THE TEN TRIBES.

THEIR "PAST, PRESENT AND FU-TURE," AS CONSIDERED BY REV. MR CLELAND.

Dr. Wild and the Anglo-Israel Theory viewed in the Light of History and the Bible.

SPLENDID DISCOURSE. Owing to the stormy evening, a not very large congregation was assembled to hear the discourse promised by Rev. Mr. Cleland for Sunday evening. His address on "the past, present and future of the Ten Tribes," occupied in delivery about one hour and a half, and was listened to with unabated interest. The subject is a wide one, and the consideration of it by the reverend gentleman in question was worthy of his reputation as a Bible scholar, every sentence evidencing the careful investigation and extensive research due to so intricate a question. The Anglo-Israel theory on the whole, or rather its most salient points as presented by Wilson, Hine, Dr. Wild and others, was critically examined, and the most probable conditions of the existonce of the Tribes, at present, clearly set forth. His text was: "Moreover, thou son of man, take thee one stick, and write upon it, For Judah, and for the Children of Israel his companions: then take another stick and write upon it, For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the House of Israel his companions; and join them one to another into one stick; and they shall become one in thine hand." In this lecture he would discuss the present position of a portion of the Jewish nation. It was hardly necessary to remind his hearers of the origin of that nation. After forty centuries of changes not witnessed in the case of any other nation, the descendants of Abraham, in the line of Isaac, are a separate and unmixed people. The Jewish people are nationally the same as those upon whom Balaam looked when he exclaimed: "How goodly are thy tents O Jacob! * * So the people shall dwell alone and shall not be reckoned among the nations." Norman and Saxon, Greece and Rome, were but as yesterday compared with the history of the Jews. As far back into antiquity as you can go, you find traces of this people. The Jew has come in contact with all the great empires of the past, and his existence to-day as a distinct people is a derived from their connexion with the Christian economy. To them were committed the oracles of God, and were safely kept, even though the sacred books contained a black history of themselves. While the rest of the world was shrouded in darkness, they were conspicuous as a light in the midst of the gloom. Above all, the Savior of the world was a Jew. The Jews rejected Christ, and Christ rejected them. For 1,000 years they have been scattered throughout the world without name or place. Is this to continue?

The Apostle Paul and Christsay, No. What then is the present position and future prospects of this people? Call to mind that after their sojourn in Egypt, when they were put in possession of the Holy Land, they numbered 2,000,000. Jacob had twelve sons and each son became head of a tribe, and each tribe was given a certain portion of land. The speaker then briefly traced their history up to the time when the Ten Tribes.

owing to the harsh treatment of Rehoboum, successor of Solomon, revolted. Judah remained with Rehoboam, and was subsequently joined by the priestly tribe of Levi and the tribe of Benjamin. Henceforth we have two kingdoms—Israel and Judah, occupying respectively the northern and southern portions of Palestine. Jeroboam, the King of Israel, set up calves in Dan and Bethel for the people to worship. In this way he sought to prevent his people going to Jerusalem, where, by common intercourse with the they might become reunited.

Israel fell into idolatory. God gave them into the hands of their enemies, and in 721

B. C. Samaria was taken by Sargon and 20,000 of the Kingdom of Israel carried away and settled in the cities of the Medes.

Twenty years before the 21 tribes had been carried away by Tiglath Pileser, King of Assyria. One hundred and thirty years after this captivity of Israel, Judah was overthrown, and Nebuchadnezzar carried the people to Babylon. At the end of seventy years, the captivity was brought to a close by Cyrus, who overthrew Babylon on the memorable eve of the feast of Belshazzar. Cyrus issued a proclamation that the Jews might return to their own land. This proclamation extended to the captives of the Kingdom of Israel as well as those of Judah, and it is only natural to suppose those who returned included the captives of the north as well as of the south

Kingdom. The vessels of the temple were also restored. The number of those who returned was 42,000, with 8,000 servants. As given by Jeremiah, those who were carried away captive were only 4,600. The genealogies as given by Ezra are confined to those of Judah and Benjamen. In reference to the question, Did the 10 Tribes avail themselves of the proclamation of Cyrus and return, and, if not, what istheir location and identity? much has beeen said, and to which a great deal of attention is directed. The Ten Tribes have been sought in the neighboroood of their last recorded habitation. Jewish features have been traced in Afghan tribes; rumors are heard of Jewish colonies at the foot of the Himalayas, and in the interior of China; elaborate attempts have been made to identify them with the North American Indians, the Nestorians, and with a colony of black Jews on the coast of Malabar. The latest and greatest novelty is the effort to identify them with the Anglo-Saxon race. It has been well said: "If the books written on the Ten Tribes contained much truth, it would be difficult to say where they are not to be found." To this question he would invite attention. First, If we are to find the Ten Tribes it is needful to know that they were lost. Obviously if they never were lost, a and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah and Habor, by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes." These places mark a district which nearly covers ancient Assyris and Media, and extends across the plains of Nineveh and the Koordish mountains into Persia. Are there any traces of a Jewish population in these places! East of the Tigris there is a class speaking Syro-Chaldaic, settled in communities of from 1,000 to 3,000 souls, while greater numbers are scattered in smaller fragments. The significant fact here is that these are plainly fragments of much larger numbers in former times. Southward and eastward again, in the bounds of Media, are large numbers. At Hamadan (the ancient capital of Media) there are from 6,000 to 8,000; in other cities, about 7,000. To these we add, for those farther north, about 40,000. We have then a population equal to that which returned to Palestine after the captivity. Secondly, Does this population sufficiently account for the lost tribes? It does in location, for Hamadan existed under Nineveh rule 700 years before Christ, and is the oldest Jewish colony in the world. The language is also Semitic. As to numbers: 1. The number carried away, as recorded by Sargon, was 27,200. The northern tribes—the Israelites -had left a sufficient number to form the later population of Galilee. 2. The Ten Tribes were confirmed idolaters. A just inference is, that when thrown among idolaters. where they found protection and people akin in tastes, language, etc., they would become entirely united with these people, and many would apostatize. Persecution would also aid. Sennacherib, irritated by defeat, persecuted them bitterly. If less than 50,000 of Judah arose and returned, we may infer that no large number of the idolatrous Ten Tribes remained faithful after twice that time. 3. A remnant would remain faithful. This remnant constituted the real Ten Tribes, and would naturally again join the Jews. They would hear with sorrow of the destruction of Jerusalem; rejoice over the greatness of Daniel and the fall of Babylon, 586 B.C.; and would take advantage of the proclamation, and join Judah on the return under Zerubabel. One hundred and seventy-two years had elapsed. The idolatrous Israelites would be lest in the idolaters about them, and the faithful remnant would be joined with Judah. Henceforth they became a single people, called Jews—the two sticks which became one in the hand of Ezekiel. Future history shows that they did become one nation. Then followed a brief sketch of

of the circumstancs of the captives of the Ten Tribes subsequent to the return from captivity:-Under Persia for 200 years till 330 B.C., being protected; then 80 years of Grecian rule, after Alexander the Great conquered the Persian Empire, during which time existed a reign of terror and alarm; under Parthia from 255 Period was one of great prosperity; at Pentecost there were Parthians, Medes, and Elamites, who were nothing more or less than Jews and Israelites from these places, Jeremiah. who still adhered to the old faith; Josephus says, writing after the beginning of the Christian Era, "The Ten Tribes are beyond the Euphrates till now, and are an immense multitude;" after the destruction of Jerusalem the hand of Rome fell heavily on them, and many fled east to Parthia, and thus a more complete incorporation into one took place; between this time and the rise of Mahommed, the Eastern Jews enjoyed a most prosperous time, during which the "Prince of the Captivity," exercised all the rights of a former Jewish sovereign; Jerome, writing in the fourth century, about the time of St. Patrick and when the Saxons were preparing to invade England, says:-" Unto this day the Ten Tribes are subject unto the kings of the Persiaus" (the Ten Tribes was a loose designation for all Jews east of the Euphrates); these would now number 100,000; Mohammed favored the Jews at first and afterwards drove them from Arabia; the Caliphs for two centuries after were favorable to them, and the "Prince of Captivity" had his independent court; in 847 there was a change, an unfavorable edict being issued, and they were again reduced to a state of degradation; about 1170, Benjamin of Tudella, a Spanish Jew, travelled in the East, and reported that there were in Hamadan 50, 000, and in the mountains, 100 congregations, and further says that "these are descendants of those who were led into captivity by Shalmaneser' (the traditions of the Jews in this region is that they are descended from the Ten Tribes); under Tamerlane, the Tartar, such persecution was experienced, that the 50,000 were reduced to a few hundreds; no doubt many were drawn away by trade and commerce in other parts of the world, but the extent is not known. The inference of all these facts is this: - That such a history, for over 1,500 years, fully accounts for the present number of Jewish descendants in the Eastern country referred to. A parallel case living side by side by side with their cap is found in the history of the Nestorians, the proud race that once carried the Jews away, tives and sharing their vicissitudes. They are now reduced to 200,000, mere peasants and shepherds. This is a solution of the problem, based on facts and not on foolish legends and a perversion of prophetic language. The ANGLO-ISRAEL THRORY has no historical basis whatever, and would reverse the laws of history and language.

It rests mainly on quotations from the prophetical books of Scripture, without the slightest regard to connection, and these corroborated by legends as fanciful as those of the Arabian Nights, and as true as the adventures of Robinson Crusoe. absurdity renders a serious reply a matter of great difficulty. The theory is: About 721 B. C. the Ten Tribes were settled in the cities of the Medes. About the same time, or perhaps a couple of hundred years later, a tribe from Central Asia-the Scythiansappeared in Europe end settled along the coasts of the Baltic Sea. After an indefinite sojourn there, three of these tribes-Angles (who gave the name to England) Saxons and Jutes - crossed over to Britain. These Teutonic strangers-belonging to a different family of nations, being descended from Japheth and not Shem, and speaking an entirely different language-are assumed to be part of the lost tribes. After receiving additions from the Celtic Britons,-from Dane and Scandinavian, and from the Norman French-all of the family of Japheththe composite becomes identical with those who were carried away 1800 years ago from Palestine, belonging to the family of Shem. Mr. Freeman, who has specially studied the search to find them would be fruitless. In 2 early history of England, said on his late Kings xvii, 6 and xviii, 1I, we are told that the "King of Assyria took Samaria continent to which I have lately made my bors any of the sect of the Anglo-Israelitesthe sect which holds that we are all of the stock of the Jews. If I am shown an Anglo-Israelite, I shall ask to see his brother, who believes the earth to be flat, and the sun only three miles from it. The theory is mainly founded on the distinction between Israel and Judah. It has been seen how far this is true. The distinction ceased after the captivity, and the term Israel is applied by Ezekiel and Zechariah to the whole body of Jews. Both addressed them as living in the land at the same time, c. g., "And it shall come to pass that as ye were a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah and house of Israel."-Zech. viii, 13. These words are addressed to both after the return from Babylon. "Israel" is applied in the days of Christ to the whole land .- "Arise, and take the young child, and his mother, and go into the land of Israel." Nathaniel is spoken of as an "Israelite indeed." Peter addressed those at Pentecost as "Ye men of Israel;" Paul speaks of John preaching repentance to all the people of Israel; and again: "Unto which promise our twelve tribes instantly serving God day and night hope to come;" James addressed his epistle "to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad." In these and many other references none of the tribes are regarded as lost. Canon Rawlinson concludes that the people generally known as Jews contained among them the descendants of ail the sons of Jacob. Throughout the book of Esther, all the Israelites in the 120 provinces of the Persian empire are spoken of as Jews, without any distinction. One step in the theory is the pretended emigration of Jeremiah to Ireland. He fled to Egypt, and it is alleged took with him the ark, and the stone which Jacob had used as a pillow. That he fled to Egypt is recorded, but what befel him after there is absolutely no record. The Jewish legend concerning the ark is that Jeremiah hid it in one of the caves of mount Sinai. It is also alleged that Jeremiah hadwith him Tephni, one of Zedekiah's daughters, who married an Irish prince. The visit of Jeremiah must have taken place about 520 B. C. According to the Irish story, as recorded in the annals of the Four Masters, the Milesians-a Celtic tribe-arrived in Ireland about the time of Solomon. Strange to say their first battle was with the Danites, whom they found there, according to the Jeremiah theory, 300 years before the Jewish captivity. This disposes of the tribe of Dan, so far as Ireland is concerned. Then Jeremiah's visit is connected with the founding of Tara. The Irish story of Tephni, taken from the Four Masters is as follows: She was the daughter of the King of Spain, and was married to a British king. After her death she was taken to Spain; and a mound raised to her memory. Tea-the wife of Heremon, the son of Milesius, having seen it, was so impressed with it that she ordered one for herself in B.C. to A.D. 226 (nearly 500 years). which Ireland. This was called "Tea-Mur," or period was one of great prosperity; at "Tea-Mair"—the Mound of Tea, and gradually changed to Teavair,-Tara. The period of this story is 400 years before the time of way, by assuming it as possible, that it har-

JACOB'S STONE is another witness. It is said to be in the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey. There is a stone there, and its history can be trac d to the fifth century. The Jews say this stone took the place of the ark in the second temple, built after Jeremiah had been carried away. The possession of the stone is held to prove that Queen Victoria is a lineal descendant of David. This is doubtful. The Irish annals state that when a legitimate sovereign is crowned on the stone it gives forth a sound like thunder. If such a thing had occurred at the coronation of Queen Victoria, we should probably have heard of it. The ark is not likely to be found in Tara, as, in the second book of Esdras, it is said to have been destroyed. It has also been said that the honor due to Jeremiah has been transferred to St. Patrick. It would seem that these two must be identical, as Jeremiah destroyed the crocodiles in the Nile and St. Patrick banished the snakes from Ireland. The coronation stone in Ireland is easily accounted for. These early colonists were worshippers of Baal, Ireland having connection with the Phoenicians, who worshipped Baitulia, "aunointed stones, such as Jacob may have set up. Th traditions about the early settlement of Ireland by Jeremiah and others are simply lying monkish legends. The utter baselessness of the Anglo-Israel theory becomes manifest in the light of language and race. By the discovery of Sanskrit much light has been thrown on the history of primitive races. The Anglo-Saxon and the Ten Tribes belong to distinct families-one to Japheth, the other to Shem. To assert that Anglo-Saxons are Hebrews, is to contradict the teachings of science. Our language proclaims that we have not the slightest connection with the family of Shem nor the Hebrew race. This is met by the bold as-sertion that God took from the Ten Tribes their old language, and gave them a new one corresponding to that of their German neighbors. As a reply, it is an insult to common sense. Another strong argument against the theory is physiognomy, or that of features. This only needs to be mentioned to be recognized. It is said that the countenance of the Anglo-Saxon, alias the Israelite, has not changed; but that of the Jew has. paintings on the walls of Karnak witness that the Jew has not changed his features since his sojourn in Egypt. Again, a decisive argument is the fact that the English people are a mixture, with parts drawn from races quite distinct. We have Angles, Jutes, Danes, Scandinavians, Norman French, Welsh and Irish Celts, all as descendants of the Ten Tribes. Can this be? In concluding, the Rev. gentleman remarked that the Ten Tribes were without doubt part of the present Jewish people. On them in common with Judah the sentence was passed 1800 years ago, and their condition is well represented on a coin of their conquerors, by a female sitting amid ruins under a palm tree, with one hand hanging carelessly by her side, while with the other she covers her weeping eyes and supports her aching brow. The finale was a lengthened quotation from Dean Millman, which space will not permit NEARLY A FIRE. - Mr. Henry Helm, pass-ng the Custom House Tuesday evening about eight o'clock, noticed a blaze inside. The doors were broken in, and the flames extinguished. A box of saw-dust beside the heater, was where the fire originated. A lighted match carelessly thrown into it, was, in all probability, the cause.

HARBOR AND NAVIGATION NOTES.

The boys are skating on the channel leading to the harbor.

Last Friday night was the hardest night on the lakes experienced by our sailors for many years. The keeper of the Gull light, Mr. Roddick, says he has seen a good many rough seas, but never saw a gale start up so quickly. The steamer Norseman was caught in it, and made for Port Hope as quickly as possible. In entering the harbor, she struck the pier and was badly damaged. She is now in Dalhousie undergoing repairs. Captain Henning's vessel, the Maria Annette, was also out, and had a hard time of it, but finally brought up safe in Collin's Bay. Several other crafts experienced a rough time of it. Haply, no damage further than that reported was done.

On Saturday a little unplesantness occurred between the captain of the Lewis Ross and the President of the Sailors' Union. The sailors were offered $3 a day for the trips about to be made, which was agreed to, but the President of the union demanded that five men should be taken before the mast, two more than the captain wanted. This latter, however, was not agreed to, and the men were ordered off the boat. Another crew was made up without much trouble, and the vessel proceeded on its way, while the union crew were "left."

While at the Harbor the other day, our representative made some inquiries as to the success of this season's sailing. He was informed that it was the worst season for many years. The season opened splendidly, but soon slackened off, owing to the excess of vessels in proportion to the shipping to be done, and also, no doubt, to the slowness with which lumber has been moving. None of the vessels have made money, and a number of them will come out in debt. A gentleman largely interested in shipping, remarked that on account of the high-handed action of the Unions, sailing vessels would soon be driven off the lakes and steam barges take their place. No more sailing vessels are being built, and as soon as the present ones are worn out, sailers will be extinct as a medium of commerce. "The fact of the matter is," added he emphatically, "with the present high wages and low rates, vessel-owners cannot live."

Business will, in all probability, be wound up next week, and we expect to be able to present a report of the complete business of the harbor for the season next issue. The following schooners are already laid up:— Aurora, Proo Brothers, Wave Crest, Annie Minnes, W. J. Suffel, Maria Annette, Picton, Garibaldi, Agnes Hope, Erie Queen. The Caroline Marsh was laid up, but undertook another trip this week. Several of the vessels have trips to make yet, but one more week will likely see the "wind up. In. surance expires to-day, and the Gull will not be lighted for more than two or three days longer.

SUNDAY COLLECTIONS.

The news-plate passed around among the churches.

Mr. Sale, of Toronto, preached in the Baptist church last Sunday. Rev. E. Dadson, B. A., editor of the Canadian Baptist, will occupy the pulpit the Sunday following.

Those who attended Mill street church on Sunday evening, or those who read our report of Rev. Mr. Cleland's lecture in another column, cannot help admiring the splendid enumeration of historical facts presented. In commenting on the Anglo-Israel theory a few weeks ago we remarked that "in all its details it is, perhaps, the most elaborate, unique, and withal the most ingenious theory ever propagated." That opinion has not been shaken by Mr. Cleland's discourse, not, however, because we regard it as by any means invulnerable. More is promised by the reverend gentleman on the same subject. It is not improbable that a reply to Mr. Cleland will be elicited from some of the prominent supporters of the Anglo-Israel theory.

DEATH OF MR. DAVID G. HATTON Last Wednesday morning, Mr. David G. Hat-

ton, Police Magistrate, Peterboro', departed life, the cause of his death being disease-Bright's malady. He was about fifty years old, and was born Port Hope, spending the early part of his life in the employ of Mr. Wm. Cluxton. He first embarked in life on his own account as a merchant in Peterboro', but his business being destroyed by are he started the study of law. For some time he resided in Baltimore, U.S., and was associated with the business firm of Dunn, Wyman & Co. Subsequently he returned to Peterboro' and resumed the practice of law, being the head of the legal partnership of Hatton, Hatton & Beck. In 1871, Mr. Hatton was appointed by the Sandfield-Macdonald government aa Police Magistrate, which position he retained up to the time of his death. He was a man of energy and public spiritedness, taking an active part in the Trent Valley Canal scheme, and being chief promoter of the waters work-undertaking in Peterboro'. Besides the above, he was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and had been at one time County Orange Master, and D. G. M. of Eastern Ontario. His wife and family receive an insurance legacy of between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars.

Some Pleasant Recellections of "Dan." in "Inno-cents Abroad."

Mr. Daniel Slote, the well-known blank book manufacturer, died the other day in New York, in his mother's house, where he was visiting. Many people who have never seen him or heard his name will yet regret his death as that of au old friend, for he was well known wherever the English language is read as the "Dan" of Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad." He was a genial gentleman, social and pleasant, whose character was not overdrawn in the famous book. Of the pilgrims he was probably the most practical and possessed the greatest share of common sense. When the party hired the guide Billfinger and they determined to rename him for the sake of romance, one suggest-ed the name Alexis du Caulaincourt, "Alphonse Henri Gustave d'Hauteville," said another.

"Call him Ferguson," said Dan. And Ferguson he was called to the end of the book. At another time some of the party were in a bath.

Dan's voice rose in the air: "Oh, bring me some soap, why don't you!" The reply was Italian. Dan resumed: Soap, you know-soap. That's what I want. S-o-a-p, soap; s-o-p-e, soap; s-o-u-p, soap. Hurry up! I don't know how you Irish spell it, but I want it. Spell it to suit yourself, but fetch it. I'm freezing."

Then was heard the Doctor saying impressively: "Dan, how often have we told you that these foreigners can not understand English?" Why will you not tell us what you want. I will address this person in his mother tongue. Here cospetto! corpo di Bacco! Sacramento! Solferino! Soap, you son of a gun. Dan, if you would let us talk for you, you would never expose your ignorant vulcarity." norant vulgarity."

At another time, when the Innocents were traveling through Italy, and Ferguson kept telling them that Michael Angelo designed every castle and church —"the Pantheon, the Tiber, the Vatican, the Coliseum, the Tarpeian Rock, St. John Lateran, the Baths of Caracalla"-Dan cried out: "Enough, enough, enough! Say no more! Lump the whole thing, and say that the Creator made Italy from designs by Michael Angelo." Dan was the marker in the billiard game played by Mark and the Doctor, which lasted two hours and a half without a point being made, when Dan asked them if the game was not rather monotonous.

Out of the voyage grew many warm friendships, and none of them were stronger than that between Dan and the author of "The Innocents Abroad."

An Anecdote of Jenny Lind. Lucy Hamilton Hooper, in a recent

Paris letter, tells the following anecdote of Jenny Lind:

"A Baron told me of a scene that he witnessed at the opera long years ago, the trial-hearing of a pale, plain girl, with abundant fair tresses and great blue eyes. He brought, by his descripdimly-lighted house, the fair-haired child upon the stage, and in the proscenium box, superb and haughty, the splendid prima donna of the day, Rosina Stoltz, whose empire over the Opera and the heart of its manager was so supreme that none of the operas composed for the Grand Opera in those days contain more than one female role of any importance, as witness 'La Favorita,' Raina da Chenra! ete. ended, Madame Stoltz leaned over, and said something to the manager, who advanced to the young singer, expressing in polite and empty phrases his regret that her talent and her voice were unsuitable to the requirements of the Grand Opera. She heard him in silence, and, folding her modest shawl about her, she glided from the stage. Arrived at the exit door, she looked back. I bid you adieu. Monsieur,' she said quietly. 'One day you will implore me

Two young men were overheard conversing upon the important subject of dress as they stood in a theatre lobby last evening. "Well," said one, "I don't like to wear what everybody else does. I want to be original, or else wear nothing at all." One who overheard this speech had the curiosity to take an inventory of the speaker's wardrobe, which resulted as follows: Item, a calico shirt, with bull-dog's heads on it as large as five-cent pieces; item, a yellow and brown plaid ulster, with a scar-Let and blue handkerchief sticking out of the breast-pocket; item, a black necktie, with red spots on it like traces of a recent nasal hemorrhage; item, striped light trousers, so tight as to give the impression that the wearer must have skinned his leg to get into them; item, very pointed shoes, with buff tope item, a hat, with low crown and a broad, rakish. Quaker sort of brim. Evidently the youth had been successful in his efforts to appear original, and perhaps even this garb might be better than none at all, which he declared was his alternative. - Boston Journal.

A Borrower.

At or near New Braintree, Vt., years ago, lived Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Smith. Now Mrs. Smith was a constant borrower, especially of tea, which she always returned "short" measure. Mrs. Brown never borrowed, it being against her raie. Her patience at last being exhausted, she set a trap for neighbor Smith. She bought a canister, and put therein a pound of tea. Next day comes Mrs. Smith. She wants a drawing or two of tea. Out comes that canister, and Mrs. Smith departs with the tea. In time the ten was returned, as usual a little short the novel is the last thing that ought to The tea was put in the canister and set be allowed to say of itself, like Topsy, aside. By-and-by Mrs. Smith comes "spects I growed." Except in one again for some tea. The canister is sense. If an author's personages are brought out, and Mrs. Smith goes home strongly and clearly defined to his own happy. So the borrowing and repaying mind, he knows that, in whatever situaon till the canister was empty, Baye the last repayment. On the next application for tea Mrs. Brown calmly develop character; but character also presents the canister, to Mrs. Smith, telling her it was all that was left of the this light, a really human novel "writes pound of tea. Mrs. Smith was cured of the bad habit of borrowing.

Industrial Brevities.

The cultivation of the cassava root is attracting the attention of California farmers. It is said to be more profitable to grow cassava than corn. Cassava flourishes in moist bottom land. It is grown for the purpose of furnishing glucose, a substance now extensively used in the manufacture of beer and as a substitute for honey and sugar. The figures given are as follows: Corn yields 30 pounds of glucose to the bushel; ens-sava yields about the same amount per bushel. But a corn crop ranges from 30 to 60 bushels to the acre, while a cassava crop is often 20 tons. So the yield of glucose from an acre of cassava would be nearly ten times greater than from an acre of corn. The quality is superior.

A cow with two extra and useless legs was shown in Washington market, New York, the other day. She came from Colorado, where she was found in a herd of cattle on the plains. The extra legs grew from the shoulders and were shaped like hind legs. The leg on the right side, terminating in an elongated hoof, measured 26 inches, and was at least 20 inches from the ground. The leg on the left side measured 16 inches, and was about 30 inches from the ground and evidently undeveloped. Looking from the tail of the animal toward the head the spine assumed a zig-zag line, and the buttocks were widely separated, while the hips were unusually prominent.

The Co-operative Colonization Society Teutonic, just getting under way at King's Mountain, N. C., presents some new features of business co-operation. It is, in fact, a joint-stock concern, in which the members and owners receive wages for their work, and then the profits in the shape of dividends. Each member takes one share of stock, and is given an acre of land upon which he builds with his own money. The fami-lies are entirely separate, and there is no religious test of membership. The business will be farming, horticulture, and various kinds of wood manufactur-

Efforts are being made by sportsmen of western Massachusetts to increase and multiply feathered game in that section. A year ago wild rice was planted with success, and a small stock of quails was imported and let loose. This year the sportsmen of Springfield are planting wild celery on the rivers and ponds for the quails to feed upon, and it is intended to restock the neighborhood of Springfield further by the addition of five hundred quail, the first lot of fifty having already been received for that

Among the many unexpected developments of electrical science is an application to the hiving of bees when they swarm, successfully tried by German experimenters. By introducing the ends of two connecting wires into a fully-occupied honeycomb, and turning on the current, the bees were rendered inactive for about thirty minutes, which admitted of their being safely handled, while no bad results appeared to follow their awakening.

A discovery of a gold-bearing quartz reef was made recently in the county of Dudley, parish of Warrel, New South Wales. The department of mines have received a telegram from the warden at West Kempsey to the effect that some of the stone has been assayed, and yielded at the rate of two ounces of gold to the ton, and that the reef had been traced about a mile, bearing north and south. Some prospectors have pegged the ctaim.

A correspondent at Oregon. Ill., sends the following directions for killing cabbage-worms: Sprinkle the cabbage liberally with wheat bran, repeating the operation two or three times if the insects appear at different periods. The worms fill themselves, the bran expands, and they burst. They are destroyed in a short time, and the damage done to the cabbage-heads is slight.

How to Write a Novel.

To make a novel, that is, to construct out of the ever-changing kaleidoscope of human fate a picture of life which shall impress people as being life-like and stand out to its own, and possibly an after generation as such—this is a task which cannot be accomplished without genius, but which genius, unaided by mechanical skill, will surely fail to accomplish thoroughly. Much of what is required comes not by intuition, but experience. "How do you write a novel?" has been asked me hundreds of times; and, as half the world now writes novels, expecting the other half to read them, my answer, given in plain print, may not be quite useless.

What other novelists do I know not, but this has been my own way-ab ovo. For. I contend, all stories that are meant to live must contain the germ of life, the egg, the vital principle. A novel "with a purpose" may be intolerable, but a novel without a purpose is more intolerable, still—as feeble and flaccid as a man without a backbone. Therefore, the first thing is to fix on a central idea, like the spine of the human being or the trunk of a tree. Yet, as nature never leaves either bare, but clothes them with muscle and flesh, branches and foliage, so this leading idea of his book will be, by the true author, so successfully disguised as not to intrude itself objectionably; indeed, the ordinary reader ought not even to suspect its existence. Yet from it, this one principal idea, proceed all aftergrowth; the kind of plot which shall best develop it, the characters which must act it out, the incidents which will express these characters, even to the onversations which evolve and describe these incidents.

This, if I have put my meaning clearv, shows that a conscientiously written novel is by no means a piece of impulsive, accidental scribbling, but a deliberate work of art; that, though, in one sense, it is also a work of nature, since every part ought to result from and be subervient to the whole, still in another, tions he places them, they must think, act and speak in a certain way. Events molds action and event. Viewed in itself." - Dinah Milloch Craik.

Economy in Fuel.

The use of hard coal is extending into the country very fast. A few years ago it was only consumed in large cities and towns enjoying the blessings of cheap transportation. Now it is bought by many farmers, who not unfrequently haul it many miles in carts. The modern base-burning stove, designed especially for hard coal, and having a large number of mica windows, gives a room a cheerful look, and is in respect to cheerfulness the nearest approach to the open fire of anything we have in the line of heating apparatus. These stoves, however, are far from being economical. They produce very little heat in proportion to the amount of coal consumed. Much of the coal that is fed in at the top of them comes out at the bot-tom unconsumed. It is in such a condition, however, that it cannot be utilized without great trouble. In fact, these stoves are so wasteful that many frugal people in cities have dispensed with their use after giving them a trial. During warm weather oil stoves are very economical and convenient for cooking purposes. They save fuel and prevent the house from becoming heated by the kitchen fire. Soft coal is cheap in most parts of the west, and this circumstance eads to its general use, notwithstanding the objections that are made to the smoke it produces. The old-fashioned air-tight stove made of sheet iron fastened to a cast-iron bottom furnished an economical means of burning wood which could be burned without dividing it into small pieces. Its use has been revived recently in some parts of the west for burning corn stalks. An Iowa farmer, who has both wood and coal on his place, prefers to burn corn stalks, which are cut at suitable lengths and tied in bundles that can be put into the top of the stove. He thinks the ashes pay the cost of preparing the stalks.

Approving of China. There is one custom in the Celestial Empire that we would like to see turned loose here. Boys in China are not supposed to be responsible until they arrive at about the age of 20 years, and their parents are held accountable for all their crookedness, just the same as the owner of any other dangerous animal is held responsible for damages. Supposing a bad boy walks up and throws a stone through your bay window that shatters a fine calla and busts the statue of the sweet singer of Michigan, you do not go out and chase him four blocks with an iron rake and club him till he gets out of reach, but you just get an old hoe handle that swings easy, and you search out the boy's parents and wear them out with the hoe handle and mix them up with the sand. Then if the boy don't behave himself you can go to other relatives of his, and gradually enlarge the circle of your acquaintance, until you have mauled the entire relationship, even including the old grand-parents of the boy, and if any of these people resist they are subject to imprisonment.

This law, although apparently stringent, is a good one. It makes parents take more interest in their children and look out for them accurately. It encourages parents to know where their boys are, and to keep their eyes on them more than they do here in Laramie .-Why, if that law were to go into force here, some men we know would have to take an arnica bath twice a day and they wouldn't have a whole bone in their body. We like to see a bright active boy with good health and sound lungs, but the thriving blossom that will de-velop into a Jesse James, we have no use for.

'If the Chinese law could be enforced here against those parents who are breeding up a squad of hoodlums, we would not weep. It would be pretty active work for the avenger and his hoe handle, but it would institute a reform at least. As it is now a building cannot be left unoccupied over night before every pane of glass is broken and the walls smashed in. Now if the owner had a right to climb the male parent of those boys and knock his shoulder blade through his spleen and tangle his works all up so that hereafter his food wouldn't be any benefit to him, it might arouse an interest in his children so that he would make them an ornament to so-

You can't do much with a strange boy anyhow. If you spank him with an old window shutter, he goes home and tells his father, and the old man tells him to go right back and do the same thing and he will stand by him. Then the boy returns and repeats, and you start after him with the intention of killing him, but as he turns the corner a quarter of a mile away and puts his thumb on his nose and waves his fingers in the air, you control your brutal temper and go home.

That's the reason why in twenty years from now it will be a bitter cold day when the telegraph doesn't give us the particulars of twenty-seven murders and thirteen train robberies .- Bill Nye in Boomerang.

"I once remarked to the General," says a correspondent who was with General Skobeleff during the Russo-Turkish war, "that he acted very imprudently in constantly exposing himself to the enemy's fire without the slightest necessity for so doing. 'Do you suppose,' was the answer, 'that it gives me any pleasure to let the Turks shoot at me? If I go into danger I have good reasons for it. My superiors envy me on account of my success, and would gladly take an opportunity of getting rid of me. The only way, therefore, of keeping my place is to make my troops so enthusiastically attached to me that they will follow me anywhere and make me indispensable; and in order to do this I must behave with that reckless bravery which always endears a commander to his men."

Husband and Wife.

A Baltimore judge decides that thy people must be my people. An American woman who married a German applied for divorce on the ground that her husband was about deserting her and carrying all her money to the Fatherland. The husband said be would not desert his wife, but that he had determined to go to Germany, and the woman refused to accompany him and insisted on staying with her mother; and the court decided that the husband had a right to go where he chose, and that it was his wife's duty to go along with him, and so the application for divorce was de-

A Saint at the Zoo.

Capt. Harry Piper, Alderman and Super-intendant of the Zoological garden, lately communicated the following facts to a reporter of one of Toronto's most influential papers: Some time ago we purchased from the collection of animals at Central Park, New York, a monstrous Russian bear, which we have named Peter the Great, on account of his tremendous size. Not long after 'Peter' arrived we found that he was suffering from the Rheumatism, and in a pretty bad state. Pete was not the only one in the only one in the 'Zoo' which had a touch of that delicious torture; the lion likewise had it, and in fact I was just being cured of a bad case of the rhounatism, myself, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I found St. Jacobs Oil an excellent remedy, for it cured me in a short while, and my case was a very aggravated one. I argued that if it cored men it must be good for animals as well.

What Noah's Wife Said.

"Draw near thine ear, I pray thee," said Noah, as he sat smoking his good clay pipe by the fire, after having fed the animals their evening meal and shaken up their bedding. What would my lord? replied Mrs. N., drawing my lord? replied Mrs. N., drawing near-her ear, as commanded. Noah smoked in silence for the space of a minute or two, and then opened his mouth and spoke as follows: "I per-ceive by the indications, mother, that the storm which was central over the Euphrates will move westerly to the Nile Valley on the morrow, with areas of low barometer and northeasterly winds, and showery weather on the Arabian coast. I have been moved therefor, to jettison a part of our cargo, fearing that our supplies will give out ere the floods shall subside. What ani-mal thinkest thou can best be spared, love?" And Mrs. N. looked out at the window, listened a moment to the pattering drops on the roof, and replied sweetly, "The rain, dear." And at the sound of her voice Noah wept like a child, and the animals wailed in unison, and there was misery unspeakable where all had been so calm and tranquil.—Burlington Hawkeye.

An Astrologist on Horoscopes.

The nativities of the Queen's children all show some individuality and character. The second son, Prince Alfred, as he was formerly distinguished, was born at Windsor, August 6, 1844, at 7:50 a. m., with the eighteenth degree of Virgo ascending. The most notable position at his birth was the close conjunction of the Sun and Mars in the sign Leo. This denotes a great liability to fevers and violent accidents. The Prince of Wales, who with many faults is yet remarkable for his bon homic, and for the strong personal regard in which he is held by his immediate friends and the people in his domestic establishments. The fahis domestic establishments. The fa-vorite epithet applied to the heir appa-rent is the word jovial, and the corres-pondents tell us much of his affable hobnobbing with actors, literary men and The Prince of Wales was born with Jupiter rising—hence jovial is a very correct word. All these words, descriptive briefly, succinctly and graphically of character, are relies of the former general belief in astrology. From this dectrine we have our words saturnine, mercurial, martial, etc. It is curious, indeed, to what extent we may trace in this direction the old doctrine of planetary influence, even in the most of our proverbs and common phrases.
"He may thank his stars," "his lucky stars," etc., are examples in every-day use, and Shakspeare is notably fond of such expressions. He speaks of the "star-crossed lovers, Romeo and Juliet; of the happy Christmas time, "when no planet strikes," of "the moon coming nearer the earth than is her wont and making men mad," and in fifty other places of the belief in occult influence. The same is found in the other old poets.

The unfortunate Princess Alice had an interesting horoscope. She was born as Venus was rising and possessed many amiable and attractive qualities, and was one of the most popular members of the family. The Sun was in conjunction with Mercury and approximately in parallel with Jupiter. Her mental fac-ukies were very bright, and it was said that while yet in her teens she was one of the most highly accomplished young tadies of Great Britain, particularly fond of books and art, and with a mind of wider sphere in many ways than usual. The Sun was the hyleg, or life-giver, at ber birth, and was afflicted by the sesquidate aspect of Mars, the same evil planet also afflicting the Moon by square aspect. The Sun was in the sign Tau-rus, which rules the throat, and the un-fortunate lady contracted that terrible malady, diphtheria, and fell a victim to it. She caught the infection by kissing one of her children who was suffering with the disease. This diphtheria is a strictly martial disease and in the horomalady appears. At those periods when he is traversing the signs Tarsus and Scorpio thousands of children may be observed to be swept away by it. This was remarkably exhibited the last time

Mars made his long stay in Tarsus .-

Gypsy Lore. Perhaps the reason that gypsies un-derstand so well how to work upon the sympathies of others is because they are sympathies or others is because they are superstitious themselves. Some gypsies set their boots crosswise before going to bed, fancying thereby to keep away the cramp; a female gypsy carried the skeleton of a mole's foot, which she called a "fairy foot," because she believed it good against rheumatism; and it is a standing truth among them that shill standing truth among them that chil-dren in teething should wear a necklace made of myrtle stones, which for a boy must be cut by a woman; by a man for a girl. An adder's slough or a bit of mountain ash is certain to bring good luck; and with the same object some of the children wear round their necks black bags containing fragments of a bat. In order to hurt an enemy you have only to stick pins into a red bag and burn the same; others for the same end resort to the cruel practice of sticking pins into a toad until it looks like a hedgehog, and then bury it with certain observances. One old woman, called a ghost seer, carried in her pocket a little china dog dressed like a doll. "I mind," says the gypsy who tells the story, "she lost it once, and she was in such an awful state till it was found; and she used to fancy it would talk to her when she was all alone smoking her nine in the yan. You should see a nack of very old fortune-telling cards, which was painted in different colors. She used to select the different ones for each day; sometimes she would have those with the devil and serpents on them, 'then she would carry those with birds and palaces." Now if superstition could be confined to the lower classes, it would be something of a blessing.

The Iceman's Dog.

A faithful Newfoundland dog spent the night on a pond in Connecticut, recently, guarding the coats of a party of ice-cutters. He refused to leave them when called away, and in the morning he was found at his post badly frozen. That dog was a noble philanthropist; he probably knew that the ice-men would see a on the fact of an axe or saw being less to raise the price of ice in the sumlost to raise the price of ice in the summor, and he averted the calamity.

It is said that a young man can cure hinself of nervousness by playing on a violin. What is to become of the other boarders in the house the man does not

The Wives of Congressmen. Emma Janes, in a Washington letter to the Albany Evening Journal, says

I am tempted to say something here about wives as unreserved partners in their husbands correspondence, and vice verse, because I often hear it discussed here. It has been brought home to me of late, by chance remarks from two of the happiest wives and best bred women I have ever met. Each said to me, on a separate occasion, "My husband and I never open each other's letters. We would not think it courteous." One added, "When women insist on this as a right, you may be sure it is not love that prompts it; it is suspicion. I have tried to be equitable toward my husband in all our married life, to trust him with the grave consideration due to any gentleman, especially to a man with high public trusts. I do not want to know the secrets of the men who confide in his discretion. There are a thousand ways of na eging a husband; this among the most fruitful of all; I have studied to avoid them." This was given with modest dignity in answer to my asking her the secret of her fresh and youthful looks, though the mother of grown-up daughters; and the companion secret of her husband's love like and proverbial devotion to her. Per contra I have known the wives of other public men here, one especially, to snatch an unread letter from her husband's hand, because it bore his address in chirography she conjectured to be feminine; and I have felt mortified for him in her belittlement of his manhood, and medless betrayal of the skeleton at his domestic feast. All of which goes to show that "there are women and woas the French proverb has it. men." Now and then a woman looms up above the indiscriminate mass, with such a genius for politics, such reticence of the secrets confided to here husband, and such consummate tact in managing men, that the husband looks toward her as his most valued counsellor, and courts and prizes her Portia-like judgment. Such an one, as you know, is Mrs. Logan, wife of the Illinois Senator, who combines great delicacy towards his affairs with the most thorough knowledge of them. I will recall for you, in another Senator's own words, what the latter told me at a recent dinner party as, illustrating Mrs. Logan's graceful tact. "When we boarded together, I used to be often in Logan's parlor, and it was a study to me to see his wife's influence over him. For instance, in opening his mail he would now and then come upon a letter that would make bim swearing angry. Then Mrs. Logan would come up and reach gently out for the offending letter, and say, 'Here, darling,'—she always calls him darling; nice old darling he is-Here, darling, give me that letter to answer. I'll see to it;' and the General, with instantly her as eagerly as if it were a baby with the colic, which it much relieved him to get rid of."

A strange kind of experiment has lately been made in Paris by Drs. Refinard and Blanchard, viz., measurement of the power exerted by the masseter muscle in a crocodile (a muscle passing from the cheek bone to the lower jaw). Ten live crocodiles of the species C. galeatus of siamensis, that had been sent in large cases from Saigon to M. Paul Bert, afforded the opportunity for such experiments. Some of these animals were as much as ten feet in length, and weighed about 154 pounds. The difficulty of managing such creatures in the laboratory was, of course, considerable. The crocodile was fixed with ropes on a heavy table; the lower jaw kept in contact with the table by a cord, the upper was raised by means of a cold attached at the extremity and passing up to a beam overhead. A dynamometer was inserted in this cord, and was affected when the animal was strictly martial disease and in the noroscopes of those who are stricken with it the planet Mars will invariably be seen to occupy some manignand position at birth, and also to exercise an influence birth, and also to exercise an influence of the directions at the time when the directions at the time when the the application of the force is thus at the end of a long lever, and there is at least five times more space between this point and the insertion of the masseter muscle than between the latter and the joint of the jaw-the fulcrum. Hence the masseter really produces a force five times that indicated by the dynamometer, or about 1,540 pounds (700 kilogrammes).

This extraordinary force, it should be remembered, was of an animal some-what weakened and at a low temperature. The force (of about 308 pounds) is readily applied at the end of four large teeth that project beyond the others, and considering the surface here represented, the authors estimate the pressure, while the bite is executed by the extremity of those teeth, at nearly 400 atmospheres. Making similar experiments with an ordinary sporting dog, they obtained in the dynamometer a pressure of about seventy-two pounds; while the effect at the insertion of the masseter was about 360 pounds. The pressure at the point of the canine teeth would be about 100 atmospheres. It is calculated that the crocodile is about one-third stronger than a dog of the same weight would be.

The Wise Editor.

A Western editor offered a prize of $50 and a year's subscription for the best written proposal of marriage from a lady. He picked out a nice proposal from a beautiful and wealthy widow, answered it accepting the proposal, and with the threat of a breach of promise suit, ac-tually captured her. Editors may not acquire wealth by writing twenty-three hours a day, but when their genius takes the right shoot, they procure the persimmons. - Boomerang.

Rewarded.

A recent instance of an impromptu act of politeness serving to detect a thief makes the virtue of courtesy appear more valuable than ever. The New Haven Palladium says:

A gentleman at Bridgeport was an interested and amused party in an episode which occurred recently, at the South Norwalk depot.

While strolling about the platform for a train he saw a woman slip on some-thing and nearly fall. Full of sympathy and politeness, he hurried to the rescue and assisted her to rise.

As she assumed an upright attitude, however, something escaped from her possession that at once caught her benefactor's eye. It was nothing else than his valise, which he had left in the epot a minute before, and which, it possessed the distressed famels was twing peared, the distressed female was trying to get away with.

DR. BRERETON, M.P.P.

We are authorized by Dr. Brereton, M.P.P., to contradict a report which is at present being circulated extensively throughout the riding, to the effect that he will decline to be a candidate at the approaching meeting of the Conservative Convention, to be held at Millbrook on the 11th Dec. Dr. Brereton also authorizes us to state that he has decided to be a candidate before the convention, if his friends are desirous of having him.

SHORTHAND.

During the past five years, shorthand has come so generally into use in every branch of business that a large field is open to all proficient in the art, independent of the newspaper business, and it is time, in our estimation, our educational authorities gave it their attention. In our schools a great many subjects are taught which could well be dispensed with, and shorthand should be taught to all pupils desiring to study it. In engaging teachers, one, at least, in each of our schools should be qualified to teach the subject, and we have no doubt a great deal of good would, in this way, be accomplished. Take, for instance, a boy attending school with the view of eventually taking a university course. What an immense advantage he would derive from being able to take sten >graphic notes of the lectures of the learned professors he attends, and the equally valuable notes from works he studies in the same way for future reference. If taught in the schools, every pupil would be equally benefitted, for, in the case of a youth who could not and if it so happens, we can tell our conafford to go further, and who found it temporary the Reform bob-tail nag necessary to earn his own living at an will be left far behind at the early age, a knowledge of this science close of the polls. PERSONAL POLITICS.

It is very easy to be witty at the expense of other people, if one does not care a straw for the feelings of those the alleged fun is directed at. An article in a local Reform paper last week is ecstabrings forward Mr. D.vid Marshall, sneeringly, "as the champion of Protestantism," etc., forgetting that this is the same Mr. David Marshall who was offered the nomination of the great Reform Party of E at Durham but a few years ago. Major Howden is described as the upper strata of good old Toryism, an off-nce the magnitude of which should be sufficient to banish him to S beria, or some other desolate place. Major Howden is well known throughout this county, and the esteem in which he is held by all is sufficient answer to the ill-natured inuendoes with which he is assailed. Next we are told "Dr. Brereton is not much heard of !" That, perhaps, is the best j ke in the whole article, -the doctor being, in reality, much more talked of and more popular just now than ever before. He is spoken of as "the representative of first-class political nothingness," from which it might be inferred that our worthy M. P. P. belonged to that clever, do-nothing party, which, while in power, admitted themselves to be only "flies on the wheel;" but all who know Dr. Brereton are aware he never had any sympathy with that unfortunate party, and his triumphant return by a large majority over the strongest Reformer that could be brought out against him in the last election should be proof enough of his ability and energy. The doctor's conduct in the House is fully approved of by his constituents, and if he again takes the field he will, we have no doubt, be elected with an increased majority over any one his opponents may bring against him. Sneering at Dr. Brereton will not win votes for the Reform party, particularly in the north, where he is best known and universally esteemed. Capt. Preston has so often turned the Reform spouters bottom side up that occasion is taken to give him a dry rub-down. Well, if anyone can stand it, he can-and he will give his facetious critics more fun than they will relish in the coming campaign, while "the temperance and Methodistically inclined" stand by and enjoy it. Reeve Ferguson, we are told, "might be considered the dark horse," all of which goes to show how little objection could be raised against either of

The Court were unanimous in reversing the judgment of the Court of Appeal in Ontario the superfluous studies and substitute and affirming the decree of the Court of Chancery, which granted McLaren an injunction, restraining the defendant, Caldwell, from making use of the improvements made by McLaren on the stream in question, a tributary of the Mississippi River. The substance of the Court's decision was, that these streams in the state of nature were not floatable. and could not have been made use of for the purpose of navigating sawlogs and spring, summer, and fall freshets, and that McLaren, having made these improvements, if the defendant desired to make use of them, compensation for such should, at least, have been made to LOCAL ELECTIONS. EVERYTHING points to an early dissolution of the Ontario Legislature. The eess on opens before the Christma, holidays, no doubt with the object of bringing on the elections in February or ear y in March. Mr. Mowat must be commended on account of his shrewdness in choosing such a favorable time, when the Dominion House will be in session, and the attention of the country centred upon Dominion politics. It is also favorable to Mr. Mowat from the fact that members of the Ottiwa House will be engaged in the performance of their parliamentary duties, and thus they will be prevented from paying back the "little Premier" in his own coin. I will be remembered that he disregarded all professed principles by going out of his sphere, as Ontario Premier, and entering actively the arena of Dominion politics, taking the stump as a champion of Mr. Blake's cause. Retaliation, to any extent, will be prevented by bringing on the elections during the session of the House of Commons. We always gave Mr. Mowat credit for a good deal of bumptiousness and hypocrisy, but this determination shows an unexampled degree of cleverness as well, on his part, and ought to give him a reputation for being wise after his own day and generation.

The charges which must be faced on the hustings are not a few, and not less as to degree of importance. He and his colleagues will have to explain to the public why they will not submit to a egal and satisfactory settlement of the Boundary Award. They must shoulder the onus connected with the Crooks Act. An excuse will have to be furnished for the existence of, as Minister of Elucation, a man who has been the greatest 'mixer and muddler" ever known since the balmy days of Sir Richard John Cartwright. The people want to know if the ecclesiastical head of a minority, equal to one-fifth of our entire population, is to rule Ontario. There is a mystery hovering about the distribution of the surplus, which the Province is anxious to see through. We want to know, about all power being already centralized at Toronto, what the next encroachment is to be; if Mr. Mowat is to become a sort of patria chal protectorate, and general bread distributor. These and many other items of interest in connection with the Mowat policy, require to be explained.

SIR JOHN MCDONALD'S REPLY.

At a recent meeting of the Dominion Alliance a resolution was passed bewailing the action of the License Victualler's as, was reported by the Globe, endeavoring to get the Dominion Premier to disallow the provisions of the Crook's Act, etc. A copy of this resolution was sent to Sir John Macdonald. His reply is so significant in character that any comment would only serve to weaken its crushing force. Here

FDITORIAL COMMENT.

A New York journal pays Sir John Macdonald a high compliment, by stating that he is the only man, were he an American statesman, who could save the Republican party. The Herald is confident that he will be the next Governor-General of Canada. Sir John's ability as a statesman is, evidently, highly appreciated on the "other side."

Thurlow Weed, America's oldest journalist, died last week. He was born in 1797, and from his earliest remembrance was under the painful necessity of earning his own living. At twelve he became a printer in Catskill. Since that time he was associated more or less with journalism. A successful editor, a noted politician and diplomatist-his name is one of the most familiar of Americans. "Fifty years a journalist" is the briefest way of writing his history. That means

Sir Garnet Wolseley is spoken of as Canada's next Governor General. While Sir Garnet would, no doubt, fill the position with a tolerable degree of acceptance-dignity being the principle requisite-it is not at all probable that disposition will be made, unless those jealous of his military acquirements can eral in this way. INCENDIARY FIRE - The out-buildings Kei nedy, occupied by Mr. R this village, were or Friday morning last destroyet by fire, the couffs gration taking place about three o'clock. From the suspicious circumstances attending the affair, it was undoubt-edly incendiary. Mr. Lee's premi es directly opposite were in great danger, owing to the high wind prevailing at the time, and it was only by the most untiring exertions of the fire brigade that they were saved. The building burned had been fitted up as a blacksmith shop, and work was intended to be started next morning.

MR ROBERT GRANDI'S LEAVING -Mr. Grandy's removal is a matter of much regret. A week ago last Thursday night, a number of friends visited his house, as a surprise party, and after holding high carnival over cysters, and after a pleasant evening being spent, Miss Grandy was made the recipient of an address and presentation. Dr. Geo. Brereton read the address, Mr. White made the presentation, consisting of a silver tea pot, cream jug and cruet, and Mr. R. Grandy, in behalf of his sister replied. Miss Grandy was well thought of in this section, having rendered valuable assistance in all local undertakings of a social character, and ever showing a willingness to do the agreeable.

ANOTHER TRIBUTE -The event above was followed closely by one of a somewhat similar nature. On the eve of his departure to the North-West a number of fr ends gave Mr. Robt. Grandy an oyster supper at Mr. Hamilton's hotel, on Wednesday evening, the 22nd inst. Dr. Breretor, P. P., occupied the chair, and Mr. Richard S aples, the vice-chair. The spread was good, and a very pleasant evening was spent. After supper, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were drank. "Our guest," the toast of the evening, was spoken to feelingly by both chairmen, and responded to in good style by Mr. Grandy. Encomiums were heaped on Mr. G. by all speakers, and general regret expressed at the departure of so valuable a citizen. Proceedings very appropriately wound up by the presentation of a magnificent fur cloak-something which Mr. Grandy will feel the need of in the N. W. T., and something which, ther, cannot help but bring kindly recollections of his many warm friends in Bethany.

COUNCILLOR STEVENSON AND THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of THE TIMES. DEAR SIR,-When a public man in his official capacity utters statements gravely compromising the integrity and capacity of other public men in their official acts, it is generally taken for granted that he has facts at his disposal upon which he bases his statements. Councillor Stevenson, at the last meeting (Nov. 22) of the Town Council, made a number of statements respecting the management of the Public Schools so grossly untrue that I am at a loss to imagine where he obtained the information on which he based his statements, and I cannot, in justice to the ratepayers, the Public School Board, and the teachers of our schools, permit them to pass unre-

Untruth No. 1 .- Coun. Stevenson said that " Ward 2 has no school, and the ratepayers there have a right to one.' Coup. S. should know that the town is not divided into wards for school purposes, but into districts, and that Ward 2 has two primaries-the Central, which takes in part of Wards 1, 2, and 3, and the West Pri mary, which takes in that part of Wards 2 and 3 west of Pine street. Please note, the schools are not styled ward schools, but east, west, and central primarics.

Untruth No. 2 .- Coun. S. said "that all that was wanted, as far as he could find, was a large room in which the Head Master cou d teach the Model School." The intention of the Board was, and is, to provide three rooms in the new building-two for the accommodation of the children of the Central Primary, and one for the fifth class, whose room has now become much too small. It may be that the worthy councillor obtained his information from that reliable source, the Mayor, as His Worship was industriously circulating that report some time ago.

Untruth No. 3 .- Councillor Stevenson said "The Models now demand that certain days of the week be given to them." A large part of the training of the Models consists in watching the regular work of the principal and teachers in the various rooms; and if Councillor S. had manifested a little interest of the right kind in our schools, and occasionally visited them, he would not, I trust, have made a statement so utterly qualified by education, training, knowledge obtained by visiting and unprejudiced observation of the working of our schools, or by information from any competent source, to form an opinion justifying him in making such a serious imputation? I have made diligent enquiry of the various teachers in the various schools, and have yet to find that Councillor S. has taken sufficient interest in our schools to visit them. Inspector Tilley is the only person fully competent to judge, and his reports show that the schools are steadily improving. In order, still further, to show the utter groundlessness of Councillor Stevenson's charge, an analysis of the result of the entrance examinations to the High School since 1873, when the schools first came under the present management, shows that, previous to the intro-duction of the Model Scho I system, the per cent ge of successful applicants was 56; since then it has been 70 per cent., notwithstanding the fact that the examinations are much more difficult now than then. Neither has the work of the lower classes been less successful, as the supply from below is so great that at the present the fifth class room is not large enough to seat that class. In order to remove any doubt from the mind of Councillor Stevenson as to the correctness of this statement, I append a letter from Mr. Purslow, kindly furnished at my request:-PORT HOPE, Nov. 27th, 1882.

Dr. Clemesha, Port Hope:

My DEAR SIR, -Your note of to-day'doly received. In it you request me, as examiner and subsequent teacher of pupils who enter this High School from the Pablie School of the town, "to state my experience as to the character of the work done now in the Public School as compared with that done before the introduction of the Model School system." Perhaps I can best reply by stating that I have noticed no falling off whatever, either in the attain-ments or in the number of those who have passed the entrance examination each half year since the introduction of the Model School system, as compared with the attainments and numbers of those who passed the same examination before the introduction of that system; although, as is well known, the examination has, in late years, consid-

Untruth No. 5 .- " Classes are given into the charge of Models, who monopolize the attention and time of the teachers." The average time taken up in each class by the Models during the whole Model School term is 51-5 hours, or 24 minutes a week. These statements have been obtained to-day from the teachers.

Untruth No 6 .- Councillor 8, said "the children are sent home to make room for those who compose the Model School. This statement is so utterly baseless that I cannot imagine any one having the slightest regard for the truth making it.

In the opinion of Councillor Stevenson, the teachers are overpaid. Of course the Councillor has a right to his opinion, but for the information of the ratepayers, I may say that, in 1879. Mr. Budg- submitted to a joint meeting of the Boards a tabulated statement of salaries paid public school teachers in nearly all the towns in Ontario of about the size of Port Hope, and proved conclusively that this town then paid less than any other to her teachers. Last year, in response to similar enquiries made of me, the same result was obtained, and to-day the salaries are lower than in 1879. I do not make this statement in any boasting spirit, for I consider the laborer is worth Councillor Stevenson has made grave charges against the honesty of the management of our Public Schools, which, if true, demand an investigation. It is due to himself to substantiate these charges, or he must rest under the imputation of being : reckless traducer of our schools. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your paper, I will, with your consent, next week place before the ratepayers some information concerning the projected new central primary school house.

NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, Nov. 28, 1882. We are sorry to have to record the death of one of our first born white men in the Township of Clarke, namely, Richard Lovekin. He died at two, this a. m.

Mr. Wm. Parker, who left here some time ago from the fisheries to take charge of the Sindwich Dept., was in town to-day looking good natured as ever. He brought with him four million white fish eggs, all in good condition, and he has at the establishment in Sandwich, over seven million.

We were pleased to see Mr. Alex. Brodie, late of the firm known as the Newcastie Woollen Mills, in town to-day. We are sorry his stay is to be short.

Mr. John Rinsh, who has always been hale and hearty, is confined to his house on account of illness.

Mr. W. Adams, has also been ill for the past two or three weeks, but is recovering. A lawsuit by two young ladies, is threatened against a young gentleman of this town, and I learn they have secured the services of one of the first lawyers in Bowmanville to plead their case. The assertion, we believe, made by the said gentleman, was that the said ladies at the last literary entertainment, as artists, were equal to, if not better, than some in the Toronto theatres.

Barley is still very quiet here. There is still in store at the warehouse, some 80,000 bushels awaiting the arrival of vessels. If they don't soon come, it will be hard on the sailors, and we fear the buyers will have to pay more freight and insurance. The wharf here new is considered to be the best on the shore. But the company, with the government grant, intend laying out a considerable sum next summer.

BOOKS AND PAPERS.

"Crooked Life in New York." Published by Richard K. Fox. Is a lively and entertaining series of sketches of criminal life in New York, by a detective, who evidently knows whereof he writes. It gives a clear and comprehensive idea of the vast extent and the mysterious ramifications of lawlessness in the metropolis, and sketches with a vigorous pen the careers, methods of life, and modes of operating of the various grades of law-breakers. It is an unique work, both in its exhaustive character, in its matter and in the method of its treatment, and, repulsive as the subjects sometimes are, they are treated with a skill that renders them little short of fascinating.

HE BUCKED.

The Danger of Riding Texas Ponies.

Great Excitement on Montgomery Street.
A Happy Thought and a Happy Man.

Isan Francisco Exouing Post.

It is a fact beyond dispute that the average Texas pony is uncertain. As a general thing a Texas charger can be relied upon, sconer or later, to indulge in his little act, popularly known on the plains as "bucking." You can't cultivate the pary sufficiently to induce him to forget it. It is in his blood, and he sticks to it by the power of heredity. He would probably go without his hay for a whole day sooner than throw away a fair opportunity to 'fonck.' It is a part of his life, and the chief article in his creed. In short a Texas pony which won't buck is not a Texas pony at all. He is a non-dere ipt, and unworthy to be accredited to the Lorne Star State. Mr. George Rdige-way, residing on Jefferson street, Oakland, will probably endorse the above heartily. At any rate the accident which befell him this morning would seem to be a sufficient guarantee for such inference in the minds of observers for Mr. Ridgeway narroly escaped death. As it is well known, this gentleman is a finished horseman, and is gentleman is a finished horseman, and is fond of riding apirited animals. This morning about 8 o'clock he rode up Montgomery street at a very rapid pace. When opposite F. Garcia & Co.'s restaurant, popularly known as "Frank's" Mr. Ridgeway suddenly checked his horse and attempted to wheel. But the pony grew obstinate and refused to obey the will of the rider. Mr. Ridgeway attempted to the rider. Mr. Ridgeway attempted to force the horse, but, the preverse product of the pampas declined to be enforced, and then ensued a struggle for the mastery between horse and rider. True to his instincts the pony finally prepared a coup d'etat, and won the victory. Jumping into the air, the devilish creature stif-fened his legs, humped his back until he described an inverted U, came down on the street with all four feet at one time, plunged his head between his forelegs and the act was complete. Mr. Ridgeway struck the ground about six feet in front of his horse. He was insensible. A large crowd of excited people was atly lifted the unconscious sufferer and bore him into Frank's. 'A messenger was disparched for a physician. In the mean-time restoratives were applied, and every means no to those present resorted for his resuscitation. In a short time Mr. Ridgeway showed signs of returning con-Ridgeway showed signs of returning cens later is just as well on this said of sciousness, and meaned in great pain. river as the other. Now, if you had money Regaining the power of speech the hurt enough to establish yourself in business can leave a side of the constant Regaining the power of speech the hurt gentleman said: "For God's sake do something to relieve this horrid pain in my shoulder. It is killing me. Have you a bottle of St. Jacobs Od in the hous?"

ing, and his right shoulder was found to be badly bru sed. Quick hands applied the great remedy which is now creating such a sensation on the coast, and in an incredibly short time Mr. Ridgeway began to show signs of satisfaction. Soon he said that the pain was greatly relieved, and the application of nearly a whole bot tle took away all the pain and reduced the swelling which had commenced when they began applying the Oil. Examination revoaled the fact that Mr. R dgeway had not sustained a fracture in any of his bones, and he remarked subse quently as he was sipping a glass of "imporial punch," that St. Jacobs Oil had doubtless saved him great and protracted sufficiency. Calling at a neighboring drug store, Mr. Ridgeway secured several bot-tles of this wonderful healing substance and went home. The doctor arrived to late to see the patient.

"Just the thing!" said Mr. Garcia. "I

The sufferer was denuded of his cloth-

The exhibition of such wonderful power by the St. Jacobs Oil set all tongues wagging, and many gentleman present expressed astonishment at the amazing result of its application. Mr. Garcia explained that the Oil was reputed to be almost miraculous in its action in some cases, and the incident of this morning was simply a vertification of what he personally knew of it, as well as what was stated of it by persons of his accquaintanse. He though so highlyt of its splendid curative properties in all cases of pains and hurts that he never failed to keep some of it on hand. Mr. Ridgeway would doubtless feel a little shaken up by his fall for a few days, but several more applications of the remedy would und ubtedly place his shoulder all right.

The reporter was greatly interested in what he had witnessed and resolved to learn more about the performance of the great remedy. Meeting Mr. Robert Young, a printer in the Mercantile Agency, and residing at No. 320 California street, the question of the healing power of St.

Jacobs Oll was introduced. Mr. Young immediately and emphatically bore strong testimony in its favor. "Why, sir," said he, "I had been troubled a long time with stiffness of the neck. It was especially severe when I took cold. I had also suffered with rheumatic pains in my shoulders. It is, therefore, with feeling of gratitude that I say that the St. Jacobs Oil relieved me of every pain and ache. I most heartily recommend it as a seperb relievant."

During the moraing the reporter's du-ties called him to North Boach. While there he met Mr. Charles Schwartz, proprietor of the North Beach Chowder House, No. 2209 Powell street. The following conversation ensued:

"Mr. Schwarz, do you know anything about St. Jacobs Oil?"

"Well, I should say so! It is just the grandest remedy for rheumatism ever made!"

"Have you used it, sir!" "Used it! Yes, it has been a standing remedy in my house for two years. There is nothing like it. We could not well get on without it. It cures my people of rheumatism, burns bruises and every kind of ache or pain. Then my neighbors use it, too. I always have several bottles in my house, and it frequently happens that persons call for it in sudden emergencies. Only a few days since a drayman got badly hurt, and I sent out a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. They rubbed it on him and it took away the pain. The man was very grateful and said it was the best stuff in the world." The reporter stepped at the popular pharmacy of J. Adolph Boyken, corner of Ninth and Mission streets, and asked the proprietor if he had much call for the St. Jacobs Oil. Mr. Boyken replied: "The Great German Romedy, St. Jacobs Oil, has been having a big sale with me lately, and my customers are high in their praises of it as a conqueror of Naming Children. It is becoming popular in San Franrisco to call boys who are named after their fathers by some foreign equivalent. For instance, of Stephen, "Etienne;" for John, the Russian "Ivan;" Ralph becomes "Raoul." This may be an improvement on the sobriquets "Big John," "Little John," "Old George," and 'Young George," so often screamed is necessary to distinguish quickly between persons bearing the same name; but it, however, implies a lack of Anglo-Saxon independence, to introduce the names of other languages into houses where English is the mother tongue. Fashion now considers nicknames vulgar. Girls are being subjected to esthetic experiments in the matter of names. Gladys, Alcimir, Ottalie, Lois, Reba, Valerie, are among the latest fashiom, and many stately, half-forgotten feminines; Edwina, Cyrene, Jacqueline, Dorothea, Theodora and Vida Gentinine of David) are being revived; besides other eccentric names hunted up by people who care more for singularity than euphony. Of these crudities nene seem more abominable than Mariyah, the Mosslem Turkish form of the Christian name of Mary. The custom of giving girls a middle baptismal name is now a thing of the past. Fashionable mothers expect that all their daughters, as soon as they are through school, will choose a new final name and take the family surname as a middle name. A good svery is being told of the wife of one of the through the house in moments when it name as a middle name. A good swry is being told of the wife of one of the aristocratic Izzard family of Boston-a lady who boasts in her own right of a great deal of blue blood. She was anxious that her children should have the distinguished names of families with which she was connected, and decided to name her daughter Anna Gwathmey, after an aunt contemporaneous with some great-great-grandfather. Some of her friends remonstrated that Anne Izzard was an awkward combination, but with no effect. After the christening the lady was delighted in her daughter's high-sounding name, until one morning a silver mug arrived covered with repousse work, except a small plate in the center, on which was inscribed in crowded letters, "A. G. Izzard."-San Fran cisco Argonaut.

A Chicago sharper is swindling farmers in the vicinity of Canton, Ill. He pretends to establish agencies for a patent sickle grinder, and manages to get farmers to put their names to a harmless looking document, which afterwards turns out to be a check on a neighboring bank for several hundred dollars. The victims are said to be numerous.

"THE SUN."

NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read Tue Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other neaspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like The Sux for the following reasons. Among others:-Because its news-columns present in attractive Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events, the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving non-zense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks a concerning present affairs. The SUN makes a Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs The Sun makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three bundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small like, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as whon supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherence of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that The Sun is indifferent to his we fare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow so humble that The Sur is indeferent to his we fare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the attict application of its principles of right and wrong. Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that his resulted in the recent overwholming popular verdict against Roberonism and for honest government. No matter what among newspapers, the light that his resulted in the recent overwholming popular verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, Time Sun stands, and will continue to stand, like a rock for the interests of the people against like ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

All this is what we are told almost daily by our friends. One man helds that Time Sun is the best religious newspaper ever published, because its Christianity is in diluted with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper printed, because it has already whipped half of the rascals out of that party, and is proceeding against the other half with undiminished vigor. A third believes it to be the best inagazine of general literature in existence, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that is current in the world of thought. So every friend of Ters Sun discovers one of its many sides that appeals with particular force to his individual liking.

REMEMBER the lecture on Short-hand, by Mr. Thos. Bengough, of Toronto, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, to-morrow (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock. Admission free.

THE Model School closes on the 8th of December, the final examinations taking place on the 7th and 8th prox. About nineteen candidates have already obtained schools.

Mr. C. J. McNaughton, lordlord of the American Hotel, had $20 stolen out of the till on Monday evening. No trace of the burglar has been discovered.

THE Music Hall is at last to be renovated and put into something like decent shape; but we hope this will not deter the Town Council from going on with the Town Hall extension, work on which should commence Every young man and young lady should attend Mr. Thos. Bengough's lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-morrow (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock, and also join the class which will then be formed. Admission to lecture, free.

last Friday evening. A special, while coming in, had one of its wheels broken in two, at the rear end of Cavan street. The Peterborough express was delayed for a time, but no damage resulted.

As the last Monday in December, the day set apart by law for municipal nominations, this year is Christmas Day, the nominations will be held on the preceding Friday (the 23d Dec.) Aspirants for office should not forget Business on the Midland has been rather slack for a time, compared with the brisk trade of a few months ago. It is, however, brightening up again. Local grain is coming in lively, and lumber for points east on the G. T. R. is also being shipped in good CORRECTION .- A peculiar error crept into our report of the marriage last week. Instead of: "Vicar-General Rooney, officiating, assisted by Rev. Fathers Harris and Conway, Rev. Father Brown, of Port Hope, and Pather Lynch, of Peterboro', were present behind the railing, but did not take part," it should have read: Rev. Father Brown, assisted by Vicar-General Rooney, of Toronto, etc.

A TOUGH CITIZEN .- In East Durham the only person who was refused a liquor license was "one of the most prominent Reformers in the district." This piece of information is farnished by one of the Mowat organs. The man who is a Reformer, a prominent Reformer, and a most prominent Reformer, and yet cannot get a license, must be a tough oitizen .- Mail.

HORSE TRAINING .- Those interested in the training and care of horses will be pleased to learn that Prof. J. G. McPherson. in company with Mr. Wm. McConkey, will wisit Port Hope on the 1st and 2nd December, at Goheen's livery stable. They will give a free exhibition in the afternoon with their trained horses, "Mexican Chief" and " Phoenix," driving them without bridles or lines, after which a class will be formed, so that those who wish can acquire the new theory of handling a colt without abuse or injury to the mouth. Prof. McPherson's Hope are highly satisfied with what they he found the amount on the gate post, less Jearned from the professors while here.

THE Cosmopolitian glee club of Toronto will give an entertainment at Port Hope on

" HAD its origin in the Globe," is the latest way of denominating a lie. The News is quite proverbial in the same way.

AT the close of Mr. Thos. Bengough's lecture on Short-hand, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-morrow (Friday) evening, a class in shorthand will be formed, and we hope to see a large number of young men and young ladies join it. Terms for the course, $7.

AT a recent concert in Winnipeg, two former Port Hopers took part, Mr. Byington and Mr. Wm. Philp. Of the latter, the Philp, which was rendered at this stage, constituted another of the grand characteristic features of the evening's proceedings. The house was again taken by storm." Miss Carrie Stephens, of Cobourg, at the same entertainment, sung the "Cuckoo's Call," and was rapturously applauded and encored.

A LOCAL Grit sheet is responsible for the statement "that the only license refused in East Durham," at the annual meeting of the Commissioners, was upon an application of one of the most prominent Grits in the Riding." That seems rather an odd admission to make, and is a little rough on "one of the most prominent Grits"-very suggestive of his not being a desirable person to entrust with a license. If the statement is true, beyond a doubt there was a very good reason for the refusal of the Commissioners, for if they dared to issue the license, this " most prominent Grit" would not have been left out in the cold.

THE Cobourg World is a little too hard on our esteemed contemporary, the Bowmanville Statesman, but our able confrere does not become disheartened very readily at such treatment, as will be seen by the following sweet little song which it sings in its last issue:-

"All admit that the Statteman is now one of the best local papers in Canada, and we claim that it is the largest and best local paper published at One Dollar a year. It paper published at One Bollar a year. It contains one-half more general reading matter, much more local and district news, and is printed on a better quality of paper than any other local paper published in this part of

In writing the above our contemporary evidently overlooked the fact that THE PORT HOPE TIMES is issued at $1.00 a year, and that it is a larger paper, and gives more reading matter than the Statesman, while a comparison of its contents, and the quality of paper used, will also give us the advantage.

VALUABLE ADVICE .- Mr. Thos. Shaw, commission merchant, Montreal, sends us the following in regard to the proper method of dressing poultry, with a request to publish:-" Poultry should not be fed for 24 hours previous to killing. Bleed well and pluck clean, leaving on the head, also the wings and tail feathers in. Entrails should not be drawn, neither should poultry be scalded. It is easily detected, and means from one to three cents per pound reduction in value. Pack firmly in nice, clean cases Mark each case with correct weights—gross tare, and nett. Also number and kind of birds contained, and advise the firm to whom you ship of the particulars of your consignment, that its proper delivery may be looked after; and, when this is done, satisfactory returns may confidently be looked for." It is added that considerable losses each year could be avoided if shippers paid more attention to the requirements of the market.

ONE does not usually look in a Grit paper for a very reliable report of a Conservative meeting, and those who read last week in a THERE was an accident on the Midland town contemporary a pretended account of the meeting held recently for the election of officers and delegates of the Port Hope Conservative Association would not be disappointed, the so-called report being a fabrication in nearly every particular. As far as we are aware, no "Williams and Marshall factions" exist, nor was there "a trial of influence" between them. It is useless for us to point out the inaccuracies of the report, nor to discuss them; but we emphatically state that the assertion, "that the Williams this, and be on hand to look after their in- clique managed to get the foreman of THE TIMES office out of the way, so that the ballots could not be printed for that meeting," is absolutely false, the party referred to being present throughout the proceedings. Our Grit friends need not alarm themselves about supposed differences in the Conservative ranks. They will not be called upon to settle these fondly-hoped-for differencesnor will one of their party have a ghost of a chance of sitting for East Durham in the House of Assembly as a result of them. The Conservatives of East Durham will nominate their candidate shortly, and whoever he may be-he will be elected!

HOW IT PAYS TO TAKE A NEWSPAPER .- A venerable sire remarked the other day that "some papers are not of much account as to appearance, but I never took one that did not pay me, in some way, more than I paid for it. One time an old friend started a little paper in Brant County and sent it to me, and I subscribed just to encourage him, and after a while he published a notice that an administrator had an order to sell several lots at public outcry, and one of the lots was in my county. So I inquired about the lot, and wrote to my friend to attend the sale and run it up to fifty dollars. He did so, and bid me off the lot for thirty dollars; and I sold it in a month to a man it joined for a hundred, and so I made sixty-eight dollars clear by taking that paper. My father told me that when he was a young man he saw a notice in a paper that a school teacher was wanted away off in a distant county, and he went there and got the situation, and a little girl was sent to him, and after a while she grew up mighty sweet and pretty, and he fell in love with her and married her-now if he hadn't taken that paper, what do you reckon would have become of me? Wouldn't I have patent check and rope harness are good been some other fellow, or may be none at models. Dr. Ceaser says that every one of all." Yes, and Mr. Henry Goheen had $969 the class of sixty persons or over in Port stolen and he advertised in the Guide, and commission for steeling.

Four weeks from Monday is Christmas.

> A METHODIST HERETIC .- Texas, like Toronto, has been having its trial for heresy. Rev. Mr. Shaw, one of the most popular of the clergy of the Methodist church, has been bold enough to think for himself, and while retaining his christian faith and reverence for the bible, has examined into and has at last rejected the belief in all that he has claimed to be supernatural in what are called miracles. He does not believe that the whale really swallowed Jonah, or that the ass held dialogue with the prophetic son of Teor. Hence, very justifiably, the Methodist church has expelled him. Churches to exist must have creeds, and if ministers do not believe them they have their alternative, to quit the church. Nobody compelled Mr. Shaw to reason about miracles, which, like pills, are best taken at a swallow. Mr. Shaw chose to think and reason; to chew his pill; and the process has not agreed with him .- Toronto

MESSRS. Peter Perry, B. A., and C. J. Logan, B. A., of Trinity College School, Port Hope, have recently issued a very useful little work which is referred to in the following complimentary terms by the Whitby

"This is a very neat and handy edition of the portion of Virgil prescribed for the "In-termediate." There is a life of Virgil, and full notes, a chapter on Virgilian Metre, Examination Papers, full reference to Harkness's Grammar and the Public School Latin Primer, and a complete vocabulary. In a modest preface the editors acknowledge their obligations to the various authorities, and demur to their being considered rivals of older and more experienced teachers. As usual, modesty but betokens merit, and the reader will not have far to seek for occasion of praise. The notes are brief and to the point, and will all be read; the original matter is scholarly, the questions are appropriate, and the vocabulary, which embodies the latest researches, is an excellent bit of judicious compilation.'

We congratulate the young gentlemen on holding from one to two hundred pounds. their success, and trust a large sale will recompense them for their labor.

MISS VICKERS' ENTERTAINMENT .- The above, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Friday evening, came off very successfully. There was a fair audience, but not as many were present as would have been had the evening proved more tavorable. Three of those whose names were on the programme-Miss Warner, Miss Dickson and Ruby Preston-were prevented by indisposition from taking part. The overtures by Messrs. Burns, Thornhill, Warner and Monaghan were enjoyed exceedingly, and met with encores. Miss Vickers, it is needless to remark, sustained her justly earned reputation as an elecutionist. The secret of her success is naturalness. There may be many professionally better readers than Miss Vickers, but very few can more successfully entertain an audience. Her selections, "Aux Italiens," "The little Hatchet Story," "Tom," "The Maiden Martyr," and her favorite one, "Starring it," were intensely enjoyed. Several songs by Miss Aggie Wilson, and a reading, "Curfew shall not ring to-night," fully established her position as one of our best amateur vocalists and readers. Mr. H. A. Ward favored the audience with a song, and Mr. W. Thorn hill gave a violin solo, both of which were unexceptionately rendered. The above, with several readings, completed a good programme, and a pleased audience sang "God Save the Queen," and dispersed.

We made reference last week to Mr. Jos. Jones, of Canton, as being the millwright for an extensive new mill in London. The Advertiser this week gives an account of a presentation made by members of a choir in London to him. It says:

"Mr. Jones has efficiently superintended the placing of the new machinery in the Blackfriars' mill, and the completion of his task occasions his removal from the city, hence the compliment paid him last night."

Mr. R. Grandy, of Bethany, left on Monday for the North-West. His family started on Tuesday morning, and will join him at Detroit. During the winter they will reside in Dakota, preparatory to taking up a permanent abode in Manitoba. Mr. Grandy will be much missed in the neighborhood he resided in. He was one of the most enterprising farmers in Manvers, and in stock raising and farming in general was a success.

Mr. L. V. Percival, a former resident of Port Hope, and Mr. James Maclagan, of the On tario Finance Department, Toronto, paid Port Hope a visit last week.

We were pleased to recive a call on Thursday last from Mr. J. Cassie Hatton, Q. C., of Montreal. Mr. Hatton was born and brought up in Port Hope, and was on his way to attend the funeral of his cousin, Mr. D. G. Hatton, P. M., of Peterborough, but through the G. T. R. train being late and missing the connection with the Midland, he was unable to reach Peterborough in time. Mr. Hatton has a very large practice in Montreal, and is both doing and looking well. His old friends in Port Hope were glad to see him.

IMMERSION BY MOONLIGHT.

Our readers have, no doubt, vivid recollections of the bracing atmosphere of Tuesday evening last. They will also remember that the Church of Disciples have been holding meetings in the old Temperance Hall for several weeks past. These have not been without success, as the sequel shows. On Tuesday afternoon quite a few persons went down to the whar, expecting to see the immersion of the converts to this faith. They were disappointed, however, it having been decided to postpone the ceremony until evening. About nine o'clock two cabs containing the candidates for immersion proceeded to the lake, followed by not a few anxious to see the "circus," as several very irreverently styled the proceedings. Brother Macdonald, the gentleman who officiated, led the candidates one by one out into the cold, cold water and there immersed them. A number of the "boys" stood on the shore, and as each was lowered into the water, haw-hawed loudly, and rudely joked over and scoffed at the ceremony, which is sacred, at least, in the estimation of those who have faith in its efficacy. Christianity consists as much in respecting the religious observances of those differing from ourselves in creed, or in anything else, and the conduct of some of the spectators on this occasion deserves the keenest censure. There were five candidates in all, one of them being an old woman on crutches. After the ceremony they entered the cabs and were driven to their homes.

THE MARKETS.

Everything is quiet among the grain buyers. Wheat has gone up again to 95 cents, but very little is coming in. Barley has gone down two cents since last issue, and is only moderate in demand or supply. About the only marketable commodity moving briskly is wood. It still retains the high price of $5 per cord. At the present rate of supply, however, it must come down.
