

ARMISTICE ORDER RECEIVED BY CANADIANS PRODUCED IN COURT

Case For Defence is Completed in Currie Libel Action at Cobourg—Colonel Magee Reveals Word of End of Fighting Came to Headquarters at 6.30 November 11th.

To the man who first received the armistice message at the Canadian Corps headquarters Monday fell the distinction of being the first witness for the plaintiff in rebuttal in Sir Arthur Currie's $50,000 libel suit at Cobourg. He was Col. A. A. Magee, a Montreal lawyer, who was General Staff Officer at Corps headquarters at the time the armistice was signed. From his pocket he produced the stained and creased sheet of paper on which he had written down the message which came over the telephone to him from the headquarters of the first British army at 6.30 on the morning of November 11, 1918. He produced it with the request that it be not taken from him for it is his most prized souvenir of the Great War.

Changes made in the message drew suspicious questions from F. Regan, chief counsel, who has tried to prove that the Canadian Corps received word of the armistice at 6.05 in the morning. Humorous references to the suspicions from W. N. Tilley, K.C., chief counsel for Sir Arthur drew the ire of Mr. Regan, who protested vigorously but to lit-

Wedding Bells

A pretty wedding took place in St. Charles Church, Pittsfield, Mass., on Tuesday, April 22nd, 1908, when Mr. Harry Sherry, formerly of Port Hope was united in marriage to Miss Rose Mary O'Hara of Niagara Falls, Ont. The bride was dressed in a suit of seal brown cloth with cream blouse and hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Sherry, wore a suit of navy blue cloth with tan trimmings and a hat to match. They will take up their home in Pittsfield, Mass.

the suggestion—" began the judge again. "It was only a joke," repeated Mr. Regan. The judge quietly ordered the adjournment of the court and the tension relaxed. From Colonel Archer Duguid, head of the historical sections of the Records Department, came the statement during the afternoon that there was no co-ordinated attack on Mons. He declared that an encircling movement of the city to attain the high ground, which was the objective of the Canadians, was more dangerous than a march through the city, as the land on either side contained the best tactical positions for defence by the Germans.

He could place the time no more accurately than some time before noon. Mr. Preston, he said, was in the office with him when he read the cable. The plaintiff's counsel pressed the witness closely as to the time it took to write and print the story. Mr. Wilson said Mr. Preston went home and wrote the article. He declared it would have been in time for publication in his paper any time up to four p.m. that day. He could not remember what time the article reached him, but he and Mr. Preston revised it after it was delivered.

"These officers represent the Minister, particularly Col. Orde and I will not compel them to put anything in to which they object." Mr. Regan then began questioning on the four men of the 42nd Battalion killed while attacking the machine gun post. "Where these men killed in the attack on Mons?" he asked. "They were killed in the vicinity of Mons," was the reply. Question and answer were out before Mr. Tilley had a chance to lodge an objection. In view of this, he withdrew his protest, and Mr. Regan repeated the question. "What attack on Mons?" was the answer this time. "Was there an attack?" asked Mr. Regan. "There was no general attack," replied the Colonel. "There was no co-ordination."

T.C.S. OLD BOYS PLAN CAMPAIGN

Contributions Towards Building Fund Reach Total of $75,000

While no definite plans have been outlined for the reconstruction of the buildings at Trinity College School, Port Hope, which were destroyed by fire on March 3rd, a stars was made Monday evening at an optimistic meeting open to all old boys of T. C. S., which was held in Toronto. The destruction of the Senior School may yet prove a blessing in disguise, Dr. Jack Maynard thought, after hearing Rev. Dr. Orchard, the headmaster describe the wonderful spirit exhibited by the masters, boys and domestic staff following the fire.

An opening contribution of $25,000 had been made by an old boy, and other contributions of $20,000 and slightly lesser amounts had either been given or promised, R. C. H. Cassels, K. C. announced. While giving his report as treasurer of the building fund, he said that $75,000 has already been received towards the objective of $500,000, needed for the reconstruction. The newly appointed members of the building committee adjourned to discuss their plans and another meeting will be held on Friday night. The spirit of the school was well demonstrated by the fact that the 60 old boys who came to the meeting represented every generation of graduates. The rapidity with which plans for continuing the school were carried out was told by the headmaster. The fire broke out at 2.30 Saturday, March 3. By 6 o'clock the same day the boys were housed in Port Hope or on trains on the way home. On Wednesday, March 6, the offer of McMaster University to accommodate the senior school at Woodstock had been accepted. On March 23 the whole senior school re-assembled, complete with staff and the addition of two new boys. The junior school started work the same day in Port Hope, with the addition of one new boy. In view of this splendid spirit shown by the school, The Head hoped that they would have new buildings worthy of their tradition. President P. E. Henderson, Chairman, outlined the action taken to date by the governing body of the school, through the medium of the specially appointed Building Committee. He mentioned the splendid co-operation afforded the committee by the town of Port Hope, who, he said, had more than met them half way, particularly in the matter of water supply and drainage system.

THE GUIDE STORY

Firefly disliked him, and he was failed to detect them and approved not much more kindly disposed to of what he styled her dignity. She ward her. Olwen, however, suited showed him as plainly as any girl him admirably. He disliked smart, could that she preferred his room merry, talkative people. He was to his company; he merely thought silent and undemonstrative, and, being egotistical, preferred his friends to be of his own stamp.

Olwen, it was true, snubbed him, but he ignored the snubs, or rather but he ignored the snubs, or rather but he ignored the snubs, or rather her overwhelmed by his condescension and he grew more affable and more particular in his attentions. When egotism is thoroughly well developed, and is assisted by complete self-satisfaction, it forms a crust difficult to pierce, and Olwen had neither the patience nor the skill to make the attempt.

Firefly was more successful; but after one or two verbal contests in which even Lesley had to own himself worsted, he labelled her a noisy commonplace, sharp-tongued girl who had better be avoided.

Squire Pett, too, was becoming a frequent visitor to the Manor, nominally to study Firefly in the interests of his favorite son, in reality because he had taken an uncommon fancy to the girl who periodically shocked and delighted him.

Where Hal had failed the squire succeeded. When he proposed not only to choose two steady riding horses for Olwen and Firefly but to act as their instructor, Olwen gladly accepted. Thus far she had got on very well with the old man, who had no objection to her abrupt ways and lengthy silences, as long as he was allowed to talk, and it was not long after the lunch at Greylands that the squire took each of his new friends out singly for a riding lesson to the mingled nervousness and pride of his pupils. Hal, discovering that he was to have no part in these daily rides, became sullen. He failed to see why, when his parent was teaching the heiress, he should not follow with Firefly.

But the squire was resolute. He quickly realized that of the two girls Firefly would prove the apter pupil and do him the most credit, besides being the pleasantest companion and he told Hal with a chuckle that "he might go about his own business and continue to train horses, while he himself trained the riders."

As things fell out these riding lessons developed a series of misunderstandings. During the first lesson, Doctor Forrester happened to meet the squire and Olwen. The girl was attired in a well made habit, and had a bright rosy face, and eyes that looked friendly into his, as if seeking for approval.

John reined in his cob and stared as though doubtful of the evidence of his eyes, no hint of the proposed lessons having reached his ears.

"I thought you would be surprised, Doctor Forrester, this is only my first ride," Olwen said, laughing. "I hope you enjoy it," said the doctor a vague rumor that he had not hitherto paid any attention to recurring to his memory with disturbing vividness. He passed on leaving Olwen to continue her ride with some of the pleasure diminished.

"Queer chap, Forrester," remarked the squire. "Clever man, but lets his tongue run away with him. I hear people in the village are a bit up in arms over this water question. Don't want their rates raised for a fancy, and I can't blame them. 'Let sleeping dogs lie' is my creed. Why what has served us for the past twenty years can't go on for another twenty is a mystery. Now, sit firm; don't clutch your pommel, rise with the horse, and look between his ears."

Olwen had a multitude of things to say in the doctor's defense, but the violent bumping she underwent during the following five minutes' trot shook all consecutive thought out of her and when they slowed down again to a walk she meekly sat and panted while the squire growled:

"Tut, tut! I said stick firm to your saddle and rise with your horse! You banged about like a sack of potatoes and gripped that pommel for dear life! Now we'll try again and don't forget, young lady, to rise with your horse, or you will be pitched off."

CHAPTER XIV

Breaking the Ice

Hal found it difficult to decide whether it was more profitable to inveigle the Manor people to skate on the Greylands pond or to skate on their own far smaller one. True the Greylands pond was not only larger, but it wound in and out of wooded banks in most convenient curves; yet up on the pond the world at large was always so widely represented that the curves lost somewhat of their utility.

CONTROL WEEDS DURING SEEDING

Farmers Should See That Seed is Clean — Can Increase Yields and Improve Crop Quality

Some of the most effective work against weeds can be done at seeding time, or rather, just before seeding time by making a close inspection of the grain that is to go into the ground. Surveys made by the Dominion seed branch revealed the fact that farmers were, in many cases, unwittingly putting thousands of seeds of noxious weeds into the ground to make trouble later. Nothing can be said in extenuation of weeds. They are to agriculture what criminals are to society—an extra burden to be carried. They decrease yields and lower the feeding values of forage and feeds. They increase freight rates because a hundred pounds of weed seeds take the same rate as good grain. Then when these seeds have had their little excursion to market at the farmer's expense, they pit him again for expenses to see the town, because his grain is "docked" on account of the presence of the weed seeds. Other weeds are poisonous to live stock.

Allowed to stand in the fall and become dry, they increase the fire hazard. All the foregoing is common every day knowledge, but it is not the whole story. These weeds eat up fertility and use as much, and in many cases, more water than the commercial crop that is being raised.

Looking After M.O.H. Work

The following communication was received from Dr. W. F. Beamish, local physician:

At the request of Dr. G. A. Dickinson, late medical Officer of Health of Port Hope, I have been doing the routine work of this office.

At this time there is a considerable outbreak of contagious disease and a new M.O.H. should be appointed at once as I have no authority to exert the necessary action to stamp this out. While it may seem to be unseemly to bring this matter to your attention so soon after the death of Dr. Dickinson, the above is my reason for doing so.

I would respectfully make application for the position but if some one is appointed, he will have my full cooperation.

Councillor H. W. Mitchell gave notice that he would introduce a bylaw to appoint a M.O.H. for Port Hope.

Walton and Ontario Streets board by S. Frisbee, Cumberland Street, who complained that gravel had blocked the water course near his property and his land was flooded by a half foot of water.

Asked Permission

E. Barber wrote the council as follows:

I ask permission to open the road across Mill Street and put in a drain to carry off the water collected on the property I purchased from the late T. Burt Estate. I understand there was formerly a drain in the northwest corner of this lot but road repairs and building of the cement sidewalk filled it in. Some of this water is from King Street where the outlet to the beach is 6 inches above street level and the surface water makes the turn on Madison Street where there is no drainage whatever south of the life saving station on Mill Street.

To Purchase Equipment

A report from the Fire and Light Committee and was adopted by the Council favoring the purchase of hose, coats, etc., for the Port Hope Fire Brigade.

Money for Uniforms

It was moved by Councillor Elliott, seconded by Reeve Giddy that a grant of $50.00 be given Chief of Police Thomas Murphy for the purchase of a new uniform.

Sever Rebate

The Street and Bridge Committee recommend the rebate payment of $25 to Fred Irwin, Hope Street.

Reeve Giddy—"The reason for this refund is that Mr. Irwin has to pay frontage for a sewer on Hope Street which was laid after Mr. Irwin's property had been connected to Ward Street."

Increase Granted

Councillor Elliott told the council that Mr. Thompson, assistant caretaker of the Town Hall, was receiving a salary of only $50 per month and in view of the fact that he had a large family to support, thought an increase would be in order. Accordingly a resolution, sponsored by Councillor Elliott, and seconded by Reeve Giddy was passed favoring an increase of $10.00 per month.

FOREST WEEK OBSERVANCE

The people of Canada can hardly realize how fast fire and axe have eaten into Canada's forest resources during the present generation. Forestry experts state that of what was a primeval forest no farther back than 1810, practically untouched by the axe, little more than one-quarter now remains. Forest week is being observed this week.

In Eastern Canada comparatively little timber of really prime sawmill quality is left and it is stated that 70 per cent of such timber in Canada now stands in British Columbia. In this province also the work of devastation and waste is going on at a much faster ratio than the annual growth.

A great area of forest land still remains to the north of the populated parts of most of the provinces, but this forest consists largely of spruce and other woods required for the great pulp and paper industry. This forest of recent years has come to feel full force of the United States demand for newsprint paper. It provides a very big factor in our list of profitable exports, but foresters point out we are cutting and burning at a rate that will exhaust our accessible timber supplies in twenty-five years.

These experts say that with proper regulation as to cutting, reforestation and protection from fire, it is possible for Canada to have her forest industries in perpetuity. Fire has always taken greater toll than the axe. Fire prevention, the forestry men say, is the only salvation.

Forest fire fighting methods are being improved. The aeroplane has been called in to requisition to locate fires at their first outbreak and thus prevent fires spreading beyond control. But experience has proved to Canada's cost that fire fighting is not nearly as simple as fire prevention. Every single individual whose business or pleasures takes him or her into the woods, must, while there, be impressed with one idea above all others and that it is to prevent forest fires.

To that end the Hon. Charles Stewart originated an annual Canadian Forest Week in order to provide educational emphasis at the beginning of the dangerous dry season.—Belleville Ontario.

BRITISH ENERGY SURPRISES FORD

Industrial Plant Gives Magnate New Ideas—Believes English Know How To Work, Too

Henry Ford now knows how some of his foreign competitors work. He admitted they are doing much better than Americans think.

He paid an unexpected visit to the plants of Morris Motors, Limited, at Cowley, Oxford, his big British rival.

Ford was surprised at the size of the plant and the number of automobiles manufactured per hour. "You are further ahead here than most Americans think" Ford said, adding he would be sorry to see any lessening of British competition. "The British," he said, "work equally as hard as Americans."

APRIL 30
the last day for Income Tax Returns

The law states that penalties must be imposed after that date

THE Department of National Revenue urges all Dominion Income Tax-payers to file returns without delay. The official forms may be obtained at any Post Office or by writing the Inspector of Income Tax for your district. Two copies, properly filled in, together with an accepted cheque or express or money order for the full amount of the tax, or the first installment as you desire, must be mailed to the Inspector of Income Tax, for your district, not later than April 30. Cheques must be made payable to The Receiver General of Canada. Even though you may believe you are not liable to tax, you are advised to file a return before April 30 if your income in 1927 was more than $1,500. For your convenience a few of the outstanding provisions of The Income Tax Law are explained in this advertisement.

Three Kinds of Forms
There are three kinds of Dominion Income Tax Forms, one of which will apply to any tax payer. The different forms are:
Form T 1—For all individuals, other than farmers or ranchers.
Form T 1A—For farmers and ranchers.
Form T 2—For corporations and joint stock companies.
If you so desire, the Inspector of Income Tax for your district will send you upon written request a revised copy of The Income Tax Act, Consolidated, Chapter 97 (R.S.C. 1927).

dependent upon him any of the following persons:
1. A parent or grand-parent.
2. A daughter or sister.
3. A son or brother under 21 years of age; or incapable of self-support on account of mental or physical infirmity—except where the husband and wife each have a separate income in excess of $1,500, then each shall receive not $3,000 exemption, but $1,500 exemption.
(c) $500 for each child under 21 years of age who is dependent upon the tax payer for support, or if 21 years of age or over is incapable of self-support on account of mental or physical infirmity.

Income from All Sources Must be Declared
The public is especially reminded to report all income from bearer bonds—whether Dominion, Provincial, Municipal or Industrial. The interest from these bonds is taxable. The 1928 legislation enlarges the powers of the department which is now enabled to trace the ownership of all bearer bonds.

Send Cheque with the Return
Income tax may be paid either in a lump sum or in four installments, plus interest. An accepted cheque or express or money order for either the full amount or the amount of the first installment must accompany the official forms. Do not send cash. April 30 is the last day.
The return and the cheque are to be mailed to the Inspector of Dominion Income Tax for your district.

Personal Exemptions
Personal exemptions should be noted carefully. They may be summarized as follows:
(a) $3,000 in the case of a married person or householder, or any other person who has

Cheques are to be made payable to "The Receiver General of Canada."
Cheques must be marked "accepted" by the bank on which drawn.
FILE YOUR RETURN ON OR BEFORE APRIL 30.
If you delay making Income Tax returns the penalties provided by the Act must be imposed.

Y.P. SOCIETIES VISIT ST. MARK'S

Interesting Playlet Is Presented—Visitors Were Royally Entertained

Numerous members of the Young People's Society of St. Paul's church and the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's church were the guests of St. Mark's A.Y.P.A. in the Parish Hall, Mill Street, Monday evening. St. Mark's Young People proved to be real entertainers and a very interesting and profitable evening was enjoyed.

The feature of the evening was the presentation of a well acted playlet by some of the members of St. Mark's A.Y.P.A. The cast put the play over exceptionally well and those taking part included, Misses J. Morrow, Ina Hook, I. Baldock, Sydney Bennett, Muriel Demill, Madeline Ward and G. Hopkins. Two recitations were ably given by Miss Petry while Miss Burnham sang in her usual fine style.

Refreshments brought the joint meeting to a successful close and Norman Moore on behalf of the St. Paul's society thanked St. Mark's A.Y.P.A. for the hospitality while Jack Winfield voiced thanks on behalf of St. John's A.Y.P.A.

CAPITOLIENS IN OLD TIME REVUE

Will Revive the Song Hits of Other Days in Novel Musical Revue

"Something new" is what everyone wants and the success of Al Stagg's Capitoliens is due largely to their policy of constantly varying the entertainment they present. Tomorrow and Thursday this popular organization forsakes the latest jazz for the "Hits of Yesterday"—numbers from five to fifty years old—and the program arranged looks like one of the best yet. It will have a special appeal to those who can recall when the selections were new, while the young people will be surprised at the amount of pep and fun there was in the days when what it now called jazz was known as "ragtime."

In addition to the orchestra, every member of which will have a chance to distinguish himself, the Capitoliens will present a new artist, Minnie Sorrell, who has a delightful voice and will be heard to advantage in "Lilac Time." Al Stagg has never had a better song than "Spring is Here," while he and Jimmy Thomas are sure to stop the show with the local verses they have written for "You Can't Fool An Old Hoss-Fly." Herbert Winfield will sing "He Had to Get Under," Susie Hopps will offer a novel skipping dance and W. Fraser a melodious flute solo. Altogether, a half hour of real stage entertainment in addition to which selected photoplays will complete a thoroughly satisfactory evening.

VALUE OF SHELTERBELTS

The planting of shelterbelts on prairie farms in Western Canada, has given appreciable results from an agricultural standpoint. The water conserving power of the soil has been increased; better crops have resulted; and the protection from extremes of temperature and wind movements has enabled the introduction of the hardier fruits in many localities. Of particular importance is the additional moisture secured through the formation of snow drifts, which, melting gradually in the spring, provide water after adjoining treeless areas have largely dried up.

On Easter Sunday 21,206 persons visited new Art Museum in Philadelphia.

TREES DRAW BIRDS

Trees are the houses of the birds where they nest and live. Aside from their beauty and their song, the presence of birds is of incalculable value in assisting to maintain the balance of nature. Their consumption of destructive insects and slugs saves Canadian farmers and fruit growers thousands of dollars a year.

Four thousand fruit growers request spray service of Pennsylvania State College.
