

CANADIAN LAW VERY SPEEDY

Seldom More Than Half Hour to Select Jury—Justice Riddell Makes Some Comments

Justice Riddell, of the supreme court of Ontario, was the principal speaker at Boston on Tuesday night before the Boston University Law School association. Discussing marital difficulties, he described a breach of promise suit as a "huge joke to all except the litigants on both sides."

Speaking of justice, he said "it is not true that any country guarantees its citizens justice, for it cannot guarantee that a jury will not make a mistake."

In an interview with newspapermen, the jurist praised the expedition with which the Canadian judicial machinery works.

"We have no technicalities in our law," he declared. "Appeals generally are heard within a month or two of the original trial." He said that only once had he seen longer than half an hour required to select a murder case jury.

HOSPITAL GETS $10,000 LEGACY

Bowmanville Institution Provided for in Will of Late T. Montague of Newcastle

A legacy of $10,000 has been bequeathed in the will of the late Thos. Montague, formerly of Newcastle to the Bowmanville General Hospital. The surprise of this large donation is indeed very great and much appreciated by the Hospital Board at a time when improvements are needed in the grounds and also for the general maintenance.

Besides this donation the will disposes of property to the extent of $15,000 and various sums of money varying from $10,000 to $2000. The Newcastle Council benefits to a fine degree when they received a legacy of $10,000 to go towards the maintenance of the new Newcastle Community Hall. One third of the residue of the estate of the late Mr. Montague is also to go to the Bowmanville Hospital for purposes agreed upon by the Board. The General Trusts Corporation held the will in trust.

GROSS RECEIPTS OF C. N. R. UP

Thornton is Pleased With Year's Operations—Net Earnings Show Decrease

A general review of the operations of the Canadian National Railways during the year 1927, was tabled by the Hon. Charles A. Dunning in the House of Commons Wednesday, together with the full and final accounts of the railway bearing the certification of independent chartered accountancy.

"Having regard for the various factors relating to the system the general results of the year's operations may be considered satisfactory," says Sir Henry Thornton in making this report to the Government. Although the net earnings were less by $5,790,000 than those for 1926, they were much higher than in any previous year. Gross earnings exceeded those of 1926 by $3,199,069 (1.26 per cent.). This increase was not in proportion to the increase in operating expenses, partly on account of reduced rates, the early harvest of 1926 and the late harvest of 1927. Operating costs exceeded those of 1926 by about $8,989,000 (4.37 per cent.) represented substantially by increases in wages and in maintenance of way and structures.

The results for the year testify to the continued healthy economic condition of the country and are indicative of continued and improving opportunities for the investment of capital and settlement. No country offers a more attractive field for hands and brains than the Dominion.

FAST LINERS IN PACIFIC SERVICE

Also They're Getting the Trade To South America—Speeding Up on Freight

London—The general speeding up of commerce and the need for faster transport has now very definitely extended to the cargo liner. Orders which have been placed recently indicate that the ship of 15 or 16 knots secures the cream of the market, the special freight which commands the highest price and is, too, practically certain of getting business when trade is slack and the slower boats plow their way through the oceans with holds nearly empty.

The increase of speed from about 10 knots in a very few years has brought a new competitive force into the shipping business and nowhere is it more apparent than in the Pacific where some of the most remunerative business is to be had in the transport of goods between North and South America.

The speed is very little less than that of many 15,000 to 20,000 ton passenger liners of modern construction and is only two knots less than most of the crack liners with all their luxurious trappings, which are engaged on the European South American passenger trade.

Until quite recently owners have contrived to carry a few passengers as a means of partially meeting the high fuel bills which these fast ships incur; but latterly they have found merchants who are keen enough on the speedy transport of their goods from one country to another to pay the extra rates demanded. That there is not likely to be a halt at these speeds is evident from the trial results of one or two motorships during the last few weeks where up to 16 1/2 knots has been recorded—Christian Science Monitor.

MATRIC IS STATED TO BE TOO EASY

Queen's Registrar Opposes Unit Plan of Writing Off Examinations

Criticism of the "unit system" of matriculation examinations, whereby students are credited one by one with each paper as they pass it, was voiced by Dr. W. E. McNeill, M.A., Ph.D., registrar and treasurer of Queen's University, addressing the College and Secondary Schools Department of the O.E.A. at Toronto.

"Counting independent units is an American system," he said. "We seem to have taken it up in Ontario at the very time when the best American institutions are abandoning it. Harvard and Yale and Princeton are adopting the ways of Oxford and Cambridge, whose system concerns itself primarily with a measure of power and of final results."

"Perhaps a few simple regulations will correct the most of the evils," he said. "If a candidate at his final examinations were required to write and pass, say six papers, in order to receive any credit, and if comprehensive examinations were given in English and in the foreign examinations, many of the present evils would disappear."

"English is not treated as a serious subject of matriculation," he declared. "I have no hesitation in saying that a bright boy of 14 or 15 years of age who has had fairly decent advantages in environment could without any specific training satisfy the examiners in composition in either the pass or honor papers. Under the older system of matriculation he would not have the opportunity; under the unit system he may write whenever he cares to present himself."

Dr. McNeill was also critical of the system whereby pupils may write the composition and authors examinations in a foreign language at different sittings.

"The unit system, by encouraging pupils to spread their examinations over several years seriously impairs the work in school and university," he continued. "A large proportion of high school students are not given a thorough grounding in their work. As soon as a subject is passed it is dropped and speedily forgotten. Many matriculants on entering the university must take subjects which they have not recently studied in the high school."

"Matriculation is obviously made too easy. Much less application and mental capacity are required to pass papers singly over a period of two, three and even four years than to pass from eight to twelve papers in one year. There is in this connection great significance in the enormous increase of matriculation candidates."

CANADA'S NET DEBT REDUCED

Figures Announced Not Complete and Do Not Reflect the Accurate Position of Dominion

A decrease of $87,160,784 in the net debt of Canada during the fiscal year which closed on March 31st last is shown in the financial statement issued by the Department of Finance. Although this is the amount of decrease as shown in the statement, it is pointed out that the figures are not complete and consequently do not reflect accurately the position of the Dominion at the end of the year. Until the department is in receipt of all the revenue collected in distant parts of the Dominion and until a number of obligations which properly come into last year's financing are met, the figures for the year cannot be regarded as complete. Last year the statement issued at the close of the fiscal year showed a decrease in the net debt of $61,429,500.

The net debt as on March 31 last according to the statement was $2,260,673,585.

Mr. D. S. Morgan of the Union Station branch of the Bank of Toronto, Ottawa, has come here to occupy the position recently vacated in the local branch by Mr. Knox Thompson, who was transferred to the Dominion's Capital.

FLOOD CONDITIONS BAD IN THE NORTH

Heavy Damage Is Wrought At Bobcaygeon—Peterboro Suffers

The annual spring freshet has changed to a great flood, which is causing much damage and inconvenience to people of Bobcaygeon. The water has risen about eight feet higher than it was before the snow started to melt. The river between Pigeon and Sturgeon Lakes is running very fast and has carried away the boathouse of James Lithco, Electric Light commissioner. The government dock near by is being gradually destroyed. Boathouses on the north bank are nearly filled with water. Some are chained and tied with ropes.

Joseph Henderson is unable to carry on his blacksmith business as his shop is almost submerged in the flood. If the water rises four inches more he and his family will have to take to the upstairs.

On the upper end of Front street the canoe or skiff is used to get in and out. In the home of Michael Sheehan water lies in his parlor. He took his cow to a neighbor's barn, thinking that it would be better off there, but in the morning he found it standing up to its knees in water. His hens could not get down from their roosts.

Puts Out Church Furnace

The water, which is the highest in years, is running over the gates of the canal locks. The wood in Mrs. Baker's woodshed is floating, the first time in 17 years. On Easter Sunday the furnace room of Trinity United Church was filled with water up to half over the firebox. Heat was supplied by coal oil stoves and electric heaters.

Locust Lodge Inn has been in danger and gangs of men have worked day and night for some time to keep the water from washing away the lawns. A breakwater of sandbags has been built.

Water High at Peterboro

The water has risen several inches in the river since yesterday and today finds flood conditions the worst for many years at Peterboro. Stony Lake at present is holding its capacity and the surplus water is finding its way down the river. Levels in the back lakes have not risen to any great degree in the last twenty-four hours.

Rye's pavilion and boathouse seem to be affected the worst by the flood conditions. The pavilion is surrounded by water, and looks like an island. On the opposite side of the river the large sign which stood out prominently to all who travelled the river is more than half under water.

Little Lake is full, and the water is backing up into the yards of the McDonald Lumber Company and the Canadian Packing Company. At the George st wharf the water is creeping up the banks to the pavement.

At the lower locks the logs have been removed from the dam and in the locks the water shows only a few inches difference in level.

The James Stevenson Park is completely under water. Other years the water in the park came up close to the grand stands but this year the water is several feet deep all over.

SEMI-FINALS FOR ORCHARD CUP

Miss Alice Southby Defeated Miss M. Ward in Keenly Contested Games

The finals in the Badminton tournament for the Orchard Cup was played at the Drill Shed Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock and after two keenly contested games, Miss Alice Southby, the 1927 winner, defeated Miss Madeline Ward.

Both games were hard fought and numerous spectators witnessed the interesting games. The scores were 11-5 and 11-7. In the absence of the President, Mrs. W. J. Helm, the Vice-President, Mrs. (Dr.) R. F. Forrest, congratulated Miss Southby on winning the cup and the trophy was handed Mrs. Orchard for presentation.

On Saturday, competition for the Witherspoon Shield will commence while next week the double's tournament of the first six on the ladder tournament will commence.

TWO PETERBORO MEN ARRAIGNED ON PERJURY CHARGES IN COURT

James Akey and Milton Barnard Committed For Trial on Perjury Charges in the Police Court Here. $1,000 Bail Set For Each.

As a sequel to a Police Court hearing here on March 26th, James Akey and Milton Barnard of Peterboro were arraigned in Port Hope Police Court here this afternoon on charges of perjury arising out of the former trial. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., of Cobourg, appeared for the Crown, while Akey and Barnard were represented by D. H. Chisholm, K.C., of Port Hope.

Both Akey and Barnard were committed for trial and bail of two sureties of $500 each was arranged. Further details will appear in tomorrow's issue.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Good morning! The water still flows under the bridge.

It will continue to flow on and on whether there are walls to hem it in or low banks over which it can flow every spring. As it has been a trouble, perhaps from now on we will find it will behave better with its course better directed. Our corner friend suggests if the river bed were deeper the flood would not be as high. A little blow out might help.

At a recent meeting of the Port Hope Golf and Country Club directors, Mr. J. R. Bunting was elected president, Mr. J. P. Holland, vice-president and Mr. W. A. McCarthy, secretary.

Tomorrow night the air will be blue again with the boys all striving to win one of the prizes at the Bowling Club Euchre and Smoker. There's a jolly bunch get together for a good time at these Bowlers' euchres.

The body of Frank Rogers was taken from Moira Lake, near Madoc Wednesday afternoon. He had apparently fallen in while skating alone, early in the winter. His disappearance on Dec. 5, did not cause much worry as he had planned to leave the district, and his parents thought he might have gone away suddenly. The young man was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers of Huntingdon Township who lived close to the lake. Skats marks were seen leading to the ice at the time of the disappearance, but little attention was paid to them. Coroner Dr. Eagleson viewed the body and gave permission for burial.

The German transatlantic plane, Bremen, hopped off on its transatlantic flight to New York at 5.38 o'clock this morning. The plane made a perfect take off and headed for Galway. Aboard were Captain Herman Koehl and Commandant James F. Fitzmaurice of the Irish Free State Air Force, co-pilots, and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, the backer of the flight.

Tricky Language
The tramcar had once again come to a standstill and it seemed as if this time it had bedded down for the night.

"I think we'll get on better if we get off and walk," remarked a work man to his companion; and together they left the vehicle.

A short distance down the road the tramcar overtook them going at full speed.

"Well, I'll be jiggered!" gasped one of the pair. "I thought we'd get on better if we got off, but we'd have been better off if we'd stayed on."

Several plovers and a crane were seen one day recently flying near the shores of Rice Lake.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE ORDERED TO ANSWER

EXAMINATION FOR DISCOVERY

In the action for libel, Sir Arthur Currie, plaintiff, and F. W. Wilson and W. T. R. Preston, defendants, Mr. F. W. Wilson was examined for discovery before Mr. John T. Field, registrar of the supreme court of Ontario.

The examination took place at Cobourg this Thursday morning, and lasted about an hour. Mr. D. H. Chisholm, K.C. conducted the examination.

Ordered to Answer

In the matter of the libel suit by Sir Arthur Currie against F. W. Wilson and W. T. R. Preston and the plaintiff's refusal to answer certain questions put to him by Mr. Regan during Sir Arthur's examination for discovery, His Honor Judge O'Connor, after hearing argument of counsel for all the litigants at Cobourg this morning, ordered the plaintiff, Sir Arthur Currie shall appear at Cobourg, at his own expense on Saturday next and reply to the aforesaid enquiries. The effect of the judgment is Sir Arthur Currie shall answer the following questions:

"Did you receive from the Government of Canada, in 1913-1914, the sum of $30,000, or any like amount, for the purpose of purchasing uniforms for the Highland regiment in Victoria, B.C., of which you were Commanding Officer?"

"Is the statement correct, Sir Sam Hughes, made in the House of Commons on June 16th, 1920, that it was you instead of Col. Jack Currie who was in General Snow's dug-out?"

The judge ruled the question in the foregoing form shall be answered by Sir Arthur Currie. The question in its original form, included the words, "and by reason of which incident Col. Jack Currie was sent home from the front." These words the judge ruled should be struck out of the question, and that it should be otherwise answered.

THE GUIDE STORY

Miss Granby with an expectant light in her dim eyes, sat upright. "Ah, my dear, is it—is it from Samuel Fortescue?"

"Yes it is; and I call him a perfectly lovely man to have dealings with. Why, he has answered by return of post."

Olwen rose hastily and began to speak, then she turned and left the room.

"Is she vexed about something?" asked Firefly.

Miss Granby was far too busy at her letter to hear the question. After reading it twice, she looked up woefully at Firefly.

"He refuses, dear child. Listen! 'Dear Miss Granby: I am afraid that I have no power to do what you wish, and to sell your family jewels, both your small capital and your jewels—which are of the nature of heirlooms, and of no intrinsic value—being strictly tied up. Even were your next of kin, Miss Ransome, to agree to their being converted into money for the purpose you have at heart, it would be of little avail, as their combined value would not realize, by many hundreds, the sum you would require. I regret your disappointment, but must assure you again that the sum necessary to found and properly endow a small orphanage would be far larger than the sum total of your principal, even were that principal at your disposal. Would it not be wiser, dear Miss Granby, to transfer your charitable intentions to some smaller and more attainable object?'"

By the time she had laboriously read aloud the letter, Miss Charity's eyes were dim with the unshed tears of old age, and Firefly's eyes flashed with indignant sympathy.

"He is a detestable beast!" she exclaimed. "What's the good of having a lawyer, if he can't get hold of one's own money for one?"

"Ah, my dear, we must not be harsh to the poor man!" said Miss Granby plaintively. "He is the son of his father and a most estimable young man. Old John Fortescue was my dear mother's family lawyer, and I remember he used to warn her against impulsiveness and undue generosity. She used to be very much annoyed at times with the worthy man. I fancy, though, that young Samuel Fortescue is somewhat mistaken in thinking that my means are not large enough to carry out my wishes, and in hinting that I may change my mind. I shall not change my mind, and I will not believe that the law is not strong enough to deliver my own money into my hands; Olwen agrees with Samuel Fortescue that I do not know my own mind, yet, as I have explained several times to both of them, now that I live with my dear niece as protector and chaperon, I really could not spend my two hundred a year on myself alone—now, could I?"

Miss Granby's breath was coming quickly and her eyes were looking strained.

"No. You could not need more than fifty pounds a year now, I should think," Firefly answered quietly.

"Not twenty! not twenty! I could dress on twenty pounds quite easily, and if I spent all the rest of my income on charity I need keep none back for—"

A grey shadow was cast over Miss Granby's face, and Firefly, telling her to stay quiet while she ran to fetch the plans she had designed for the proposed orphanage, slipped out of the room, hurried Miss Granby's maid down with the usual remedies for the heart attack she thought approaching, asked Giles to send a boy for the doctor, then went in search of the mistress of the house, and informed her of what she had done.

CHAPTER IX

Forewarned is Forearmed. Firefly had her faults, but she was on the whole, a warm-hearted girl, and had really grown fond enough of Miss Granby to enroll herself as her champion in chief.

She waited to attack Olwen until Miss Granby had been restored and soothed back into refraining somewhat of her usual color; then, making sure she was no longer wanted by the old lady, who had dropped into a fitful doze in the drawing-room, she went to the library.

Olwen, with a book, was sitting at a small table drawn near the fire. She flushed as Firefly entered, throwing a wondering look first at the book, then at the manuscript paper upon which Olwen's hand was resting, pen in hand.

"I see you are busy," said the younger girl, more gravely than she was wont to speak, "but may I claim your attention for a moment?"

"Certainly. What can I do for you?" asked Olwen, with a curtness she realized and somewhat regretted.

"Do you think you will ever get past the stage of downright hating me, Miss Ransome?" asked Firefly, looking into the other's eyes. "Wait a moment," she continued, as Olwen was about to speak. "May I put my side of the question first? You disliked me the night I arrived. You have gone on disliking me, with rare intervals, ever since. I want to know if you think it will be always the same, because, if so, you would prefer perhaps that I should go away, and that Gwendal should take my place which, after all, is her own, I suppose."

LOCATES PLANET NO EYE HAS SEEN

Harvard Astronomer Maps Out Orbit of Ninth Family

A new planet in our solar system has been definitely located through calculations made by one of the world's greatest astronomers—Prof. William H. Pickering, of the Harvard College Observatory.

Although the existence of the planet itself is nothing new to astronomers, the novelty lies in Prof. Pickering's determination of its exact location, its size, its orbit and other important characteristics despite the fact that it has not yet been observed.

This unusual accomplishment is the result of long and patient calculation based on the peculiar movements of the three outermost planets in our known solar system—Saturn, Uranus and Neptune.

So far as scientists have been able to observe, with the telescopes in use, seven major planets accompany our earth in its rotation about the sun. They range all the way from Mercury, which is nearest the sun, to Neptune, which is a tremendous fiery mass more than 30 times the earth's distance from the sun.

The new planet, however, makes a ninth member in our solar system.

For want of a name, Pickering calls this initiate "Planet O." Its presence far out in the solar system was conjectured at the time of the discovery of Neptune, in 1846. From that time on, observers noted that Neptune deviated from the course calculated for it.

They found that the pull of its nearest planet, Uranus, could not have been enough to cause so much deviation. And they discovered that even Uranus showed a similar deviation, although much less, from its calculated orbit. They went further and checked up the orbit of Saturn, which is quite near our earth as compared with the distances of Neptune and Uranus, and they discovered that even here a slight variation existed.

Calculates Position

From all these observations, Professor Pickering calculated the position of the new planet to whose gravitational pull the deviation of the other three planets was ascribed.

From the extent of these deviations, he was also able to calculate the mass and size of the new planet and its probable distance from us. And by checking up the deviations of the three planets in their orbits for the past century or so, he could calculate its orbit.

As planets go, the new Planet O, is not large. Pickering estimated its mass at about half that of the earth and its size, about 6,300 miles in diameter.

Because of its small size, therefore, Pickering argues it must be quite close to Neptune—as stellar distances go—in order to affect that planet as it does. In fact, he has calculated its orbit to be that of an eclipse; one end reaching out beyond the orbit of Neptune, the other approaching closer to the earth, between the orbits of Neptune and Uranus.

This orbit, however, is about as large as that of Neptune, Pickering estimates—which is equal to about 165 of our earth years.

At the present time, Planet O, is a little beyond Neptune's orbit. While Neptune remains almost constantly about 30 times our distance from the sun, this new planet varies from 25 to 30 times the 93,000,000 miles we are from the sun.

Some might believe this new planet to be merely a satellite of Neptune, since it keeps so close to that planet. But Pickering points out that the farthest such a satellite could deviate from Neptune would be about 100,000,000 miles. Planet O is sometimes five times that distance from Neptune, and therefore cannot be a satellite.

Pickering goes so far as to predict the exact location of Planet O in the sky. At present, he says it roams far down in the southern sky at an angle of about 22 degrees from the horizon.

Astronomers are pointing their telescopes that way in the desire to be the first to observe the new planet, now that it is definitely located.

WOULD UTILIZE BURNING DUMP

Curb Heat From Garbage Turn It Into Steam, Is Proposed Plan

Henry Ford has discovered a London garbage dump which has been burning for a thousand years or so and has set himself the task of working out some scheme by which these fires may be utilized. Incinerators may be installed and the heat used to create steam. The dump, about 50 acres in area, is near a Ford factory site at Dagenham, Essex, 15 miles from London.

"This dump goes back to prehistoric times, I gather from a visit there," Mr. Ford said. "Those fires have been burning away, wasted absolutely, all these centuries. I would like to see them working for man."

Ford is greatly interested in England industrially. Speaking of world trade, particularly with reference to automobiles, he said for years he had regarded Great Britain as a natural base for supplying Europe with motor cars, and also India.

"We have sold Russia nearly 30,000 tractors which were all manufactured in the United States. They would have been made in Cork if the Irish had not imposed certain restrictions which greatly hindered us. On that account the Cork factory never materialized."

MASTER COMEDIAN IS ENTERTAINER

Coloured Picture of Painting's Story Delighted Royal Patrons

Last night besides the Port Hope band and local vocalists the Royal Theatre had one of Hollywood's cleverest comedians to entertain their patrons, so that they could truly boast of a programme which would be thoroughly enjoyed.

Between the Band selections Miss Frances Johnson and Mr. C. E. Stephenson gave a solo each. Their numbers brought thunderous applause but as there were to be no encores, they were unable to satisfy the audience's insistent demand.

The story of the famous picture, "The Blue Boy" appealed to most of the audience as it is a beautiful story artistically reproduced in colors.

Johnny Hines always has a way of touching his film friends' risibilities and this photoplay "White Pants Willie" is no exception to the rule. Theatregoers last night enjoyed a good healthy laugh at his clever antics.

The same exhilarating screen programme will be presented again this evening for its final showing.

PERFECT LOVE

Isa. 26 : 3.

Amid the rush and whirl of life, Amid the noise of daily strife, My soul oft longs for calm and peace,

A place where troubles ever cease. Methinks I hear a Voice Divine, "Come unto Me" oh child of Mine.

As seabird calmly braves the foam Of ocean, torn by fiercest storm, Go I, too, found that perfect peace Amid the whirl that ne'er would cease.

When to the One Who rules the sea I looked, and He spoke "Peace" to me.

Dear friend, when storms around thee roar,

When Satan's darts above thee soar, Thou, too, canst ride in perfect peace Thy soul from doubts will find release,

If Christ thou'lt trust, who rules the deep, Thy soul in perfect peace He'll keep.

DON'T SHAKE HANDS BUT BOW AND SMILE

Former London Health Man, Expert on Bacteria, Gives Warning of Infection Danger.

If you must greet your friends, cordially bow and smile as much as you like and flourish your arms, in a gesture of welcome, but don't shake hands.

Such is the warning uttered by Dr. H. H. Hill, head of the bacteriological department of the University of British Columbia, formerly Dean of Public Health in the University of Western Ontario, in London, who claims that approximately one third of the total of infectious diseases in Canada are communicated by the good old fashioned hand shake.

Miss Helen H. Mathews, instructor in the same department, corroborates the doctor's statements. She found bacteria transferred from handshaking in every case with but one or two exceptions. In ten cases where the second person shook hands with a third, the germs of infection were transferred in two instances the fourth person received them, and in one case the fifth person.

Leading health authorities, said Dr. Hill, are convinced that typhoid fever, once thought to be contracted only from contaminated water, is passed on by handshaking. In fact, he said, most of the typhoid fever is spread by the practice. Soap and water are not sufficient to wash away the germs, he said, except in about 90 per cent of the cases. To play safe one should use a disinfectant.

"Mussolini has the right idea," said Dr. Hill. "The Italian Dictator has introduced the old Roman salute, which is not only a beautiful thing, but sanitary. The Prince of Wales, who has suffered from excessive handshaking on more than one occasion, is another devotee of the non-touch greet. The military salute would not be bad for universal application, and the Japanese bow is all right for those not afflicted with stiff backs. Why, even the Eskimos have a custom of rubbing noses which is better than the handshake.

"The danger of 'aerial infection' is not very great. You can stand fourteen feet away from an infected person and be reasonably safe provided the infected person does not cough. In ordinary conversation the danger of infection is not very great, but keep away from the robust voiced baritone. A strong-lunged singer can hurl a germ forty feet.

"Don't worry about your own germs. You can use the same old

Why Not End Constipation?

"Fruit-a-tives" a sure remedy

If your teeth were aching I would you put painkiller in it all the time and let it get worse, or would you have it filled and made strong again? The same applies to correcting constipation. The only satisfactory remedy is one which, while relieving congestion, strengthens bowels, liver and kidneys to act without daily medicine. That is why Fruit-a-tives is the public favorite. Made only of fresh fruit juices and tonics, its whole effect on the system is natural and strengthening. Try it. 25c and 50c a box.

pipe year after year and slip your hand into the dusty pocket with immunity, for you will not be contaminated by your own germs. It's the other fellow's germs you have to watch."

But the business of living is not so serious as it sounds, Dr. Hill said that disease germs were comparatively rare. "Disease germs," he said, "form only about one billionth part of the germ world and the chance of getting sick from them is fairly rare."

CANADA'S WEALTH UP THREE BILLIONS

Total Estimated At $25,673,174,000 in 1927 or $2,772 Per Head—Ontario Is Richest

Canada's national wealth increased by $3,000,000,000 in four years. In 1921, the estimated aggregate of the tangible wealth of the Dominion was $22,195,000,000. In 1925 the total had increased to $25,673,174,000, or $2,772 per head of population. The computation is exclusive of undeveloped natural resources.

Ontario ranked as the richest province, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, with estimated aggregate wealth of $6,228,284,000 was second while Saskatchewan, with a total of $2,870,314,000 came third.

Alberta came fourth with aggregate wealth estimated at $2,086,688,000; British Columbia fifth with $1,983,420,000; Manitoba sixth with $1,839,819,000; Nova Scotia seventh with $789,651,000; New Brunswick eighth with $643,528,000; Prince Edward Island ninth with $138,916,000; while the Yukon was in tenth position with $31,827,000.

Agriculture Leads

Agricultural items, urban real property and steam railways comprise the three largest items in the order named, making up our national wealth.

The total agricultural wealth in 1927 was $7,832,942,000 representing 30.51 per cent of the whole. This amount included the value of agricultural production in 1925 or $1,708,967,000 to cover the average stocks of agricultural goods in the possession of farmers and traders, and the amount invested in the preparation for the new crop.

For urban real property the estimated value in 1925, based on returns received from municipalities was $6,928,000,000 or 26.99 per cent of the total wealth of the Dominion. This amount includes the assessed valuation of taxed and exempted property to which was added one-third to provide for under-valuation by assessors and for roads, bridges and sewers.

Wealth in Railways

The wealth invested in steam railways, computed from the cost of road and equipment and distributed by provinces on the basis of mileage, amounted to $2,881,366. This sum represented 11.22 per cent of Canada's total national wealth.

Tangible value of the forests amounted to $1,341,613,000 or 5.23 per cent. Stocks in process, raw material and finished products of manufacturing establishments, to which was added 100 per cent, as an estimate to the value of manufactured goods in the hands of dealers, amounted in all to $1,324,464,000 or 5.16 per cent.

Household furnishings, clothing, and other personal property amounted to $1,200,000,000 or 4.67 per cent.

In these computations, the so-called "inventory" method was employed. This method consisted in totalling the amounts from various sources to be invested in agricultural, manufacture, dwellings and similar items.

PROVINCE OF A NEWSPAPER

It would be comical, were it not somewhat pathetic, the way newspaper offices are besieged every day by their friends, urging them to "roast" this and that; to "see to it" that this and that is corrected; to have this and that done in the city or country; to start this and that kind of movement to correct evils in the government. These friends actually appear to believe that it is the newspaper's business to handle all these affairs.

But a self-respecting newspaper, though ready to carry all reasonable responsibility, must remind its readers that they—the people—are the authority upon whom rests responsibility for the present state of affairs local, provincial and national.

OPENING DAY CROWDS SMALL—EST IN SIX YEARS

The smallest attendance in six years marked the opening of the major league baseball season. Unusually cold weather, especially in the East, cut heavily into the figures, which totalled 198,517 for the eight games as compared with pre-game expectations of 250,000. This was nearly 30,000 short of last year's aggregate of 227,660 for opening day, when only seven games were played.

The biggest crowd of the day, 40,000, turned out at Detroit to see the Browns whip the Tigers. At the Polo Grounds 35,000, the National League high mark, saw the Giants trounce the Braves.

LEAFS RAINED OUT

"Bunny" Hearne may have a good ball team as a Class C organization, but you can't prove it by the Leafs. His Camels, unlike the ships of the desert, apparently want plenty of water and they are getting it, in the form of precipitation from aloft. In fact, the conditions are the same through all the southern section, and Manager O'Hara not only cancelled Wednesday's game but also called off today's at High Point, where, it is reported, snow fell, in addition to much moisture of the regular variety.

Instead of getting some exercise of a helpful nature on the diamond, the Leafs spent most of the day in the hotel vocalizing with Les Burke, who, no matter what his shortcomings are on the ball field, is a musician of much ability presiding at the harpsichord. He organized a quartet with Rabbitt as tenor, Riel first bass, Styles second bass, and Lucas third bass, and what this outfit did to several of the standard melodies is a shame to relate.

If this sort of weather continues, it may be found necessary to do a little street corner stuff, with Fred Burehell passing the hat around. It costs money, much money, to carry thirty one players, and officials thru the Southland, and this week the Leafs have yet to see a ball field although they have travelled over 600 miles, and stopped off at three different towns.

They are hoping for better luck at Asheville, which will be their next port of call now that High Point has been passed up. Games are slated for Friday and Saturday at this popular winter resort.

With four days of complete loss owing to the unsuitable weather, something of a drastic nature must be done to get the players into condition for the inaugural series, beginning next Wednesday at Newark.

HOCKEY

The winner of the Stanley Cup for the 1927-28 season may be decided in the fourth game of the series between Montreal and the New York Rangers at Montreal tonight. Taking a lead of two games to one into the fourth conflict of the round, which is for the best three out of five, Maroons by a victory tonight can clinch the honors.

Determined to bring a second Stanley Cup triumph to its camp in three years, the Montrealers will be out in the fourth contest to throw a final hitch around the cup, and put a summary end to a long, hard campaign in which the players have been sweeping successfully toward their goal.

BOXING

DEMPSEY THROUGH

Jack Dempsey, arriving in New York Wednesday to receive a greeting as noisy as any when he was champion, put the damper on comeback talk by declaring he would not enter the ring again for "fifty million dollars."

The former title holder who reached New York shortly after noon, chiefly to pursue his legal battle with his old manager Kearns, insisted his retirement was definite, but in the next breath in answer to a question declared: "If I ever have to box again it will be for no one but Tex Rickard."

Dempsey made this assertion when asked whether he was dickering with any other promoters.

"I'm through," he said. "The boys laugh when I say that, but it's on the level. Money is no object to me now. I've got plenty. I have made my own decision without Rickard's or any one else's advice."

"I've been in the ring eighteen years—long enough. I can still walk around and tell the time of day. I intend to stay that way."

The injury to his left eye which he said was suffered when he was butted by Tunney in the tenth round of their bout at Chicago last September helped influence his retirement, Dempsey indicated. "I realized after that last bout with Tunney it was time to quit," Dempsey declared. "I was not more than 49 per cent as good in that bout as I was at my best. I felt myself weakening fast in the last few of the rounds."

"In the seventh when I knocked Tunney down I tried to rush him and finish the job, but everything seemed to fall away from under me. He was too fast for me and my legs couldn't stand the gaff. I didn't have a thing left."

"It was in the last round that I got a bad cut, triangular in shape, over my left eye. It snapped a tendon so that I lost partial control of the lid and had hemorrhages—it has been a long time coming around, but it will be all right."

Dempsey thinks the Tunney-Heeny battle, slated for this July in New York, is the best available match. "It will be a good bout and Heeny will give the champion plenty of trouble."

"I believe the man who whips Tunney must be a puncher, not a boxer. Sharkey, if as good as the time he boxed me last year, would have the best chance of beating the champion, but they tell me he has gone back a lot. Sharkey gave me a lot of trouble."

Prince of Wales Fund.

A sum of $7,013,361 16s 5d was received for the Prince of Wales' Fund for National Relief, says a final statement of accounts issued by the executive committee.

Of this sum, $3,870,588 was expended in relieving naval and military distress, $3,133,963 for civil distress, while $22,429 went to the Central Committee on Women's Training.

The Officers' Association and the Unity Relief Fund each received $11,214. Administration expenses at headquarters totalled $16,519.

Largest Dome In the World.

Visitors to India are always impressed with the massiveness of many of the structures, and one of the most massive is the great Gol Gombaz, in the town of Bijapur, the tomb in which rest the remains of the King Mohammedan, Adil Shah, the builder. According to custom this Mohammedan ruler began the construction of his tomb soon after he ascended the throne, for he knew full well that, unless he completed it in his lifetime, it would never be finished, as no successor would trouble to expend money for the glory of another.

So Adil Shah determined to build the Gol Gombaz. As he realized his architects could not excel in "beauty" some of the other tombs in the city, he determined to outclass all in "size." The result is a building which is one of the largest in India, and has a dome which is the largest in the world. The next nearest is the Pantheon of Rome which has an extent of 15,833 square feet. That of Gol Gombaz is 18,199 square feet.

The building itself rises above the platform on which it stands, 193 feet. There is a gallery round the base of the dome both inside and outside. The one inside is full of interest for it is a very fine whispering gallery. Speaking quietly at one side of the great dome, one can be heard at the other, the sound appearing to travel through the wall. A sharp clap reverberates like thunder.

LOCAL PEOPLE AT CONVENTION

Miss Annie Brown and Dallas Cameron Attend Presbyterian Conference

Miss Annie Brown and Dallas Cameron of St. Paul's Presbyterian Young Peoples' Society were at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterboro, where there was in progress Tuesday afternoon and evening a convention to which the young people of the entire Peterboro Presbytery have rallied at the call of President J. Townsend, of Hastings, who, assisted by the vice-president, Miss Wilson of Keene and the secretary-treasurer, Horace Hope, of Peterboro, has played a big part in arranging it.

The afternoon session opened at 3 o'clock, with Rev. J. C. Grier of Campbellford, in the chair, and representatives from such places as Hastings, Warkworth, Colborne, Port Hope, Campbellford, Bowmanville, Keene, Cobourg and Peterboro present. A brief but impressive devotional period concluded with a prayer by Mrs. William Allan and Scripture reading by Adam Sands of Peterboro, was followed by an address of welcome delivered by H. B. Cowan also of that city.

The introduction of Dr. Kannawin, fell to the lot of the chairman who, briefly but comprehensively reviewed the steps leading up to the speaker's coming to address the convention. His remarks were most complimentary to the visitor.

Group discussion under five groups was the concluding item, but quite as interesting an event as any of the program; for in it, the problems of organization were discussed by H. B. Cowan, the desirability of co-operation being stressed and election of officers dealt with, social activities outlined by Mrs. Scott and program work, though last of the five, proved most interesting when in the hands of Perrin Rork.

At 6.30 a get-together banquet was being held in the Sunday School hall. Among those present are the delegates from Keene, namely, Kathleen Hazel, Herb and Allan Thompson; the Rev. J. Grier, Mrs. Scott, Miss Watson and Mrs. J. Stone, all of Campbellford; Misses Heather Grant, N. Mowatt, Mrs. McCubbin, Miss Banks and Mrs. C. Carlaw of Warkworth; Bruce Cameron and Newton Hackney of Bowmanville; Miss Margaret Henderson and Miss Margaret Harnden of Colborne; Miss Annie M. Brown and Mr. D. Cameron of Port Hope; Miss Beryl Hill, Miss I. Doughty, Miss H. Whitrod, Mr. J. Townsend and Mr. R.
