SPLENDID APPOINTMENT

For Mr. Upton Runnalls, a Former Port Hoper.

From the Victoria Daily Colonist we learn that one of Durham's sons, Mr. W. Upton Runnalls, son of Mr. John Runnalls, of this town, has received a good appointment by the British Columbia Government, having been promoted from the Auditor General's Department to be Inspector of Trust Companies, an office created by the legislation of the past session.

The Colonist says:—This appointment marks adherence to the business-like and commendable policy of recognizing proven capability and loyalty in the service when opportunity arises for promotion to the highest offices in the gift of the Government.

The appointment was entirely unsought and unsolicited, and the selection must be taken by Mr. Runnalls and his many friends as significant proof eloquent of the high estimation placed upon the value of his services by an observant government. It was, in fact, entirely due to the markedly successful and thorough manner in which he has performed his duties as an expert in the Treasury Department since joining the Provincial service, that the organization and administration of the new Department was recently offered to him and accepted.

Mr. Runnalls is a native of Port Hope, Ontario, and was educated in Port Hope High Schools and Victoria and Toronto Universities. He came from the East about fourteen years ago, and acted for a time as an expert accountant in this city. His identification with the Provincial Civil Service dates back about eight years, his first connection being with the office of the Provincial Secretary. Latterly he has been rendering especially valuable service in connection with interstate estates branch, which in consequence of his proven particular aptitude, he will continue to administer.

SPORTING SKITS

BASEBALL

A meeting to organize a team for the Midland League will be held at the Hotel St. Lawrence this evening at 8 o'clock. All interested are urgently requested to attend.

On the afternoon of July 19th of last year, in the second inning of a baseball game between the nines representing Cleveland and Boston, played on the grounds of the former team, Wagner, the first batter for the visiting team, reached first base on an error. Stahi, the second batsman bunted safely, advancing Wagner to second base. The next player "up" was McConnell. With two strikes and three balls listed against him and with the twenty thousand spectators tingling with excitement the Boston captain gave the "hit and run" signal. The next ball pitched was met by McConnell's bat with great force and was driven over second base in a manner that boded ill for the home team. Neal Ball, of the latter nine, was playing second. The moment the leather sphere left McConnell's bat the former jumped back of the base, leaped into the air, caught the drive with one hand, regained his feet and touched second base, stepped quickly to one side and touched Stahi with the ball, and thus made the most thrilling and spectacular unassisted triple play chronicled in the annals of baseball. Ball's feat was the second of its kind ever recorded in the history of the major leagues, the first having

"AMBITION"

Mr. Abram Shaw, Kingston, Inspector of Customs, spoke at the regular meeting of the Men's Association of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening. His address was listened to with close attention and elicited heartiest approval of young and o.d. He said that nothing was quite so attractive to him as mingling with men. His subject was ambition. This was a word that was associated sometimes with unworthy sentiments. Brutus slew Caesar because he was ambitious, as though ambition and honor could not be found together. But no man was worth the name who was not ambitious. Paul was right when he said that he had learned in all things therewith to be content. But there was also a very sense in which a man ought ever to be discontented with present conditions. It makes for purposes of advancement. When God created man He made him to have dominion. It is the part of a man to come to his own. This God-given impulse we call ambition.

Man's duty then was to take his rightful place in God's creation. But in order to do this man must realize himself in his threefold nature, in his physical, mental and moral or physical possibilities.

Physically a man needed to be strong and fit. Other things being equal, it gave a man a great advantage. Games and sports were a delight to him (the speaker) and when he ceased a business life he took up violent exercises. He joined the church at 30 years of age. Shortly after this a good brother came to him and with great solicitude for his welfare, advised him that he would find that he would either give up his church or his sports. He told his well-meaning friend that while he valued his church, still if he could not be true to the church and good honest sport at the same time, why the church would have to go. This good brother came soon to see and acknowledge his mistake. After all if a fellow wanted the very best all round exercise the very best he knew of was a wood pile and saw horse. But on the field of sport every man ought to stand out for clean, manly, conduct in word and deed.

But of greater value in reaching place and power and dominion was the training of the mental powers. That was true everywhere and no where was this more apparent than on the field of sport. When a man stands face to face with his man looking him fair in the eye, whether he wins or not depends not so much on his muscle as upon his alertness of mind in having his wits keen and ready to detect, to plan, to get in team work. Head-work counts everywhere. The man with trained mind comes out ahead. The train in which he was traveling on one occasion was carrying a professional hockey team from Winnipeg down to meet the team from McGill College, at Montreal. In passing the speaker paid his respects to professional sport. Professional hockey tends to turn out a class of loafers. A young man flits around for a few years at hockey and then what was he? He can't class up for the game and he's unfitted for any steady work. On this particular occasion the Winnipeggers were conspicuous for nothing as much as their boasting. But when he looked up the report of the game in the next day's papers he was not surprised to find that the brawny boasters of the West went down before the Collegians.

Then as the crown of all the forces stands out the moral or spiritual. Some preferred to call it one thing, some another. But as for himself he claimed ascendancy for the spiritual man. A man's life is not bounded and summed up wholly by his physical and mental forces. There is a spirit in man. His vision must range beyond the horizon of time. He is a candidate for eternity. He only is truly fitted to take his rightful place who has come to put himself under the control of the Great Spirit ' Then his ambitions will be worthy and his marshalled powers will be on the side of every right cause.

Lives of great men all remind us We can make our lives sublime, And, departing, leave behind us Footprints on the sands of time—

Footprints that perhaps another Sailing o'er life's solemn main A forlorn and shipwrecked brother Seeing may take heart again.

Let us then be up and doing With a heart for any fate ; Still achieving, still pursuing, Learn to labor and to wait.

The spiritual man saw and realized that his life was not to be lived out just for himself, but to do all the good he could to others.

Down in Wannamaker's great departmental stores he stood one day with his son at his side. They were viewing the vast and deservedly famous symbolic painting representing the world conquerors.

At a fine quotation from Kipling put a fitting climax to this racy and virile address.

Godwin uttered a short laugh. 'That is only saying she might have been ruinous, but in the course of circumstances has proved helpful. I envy your power of deriving comfort from such reflections.'

'Well, we view things differently. I have the habit of looking to the consolatory facts of life, you to the depressing. There's an unfortunate lack in you, Peak; you seem insensible to female influence, and I believe that is closely connected with your desperate pessimism.'

Godwin laughed again, this time with mocking length of note. 'Come now, isn't it true?' urged the other. 'Sincerely, do you care for women at all?'

'Perhaps not.'

'A grave misfortune, depend upon it! It accounts for nearly everything that is unsatisfactory in your life. If you had ever been sincerely devoted to a woman, be assured your powers would have developed in a way of which you have no conception. It's no answer to tell me that I am still a mere trifler, never likely to do anything of account; I haven't it in me to be anything better, and I might easily have become much worse. But you might have made yourself a great position—I mean, you might do so; you are still very young. If only you knew the desire of a woman's help.'

'You really think so?' said Godwin, with grave irony. 'I am sure of it! There's no harm in repeating what you have often told me—your egotism oppresses you. A woman's influence takes one out of oneself. No man can be a better authority on this than I. For more than eleven years I have worshipped one woman with absolute faithfulness—'

'Absolute?' interrupted Godwin, bluntly. 'What exception occurs to you?'

'As you challenge inquiry, forgive me for asking what your interest was in one of your cousins at Twybridge?'

Christian started, and averted his face with a look of embarrassment. 'Do you mean to say that you knew anything about that?'

'I was always an observer,' Peak replied, smiling. 'You don't remember, perhaps, that I happened to be present when a letter had just arrived for you at your uncle's house—a letter which evidently disturbed you?'

own, that has saved me. I daresay you know this? 'There's some truth in it, I believe,' Peak answered, his eye wandering.

'See how circumstances can affect one's judgment. If, just about the time I first knew you, I had abandoned myself to a life of settish despair, of course I should have charged Constance with the blame of it. Now that I have struggled on, I can see that she has been a blessing to me instead of a curse. If Marcella has given me strength, I have to thank Constance for the spiritual joy which otherwise I should never have known.'

'Well, we view things differently. I have the habit of looking to the consolatory facts of life, you to the depressing. There's an unfortunate lack in you, Peak; you seem insensible to female influence, and I believe that is closely connected with your desperate pessimism.'

THE MAN ON THE BOX.

It is an old but true saying that all the world loves a lover, and a dramatic offering with a strong romantic love story is always a source of splendid entertainment to those who visit the theater. Such a play is "The Man on the Box," the comedy in which Mr. John Mehan is starring, and which will be presented at the Grand on Thursday evening, April 27.

The scenes of the play are located in Washington. The hero is a young lieutenant lately resigned from the United States Army, a dare devil kind of a fellow and a practical joker. In a spirit of fun he assumes the position of a coachman, hence the title of the play, "The Man on the Box."

The occupant of the vehicle is in truth the young man's sweetheart, but she is unaware of the identity of the coachman. Then he assists her from the carriage and kisses her several times, which of course is very rude in a coachman, but that's the starting point of the fun. This provides the ground work of the humorous jomance, and judging from what has been said of the comedy it is one of the most entertaining as well as amusing plays that has been offered to the public for several years. Probably more than 8,000,000 people have read Mr. McGrath's novel and should be familiar with the text of the play, as the dramatist is said to have adhered closely to the original plot. Seats on sale at G. V. Strongs'.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Moffat was the scene of a very pleasant event on the 29th day of March it being the fortieth anniversary of their wedding day. Mr. and Mrs. Moffat were taken wholly by surprise, when all their family, James and wife, of Port Hope; Andrew of Oshawa; John and wife, Enterprise; Mrs. Arthur Allen, their daughter and husband, Orono; George, Alexander, William, and Mrs. G. Greenwood, daughter at home, gathered together in the afternoon and presented their father and mother with two beautiful upholstered rocking chairs. Mr. and Mrs. Moffat were delighted to take tea with all their children, there being not one break in their family. After tea their neighbors and friends all gathered in and spent a most enjoyable evening in dancing, games and other amusements until the small hours of the morning, everyone present voting it one of the pleasantest evenings spent of the winter and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Moffat many more years of wedded bliss and happiness.

Traveler Gets Six Months. North Bay, April 21.—J. P. Mitchell, charged with the theft of twenty-five suits of clothes, and a trunk belonging to the New York Tailors, Limited, Toronto, was sentenced yesterday by Magistrate Weegar to six months in the Central Prison.

Mitchell took an order for custom clothing, and was given twenty-five suits of stock clothes to dispose of at not less than ten dollars a suit. The Evening Guide

PORT HOPE, APRIL 21, 1911

A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

'Well,' remarked Godwin, abruptly, 'it's probable the man will die one of these days, then your trials will have a happy end. I see no harm in hoping that his life may be short—that's a conventional feeling. If two people can be benefited by the death of a single person, why shouldn't we be glad in the prospect of his dying? Not of his suffering—that's quite another thing. But die he must; and to curtail the life of a being who at length wholly ceases to exist is no injury. You can't injure a nonentity. Do you think I should take it ill if I knew that some persons were wishing my death? Why, look, if ever I crush a little green fly that crawls upon me in the fields, at once I am filled with envy of its fate—sincerest envy. To have passed so suddenly from being into nothingness—how blessed an extinction! To feel in that way, instinctively, in the very depths of your soul, is to be a true pessimist. If I had ever doubted my sincerity in pessimism, this experience, several times repeated, would have reassured me.'

Christian covered his face, and brooded for a long time, whilst Godwin sat with his eyes on vacancy.

'Come and see us to-morrow,' said the former, at length. 'Perhaps.'

'Why do you keep away?'

'I'm in no mood for society.'

DON'T BE BALD

Nearly Anyone May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

I have a remedy that has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of every 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and I mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put my claims to an actual test.

I am so certain Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will cure dandruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that I personally give my positive guarantee to refund every penny paid me for it in every instance where it does not give entire satisfaction to the user. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is delightfully perfumed, and does not grease or gum the hair. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. With my guarantee back of it, you certainly take no risk. Sold only at my store—The Rexall Store. H. W. Mitchell, Phm. B.

Canadian Government Keenly Interested in Conference.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Replies In Commons to Hon. George E. Foster's Declaration That Cabinet Is Idle Regarding Imperial Meeting—No Suggestions Necessary Because of Unfinished Business

Ottawa, April 21.—Hon. George E. Foster interrupted the reciprocity debate in the House of Commons yesterday by a two-hour's discussion on the approaching conference in London.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier made it clear that the Government was not indifferent with regard to the approaching conference, and that there were many questions which had not yet been disposed of, and therefore it was inadvisable to introduce new subjects.

The reciprocity debate was resumed in the evening, when Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) spoke for three hours in opposition to the trade proposals.

Hon. Mr. Foster began an hour and a half with a review of the work which has been accomplished by the Imperial Conferences and the secretary of that body, more particularly with reference to the developments of the past eighteen months.

Mr. Foster then proceeded to criticize the Government for not having suggested any topics of discussion at the next conference. The other overseas dominions were full of suggestions, because they were full of the spirit of the Imperial Conference.

Sir Wilfrid, in his reply, dealt with the criticism that Canada had not offered any suggestions as to the Imperial Conference. The decision of the Government, in this regard, he said, was not due to indifference, but rather to the belief that there were enough matters left open by the last conference to engage the attention of the next one.

There was the subject of defence, which had not been exhausted. Then there was the trade question, which would probably be discussed at several conferences yet before all are agreed on it. In 1902 the resolution adopted set forth that free trade within the Empire would be impossible.

The Premier laid particular stress on the necessity for a discussion of the question of the uniform naturalization laws. At the present time people from other countries naturalized in Canada are British subjects only while they remain in this country.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE.

Deline May Be Freed If He Shows Signs of Improvement.

Peterboro, April 21.—On court being resumed yesterday morning, counsel for Hugh Deline, charged with the murder of his wife, with the consent of the crown, withdrew the plea of not guilty to murder, and entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter.

Justice Teetzel sentenced Deline to imprisonment at Kingston for the rest of his natural life, but intimated that the prisoner might be released at some time, if examination by doctors showed him fit to be freed.

Justice Teetzel said Deline had been guilty of atrocious treatment of his wife. It was the worst crime that ever came before a court of justice.

Dr. Kindred of Havelock was of the opinion that death was due to shock as a result of a struggle. Dr. Ford of Norwood also said death was caused by shock.

During the seven hours of debate twenty-four men spoke on the reciprocity measure. Two-thirds of them pleads for its defeat, in speeches of from one minute to a half hour in length; and in this number were two Democrats from North Carolina and Republicans from any of the northern states.

The freedom of the debate against the bill brought forth from Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, leader of the opposition the acknowledgement that Democratic Leader Underwood had been "exceedingly fair and generous" to those opposed to the bill.

PIRIST REBUKED.

He Smiled at Idea of Prayers In a Masonic Lodge.

Montreal, April 21.—M. L. A. Caron, chartered accountant, who is the plaintiff in a libel suit against Joseph Begin, proprietor of La Croix, alleged to be a pro-religious weekly organ, now being tried before Mr. Justice Delorme, asked that Rev. Garand be ordered to preserve dignity and decorum of the court, and to forbid the priest from smiling at plaintiff's testimony about Masonic ritual.

The judge stated that Mr. Caron could go on, with the assurance that he would not be embarrassed or interfered with while giving his evidence.

The plaintiff claims that La Croix published a story denouncing Masons, and stated that they worshipped hell. In the story he mentioned Mr. Caron, it is alleged by the plaintiff, as a Mason. He contends that the use of his name under those circumstances is not privileged for the purposes of newspaper publication.

It was during the recital of Mr. Caron's testimony relative to the fact that prayers were offered by a priest before initiation in his lodge, which was of the Scottish Rite connection, that the priest smiled. Mr. Caron claims $199 damages.

TEACHERS LOSE TEMPER.—A Toronto Magistrate dismissed a school principal in court on a charge of aggravated assault, for having punished a seven year old boy severely. The boy had refused to take a strapping on the hands, and was beaten about the shoulders, until he was black and blue, and the skin broken. It is necessary to maintain discipline and order in schools, but it is easy for teachers to lose control of their tempers and punish most unjustly. Incorrigible pupils are the bane of a teacher's life, but it would seem to be a good policy to send such children home, rather than seek by corporal punishment to break their stubbornness.
