he introduced this by-law he did not expect to cause such a tempest in a WAS NOT REPEALED teapot. Taking up the matter from a legal point of view he did not think the present by-law could be enforced. If the present by-law was not repealed legal action, he Vote Was A Tie And Mayor understood would be taken to have it quashed and if this were done the town would have to pay the costs. He was quite in sympathy with the A LARGE DEPUTATION PRESENT observance of the Sabbath but the laws of the land permitted restaurants to sell meals on Sunday and no municipal by-law could over-ride The regular meeting of the Town Council was held last evening and these. He quoted the Ante Con-the members were all present. His federation law of 1845 from Satur-Worship Mayor Mulholland had re- day's Guide, as follows :

WASTE OF AIR

By C. Jonas Thornton, M. P., and Others.

Mr. C. Jonas Thornton, M. P., and two Federal members, A. S. Goodeve, British Columbia, and John Best, Dufferin, got their shirts wet Saturday afternoon, March 18, in an excessively labored endeavor to convince Clarke farmers against their convictions that the reciprocity pact under consideration between Canada and the United States is not a good proposition for Ontario farmers, says the Bowmanville Statesman.

So Herculean did they discover the task to be that the meeting is person on the Indian list. There is a supposition amounting almost to a conviction that the same moneyed men, manufacturers or what not-who are paying the newspapers thousands of dollars to publish anti-reciprocity articles, are also paying speakers' expenses for talking against the treaty.

We miss our guess it farmers of Durham County are caught by any such golden hued sophistry.

It is problematical if these three stalwarts made a single convert. It is the opinion of some that they talked till after dark so that no opposition speaker would have a chance to combat their imagery.

How we should liked to have heard Squire Lovekin and S.O. Taylor in reply, for we fancy they could easily have made headcheese of the three manufacturers' advocates.

A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

Heaven be thanked that he was unconcerned on the point of garb! Inferiority in that respect would over, and by a general movement have been fatal to his ease. His all went forth on to the lawn in clothes were not too new, and in front of the house. Mr. Warriquality were such as he had the habit of wearing. The Warricombes must have immediately de- of the extensive landscape. tected any pretentiousness, were it but in a necktie; that would impress them more unfavourably than signs of poverty. But he defied in-spection. Not Sidwell herself, doubtless sensitive in the highest I fear, there will be much more to degree, could conceive a prejudice against him on this account.

His misgivings were overcome. If these people were acquainted with the 'dining-rooms' joke, it certainly did not affect their behaviour for a drive. to him, and he could hope, by the force of his personality, to obliterate from their minds such disagreeable thoughts as they might secretly entertain. Surely he could make good his claim to be deemed a gentleman. To Buckland he had declared his position, and no shame attached to A man of scientific tastes, like Mr. Warricombe, must consider it respectable enough. Grant him a little time, and why should he not become a recognized friend of this family?

If he were but resident in Exeter. For the first time, he lost himself in abstraction, and only an inquiry from Sidwell recalled him.

'You have seen the Cathedral Mr. Peak ?'

'Oh yes! I attended service

there yesterday morning.' Had he reflected, perhaps he would not have added this circumstance; even in speaking he suffered a confused doubtfulness. But as soon as the words were uttered, he felt strangely glad. Sidwell be-stowed upon him an unmistakable look of approval; her mother gazed with colder interest; Mr. Warri- you have gone in and out among us combe regarded him, and mused; Buckland, a smile of peculiar meaning on his close lips, glanced from him to Miss Moorhouse.

'Ah, then, you heard Canon Grayling,' remarked the father of the family, with something in his tone which answered to Sidwell's facial expression. 'How did you like his natural air of deliberation. 'I was especially struck with the passage about the barren fig-tree.'

The words might have expressed a truth, but in that case a tone of sarcasm must have winged them. As it was, they involved either hypocrisy or ungenerous irony at the expense of his questioner. Buckland could not but understand them in the latter sense; his face darkened. At that moment, Peak met his eye, and encountered its steady searching gaze with a perfectly calm smile. Half-a-dozen pulsings of his heart-violent, painful, and the fatal hour of his life had struck. 'What had he to say about it?'

Buckland asked carelessly. Peak's reply was one of those remarkable efforts of mind-one might say, of character-which are sometimes called forth, without premeditation, almost without consciousness, by a profound moral crisis. A minute or two ago he would have believed it impossible to recall and state in lucid terms the arguments to which, as he sat in the Cathedral he had barely given ear; he remembered vaguely that the preacher (whose name he knew not till now) had dwelt for a few moments on the topic indicated, but at the time he was indisposed to listen seriously, and what chance was there that the chain of thought had fixed itself in his memory? Now, under the marvelling regard of his conscious self, he poured forth an admirable rendering of the Canon's views, fuller than the original-more eloquent, more subtle For five minutes he held his hearers in absorbed suddenly, there followed a silence, 'Mr. Peak,' said the host you have made that clearer to me than it was yesterday. I must thank you.'

Godwin felt that a slight bow of acknowledgment was perhaps called for, but not a muscle would obey his will. He was enervated; perspiration stood on his forehead. The most severe physical effort could not have reduced him to a feebler Sidwell was speaking: 'Mr. Peak has developed what Canon Grayling only suggested.' 'A brilliant effort of exegesis,' exnatured laugh.

Again the young men exchanged As for the other, his suspicion had vanished, and he now gave way to combe, even more cordial than hitherto, named to Godwin the features

'But you see that the view is in a measure spoilt by the growth of the city. A few years ago, none of those ugly little houses stood in the mid-distance. A few years hence, complain of. I daresay you know all about the ship canal: the story of the countess, and so forth?'

Buckland presently suggested that the afternoon might be used

BUTCHER DEAD IN COLBORNE SHOP

Evidence Will be Taken By Coroner E. E. Latta on Thursday Night.

Colborne, April 3 .- Wm Riley, a butcher, 50 years of age, was found dead in his shop under circumstances such as to warrant Coroner E. E. Latta in opening an inquest. Evidence will be taken on Thursday

Early callers at the store found Riley dead and called in the Crown officers. In view of the unsettled state of the public mind since the death of Josephine Brimacombe, the deaf mute cook at George Teasdale's hotel, and Mrs. Teasdale, the Coroner deemed it wise to hold an inquiry. One of the doors leading to the shop was barricaded, but so far there has been nothing to indi-

ARMY IS CRITICIZED

Lord Roberts Says It Is Not Adequate Enough.

HE WANTS LARGER FORCE

Untrained Troops Will Mean Downfall of Great Britain In Time of War, Declares Field Marshal-Viscount Haldane Says England Must Rely First on the Sea

For Safety of Commerce. London, April 4.—In the House of Lord's yesterday Lord Roberts moved: "That in view of the altered strate-gic conditions in Europe this House views with grave and growing concern the inadequate military arrangements made in defence of the country and verseas dominions." If, said Lord Roberts, our trust is placed in untrained troops in time of war disasters will be inflicted, probably irreparable, and that might cause the loss of the Empire and our downfall as a people. It would be impossible to keep an absurdly small expeditionary force in six months' service if any serious trouble arose in any of the overseas dominions. We would require a many above the regular army. Viscount Haldane defended his Territorial system. England was the centre of an Empire, the parts of which were separated by great stretches of sea, and the command of the sea was the first requisite.

The debate stood adjourned.

In a Common Grave.

New York, April 4.—The eight un-dentified victims of the Washington place fire of March 25, which cost 144 lives, will be buried Wednesday afternoor, and a big labor parade in their memory will wind through the streets. ninth coffin containing fragments of incinerated bodies impossible of identification will also be interred. The city has purchased a lot in a nonsectarian cemetery in Brooklyn for burying the bodies. Funeral services of the Roman Catholic, Hebrew and Protestant faiths will be held at the graves.

In connection with the investigation of the disaster Borough President Mc-Aneny of Manhattan, made public last night the findings of the commissioner of accounts, giving half a dozen alleged instances of petty graftting by building inspectors. Montreal, April 3.—Business in Manitota spring wheat over the cable was again quiet, owing to the fact that cables came weak with bids 4½d lower than Saturday, which only brought back Sige per bushel for the May option in Winnipeg. In sympathy with the break in prices of ever ic per bushel for oats in Winnipeg, a weaker feeling prevailed in this market, but in the absence of any business of importance prices were nominally unchanged. There was some demand from foreign buyers for winter wheat flour, but the bids received were 20c per barrel below the price millers were disposed to sell at. Local trade in all grades is quiet.

The undertone to the market for cattle was stronger on account of the continued limited supplies coming forward, and sales in a few odd cases were made at an advance of ½c per lb., but this was not general. The gathering of buyers was fairly large, but the demand from butchers was chiefly for small jots to fill actual wants, consequently trade was rather slow. A feature of the trade was the offerings of some extra choice heavy bulls, suitable for the coming Easter requirements and several of them weighing from 2100 to 2300 pounds were sold at 5½c per lb. and 510 per head over. A few extra choice steers sold at 5½c, while choice brought 5½c; good, 6c to 5½c; fairly good, 5½c to 5½c, fairly good, 5½c to 5½c; fair, 5c to 5½c, and common, 4½c to 4½c per lb.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for hogs, prices being steady on account of the fact that efferings were ample to fill all requirements. The demand from packers was good and sales of selected lots were made at $7.40 to $7.50 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

A feature of the small meat trade was at $1.40 to $1.50 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

A feature of the small meat trade was the scarcity of really choice calves, for which there was a good enquiry, but buyers found it difficult to fill their wants. The lower grades were fairly plentiful, which sold at prices ranging from $2 to $2 each. Old sheep were scarce and firm at $5 to $54c, and yearling lambs, at $55c per ib. Spring lambs sold at from $5 to $5 each. $5 each.

Hon, Mr. Oliver Says There is a Prejudice Against Admitting Large Numbers In the West-Opposition Makes Fretful Appeals For More Statistics on Reciprocity to See If It Is For Our Advantage

Ottawa, April 4 .- "I have been trying to get at the facts of this reci-procity agreement, and I have not been able to ascertain yet whether it is going to be to our advantage or disadvantage."

So spoke Mr. Staples in the Commons yesterday afternoon. That he spoke the mind of a considerable portion of the Opposition was evidenced by the fact that they joined indus-triously in his complaint.

The somewhat frank intimation that the Opposition is beginning to realize that it has too hastily taken an unpopular and indefensible position was bolstered up by petulant complaints that the Government was responsible for their misfortune. Their failure to study the agreement and to learn the rudiments of trade conditions was charged against the Gov-ernment in that Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson had failed to acquaint them with comparative records of prices on both sides of the international lines, and such other data as would have enabled them to know, as Mr. Lake said, "whether this was a good thing or not." Richard Blain of Peel asked the Minister of Customs if margarine had been placed on the free list.

Mr. Paterson replied that he did not know. He had not the information-beside him.

George H. Perley (Argenteuil) re-ferred to the reply which Major Sharpe had received from the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce reminister of Trade and Commerce re-garding an order of the House calling for information with respect to trade-prices in various countries. Mr. O'Hara's reply was in effect that the information could be got from trade-papers all over the world. Mr. Per-ley said this was a very avtragilines. ley said this was a very extraordinary answer for the Government to make.

It meant that every member should go out and dig up the information for himself. If the Government did not have this information then it was evident that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson did not have the information when they entered into the agreement at Washington, and could not know what they were doing. If the Government had not the information, why could they not get it? Without it the House could not discuss the agreement adequately.
Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would submit the matter to Mr. Fielding, who was absent, and an answer would be given later on.

Mr. Foster argued that it was a reasonable request that they should have the trade figures in the princi-ple centres of the world before consenting to this agreement.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) pointed out that the United States pamphlet showed prices of farm products to be high-er in Canada than in the United States. He affirmed that Mr. Field-ing was selling the Canadian farmers, body and bones, to the U.S. Mr. Fielding knew that he had been goldbricked, and was ashamed or afraid to get a statement out to Parliament which would convict him at once. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson knew that they could not face the farmers with it.

Mr. Blain declared that they were afraid to tell the people that cattle went in free to the U. S. now under certain regulations, and the same ob-tained as regards wheat. Under cer-tain regulations it was duty free.

Mr. Paterson explained that in the agreement there was an arrangement for conferences on such questions, and if they had to be dealt with, this legis-lation afterwards that would be done by agreement.

Mr. Perley put a question: "Did he or did he not have the statistics of comparative prices when he was in Washington?"

Mr. Paterson: "We had all the in-formation that we thought was ne-

Wm. Thorn (North Lanark) brought up the question of admission into Western Canada of negroes from the southern States. He stated that hundreds had already been admitted, and thousands would follow when they learned that they could secure free homesteads. He was of the opinion that these lands should be reserved for Canadians.

Mr. Oliver said that his Department was carrying into effect the law as it was framed by Parliament. Under it was framed by Parliament. Under the existing laws negroes could not be prevented from coming into Can-ada, provided they were morally and physically fit and free from disease. The Department, he said, had no choice but to continue to administer the present laws until Parliament de-cided to enact a substitute. While it was true that there was some negro settlements in the west, the present was the first large, and apparently was the first large, and apparently, well organized movement Canadawards. As a consequence the matter had not up till the present time been seriously considered. Mr. Oliver said that strong objections had been taken to a continuance of present policy of admitting negroes on the same terms as white people.

The major part of the day was taken up in a discussion of the Marine Department supply votes. The first vote under this head was one of $900,-100 for the St. Lawrence channel, an increase of $100,000 over the past year.
Mr. Brodeur pointed out that it was necessary to keep the channel at 30 feet depth from Montreal to the ocean, was also an ambition of Canada's that the channel be ultimately made a 35-feet one along its entire Opinion Is Given That Government Should Only Ask the Farmer to Connect Up From the Road-Many Uses of Power Will Be Shown to the Farmers This Summer by Special Agents.

Toronto, April 4 .- As the plans for extending hydro-electric power by the Ontario Commission to the farms are becoming developed they are attracting increasing interest.

It was pointed out yesterday at the Parliament buildings by a representa-tive of the Department of Agriculture that cheap hydro-electric power for the farms would be an important factor in solving the labor problem, which threatens to intensity unless the tide westward is by some bold coloni-zation scheme stemmed. The officials of the Ontario Department of Agricul-ture point out that hydro-electric power would enable the farmers of the province to employ it for the irriga-tion of land, operation of cream separtion of land, operation of cream separators, churns, water pumps, milking machines, machines for cleaning horses and cattle, saws, grindstones, plows and threshing outfits. The farmers' wives will be equally benefitted, as it will be available for heating, lighting, cooking, ironing, and to the machine machine.

A the offices of the Hydro-Electric Commission it is stated that the average amount required for ordinary farm purposes is three horse-power. The uses to which cheap hydro-elecfric power may be profitably made will be placed before the agriculturalists of the province by the district instruc-tors sent out by Hon. J. S. Duff, the coming season. The commission favor a liberal pol-icy on the part of the Whitney Government in establishing the projected provincial public power system, for the farmers. It is the opinion of the commissioners that the Government should defray the cost of the construction of the main, transmission lines along the highways. This would only place the cost of the connections from the roadways to the farm houses and buildings upon the townships. A further unlooked for fruit of the Government's electric power policy is the fact that the extension of the sys-tem into the rural districts has brought into view plans for village and roading hydro-electric lighting by the townships. The commission proose providing the main transmission lines, the townships to supply the ne-cessary lamps. Within a compara-tively short period every district in Ontario within scope of the transmis-sion lines will be transformed by the splendor of the hydro-electric lights.

I see a vision of the future in which the British Empire is a great federation of partnership of five great nations, Great Britain, Can-ada, Australia, South Africa and India, all of them independent in regard to their own affairs and yet all united in bonds of common loyalty and common interests. Cardinal In Collision.

Waterloo, Belgium, April 4.—Cardi-nal Desideratus Mercier, Archbishop of Malines, had a narrow escape from death yesterday in an automobile collision. The chauffeur, in seeking to avoid a woman, swerved the machine, which dashed into a tree and was wrecked. The cardinal was badly cut about the face and several of his teeth were knocked out. The chauffeur was seriously injured.

May Introduce Bill.

London, April 4.—Lord Chesterfield, Lord Steward of the King's House-hold, stated in the House of Lords last evening that the King's reply to the address moved by Lord Lansdowne, asking permission for the introduction of a bill limiting the pre-rogatives of the crown so far as they relate to the creation of peerages, had been received, and that it granted his lordship's wishes.

Steamer Burned.

Yarmouth, N.S., April 4.-Fire destroyed the steamer Hugh D. of the Hugh Cann & Sons' fleet. The interior of the boat, with the engine and machinery, is ruined She was loaded with supplies for the lobster fishermen, and was to sail in the morning for Tucket Island. There was no in-

"THE ROSARY."-When Rowland "THE ROSARY."—When Rowland & Clifford's new play, "The Rosary" by Edward E. Rose, comes to the Grand on Wednesday, April 12th, the discriminating public will be given an opportunity to see pictured before them the growing unrest and irreligion of our times. It is a faithful picture of the misery and unhappiness that surely comes upon a man who lacks faith in the supreme good and its triumphs in supreme good and its triumphs in our world. Can one evil mind poison a whole household? Is the human brain capable of producing disastrous effects upon a household. by adverse suggestive thoughts? Do we realize adequately how our mental attitudes influence our lives and the lives about us? And the answer? Well, the play is the answer. This play has proven the sensation of the season in Boston and New York; one company has just closed a three month's run in Chicago.

The Opportunity

You always get the best values obtainable, where goods are sold for Cash Only.

Came our way recently of making comparison of our Millinery Values with those found elsewhere. The comparison—styles and quality the same—was considerably in our favor. "There's a reason" for this and it'll pay you to investigate.

Fancy Curtain Scrims

Without a doubt we're showing the best collection of Curtain Materials ever found at this store at any one time. We were fortunate in getting a consignment of Fancy Colored Scrims and Silkolines direct from the makers. This fact of itself is sufficient evidence that values here are the best obtainable. Patterns and styles too, are exclusive and consequently just a little different from the ordinary run.

FLOOR COVERINGS of various kinds are moving out. Best values, good styles and low prices help along the movement.
