Council Refuse Oil Company Authority To Build a Wall on Town Property

Resolution to Construct Slanting Portion of Wall Near Walton Street Bridge Was Defeated 6-1.

The question of the erection of a retaining wall at the western extremity of the property recently acquired by the British American Oil Company at the northwest corner of Walton and Mill streets, again came in for discussion at the regular meeting of the Port Hope Municipal Council held at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening. The meeting was set over until Tuesday night and not Monday as usual, that date being a legal holiday.

Upon the instigation of W. G. Gibson, who has the contract for the erection of the wall extending northward from Walton street, a resolution was forwarded the council which asked for the deviation of wall near Walton street and not have it joined abruptly to the sidewalk. The corner would be rounded off and it was claimed this construction would conduce to the leading of the water under the bridge in flood time. The curved portion would commence a few feet out from the street and would encroach to the extent of ten feet on town property.

The debate centred on this point—whether or not the town would allow the British American Oil Company to build this variation which was not formulated in the original plans.

Councillor Brickell was not in favor of building the wall on town property.

"When the property was bought," told Mr. Giddy, "it was thought it was purchased in order to keep other people off, but found out later that was not the reason. I don't see any reason why the municipality should allow the Oil Company to build on town land. The company is erecting the wall three feet higher than the street and why?—Ask yourselves that question—It has been suggested that the municipality would be helped if the wall ran otherwise. The Oil people can build on their own property and do what they like and I cannot see we can help them out on our lot."

Wanted Authority

Mr. Gibson, who has the contract for the erection of the wall was in the gallery and was called upon for an explanation of the affair. He stated that he had persuaded the company to make the deviation as he thought it would be a benefit to the town and all concerned. All the company want is authority to erect the slanting wall, said Mr.

The Market Today

The market attendance this morning was small and there was very little change in the prices. Butter sold from 30c to 32c; eggs 15c a dozen; chickens 60 to $1.00 a pair and ducks 50c each.

Gibson, which would carry the water away easier than a straight wall. Reeve Giddy—If a block of ice came around the bend and hit the bridge what would happen?

Mr. Gibson—It would go right on through.

Reeve Giddy—I don't want to see the front street bridge go out.

Mr. Gibson—And no one else does. Reeve Giddy—I don't think the bridge is wide enough.

Councillor Merrifield—If the wall was put there, it would not give a chance to widen the bridge at any future time.

Reeve Giddy—Now is the time to thresh it out.

The tranquil air of the council chamber was somewhat disturbed when the voting was conducted on the following resolution which was moved by Reeve L. H. Giddy and seconded by Councillor Mitchell: That this council take no action in approving resolution submitted by the British American Oil Company re the proposed change of former plan.

The Vote

The resolution was duly placed before the board and the yeas, and nays called for in the usual manner.

The trained voice of J. W. Sanders called out, "Councillor Sinnott."

"Nay," came the reply.

"Councillor Hewson."

And the voice answered "Nay."

"Councillor Merrifield."

And Nay was the reply.

"Oh, hold on there," proclaimed Reeve Giddy, "you are all voting for the wall."

"Well, I m-m-mean yea," apologetically averred Councillor Merrifield.

"Oh, I guess it's a case of follow the leader," professed Councillor Hewson.

The resolution was again read over and the vote was again commenced and following was the result: Yeas—Sinnott, Merrifield, Brickell, Rosevear, Giddy and Mitchell. Nays—Hewson.

One Absentee

Those present when the meeting opened at 7.30 included Mayor R. J. Edmunds, Reeve L. H. Giddy, Deputy Reeve Fred Rosevear and Councillors Jas. Sinnott, H. W. Mitchell, Moss Hewson, S. Brickell and H. Merrifield, with J. A. R. Elliott an absentee. The minutes of the last meeting were read and duly confirmed.

To Hold Tag Day

N. Jolly, on behalf of the Local Branch of the Salvation Army, asked permission of the council to hold a tag day in Port Hope on Saturday, June 2nd, in connection with the Annual Self Denial Week. Upon resolution moved by Councillor Mitchell and seconded by Reeve L. H. Giddy, permission was granted.

Firemen Supplies

It was moved by Councillor Hewson, seconded by Councillor Mitchell that the Fire and Light Committee be authorized to ask for tenders for supplies for the firemen.

Payment for Grading

A resolution, instigated by Councillor Sinnott, seconded by Councillor Hewson, authorized the payment of $271.90 to W. G. Gibson, local contractor in full of account for grading work done on Strachan and Merritt streets.

Asked for Estimates

Councillor Mitchell, Chairman of the Finance Committee, informed the council that the first installment of the taxes falls due in June and asked that each committee table their estimates as soon as possible. "This is practically three or four months earlier than usual,"

WEDDING BELLS

BELL—MURRAY

At St. George's rectory, Oshawa, on Saturday a quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Canon C. R. dePencier, when Miss Mary Jane Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Murray, Port Hope, became the bride of George Richard Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, 168 Olive Ave., Oshawa.

said Councillor Mitchell, "and, each committee should have their estimates in by next meeting, so that the rate may be struck."

Councillor Merrifield—I would like to ask if the roll is in yet."

Councillor Mitchell—It is.

Town Property Report

The Town Property Committee reported as follows:

Recommend that lights be placed in the Fire Hall tower for the convenience of the firemen. The cost not to exceed thirty dollars; also that the retaining wall, be repaired under the building in the rear of the fire hall, work to be done by corporation employees under the supervision of the Town Engineer, and also recommend certain repair work and painting be done at the fire hall; this work to be let by tender.

The report was adopted.

Re Gravel Pit

The following communication was received from Peter Simone and the matter was left in the hands of the Street and Bridge Committee. It read:

"I was down in Port Hope on the 30th of March and I was up looking at the gravel pit, where I noticed that one of the sheds was missing in the gravel pit, and as far as I can make out the shed must have been burned the time the men were working there.

"So I would like to ask the council to replace the shed at once, the size being 16' x 14'. The summer is coming and we need the shed for a tool house, also I saw that there was a lot of stone missing on the northeast corner of the pit. I do not know if strangers are taking it or the council

"On account of this, I ask the council to put a fence alongside of the road to prevent people driving in and taking the stones. If you do not put up a fence, I will be charging the town for stones missing as long as you have the pit in charge."

No Action

The civic body did not take steps following the receipt of a communication asking that relief and health officers be sent as official delegates to the Canadian Conference on Social Work, to be held at Montreal, April 24-27.

Proposed Highway

No action was taken by the council regarding the following resolution received from the Oshawa City Council.

"That this committee recommends that the council expresses its approval of the proposal to immediately construct a highway along the lake shore, eastwards from Toronto to the Quebec boundary, and as approved by the City of Toronto and the Town of Whitby, and further, that such highway pass through the various towns and cities on the north shore of Lake Ontario and River St. Lawrence and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the mayor of each town and city along the proposed route, and a further copy of this resolution be sent forward to the Prime Minister and to the Minister of Highways of the Province of Ontario.

MANY VISITORS AT WELCOME

Holiday Friends Are Entertained At Social Gathering on Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Symons and family, spent Easter Sunday in Bowmanville.

Miss M. Macklin of Bethesda, is visiting with Miss Marjorie Runnals.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gray of Toronto and Miss Keitha Lloyd of Sidney, took dinner at the parsonage on Monday.

Mr. Ernest Bamsey of the Ottawa Branch of the Bank of Toronto, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. C. J. Staples.

Rev. W. J. H. Smythe, M.A., B.D. of Wellington, was guest at the parsonage on Monday.

Miss Laura E. Rorke of the staff of the Ottawa Collegiate, is spending part of the holidays with her sister, Mrs. E. H. Martyn.

Mr. L. H. Martyn and son, Jack, of London, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. G. H. Martyn.

Miss Dean and Master Arnold Slegmon of Weyburn, Sask., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. J. T. Pearce.

Miss Elva Pearce is spending a few days in Lakefield the guest of Miss E. Preston.

Miss Dorothy Crossley is home for the holiday.

Miss Beatrice Chestnut of Oshawa, spent Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Chestnut.

Mrs. E. J. Symons and son, Kenneth, spent Tuesday in Toronto.

Mr. E. J. Symons Jr., is attending the Trustees Section of the O. E. A. now in session in Toronto.

Rev. W. E. Honey and family motored to Belleville on Wednesday and are spending a few days visiting friends in that vicinity.

Missionary Programme on Sunday

The Sunbeam Missionary Band of the Welcome Church held an open session on Sunday morning. A very pleasing missionary programme, that was enjoyed by all, was presented.

Social Gathering Tuesday

A social gathering under the auspices of the Sunday School was held in the church on Tuesday evening. The main feature of the programme was a lecture given by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Honey, entitled "Circuit Riders," which dealt in an interesting way with the early history of the former Methodist church.

The musical part of the programme consisted of two piano duets, which were very acceptably rendered by Melvin and Floyd Honey, and of two very pleasing soprano solos, by Mrs. N. G. Johnston of Port Hope, which were much appreciated by the audience. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed by all.

IN POSSESSION OF TIME TABLE

Dr. L. B. Powers Has 1871 Time Table of Midland Rail- way

Dr. L. B. Powers has a Midland Railway time table "takes effect Monday, November 13th, 1871. J. B. Traves, Printer, Times Printing, Walton Street, Port Hope." H. G. Taylor, Superintendent of Motive Power and Trains.

The departures from Port Hope were No. 1 Beaverton Mail, 9.15 a.m.; No. 3 Peterboro mail 10.25 a.m.; No. 5 Lindsay mail 3 p.m.; No. 7 Lakefield mixed p.m.

The arrivals in the above order were 7.15, 5.45, 12.50 p.m. and 11.40 a.m. This was many years before the "missing link" was built which placed Peterboro on the main line as it is now.

The damage caused by the recent flood to the dam at Canton has now been repaired and regular deliveries of all lines of flour and feed are now being made.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Band night tonight!

Instead of being at the rink tonight the Band Night is to be at the Royal and promises to draw just as many out as if the ice were good.

It is said vast improvements are made when people have their face "lifted." The difference of having a whole front replaced as B. Oliver & Co., are doing should be enormous. Anyway, the general opinion of those who have viewed the work thus far, is that the change will add wonderfully to the appearance of the building and every improvement adds to the whole street.

The Port Hope Fire Brigade staged a practice run last night.

Do you notice they're coming out more and more with the warm sunshine? The lovely ones are now able to wear their Spring togs which they had intended to bring out last Sunday. If next Sunday is nice and warm we will hardly know our lady friends all decked out in their new clothes.

Mr. S. Gifford is building a garage beside his gas station at the corner of Ridout and Victoria Streets so that coming in to either east or west end of the town about the first thing motorists will meet will be a garage. Watch for the announcement Mr. Gifford will make through our columns in the near future.

T. J. Tilly, veteran manager of the Bell Telephone plant at Lindsay, will retire from that position on April 20. He will be succeeded by Francis Jewell at present chief clerk in the St. Catharines offices of the company.

There is still a deadlock in the controversy between the journeymen and master plumbers at Kingston. The former still on strike, with no prospect of a settlement. The master plumbers have offered to renew the agreement under which both journeymen and masters have been working for the past two years but this offer was refused by journeymen who stated they would remain on strike until the new agreement was concurred in by the masters. An increase in wages from 90 cents to $1 is demanded.

The Moira River at Tweed has risen to such a height that it is within four feet of the bridge. The river has not reached such a height for 30 years. The French settlement is flooded to such an extent that quite a number of the farmers are forced to go from their houses to barns by boat. Conditions were improved today, the level being four or five inches lower in the river.

Severely bitten in the face by a rabid dog which escaped quarantine, Margaret Franklin, 5 years of age, Kingston General Hospital whose home is near Joyceville is under close observation. The dog which inflicted the bites also bit an 11 year boy, Samuel, although not so seriously and this case is also being given careful attention. Rabies quarantine is now in force for 50 miles in that district.

The Wheeler Hotel Tamworth at Belleville, known to every commercial traveller on the road, was totally destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. Many of the occupants had barely time to leave the burning building, but no one was injured in the conflagration. The cause of the fire was given as an overheated stove. The loss was $5000. The old hotel was built in 1827.

Mr. George Garbutt has purchased the house on Ward street formerly owned by George Barrowclough and vastly improved the appearance by putting a new foundation under the house.

The Iroquois Club staged their regular weekly dance at the Veteran's Hall last evening instead of Thursday as Doney's orchestra will be in Toronto on that date for the re-union of the Port Hope Old Boys and Girls. There was a good crowd in attendance last night and the following orchestra provided music—Mrs. E. B. Lingard and Messrs. Doney, Mann, Peters and Hawthorne. Next Tuesday evening the Iroquois club are holding a dance in the Town Hall.

FENELON FALLS IS MENACED

It Is Feared That Ice Will Be Forced Out of Cameron Lake

Residents of Fenelon Falls are becoming alarmed over flood conditions on the Burnt River. Flood water is increasing to such an extent that it is feared the ice will be forced out of Cameron Lake. In such a case it would carry away the bathhouses and pile up on the locks and dam at Fenelon Falls. The swollen waters of the Gull River, from Cobocook, emptying into Balsam Lake, are also finding their way into Cameron Lake. The river below Fenelon Falls, which empties into Sturgeon Lake, is also quite high.

The peak of the flood pouring out of Kawartha Lakes has not yet reached Peterboro but was expected today. Only one dam in the vicinity of Peterboro is overflowing—that south of the city. All the dams between the city and Lakefield to the north were carrying off the load in a natural way.

So far, only two buildings are known to be flooded; a shed on the property of the McDonald Lumber Company and a pavilion owned by H. B. Rye. Warning was given on Sunday by A. L. Killaly, Superintendent of the Trent Canal. The level is still at least three feet below the flood of 1872.

The general opinion is that there is no cause for alarm, although the situation may change with the arrival of the new release of water from Kawartha Lakes.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

Mr. J. Whetstone Discussed the Topic of Evening—"Over- coming Handicaps"

The regular meeting of the Young People's Society of the United Church was held Monday night under the citizenship department. The meeting was well attended and those present enjoyed a real topic ably taken by Mr. Whetstone, the theme was "Overcoming Handicaps." Two characters were chosen to illustrate the grit of men who labored under serious handicaps. The reading of the lesson and also the explanation of it was taken by Miss Gillet. Two hymns in keeping with the evening program were sung and the meeting was closed by the Mizpah Benediction. Next meeting will take the form of a debate between an out of town league and the local society.

FIGURING UP THE WASTE IN CIGARETTE BUTTS

Forty million cigarettes thrown away unsmoked every day. That, according to a statistician, is a typical gesture of American waste, according to a New York paper which goes on: The unsmoked cigarettes are the unaccounted tobacco in Uncle Sam's stubs. Waste in matches is figured at more than 2,000 tons a year, because we throw away on an average three fourths of each match unburned. Thus manufacturers of oxalic acid and paper pulp are deprived of train loads of raw material. We even throw away precious metals—fortunes in gold plating are scrapped each year when it all could be salvaged. Amateur photographers throw away used hypo containing silver. In England, by contrast, one picture making firm saves $1,600 a week by salvaging the silver in hypo.

THE GUIDE STORY

Miss Charity had by now completely forgotten the word "companion" in connection with the girl. She was even at times faintly self-conscious, and proportionately self-reproachful, that she cared for her more than for her niece. Olwen's moods frightened her, whereas Firefly always seemed happy, bright, ready to sympathize with the main ideas which filled Miss Granby's life.

"I have been very busy," she said, patting the soft, red cheek. "I slept a little, as you advised, and am quite ready to see the plans you have designed. But have some tea first child, then tell us the news."

Recalled to a sense of her duties, Olwen moved to the tea table, while Firefly waited till she had placed Miss Granby's tea on a table by her side.

"Woodlands is a pretty town," she remarked meditatively.

Olwen arched her brows. "Well, I don't agree with you at all," she said. "Whatever I most want Woodlands has never got; and whatever I don't want, it seems to possess in plenty."

"Perhaps I am more easily pleased than you are, Miss Ransome," answered Firefly brightly, thinking the heiress very hard to please. "I got your knitting wool at the fish-monger's Aunt Charity, also some apples. I changed the library books, and I took my watch to the sexton, who seems to be a farrier and an ironmonger, too. Did you ever hear of a more glorious muddle? Then, another thing in Woodlands favor, everybody is so good tempered that, instead of being cross and in a perpetual bustle, the people beamed at me as though I were a member of the royal family. Giles told me all about the residents."

Olwen smiled, but Miss Granby looked shocked.

"I hope Giles did not presume on your good nature, dear child," she said. "I was brought up with the view that it is wiser to not enter into intercourse with the lower orders except on matters of business. I have always treated them kindly, my dear, and attended to their physical and moral health as far as lay in my power; but in this terribly radical age I do not think it wise to descend from one's proper position. Do you not agree with me, Olwen?"

"Giles was the pink of politeness," interposed Firefly. "Never having been in a dogcart before, I wanted to drive, and the man grew apoplectic in his anxiety not to presume, and yet to protect his mistress's property. I did drive, and he ended by giving me a lesson in the art."

"I am very glad that Giles remembered his manners."

"By the bye, why is Doctor Forrester unpopular? I should have thought he was the sort of man to be adored?" Firefly for an answer looked at Olwen. "Doctor Forrester unpopular?" said Olwen. "He is not. Everybody talks about his cleverness."

"That is just it. They seem to think that he is too clever, and—" Firefly broke off, watching with a great interest an angry glow rise in Olwen's pale cheeks. "What do you mean? What have you heard?"

"Nothing very tangible, that was why I asked you," said Firefly, speaking lightly. "Whenever I mentioned him, though, I fancied people's expressions changed, and one old woman muttered distinctly, 'Aye, he be clever, be the doctor, but he be a sore worrying sort of chap.'"

Firefly spoke with such mimicry, that despite herself, Olwen smiled. "That was Martha Jones, our charwoman," said Miss Granby. "Quite right, Aunt Charity, and Martha is sister to the Sarah Jones that keeps the post office."

"Well, people may say what they like, but Doctor Forrester is clever, and he does far too much for the people, ungrateful wretches that they are!" said Olwen with an abruptness that was slightly startling. Firefly threw an amused glance at her hostess that made Olwen writhe, understanding as she did, its meaning.

"Then, I met Mr. Pett," she said. "I like that young man, Aunt Charity. He is just like a good tempered, smiling baby, except when he is horse breaking. He is coming to call tomorrow about the theatricals, and, he it was who told me about the Briars, in which item of news neither of you seems interested."

"Ah, my dear, I had forgotten," said Miss Charity remorsefully. "Well, you remember telling me about that stern young Mr. Mercer and his frightened little mother, and how poor they were," said Firefly, "and how they lived in two rooms now because they could not keep up their own house any longer? That was what made me interested in that gloomy old house its taken for three years, and men are cutting down those huge trees just in front of it."

"Did Mr. Pett know anything about the new tenants?" inquired Miss Granby.

"Only that a widow had taken it—a Mrs. West, and that she means to open some sort of shop there, though from all accounts she is a lady. Now, Aunt Charity, you have had a brick over your tea. What do you think I found waiting for you at the post office?"

Flares and Drapery Hold Sway For Dance Frocks

The general trend, in evening frocks is toward soft, graceful materials with uneven hemlines achieved by flares, draperies and sash ends falling below the skirt. The hemline of the charming dress above is made uneven by flares hanging in points from the scalloped outline of the blouse. The drapery suspended from one shoulder is flattering to most figures. The flares and drapery alternately clinging and fluttering give grace and movement to this youthful model. Lace and pointed or plain georgette or crepe de chine make this smart dance or dinner frock suitable for the most formal of occasions. (Copyright, 1928, by Butterick)

JOHN SMITH AND HIS CAR

Smith had been reading about a tragedy at a railroad crossing when I happened to come along and began talking with him about a subject that is much too seldom discussed. Few automobile drivers know that there are certain things which can be done in a pinch and that knowing these largely is a matter of being a little better acquainted with the general principles of the automobile.

"Those people could have removed the car to safety and saved their lives had they used the self starter to pull the car out of danger instead of trying to re crank the engine with it," I suggested. "Whenever an engine stalls in a hazardous position, the first thing to do is to move the car to a place of safety. So long as there is a battery in the car and it is fairly well charged, a driver should have no trouble in doing this, the process being merely a matter of placing the gears in low or second and stepping on the starter."

"If there is danger approaching I would strongly recommend placing the gears in high since in this combination the starter and battery will impart to the car itself the greatest amount of speed. In high gear, however, there is greater strain on battery, starter and fly wheel."

"There may be times when the starter may not seem equal to pulling the car, as for instance if it must be moved up an incline. My suggestion here would be to use reverse since that is the lowest gear combination and the one which gives the battery and starter motor the greatest amount of mechanical advantage."

"Many cars have been wrecked and their drivers seriously injured by reason of losing control going downhill. Not everybody will remember to drop into second gear when descending particularly steep hills. This, of course, often is a matter of carelessness. But there is no reason why you or any other driver should feel helpless going downhill in high gear if the brakes refuse to hold."

Smith was rather surprised at this particularly when I told him that I did not mean that the driver could depend upon his emergency brake. Emergency brakes may not be in very good condition. Smith always had figured that if the car got going of its own free will and the brakes failed there was absolutely nothing to do but trust to luck and steer as intelligently as possible.

Now he was to learn that even without conventional brakes every driver has at his disposal one of the most powerful brakes ever devised for a car, but one which requires so much skill in handling that it often is useless to the average person at the wheel. I refer, of course, to the engine.

"If you are in high gear," I told him, "it is possible to shift to second even if the car is gaining headway. This should be done quickly and as soon as there is any suggestion that the car is running away, or that the brakes have failed. Simply push out the clutch and slip the gears to neutral. Then let in the clutch for a brief instant and race the motor. Again, press out the clutch and push the gear shift lever through to second. Then let in the clutch again so that the engine is coupled with the car. It sounds complicated when you try to tell it but if you will practice it a little, you will find it very simple. In fact you can do it in less time than I would take to tell it."

"Now, the instant you are in second gear, and take your foot off the gas, the engine starts to act as an efficient brake. If the car has been slipping along at more than 25 miles an hour, it will keep from accelerating to any higher speed. I am talking of average steep hills, of course, and not of unusually steep ascents. Once you are in second gear you are ready for dropping back to low. This is an even more difficult job but it can and should be done in an emergency. Even if you fail, and jam the gears, you will be making headway."

"To shift into low, you simply repeat what you did in shifting from high to second, that is you must race the engine to a still higher degree if you are to do it without a terrific clash of gears. Many car owners think that they cannot get into low unless the car is standing still. This simply is because they do not understand that, for almost any car speed in low gear, the engine must be running relatively fast."

"Suppose you are not able to get into low or that you jam the gears in the process. What is there to worry you? There have been lots of cases where by jamming the gears, drivers have been able to lock the whole rear end mechanism thereby obtaining a most effective brake."

"But suppose I am losing control of the car going downhill backwards?" Smith asked.

"Then you must remember that your car has a reverse gear," I explained. "You can shift from neutral into reverse gear by the same process I have described but you must be sure to race the motor while the clutch is in neutral just before making the shift. Even going downhill backward in reverse with the engine serving as the brake you will find that you have considerable control over the car. Some of this was purposely exaggerated in order to give Smith a new view of the possibilities in any emergency. The man who gets along best in a pinch is the one who has knowledge of what to do and the courage to do it.—Frederick Russell in the Kitchener Record.

SPORTING SKITS

BASEBALL

RED SOX WIN OPENER

While 20,000 fans shivered under chilly Eastern blasts, President Coolidge inaugurated the 1928 American League baseball season at Washington on Tuesday by tossing out the first ball. Then the Boston Red Sox proceeded to defeat the Washington Senators 7 to 5 in a somewhat listless game.

The chief executive's toss of a new ball from his box in the grandstand proved somewhat wide, but Umpire Owens saved him from a wild pitch by making a lunging one handed catch. Mr. Coolidge remained only during the first inning.

Milton Gaston, a recent acquisition from the St. Louis Browns, was the starting pitcher for Washington, a role so long held by one of the greatest masters, Walter Johnston, now ill in a sanitarium there following an attack of influenza. Gaston failed to go the route, giving way to a pinch hitter after the Red Sox had found him for four hits and three runs in the seventh inning.

After getting away to a bad first inning, when the Senators scored three runs on one hit, MacFayden finished out the string for Boston, holding the Senators to seven hits.

Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, who is contesting with George Siskler, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, responded to a large floral horseshoe gift from friends in the Cosmopolitan Club by turning in several fifty bits of fielding and hammering out four hits, three singles and a double and scoring one run.

LEAFS IDLE

Like the famous French monarch who marched his troops up the hill and then marched them down again, William O'Hara, generalissimo of the Toronto Baseball Club, led his Leafs into Charlotte Tuesday and immediately led them out. All of which brought word to Dale Alexander, who is somewhat of an idol in the Sally League stronghold and who was naturally disappointed as he lost a chance to be a hero.

"Big Boy" first made his name and fame in Felix Hayman's burg, which is rated as the best in the Class B circuit. The fans there would give anything to get Alex back again, but if the Babe Ruth of the minors, as he is known through the full depth and breadth of the southland, keeps giving the ball a merry ride as he has been doing lately, Greenville will have to be content with seeing him in the pictures. He is headed for major league peaks, not Class B valleys. Fred Burchell also wept bitter tears, thus emulating the weather when he found that there was no possible chance to augment the Leafs travelling expenses at Charlotte. This blow, coming on top of yesterday's postponement, at Greenville, left him low in finances and spirits. It is to be hoped that the conditions will change from now on, but if the weather of last night is any indication it is anything but likely. The Carolinas are blanketed in a cold spell following yesterday's rainfall and the temperature is not far from the freezing point.

ECCENTRIC GENTS IN DERBY

It looks as though Philip Granville of Hamilton is using rare good judgment in being content to walk in Cross Country Pyle's big jaunt, while the majority of the other contestants run each day. Granville is now in fourth place, only 25 hours behind the leader, but he is in good shape. A physician, travelling with the caravan as Pyle's guest, has examined the majority of the competitors and claims that it means ten years off the lives of the men who attempt to run the entire distance.

To use his own words, "They are using up $100,000 worth of energy for a $25,000 prize."

There are many strange happenings as the race proceeds day by day. Granville carries a big wet sponge and eats very little until the lap has been finished and then he packs away a big meal. Others eat three heavy meals each day and do not seem to be any the worse for it.

The telegraph operators travelling with the race climb a telegraph pole any time that anything out of the ordinary happens, cut in with their portable sets, and let the world hear what is what with Pyle and his trained seals.

Smokes Cigarettes

Peter Gavuzzi of Southampton, England, who is in second place, only three hours behind the leader, smokes a packet of cigarettes while running. Others puff cigars as they trot along. Charles Hart, 63, had an egg in wine every 10 miles. He ran 425 miles before dropping from exhaustion.

Another runner tried a short cut, contrary to rule. Before he realized he had run over a mountain. Referee Arthur Duffy caught him at the foot and penalized him one hour. He told Pyle's father was a Pittsburg publisher and the derby would be boycotted unless he re-entled!

Several kinds of uniforms are worn. Several ran through the desert in rain hat and slicker. One man ran in pyjamas. One took off his shoes after a 30 mile run. His feet swelled like balloons. Next day this fellow ran in shoes twice too large for him.

Another fellow ran backwards a mile every day. They thought he was crazy. He would not explain. He ran up an Arizona mountain one day backwards. He is still in the race.

One Filipino is running. A dental graduate. He wants to get to New York first, win the big money and open a dental parlor.

Another contestant insisted on his two dogs accompanying him. When the animals got red and raw pads Red Grange took them away from him. The lad was arrested in the Mojave desert for vagrancy later. "Want to Dance"

Pyle and his lieutenants, however, encounter most of their trouble, in trying to get the foreign runners to bed early. Perhaps it isn't easy of belief, but it is a fact that these fellows after running thirty odd miles, can't be kept away from Pyles carnival circus at night, and several of them dance for an hour.

Some of the correspondents send out stories that Pyle is not making money on the race. You can laugh a lot of that off. He gets a few thousand dollars from every city his troupe "makes" or they skirt that centre entirely.

ROGERS BATTERYLESS RADIO

NOW—You can satisfy your desire for a ROGERS!

Probably no radio has ever created a keener desire for possession than the Rogers-Batteryless. Heretofore price has been an obstacle to many, but now the new, low price-level has brought the Rogers within reach of every family.

The famous Rogers "Two-Twenty" Model, shown above with the Junior Symphony Speaker, is the standard by which all "electric" sets are judged and has proven itself by actual performance for over two years.

You can buy this complete, year-round radio outfit now at a clear saving of $55 over the former price. Or you can buy the set alone for $125—no more than you would pay for any good battery-operated set.

Radio is no longer confined to any season—wonderful programs will be broadcasted all next summer. Why not have a "Rogers" in your home—from now on.

JEAN was the despair of her geometry instructor. The simplest problems, that were child's play in his opinion, were nightmares to her young mind. If he could only see her now. He would be surprised that she had put her scanty knowledge of geometry and triangles to such practical and charming use. Her frock is a chic study in crepe satin. The crepe side is used for the upper part of the blouse and the shiny surface used for the skirt, the lower part of the bodice and sleeves, and the bands of blouse and sleeves. The snug belt and stitiched pleats define the slim hips so important to the youthful silhouette. This model would be smart for summer wear in printed silk with the top part of blouse and sleeves made of plain color to match the figure in the material.

Strangled with Asthma is the only expression that seems to convey what is endured from an attack of this trouble. The relief from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is beyond measure. Where all was suffering there comes comfort and rest. Breathing becomes normal and the bronchial tubes completely cleared. This unequalled remedy is worth many times its price to all who use it.

Mountains Splendor Open to Motorists

A new 24-hour motor detour of 142 miles along perfect motor roads through the Canadian Rockies is announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which states that the trips will run every day in each direction from either Banff, Alta., or Golden, B.C., beginning on June 15 and ending on September 5. By this detour a traveler can leave the train either at Banff or Golden, stay the night at Lake Louise, and continue the motor drive next morning, rejoining the train that afternoon.

This new motor road, built by the Canadian Government through Rocky Mountain, National Park and Yoho National Park, is a very magnificent one. At one point it rises to a height over a mile above sea level, while at the highest point it is nearly three-quarters of a mile higher than at its lowest level. Nearly forty mountains tower in the vicinity of the road, and gigantic glaciers, roaring rivers, deep canyons and primeval forests abound. Wild mountain game are also met with in abundance at the roadside.

cuts through high rock walls and is spanned at intervals by tiny rustic bridges, reminders of Japanese prints. The canyon is deep and cool, and the walk of 30 minutes is delightful. Lovers of nature should rise early at Lake Louise to see the coloring on the gem of mountain lakes, for the glaciers and high peaks are diffused with superb shades of rose and gold. A beautiful spot on this trip is Wapta Bungalow Camp, a veritable village of camps nestling on the shore of Wapta Lake—the source of the Kicking Horse River.

Horseshoe Luck.
The horseshoe for luck has come into the public eye of England again through the discovery of one hanging outside the doorway of the Prime Minister's official residence, the famous No. 10 Downing street, London. The fact that it was hanging prong downward is added as an explanation that it had not brought luck to Mr. Baldwin.

The horseshoe is one of the very oldest talismans for woeing good fortune that exists. The belief in its efficacy is held almost all over the world, and has been present since the dawn of history. You find it in Egypt and nailed to the threshold of the felt and wicker wigwams of the nomads of Turkestan.

In mediaeval England, especially in the southwest, horseshoes were often nailed on church doors to keep out evil spirits and witches. There used to be two huge ones on the south door of the parish church of Ashby-Foville, in Leicestershire. There are records of a number of horseshoes having been nailed up for centuries on the gates of Oakham Castle, in Rutland, which was built by Wakelin de Ferrars, son of the first earl. Every nobleman visiting it was made to forfeit a shoe of the horse on which he rode or pay a forfeit of money. Quite a number endured the inconvenience of parting with a shoe rather than pay the small sum.

Probably the oldest continuous display of a horseshoe for luck to be found in Britain is the case of a shoe nailed up at Horseshoe Corner, in the City of Lancaster. The first one was cast by the horse of John of Gaunt, when he was riding through the streets nearly 600 years ago.

The more nails in a "found" horseshoe the greater the luck.

"Two Strings to Your Bow."
"In the brave days of old," when the English bowmen made history on many a steepled field, it was their custom always to carry a second string for their "good yew bows." It was the emergency string. It was to the bow what the spare wheel is to the modern motor-car. If the first string snapped, or got wet and useless, the second string could be quickly adjusted. Thus was the warrior once more equipped for war.

So the expression "to have two strings to your bow" became proverbial. And it is still applicable to present-day conditions, even though bows and arrows have long since yielded to big Berthas and magazine rifles.

YOU COULD GO SHOPPING WITH YOUR EYES SHUT

YOU could turn your back to the counter and yet be perfectly sure of getting the things you want. The exact quality of sheeting, or talcum powder, or candy, or soap, or furniture polish that you like best is handed to you instantly when you call for it by name. You don't have to look, because you know that advertised brands will be precisely the same today as they were yesterday. The fact that they are advertised guarantees that their quality will be maintained. Their makers have placed themselves on record. Advertised products are honest products. It is the unadvertised things—the "just-as-goods" and the "almost-the-sames" that are likely to vary in quality. You save money and you save time when you make a habit of buying standard goods—as advertised.

Junior's Offer Not Altogether Bribery, but Certainly Not the Best of Ethics.

Jessie was more than a year older than Junior and of course felt much superior on account of her advanced age. Mamma had gone to town shopping for a few hours and the two children had been left at home together. Jessie felt that all the responsibilities were upon her shoulders and she was very much put out when she found Junior standing on a chair, reaching up to a shelf in mamma's closet.

"Junior!" Jessie exclaimed sharply. "What are you in the world are you doing?"

"Nothing," Junior informed her. "Yes, you are, too," Jessie insisted. "I can see your jaws moving! Junior, what are you eating?"

"Candy," Junior confessed. "Junior Tydings! I'm ashamed of you! Climb up there and getting into mamma's candy. What will she say to you when she finds it out?"

"I don't know."

"Well, you'll find out, for I'm going to tell her just as soon as she comes home. There!"

Junior thought over the situation for a minute. Then:

"Jessie, wouldn't you rather have some candy?" he asked.—Exchange.

MEETING OF ORGANIZATION

Softball Enthusiasts Will Assemble Friday to Prepare for Year's Activity

The general public are asked to attend an organization meeting of the Port Hope Softball Association to be held at the store of Messrs. Jex and Smith on Ontario street on Friday evening commencing at 7.30. A large turnout is requested.

From present indications it appears that softball is in for a gala season and followers of the game will be assured of first class games. Softball is gradually growing in popularity in Port Hope and it is believed that six teams will be entered this season.

The officers of the League will be elected Friday evening and representatives of teams desirous of entering, are asked to attend.

Lawyers and farmers are the two principal vocations represented in the 245 members of the Canadian Federal House of Commons. There are 70 of the former and 50 of the latter. In third place come doctors with 30, then mercantile men with 23, followed by 12 journalists and 9 manufacturers. The remaining 51 members represent a variety of callings.

Among the Cabinet Council of 17 there are six lawyers, four farmers, two journalists, and the other five represent as many vocations. Each of the four former Cabinet Ministers, Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and Colonization; Hon. William Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture; Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior and Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, represents a constituency in Western Canada. Each began farming on homesteads and has become a successful farmer.

Mr. Forke and Mr. Dunning came from the British Isles as young men without any capital. Mr. Motherwell and Mr. Stewart are natives of Ontario, but as young men heeded the advice of Horace Greeley and went West to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Number of unreported cases of measles were found by school nurses in the Border Cities.

Several plovers and a crane were seen one day recently flying near the shores of Rice Lake.

Large brick dwelling on the farm of A. Diesz, near Midway, was completely destroyed by fire.

Gang of boy rowdies who destroyed property in Kitchener will be rounded up by police.
