Upon the first of June the express company and the Midland enter upon a new arrangement. Heretofore the express company has paid a lump sum for service over the Midland line—something like $4,000 for the last year. It will now be done on a commission on the amount of express matter carried over the line. The traffic has been much greater this year than any preceding year. In fact merchants are favoring this way of shipping goods wanted for special sale, as the time of carriage is short and the deliveries of the goods always prompt.— Lindsay Post.

The Lindsay Post says that a letter has been received by one of our town boys from a relative in Manitoba, who went out with the Millbrook party. The writer gives a common sense view of the flooded state of the country, and his account is free from exaggeration. As giving an idea of the ex-tent to which the waters rose, he says that at the hotel he put up at in Emerson the man who wanted a drink from the bar had to borrow a pair of rubber boots from the The Millbrook party as for the sources, are camped on the bank of the Souris river, awaiting the lowering of the river to get across. On Tuesday, May 3rd, 1882, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McNeil celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day, at their residence, Water street. The original marriage took place in New York, in 1832. There were present several of their children, and other invited gnests, and a pleasant reunion took place. There were also many handsome presents, the sons who were too far away to come home sending handsome golden gifts. BASS .- The fishing season was opened on Tuesday. My, how the bass were yanked out. They are biting splendidly, in fact they are more than biting, they are postively snapping. You can sit on the main street bridge and haul out four pound bass. Where is there another village in which that can be done. To real enthusiastic sportsmen our local manner of fishing might be objection-able as our anglers do not fish so much for sport, as they do for the pots. The sportsman uses the most delicate appliances procurable, and when he hooks a fish, skilfully plays it till it is tired out. Our fishermen go in for business. They usually take the clothes prop, hitch on a piece of chalk line, and a large sized hook. Then when the bass anaps, having perfect faith in their rigging, they don't stand upon any playing nonsense, but just fetch him right out of that. The unsuspecting bass comes up with a zip, and lands either in the top of a neighboring tree, or in the adjoining cucumber patch. Sport is sport, but when beef is fifteen cents a pound, the sporting business must be left over till the visitors arrive.-Bobcaygeon Independent. John Shier, P. L. S., and Clerk of the County of Ontario, died at his residence, Whitby, on Sunday, 14th inst., after a short illness. He had never fairly recovered from the shock caused by the death of his wife last April, and although daily attending to his duties, it could be noticed that he was breaking up and failing. Mr. Shier was in his 74th year. He was a native of Aber-deenshire, Scotland, where he studied his profession as civil engineer and land surveyor under his father. He emigrated in 1829, and arriving in the State of New York, settled down in Newburg, Orange County. There he engaged for some five years in superintending the construction of sloops on the Hudson. He made a trip, on foot, through the States of Indiana, Illinois, and Obio, when these States were a comparative wilderness, and he saw the great city of Chicago when it was only an inconsiderable hamlet. He again settled down in Cleveland in 1835, where he became engaged as city engineer, and where he married his deceased wife, Sarah Slade. In 1845 he came to Canada, first residing in Oshawa, and finally settling down in Whitby, in 1850. Here he pursued his profession up to the time of his death. Mr. Colin Smith, of the township of Clarke, went home from Mr. Colville's funeral Tuesday evening of last week and took off his fine suit of broadoloth and laid them across a chair. When leaving the house soon afterwards he met three young tramps who asked for something to eat. He told them he was a bachelor, lived alone, and did not keep victuals in the house. Sometime during the night they entered Colin's house by the window; one took his broadoloth suit and a pair of boots; another a tweed suit with check pants; and the other took several shirts and sundry other articles. They bade adieu to that neighborhood that night, and have not been apprehended, though efforts have been made to find them. A man named Michael Codie, in the employ of Mr. Jas. Buck, got on a freight train at Cobourg, on Saturday evening, with the intention of stealing a ride to Belleville. He was discovered by the conductor and was put off at Trenton. He got on again, how-ever. When the train was about two miles this side of Treaton the couplings connecting the flat car next the engine (on the end of which Codie was sitting) with the rest of the train became unfastened, and the train separated. The sudden shock threw Codie forward and he fell on the track, a wheel of the car next following passing over one of his ankles, smashing it to mummy. When the trainmen went back to couple the cars together again they found Codie sitting by the track, groaning, and he was placed in the van and brought down to Belleville. He was conveyed home on Saturday evening by Dr. Tracy, who, with Drs. Murphy and Gibson, amputated his leg.-Belleville Intelligencer.

A BRAKEMAN CUT INTO PIECES.— On Wednesday, the 1.15 Grand Junction way freight train had just begun backing down to the Midland Station, Peterboro', and was was passing under the bridge near Hilliard's Junction, when Ralph Gibson, a brakeman, standing on the roof of the car next the engine, was struck by the bridge and knock-ed between the car and the tender, which, with the locomotive, ran over the unfortunate man, mangling him shockingly. Both legs were cut off close to the body, the right one being crushed through in two places. The mangled man was at once taken to the waiting room of the Midland Station and Drs. Fife, King and Kincaid called in, but they at once saw that the poor man was hurt past all surgery. He did not rally after the shock of the accident, only asking absently and feebly to be allowed to sit up, or have his head, on which were two ghastly gashes, wet with cold water. The poor fellow lived only about two hours. He is about 27 years of age and has only been working about a fortnight on the Grand Junction. His home is in Belleville, near the G. T. R. station.

At an adjourned official meeting of the Canton Methodist Church a resolution expressive of sincere regret at the prospect of having to part with their esteemed ministers, the Rev. E. Cragg and the Rev. D. N. McCamus, was most cordially adopted. Mr. Cragg has long been regarded as a man of superior preaching talents, and by the unaffected cordiality of his disposition, he will never be without many friends. Mr. McCamus is a rising young man, and by his untiring devotion to his work in every department has won the confidence and esteem of the people to an unusual extent. It is pleasing to see those tokens of friendship between pastor and people.

The recently deceased Irish barrister. Macdonagh, who was one of the leaders in O'Connell's defence and conducted that of Parnell, was a character at the bar. He always wore kid gloves in court, and came thither in a carriage robed, and got up in a quasi juvenile fashion. He had a devoted servant familiarly known as "the faithful Rooney," who was an indispensable element in his existence. Macdonagh was one day promenading in faultless attire at Brighton, with his umbrella open to ward off the rays of the sun," the faithful Rooney, following at a respectful distance. On their return Macdonagh asked: "What did they think of me; much struck with my appearance, eh?" " Don't ask me "I can't get up early," said a poor victim to his doctor. "Oh! yes, you can," was the reply, "if you will only follow my advice. What is your hour of rising?" "Nine o'clock." "Well, get up ("Well then sir, when they say you're a unatio gud that I am your keeper." to tell don't" said Rooney scratching his head. I command you, "said his master. "Well then sir, when they see me following you in this way they say you're a

"LUCY RANDALL COMFORT IN HARPER'S BAZAR.

"I never was so disappointed in my life," said old Miss Beckley, letting her eyeglasses drop hopelessly at her side. "Are you quite sure, Belinda?"

"I've been everywhere," said Miss Belinda Beckley, the younger of the two ancient maiden ladies. "Everywhere! And there's nothing that corresponds with it in the least degree.'

The two Misses Beckley looked at each other despairingly. And if one had been gifted with a fertile imagination, it would have been easy to fancy them a pair of elderly enchantresses in the midst of a magic palace. For the quaint lowceiled drawing-rooms were filled with joint. the saleman's aunt, who had been ar-ranging palm-leal fans on a gigan-tic revolving screen at the back of the ed bamboo screens, carved masses of store, now came forward, peeping at ivory, hideous painted ware, and tiny cups and saucers as transparent as so many egg-shells. And, by way of finishing up the harmonious whole, they had hung their walls with draperies and banners in wrinkled crape encircled with gold thread, lustrous satin; brocaded tapestary, even strips | holidays; but-" of gilded paper, where Oriental plants blossomed, and phenomenal birds, set all one's preconceived ideas of a deal about the stock. She can tell perspective at defiance. And a faint us." perfume of teak and sandal-wood hung on the air, and dingy rugs blotted out the harvest roses and tulips of the carpet, which had been good enough for the half-pay captain who had once been uncle to the two es and a braided onene to make one believe one's self in the Flowery Land. "Japanese, you see," the two old ladies would say, looking complacently at the astounded guest who had stumbled from an atmosphere of newly fallen snow and New York sunshine into this half-lighted, strangely scented mosaic of the East -"entirely Japanese." But life is not without its shadows. and upon this especial evening, as the nephew and heirapparent of the old ladies, one Frank Franklyn, sauntered in, just as the daffodil gold of the February twilight was turning to hazy purple, he found his aunts plunged in the deepest abyss of gloom. Mr. Franklyn looked from one to the other of the wierd and agitated faces. He knew that Aunt Miranda's cap was never tipped at that particular angel over her false front except when matters were very bad indeed; and Aunt Belinda leaned against the mantel in an attitude of limp despair. "What is the matter?" he asked, setting his hat on a lacquered tripod in one corner, and balancing his cane in the angel of the wall behind a stuffed ibis, whose speculative eyes seemed to glare at him from the partial shadow after a most uncomfortable fashion.

"Why," said this reckless icono-clast, "I should think that almost anything would do. The two old ladies uttered a simultaneous cry of dismay and horror. reasoned mild Miss "Frank." Beckley, "you don't understand high

"You're a dear good-hearted fellow, added Miss Belinda, with that degree of charity wherewith a missionary may be supposed to regard a wellintentioned cannibal, "and in a knotty point of law I don't suppose you have your equal. But, you see, you are not asthetic."

"N-no," confessed Mr. Franklyn. rubbing his nose; "perhaps I am not. But why don't you and aunt Miranda go down to the stores and match the thing?

"We have tried," said Miss Beck

ley. "It can't be done," added Miss Belinde, with a sigh. "Give it to me," said Frank, who was great in an emergency. "I'll take it down town with me to-morrow. There's a new place opened near the docks where they pretend to import novelties. Tado Anoka, I believe, is the name painted up over the door. Probably the concern is kept by an Irishman with a staff of German clerks. But I've seen some nice things out at the door. Perhaps I can obtain something to suit you there.' "Oh, Frank, if you only could!" cried Miss Belinda, clasping her mittened hands.

"At all events, it is worth the trial,' said Miss Beckley, cheering up a little. "Tado Anoka! That is quite a new name."

So Mr. Franklyn, on his way to the legal Mecca of Messrs Waitstill & Lingerlong the next day, stopped at the newly painted and gilded establishment of Tado Anoka, a plump, redwhiskered man who spoke excellent English (with perhaps a redundency of h's) promptly placed him-self at his service. Together they unrolled the ivory-mounted banner. and viewed the stock and the palms and the wonderful needle-work waves of the Kyusi River.

Very sorry," said the superior dent, as he called himself, of 'rauo Anoka's bazar, "but I don't suppose, sir-I don't indeed-as you'll find hanything to correspond with this 'ere piece of 'igh hart. There never was but a few of 'em himported. And they're all bought hup. Law bless you, sir, the gentry they will 'ave, sir, at hany price."

"It's quite true, sir, what Simpson pronounced she. "I know says," those banners. There ain't one to be had in the city. P'raps our house may import some more for the next

"Call Alta Graves," imperiously interrupted Mr. Simpson. "She knows

Alta Graves was summoned-a pretty pink-cheeked little damsel with hair brown and shining like a newly ripened chestnut, and dark eyes which she scarcely ventured to lift from the "Oh yes," she assented, in an floor. Misses Beckley, and it only required innocent, bird-like sort of voice, "she a coffee-colored native with wooden had seen these banners. But there were none at present remaining in Tado Anoka's store of imported novelties. Unless, indeed, the gentleman would take a fine quality of paper, mounted on linen-But Mr. Franklyn shook his head. Paper would not meet the views of the ladies in whose behalf he was conducting the investigation, he said. The banner must be of satin, of the same black color, embroidered in a corresponding pattern. He was sorry for giving so much trouble, and he went out, leaving his card, so that in case any new vein of banners or decorations should be struck at the eleventh hour, he might perchance get the benefit of it. Three days afterward, just as the hands of the office regular were consolidating themselves at the figure twelve, and the bells of Old Trinity were pealing their musical noon jangle, there came the smallest of tap-taps at the outer door of the firm of Waitstill & Lingerlong, in which Mr. Frank Franklyn was a silent partner. And there stood Alta Graves, rosy and palpitating. "Why," exclaimed Mr. Franklyn, trying to locate the fresh blooming face in his mind, and associating it oddly with Chinese monsters, mammoth chests of tea, and a curious odor of fresh matting and sandal-wood fans, "it's the young lady from Tado Anoka's place, isn't it?' And Alta made a little courtesy, answered, breathlessly, "Yes, please." Mr. Franklyn gracionsly bade her enter. Mr. Waitstill was at his lunch and Mr. Lingerlong was in the back office arguing with a dusty old client who believed himself a better judge of law than Blackstone, so that the coast was clear. What on earth did she want of him? he asked himself. Had the firm got into a law suit, and had she been sent to bid his immediate presence on the scene? Or was she herself about to sue her principals for breach of contract? "Can I be of any service to you? he courteously asked, as she stood fret." from pink to pale. "Would you please look at this, sir, and see how you like it?" said she, hurriedly unrolling a little parcel which until now she had carried in her hand.

It was a long strip of black satin, ing awkwardness," said Mr. Frankwith a scarlet-plumed ibis wading through white silk deeps of water, with the Sacred Mountain Fusiyama rearing its peak beyond, while in the foreground waved a picturesque tangle of reeds and rushes.

"The very thing!" exclaimed Frank lyn. "But it isn't mounted.'

"Almost any store will do that for you, sir," said Alta, her cheek brightening into still deeper carmine at his evident satisfaction.

"But why didn't you show me this the other day?" he questioned,

"I-I hadn' found it then," answered Alta, in some confusion.

"And what is the price?" Mr. Franklyn asked, putting his hand in a business-like way into his pocket.

Here again pretty Alta seemed to be puzzled. She didn't know she said. Could the gentleman tell her the price of the other one?

It was ten dollars, Mr. Franklyn believed.

"Then," said Alta, speaking with an evident effort, "would you think this too dear at eight dollars, seeing that it isn't mounted?"

"I should consider it a very fair price," said Mr. Franklyn kindly. And he paid her the money, a gold half-eagle and three crisp, clean one dollar bills; and she vanished away down the hall like a little gray sha-

"What a fool I was," thought Mr. Franklyn, suddenly arousing himself from a reverie, "not to ask her to take it to Anoko's to be mounted on ivory! And now I shall have to go around there myself. Very stupid of me; but then I often am stupid. But how pleased my aunts will be, bless their dear old hearts! And what a wonderful pair of limpid hazel eyes

Mr. Simpson uttered an exclamation of amazement at the sight of the ibis and the sacred peak Fusiyama. "Well, I never!" cried he "Aunt Sarah, look 'ere. Where on hearth did you get this 'ere, sir, if I may make so bold as to ask! For I don't know, I give you my word of honor, as there was one like it in the city."

It was now Mr. Franklyn's turn to open his eyes. "The young lady whom you call Alta Graves brought it to me," said he; "and I supposed of course, that you had sent it.' "Alta Graves!" repeated Mr. Simpson. "Our Alta!" shortly spoke Aunt Sarah. "Then as true as my name is Sarah Simpson she has stole itand out of our very stock. And she knowed of it all the time, the ungrateful minx, while we was a-turning over hevery thing to find a match for the banner that you brought here.

And you paid her, you say sir? Her?" "Certainly I did," said Mr. Franklyn, becoming more and more puzzled and uncomfortable. For as to the oval-faced little maid being a thief, he did not believe a word of it. "Very well," asserted Simpson; "this settles the 'ole haffair. There can't be no doubt about it now; for she'ave never paid us the cash for ing awkwardness," said Mr. Frank-lyn. And Alta tried to smile through her tears, and said that she would. "She was ashamed of having made such a scene. The whole thing was a matter of no consequence whatever." The satin banner was lined and mounted, and Mr. Franklyn took it to his aunts, who could scarcely be ecs-tatic enough in its praise. It was a gem, a beauty, a marvel of art. Such a thing could never be gotten up any-where but in Japan. And it was so good of Frank to find it for them, after they themselves had scoured the highways and by-ways in vain. That love of an ibis! And that exquisite Sacred Mountain! They could never highways and by-ways in vain. That love of an ibis! And that exquisite Sacred Mountain! They could never thank their nephew sufficiently.

Mr. Franklyn went the next day to see Alta Graves' mother, on the dreary top floor of the tenementhouse, where the uncompromising

"And I will send my own maid down to help make it all comfortable for her as soon as the month of May comes," added Miss Beckley.

And so, perhaps, the old ladies were not so much amazed in the autumn when they heard that their nephew Frank had engaged himself to marry Alta Graves. She was very pretty that was certain, and men like pretty faces, also they knew that she had been very good and dutiful to the poor mother who had just been laid light. under the yellowing autumn leaves. And if Frank was determined to marry, he couldn't do better, they thought, than marry Alta Graves.

But there was one thing which Frank never told never, nor did Alta, his wife. And that was the secret of the embroidered banner. And to this day the old ladies point it out to their æsthetically minded visitors with conscious exaltation, and say, with many twists and wags of their venerable cap strings:

"Important, my dear. No, of course you can't get anything like it, because it came direct from Japan,"

"Oughtn't we to tell them, Frank dear?" whispers Alta. And her husband answers: "No, dear, no. It would only be breaking an illusion. Don't you see how much happier they are in believing it came 'direct from Japan'?'

"Look there, Frank!" solemnly uttered Miss Beckley, pointing with her crooked gold headed cane to the opposite wall.

"Beautiful!" said Frank Franklyn, at a venture. For he saw only a narrow parallelogram of black satin mounted in a border of glimmering gold brocade, with a roller of cream white ivory, and a background on which a pensive stork wandered through waves of lead colored silk embroidery, and beneath the silver green shadow of sacred palms.

"Isn't it?" said Miss Belinda, her venerable face lighting up with momentary satisfaction, only to darken again into gloom. "But, oh! Frank we haven't got a match for it."

"Not got a match for it?"

"There's nothing-nothing," cried Miss Beckley, tragically lifting her hands, "in all this room that is fit to hang on the other side of my dear grandfather's portrait."

"I always suspected she wasn't reliable," said Aunt Sarah, slowly wagging her head to and fro. "She's a deal too good-lookin. I never had no faith in good-looking shop-girls myself. Didn't I tell you so Simpson?

And Alta Graves, who was unpacking a large hamper of cups and saucers and fantastically patterned plates down in the mouldy basement, was promptly summoned up by the mouth of an eager, panting little errand-boy. She came, colored and a little abashed, but prettier than over.

"Young woman." uttered Simpson. majestically, "what does this mean?" "Confess at once, you base, unprincipled girl!" said his aunt. "Look here, Miss Graves," spoke Franklyn, "I'm awfully sorry to startle you so, but there seems to be something wrong about your sale of this banner to me.'

"There is nothing wrong," said Alta, quietly. "I did sell it to you." "And where did you get it?" sternly demanded Aunt Sarah. - "Confess, base girl, that you stole it. Prevarications won't do here."

Alta's cheeks crimsoned; her eyes blazed into sudden brilliance.

"I never stole it," she cried. "Do you think I am-a thief? Oh, Mrs. Simpson, how can you, a woman, be so hard upon me, friendless girl? I made the banner myself. I bought the satin, and the embroidery silk, and the gold thread out of my savings, and I sat up two nights to embroider it, so that I could earn a little more money than the poor wages you pay me, to buy wine and fruit for my mother, who lies at home dying of consumption. There! If that is being a thief, then I stand condemned. And here poor Alta's dignified bearing gave way all at once, and she burst out crying like a child.

"Don't fret, my dear," soothed Aunt Sarah, who was a kind-hearted woman in the main. "It's a misunderstanding, that's all. Don't $135 was extracted from the pocket of Mr. Thos. Macklam, Brighton, one night recently. The pantaloons, from which the money was taken, were hanging on the bed-post at the head of Mr. M.'s bed.

On Tuesday evening of last week, Mr. J. E. McIntyre, of the Oriental Hotel, Peterboro', presented Mr. H. Galbraith, a long and frequent guest of the house, with a solitaire diamond ring, in recognition of past favors.

On Saturday evening last there arrived in this village a very fine stallin, purchased by A. McQuade, M. P., at O.tawa, from Mr. Francis McKenna, of that city. He stands 161 hands high, is a beautiful dark brown, and weighs 1,800, lbs. Mr. McQuade paid $2,177 for the animal.—Omemee Herald.

The Lindsay Post says that a consignment of thirty five children from Liverpool to Father Stafford arrived Monday. Their ages ranged from five to fifteen or more. All were neat, clean and nice looking. The girls were taken readily, but the boys are not in so much demand.

The proprietor of the German House, his table, a few days ago at one meal, the derful writer is Balzac!" ordinary quantity of one thing and another, playing ball, running, jumping, etc., in the large field west of Mr. E. Burnham's resdence, Peterboro'. Among the others was a young fellow named Ottosen, who, while jumping, had the misfortune to fall in a hole, breaking his leg below the knee.

Mr. Jno. Hewett, of Peterbore', aged 75, has created considerable alarm in the minds of his friends, by his mysterious disappearance. The old man was going in his dotage, and although active search was made, he cannot be found. He is about 5 feet 10 inches high, has gray sidewhiskers and hair, is partially bald and walks with a cane. He was dressed in a suit of dark clothes and had on a black stiff hat. He has a rather prominent nose.

Right Rev. Bishop Cleary has been making considerable changes in the location of Catholic clergy under his charge. Amongst others the Rev. J. T. Hogan has been trans-ferred from the Cathodral, Kingston, to the position of Pastor in Erinsville; the Rev Patrick Hartigan from Peterborough, to the Cathedral; the Rev. James Connolly from Madee to Peterborough; the Rev John Fleming from Lindsay to Madee; and Rev. Morgan C. O'Brien from Brockville to Trenton, as assistant to the Rev. Henry Brettargh.

Mr. Alex. Colville, of Clarke, died at his residence there on Sunday of last week, aged 76 years. Mr. Colville was a native of Argyleshire, Scotland, and was one of the old residents, having emigrated to this country and settled in this vicinity over 45 years ago. He was one of a family of five sons and five daughters, who all with the exception of two sons-one of whom is in Scotland and the other in Australia-came to this country. He was a genial, kindhearted old gentlemen, and respected by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. The remains were interred at Bowmanville on Tuesday, the funeral cortege was a very large one.

One of Prince Leopold's gifts to his bride was a fan of most delicate workmanship and design. The sticks are of goldfish pearl, in-laid with gold, which grows paler in tint as the tapering points are approached. The material of the fan itself is lace leaf, on which the designs of the garland on the sticks are repeated, the blossoms chosen being marguerites, flowers. which, with the daffodil and pink, are immensely in favor at present. Between each daisy wreath are roses, the petals of which are detached, and form a fluttering shower with the slightest movement of the fan.

Mr. Bradlaugh, the Ajax of English atheism, is, in the regard of his Gallic brethren, no hero of Homeric proportions at all, except as a mere monthing Thersites. He was to have been, it is said, actually was, invited to the conference of free thinkers at Paris, but when Leo Taxile, author of "The Comic Bible," the excommunicated of Rome and denounced of Geneva, stood up and criticized Mr. Bradlaugh's claims to figure as an arch enemy of Christianity, the meet-ing agreed that he was quite too weak an unbeliever for a place, much less a lead, in their brotherhood.

Bertall, the caricaturist, who died lately, once asked Balzac to explain a passage in one of his novels which seemed to him in-comprehensible. "Not only to you, but to all," said Balzac; "mon cher, a writer must occasionaaly stop his readers short by some unintelligible passages, otherwise they would think, if they found only what they could understand, that they could write just as well themselves. A young man of Hastings was instantly killed last week by his team running away and throwing him out of the veichle attached His name is David Brown and was not yet out of his "teens." He was buried with L. O. L. honors.

Judge Dean, of Lindsay, has been appointed Commissioner by the Ontario Govern-ment to investigate charges of misconduct preferred against Dr. Field in the discharge of his duties as Police Magistrate of Woodstock. The Town Council of Woodstock, by resolution, asked for an investigation.

The damage by the storm which raged for several days of last week is most serious. On the Toronto Island a large tract is submerged, wharves have been carried away, and houses undermined and destroyed. On the lakes sailors have had some very rough experiences, but so far no loss of life is report-

There has been about 110,000 cubic feet of square timber taken to Belleville from the north on the Grand Junction since the season opened-63,000 feet being from Hastings and the balance from El Dorado and Cookston. There are about 50,000 feet yet at Cookston and Hog Lake. The timber will be taken to Quebec. The Peterboro' Review of Friday says: "Mr. Geo. C. Rodgers to-day shipped by the Midland, direct for Liverpool, one thousand barrels of fine flour. The shipment was made in eight cars holding 125 barrels each. We hope that this is only the commencement of an extensive transatlantic trade."

A correspondent of the Mail writing from Midland says that the hoisting and other machinery connected with the elevator is. driven by a splendid Corliss condensing engine of 100 horse-power, built by Mr. W. Hamilton of Peterboro'. So well adapted is the machinery that grain can be received from a vessel and placed in the bin at the rate of 7,000 bushels per hour in 100-bushel draughts. The Belleville Intelligencer says that Mr. H. Corby has just arranged rates with the Midland Bailway Company for the hauling of thirty cars of corn from Midland City to the siding of the Alma Mills, over the G. J. Railway. The corn is to be brought to Midland City from Chicago. This is probably the first instance of the Midland system of railways being used by any of our local business men for the transport of goods from Chicago or the far west.

An estimable lady from the agricultural vicinity bought a copy of "Mrs. Caudle's Lectures" from a local bookseller. Last week she returned the book with the remark that it did not come up to her expectations. Also, she wanted her money back. The bookseller, who is something of a wag, tarned the tables by replying that when the farmers' wives happened to bring in butter. and it did not suit it was mighty seldom taken back. The lady immediately asked to see some Presbyterian hymn books.—Post, Lindsay.

There are now over two hundred men at work between Peterboro' and Omemce, besides a very large number of horses. A party of newly arrived emigrants were sent out on Friday last, Mr. Beemer having pro-vided houses for them and their families. The majority of the men employed are old hands at the business and are expert shovellers, having worked on many of the Cana-dian roads while they were under construc-

Only about eight or nine places of busi-ness are left in Hastings. The rulus present a very desolate appearance, especially from the railway. Many of those who were burned out are making preparations to re-build, and before long we expect to see the thriving village resume its wonted appear-ance. All who witnessed it unite in saying that it was the fiercest fire they ever look--ed at.

On Sunday afternoon an number of young men and boys were amusing themselves by | Mitchell.

Washington where, on certain days, diamonds, rings and purses of money are given away as prizes in a certain number of packages sold. The other day a lady stepped foward and invested her dollar. "I'll give you $5 for your package before opening," said the clerk. She declined. It was opened. There were only fifteen cents in it. She bought another package; the same offer was made and declined. There were only fifteen cents in that one. She bought a third package. "I'll give you $35." She hesitated, then consented. It was opened and found to contain $500 in gold pieces. This attracted attention, and the buying of one dollar packages became very brisk. gentleman followed the lady to her hotel and asked her name. Mrs.-said the clerk. It was the wife of the proprietor of the tea store.

Aristrocracy in England is coming to grief in every direction. In addition to Lord Huntley, we have another Scotch Lord of ancient lineage Lord Ruthven, in the Bankruptcy Court, who finds matters even harder to arrange. The heir of a baronet is found apprentice to a pawnbroker. The Countess of Mornington has applied for parochial relief. Two noble brothers are in the coal trade. The great flower shop in Regent street is kebt by an aristocratic Major, who is not ashamed of his calling. At Ealing they will ask you if you will have a cup of milk from the "Viscount's dairy," and at Uxbridge there is the nursery ground where a few months ago you might have beheld a Scotch earl and his wife and children weeding and watering the vegetables for the London market. The earl is dead, and his widow has been pensioned off by the purchaser of the grounds.

The Scotchman has been touched sharply on his weak point. They have called Walter Scott "the English writer" on the monument erected to him at Rome. Naturally the compatriots of the northern wizard are wild-first, at the indifference or unfairness of the English residents who allowed the misrepresentation to the foreigners who made it. But the Irish find often greater grounds of comp-laint. At a great sale the other day at the Rue Drouet, Paris, among the entries is "Interesting and Witty Letter from is "Interesting and Witty Letter from Thomas Moore, English Poet, born at London;" and again, "Letter from Sheri-dan, the Moliere of England; born at Bris-tol; buried at London." After this it was easy to digest an 'Ordre de jour of Gen. Lord Wellington to the Allied Armies Occupying Paris. Lord Wellington, to the Allied Armies Occupying Paris. Lord the Allied Armies Occupying Paris. Lord Wellington, the greatest of English soldiers, was born in London, and is splendidly interred in the chief cathedral of that town.

EAST DURHAM. CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

The following circular has been issued to the Delegates :--

PORT HOPE, May 20th, 1882, DEAR SIR,-In compliance with a request received by me from the requisite number of members of the Liberal Conservative Association of East Durham, I hereby call a Special Meeting of the Association, FOR THE PURPOSE OF SELECTING A CANDIDATE OF the Conservative Party to represent this constituency in the House Commons, to be held at the Hall in Millbrook, on Thursday, the

WILLIAM CRAIG,

PRESIDENT. Nominations on Tuesday, 18th June, 1882.

Polling Day on Tuesday, 20th June, 1882.

THE TIME TO SPEAK OUT.

The general elections are at hand. Nominations, take place on the 13th of June; elections on the 20th. During the past four years many broad and sweeping measures have been inauguarated and carried out, and now is the time for the electors to express their approval or disapproval of the policy of the Government. Their record is before the country, and they are willing to submit to a verdict from the people. The time for work is short, requiring exertions by our friends suited to the nature of the work in hand to perform. A desperate effort will no doubt be made by the Opposition to acquire lost prestige, but a party whose record causes the blush of shame to rise to the face of its adherents, and whose only policy is vaguely defined promises, can scarcely expect the support of the electors. Very commendably, the time left for election turmoil is short. Let no time be lost in preparing for the contest, and let every elector in East Durham record his honest political opinion at the polls. This may be called a crisis in Canadian politics, when a policy the most important inaugurated since Confederation, awaits approval at the hands of the people. Of that expression of public opinion, if properly recorded, none can be in doubt. Vigorous efforts are sure to secure a splendid victory; over-confidence and lethargy alone can defeat us.

EAST DURHAM.

Mr. Lewis Ross, the Beform Candidate.

The Reform Convention, for the selection of a candidate to contest East Durham, met at Millbrook on Tuesday last, and was well attended,-Mr. Lewis Ross receiving the nomination. We are sorry for Mr. Ross, for he must know, as well as those who are responsible for placing him in the field, that he has not the shadow of a chance of election. Mr. Ross' political experience has been a most eventful one, and it might reasonably have been thought he would rest satisfied with his defeat in 1878, by the crushing majority of 400! In 1872 Mr. Ross was returned by a majority of 240, -Port Hope giving him a majority of 103, and the township of Hope 290; while Cavan gave only 103, and Manvers 50 against him. But mark the change, when money and intimidation were no longer possible; in 1878, Port Hope only gave Mr. Ross a majority against Col. Williams of 36, and the township of Hope 122,-Cavan giving Col. Williams 261, and Manvers 297!

Mr. Ross was a stronger man in 1878, in every way, than he is to-day, and his selection as the candidate of the Reform Party is an evidence of its weakness. The contest can only be a half-hearted one for them, as they know defeat awaits them as sure as the 20th of June arrives. Of course, they will bluster and storm, but the wind-instruments of the party have played the one tune so long that their charm is gone, and but few care to listen to them. The Conservative Convention meets to-day, and as it is altoget or likely that Col. Williams will again receive the nomination, Mr. Ross can confidently make up his mind he will be elected-to stay at home !

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION Liberal Conservand uncertained of East Durham will be held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, to-day for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the House of Commons, when we hope to see a large attendance. It is expected that Col. Williams will be the choice of the meet-

Hon. Mr. Blake is not going to have a walk over in West Durham after all, as we learn the Conservatives intend putting forward a prominent local man, who, if he does not defeat him, will at least give him enough to do to hold his seat. West Durham has shown symptoms of late years of a desire to direct their own affairs, without the aid of outsiders, however able or prominent as Reformers. It is felt that the interests of the constituency have been neglected in the past, and even with Reformers Mr. Blake is not regarded as the best man that could be selected to represent them, notwithstanding his abilities; and this feeling will yet outweigh other considerations and result in the return of a supporter of the present Government. Meetings for the election

WHAT ARE THE ISSUES ?

This is what the electors are asking themselves at the present time. The Reformers have for the past four years, as they were while in Opposition before, been loud in their protestations, and crying "put these corrupt men from power." They talk in loud-mouthed generalities about increase of debt and taxation, grinding monopoly, nepotism, contract jobbery, robbery of Ontario, centralization of power, and other political vagaries. But do they tell the country what policy they themselves would pursue in reference to leading questions. What the people want to know is : will the Grits support the N. P.? Although the discussion of the National Pollcy is a dead issue as far as necessity of argument is concerned, yet the people of the country will not submit to any tampering with it. The Opposition cannot consistently support Protection; it was an issue between parties, and to sustain it now would be to sink their political individuality, and lose themselves as a party. If they say they will not, then their doom is prematurely sealed; if they say, "we will," they not only condemn themselves, but raise the enquiry in every intelligent mind : what claims, then, have you over the party in power? Whatever may be the developments in future, it is less than useless to discuss the N. P. at the present stage, for both parties have settled down to regard it with favor. The Syndicate is the only other question of general importance, and the success of the Government has been so pronounced, that the Opposition have all but dropped the contention. Only a few years ago the great problem was, how to develop the North-West without bank rupting the country. The marvellous rapidity with which that country is developing is the best possible evidence of the wisdom of the policy pursued.

These are the two questions concerning which the country demands a definite, unequivocal answer, before it will listen to any further proposals.

People, as a rule, hate shamming, and if the Grit leaders would come out and say, "we want to get into power because we want to-not because we are brimming over with patriotism and love to our country," they might depend on the hearty support of their followers just the same, but even the most rabid Grivs inwardly feel ashamed of the delusion.

There are other minor questions, principally relating to the details of governmental expenditure, which we will deal with again, but which are sectional or provincial, rather than general in their character. The worst charges, if proved against the Government, would sink into insignificance compared with the record of the 1874-8 administration.

Perhaps we have erred in saying the Opposition has no policy. If we have, it was rather out of compassion, than real intent to do them wrong. Of late Hon. Ed. Blake has begun to tack his colors to the mast of Independence (alias Annexation.) The American proclivities of the Hon David Mills and several other mem bers of the late Cabinet are well-known, and now the matter is assuming shape as a policy. Many of the leading Reform journals, notably the Ottawa Free Press and London Advertiser, are openly advocating separation from the Mother Country. We leave it to the better judgment of our readers to say whether a party

BOUNDARY AWARD.

This, with the Re-distribution Bill if the chief light of the "pairty" is any authority, to be the all important issue of the coming elections. "Robbed of half her territory," "despoiled of her rights," "reduced in size," "a loss of $125,000,000 revenue," "French, Domination," "defrauded of great mineral wealth," "driven to direct taxation," "confiscation of 100,000 square miles," "dismembered," "60,000,000 acres of fertitle (1) lands lost." "Manitoba made rich at our expense," "total loss to each ratepayer of $300 per head," "annual tax forever of $15 per head"-these are the terrifying epithets and direful threatenings which are thrown at the heads of the electors in connection with this question. It would appear to be a weighty subject to discuss; still it can be easily disposed of. Apart from the wonder it naturally creates in our minds why our Grit contemporaries never before discovered this illimitable resource of wealth, let us see who are responsible for the colossal loss; granting that this disputed territorythis land of rocks and stone, rivers and mountains, snow and frost is as valuable as represented-let us see who are to blame for what may accrue to our disadvantage. Polling comes in about three weeks-it is necessary the facts should be known.

As far back as 1872 Sir John Macdonald urged upon the Ontarlo Government to have the matter settled. He advised referring it to the Privy Council. Had Mr. Mowat agreed to this the question would have been settled long ago. On the other hand, the sincerity of Mr. Mowat can be judged from the fact that no response was ever made to this proposal.

Messrs. Mackenzie and Mowat agreed to an arbitration, which was to have no effect unless agreed to by Parliament. No authority is on parliamentary records for any such arbitration.

This mode of settling the matter was never regarded by either legislative body as authoritative. The object of the arbitration was to obtain a conventional line of boundary, rather than a legal one, as is evidenced by the fact that only one of the three arbitrators was a legal gentleman.

The Parliament to which was submit ted the decision of the arbitrators refused to ratify that decision, a committee of the House of Commons considering that the award was not a proper one.

A similar right was reserved by the Mackenzie Government, and very rightly too. Since that time the matter has remained in an unsettled and unsatisfactory condition.

Willing and anxious to bring it to a close, Sir John Macdonald proposed three methods of settlement-lst, that the matter be referred to Lord Cairns or Lord Selborne, sitting to hear the evidence in Canada; 2nd, to submit the

and if it legally and rightfully belongs to Ontario, we should and will have it; but has Mr. Mowat the self-constituted right to become its premier, and should Sir John Macdonald be villified and unseated because he refuses to recognize that right without first receiving the sanction of the law by which he professes to govern.

He has from the first shown a strong desire to have the matter finally settled by a rightful constitutional authority, and he has been met by as determined an opposition. If Ontario experience any loss through the delay in settlement, the onus must fall on the shoulders of those who refuse such settlement.

ELECTION ECHOES.

We are informed on all sides by Opposition journals that the time is short to prepare for the election, and that it is designedly so on the part of Sir John in the hope of surprising the Grits. They say, however, that Sir John has been thwarted in this, for their preparations have been fully made for months. This announcement is cheering, as any excuse put forward after election on the score of having the elections sprung on them will hardly go down.

The young Reformers met on Friday night. Their innocent enthusiasm will no doubt do much towards inspiring the older heads to heroic efforts. Go in and win, little fellows.

Mr. Hay, M.P., is the Conservative candidate for Centre Toronto.

Mr. Cochrane will run in the Conservative interest in East Northumberland.

North York is to be contested in the Conservative interest by Mr. Anderson. Sir John Macdonald has declined the nomination in Montreal West.

The Globe in its political news says 'Reform" and "Tory;" the Mail, with commendable magnanimity, says "Conservative" and "Reform." Character is best judged in small matters.

Mr. Geo. Taylor is the unanimous choice of the Conservative Convention for South Leeds.

Mr. Bunting, M.P., managing editor of the Mail, will not run for Welland this year.

Sir John was offered the nomination in Kingston, but refused, stating that he had committed himself to Lennox. Dr. Sullivan will contest Kingston with the Reformers.

The Reform candidate for East Northumberland is Mr. Crouter.

Toronto is to have two more industries -one for the manufacture of starch, and the other for the manufacture of toys and all kinds of novelties. Are these to be credited to the N.P. or not?

Mr. Thomas Wilson, proprietor of the Dundas foundry, announced at the Conservative convention in that town Friday night that for thirty years he had been steadily voting the Grit ticket, but that matter to the Supreme Court, with, of he had now made up his mind that the course, an appeal to the Privy Council; National Policy was the best policy for this country, and that he was compelled to cast in his lot with those who supported it. There is more bottom and significance in this one fact than in all the Globe's ninety and nine made-to-order interviews with alleged manufacturers. And there are hundreds throughout the country like Mr. Wilson.

A PROTEST FROM A LIBERAL.

Mr. Henry Lyman, of Montreal, vigorously protests against his name being put on the list of a committee to select a Grit candidate for Montreal West. His letter, published in a local paper, which we give below, is very significant in more senses than one. Not only is it the recommendation of our trade policy by a practical man, but is also an indignant expression of opinion concerning the disloyal and characteristically suicidal attitude taken by the R formers. He writes :--

"SIR,-As my name is published in the list of a committee for the selection of a Liberal candidate for Montreal West, it is fitting that I should say that I have not consented to act in such capacity. If the views I entertain on public questions can be supposed to have the slightest importance in the public estimation, I may say that as be-tween Sir Richard Cartwright and his policy of so-called free trade and Sir Leonard Tilley, I prefer the latter; that while I am convinced the present tariff is susceptible of very considerable amendment, I hold, nevertheless, that a measure of wise protection is needed to develop our domestic industry, and give employment to our population both present and prospective. Further, I must onfess to have little sympathy with those who can think of nothing better for this country than annexation to the neighboring democracy, with its constitutional revolution every four years, and that for no better reason than that it is more numerous and wealthy than we are, and also more aggresive. Here, however, we have ample room to expand, and in time we may become as populous as our neighbors, in which case it would seem unwise to have sold our birthright for such a mess of pottage. No, let us be as friendly as it is possible to be, but let us work our own destiny in our own fashion, and if they will tax our eggs they must eat dearer pudding, or we shall eat cheaper

> (Signed) "H. LYMAN."

As all the good old Liberals of Montreal, like Mr. H. Lyman prefer the National Policy it is hard work to find a Reform candidate.

Owing to "the Queen's Birthday being a holiday, and coming on our publication day, we were obliged to go to press one day earlier than usual.

THE Post is a funny organ. It howled because the Government showed no sign of doing anything in the Trent Valley Canal matter, and now it howls because $290,000 has been placed in the estimates towards the work. It is hard pleasing the Grits anyway. Very much like school boys, they cry when they can't get a thing, and when it is given them they are not satisfied. -Lindsay Warder. -

A GOOD specimen of the kind of rubbish appearing in Reform papers just now, is the following from the Ottawa Free Press, copied into the editorial columns of the Guide:-

"The record of the late Parliament is one long list of the blackest crimes against the people and against free insti-* A bright contrast tutions. to the slavish adherents of the ministry was shown by the noble little band who held the Opposition benches."

If such twaddle-and it is given in endless columns-can aid the Reform party in securing votes we are much mistaken, and yet these people are constantly appealing to Conservatives to support them. That "noble little band" of the Opposition are likely to be still less in number in the next House, if they cannot produce weightier reasons why they should replace the present Government than we have yet seen, for columns of words, empty of meaning, will not help them.

THE Government dredge, Nithsdale is all ready for operation, and will commence at the mouth of the harbor immediately.

GOLDWIN SMITH is coming back to Canada this summer. It will be a matter of general interest to know if the Bystander will be resuscitated. "On the Conservative side there seems to be a plethora of condidates, while the Reformers find it difficult to get men anxious to carry the standard."-Toronto Telegram.

The reason for this is quite evident. Sensible Reformers are unwilling to sacrifice themselves in a hopeless cause.

THE Hamilton Times, the other day, said that the President of the Hope Conservative Association had resigned, as he could not support a Government capable of passing such a measure as the Redistribution bill. This impeachment of the Administration might be worth attending to if it were true, but when the fact is stated that the president resigned his position a month before the bill in question was brought down, the charge preferred by the Times falls to the ground. -Mail.

As the Jackdaw of Rheims was sworn at in every act of his life, so Sir John Macdonald is hounded down at every turn by two or three of the leading Grit organs whose editors point their pens with slander and base personalities, the only difference being that Sir John is not a Jackdaw, and the place he holds in the popular confidence laughs to scorn the pigmies who, Lilliputian-like, shoot their arrows from a distance. A short extract from the popular rhyme fully explains the situation :--

He cursed him at board, he cursed him in bed.

From the sole of his foot to the crown of his head; He cursed him in sleeping, that every night

He should dream of the devil and wake in a fright. He cursed him in eating, he cursed him in drinking, He cursed him in coughing, in sneezing, in winking; He cursed him in sitting, in standing, in lying; He cursed him in walking, in riding, in flying; He cursed him in living, he cursed him in

lastly, an appeal direct to the Privy Council.

Mr. Mowat refused to agree to any of these proposals. We ask who is responsible for the present unsettled state of affairs?

The Act defining the limits of Manitoba does not necessarily include the disputed territory. It provides that the western boundary of Ontario shall be the eastern boundary of Manitoba. That would be true if the disputed territory belonged to either province. Again, the Dominion Government wants the matter referred to the Privy Council-the highest authority in the land. Again Mr. Mowat refuses. The little Premier, as is shown by his every move in this matter, is a bumptious hypocrite, who clings to the arbitration. award, which was never confirmed by any Government, as a vile excuse for an electioneering cry.

Sir John refuses to regard the award as legitimate or right, and for this reason he is villified to no end, and his dissent attributed to French domination.

Mr. Mowat's excuse for refusing to allow the matter to go before the Privy Council was that in the meantime the valuable timber was being made away with by the Government and its friends, forgetting that by the agreement of 1874 the Dominion Government was authorized to dispose of lands west of Hunter's Island, until a final adjustment, but that all such would have to be made good to Ontario if found to be within the limits of the latter province. Where is the robbery there?

Not only did Sir John Macdonald provide for Ontario's rights, but he offered to provide for the proper administration of justice during the same time.

The bluster of these too extremely, aw fully plous gentlemen about the territory being robbed of its wealth is badly counteracted and put to shame by a return brought down in the House, of all timber and mining licenses granted in the territory since 1878. How much land has been occupied? Just 64,000 acres, or about the size of an ordinary township out of 100,000 square miles. During Mr. Mackenzie's regime he granted limits to the extent of 102,400 acres-not a large tract, but nearly twice as large as the present Government has granted. In the light of this it can be seen how extremely ridiculous is the threat of Mr. Mowat to take forcible possession of the disputed territory, because the Dominion Government was sacrificing its resources.

We believe there is a great deal of minsaved over a million. eral and other wealth in this territory,

The Reform Convention of South Ontario held a meeting in Lindsay on Saturday, and nominated Mr. Needler, of Lindsay as their standard bearer.

Mr. Rufus Stephenson, who is intensely popular in West Kent, has sgain been nominated as Conservative candidate. Dr. Sampson, his opponent, is a good man, but does not stand a ghost of a chance. Mr. Stevenson has had a most successful career, filling every elective office in his county from councillor up, and has never yet sustained a defeat. The coming election will be his fifth return to Parliament.

Hon. D. Mills has refused the nomination in West Elgin, and where he will now go to be elected is not known. Bothwell will this time elect Mr. J. J. Hawkins. We are afraid the hon. gentleman will have to study philosophy at home next term.

There is a very noticeable silence in Reform journals now about the Emory Bar and Port Moody job, by which the Globe in its villainous attack upon Sir Charles Tupper, said that the country was robbed of $200,000. The returns brought down show the following facts in connection with the letting of this contract: The tender asked for a lump sum, and also a schedule of prices in detail; there were thirteen tenders in all; Macdonald & Charlebois' was the lowest by about $200,000 in the lump sum; Onderdonk's was next; the total of the detailed prices in Macdonald & Charlebois' tender and the lump sum did not agree; they differed by about $1,300,000, which was that much saved by awarding the contract to Onderdonk. Not mentioning the cheque accompanying the tender being marked "good for two days only," which in itself would be hardly sufficient excuse for rejecting it, the Macdonald & Charlebois tender was evidently a huge fraud, very similar to that practised by lightning-rod agents, who tell you they will put up a rod for so much, on so much per foot. When the rod man sends in his bill you find the price is according to the foot, and the total about twice as much as the lump sum named first. Instead of being the lowest, the rejected tender was in reality the highest, and the country, instead of losing $200,000, has been

Mesars, Tasse and McIntosh are the Conservative candidates for Ottawa. The Reformers of West Ontario have chosen Mr. Wheeler as their candidate. Mills has been nominated for Bothwell:

Canada's only poet, Mr. J. D. Edgar, is the nominee of the Grits in centre Toronto.

Mr. Geo. Guillet is again the Conservative candidate for West Northumberland, and his election is assured.

Col. Walker, one of the "irresponsibles" of the new syndicate, has been telegraphed for to Winnipeg, to come and oppose Hon. Jno. Carling.

Writs have been issued fixing the local elections for Nova Scotia on the same day as that for the Dominion House of Commons.

Hon. E. Blake has issued his pastoral to West Durhamites. Characteristic of him, it is full of theory, and contains very little that is practica!. He deals in "glittering generalities," and winds up by saying, in effect, if you don't agree with me vote for me anyway.

Mr. A. W. Wright is making a lecturing tour under the auspices of the Manufacturers' Association. He is one of the sharpest and most effective speakers in the Province, and has been giving a severe scathing to his opponents on the way. The session of Parliament just closed was not as marked in the importance of its legislation as previous sessions, yet a number of very important measures were passed. Through the windy displays of the Opposition, Government work was delayed, and the session unnecessarily protracted.

THE hubbub the Grits are trying to ne addistribution Bill manipulating the constituencies so as to give a majority of representatives to a minority of voters, is about as sensible as the old school-boy puzzle of putting six pigs into five pens and having only one pig in each pen.

nority. Many Liberals have been boasting that they have every reason to be confident of victory whenever the general elections may come off, and that they depended upon Ontario for the triumph. That Province would vote the Liberal ticket almost to an elector they declared not merely because the N. P. has failed, but on account of the position taken by the present Government on the Boundary question, the Streams Bill, &c.; through Redistribution of Seats Bill, Mr. Blake owns that the hopes of his party are blasted. Such hopes must have been singularly delicate to die so easily. Mr. - Blake's followers will go through the electioneering campaign without heart of hope, and hopeless men are easily beaten. - Canadian Spectator.

WHATEVER may be said or thought about the idiosyncracies of Prof. Goldwin Smith, or his erratic tendencies in reference to public questions, his honesty of convictions as expressed publicly can scarcely be doubted. In writing to the London Times, he refers to the feeling existing in Canada towards Britain and British institutions in the following anguage, which very effectually disposes of an Opposition fallacy:-

"The British Canadians, one and all, whatever may be their opinions about the political connection, are thoroughly attached to the Mother Country by the bond of the heart, they feel an affectionate pride in her greatness, and they would receive with the deepest sorrow the tidings that it had received such a blow as the dissolution of the Union. The French Canadians are Frenchmen still, though of the old regime; but they are suffering under no misgovernment, except that of their own politicians, and they have no ill-feeling against England, and they have no ill-feeling against England, nor any sym-pathy with the Fenians, whose raids they cordially joined in repelling. The Irish in Canada themselves, to whose suffrages this appeal is made, are for the most part pros-perous and happy; they cherish for their mother island a love which does them honor; but they do not appear to feel any rancorous hatred of England, nor did they show any disposition to welcome the Fenian invaders.

"You said you had the ague." "You said you had the ague." "Said so! Do you 'pose all the other calamities in this hull kentry could have bust me up in this way? You bet I had'er! I struggled with 'er right along fur 'leven straight ya'rs without a let-up. Gentleman, let me harrar your souls with a few timely remarks. Your Michigan ager is a grasshopper, and one dose of kyneen knocks 'er dead. Out in Illnoy the ager is bigger—about like a squirrel. In Missouri she's about the size of a woodchuck, and when she strikes down into Arkansaw she's a wolf three feet high, seven feet long, and built to take hold like a thousand buzzards. Great slam! but what tussels I've had with that critter! Say, did ye ever ride in a one horse wagin' over a stone quarry? Was ye ever seated on the top rail of a fence when a hurricane moved it at the rate of six miles a minute? Did ye ever have a cyclone pick ye up and mop ye over forty acres of river bottom, wallop ye through ten acres of wood and use ye for a tool to knock down a hundred acres of cane brake? Well, that hain't the ager-not the Arkansaw kind; its only the fust faint preliminaries."

J. CRAICK & CO.

THE Globe wants to know if Ontario is to be robbed of 60,000.000 acres of fertile land by giving the disputed territory to Manitoba. Verily this dispenser of Grit thunder has a wonderfully fertile imagination-much more fertile, we imagine, than the country he writes about!

WE understand that a number of our citizens are endeavoring to organize a Company for the purpose of erecting a Cotton Mill in Port Hope, and we sincerely trust they will succeed in securing the necessary amount of capital, and the encouragement of every one having the interests of Port Hope at heart. These mills seem to have prospered wherever they have been established, and there is no reason that one here should not do even better than the average of them, when the location and natural advantages possessed by the town are considered. We hope in our next issue to be able to announce the formation of the company.

WE are not at all inclined to belittle the wealth of the disputed teritory; In fact, we believe as to mineral and timber lands that country possesses a great amount of wealth, still we feel like laughing at the chief luminary of the "pairty" when it speaks about 60,000,000 acres of fertile land being stolen from Ontario by the Award. We refer to this to show how much reliance can be placed in other asertions made in its blood and thunder articles of late. Ontario has about 64,-000,000 acres altogether, and although the garden of the Dominion, very few would like to admit that it is all fertile, and to say the 60,000,000 acres of the disputed territory is fertile, is not more absurdly ridiculous than untrue. Rev. Mr. Robertson in his lecture on the "North-West" stated that it was rough, rocky and covered with a good deal of water but by no means valueless. We quote his exact words: "you have in this district very little agricultural land except in patches near Thunder Bay. It is nearly all rock, lake, and swamp ." Mr. Robertson has had long experience in country as a missionary and is probably that as capable of expressing a correct opinion of it as any other man.

IT was not good policy on Mr. Blake's part to announce that the Redistribution Bill would turn his majority into a mi- below.

THE Canadian Spectator, a disinterested bystander, while viewing passing political events, says:-

This shifting and shuffling by Mr. Blake may be taken as proof positive that the Li-beral party finds itself in extremis. Awhile ago it was prepared to stand or fall again in the battle of Free Trade versus Protection. Then a general retreat was ordered all along the lines. Then Mr. Blake acknowledged the lines. that actual legislation must be recognisedthe Government must keep good faith with manufacturers who have invested their money on the strength of Canadian legisla tion. Mr. Mackenzie was a little less discreet, perhaps, but yet did not venture to advocate any violent changes in the fiscal policy of the country. Since then we have been told that the matter of the Boundary Award will be made the test question at the polls, and now the Liberals seem to forget everything else in their indignation over the Redistribution of Seats Bill. What the Liberal "cry" will be at the next election. perhaps, no one, not even Mr. Blake him, self, can say. Nothing very taking has been found yet, but it is quite possible that some-thing may turn up in time.

COMPARED apart from political considerations, the unpopularity of the Mackenzie government and the popularity of the Macdonald government are instriking contrast, and can be accounted for as much from the social and gentlemanly qualities of the members of the latter, as from any other cause. A prominent merchant and importer of Montreal says "I used to write letters to Mr. Cartwright and go to Ottawa on deputations to him to make certain representations, but although I was a red-hot Grit, my letters were never answered, and our deputations were treated with cold and haughty indifference. When Sir John's party got into power, and changes were being made in the tariff, I wrote a letter to Sir Leonard Tilley which contained some suggestions; almost by return of post I received a most courteous reply. I didn't get what I wanted from Sir Leonard," continued the merchant, "but I got attention and civility, which I could not get before, and since that day I have been . John A. man." This is one of the many elements of Sir John Macdonald's great success as a public man-he is courteous and gentlemanly. Blake, Mackenzie, Cartwright, Mills & Co., are cold theoretical and dogmatic, a species of ainmated refrigerators, and a favor from the latter is not half as acceptable as a refusal from the present Cabinet.

For Northumberland and Durhammas Cleaned from the first report of the Bureau of Industries.

(Crowded out of last issue.)

The first report by Mr. A Blue, Secretory of the Ontario Bureau of Industries was received too late for last week's issue. How. ever, as it contains much that will interest our farmer friends, we give that portion of it referring to Northumberland and Durham. Although we have referred to this matter several times before, we might state that the Bureau of Industries was established by Act of Parliament at last session of Ontario Legislature. The information as given, was received by sending circulars to officers of Agricultural Societies, Granges, Reeves, Deputy-Reeves, Clerks, of Townships, Inspectors of schools and others, and answers were returned about the 25th of April. Concerning the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham the report is as follows:-

COUNTY OF DURHAM.

Very little fall wheat was sown in the Lake-shore townships. One report states that "not one farmer in ten has any, and he only from eight to ten acres." The condition of the crops is very uneven, but it seemes to promise well in dry, sheltered fields. In the back townships the prospeots are better, especially where the land is properly cultivated, no matter what the soil may be. Where injury has been rc., ported, is credited to want of snow during the winter, and to spring froats. With the exception of the township of Darlington, very little wheat has been ploughed up. Some of the fields were badly "washed" by the heavy winter rains.

Winter rye has withstood the winter and will yield well.

The dry weather of last fall and high winds have killed nearly all the clover on exposed situations, and the frosts of the winter and spring have not been less destructive to that on low ground. Many meadows are ruined, and will be proughed up. Last years seeding, however, is, as a rule, safe.

Live stock wintered exceptionally well, and, beyond distemper and "pink eye" in horses, no disease is reported. A few mares lost their foals.

As the root crop was a failure, farmers feed grain and fodder to make up the deficiency. Hay was plentiful and in Cartwright sold from $6 to $8 per ton.

The spring opened favorably for work, and ploughing on sodland and seeding on light dry ground commenced in the first week in April. Succeeding cold frosty weather retarded both, but farm work progressed rapidly. Ploughing and seeding were general from the 12th to the 17th of the month.

Vegetation is backward, though the spring is regarded as early. Fruit trees escaped injury. Last year's wheat was largely sold off, but some independent farmers have held for better prices. The grain-buyers and millers believe that about one-third of the crop is still in the hands of the farmers.

In portions of the country hay is still very plentiful, but in other portions the supply is nearly exhausted, or will be by the time the new crop is cut. The supply of oats has been very enadequate. Fat cattle were nearly all sold off by Easter. There are plenty of store cattle, and arrangements are being made to get them ready for the fall shipping trade. Cattle-raising is largely carried on in parts of Durham, with a view to supplying both the home and foreign demand.

The farmers are reported prosperous. One

The same discouraging reports come from all quarters, and under the most favorable circumstances it will not be more than half a crop.

Live stock are generally in go d condition. With plenty of fodder, and an open winter, they have fared well. In the eastern counties of the Province, and in the lumbering districts of the north, "pink-eye" prevalled very generally, and in some sections many horses died of it; a common effect on brood maros was to cause them to lose their foals. The supply of wheat in farmers' hands is reported low; the good prices paid last fall brought nearly the whole surplus of the country into market. The same thing may be said of fat and store cattle, and, even under more favorable conditions than now seem possible, prices are not likely to decline.

Vegetation very slow, trees as naked as in mid-winter yet.

When to Stop Advertising.

Whenevery man has become so thoroughly a creature of habit that he will certainly buy this year where he bought last year. When younger, fresher, spunkier, concerns in your line cease starting up and using the newspaper in telling the people how much better they can do for them than you can. When nobody thinks it "pays to advertise." When population ceases to multiply, and

When you have convinced everybody whose life will not touch yours that you have better goods and lower prices than they can ever get at any place out-side of your store.

When you perceive it to be the rule that men who never do and never did advortise are outstripping their neighbors in the same line of business.

When men stop making fortunes right in your very sight, solely through the discreet use of this mighty agent.

When you can forget the words of the shrewdest and most successful business men concerning the main cause of their prosperity. When you would rather have your own way and fail, than take advice and win.

When you want to go out of a busines with a stock on hand. When you want to get rid of the trouble of waiting on customers. When you want to completely die with your business thon and not till then, should you stop advertising.

"Do not go, darling"—and as she spoke the words, spoke them in low, tender tones that thrilled him from main-truck to keelson. Gwendolen Mahaffy laid her soft, white cheek on Plutarch Riordan's shoulder and gave him a look with her lustrous, dove-like eyes that would make your head swim.

"I cannot stay," he replied, kissing the peachy-red lips as he spoke. "I must go now, right away." But the girl placed her arms around his neck-arms whose soft, rounded curves and pink-tinted skin would have made an anchorite throw up his job, and pleaded with him to stay a little longer. 'I cannot," he again said, looking at her tenderly.

"Cannot?" repeated the girl, a shade of anger tinging the tone in which the word was uttered. "And pray, sir, what is it that so imperatively calls you hence?" Bending over her with a careless grace that artfully concealed the slight baggyness at the knees of his pants. Plutarch said in low, bitter tones that were terrible

of them savs: "On the whole, we are no complaining. The demand for live stock and produce has been so great that farmers have plenty of funds and are satisfied." One report mentions the large emigration to Manitoba of first-class farmers and farm laborers, and says that in the township of Cavan there are many good openings for farm laborers and farm servants.

COUNTY OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

In the back townships the reports as to the condition of the fall wheat are encouraging. Though less then usual, there appears to have been snow enough to be of service to the growing plant: In the Lakeshore townships the crop is in a poorer condition, having suffered from dry weather in the fall, changeable weather in the winter, and dry cold winds and frosts in the spring. The wheat grown on clay loam, or sandy loam with clay bottom looks best. Not a large breadth of fall wheat is sown in Northumberland, and the estimates indicate that about one-fourth of it has been killed. Very little will be ploughed up. In the Lake-shore townships of Hamilton and Haldimand, of 100,234 acres cleared and under cultivation, but 1,092 are under fall wheat. In the rear township of South Monaghan 863 acres have been sown to fall wheat out of 12,136 under cultivation. In Alnwick, another back township, the corresponding figures are 11,683 and 175. Barley is coming more and more into fa-Vor.

. Winter rye is largely grown, and is rero:ted in good condition. There are in Haldimand alone 3,000 acres under crop.

Clover has to a very large extent been winter-killed; old meadows have in very many instances been ruined and will be ploughed up. The frosts "hoisted" the plants out by the roots and left them lying exposed on the surface of the ground.

Fodder was plentiful everywhere, and stock looked well in the spring, though the want of roots was much felt. The crop of turnips were not only poor, but they were frozen before gathered, the result being a rot which rendered them unfit for use. The health of stock was excellent, if an exception may be made of horses, which suffered in the fall and winter from distemper and 'pink-eye." Where proper care was not taken, deaths occured, and many; brood mares lost their foals. One report estimates the loss of foals as high as thirty per cent. The spring has been favorable for work, and the land is in capital condition. Ploughing in individual cases began on the 2nd of April, and seeding on the 7th, but in general not until the 8th and 14th respectively. Vegetation is backward. Grass on the 25th April was only beginning to grow. Fruit trees looked well, but had not commenced to leaf or blossom. The prospects of a large fruit crop were reported good. The someon was very favorable for seeding.

Of hay there is plenty in the country; of oats the supply is exceedingly limited; of wheat there is scarcely any, farmers having taken advantage of the prices of last fall and sold all except that needed for family use.

There are very few fat cattle in the county. Store cattle are plentiful, but the high price of corn and course grain prevented their owners fattening them for the market.

Farming interests are reported in a flourishing condition, and satisfied with everything except the loss of the clover, due to there being less snow than (one farmer says) has fallen in 48 winters. Oxen and working cattle have been bought up and sent to Manitoba. Horses have commanded good prices.

ONTARIO-GENERAL REMARKS.

The condition of the crops is much less favorable than it was a month ago. The night frosts and the east winds have done it serious injury, especially on low and ; undrained lands; but should warm weather set in, accompnied by genial showers of rain, a fair harvest may yet be reaped. The clover has been irretrievably damaged by winter exposure and spring frosts. i cents.

All those painful and distressing diseases and irregularities peculiar to the female sex may be promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates every organ to a healthy action

The Princess Beatrice alone remains unmarried of all the English royal family, and, strange to say, the Queen, who has always proved herself such a devoted adherent of matrimony, is declared by the intimates of the court circle to look upon the marriage of her youngest daughter as a thing impossible. For a certain time much whispering was going forward among the privileged about the desire expressed by the Grand Dake of Hesse to become the son-in-law of her Majesty for the second time, but the opposition to the passage of the Deceased Wife's Sister bill has put a natural end to the union. Meanwhile the Princess, who is in all things all that a gracious woman should be, pursues her task steadfastly and unrepiningly. Friend and companion of her mother, consoler of the immessurable depth of woe by which the royal lady once bade fair to be submerged, she is pronounced no longer a charm and soother of the Queen's existence, but actually to be the element necessary to its continuance.

Medicines taken into the Stomach in concentrated form, such as Pills and Powders, are most injurious. The great substitute for these nauseous little Calomel pills is Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters. They cleanse the bowels, stimulate the Liver and Kidneys, and cure all stomach disorders, such as Dyspepsia and Indigertion. In large bottles at 50 cents. R. Deyell agent.

The reformation of confirmed drunkards is regarded by the Rev. Dr. Cuyler as well nigh impossible. The hope of temperance cause, he thinks, lies in training the young to total abstinence, and he would me le this a feature of Sunday school teaching. I have had a considerable experience with the best-managed inebriate asylums in the land he says, in the Independent, and a majority of those whom I have induced to enter the most Christianly conducted institutions have afterward relapsed into their old habits. The most pitiable failure I ever made was in the case of an accomplished young man, who had once been a student in the Episcopal Theological Seminary at Alexandria. That poor fellow became intoxicated within twenty-four hours after he was discharged from Dr. Banning's Christian Home for Inebriates. I have received into church membership a considerable number of persons who appeared to be entirely converted from drinking habits; but out of the whole number there are only two who have not relapsed into there former sin.

Erysipelas, scrofula, salt rheum, eruptions and all diseases of the skin and blood are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It purges all foul humors from the system, imparting strength and vigor at the same time.

A common, and often fatal, disease is jaundice. Regulate the action of the liver, and cleanse the blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, and the worst case may be speedily cured.

In the spring of the year almost every one requires a good Blood Purifier, more es-pecially in the month of May We would earnestly aduise our readers to try Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters. The members of the lrish party in the House of Commons express their determination to fight the Goverment's bill with greater determination than they have heretofore displayed. Lady Cavendish has written a letter in which she expreses her resignation to the loss of her husband if his death will bring peace to Ireland. Still other arrests are made by the police, who profess to have important information.

Why Some Farmers Do Not Succeed.

The Southern Farmers' Monthly gives the following reasons why some farmers do not succeed :

They are not active and industrious. They are slothful in everything. They do not keep up with improvements. They are wedded to old methods. They give no attention to details. They think small things not important. They take no pleasure in their work. They regard labor as a misfortune. "They weigh and measure stingily. They are wasteful and improvident. They let their gates sog and fall down. They let their fowls roost in the trees. They have no shelter for stock. They do not curry their horses. They leave their plows in the field. They hang the harness in the dust. They put off greasing the wagon. They starve the calf and milk the cow. They don't know the best is the cheapest. They have no method or system. They see no good in a new thing. They never use paint on the farm. They prop the barn door with a rail. They milk the cows late in the day. They have no time to do things well. They do not read the newspapers and books.

Gough's Account of a Negro Sermon. TEACHING A CALF TO DRINK.

Some one has said, and I think it Those who have had the mournful exwas Mr. Moody, "I had rather have perience, know that there is nothing zeal without knowledge, than know-ledge without zeal." Now, when a man becomes a Christian, and is zeamore trying to the soul than the operation of teaching a young calf to drink. The process is familiar to every man who has bought up a calf from infancy. You soize a pail of warm milk, go into the stable, catch the calf by the ears, back lons, even without education. I have heard, and so have you, some of the most wonderful speeches that were him into a corner and bestride his neck. ever delivered. I heard a man who The idiot rather likes this, and while you was called a plantation negro, many are reaching for the pail, he employs his years ago, who could not read, who time in slobbering the lower corners of your jacket. You discover what the block head is about and box his ears. You could not write, who did not know his letters, but had considerable can't help it. You feel that way and let him have it. But the calf can't tell for knowledge of the Scriptures. I heard from him a sermon that I shall never the life of him why he has been struck, forget, never. He said: "Bredren, and he gives a sudden and unexpected "flounce." He believes he will go over and stay on the other side of the stable, I'se gwine to take two texes. The first ob dese texes am, 'Glad tidings but he dosen't announce this beforehand. of great joy which am to be to all He starts on the impulse of the moment people;' and tuder text is, 'Hallelujah!' and you can't tell just when he arrives Now, bredren, what am tidings of there. You ride along with him a little way. But the laws of gravitation are great joy? There is a king going through the streets in his chariot, always about the same. Your legs-one on each side of the critter-keep up with and six calico horses, like what they have in the circus, prancing along through the street. There sits the the calf for about a second, but your body dosen't. You slide over the calf, and your back kisses the floor. Your king in his chariot. Nobody touches head is soaking in the pail of milk. When the king; nobody speaks to the king. you get up you are mad—uncommonly so. Milk runs from your hair and im-precations out of your mouth. There is He sits in the chariot, and the soldiers say, 'Hurrah for the king!' Nobody touches the king. And there is is buttermilk in your eye, and you solemn-ly declare you will learn that calf to nigger boy standing on the corner of drink or break his blamed neck. The the street, and he is ragged and dirty, calf dosen't know of this resolve, and he and his hair sticking out of the holes glares at you in stupid fright from across the stable. He is not aware that he was the cause of your downfall, and wonders in his cap, and his toes out of his shoes, looking at the procession. No-body cares for him. He hain't got no ignorantly what in thunder is the matter. father, nor no mother, and no auntie. You don't try to explain it to him, but furiously catch him by the ears, look Nobody care for him, all ragged and dirty. The king see the boy, so he says to one of his officers, 'Bring dat back over your shoulder at the milk pail, and back up toward it, dragging the calf after you, who bawls out in a manner which seems to say. "Is this the way you treat a fellow-creature?" You again boy to me.' But the officer didn't want to fetch a nigger. So he said, 'Dat boy is all dirt.' Then the king, he says, 'Bring the boy to me!' He back into the corner, sling your left leg over him and once more try to get his head in chancery. The calf attempts a little more funny business and plunges got mad, you see. Then this 'ere officer he wanted to shirk. He wanted suddenly forward. You are on the look-out for breakers this time, and having a to scare de king, and he says, "If I bring dat boy to you, you will get something off from him.' Then the king got so mad, that his face went firm hold on his ears, you mutter through your clenched jaws. "No you don't, honey." But he does though, and you "cross the continent" together by the clear on the top of his head, and he "rapid transit" line. You hadn't intendsays, 'You bring dat boy to me!' and ed to go, but that is where you and the he brought him. And he says, 'You calf didn't see it alike. You take his take dat boy away, wash him up, and view of it a few moments later. After comb his hair. Give him a new pair "rassling" around awhile, you get back to the point you started from, but you had been so busy all the while that you hadn't noticed it. The calf is out of wind and you haven't a particle of grace of shoes, and measure him for a new suit of clothes, and have him educat-And he took the boy away. He said, one hand into its mouth you place the other on the back of his head and shove 'Bring dat boy to mel' And they his nose into the pail fully resolved to brung de boy; and nobody knew the strangle him, if he don't drink. The calf holds perfectly still-ominously soboy but the king. He knew him. He said, 'Now, my child, you come and and there is silence in heaven for the space of half a minute, at the end of sit right here, alongside of me. Right which time the blockhead, who hasn't drank a drop, suddenly makes a splurge, knocks the pail to "kingdom come," milk and all; you are again reduced to a here. You belong here. Sit right alongside of me in this chariot. You belong in it. Why, you know I have adopted you. You are my child; you horizontal from a perpendicular, and are my son, my heir. Wouldn't dat be glad tidings of great You have been soaked with milk, "slobbered" on, and hurt and abused the worst way. The deacon was in a terrible hurry to reach the sanctuary, but he was also a thrifty farmer and he turned back, got the milk, bestrode the calf and tried to make him drink He wouldn't. "Drink, I say! Drink. Bless your infernal skin!" yelled the deacon in a rage, forgetting that he had come out from the world. Finally, besmeared with milk all over his Sunday clothes, the pillar of the church seized the obdurate brute by the head and cramming its nose deep into the pail, muttered with set jaws and low crouch ing tones that betokened how fearful was the struggle against the flesh and the devil. "O! if I were not a follower-drink, I say, drink!-drink or die. I've lost my religion on your account. Now-you drink, will ye." Then, suddenly awakening to his transgression, the good man dropped the pail, let go the calf and ex-claimed, "Merciful Heaven, how have I sinned all on account of that blasted critter." His wife found him on his knees when she returned from the church. We feel assured that he received an unconditional pardon. - Adrian Record.

What Paul Said.

The Rev. Mr. Carrington, of Charlotte county, Va., belonged to one of the old-est families, was an eloquent preacher, and universally popular. He was careless about the management of his large estate, while his brother Paul was noted for his thrift and industry. The preacher usually bought his supplies of butter from Paul. One Sunday morning after breakfast, and just as the reverend gentleman was starting to church, he dispatched his servant over to his brother's house for a fresh supply of butter that would be needed at the Sunday dinner. The negro was told to hurry back and report the success of his mission. He arrived at the church and had meekly stepped in to take a seat, just as the Rev. Mr. Carrington, already considerably warmed up, said in thundering tones: "And what does Paul say?" The negro, thinking the question addressed to him, replied in the hearing of the whole congregation; "Marse Paul says as how you can't get any more butter till you've paid for dat you got last week." -Louisville Courier Journal.

The Best Cough Remedy.

From Mrs. Robert Turner, of Unadilla, N.Y .:-

"I can say with the utmost confidence that I think Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry the best cough remedy I have ever known, and believe I owe my present existence to its wonderful curative powers, havlag at one time been brought very low by a distressing cough, accompanied with spitting of blood, and other symptoms of that dread destroyer, consumption. I tried many remedies without effect, until a resort to the Balsam was had, which, by the blessing of Divine Providence, soon restored me to health. The Balsam is now our resort whenever any of our family is attacked with coughs or colds, and it has never failed to give the desired relief. I keep constantly a supply on hand. During the past ten years I have influenced many persons to make use of this remedy, and always with the same success.

CANADA sometimes sets an example to our neighbors across the way. The U. S. Postmaster General now recommends that the postage on newspapers and periodicals be abolished.

THAT extract from the Stratford Advertiser. said to be a "Tory" paper by the Guide of Monday, is a little too thin, for our contemporary knows the Advertiser claims to be an "Independent" paper, but it is in reality as much of a Globe-Grit as the Guide.

PROF. BARFF's discovery, mentioned two weeks ago in the TIMES, is obtaining a wonderful celebrity, and the prediction that it will revolutionize all existing methods of preserving food seems likely to be fulfilled. The receipt, it is said, will shortly be published.

THE American Agriculturist for June is an unusually good number of this always valuable journal. It contains a large number of articles giving practically useful information for the work of the season-just what every one needs now-with 72 illustrative engravings, several of which are very fine.

the Midland five heavy trains loaded with lumber and grain passed through Lindsay inside of two hours. They were made up in trains of twenty, fifteen, eighteen, twentyone and twenty-six cars, exclusive of engine and conductor's caboose. A showing of forty-five cars of freight passing a given point in one hour for a local railroad is, we take it, a pretty fair showing .- Post.

THE June Atlantic is a Longfellow memorial number, and contains a fine steel portrait of Longfellow, from the photograph which he preferred above all others; a poetical tribute to "Our Dead Singer," by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes; a hitherto unpublished poem by Longfellow on "Decoration Day" written only a short time before his death; an estimate of the character and genius of Longfellow, by O. B. Frothingham. The number also contains an article on Darwin, by John Fiske, who knew him personally, and the continuation of Thomas Hardy's and Miss Phelps' serials.

A contemporary says the Globe is in ecstacy. It publishes a report from Cobourg that a "manufacturer" is at the head of the local Grit association. We hate to discourage th editor of the Toronto Opposition organ; but still he had better know that this "manufacturer" is a man who runs a small grist mill, principally doing custom work, and a little plaster mill, which is in operation part of the year, and when business is rushing he employs two hands! There now. There's a "manufacturer" for you!

MR. MCLELLAN, Inspector of High Schools, Col. WILLIAMS, M. P., arrived home from Ottawa last week.

COL. R. W. SMART, a former resident of Fort Hope, but now connected with a large dry goods house in Chicago and Milwankee, was in town on Tuesday last, and gave us a call. His host of friends in this county will be glad to hear he is looking well.

THE old residents of this section are fast passing off, Mr. Robert Douglass, of Clarke, being one of the latest called away, at the ripe old age of 80 years. He had been a resident of this section for some 45 years, and was highly respected by a large circle of friends, who will greatly miss him.

MRS. SUSANNAH JEWELL, widow of the ate Wm. Jewell, Esq., died at the family esidence, lot 20, 5th Con, Clarke, on the 7th inst., full of years and highly respected by a large circle of friends and relatives. Deceased came to Canada in 1835, living in the Township of Hope for three years, and then moving to the farm on which she died.

Baptism and Salvation, by Rev. James Roy, M. A., L. E. Rivard, publisher, Montreal. Price 15 cents. This is a pamphlet of 46 pages, written to promote unity of spirit amidst diversity of practice. In it the author, though not a Baptist, endeavors to do justice to the views of that body in a way that has not been common hitherto.

FIRE .- About six o'clock last Friday morning a fire was noticed in the centre pier just opposite the moorings of the Norseman It is supposed that some parties fishing during the night had inadvertently dropped a lighted match into the rubbish under the dock, where it smouldered for a time, and finally began to blaze. The engine of the tug was used to good purpose, and by the time the chemical engine arrived the fire was about subdued, not, however, before about 60,000 feet of lumber was thrown into the harbor. As the lumber is insured, and the part of the dock destroyed was very rotten, the loss is not very heavy.

ST. NICHOLAS opens with a charming frontispiece illustrated by W. T. Smedley, entitled "Mr. Longfellow and his Boy Visitors," accompanying an account by Hezekiah Butterworth of a visit paid the poet, As an evidence of the enormo an article full of reminiscence and pleasing anecdote of Longfellow and his relations with children, interesting to old and young alike. "Seals and Seal-hunting in the North Atlantic" is an entertaining paper by Ernest Ingersoll, strikingly illustrated with twelve pictures by D. C. Beard, J. C. Beard, W. Taber, and M. J. Burns. There are nine fullpage pictures in the June St. Nicholas, and, in all, seventy-three illustrations. Besides those above mentioned there are a number of other attractive features.

> THE reputation of The Century Magazine is as an art educator is emphasized in the June number by a brilliant frontispiece portrait of Cardinal Newman, engraved by Cole, from Rajon's etching after Ouless's portrait; by the inimitably racy and breezy sea sketches of the opening illustrated paper entitled "Around Cape Horn," and by Mrs. Schuyler van Rensselaer's article on "Wood engraving and the Century Prizes." The Prize engravings accompanying this paper sustain the opinion of the committee that the results of the second year's competition show marked improvement over the competition of 1880, and the Magazine renews the competition for the coming with an addition its purpose to encourage beginners. The editorial announcing this third offer declares that "it is safe to regard as confirmed that the present high state of the art (of engraving) in America is not accidental, but is in the constitution of the national mind and hand." NUTS TO CRACK .- The following are the questions to be submitted at the next meeting of the Teachers' Association for the County of Durham, to be held on the 2nd and 3rd days in June in Port Hope :---Are school exhibitions beneficial? Should spelling be taught orally? How can we make lazy pupils study? By what means can we induce parents to ake greater interest in school work? How often should written examinations be held? How would you assist pupils in preparing their reading lessons in the different classes? To what extent would you ask pupils to correct each other's mistakes? When would you begin the teaching of

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE. Annual Meeting.

THE annual meeting of the Port Hope Mechanics' Institute was advertised to take place on Wednesday evening, May 17, but owing to the small number present, it was thought better to postpone the meeting and notify each member by postal card.

Minutes of last annual meeting were read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. Rose, seconded by Mr. Helm,-That this meeting stand adjourned until Monday evening, May 22nd, and that postal cards be issued to the members .-Carried.

ADJOURNED MEETING.

Notwithstanding the torrents of rain which poured down on Monday evening, a very fair representation of members were present

Mr. Jas. Evans, President, took the chair at 8 o'clock, and after preliminaries were through with, read the annual report of the institute for the year ending May 1st, 1882, which is as follows:

ANNUAL REPORT.

The directors in submitting their statement for the year just closed have the satisfaction of reporting that the affairs of the Institute are in a healthy, prosperous condition. The membership has increased during the year from 110 to 130. The number of books exfrom 110 to 130. The number of books ex-changed has increased and the attendance in the reading room is highly satisfactory. During the year $326.60 worth of books have been added to the library. The committee spared no pains in its endeavors to place the latest and best in each class upon the shelves and judging by the often exchange of new books they succeeded to your satisfaction. The reading room is supplied with 8 dailies 25 weeklies and 18 magazines and reviews. The dailies embrace New York, Manitoba, Peterboro, Montreal, and Toronto, while the Peterboro, Montreal, and Toronto, while the weekly newspapers, magazines, reviews, and illustrated periodicals, English, American and Canadian, are the choicest obtainable. Your directors feel that the object and aim for which Mechanics' Institutes were organized have been kept fairly in view, and that this Institute affords to the laborer either at the desk or the bench, opportunities for self im-provement otherwise beyond the reach of either.

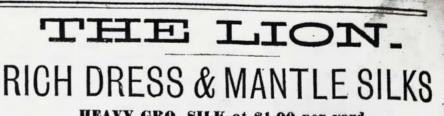

either. Here are works of reference:---"The Library of Universal Knowledge" 15 volumes, "Ap-pleton's Encyclopædia of Applied Mechanics" 2 volumes, "Ures Dictionary of Arts, Manu-factures and Mines" 4 volumes. Here are histories the most reliable and most valuable; here are works on science and art; here are works of travel and adventure almost innumerable, and here are the best works of fiction and poetry. This reading room and library are open from nine o'clock in the morning until ten in from hine oclock in the morning until ten in the evening, every day in the week for four cents per day, or two dollars per annum. The receipts for the year including, the very liberal donation of Mr. John Helm of $32.00 and the timely grant of $50.00 from the Cor-poration, were $857.75 which, with the bal-ance of $68.00 from last year, placed at the disposal of your directors $925.37 which has been expended as follows: been expended as follows:

been expended as follows: Rent $81.75, salaries $156.00, light and fuel $39.15, library $326.60, reading room $137.63, miscellaneous $65.41, balance $118.83. The expenditure on library for year previous fell short of Govern-ment requirements, as interpreted by Dr. May, S88.00 as the memory according to the start $88.00 so that we were compelled to expend that amount before receiving the grant, and in qualifying for the grant for the present year that amount must be deducted. We have, we think, fairly apportioned rent and fuel and miscellaneous between the library and reading room and seek to qualify for Government aid as follows: Reading Room $203.68, Library $322.40, and trust no difficulty will be experienced by our successors in obtaining the legislative grant for the year. Respectfully submitted

JAMES EVANS, Port Hope, May 17, 1882. President. The report of the Secretary-Treasure

MR. JOHN WALKER, furniture dealer, Ontario street, has on hand a large and varied assortment of baby carriages. Those in need of such domestic prequisites should make a call at once.

Owing to a very sore throat and hoarseness, Rev. Mr. Laird was obliged to obtain a substitute on Sunday evening. Mr. N. Lelean, brother of our townsman, Mr. S. Lelean, who has lately arrived from England, occupied the pulpit in his stead. Mr. Lelean, although almost without any preparation, gave an excellent discourse, not only pleasing as to style but thoughtful. He has been connected with evangelical work in England as a local preacher of the Wesleyan body.

THE Fenlon Falls Gazette has been giving its readers an exhibition of what it does not know. It says, speaking of Mr. Powers' resignation and the error made by the Globe in announcing it: "The mistake was not a very material one, for Mr. E. A. Powers, who resigned, is an able and influential man whom the Tories could ill afford to lose." People make happy guesses sometimes, but our Fene-Ion Falls friend is most laughable in his conjectures. The fact that even the Grits in their extremity refuse to recognize Mr. Powers, or take him in to their fold ought to induce our contemporary to try again.

POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY CONTENTS FOR JUNE .- Speculative science, by J. B. Stallo; the eye-like organs of fishes, by Dr. Ernst Krause; the appointment of college officers, by F. W. Crushing; astronomical panies, by Daniel Kirkwood; the stereoscope; the Jews in Europe; chemistry in high schools; a new theory of the sun; the future of mind; about the molds; the introduction of domestic animals; hydrodynamics and electricity; the cause of tubercular disease, by Professor Tyndall; sketch of Charles R. Darwin, LL.D (with portrait); editor's table, literary notices, popular miscellany, notes.

THE Lindsay Post says :- Mr. J.'J. Turner of Port Hope was in town on Tuesday and wickedly took away with him orders for five new awnings. Mr. Turner's canvas and awnings are always satisfactory -they can be hauled up and stowed away without that profanity which usually accompanies manœuvres with the home-made kind. Even the loungers on the sidewalks look up and on seeing "Turner" stamped on the cotton call him provide the public with the best perform- formed it is not the intention of the blessed:

GRIP last week commenced on volume XIX, and came looking very sprightly in a new dress. In his power of caricature J. W. Bengough is not, we believe, surpassed in the world. His centre piece is very laughable. It represents a Grit nursery in which Blake, Mackenzie, Cartwright, Charlton, Trow and Gordon Brown as children in petticoats with a very bad attack of the "hives." Sir Richard cries "O mother scratch my back" and Hon. Alexander with his hand down his back is not by any means blessing the Duke of Argyle. Gordon Brown in a high chair is represented as very helpless looking, and squalling with all his might.

A $20.00 BIBLICAL REWARD .- The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer ten valuable rewards in their Monthly for June, among which is the following; We will give $20.00 in gold to the person telling us which is the middle verse in the Bible by june 10th, 1882. Should two or more correct answers be received the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner June 15th, 1882. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer, for which they will receive the July Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20.00 to you; cut it out. Address-Rutledge Publishing Company, Easton, Penna.

THE Royal Opera House, Toronto, has just closed a very successful season, and we notice the popular Manager, Mr. J. C. Connor, wellknown throughout this district, says in a parting card to the public on the occasion of the complimentary benefit tendered by the citizens to him. "In all, 245 performances have been given during the season, which I am proud to write is a larger number than that given by any other theatre in America in a city the size of Toronto, added to the fact that this is the second consecutive season that this theatre has given more performances than any of its rivals in a city of similar size, will always be a source of gratitude to its patrons and pride to its manager." Mr Connor is a thoroughly go-ahead man of business, and much of the success and popularity of the Royal is due to his constant efforts to ances.

A SWINDLER.-A correspondent warns Roman Catholics to be on their guard against a man who goes about the country representing himself to be an agent for the sale of Roman Catholic Bibles. His modus operandi is to call at a house, and offer for sale Bibles in two styles. One which he says is worth six dollars he magnanimously offers for one; while another, worth eight dollars he is ready to sacrifice for two. At the time of taking the order he insists upon being paid half the price of the Bible. He then leaves, promis-ing to bring the books in four weeks. "He was here in Preston six weeks ago," quietly remarks the correspondent, "and we have not seen either agent, Bibles, or money since." He accounts for the alleged cheapness of his wares by a string of plausible yarns, and also claims to be authorised by the bishop to take the census of the Catholic people. He has deceived a great many people in Preston, and is believed to be the man who has practised similar operations in Guelph, Hespeler, Galt, and Paris. His description is a man about 40 years of age, five feet six inches in height, and heavily built, black hair, and broad face, and was shaved clean when in Preston.

PERSONAL.-Mr. J. A. Wilkinson, Inspector of Weights, Measures and Gas, has resigned his position, and we are in-Goverment to fill the vacancy.
