A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

'Your idealism has a strong root,' said Godwin, rather contemptuously. 'I half envy you. There must be a distinct pleasure in believing that any intellectual influence will exalt the English democracy.'

'I'm not sure that I do believe it, but I enjoy the experiment. The chief pleasure, I suppose, is in fighting Runcorn and Kenyon.'
'They are too strong for you Ear-waker. They have the spirit of the age to back them up.'

The journalist became silent; he smiled, but the harassment of conflict marked his features.

'I hear nothing about 'The New Sophistry,"' he remarked, when Godwin had begun to examine some books that lay on the table. 'Dolby has the trick of keeping manuscripts a long time. Everything that seems at the first glance tolerable, he sends to the printer, then muses over it at his leisure. Probably your paper is in type.'

'I don't care a rap whether it is or not. What do you think of this book of Oldwinkle's?"

He was holding a volume of humorous stories, which had greatly taken the fancy of the public.

'It's uncommonly good,' replied the journalist, laughing. 'I had a prejudice against the fellow, but he has overcome me. It's more than good farce, -- something like really strong humour here and there.'

'I quite believe it,' said Peak,
'yet I couldn't read a page. Whatever the mob enjoys is at once spoilt for me, however good I should otherwise think it. I am sick of seeing and hearing the man's name.'

Earwaker shook his head in de-

'Narrow, my boy. One must be able to judge and enjoy impartially.' 'I know it, but I shall never improve. This book seems to me to have a bad smell; it looks mauled with dirty fingers. I despise Old pularity. them laugh, and to laugh with them

They debated this point for some time, Peak growing more violent, though his friend preserved a smiling equanimity. A tirade of virulent contempt, in which Godwin exhibited all his powers of savage eloquence, was broken by a visitor's summons at the door.

'Here's Malkin,' said the journalist; tyou'll see each other at last. Peak could not at once command himself to the look and tone desirable in meeting a stranger : leaning against the mantel-piece, he gazed with a scowl of curiosity at the man who presented himself, and when he shook hands, it was in silence. But Malkin made speech from the others unnecessary for several minutes. With animated voice and gesture, he poured forth apologies for his failure to keep the appointment of six or seven weeks ago.

'Only the gravest call of duty could have kept me away, I do assure you! No doubt Earwaker has informed you of the circumstances. I telegraphed-I think I telegraphed; didn't I, Earwaker?'

'I have some recollection of a word or two of scant excuse,' replied the journalist.

'But I implore you to consider the haste I was in,' cried Malkin; not five minutes, Mr. Peak to book,

But here we are at last. Let us talk! Let us talk!'

He seated himself with an air of supreme enjoyment, and began to cram the bowl of a large pipe from a bulky pouch.

'How stands the fight with Kenyon and Co.?' he cried, as soon as the tobacco was glowing.

Earwaker briefly repeated what he had told Peak.

'Hold out! No surrender and no compromise! What's your opinion, Mr. Peak, on the abstract question? Is a popular paper likely, or not, to be damaged in its circulation by improvement of style and tone-within the limits of discretion?'

'I shouldn't be surprised if it were,'

Peak answered, drily.

'I'm afraid you're right. There's no use in blinking truths, however disagreeable. But, for Earwaker, that isn't the main issue. What he has to do is to assert himself. Every man's first duty is to assert himself. At all events, this is how I regard the matter. I am all for individualism, for the development of one's personality at whatever cost. No compromise on points of faith! Earwaker has his ideal of journalastic duty, and in a fight with fellows like Runcorn and Kenyon he must stand firm as a rock.'

'I can't see that he is called upon to fight at all,' said Peak. 'He's in a false position; let him get out of Earwaker to raise the tone of Radical journalism. Here's a big Sunday newspaper practically in his hands ; it seems to me that the /circumstances give him a grand opportunity of making his force felt. What are we all seeking but an op portunity for striking out with etfect?

Godwin listened with a sceptical smile, and made answer in slow, careless tones.

'Earwaker happens to be employed and paid by certain capitalists to increase the sale of their paper.' 'My dear sir !' cried the other, bouncing upon his seat. 'How 'can you take such a view?' A great newspaper surely cannot be regarded as a mere source of income. (To BE CONTINUED.)

There are but three gaps remaining in the Canadian Northern Railway track laying between Toronto and Trenton. One of these is at the crossing of the Grand Trunk tracks east of Brighton. Another a two mile stretch between Port Hope and Bowmanville and a short stretch between the old Harwood road and Division street. Recently 16 teams and 30 men arrived from the vicinity of Belleville to work on lining up the tracks and do the ballasting on the road.

The work here is progressing as rapidly as possible and in a short time the rails joining the east and west will be linked up. PROMINENT G. T. R. ENGINEER IS DEAD

Mr. J. Mulvihill Passes Away In Toronto. *

Local G. T. R. trainmen will learn with regret of the death of Mr. J. Mulvihill, the well known engineer on the Port Hope-Toronto train for years. The Toronto Globe gives the following account of his

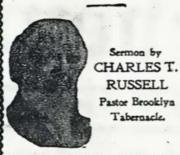

The death occurred yesterday at Mr. Thomas J. Mulvihill, for thirty Trunk Railway. He was born in Toronto fifty-one years ago, and lived there all his life. He entered well liked by his employers and popular with his associates.

Mr. Mulvihill was a strict Roman Catholic, a member of St. Peter's Church, Bloor and Markham sts. He belonged to a number of societies, including the Knights of Columbus and the Holy Name Society. He was afflicted a coupie of years ago with a leakage of the heart. He did not suffer much but lived a retired life, having been pensioned off a short time ago.

His wife, Catherine, survives him and also a son of sixteen, who is attending St. Michael's College, and a little daughter eight years old.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

London, April 16.-The London Tabernacle was crowded to hear Pastor Russell's Easter sermon on "The Resurrection Hope the Only One." His text was from I. Corinthians xv. 12-18:

"How say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? . . . If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain. . . Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." He said:

For years God's people have had excellent Bibles, and thus have been blessed far in advance of our brethren who lived during the Dark Ages. But we have read our Bibles too carelessly and often have most of us wondered at the great stress St. Paul laid upon ever thought of except as an absurdity. The reason for this is not far to seek. From childhood we have been seek. From childhood we have been taught that nobody is dead—that in dying everybody, good and bad, be-comes more alive than ever before; that this aliveness, to the saintly few, means spiritual powers and an immediate entrance into heaven, death being swallowed up in life. The unsaintly masses also, we are told, have quickened sensibilities after dyingthey became more alive, more able to appreciate and suffer pain.

Our Catholic neighbors tell us that the majority immediately go to Purgatory, there to be tried by various sufferings and tortures, and later, enter heaven. Our Protestant teachings have been to the effect that the unsaintly masses, unfit for the presence Mrs. Slight's birthday. The crowd of God and the holy, will be consigned came as a complete surprise and to an eternity of awful torture and made very much more alive to suffer-ing than before. Thus we have been some tangible way the esteem in taught to believe that death is a por-which Mrs. Slight was held. At tal or door into an intenser life—that the opportune time Mr. Fordyce nobody is dead. Many of us perplexed ourselves, and were perplexed by others, with questions respecting how there could be a "resurrection of the dead" if nobody is dead. We the dead" if nobody is dead. We avoided the question, or gave the answer, "Mystery; go run and play."

Some, indeed, attempted a patchwork of the matter and told us that those in heaven were happy, but not so happy as though they had bodies and the after thousand of warrant. and that after thousands of years of craving for a body (which they had

we will be better off without them; and we do not know why the Bible have fallen on the same day, and we do not know why the bible should teach a resurrection of the we take this opportunity of expressing to you the high regard and esteem in which you are held by us all. As a slight token of our good and the work of the work then, to intensify their pain, the body would be resurrected and they would have double suffering. What bosh! What foolishness! Is it any wonder that many of the bright minds of the world learned to doubt everything May God's richest blessing rest connected with religion and the Bible? Rather the wonder is that, all repudiate everything.

With the clearing of the mists of ignorance and superstition, with a better light reflected from one page to another of the Bible, the resurrection subject clarifies and the statements of Jesus and the Apostles and Prophets, which we thought so strange, become luminous and soul-satisfying. When once we see that "the wages of sin is death" and not eternal torment; and that the Bible hell is the tomb and not a fiery furnace; and that all mankind go to sheel, to hades, just as did our Saviour; then we begin to see that what we all need is to be saved from sheel, from hades, as was the Saviour. A resurrectionsalvation is thus the salvation hope of the Church and of the world.

What a relief this gives us as respects parents, children, neighbors, friends and the heathen, who have died out of Christ, unsaintly! What comfort it brings to know that they are sleeping in the great prison-house of death, unconscious of the lapse of time, waiting for the Redeemer, Who will as King set up His Kingdom in glory, associating His Bride with Himself for the blessing of all the families of the earth. The bringing forth of the prisoners out of the prison-house of death will be to set before them under the glorious pro-visions of the New Dispensation an 620 Bathurst street, Toronto, of obedience to the laws of the Kingdom under the assistance of the Heavenly years an engineer on the Grand One-the alternative being, not eter-Trunk Railway. He was born in nal torment, but death - Second Death.

Some one may say, "Pastor Russell, what about the soul? If the body goes the service of the Grand Trunk as a to sheel, hades, the tomb, where goes boy, and rose steadily. He was the soul?" I reply that it is the soul that goes to sheel, to hades, the tomb, the state of death. Although the words sheel and hades are translated grave more times than translated hell, nevertheless they refer, not to the mound of earth, which is in the nature of a monument, but to the secret, hidden condition, preferably tyled the tomb, the abyss.

The Prophet David wrote, "Thou lit not leave my soul in sheel (the and, the state of death), nor suffer in Holy One to see corruption" hm xvi, 10). St. Peter quoted on the day of Pentecost and exand that it is a prophecy in reas not delivered from sheel, and he id see corruption, and his sepulchre the Aposth could refer to. But he,

Why a Resurrection?

What If the Dead Should Not Rise, Would This Affect Christian Faith and Doctrines?

being a Prophet, spoke those words respecting Jesus, that His soul would not be left in sheel; that His soul would not see corruption. St. Peter says that this prophecy was fulfilled to our Lord—in that He was raised from the dead on the third day. He tells us that Jesus was put to death in the flesh, but quickened in spirita spirit Being far above angels and principalities and powers and every name that is named. Our Common Version Bible declares that our Lord's soul was saved from hell-hades (Acts ii, 27-31).

David, in the Old Testament, used the word sheel. St. Peter, in the New Testament, used the word hades. There is no dispute amongst scholars as to what is signified. The words sheol and hades are well known to refer, not to a place of suffering or torture or animation of any kind, but to the unconsciousness of the death state. Jesus arose from the dead, from hades, the grave, and not from a place of torment. The so-called Apostles' Creed declares that Jesus descended into hell, but arose from the dead on the third day. All scholars know that nothing in the words sheel and hades has any relationship to fire or pain or suffering or con-sciousness, and thus this phrase of the Apostles' Creed is universally ex-

As Jesus descended into hades, so do all mankind. As the Father raised Him from the dead on the third day, so it is promised that He will raise us, the Church, from the dead. More than this, the unjust also, those who have not been approved of God in the present life, shall all be awakened from the sleep of death. They will come forth informed respecting sin, having lived under the reign of Sin and Death. They will come forth that they may learn the ways of righteousness, the reward of which is life everlasting. The glorified Jesus and His glorified Church, the Bride, will be the Royal Priesthood, whose special work for a thousand years will be are uplifting of mankind, not only from the tomb, but also to perfection of life, "every man in his own order" or rank. The uplifting will bless as many as are willing, lifting them from the degradation and meanness and imperfection into which all have fallen by one man's disobedience, under the laws of heredity.

In the poetic language of the hymn, Christ Jesus "burst the bars of death" in His resurrection. It was not possible for Him to be holden of death, writes the Apostle (Acts ii, 24). The Divine verdict went forth that He had been faithful and that to Him should come the reward of life upon the highest plane - the divine nature (Ephesians i, 20, 21).

Our fancies may legitimately pic-ture that the holy angels marveled at the Redeemer's experiences from the time that He left the heavenly glory and was made flesh and dwelt amongst us until, by His resurrection change, He returned again from the earthly nature to the heavenly plane, "far above angels." As they sang at His nativity a rapturous song of glad tidings of great joy to all people, so they were filled with amazement, surely, at how the Father permitted Him to be tempted and tried and poured for Him His cup of suffering, which He drained to the dregs. They marveled when "He died, the Just for the unjust." They looked and for the unjust." They looked and wondered, as hour after hour He remained in the tomb—dead. Their loyalty to the Heavenly Father was tested during that period, but was rewarded when they beheld that Divine power raised Him up even to a more excellent glory than that which

He had before.

With what alacrity the angels must have acknowledged the risen One, in harmony with the Father's declara-tion, "Let all the angels of God worship Him." "Worthy is the Lamb to receive glory and honor, dominion, might and power." The point to be specially noticed is the change of nature which our Redeemer experienced in His resurrection. That change did not take place during the three days of Jesus' burial, but during the three and a half years of His ministry, which ended with His resurrection. When thirty years of age He gave Himself—He surrendered His earthly privileges and rights and hopes into the Father's hands, to be obedient to everything which Divine providence might permit. At that moment His sacrifice of His flesh was accepted. The evidence of its acceptance was the impartation of the Holy Spirit, which as a dove rested upon Him and exercised a quickening and il-luminating influence upon His mind, enabling Him to understand more than human things and to perform more than human acts.

It was Jesus, a New Creature, be-totten of the Spirit at Jordan, that id the mighty works of the Father. His flesh, His humanity, was gradu-ally laid down sacrificially, in harmony with the Divine providences. He drank "the cup" which the Father poured for Him.

This Easter Sunday celebrates the momentous event of our Lord's resur-rection from the dead. His resurrection is either a truth or a falsehood. In our text St. Paul assures us that if it is untrue, our faith, our hopes, our preaching and teachings are of no avail-useless. If the resurrection of the desd is impossible, then the resurrection of Jesus was impossible. If the resurrection of Jesus did not take place, then we have no proof, and no ground for disbelieving, that Divine power could resurrect the Church. If Divine Power "brought again from the dead the great Shep-herd of the sheep," it is Jehovah also

Jesus, in God's due time. Let none avoid the question! Let all decide at once! Either we believe in a resurrection from the dead, or we do not believe in it. If the resurrection be a myth then, says the Apostle, all those who fell asleep with faith in Christ are perished—they are not in heaven, Purgatory nor eternal torment. If we believe in the resur-rection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust, then, logically, / we must believe that they are dead, except in the Divine promise, purpose, arrangement. The decision of this resurrection question is a most momentuous one, as it affects practically every doctrine of the Christian Church. If we get straight the doctrine of the Ransom effected through the Redeemer, and the doctrine of the Resurrection of the dead, all of our doctrines will fall into line, and all of our absurdities, which have trou-bled us so long, will fall out of the way, and all of the Scriptures will be

who will bring us from the dead by Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first-fruits of them that slept" (verse 20). Ah, thank Ged. the Apostle did not mean to insinuate the possibility of our Lord's not having risen. Merely, he would put the question that we might see how weighty is the subject - how much depends on the answer. He exultantly answers, "Christ is risen!" We rejoice in this for several reasons. First, how sad it would be if He who laid aside His glory and was made flesh and tasted death on our behalf should have lost by His loyal endeavor to serve us and to do the Father's will! How glad we are that He is risen, and that He was not raised again in the flesh, with the loss of His heavenly glory, but raised as the King of all, far above all others, and partaker of the divine na-

found harmonious in teaching Divine

Secondly, we are glad on our own secount, and on account of all mankind; for if our Lord Jesus had not been raised from the dead it would have proven one of two things-either that He had not been faithful-up to the Divine standard, and therefore that His life could not be a satisfac-tion for the human life lost in Adam, or else it would have proved that God, who had promised to raise Him from the dead if He would be obedient un-to death, had been unable to do so; and, if unable to raise Him from the dead, we, likewise, would be without hope, even if our sins were cancelled virtue of His sacrifice.

The Apostle's words give a further suggestion: Our Lord in His resurrection became "the first-fruits of them that slept." This signifies that none was ever raised from the dead before Him. As another Scripture de-clares. "He was the first that should arise from the dead." There were indeed others awakened from the tomb, by Jesus Himself and also pre-vious to His Advent. But they were merely awakened, not lifted fully up out of death conditions to perfect life. The Redeemer was the first to have such an experience. But the Apostle's words mean more. H Jesus was the first-fruits of them that slept, there must of necessity be after-iruits. And this the Apostle proceeds to prove, declaring that "as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive" (I Corinthians xv. 22). Glorious resurrection hope! Pre-cious Bible! The one Book alone which teaches a resurrection of the dead, or that the dead are dead.

The Apostle proceeds to tell us that the dead will not all be resurrected together—at once—"but every man in his own order" (I. Corinthians xv. 23). The first order or rank will be the Church. Blessed and holy are all they that have part in the First Re-surrection; * * * they shall be priests of God and of Christ and shall reign with Him a thousand years (Revelation xx, 6).

This work of raising the dead will the work of the entire reign of Messiah, as explained in our context: Christ must reign until He shall have put all enemies under His feet-the last enemy will be death. As during the Mediatorial reign mankind shall rise up out of their ignorance, weakness, sin, depravity, they will be coming out of death conditions into life conditions; they will be in process of raising up—resurrection.

This does not prove, however, that all of Adam's race will receive the gift of God, eternal life, but it does prove that all will be blessed with the opportunity of attaining that glorious reward. Whoever, after hav-ing the release from death put within his grasp, shall decline eternal life on the Divine terms will die again, but not because of Adam's sin—it will not be the Adamic death. That Second Death will be complete destruction. Those sinners will die the Second Death without hope of further redemption or resurrection.

After Deliberating For Four and a Half Hours, Jury Refuses to Convict on Capital Charge and Also Declines to Find Matthews Guilty of Manslaughter-Judge Clute's Summary.

Cobourg, April 17 .- At 11.15 Saturday night the jury in the Matthews' murder case, which had been out since 6.45 p.m. returned and announced their verdict. It was "not guilty."

The finding came as somewhat of a the finding came as somewhat of a surprise to many here, especially after the charge delivered by Judge Clute, in which he dwelt on the points in the evidence which seemed to tell against the prisoner, and took particular care to instruct the jury that it was within their corporators. that it was within their competence to bring in a verdict of manslaughter, if they thought the evidence did not warrant one of guilty of murder. the press, and then looked straight at the foreman of the jury.

"Gentleman of the jury, have you agreed on a verdict?" asked the clerk of the court.

"We have," answered the foreman.
"And it is?" "Not guilty" was the answer. The throngs in the rear of the court

At 2.30 p.m. E. Gus Porter began his address to the jury. He spoke for one hour and forty minutes, making a strong plea for a verdict in favor of the prisoner Matthews, claiming that there was not evidence enough to convict.

Peter White, crown prosecutor, gave a masterly address, dealing with points and facts in the crown's evidence in a practical way.

Ex-Reeve Henry Hicks, who Friday night swore that he had seen and bowed to Miss Brimacombe in the ho-tel about 9.15 p.m.—the crown theory is that she met death an hour earlier -was the first witness Saturday morning. Crown Counsel White had diffi-culty in getting satisfactory replies. Witness denied that he was known as Old Hicks, or that he was shortsighted. He wore glasses because he couldn't see without them, but carried his cane because of rheumatism. He had been at the inquest for 10 minutes, but said he had not heard batthews was under suspicion, nor did he hear of his arrest until the next day. He had not been told any of the evidence.

"Was not this one of the topics of conversation in Colborne?" asked Mr.

attention called to the presence of Reeves in the room, and all crown witnesses were excluded.
"Mr. Hicks," asked Mr. White,
"did you tell Reeves that you had not been subpoensed for this trial, but that you were paid $5 and were going to come?"

Witness, after some hedging, admitted the conversation with Reeves. "And yet you told us you had not discussed the case," said counsel, to which he replied, "I don't know what you mean by discussed."

"Certainly not," said Hicks when Mr. White said that, according to his story, Miss Brimacombe was not dead at 8 p.m. He said she was folding linen or washing dishes when he saw her at 9.15.

Captain Sears of Steamer Iroquois Held For Trial.

Several Persons at Inquest Into Pacifiz Coast Disaster Say the Captain of the III-Fated Steamer Did Not Try to Save People Who Were Struggling In the Water-Could Have Righted Boat.

Victoria, April 17 .- Captain A. A. Sears, master of the steamer Iroquois, which foundered a week ago when 21 lives were lost, was arrested Saturday night on the instructions of Attorney-General Bowser, and released on $30,000 bail. The case will be heard in the Police Court next Thurs-

At the Government enquiry, conducted by Captain Eddie Saturday night, several witnesses denied the statements of Captain Sears. John Bennett declared that Sears made no attempt whatever to rescue passengers in the water. Harry Moss, passenger, said Purser Monro was apprehensive of the danger on leaving Sid-ney wharf. "She's going, I know she's going. I thought Captain Sears had more sense," Monro is alleged to have said.

Monro, who was drowned, was part owner, besides being purser. Though much in each other's company Monro and Sears had not exchanged a word for years.

Mr. Moss told at the preliminary inquest held by Capt. Charles Eddie, Saturday morning, how the women passengers on the ship were closed like rats in a trap in the cabin of the boat when she keeled over, and how he still hears their shrieks and screams as they were thrown about the cabin when the heavy list to star-board occurred. Moss took to the water to avoid the suction of the sinking ship, and later reached the deckhouse after it had floated clear of the hull. He attributes the wreck to the loading the vessel and told Saturday to Capt. Eddie that had the deckload of hay been thrown over the ship would have righted. The hay acted as a sail and the wind beat straight down on it.
