POLICE COURT

A Scotchman Got Drunk-Trouble in the Pollock Camp

William Kelly, a Scotchman, celebrated too long on Good Friday with the result that he spent the night in jail. This morning he pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly and was given the holiday sentence, thirty minutes to leave town.

A Pollock was on hand to bring an information against a fellow countryman. The complainant worked at the Central Foundry and roomed with the boarding boss near the station. His room cost him 10c per night and he owed for 13 nights. He was desirous of changing his boarding house and the boarding boss demanded $1.50. The complainant agreed to pay the amount but all his money, $100.00, was in his trunk and the defendant would not give him this. The chief visited the boarding house this morning and took possession of the trunk and now the boarding house boss is going to take action against the boarder.

As none of the court officials are experts on the Pollock language it is very difficult to understand these cases.

EASTER IN PRISON

EASTER SUNDAY in a prison is welcomed as one of the great days of the year, when there is a little extra indulgence in the way of eating and amusement and some relaxation in the usual discipline. The prison officials endeavor as far as possible to make the day a little different from the usual Sunday, though, with the best intentions, they cannot do much.

Easter Sunday begins for the prisoners at about half past 7, when the great prison bell rings and the guards unlock the cell doors. Away down the corridor you hear the stamp, stamp, as of an advancing giant. Line after line of black and gray striped figures march out on their way to breakfast.

The messroom, with its rows of desk-like tables, capable of seating more than a thousand men, looks like an immense schoolroom. At the end of each table is a great pile of bread cut in thick slices, beside which stands a keeper. Each man on taking his seat finds before him a tin plate containing his breakfast, a pint of coffee, a slice of bread and a knife and fork. If he wants more bread he holds up his right hand and the guard at the end of the table passes it to him. By holding up his plate or cup he can get more coffee or whatever there may be for breakfast. Waste is avoided, but no man need go away from the table unsatisfied. After a busy quarter of an hour the keeper in charge of the first company knocks on the table, and the men in his charge, some fifty or sixty, rise at once and form into line, each carrying his knife and fork in his hand. The keeper takes his station at the door, and as each man passes out he must deposit his knife and fork in the box provided for that purpose.

If the day is fine the men are marched around the yard for half an hour, still keeping their formation, and a strange sight it is to see the long lines of men marching in and out around the building in endless procession.

Exercises over, away they march to the chapel, which, owing to the efforts of the chaplain and his friends, is decorated with flowers and plants disposed so as to hide as much as possible the telltale bars and other suggestive items. Each man as he enters re-

His eyes were blinded by a rush of hot tears. Down, down—into the depths of uttermost despondency, of self-pity and self-contempt! Had it been practicable, he would have fled from the house, leaving its occupants to think of him as they would; even as, ten years ago, he had fled from the shame impending over him at Kingsmill. A cowardly instinct, this; having once acted upon it gave to his whole life a taint of craven meanness. Mere bluster, all his talk of mental dignity and uncompromising scorn of superstitions. A weak and idle man, whose best years were already wasted!

He gazed deliberately at himself in the glass, at his red eyelids and unsightly lips. Darkness was best; perhaps he might forget his shame for an hour or two ere the dawn renewed it. He threw off his garments heedlessly, extinguished the lamp, and crept into the ready hiding-place.

PART III

CHAPTER I

'Why are you so obstinately silent?' wrote Earwaker, in a letter addressed to Godwin at his Peckham lodgings. 'I take it for granted that you must by this time be back from your holiday. Why have you not replied to my letter of a fortnight ago? Nothing yet from The Critical. If you are really at work as usual, come and see me tomorrow evening, any time after eight. The posture of my affairs grows dubious; the shadow of Kenyon thickens about me. In all seriousness I think I shall be driven from The Weekly Post before long. My quarrels with Runcorn are too frequent, and his blackguardism keeps more than pace with the Times. Come or write, for I want to know how things go with you.

Tuissimus, J. E. E.

Peak read this at breakfast on a Saturday morning. It was early in September, and three weeks had elapsed since his return from the west of England. Upon the Autumn had fallen a blight of cold and rainy weather, which did not enhance the cheerfulness of daily journeying between Peckham Rye and Rotherhithe. When it was necessary for him to set forth to the train, he muttered imprecations, for a mood of inactivity possessed him; he would gladly have stayed in his comfortable sitting-room, idling over books or only occupied with languid thought.

In the afternoon he was at liberty to follow his impulse, and this directed him to the British Museum, whither of late he had several times resorted as a reader. Among the half-dozen books for which he applied was one in German, Reusch's Bitel und Natur. After a little dallying, he became absorbed in his work, and two or three hours passed before its hold on his attention slackened. He seldom changed his position; the volume was propped against others, and he sat bending forward, his eyes folded upon the desk. When he was thus deeply engaged, his face had a hard, stern aspect; if by chance his eye wandered for a moment, its look seemed to express resentment of interruption.

At length he threw himself back with a sudden yielding to weariness crossed his legs, sank together in the chair, and for half-an-hour brooded darkly. A fit of yawning admonished him that it was time to quit the atmosphere of study. He betook himself to a restaurant in the Strand, and thence about eight o'clock made his way to Staple Inn, where the journalist gave him a cheerful welcome.

'Day after day I have meant to write,' thus he excused himself. 'But I had really nothing to say.'

'You don't look any better for your holiday,' Earwaker remarked. 'Holiday? Oh, I had forgotten all about it. When do you go?'

'The situation is comical. I feel sure that if I leave town, my connection with the Post will come to an end. I shall have a note from Runcorn saying that we had better take this opportunity of terminating my engagement. On the whole I should be glad, yet I can't make up my mind to be ousted by Kenyon—that's what it means. They want to get me away, but I stick on, postponing holiday from week to week. Runcorn can't decide to send me about my business, yet every leader I write enrages him. But for Kenyon, I should gain my point; I feel sure of it. It's one of those cases in which homicide would be justified by public interest. If Kenyon gets my place, the paper becomes at once an organ of Ruffianism, the delight of the blackguardry.'

'How's the circulation?' inquired Peak.

'Pretty sound; that adds to the joke. This series of stories by Doubleday has helped us a good deal, and my contention is, if we can keep financially right by help of this kind, why not make a little sacrifice for the sake of raising our political tone? Runcorn won't see it; he listens eagerly to Kenyon's assurance that we might sell several thousand more by striking the true pot-house note.'

'Then pitch the thing over! Wash your hands and go to cleaner work.'

'The work I am doing is clean enough,' replied Earwaker. 'Let me have my way, and I can make the paper a decent one and a useful one. I shan't easily find another such chance.'

BIGAMY RAMPANT.

Cases of bigamy are becoming altogether too frequent. Scarcely a day passes but we read of cases before the Police Courts in the larger cities. Here is a case just tried in Toronto. Heaverman, who was before Col. Denison, married a second wife in May last, knowing his first wife was alive in Scotland. The first wife, in giving her evidence, said:—"He used to ill-treat me and whip me shamefully." She is a well dressed little woman, who appeared in Court with the pretty child the husband had taken away from her when he came to Canada, and for whose possession she struggled so hard. "I have the child now," said Mrs. Heaverman, putting her arm about the little girl.

This brute was sentenced to only six months imprisonment. It ought to have been six years, and that at hard labor.

receives a printed program of the services, containing also the hymns to be sung by the congregation. For weeks previously the prison choir has been practicing Easter music, and as a rule, the prison choir is quite competent to give as good a choral service as those of a great many city churches, there being no lack of well trained voices, even a male soprano voice being far from unusual.

The religious services are brief, most of the time being taken up by the choir. The whole is over in about an hour and a half. Then comes the march back to the cells, each man receiving as he passes the mess room a tin containing his afternoon meal, which consists of three hard boiled eggs, some cold potatoes and as much bread as he cares to take. Taking his place at the lever which locks every door on that gallery, the keeper waits until each man is in his place. At the signal each door is closed with a bang, snap goes the lever, and fifty doors are securely locked. Then comes the count. Each man stands behind his door, which, being formed of iron bars, permits him to be plainly seen, and as the keeper knocks with his key in passing answers "Here." A second keeper repeats the count, and then for the present each man is left to the enjoyment of his own company.

At 12 o'clock the prison wakes up again a little as the mess room waiters pass from door to door with great cans of boiling coffee. Soon all is quiet again, and little can be heard as the afternoon drags along except the soft footfall of the felt shod patrol or an impatient sigh from a wakeful prisoner. At 5 o'clock fresh water is served out to each man, and his lamp is lighted. Slowly the time drags along until 9 o'clock, when at the striking of the prison gong all lights are put out. The great prison is soon as quiet as a city of the dead, and Easter Sunday has passed.—New York Evening Post.

A Combined Treatment That Really Cures Catarrh.

Canadian weather, with its extreme cold and sudden changes, gives almost every one Catarrh, and makes it hard to cure. Some recommend internal remedies—some external applications.

Father Morriscy used both—tablets to be taken three or four times a day to invigorate the system, purify the blood, and help it throw off the disease, and a soothing, healing, antiseptic salve to be applied inside the nostrils. This combined treatment known as attacking the disease from within and without, soon cures.

"Father Morriscy's No. 26"

Mr. A. C. Thibodeau, General Merchant in Rogersville, N.B., writes on Jan. 22nd last:

"A few words as to the merits of your Catarrh Cure. For the last 10 years I have been troubled with Catarrh of the head and stomach and during that time have tried all kinds of other Remedies with no results, until I tried your Catarrh Cure which I am glad to say has cured me. I highly recommend it to those who are suffering with this disease."

Don't trifle with Catarrh—cure it with Father Morriscy's No. 26. 50c for the combined treatment at your dealer's.

TASCHEREAU IS DEAD

Great Canadian Jurist Passes Away in Ottawa.

IN SEVENTY-FIFTH YEAR

Attack of Paralysis Three Weeks Ago Seemed to Have Passed Somewhat, But End Came Yesterday Morning—Was Prominent in Confederation and Rose to Be Chief Justice of the Dominion.

Ottawa, April 15.—The Rt. Hon. Sir Elzear Taschereau, P.C., died at his residence, 265 Laurier avenue east, yesterday morning, in his 75th year. The deceased had been stricken with paralysis some three weeks ago, but recovered somewhat until three days ago, when the fatal termination became inevitable.

SIR ELZEAR TASCHEREAU. Canadian Parliament as member for the constituency of Beauce, for which he was first elected on July 15, 1861, re-elected in 1863, but defeated in the year 1867.

While in Parliament he took a prominent part in the Confederation debates, and supported Messrs. Macdonald and Cartier in carrying the resolutions in favor of the political union of British North America. In 1873 he was transferred from the district of Quebec to that of Kamouraska, with resident headquarters at Riviere du Loup.

He wrote and published in the year 1874 "The Criminal Law of Canada with notes, commentaries, precedents and indictments, etc.," consisting of two volumes, and also "The Code de Procedure Civile du Bas Canada, with annotations." Other publications were "The Criminal Code of the Dominion of Canada as taken in 1883, with commentaries, etc.," and "Notice Cenealogique sur la Famille Taschereau," in the year 1896.

He received the degree of LL.D. from Laval University in the year 1890, and was raised to Chief Justice of the Dominion of Canada in 1902. In this same year he was created a knight, and in the year 1904 was made a Privy Councillor. In 1904, between the time of the departure of Lord Minto and the coming of Earl Grey he was administrator of the Government, with the title of His Excellency. This title was at first not accorded him, but he claimed his right, wrote to the Colonial Office and received a favorable answer.

He retired from his judicial position in 1906. The deceased gentleman had attended a number of sessions of the judicial committee of the Privy Council and was there last year. It was his intention to go over this year; in fact he had started not many days before his death, after having recuperated from his first stroke, that he was thinking of attending the coronation.

He was married in 1857 to Mary Antonette, daughter of the late Hon. R. U. Horwood, M.P.P., Quebec, who predeceased him in the year 1896. He again married in the year 1897, Marie Louise, daughter of the late Charles Panet, of Ottawa. His first family consisted of two sons, Elzear, of the Supreme Court, Ottawa; Rev. Auguste, of Riviere du Loup, and three daughters, Mrs. Louise Tache, of Montreal; Mrs. F. Beard, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Eugene Panet, of India. His present family consists of three sons, De Montarville, Maurice and Edward.

To Find the Truth! London, April 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A letter appears in The Standard from the incorporated association of head mistresses of public and secondary schools, six members of which have been appointed a colonial intelligence league, stating that they propose to establish next month responsible, paid agents to report constantly to the London office all matters connected with women of the educated class of society. They will undertake responsibility for any candidate who cannot satisfy the committee of definite training for the post, for which she is to be recommended.

FELL INTO CANAL.

One Man Drowned and Three Escape at Iroquois.

Iroquois, Ont., April 15.—One man was drowned in the locks, and three others had narrow escapes with their lives, through the failure of pins driven into the ground, on which was supported the scaffold on which they were at work painting the masonry in the locks of the canal yesterday morning. The drowned man is Elgin Serviss, aged 40, a laborer, who was assisting the other men in the work. The four men had been at work all morning on the scaffold in seeming security, and were progressing with the work of making ready the canal for the opening of navigation. Without the least warning the pins, to which were tied the ropes holding the scaffold down the sides of the stone abutments, pulled up at one end, precipitating Serviss into the water, which was rushing along the bottom of the lock. The other two men, Edward McRobie and M. Redmond, managed to catch the ropes at the other end of the scaffold and pulled themselves up. Sam Armstrong, the third man, was just mounting to the top of the wall when the accident occurred, and so escaped easily.

Serviss' body was recovered later in the day, after several hours, grappling. The current was very swift in the lock, as the valves are large, and were open at the time. It is thought that Serviss was stunned by the fall to the bottom of the lock, and so was unable to prevent himself being drawn down by the current. Serviss was a married man, with a small family. He had been a resident of Iroquois for many years, and was highly respected.

ITALIAN MURDERED

Veci Gioacchino Is Killed in Italian Row in Toronto.

WOMEN CATCH THE SLAYER

Donato Panzine Is Found Held Down on Bed by Women and Is Arrested for Murder—Three Men Are Wounded in Affray Which Arose Out of Jealousy During Good Friday Celebration.

Toronto, April 15.—Once more a holiday celebration among foreigners has ended in bloodshed. In a row following a general drinking bout Donato Panzine, an Italian, in a jealous rage stirred by drink, has taken the life of Veci Gioacchino, and seriously wounded several others.

At 9.55 last night two young men walking east on Agnes street saw a man stagger from the door of the house of Anthony Fratortti, 40 Agnes street, and with the blood pouring from a great gash in the neck, totter westward. A moment later another man, Panzine, now charged with the murder of the first, appeared in the doorway and stepped into the street. He drew his coat about him as he came and covered a great nine-inch butcher knife with it. He turned east and entered a lane through an arch at the side of the house. A moment later the young men heard a groan and some one dropped.

The police at the Agnes street station were summoned by a cry of murder. Detective Montgomery and Station Dutyman Phillips rushed into the street in time to see Veci Gioacchino stagger into the roadway beneath the electric light at the corner of Agnes and Teraulay streets and there drop. Plainclothesman Wilson had already rushed to the house, where the row had occurred. He ran into the alley and at the back of the house found Vincenzo Accalito's burring a .32-calibre revolver in an out-house. He seized him and the man also handed him a murderous-looking butcher knife, which had been stuck, blade down, in the earth. There were still bloodstains upon this knife.

Meanwhile Detective Montgomery had reached the front door which he found locked. He burst it in and, in the front room found a number of Italian women holding Donato Panzine down upon a bed. The detective took him in charge and placed him in the station charged with the murder of Veci Gioacchino.

The injured man, Frank Russello, 40 Agnes street, and Andy Mele, 183 Chestnut street, were found in the yard and lane. They were hurried to the hospital, where their injuries were dressed, while the dying Veci was rushed there in the patrol wagon. At the hospital door it was found that he was dead, and was taken on to the morgue.

The story, as nearly as could be gathered up till an early hour this morning, is that there had been a celebration at the house in Elm street, where Donato lived. It is also said that the trouble arose over jealousy of Donato directed against Veci and relating to Anthony and Georgina, two daughters of Fratortti. The fight started in the kitchen where the bloody revolver was found. It was continued in the darkness of the yard and the alley to the east. Just how the injury was inflicted upon each is not shown.

No Fighting Near Line. Washington, March 15.—President Taft is determined that battles between Mexican federalists and insurgents shall not be fought on American soil. He is equally determined that the lives of American non-combatants shall not be endangered by the forces of President Diaz and those of Gen. Madero. Future combats between the rebels and the forces of the Mexican Government must not be fought out so close to the American line as to put in jeopardy the lives and property of Americans.

Through the State Department, the President last night notified the Mexican Government that it must see to it in the future that no such unfortunate incident as that of Thursday at Agua Prieta, near Douglas, Ariz., when two Americans were killed and eleven wounded, be allowed to occur. Through the War Department and through the Department of Justice the President sent the same soft warning to the leaders of the insurgents at Anzu Prieta.

Hereafter this Government expects both the insurgents and the Mexican federal troops to erect trenches or make their lines of battle far enough away from American soil to make it certain that Americans engaged in the occupations of peace will not be interrupted by bullets.

Pastor for 23 Years. Montreal, April 15.—A prominent member and ex-president of the local Protestant Ministerial Association passed away in the person of Rev. Finley Macnaughton Dewey, D.D., who died last night at his late residence, 243 Elm avenue, Westmount, after an illness extending over some three years. The late Mr. Dewey was for 23 years pastor of Stanley street Presbyterian Church, from which charge he was obliged to resign some months ago on account of increasing ill-health. Throughout his career in the city he was especially identified with work amongst the foreign element and the poorer classes.

Editor Burned to Death. Claremont, N.H., April 15.—Samuel H. Storey, editor of the Narrative, a weekly publication, met a tragic death yesterday. While apparently asleep on a sofa in his apartment, fire from an overheated stove communicated to the furniture and burned him to a crisp.

JARDINE MUST HANG

He Is Convicted and Sentenced to Die on June 16.

NO HOPE OF COMMUTATION

Chief Justice Falconbridge, In Passing Sentence, Says Prisoner Need Not Entertain Any Hope of His Sentence Being Altered—Jury Spends an Hour and Fifteen Minutes in Reaching Verdict.

Goderich, April 15.—Edward Jardine was yesterday found guilty of the murder of Lizzie Anderson in a lonely spot near the fair grounds on Sept. 20 last, and was sentenced by Chief Justice Falconbridge to be hanged on the 16th of June.

The court was crowded when the trial was re-opened at 9.30 yesterday morning, and almost immediately L. E. Dancy, the prisoner's counsel, began his address to the jury. He declared that there was not a tittle of evidence on which to base a conviction, except the prisoner's confession to Dr. Smith. There was, he contended, no reason or motive for the commission of this act. Yet the indictment charges "malice aforethought." "If you find there is no malice, you will be quite justified in finding him guilty on account of the insanity, and to my mind that is the proper verdict in this case," he said.

"Physicians for the defence and also Dr. Garrow, a crown witness, gave the opinion that at the time of the crime the man, being a sexual pervert, would not have knowledge of the quality of his act."

"You have witnessed the conduct of the prisoner in the box, the most uninterested man in court, apparently."

EDWARD JARDINE.

Our hospitals and asylums are full of such as he. Can you decide for capital punishment in his case?"

Mr. Dancy spoke for 45 minutes, and was followed by Mr. Blackstock, who spoke for an hour. The case went to the jury at noon. When court reopened at 1.15, the jurymen were in their places.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed on a verdict?" asked the clerk.

"We have."

"What is it?"

"We find the prisoner guilty," said Foreman Andrew.

Jardine was then ordered to stand up.

When asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed, he replied: "No."

Chief Justice Falconbridge in sentencing the prisoner, declared that there was not the slightest hope that the sentence would be commuted.

"I would recommend you to spend the remaining days left you on earth in preparation of the judgment of the world to come."

Ice Shove at Montreal. Montreal, April 15.—There was a rise of four feet in the river early yesterday morning, necessitating the starting of the Craig street and Mill street pumping stations, which were kept going all day and night.

The first intimation the men in charge of the two pumping stations had of what was coming was an ice shove, the biggest of the season, which began at 2 p.m. The gauges showed the water was rising, and in the course of an hour and a half the depth of the harbor had been increased by four feet. The ice shored opposite the city, and it was this blocking up of the narrow gorge below St. Helen's Island which caused the water to dam up.

Found by Finger Prints. New York, April 15.—Finger prints of 150 workers in a novelty factory were sifted by detectives yesterday for duplicate marks found upon the door and cash drawer of the safe, which was looted Wednesday night of $683. Among the lot the detectives found one they say is identical with the tell-tale imprints, and they arrested Joseph Roberts, a negro porter, who was locked up, charged with being implicated in the robbery. It took nearly two days to take the imprints and compare them.

To Pay For Railway. Seattle, Wash., April 15.—A topic of discussion in Japan when the steamship Kamakura departed from Yokohama, on March 28, was the loan of $5,000,000 by Japanese banks to the Chinese communication department, the money to be expended for railway purposes. The issue price of the loan was 95, and the rate of interest five per cent. The money will be used to pay for the Peking-Hankow Railroad, wrecked under pressure by the Chinese Government.

Bridge Damaged by Ice. Yamaska, Que., April 15.—The bridge of the Quebec, Montreal & South Railway, between Yamaska and Yamaskaville, was badly damaged Thursday night by the ice in the Yamaska River moving out, and the northbound train, which was due to arrive in Montreal Thursday night, is indefinitely delayed. The structure was so badly damaged when the ice began to shove that it is expected to fall at any time.

MATTHEWS' CASE. Crown Admits Evidence Given at the Inquest in December. Cobourg, April 15.—Although Good Friday, the usual proceedings of the court yesterday were carried on. In the morning the prosecution in the Matthews' murder trial carried their point in securing the admission of the evidence of the late Mrs. George Teasdale and John Smith of Wicklow, taken at the inquest in December last. Smith is now in England. He was one of the men in the hall of the Hotel Bristol, when the screaming was heard in an upstairs room. Smith went to the top of the stairs to listen. He deposed at the inquest that he not only heard screaming, but that he heard another noise saying what sounded to him like "Shut up, shut up." He thought it was a man's voice. Smith in his evidence stated there was talking going on, one talking, the other screaming as if in trouble or pain. He did not know whether the squealing came from the man or woman.

JUNIOR LEAGUE EASTER NEST.—The annual social of the Junior League of the Methodist church on Thursday evening was a most successful and enjoyable occasion. About eighty Junior Leaguers sat down to refreshments. The Easter Nest contained 150 eggs. These were distributed to a number of homes with the compliments of the League. The program was bright interesting and well received. A candy booth added to the enjoyment and profits of the evening. The contest between the Blue and Red was decided in favor of the Blue by a narrow margin.

THE CRUCIFIXION.—In addition to the customary services and observances of Holy Week, and appropriately preceding those of Good Friday, the Oratorio of the "Crucifixion" by Sir John Stainer was admirably rendered in St. John's church on Thursday evening last by a large choir which, with that of the church, included also a number of talented musicians from other churches. For some time past, under the capable leadership of Miss Wrenshall, careful and thorough preparation of the music had been made and the result of this good work was manifested in the excellent tone, quality and expression of the entire service. The choruses, solos and instrumental parts were all well taken, the singers being assisted by an orchestra composed of Misses Clark, Stella Smith, Phyllis Ramsden, and Mr. Earnest Holdsworth. The soloists whose work was most effective and highly appreciated, were Mr. George Nicol, Mr. B. George, Mrs. McCarthy and Messrs. H. Swallow, Holden, Baker and Davidson. The organist, Miss Wrenshall, is to be congratulated upon the highly successful results of her efforts to ensure a worthy production of this fine oratorio.
