps at this office last year was $6,629.80 for which $84.60 commission is allowed.

The salaries paid our rural Postmasters are ridiculously low, but as they are recompensed according to the amount of correspondence which passes through their hands, there seems to be no help for it. The following is a list of offices in Hope, with their salaries :-

A BUREAU OF INDUSTRY.

Since manufactures are steadily increasing in number and importance, all the statistics concerning them would be of great value to the Government and to the public generally, and would form a reliable basis at all times to judge the growth of these industries, the trade influences, and the beneficial or detrimental effects of any existing system of tariffs. Ontario has established, or is about to establish, a bureau for agricultural statig-tics, which, although it may be of considerable benefit, will nevertheless prove to be very costly, and it is a question whether the results will justify the outlay. Agriculture, especially in Canada, although of primary importance, is not affected to nearly the same extent by legislation as are manufactures. The latter, in a young country, depend for their development almost entirely upon the protecting policy of the Government. While it is yet to be seen whether Mowat's scheme will prove of sufficient value to be remunerative in a legislative sense, there can be no doubt of the utility of the one we propose, with nothing like the expense connected with it. If the Government would make it imperative on the part of all manufacturers to report, half-yearly or yearly to the Finance Minister, as to the number of hands employed, wages paid, capital employed, total products of year, quantity imported and exported, and any other information desired or useful, we would have all the data necessary to obtain an exact idea of the manufacturing wealth of the Dominion, besides saving the inconvenience and expense of personal inspection. The whole conditions of our manufacturing industries could be seen at a glance, the effect of the tariff, and just when and where a change was desirable. A budget speech, which at the most can but deal in generalities, and may be misleading on this account, would be intensely more interesting and reliable with such a report supplementing it. We do not mean to say that the details of every man's business should be paraded for public gaze, but that the principal facts should be at the command of the Finance Minister, in order to tabulate therefrom a general statement. If the public give an Administration the power of inaugurating and carrying out a sweeping fiscal policy, they should know fully the effects of that policy on the general economy of the commonwealth. The convenience of such knowledge could be fully appreciated in such a case as that of Mr. Paterson, of South Brant, who would make the public believe that the manufactures were being crushed out by the N. P., because the exports in mannfacturers had decreased somewhat. Such a report would have shown that the country was never half so prosperous in this respect, and silenced for ever these evil foreboders, who, since tney nag a mistory, were never better than croakers. We have faith in a policy

The Napanee, Tamworth & Quebec Railway project is not exactly dead, but is in a serious state of suspended animation.

Mr. J. C. Bailey, Consulting Engineer of the Midland Railway, has been instructed to commence at once the surveys for the proposed road between Toronto and Buffalo. The funds will be supplied by the Grand Trunk.

On Wednesday when the consideration of the Midland Railway extension was before the Railway Committee Mr. George A. Cox, President of the Midland, addressed the committee, pointing out the necessity of railway connection between the east and west, in order that the iron ore of the Midland District might be shipped to Buffalo, and that the coal traffic might be pushed to its full development. Last season the Midland, owing to being unable to procure enough cars, had been compelled to refuse enough lumber to make 1,000 trainloads of 20 cars each. He alluded to the increasing demand for coal throughout the section served by the Midland Railway, and the benefit of securing direct connections between Eastern Ontario and Buffalo with return freights of coal for the cars used in shipping lumber and iron ore to the United States. The ore beds of Eastern Ontario were at present locked up for lack of the requisite facilities either for getting the raw material to market or obtain the coal to manufacture it in the neighborhood. After being strongly opposed by the Great Western officials the preamble was reported by a vote of 27 to 5. The bill incorporating Wm. Gooderham, Geo. A. Cox, John S. Newberry; James Mac-Millan, B. P. Cheney, John Proctor, F. W. Henshaw, John Rochester, M. P., and Alanson Millis, under the name of the Sault Ste. Marie Bridge Company, fixes the capital at $1,000,000, empowers the Company to construct a railway and passenger and carriage bridge over the St. Mary River, which bridge will be open to all railways desiring to use it on equal terms. Work cannot be begun until the plans have been approved by the Governor-in-Council. Power is asked to unite or amalgamate with any company incor. porated in the United States, and the tolls to be charged are subject to the approval of the Governor-in-Council.

He thanks his friends for their confidence and good office hours: 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.; and after that at his residence, head of Dorset street. June 5, 1881. swallowed himself.

In "rising to explain" he says:---

"Hon. gentlemen ca" on me to testify as to whether the manufacturers of Canada are doing well or not. I believe that perhaps never were the manufacturers of Canada enjoying more prosperity than they are to-day. 1 believe that at no period have the manufacturers of Brantford done better than they are doing to-day.' "They contend that they are thriving because they are putting money and energy into their business, and not because of this tariff, which every one of these gentlemen wish to have changed. The manufacturers in Brantford are doing well, the manufacturers in Canada are doing well, all classes in Canada are doing well."

This then, according to the logic of Mr. Paterson, is the "crushing out" policy, the way manufacturers are "handicapped," and this is the speech which Hon. A. Mackenzie held up as worthy of a reply from a Cabinet minister-this is the speech the London Advertiser and other leading organs refers to approvingly. It is time for the Reformers to hang their heads in shame over so brilliant representatives.

The statement that the exportation of manufactured goods has decreased, would seem at first sight to be a serious tell-tale of the inefficiency of the present tariff. It is on this that Mr. Paterson, and the Globe, Advertiser, and other representatives of Grit doctrine are trying to raise a hue and cry. There is a reason for this-a very sufficient reason. We would be safe in saying that the products of manufacturing industries in Canada have trebled, if not quadrupled, since 1878. But Mr. Paterson, with amusing innocence, asks: Why then are not our exports greater? Since Canada has ceased to be a slaughter mart for Americans, our manufacturers find more than they can do to supply the home consumption. We have Canada for the Canadians now, and new industries are springing up everywhere to supply the demand thus created. It is, however, scarcely necessary to take the trouble to refute their statements-Mr. Paterson's own admissions are sufficient. What need our manufacturers care for an export trade when their energies are taxed to the utmost to supply the home trade. Grit doctrines will soon be wholly synonymous for poor logic. WHERE ARE THE TALL CHIM-

ORATORS of the G. W. Ross and Si-Richard Cartwright stamp, shouted them-

Grit party. On Tuesday of last week he made a speech on the N. P., which was regarded by the Opposition as a "stunner" in its way; so much so that the late leader, Mr. Mackenzie, would hear of nothing but a direct reply to it from one of the Cabinet Ministers. It appeared to him and to the "pairty" as unanswerable, and they were willing to risk their bulwarks being exposed to the fire from the biggest guns on the Government side of the House. They felt invulnerable in the shelter of Paterson, the manufacturer of sweet-meats from Brantford. The London Advertiser, the organ in Western Ontario, regards the speech thus:-

"Mr. Paterson's speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday was a clear presentation of the case against the National Policy, and derives additional weight because of the fact that Mr. Paterson is a manufacturer of life-long standing. He proved clearly that the bulk of our exports was the product of the forests, mines and fisheries, the three sources of wealth that are least affected by the N. P., and that the manufacturers are handicapped by the N. P. owing to the increased cost of raw material. Mr. Paterson's speeches are always to the point.'

In a long speech, he mapped out the line of attack in the discussion of this particular question, which is evidently to be followed out during the session. But, if they were anxious for a reply, they certainly got it, without even having to resort to the Ministerial reserve. There never was a more complete justification of the Government policy, from any point of view, than in Mr. Paterson's own speech, supplemented from time to time with explanations in the course of a reply from his opponents. We quote from the Hansard certain extracts which own statements when cornered up. His arguments, succinctly stated, go to show that, although the exports in agricultural produce, lumber and fish, three sources of wealth which, in his opinion, could not be affected by the N. P., had increased to the extent of $30,000,000, the exports in manufactures had decreased nearly $2,000,000 in the same time. He at once drew the inference, or would at least lead others to believe, because the exports in Canadian manufactured goods had decreased, that consequently manufacturers were suffering on account of the N. P. Hence he launches out into such statements as the following: "I am one of those who believe in the manufacturing industries of this country; I like to see them developing." Predicting the gradual extinction of these, he pathetically exclaims :---"And this is not because our manufacturers are possessed of less energy or less brains than those of other countries; it is not because they are lacking in any of the essentials of a successful business career, but because they are handicapped and hindered under the operations of the Tariff." Speaking of the agricultural implement industry: "But why is it unable to compete as successfully in 1881 as it was in 1878 with foreign countries, except it be that it has been handicapped in some way by the operations of the Tariff?" "But what I have quoted will, I think, prove indisputably that the reason our exports of manufactured goods are be-coming daily and beautifully less is, that our manufacturers are unable, because of the burdens that have been heaped upon them by this Tariff." "I know no other way by which Ministers can learn a lesson of wisdom than by studying the facts presented to them, which should cause them to depart from their system of hampering the industries of this country. "What is a revenue tariff?" "About 20 per cent." Referring to a firm in Brantford, to show the evil effects of the N. P., he Government came into power, was doing an export trade with the uttermost ends of the earth-with Chili, Russia, and other countries; but they are being slowly but surely crushed out under the operation of this Tariff-a result which is being brought about," etc. And as a grand finale, he flings this sentence triumphantly into the open mouths of the Ministerialists :---"I say these figures should challenge the attention of the hon. Ministers, and urge them, if possible, to devise some way by which this state of things may be remedied." All this, taken as it reads and as Mr. Paterson would undoubtedly have it appear, means that our manufactures are regime is $4.65. going to the dogs, that they are suffering under heavy incumbrances, and that under the N. An application was received from the Midland Loan and Savings' Co., asking for the privilege of putting up a projecting sign over their new office on Queen Street.

It was moved by Coun. King, and seconded by Coun. Pringle,-That the request of the Midland Loan and Savings' Co. be granted. Carried. Another application was sent in by Mr.

Craig, photographer, asking for a similar privilege, viz., that of putting out a project-ing sign over Walton St., at the East corner of Ontario St.

On motion of Coun. Ward, seconded by Coun. Burcham, the request was granted. A resolution moved by Coun. King, and seconded by Coun. Pringle, was unanimous-ly passed, thanking Col. Williams, M. P., and the Government for the grant of $10,000 to improve the harbor. By-law No. 463, to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors in the town of Port Hope, received its second reading, was passed through Committee of the Whole, and received its final reading and the seal of the corporation.

It provides that the number of tavern licenses shall be 15; shop licenses, 6; duties on tavern licenses, $150; shop licenses, $150; beer and wine licenses, $80; and that two shall be exempt from providing hotel accommodation.

The rules of the Council being by motion suspended for the evening, Coun. Winslow, seconded by Coun. Budge, introduced a Bylaw to provide for the meeting of the current expenses of the year, which was put through all its stages. The blank was filled in with $4,000.

Reference was made to the case of Mr. Gibbs, who had suffered injustice at the hands of the Midland corporation.

Coun. Stevenson said he had looked the matter up, and thought that legally the Council could do nothing for him. It was not in their power.

The Mayor thought that, legally, nothing could be done, but he would be quite willing to help Mr. Gibbs privately. He thought it a great injustice to our citizens to be treated thus. It was not carrying out the spirit of the Empire we belonged to, to not protect our citizens when abroad.

Coun. McKee concurred with the Mayor. Coun. King asked if $25 would be sufficient.

Mr. Gibbs, who was present, was heard. He showed the paper in which he had seen a report that Coun. Smart said the Council ought to do something towards having jus-tice done to our citizens in Midland, who were obliged to pay poll tax, and who suggested that a sum of money should be voted to carry on a suit to recover damages. He said he had been there about 35 or 36 days when he was asked to pay poll tax; he told the collector he did not think he had any right to pay this tax when he was assessed in Port Hope, and further told him he would not pay it until he had found out more about it. He had taken advice and found that he was right. and so refused to pay the tax imposed upon him. He was sued in Division Court and fined $2 and $2.25 costs, or in default of paying the same, a term in Barrie gaol. His tools were seized, and after being kept for three weeks were sold, bringing about $7. The charge for poll tax was withdrawn, but he was sued for not paying it. $45 would be what he would want. He had sued the corporation for $1,300 damages. Coun. Ward said he thought it was certainly a very hard case, but it would set a bad precedent to vote money for such a purpose. Every man hereafter who got into trouble of this kind would be sure to claim similar protection. Besides he would not become a party to such a proposal as Mr. Gibbs had made. Personally, he was quite willing to help him privately to recover a fair damage, but $45 would be a mere drop in the bucket to enter into a suit such as Mr. Gibbs proposed. It would have to be taken to a superior court, and anyone who had experience in this kind of law knew what it would cost. He would advise him to enter his complaint in Division Court and sue for small damages. In such a case he

The country is full of the doings of this great little man. Personally he is one of the poorest specimens of the genus homo one would see in a day's journey on the streets of a large city. He is not much over 5 feet 2 inches in height, and weighs about 100 pounds. He is a sickly man, always taking medicine. He is unimpressive in manner, and has a dazed, shamed look, as if he dreaded criticism. He is dark, swarthy, and his face has a Jewish cast. He was called on to speak recently at a railroad meeting in Boston, but he simpered and stammered like a school boy. He could only utter a few school boy. He could only utter a few will do likewise. The Marine Band will be words, when he sat down confused. Yet in the lobby in the rear of the Speaker's this little, feeble, sickly looking fellow is desk. During and after the ceremonies one of the most daring speculators of the age, and the most wonderful manipulator of stocks known to the history of Wall street. He controls properties estimated to be worth $400,000,000. Nobody, not even himself, can tell how much he is personally worth. But the disposition is always to exaggerate the fortunes of operators. In addition to his gigantic railway enterprises, this man owns the telegraphic system of the country, and through it has the press of the whole nation by the throat.

We are glad to see our esteemed friend, Mr. C. Lowery, who was in the employ of the late I. L. Strowger as clerk in this place for the last seven years, return to our town again, and we congratulate Mr. Munson on securing his services.

We are pleased to be able to record a very successful missionary meeting, held in the Canada Presbyterian Church of this place, on Monday evening. The resident pastor, Rev. A. A. Drummond, acted as chairman the speakers were the Rev. Mr. Cameron, of Pickering, and the Rev. Mr. Abram, of Whithy, who delivered eloquent addresses on the subject of Home and Foreign Missions. At the close Mr. A. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. John McDonald, moved a vote of thanks to the speakers for the able addresses, which was carried unanimously. It is with pleasure we note the improvement of business in this place. We notice a great rush at Mr. Miller's store for fresh fish. I have been informed he sold out a barrel of fresh sea herrings in a few hours, besides a quantity of halibut, haddies and bloaters, and has ordered another shipment for this week.

The store lately occupied by Mr. W. Wagstaff, corner of Mill and King streets, is again occupied, and presents a very lively appearance. It is situated on one of the most prominent corners in town. Mr. Munson, late in the employ of Lyle & Bro. Bowmanville, who is noted for being very obliging and attentive to his customers, intends keeping a first class stock of groceries, crockery, glassware, provisions, flour and feed of all kinds, and in addition will keep all kinds of fresh meats, delivered daily as ordered. We wish him success.

There is a probability of an extensive creamery and cheese factory being started in our neighborhood. The farming com-munity are becoming alive to their own in-terests in this matter. The manner in which butter has been handled by our country merchants, has brought that article into bad repute, lowering the price some 50 per cent. More particulars in my next.

We are sorry to have to chronicle an acci dent, which occurred to a young boy on the Newcastle skating rink, on the evening of Friday last. Joseph Woodward while skating with several others, accidentally fell and broke his leg in two places, and also sprain ed his ankle. He was immediately taken to Dr. McNaughton's office, where the poor lad was attended to. We understand he is do-ing well under his kind treatment.

The Committee on Naval Affairs is ready to report a bill appropriating $10,000,000 for a new navy, and the impression in naval circles is that no very heavy iron clads will be built, but a number of comparatively light but very strong and swift sailing ves-sels. The policy of the United States would seem to be to make our navy formidable to the merchant ships of other powers. When we have such ships as can be built for $10. 000,000, England, France, Spain, Germany and Norway, the only countries that have large shipping interests, will hesitate long before they appeal to the last argument of nations. England is the only country with which we have a remote possibility of war. We have such a wonderful advantage in the width of the Atlantic Ocean, and the ease with which we could take Canada (?) or Cuba in case of war with England or Spain, that many doubt the necessity of keeping up an expensive naval establishment. It would be a very serious thing for England to send her iron-clad fleet to our shores, for by so doing she would uncover her only defence against her ever armed and ready neighbors on the continent. But the truth is we need sailors more than ships, and the only way to secure them in abundance is to revive American commerce. A large number of brawny sailors, with nerves braced and stomachs seasoned by long familiarity with the sea, would be a powerful bulwark against the navies of Europe. Captain Eads can build an iron-clad in a month. But it will take the United States longer than that to make a sailor.

In Verona, Italy, the official intrusted by the Syndic to issue licenses for marriage, mixed up the names of the applicants in such sort that when the day arrived for uniting a number of young couples, the wrong people found themselves named in the document and had to choose between taking the partners selected for them, or postponing their marriage altogether for some time. With much reluctance on the part of some, and joy on the part of others, the ceremony was allowed to proceed, a number of people who, until then, had been strangers from one another, being declared respectively man and wife in true Italian form. In the opinion of the Syndic this was not a matter of much importance, it being certain, in that gentleman's opinion, that thus mated they would experience quite as few disappointments as they would had they each chosen their own mates for life; while by promptly agreeing to accept the official arrangement they had saved the State representatives much trouble and not waste the time of its clerke in preparing fresh licenses in return for the fees.

A Continental observer, M. de Merejowsky, has lately studied the question whether the lower crustaceans distinguish colors. He experimented chiefly with larvæ of Balanus, a cirrhipede crustacean, also some marine copepoda. The little creatures, enclosed in a vessel, seemed fully alive to the difference between light of any kind and darkness; for, whereas, in the dark, they were scattered through out the vessel, they always gathered about a ray of any light, coming from a light, not the quality, that effects them.

Rules for Lent.

The following regulations have been laid down for observance in the Catholic Church during the Lenten season :--

1st, All days in Lent, Sundays excepted, are days of fast and abstinence for those who are obliged by the law of fasting. 2nd. By a special dispensation of the Holy See, 1878, for 10 years, the use of flesh meat is allowed at every meal on Sunday, and once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, except the Saturday of ember week and the Saturday before easter.

3rd. The Church exempts from the law of fasting.

1. Those who have not attained their twenty-first year, though persons who have not attained that age are exhorted to mortify themselves and subdue their passions by fasting and prayer.

2 The sick and infirm from old age and and the weakly; those who are obliged to work hard, which they could not perform if they fasted; woman bearing or nursing children; and, in fine, those whose health would be sericesly impaired by fasting. All should abatain from flesh meat on those days prescribed, unless lawfully dispensed by their pastors; and those who are thus d spensed with the law of fasting or abstinence are still rejoined to redeem their sins by prayer and almsdeeds. We exhort the project and anis-three times the day of the stand day. Mary, and to make an official in the poor-box during Lent for the orphans.

2. Persons unable to fast on account of age, delicate health. hard labour, or other legitimate causes should abstain as much as possible from flesh meat, except when it was allowed by general dispensation.

4. Custom has permitted in this severe climate a small collation, about one-fourth of a meal at night, and a cup of coffee or tea with a morsel of bread in the morning. The use of fish is not allowed with meat at the same meal. Eggs, butter and cheese are permitted at the night collation; also fasting food may be fried in lard, where butter cannot be easily procured.

Air and Water.

The following was recently read by Dr. C. A. The air extends from the surface of the earth heavenward in its purity, and three-fifths of our earth is Professor B. A. Gould.

Benjamin Aptherp Gould was born in Boston, September 27, 1824. He is the son of the late Benjamin Apthorp Gould and Lucretia Dana Goddard. His childhood was marked by many precocious indications of genius, which have been laid up in the memory of a united and gifted family, in which bis relations, filial, fraternal, and paternal, have been singularly loyal, bonor-able, and affectionate. When three years old he read easily and with sufficient ex. pression to make it pleasant for others to hear him. At five he made a fair original version of an ode of Horace. As a lad he was very fond of botany. Starting one day with his brother in pursuit of a flower which grew at a great distance from home, the brother returned to his mother after a long absence, asking what was the matter with his compunion. He said they had walked a long time, and that then his brother had the male European excels much more the fallen and was lying on the ground. He (female than the negro the negross. The was sought in vain, and when he returned difference in the average capacity of the skulls of male and female among modern home with his specimen it was found that the persevering boy had over taxed his strength, fainted from exhaustion, and after Parisians is almost double that between the skulls of the male and female inhabitants of his recovery had still followed and accom-plished his pursuit. When he was ten years old his family were summoned by ancient Egypt. . . . The general super-lority, in absolute weight, of the male over the female brain exists at every period of development. In new born infants, the brain was found by Tiedemann to weigh from 144 ounces to 153 ounces in the male, and from 10 ounces to 134 ounses in the written invitations to attend a lecture upon electricity which young Gould had prepar-ed, which proved to be no more childish play, but a well-considered discourse, illus-trated by a complete and neatly constructed female. The maximum weight of the adult electrical machine entirely of his own manumale brain, in a series of 278 cases, was 65 facture. He prepared for college at the ounces; the minimum weight, 34 ounces. The maximum weight of the adult female Boston Latin School, taking high rank, rebrain, in a series of 191 cases, was 65 ounces; ceiving at one time five prizes, among which was the Franklin, then the only gold medal awarded in the school. He graduated from the minimum, 31 ounces. In a large proportion the male brain ranges between 46 Harvard University at the age of nineteen, and 53 ounces, and the female between 41 and 47 ounces. A mean average weight of 494 ounces may be deduced for the male, and shortly after was appointed master of the Roxbury Latin School-an appointment and of 44 ounces for the female brain. is further given, on the authority of Gratiolet and others, that the male brain can not made by the committee in view of his scho-larship, while in ignorance of the fact that he was under twenty years of ago, the regu-lations of the school forbidding the appoint ment of any one who had not attained his majority. He retained this position for a year, at the end of which time he resigned. that he might pursue his studies in Euro-pean universities. These occupied about four years, during which he formed friendships with the most eminent scientists of Europe, which lasted with many of them, such as Argelander, Gauss, and Humboldt, until the chose of their lives. - From "Sketch," in Popular Science Monthly for March.

Stop that Cough,

Or it will terminate in that dreadful disease, consumption. We are aware that a prejudice exists among many persons against medicines which profess to cure a cough or cold when bordering on consumption, or even when the lungs are effected, but we can assure our readers that Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry will do all thie; and in making this assertion we speak from experience, having suffered for months from a cough, which after using many remedies without any relief threatened to terminate seriously. We were, however, so fortunate as to secure several bottles of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and are now entirely rid of the cough, and restored to our former health. To those suffering in a like manner we recommend this excellent preparation.

FORESHADOWED VICTORIES.

The Dreams of Boyhood Realized.

We have heard grim hard-faced men declaim against the visionary plans of youth, and against the dreams of boyhood! How few there are who, like Professor Holloway, can cast an eye around the world and say:-"Behold the fulfilment of all my early dreams!" With him those dreams were prophecies. And we are likewise told that the mind of the first Napoleon was flushed with visions of imperial power even from the very earliest years to which his memory extended. But these are exceptional cases; and with the great majority of men the glorious dreams of boyhood produce no realizing issue. With Holloway the case was different. The sufferings of the sick aroused his boyish nature into a fixed resolve to meet and conquer malady. His studies from his earliest years were controlled and stimulated by the desire of rescuing the human family from the pange of physical prostration and decay. He found that all maladies took their rise from an impurity of the blood, and that, whatever might be the form of the disease, it could be reached and eradicated by a restoration of the vital fluid to its pristine and normal purity. Having made this amazing discovery, he had now (as he then thought) but one further case, and that was, to find such a combination of curative principles as could, under any and all circumstances, be relied upon for rectifying the disordered condition of the stream of life. In the productions of the vegetable kingdom alone he found the Universal Remedies he was in search of; and on the announcement of bis discoveries, was greeted, not with the praise which had hitherto been lavished upon his industry, but with a howl of hate by those who saw, in the general adoption of his specific cures, the overthrow of all the fortunes which they had hoped to extort from their false profession of the healing art. But the dreams of the young enthusiast were now too nearly realized to permit him to be beaten. Bradlaugh, the man of grief, has met with another reverse, the latest being the decision of the Court of Appeal reversing the decision of the Court of Queen's Bench granting a new trial in the case Clarke v. Bradlaugh.

The Congress Committee on the expenses of Garfield's illness have agreed to recom-mend the payment of $15,000 each to Agnew and Hamilton, $10,000 to Bliss, and $5,000 each to Reyburn and Boynton. Barnes and Woodward will be otherwise compensated.

Voting on the Canada Temperance Act in St. John, N.B., took place Thursday. The contest was exceeding close. The first announcement of the result was a majority of one for the Act, but subsequently a tie was reported. It is possible that the real state of matters will not be known until the official declaration.

During last year 300 fewer books were published in Great Britain than in 1880. Of theology, sermons, etc., there were 945 works; of novels, 674; educational and philological, 682; juvenile, 500; history and biography, 437; voyages and travels, 291. The total was 5,406, of which 4,140 were new books.

provision of Nature to keep up a constant supply is extremely beneficent and almost incomprehensible. All of us are so accustomed to see springs, rivulets, rivers, lakes, and perhaps oceans, that we rarely stop to ask the question : How are the fountain heads so constantly supplied with this blessed element? and notwithstanding our ingratitude, these and other blessings are showered down upon us. The evaporation from the rivers, lakes, and oceans, are going on all the time, and the moisture thus taken up is carried to all portions of the world, and the descending rain, dew, or humidity of the atmosphere is dropped at the highest portions of the continent, and furnishes the springs and fountain heads with its spark-ling waters. And no matter how impure man renders the water, by accident or design, no matter how filthy it is thrown into the street or river, purification is constantly going on for the benefit of mankind.

So it is with the air. In all the houses, stores, factories, work shops, schools, halls, and churches, man is by various methods destroying the purity of the atmosphere, and often in his simplicity tries to prevent the ingress of pure air and the egress of the bad. But Nature has made ample arrangements to prevent (to a certain extent) this suicidal folly. The good air is forced into key holes, cracks and crevices. By the laws of gravitation the water is constantly seek-ing the lowest places. The movement of the water down the rills or rivers induces purification. Nature has wisely made another law by which the bad air thrown off from the lungs of men and animals, the vapors and gases arising from the decomposition or decay of cnimal or vegetable matter is by a curious series of evolutions trans. formed again into pure air, for its new uses. And in the matter of ventilation, or the introduction of pure air into our houses, barns, schools, and churches, it matters but little where your window or opening is made, for when a window is opened the pure air will rush in and force the carbonic acid gas and other impurities of the room to be thrown about with the effect to eject them from the premises. If the pure air was colored red so as to be preceptible to the eyes, and the impure air was of a blackish tinge, as soon as the bottom or the top of a window was opened you would at once see motion of all kinds up and down, in circles, and otherwise; and if the window is open long enough and the room is vacant, an almost entire renovation will take place through the law of equilibrium.

"Now, then, Mr. Cashmere, are you ever going to get those trousers done?" exclaimed a promising youth on hurriedly entering the establishment of his favorite tailor. "They'll be done to-morrow, sir," replied the tailor, quietly. "That's what you said yesterday." "Exactly." "Well, isn't this to-morrow?" "Certainly not." "Well, wasn't to-day to-mor-row yesterday?" "It was; but it isn't to-morrow to-day." "Well, when in creation will to-morrow be, then ?" "Don't you know, sir ?" "No." "Do you remember the last suit I made you." "Yes." "You will remember that when I called for my money you always said you would pay to-morrow. I discovered then that to morrow never comes. D you understand?" The youth sought the street, and, by the gentle slam he gave the shop door, it was quite evident that he did.

William P. Ridgeway of San Francisco fell in love with the Widow Forbes, and engaged to marry her. He was about 70 years old, and had a valvular affection of the heart, besides being a sufferer from paralysis. His physician assured him that marriage would be speedily followed by death. Unwilling to take that risk, he broke his promise. These facts were presented in his defence to a suit for damages, but the jury did not deem them material, and gave the widow a verdict of $5,000.

A curious and unscemly fight was fought near the corner of Yonge and King streets recently. The combatants were a little wiry girl, about seven years old, with long, tangled yellow hair, and a boy of about the same years. The pair had been selling papers, and the cause of the row was that as a purchaser appeared on the scene and evidently intended to buy from the little girl, the boy pushed the latter aside and sold a paper. As soon as the man went away the tiny Amazon said to another small boy near, 'Here, hold these," and then darted at the boy who had deprived her of her sale. a blow on the ribs of his assailant. Mr. Lannigan, formerly of the Montreal Star, now of the New York World, has issued a volume of fables of which the following is a very good specimen; "A kind-hearted she clephant, while walking through the jungle where the spicy breezes blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle, heedlessly set foot upon a partridge, which she crushed to death within a few inches of the nest containing its callow brood. 'Poor little things!' said the generous mammoth, 'I have been a mother myself, and my affection shall atone for the fatal consequences of my neglect.' So saying she sat down on the orphaned birds. Moral:-The above teaches us what home is without a mother; also, that it is not every person who should be entrusted with the care of an orphan asylum."

The Commission appointed to enquire into the working of mills and factories and the labor employed in them, reveal a most undesirable state of affairs. In many instances young and uneducated children and females are employed for long hours, in attics and basements, without any provision for ventilation, or other necessaries for comfort and health.

The A B C of Dairying.

The editor of the Rural Canadian gave an address on the above subject, before the Dairymen's Associations of Western and Eastern Ontario, at their recent annual meeting, the main points in which are summarized in the following verses :-

There once was a dairymen whom I knew well, And some of his history now I will tell: He started a dairy with much show of glee, But neglected to study his A B C.

His cows were poor milkers, and didn't repay The cost of their keeping, in pasture and hay; He got little manure, and threw it out doors, Where the gun and the rain stole half of its stores.

His pastures were bare, and his cattle were lean,— That he was not thriving was plain to be seen; So he got a few pigs, and was heard to say, " T'll make me some money by feeding them whey."

His pigs didn't thrive any more than his cows, And he found himself poor as any church-mouse. Till, thinking, at last he came plainly to see, He was wrong in not learning his A B C.

Then he made up his mind, and to himself said. "I'l harbor no cow that eats off her head;" So he beefed his poor milkers, and got in their place A few first-class cows, of a milk-giving race.

He stabled them warmly, -housed all the manure, And spread it abroad on his land that was poor; A pit for the urine, a tub, and a pump, Gave his meadows a dressing that made the grass jump.

His fortunes began to go up with a bound; His wallet got plump, and his face became round; He paid off the mortgage that c vered his land, And, no longer in debt, bought with cash in his hand

His home very soon improved in its looks, He took the best papers, and bought some choice books increased the subscription he gave to his church, And left poverty far behind in the lurch.

His sons became eager to get some knowledge. And went to the Agricultural College, Became well-to-do farmers, Reeves, M.P.P.'s, And his daughters got husbands who "had the cheese!

And, now he is old, he sits calm in his chair. With plenty of time, and s me money to spare; A prosperous dairyman he came to be, Just by thoroughly learning his A B C.

Agriculture in Schools.

There need be no difficulty, surely, about teaching agriculture in common or any other schools, now that an enterprising lady has demonstrated that it can be done even in a "Kinder, arten." A New York Tribune reporter attended an exhibition of one of these institutions, and writes as follows of what he saw :---

"A shallow box, three feet broad and about eight feet long, filled with earth, stood at one side of the room. This represented a field ready for planting spring wheat. In another box green wheat was growing. One of the boys took the part of the farmer, and directed three or four others in the farm work. They ploughed the ground, and harrowed It with miniature implements; then sowed the wheat and harrowed it in. The box with growing wheat was abandoned to the cattle by the young farmer's direction, as it is a hopeless crop from flies, worms, thistles, daisies, and other enemies of wheat. The wheat from the west lot' was then threshed with flails and taken to the mill, where Graham flour and white flour were ground from it. The mill was a coffee-grinder. Then the farmer's wife (one of the little girls) went through the process of bread-making, explaining every step and giving the different ingredients used and their proportions. At intervals little choruses sang songs in praise of farm life."

A Retrospect Forward State of Business The First Breeze-Sir Leonard Tilley's surplus -Reduction of Taxation The Fashionable World.

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.)

ОТТАWA, Feb. 21, 1882. The second day of the second week of the session finds the business of Parliament in a forward condition, thanks to the very advanced state in which the opening of the House found Government measures. The second day of the session witnessed the returns from the most important departments laid on the desks of members, and before the expiration of twelve hours the gist of the reports were laid, through the medium of the press, before the people of the country. Already the estimates have been submitted, and we are promised Sir Leonand Tilley's budget speech on Friday next. Such energy and despatch, in furthering the business of country, is most commendable to the Government, and is in keeping with their spirited policy of progress and prosperity, inaugu-rated with their return to power and so happily consummated. The preparedness of the Government brings forth expressions of approval from every side; even the most of the season was as unexpected as it was violent. It occurred during a debate which followed the explanation of Ministerial changes made by the Premier. Mr. Blake, in criticising the Premier's remarks, indulged in insinuations as to the consistency displayed in Sir Charles Tupper and Hon. Mr. Mc-Clelan occupying seats as colleagues in the same cabinet. This could have been borne from Mr. Blake, and would no doubt have found proper appreciation, had not that evil genius of the Grit party, Sir Richard Cartwright, in a coarse and offensive manner rereated the remarks, adding insulting personal allusions to Sir Charles Tupper. Then followed what the House anticipated when the Grit mixer-and-muddler resumed his seat. The Minister of Railways favored him with such a castigation as to make the doughty Knight fairly wince, and Mr. Blake to look unusually glum. As the fates would have it, that very night Mr. Blake was pre-sented with an address by his "admiring followers," and we can well imagine his fit condition to "enthuse," fresh from the scene in the Commons chamber.

of conversation and congratulation is Sir Leonard Tilley's magnificent surplus of four millions. With such a comfortable surplus in his pocket, the Finance Minister could well afford to meet the House with unusual complacency; and the Premier and his confreres had every reason to feel amiable and confident. Seldom has a Government policy been so successful; seldom has a country more reason to congratulate itself on its course of procedure at the polls in 1878. Sir Richard Cartwright spent, during his term of office, $7,503,250 more than the heaviest expenditure of the previous Government; he added over $40,000,000 to the public debt; he incurred over SEVEN MILLIONS DOLLARS of deficits and added THREE AND HALF MILLIONS of dollars to the public taxation. When Sir John Macdonald returned to power with the National Policy in prospective, but not yet a measure passed by the Commons, he found the indebtedness of the country enormously increased and the public trade of the country depreciated to the extent of fifty millions of dollars. The National Policy once in operation, with Sir Leonard Tilley's skilful hand at the financial helm, the affairs of the country-in spite of the most unscrupulous and tesy between a Scotch minister and his unpatriotic efforts of Grit statesmen and

Mails will be carried on the Grand Junction after this.

Two very sudden deaths occurred last week: On Sunday morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock, Moses Thornton, a resident of Campbellford for many years, died suddenly at the residence of J. W. Dinwoodie, Esq., where he had been employed for a time doing work about the premises. Robert Miller, a painter by trade, died at Mr. James Gibson's Hotel, in Campbellford, at about 6 o'clock on Monday evening last. He had been in illhealth for a few days before his death, and ceased work to rest and recover. In both cases death was altogether improbable and unexpected.

The London Builder takes the pleasant professional view that the failure of a public work is not always an unmitigated misfortune, and recalls the fact that Mr. Bound, the famous engineer of the Great Western Railway, said when he met the directors after the collapse of a bridge, "It is an excellent thing that it happened. I was going to build a good many bridges on the same plan, and now I shall do better." This was the recklessly extravagant genius who, after he had ap ut $5,000,000 on a tunnel, said: "And after all the thing could easily have been avoided.' The Sons of Temperance are progressing

At all sessons, but particularly during the winter, persons whose lungs and chests are weak should take every precaution against a cough or cold, as the breathing organs if naturally feeble speedily succumb to its ravages. In spite of sanitary precautions, however, coughs are very apt to fasten themselves upon weak lungs. In such a case ordinary prudence dictates the prompt uso of a reliable specific. The ordinary cough remedies are too often inefficient. The best substitute for them is the highly sanctioned, long recognized remedy, Northrop & Lyman's Emulsions of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of lime and soda. As is well known the action of Cod Liver Oil is particularly marked in lung, rhumatic and strumous diseases. In this preparation it is characterized by peculiar purity. The phosphorus in the hypophosphites furnishes a vital element of the blood, brain and nervous tissues, and the lime and soda supply strengthening proper-ties to the bones of which they are natural constituents. This emulsion promotes expectoration, enabling the bronchize to throw off the irritating mucus which obstructs and distresses them; renders the vitiated secretions health and heals the lungs. This remedy has also been used with the most beneficent effects in cases of scrofuls. As it is exceedingly dangerous to permit a cough to gain headway, the early use of the medi-cine is urged upon those whose throat or lungs are affected. The minister was lately inducted official figures of the financial year 1880-81 into a country living, and in his round of showed the following exhibit:parochial visits called at the cottage of a little tailor. Taking a seat uninvited, he proceed to talk, but found it hard work, as he met with no response. The tailor sat upon the table, stitching in sulky silence. At length he spoke. "Sir," he said, "I regard it as an unwarrantable intrusion your entering my house, and I ask you in what capacity you come?" "My good man," was the reply, "I come as your parish clergyman—it is my duty to know all my parishioners. I know you don't attend church, but that is no reason why we should not be friends.' To which the tailor responded: "I dinna regard ye as a minister of Christ, but as a servant of Satan; if ye come as a gentleman, well and good; but as a mini-ster I refuse to receive ye," which could hardly be called courteous, but the tailor's politeness was outrivalled by his minister's, who, rising, said: " My good fellow, be pleased to understand that it is only as your parish clergyman that I ever dreamt of visiting you; when I visit as a gentleman I don't visit persons in your position in society," with which he departed.

A Lady's Experience.

Mrs. T. A. Gist, No. 1,204 Walnut street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I had inflam-matory rheumatism very badly. In one foot and ankle it seemed to have taken hold with the determination to stay some time; and the morning I obtained the St. Jacobs Oil I could not put my foot down to the floor, even for an instant. I used it that evening for the first time, and the next morning for the second time, and that afternoon put my foot down for several minutes. On Sunday following I could stand up and walk a few steps. On Tuesday could walk about my room, and went down stairs by holding on to the banisters. Now I can walk quite well, and there is very little pain left. Just think! one bottle and a half and I am almost free from pain. It is a wonderful medicine.

The Rev. Dr. Ripley, of the Buffalo Christian Advocate, says: We wish to call the attention of all persons suffering from throat and lung diseases to a medicine which we have personally tried to our satisfaction, and greatly to the benefit of our health. Having suffered for some time past from Bronchitis, and more or less trouble with the lungs, we commenced taking Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisya in February last, and steadily improved through the spring, the worst season of the year for such diseases.

One day Thad Stevens was practicing in the Carlisle court, and he didn't like the ruling of the presiding judge. A second time the judge ruled against "Old Thad," when the old man got up, with scarlet face and quivering lip, and commenced tying up his papers, as if to quit the court-room. "Do I understand, Mr. Stevens," asked the judge, eyeing "Old Thad" indignantly—"do I understand show my contempt, sir. I'm trying to "I'll do it, if you'll only make it half conceal it."

Surplus..... $4,132,793 And Sir Leonard has the prospect of six millions for a surplus this year! Just fancy. Ten millions in two years. Well may the Grit Financier vent his spite to hide his chagrin. Sir Leonard Tilley's touch seems to have had magical effect in converting the deficit of Sir Richard into the surplus of Sir Leonard. The country cannot fail to be highly gratified and accordingly appreciative. Sir Leonard will soon announce his intention to reduce taxation. It will no doubt first take the shape of the withdrawal of duty charges on tea and coffee. The people will thus be immediately and directly benefited. Only THREE AND A HALF YEARS of Conservative rule and the country is brought from the brink of ruin to a condition so flourishing that a reduction in taxation is in order. The effect of such extraordinary success in administering the affairs of the country cannot fail to be irresistible.

the session has been the liveliest known in Ottawa since Confederation year. An un-usual number of members have brought their wives and families, crowding the hotels and even private boarding houses. The effect een to create a brisk shop trade, making has b circulation of money that was much needed by our retailers, who had waited long and patiently for a waking up of the fashionable world. State balls, state dinners, varied by receptions at Rideau Hall, have followed in rapid succession. Dinner parties by members of the cabinet and deputies, have been given in no limited number. Private parties and entertainments have been equally numerous, and the fair visitors who came to our city anticipating a round of fashionable dissipation, have been kept in a flutter of delightful excitement. Perhaps all was the merrier because so much had to be compressed into the short season between the opening of the House and the be_inning of Lent. To night the season of gayety terminates by a reception at Lady Tilley's, and henceforth the milder gratification of listening to the debates in the House, or enjoying a quiet flir-tation in Mr.Speaker's or the Ladies' gallery will be in order. (To morrow) Ash Wednesday will be observed as a holiday. The real business of the session, in the way of debates, will begin after the Budget speech has been made. My letter has already reached the limits of forbearance. More anon. QUILL.

The following story is told of a distinguished Edinburgh professor: Desiring to go to church one wet Sunday he hired a cab. On reaching the church door he tendered a shilling-the legal fare- to cabby, and was somewhat surprised to hear the cabman say, "Twa shillin's sir." The professor, fixing his eye upon the extortioner, demanded why he charged two shillings, upon which the cabman dryly answered, "We wish to discourage travelling on the Sabbath as much as possible, sir."

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE, WHO SHALL DECIDE.-Nothing is more variable than the different opinions of medical men; but when they fail to agree, or to perform a cure in a chronic disease, the patients often decide for themselves, and take Burdock Blood Bitters and speedily recover. It is the grand key to health that unlocks all the secretions, and liberates the slave from the captivity of disease.

The believers are greatly agitated over the expected coming of the Mehdi or Mohammedan Messiah. The prophet himself foresaw this event, and prophesied that he would be an Arab and a descendant of his own house. El Mehdi is expected to unite the faithful, restore Islam, rule over the Mohammedans throughout the world. According to a prophecy that has for several years been carefully circulated among the Moorish that after all Toronto is not one whit in Mussulmans, he will make his appearance on the first day of the month Moharram in the year 1,300 (Nov. 12, 1882). He will be 40 years of age and of noble appearance, and one of his arms will be longer than the other. A religious devotee of great sanctity in North Africa is already known as El Mehdi (literally, the teacher), and in personal appearance correspondsexactly with the description in the prophecy. He will probably attempt to play the part of the Messiah, and, aided by a fanatical following, may seriously threaten European influence in India, Egypt, and Algeria.

Under the management of its able and obliging Manager, S. V. Hutchins, Esq., it has became a fast favorite in the community, and is looked upon, by both the merchants and agricultural community as one of the best monetary institutions that has sought for public favors. In fact, the accommodations granted have been so numerous and far-reaching in comparison to those granted by ordinary banks, that, in view of its still remaining under its present management, 'Mr. Hutchins may look forward to doubling his business of the bank, in the ensuing year. CHURCH NEWS.

Last was the first Sunday in Lent.

The annual missionary meeting of the Methodist church will be held on Sunday, March 16th inst., when the Revs. Messrs. Willoughby and Clarke will be present and address the meeting. We understand other gentlemen, whose names we have not yet received, will also speak.

Rev. Mr. Crews, a student of Victoria College, Cobourg, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday, morning and evening. He is a young man, we should say a bout 22 or 23 years of age, but his discourse showed that his was an old head on young shoulders. It was generally remarked by the congregation, that according to indications, he would certainly make his mark.

Rev. Mr. Laird was absent last Sunday, attending a church-opening in Roseneath. Rev. R. G. Beattie was present and took part in the Methodist anniversary services in Canton last Sunday.

Zion Church, Winnipeg, has extended a call to the Rev. W. H. Laird, of this town. It is no little honor that so many of Port Hope's citizens should receive preferments in that thriving metropolis of the North-west. So far as we know, the rev. gentleman has not given any final decision in the matter. We might mention in this connection that his term expiring with the present Conference year, he can no longer be retained in Port Hope. With this in view the congregation have extended a cordial and unanimous call to Rev. Mr. Jeffery, of Cobourg, whom, many it appears are anxious to have next year.

The Rev. Mr. Robertson, of Winnipeg, will preach in the Mill street church on Thursday evening, (to-night.)

The Rev. E. Cragg, of Canton, preached in the First Presbyterian church on Sabbath evening. The sermon was eloquent and impressive, and was listened to with the deepest attention.

Whatever can be said for or against Port Hope on any other score, it must at least get credit for being a good church-going place. For instance, it was interesting to note that last Sunday evening, just after the various churches were dismissed, the north side of Walton street from Mill street to as far as the eye could discern westward, was one dark line of moving people.

On Sunday morning Rev. A. P. McDiarmid was absent from his church, taking part in the anniversary services at Canton. Rev. E. Cragg occupied the pulpit in his stead.

The First Presbyterian church gives evidence of success in evangelistic work. At the regular Communion services, held on Sunday morning last, twenty persons were admitted by this ordinance into full membership with the church. Special religious services still continue. Rev. Mr. Hastie, of Lindsay, was expected to be present and preach on Thursday evening last, and the following day, but through a disappointment he was unable to come. Rev. Hugh Pedley, of Cobourg, was present at the preparatory services on Friday and preached at eleven a.m., and also in the evening. The attendance at these meetings was very satisfactory.

of the parable, we must rid ourselves of the pre-conceived notions of modern divisions and sub-divisions of agricultural lands; we must imagine ourselves in Palestine, where no fences exist, or fields, or farms. Only roads or paths were lines of distinction. A sower in sowing would very naturally scatter seed on these highways and paths. Thorns, in this country, are very hard to eradicate, and it was hardly possible in any field to so cultivate it as to entirely get rid of the roots; consequently, after the seed was sown, in many places they grew up and choked out the rightful cereals. Palestine was in many places rocky; so that altogether it clearly illustrated in agricultural conditions, the state of man spiritually considered. In every congregation, the present not excepted, there were types of these various conditions of the human soul: there were the way-side hearers, the thorny-ground hearers, the rocky-ground hearers, and the fertile-soil hearers. As to the first, he remarked that man's soul was a great thoroughfare, over which travelled a thousand different passions, the desires and influences of a lifetime, and if shut out from the mollifying influences of the Gospel, became hard and impervious to the seed of Gospel truth. For three years he had been trying to sow this seed in the minds of his hearers, and he knew of some whose hearts were harder now than when he first began. They were way-side hearers, and the devil stole away the seed. Then, there were the

ON Friday last, we had the pleasure of inspecting the gas works erected by Mr. J. R. Barber in connection with his residence in Cobourg, and were greatly surprised at their completeness and extent, their capacity being almost equal to lighting one half of the town. The process is a simple economical and safe one, there being no danger of accidents happening. The gas is made from oil, and is of superior quality, giving a clear bright light. Those of our citizens who live beyond the reach of the gas pipes would learn something by inspecting these works. Mr. Barber is a gentleman of push and enterprise, thoroughly up in mechanical and scientific subjects, and puts his knowledge to practical use.

THE Lindsay Post of a couple of weeks ago had a long descriptive article of the flouring mills of Needler & Sadler of that place. These mills have recently ungergone extensive improvements, some $10,000 having been expended thereon. Mr. Joseph Jones, of Canton, was the master mechanic in charge of the operations and has now the job completed to the entire satisfaction of the owners. The numerous large milling structures in various parts of this section of Ontario testify to Mr. Jones' skill as a millwright. He has received very urgent solicitations to undertake the construction of a large flouring mill in Manitoba, but we do not know whether he will accept the offer or not.

PORT HOPE BILL .- The Bill for the extension of water-works etc., now before the Local Legislature, as amended has passed its third reading. All reference to the aiding or establishing of manufactures has been struck out; also the clauses relating particularly to the same. The $30,000 has been changed to $20,000. The cost of improving and altering the Town Hall has been restricted to $6,000, and the following clause, having particular reference to the same, inserted:-

"Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained to the contrary, it shall and may be lawful for the said council of the town of Port Hope, if they shall see fit, and all powers and authorities therefor are hereby given to the said council, out of the said sum of twenty thousand dollars hereby authorized to be raised by debentures, to appropriate a sum not exceeding the sum of six thousand dollars for the purpose of altering, enlarging, repairing, adding to and extending the Town Hall building in the said town of Port Hope, for the purpose of providing further market facilities and accommodation, and a public or Music Hall, or Opera House, together with municipal and police offices, vaults, and lock-ID4."

THE Canada Gazette announces that Letters Patent have been issued to Messrs. D. Ullyott, Geo. A. Cox, A. P. Poussette, of Peterboro', R. C. Smith, of Port Hope, and John A. Bar. ron, of Lindsay, under the name of "The Midland and North Shore Lumbering Company," with a capital stock of one million dollars, divided into ten thousand shares of one hundred dollars each, for the purpose of carrying on a general lumbering, mining and manufacturing business.

A LESSON TO "GREENIES."-The Main states that two young men named Edward Brennan and William Crawford, of Oshawa, complained to the police on Monday that they had been robbed by the inmates of a disorderly house, on Chestnut street. Detectives Reburn, Brown and Reid raided the house and arrested the keeper, Ella Newman, alias Mc-Quaig, Sarah O'Hara, Ada McQuaid, and Ida Miller. They were taken to the Agnes street station, where a gold pin, lost by one of the men, was found in Miller's possession.

BACHELORS' BALL. - Millbrook had Bachelors' Ball last week, there was a gay assemblage in the Town Hall, when the lively dance was kept up from about nine o'clock to three in the morning, with the exception of about an hour, which was spent in consuming the many delicacies so liberally provided by the lady friends of ye aforesaid Bachelors'. Amongst those present were a few from Port Hope, Peterboro', Lindsay, Bethany and South Monaghan. A pleasant evening was passed, and "The Bachelors" were complimented on their arrangements.

A FLOURISHING INDUSTRY .- It is a pleasure to record that at least one industry is thriving. We refer to the tannery of Wm. Craig & Son. This long standing firm have been making strides forward for some considerable time past, showing that they possess a spirit of enterprise-a thing we are greatly in need of in Port Hope. We understand that this industry is now worked to its utmost capacity. Forty-two men are at present engaged in the different departments of the business. This result is due to a large extent to the National Policy, under the fostering care of which, and the business tact of its owners, we possess a manufactory which, we believe, has but one equal in capacity in the Dominion, and no ful, intend going next month to invest in superior in the class of goods manufactured. farming lands.

ination the parcel was found to enclose two paper boxes containing respectable sized rocks. The publican took counsel with himself and decided to say nothing about it, but such things will leak out.

SERVED HIM RIGHT .- On --- evening as some young ladies were returning from the carnival, a street-statue la-da-da-glass-ineve-young-man, who imagined that the whole temale world was in love with him, and who is frightened at the approach of a woman with a child in her arms, stepped up to the ladies, and lifting his hat from off the hollow sphere fixed on the end of neck, said, "Ah, a nice lawge evening, ladies, ah." A brother of one of the ladies was walking behind, and observing the action, and hearing the phrase, stepped up and hit the fellow a blow that illustrated the law of gravity very clearly, accompanying the blow with the remark, "Ah, and that will be a nice lawge eve you'll have. ah." The nice young man picked himself up and fied, leaving his eye glass and walking stick as trophies of the battle. They can be obtained by calling at the Queen's Hotel-in Guelph. Excuse us, this didn't happen in Port Hope.

THE "BOOM."-It still continues and according to the Manitoba papers is increasing every day. Lots six miles from the city of Winnipeg are selling at city prices, and nominally Winnipeg is as large as Chicago. Some very large stories are floating in Port Hope in regard to the success of our citizens in the North-West, and which we have no reason to doubt the correctness of. Mr. Hayden, son of Mr. Thos. Hayden, leaves here next week for that place. He has a farm of 900 acres within fifteen miles of Brandon, which he bought last spring for $2.50 an acre; the same is valued now at $6 an acre. Mr. J. Scott, brother of Mr. D. H. Scott, is an auctioneer in Winnipeg, doing an immense business. Report says that he pays $25 a day as rent for his auction room, and pays $4 per day board, for each member of his family. However, this enormous outlay, is counterbalanced by a neat little profit of between $500 and $1,000 per day. He was known lately to make $5,000 in one transaction. This is a sample of what is heard on every street corner, and in every store and social rendezvous in town. A church was sold there lately for $126,000 to Northwood Bros., Chatham, half cash being paid down. They intend converting it into a mammoth hotel. Messrs. A. McBean and T. W. Ambrose, we understand, are off for Manitoba also; the former is entrusted with the location of a tract of land for about 125 persons. Messrs. John Carveth, deputy-Reeve of Clarke, and John S. Carveth, whose sale took place last Thursday, leave shortly with a carload of farm stock. Mr. Eldad Dyer, of Garden Hill, is another. "Jimmie" the late popular porter of the Queen's and Robert Munroe of the St. Lawrence Hall, left yesterday. A number of our capitalists, with more or less of the need

Rev. W. H. Butt has been holding special religious services for some time. They still continue.

Sunday was a very active day, as far as church work is concerned, as have been the weeks past. Nearly all the churches are holding special religious services.

THE PARABLE OF THE SOWER .- Perhaps no other portion of Scripture has formed the subject for more discourses from the pulpit than that contained in the parable of the sower. On Sunday evening, Rev. A. P. McDiarmid took from it an interesting address. We give a short synopsis of it, not because people are not familiar with the lessons taught by this very instructive parable, but because the rev. gentleman presented them in a terse, and from somewhat new stand point. He did not treat of the seed, the sower or the manner of sowing. because, as explained, these are always the same, but of the different conditions of the soil which the seed fell upon. It was upon this the whole truth and purpose of the parable hinged, and was what our Saviour intended to teach concerning it. Christ was the greatest of all teachers, because his lessons were drawn from nature; it was in this above all other things, his greatness as a teacher was manifested. The fitness of his similes was always observable. In the same way great teachers amongst men succeeded. A great invention or a great truth looked simple enough when discovered, and men asked why could not we have seen this principle of action before? but the genius of these inventors consisted in getting at the fundamental ideas, which hitherto, although not hidden, had eluded all searchers. There was one thing to be noticed in a preliminary way, which was very important. In their component elements, the four different soils referred to in the parable were precisely similar-they only differed in the conditions. The hard beaten track or the sub-stratum of limestone, when broken up and pulverized, became exceedingly fertile, and, analytically considered, the same as the good soil, which brought forth so abundantly. So with man. Originally the biological conditions are alike. We are all of one flesh and blood, but the circumstances of growth produce different soils in the heart. Take a child and a man of mature mind, and you wish to impart a truth to each. The former with a heart and mind open, receives the truth readily and it becomes deeply rooted, but in the case of the latter the ideas are all formed, prejudices are there, the heart is impervious to new or strange ideas. Hence the necessity for an education while we ure young, while the soil of the heart is mellow and ready to become fruitful. Hence, also, the great necessity for the truth being taught. In this connection the speaker brought out the idea, though not involved in the teachings of the text, that the heart of man being subjective in its nature, man becomes responsible for its cultivation or non-cultivation, as the case may be. If he allows his soul to become calloused, rocky, pre-occupied with the weeds of sin, or in any way makes it unfit to receive the seed that is sown, the onus rests upon his own shoulders. To get a correct idea of the truth inclination had allowed them to become preoccupied with the weeds and thorns of sin. which sprang up and choked out all good desires. In the desire for gain, in the host of worldly pursuits, there should be some room left for the cultivation of the good and true and hely. Then again, there was the shallow covering of earth which conceals the subsrtatum of rock. This was typical of those who, in a period of revival, received the truth and in great joy believed themselves perfectly happy in its possession, but when the scorching sun of persecution beamed on them the budding leaves withered and died out. Such a religion was not worth having. What we wanted was the deep seated germs of truth, which took deep and lasting hold, bringing forth some thirty, some sixty and some an hundred fold. In the last kind of soil, the good, there were different degrees of fertility; Paul was one who brought forth an hundred fold. He ended up with an appeal to all. especially the young, to put their hearts, minds and souls into a state of preparation whereby they could receive the seed and bring forth abundantly the fruits of religion.

THE MIDLAND OFFICES .- There has been good deal of speculation regarding the future whereabouts of the head offices of the Midland Combination. The Peterboro' Review, to put all doubt at rest, says :---

"As we have heard so much regarding the removal of the offices from Peterborough, particularly in Port Hope, we despatched a representative to interview the officers of the company, and ascertain if the rumor was founded on fact. We learned that passengers for Toronto by the Midland Railway are to be landed at the Union Station, that rooms for their accommodation are now being fitted up, that an office is being prepared for Mr. Cox and the other officers of the Company to transact their business in whenever they are in the "Queen City," and last, but not least, the management has no idea of moving the offices from Peterborough, but on the contrary workmen are busily engaged at the present time in fitting up the handsomest suite of offices occupied by the officials of any railway in Canada.
