

CURRIE UNDER BITTER GRILLING BY DEFENCE IN LIBEL ACTION

Sir Arthur Currie Occupies Over Seven Hours in Witness Box at Cobourg. W.T.R. Preston Commenced to Examine Witness Friday Afternoon.

For more than seven hours on Friday General Sir Arthur Currie stood in the witness box and defended himself against the charges that have been made against him. That, in "the last day, the last hour and almost the last minute" of the war, he sent the Canadian Corps against Mons with "appalling" loss of life. At the end of a session during which he and Frank Regan, chief defence counsel, had been in almost continuous conflict, the General was still in the box, facing a cross examination which W. T. R. Preston, one of the defendants, took up in the late hours of the afternoon.

It was the most spectacular and bitter day of the whole trial, not excepting the day in which Col. J. A. Currie, M.P.P., was ordered out of the witness box under threat of a prison sentence for contempt of court. At times, the General's eyes would flash fire at some insinuating question, and his voice would rise to a shout as he denied accusations made against him.

He had read the much discussed but so far suppressed speech of the late Sir Sam Hughes, delivered in the House of Commons in 1919, and he heard attempts made to bring the issue into his whole military career.

Sir Arthur's direct examination was brief and comparatively uneventful. The only excitement came in a spat between Mr. Regan and W. N. Tilley, chief counsel for the plaintiff, when the former charged Mr. Tilley with asking "leading" questions.

He told of the orders that had been issued on November 9 for the advance of the 1st, 3rd and 4th armies. These three formations, he said, had one certain line as an objective, the Maubeuge-Avesnes-Mons line. The Canadian Corps was ordered to line up with the 8th

Exciting Runaway

An exciting runaway took place today on Cavan Street. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coyte and daughter had driven out to the Brewery and as soon as Mr. Coyte got out of the buggy at the brewery yard the team became restless. Mrs. Coyte was thrown from the rig and Miss Coyte made a successful leap for freedom. Mr. Coyte hung on to the reins and was dragged along Cavan Street as far as Mr. Thomas Hill's residence.

Corps on the left and the 22nd on the right.

The general said that there had been foolish talk about an attack being ordered, after the signing of the armistice for 10 years.

"Then this article is just part of this talk that had been going on for 10 years?" asked Mr. Regan.

"You put it into print," retorted General Currie.

It was here that Mr. Regan produced the copy of Hansard containing the report of Sir Sam Hughes' speech. He called the attention of the general to the fact that the member had said that, if he were still Minister of Militia, he would court-martial the Canadian commander for his attack on Mons.

"He couldn't court-martial me," was the scornful reply of Sir Arthur. "I would read you more of this speech, but the court has ruled it out," said Mr. Regan.

"This article is part of the foolish talk?" asked the defence counsel returning to the former subject.

"It was very deliberate," replied the general.

"It could not be a more deliberate misstatement of fact," Mr. Regan then referred to an article by the late General Morrison, former commander of the Canadian Artillery, which told of Sir Arthur riding "like a conqueror" into Mons, past the Canadian dead.

"No one but poor Price" replied Sir Arthur.

"And you rode into Mons like a conqueror?"

"I rode into Mons" was the reply.

"But you were the conqueror," urged the counsel.

"I suppose so" was the reply.

Reading on in General Morrison's article, Mr. Regan came to the statement that the streets of Mons were "garnished" with German dead. The general had formerly said he saw the body of one German in Mons, and that was the only body he saw.

"Do you agree with this article?" demanded Mr. Regan.

"I saw no such conditions as are described there," the general said.

A reference in the same article to the general's battle standard being carried into Mons behind his car brought another question from Mr. Regan.

"My mounted batman rode behind my car carrying a staff on which was a small Canadian flag. I was not ashamed of that," replied the general.

"Are you making the low insinuation that there is anyone in this room who is ashamed of the Canadian flag?" shouted Mr. Regan.

"I certainly hope not," replied General Currie.

"Are you insinuating that the defendants are ashamed of the Canadian flag?"

"No," snapped Sir Arthur.

Returning to the newspaper interview, Mr. Regan read a passage which quoted the commander as saying he was in his bath when the armistice message reached him. It was a subject that was introduced a day or two ago during the examination of Col. A. A. Magee, G.S.O. of the Canadian Corps, and drew a mild rebuke from the judge.

"Is that statement true?" asked Mr. Regan.

"Yes," replied the general.

"I was taking a bath. It is a very good thing in the morning."

"Better than the privates up in the line had," retorted Mr. Regan.

"Is it true that you finished your bath?"

"I probably did. I am not at it yet," said the general.

The general was quoted in the interview as saying that he "could not feel excited" when he heard the

LEAGUE ADOPTS NEW SCHEDULE

Local Loop Will Play Schedule And a Half Commencing May 7th

The local softball season will get under way a week from next Monday when the Sanitary and Mathews Conveyer clash in the opening game. A proposed single schedule commencing May 14th was submitted to a meeting of the executive and representatives of the teams held in the Department of Agriculture Friday evening. If a single schedule were played the end would come on July 19 and should a schedule and a half be played the closing game would be on Aug. 23rd. However, after discussing the matter it was decided to play a schedule and a half and have the league open a week earlier, i.e. on May 7th. news of the armistice

"I suppose a little thing like stopping the war did not make much impression on you?" asked Mr. Regan.

Mr. Regan lost his fight to make Sir Arthur produce the letter which, he said, was sent to him, accompanied by the copy of the article complained of. Mr. Tilley objected and the judge upheld the protest. Mr. Regan asked the Commander if it was true that the letter was sent by some one connected with the Port Hope Times, a rival publication. The judge promptly ruled the question out.

"I cannot see," he said "that this is important."

"It is very important," said the defence counsel, "in proving date of publication and the date when the plain tiff first saw the article."

"We are not making that an issue," said Mr. Tilley. "The letter was received the day after the publication. The notice was issued within six weeks of publication."

Mr. Preston urged an answer to why the General had brought his suit against the Port Hope paper when he could just as well have brought it against the Ottawa Citizen, which reproduced the article. He pointed out that the Citizen was owned by a multimillionaire and a suit against him would be much more profitable.

Gen. Currie explained that, before the article was copied in Ottawa, he had left on a vacation trip to Honolulu, and had left instructions with his solicitor to enter action. When he came back, he learned that the copy had been made.

Installation of block signals on C. N.R. from Ingersoll to London was begun.

TO START ON DAYLIGHT TIME

Toronto Citizens Will Move Clocks Forward Sunday Morning

Toronto and suburbs will be governed by daylight time commencing at two o'clock tomorrow morning and until a similar hour on Sunday, September 30.

Pursuant to a resolution of council, and likewise the mandate of the electors, a mayoral proclamation calls for the hearty co-operation of all citizens to make the movement a success for the public benefit. It is not absolutely necessary to get out of bed to turn the family clocks forward an hour, but the net result, in any case, is an hour less under the covers—to be made up on September 30.

Ottawa, Kingston, Montreal, Halifax and St. John also use the summer time. There is practically no change from last year in the list of Ontario municipalities advancing their clocks. So far as is known, they are St. Catharines, Oshawa, Whitby, Cornwall, Thorold and Merritt in addition to Toronto and Kingston although a number of these places do not make the change until some time in May.

1928 BANNER RADIO YEAR

New Developments in Radio Increase Entertainment Possibilities

The radio fan and music lover have in prospect a year of greatly increased pleasure when radio developments now maturing are released, predicts D. H. Pollitt of Toronto, vice-president and general manager of De Forest Radio. New models to be presented by the radio industry during the coming season incorporate considerable advances in performance and convenience of operation. Great strides have been made in simplification and in tone-quality.

Mr. Pollitt, who is one of the pioneers of the industry in Canada, believes that radio will definitely reach in 1928 a position of stability in broadcast receiving development and that prospective purchasers can invest with confidence in years of satisfactory service from present-day models. The trend generally is toward higher powered instruments of increased cost, but offering greater dollar value and enhanced appearance, operating entirely from the ordinary house current.

TROUT SEASON OPENS MAY 1

The Speckled Beauties Are A Challenge To The Fishermen

Released from the frosty grip of a Canadian winter, hundreds of Ontario rivers and streams are running wild today with the new vigor of spring, while hundreds of men are sitting at their desks chafing under the chains of business and are attempting to carry through the daily grind while their fingers clutch imaginary rods and their muscles tighten to the strike of an imaginary trout. A beautiful day dream as yet, this picture of the sparkling waters in which the little speckled dancers are making merry, but one which will soon come true. There are only two days to wait for the opening of the trout season and the calendar of every enthusiastic worshipper of the fly has a red halo around the space marked May 1st.

PRESENTATION FOR NEWLYWEDS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor Are Honored at Home of Former's Parent's At Quay's

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor of Oshawa, in view of their recent marriage, were agreeably surprised by upwards of fifty of their friends at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor, Quay's, Friday evening and were made the recipients of several valuable pieces of silver.

The address was read by Noray Goheen and the presentation was made by Ian Holdaway.

The address reads as follows: "Owing to your marriage it gives us great pleasure to be here with you to celebrate the event in kind remembrance of old acquaintance. We ask you to accept this silverware as a token of friendship. Wishing you both the best of health, happiness and prosperity. Good luck."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor thanked their friends in short speeches. The gifts included half a dozen silver knives and forks; half a dozen spoons and a silver berry spoon.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, etc., and at midnight dainty refreshments were served.

MARCH MOTOR OUTPUT HIGH

But Is Still Considerably Lower Than That of 1927—Imports Greater

Production of automobiles in Canada numbered 17,478 valued at $12,709,616 in March. This output represented an increase of 39 per cent. in number and 51 per cent. in value over the February output of 12,504, valued at $8,442,206. In March, 1927, production totalled 23,250 cars valued at $15,348,063.

Compared with the previous month March production showed an increase in all types of cars with the exception of open passenger cars, which dropped to 1445 from 1788. Closed model passenger cars advanced to 12,805 from 8292; truck to 257 from 211;

Still another power line is mooted for this locality. A rural line to Bethesda in Hamilton Township, appears to be an assured thing, and will probably be built this season. The requisite number of subscribers are now practically assured. When this is consummated there will be a power line on every road running out of Cobourg.

Following announcement that Lethbridge field coal has been placed on the list for the Ontario market, it is announced that three mines have already forwarded carlot shipments and a considerable increase in orders is expected.

Radio enthusiasts enjoyed a rare treat Friday evening when "Perfect Love" the latest song hit written by C. V. Local radio owners reported perfect reception.

Customs records show that 6114 cars were imported into Canada during March as compared with 2644 in February and 4397 in March a year ago. Exports of automobiles through Canadian ports during March numbered 3592 cars as against 4128 in the previous month and 9106 in March, 1927.

Adding the imports of 6114 to the 14,236 cars which were made for sale in Canada, the number made available for distribution in Canada during March is found to be 20,350. For the first quarter of this year the number of cars made available in Canada thus computed, totalled 38,223 cars.

During the first quarter of 1927 the Canadian production totalled 57,231 cars valued at $34,282,442 and for the corresponding period of 1926 figures were 56,691 cars worth $33,401,699.

For the three months ending Mar. 31, 1928, the cumulative production numbered 38,445 cars having a sales value, f.o.b. plant, of $26,614,712. The lower number reported for 1923 was due to the fact that the output from

Paris Emphasizes Tiers In Spring Openings

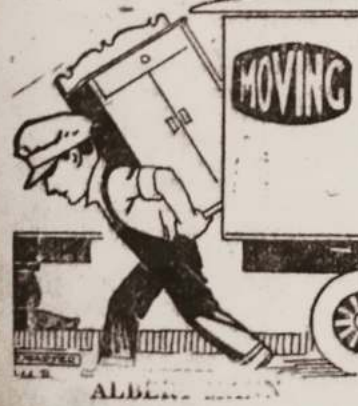

The styles and materials of frocks worn by the mannish and shown in the openings of the famous Paris salons each season are inspirations and suggestions for fashion artists all over the world. In the Spring openings this year, the prevailing note is that of femininity. Soft lines and lovely details are achieved by circular flares, bouffants, and tiers. And tiers are especially emphasized on frocks for all occasions—for street, afternoon and evening wear. The design shown above features a smart adaptation of the double tier. Gathered along a diagonal line in front and back, they meet in a point under the soft bow of the sash. The simple flowing lines of the frock are carried out further by a jabot hanging from the simply bound neck and running down the left side. Made in plain or printed, seersucker, silk crepe or voile, the design is suitable for any semi-formal occasion during Spring or Summer. (Copyright, 1928, by Butterick)

THE GUIDE STORY

She was human and she was a girl. As she fingered one delicate piece of rose satin, Firefly's words about dowdy girls came back to her. Was that perhaps one of the reasons of Firefly's popularity, that her dress, if plain, was always smart looking and what best suited her?

"Fine feathers make fine birds," thought Olwen contemptuously, pushing the pink satin on one side and taking up a piece of old fashioned rich brocade. "I despise people who judge a person by their clothes."

All the same, she began to study the styles closely; she read the descriptions; she held up the rose satin in a good light, and allowed her imagination to depict it half veiled in faint rose chiffon.

"I am not going to change my style this time," she finally said aloud, pushed the patterns from her, and returned to her reading.

After each line the thought interposed itself: "Thursday fortnight is the Renfrew's ball." After each paragraph echoed Firefly's words. Finally, the sense of the whole page was obliterated by the summary: "He is a hatefully rude man—but he will be there."

Half an hour later Olwen left the Manor with the dogs, and wended her way toward the main road that ran from Woodlands to Mansfield, twelve miles distant, where it joined the London road.

Undecided as she was whether to call at The Briars in the character of buyer or patron, Olwen walked along slowly, till she discovered that there was a stranger walking just before her in the same direction—a stranger she quickly identified by reason of the veil and dark garments.

What there was in the brisk, businesslike little figure to rouse Olwen's prompt dislike is difficult to say. Certain it was, however, that as the tall mannish attired girl approached nearer to the little widow, the greater grew the girl's dislike. There was something very stylish about Mrs. West's appearance, the hand holding the long skirt was well gloved and well shaped, the little feet tripping over the frozen ground were well shod and small.

Olwen was just determining to increase her pace so as to pass the widow and have a look at the face that Firefly had so enthusiastically admired when there came the sound of a horse's hoofs on the road, and as the girl instinctively slackened her pace and fell back a little, Doctor Forrester appeared from a lane just in front of Mrs. West.

"Well, Mrs. West, not been found out yet?" Olwen heard him distinctly say, with a quizzical look in his eyes.

CHAPTER XVI

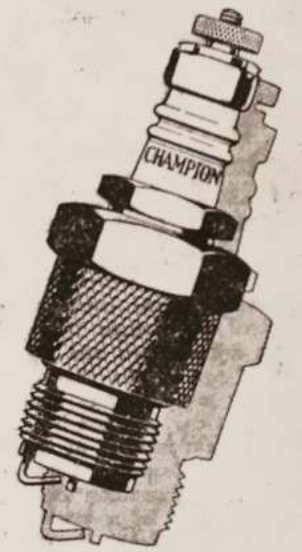

New Tactics

"Hush!" said the widow, looking round, and meeting Olwen's gaze. John, who had followed the direction of her look, dug his heels into his cob's fat sides and turned pale.

For a moment Olwen stood still, gazed quietly at the two startled faces, and then, with an almost imperceptible bow to the doctor, turned and steadily retraced her steps.

After all, there was a mystery! John Forrester was deep in it! Moreover, the center of the mystery was good looking. Olwen swung along the road with a strange mingling of jealousy, disappointment and pain within her that was hard to bear and difficult to analyze.

Before she reached her own carriage drive she had made up her mind on two points: First, that she would snub and ignore John Forrester henceforth. Second, that she would discard the black velvet and appear at the Renfrew's ball as well dressed as money and the London shops could make her.

Olwen surprised Miss Granby that evening, and the old lady set to work to study her great-niece over her spectacles with an air of frank curiosity. Instead of sitting silent and dull behind her tea table, as was her custom, Olwen chatted gayly, with cheeks that glowed with color and sparkled with life. Even to Firefly she was gracious, while she overwhelmed her aunt with attentions that had hitherto been left to Firefly to offer.

"Do you think you can spare Firefly for a few hours tomorrow, Aunt Charity?" she asked, when tea was over, the lamps lighted, and the frosty night banished from view. "I want to go to London for some shopping and I would like her advice."

"Dear love!" replied Miss Granby, clasping her hands ecstatically, and looking excited. "Yes, I'll miss you very much." The old lady glanced at Firefly to see if she were on the right track, and receiving an encouraging nod, continued: "I shall be very glad—I mean, I shall not in the least mind depend ing on Jameson for a few hours, and if you intend buying some—" Firefly coughed energetically. "I mean to say that I shall be very glad if you are going to purchase such things as are suitable for your youth and position."

GREAT TRADE CHANCES SEEN

Despite Troubles, Chinas Import Trade Has Grown To One Billion

Lieut.-Col. L. M. Cosgrave, D.S.O. Croix de Guerre, Canadian Trade

Commissioner at Shanghai, China, passed through Toronto en route to Ottawa to take up matters concerning his territory with the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Col. Cosgrave has been through or in touch with most of the fighting around Shanghai as he remarked, "I thought when I came home from France I was through with soldiering, and could follow my peaceful avocations, but this was not to be."

But it was more about trade that Col. Cosgrave was inclined to talk. The civil war had by no means demoralized trade in China. The Chinese is a born trader. In spite of all the internal difficulties during the last ten years, that is from 1917 to 1926, China's import trade has grown from 500 million dollars to over one billion dollars. There has been a slight decrease from 1923 to 1925 but that has been made up. The imports from Canada had grown from one and a half millions before the war to between 20 and 30 millions a year now. Roughly there were about 80 different commodities produced in Canada, which the Chinese required. Wheat and flour were taken for granted but lead was a commodity that China imported in large quantities from British Columbia.

"China is industrializing steadily," Col. Cosgrave said. "Fifteen years from now China will be manufacturing goods that will be in competition with the whole world and no doubt China would be the most prosperous of all Oriental countries."

The famine relief organization in China was amazingly efficient, said Col. Cosgrave. With 13 different nations participating, it was like the League of Nations in its influence. Similarly the Shanghai Municipal Council had a population of 2,000,000 Chinese and 40,000 foreigners. On the Municipal Council were three Chinese, five British, two Americans and two Japanese. The chairman is an American elected by the other members of the council after the manner of electing the Lord Mayor of London.

There is in Shanghai a volunteer corps which has two British companies, which has been organized since 1861; one American company; a Japanese company and a Chinese. Each company has its own native officers. All are well trained and thoroughly efficient. Col. Cosgrave told of being invited to take over a company but demurred, saying that his military activities were over. The commanding officer explained that the training season was completed and there would be little to do for some months. Reluctantly he agreed. The next day he put on his uniform. Trouble broke out and it was 89 days ere he was able to lay his military accoutrements aside. His Sergeant-major is a Dane, the quartermaster-sergeant is a Norwegian, and there are Dutch, Swiss and men of other nationalities in the ranks.

What the political outlook for China is, Col. Cosgrave believes he can see, but wished to avoid making any comment. He confines his interest to trade matters. Before sailing for Canada he made an extensive tour through several provinces. The civil war will end by attrition, he believes. A solution then will be found for China's political troubles. While coming through from Vancouver, he interviewed over 50 Canadian firms regarding the prospects for extending business with China.

POPULAR BOOK IS FEATURED

Port Hope theatregoers always welcome a well known story in photographic form and "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," with Richard Barthelmess in the title role, should be a big attraction for the Royal Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. The book by John Fox Jr. is known to everyone and the picture is a brand new First National production which has not yet been shown in Toronto.

THE BAD BOY

His hair is red and tangled and he has a turned up nose; His voice is loud and strident and it never gets repose His face is full of freckles and his ears are shaped like fins And a large front tooth is missing as you'll notice when he grins. He is like a comic picture, from his toes up to his head— But his mother calls him "darling" when she tucks him into bed.

It is he who marks the carpet with the prints of muddy boots And rejoices in a door bell that is pulled out by the roots; Who whistles on his fingers till he almost splits your ear, And shocks the various callers with the slang he chanced to hear. He fills the house with tumult and the neighborhood with dread— But his mother calls him "darling" when she tucks him into bed.

When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to have the region rubbed with Dr. Thomas' Electric O.I. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until ease is secured. There is more virtue in a bottle of it than can be fully estimated.

NOTHING ELSE TO DO
One day...when my rheumatism was bad...and my daughter had just eloped with a good for nothing scoundrel...and fire had destroyed my barn...and rosted a fine horse that I hadn't paid for...and my best hog had up and died with the cholera...and they had foreclosed the mortgage on me...and the sheriff was looking for me with a warrant...I told my troubles to one of these here optimists and he said: "Cheer up, old man, the worst is yet to come"...So, I shot him.

She Knows Her Groceries

She orders by telephone—it's so convenient and saves so much time. Instead of spending an hour in a trip to the market, she makes better use of the time by getting her housework done early. She orders with perfect confidence because she literally "knows her groceries." They are advertised goods, nationally known and nationally used.

She purchases other necessities for the home; for herself, for her husband and for her children with the same confidence. She buys advertised goods because she knows that the manufacturers of advertised articles must keep the quality up to standard if public confidence is to be retained. She watches the advertisements in the daily papers and so knows what, when and where to buy to best advantage. She is representative of millions of Canadian and American women who make their homes better, their families healthier, their lives easier and happier by using the advertisements.

BUSINESS ANNOUNCEMENT
Dr. Hawkins wishes to announce that he will not be in his office next Monday and Tuesday.

HIS SPIRIT LIVES

It is just three years ago today that a noble young man was laid to rest, but the memory of a life well lived is left to his friends and all those who knew him. The young man we refer to is Clifford P. Chesher, who passed away on Sunday morning, April 26th, 1925, in Cobourg Hospital after receiving fatal injuries, the preceding evening by a fall from his bicycle while coming along the Provincial Highway just about a mile this side of Cobourg.

Our friend is no longer with us in body, but his spirit is with us, urging us to live as he lived, a life of cheerful usefulness.

"Cliff" did what he had in hand to the best of his ability, speedily, accurately and in a spirit that made work a joy because it was "a work well done."

His virtues were many and he practiced none of the vices of men, yet he was not a "sissy," because he bravely adhered to that which was right, no matter what anyone said.

His spirit lives because his life was so well lived, and the text found in his pocket which he was preparing to teach his class in the United Church Sunday School was a very fitting thought for him to leave behind.

"Blessed are the dead, which die in the Lord."
In Memory of My Friend.
Assistant Editor.

IN MEMORIAM

NORTHCUTT—In loving memory of our dear father, George Northcutt, who passed away April 28th, 1926.

We do not forget you, dear father, nor do we intend;

We think of you always and will to the end.

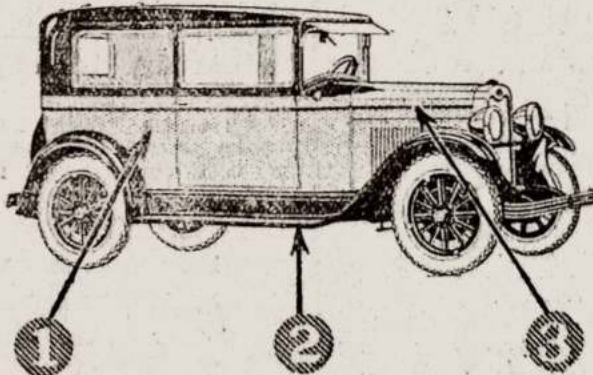

Gone and forgotten by some you may be,

But dear to our memory you always will be.

—Ida and Arley.
