DURHAM LIBERALS

Mr. H. T. Bush Argues Strongly for Pact

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Orono, Aug. 10 .- No man could possibly be made the candidate of any political party with greater unanimity and enthusiasm than marked the choice of T. Alexander Kelly, of Kenmare, Cavan township, to-day, at a great Liberal Convention in the Town Hall here. For no political convention in Durham County has been better attended, nor has a standard-bearer speech accepting nomination was a model of modesty of appreciation. After the convention was organized it was decided to openly nominate a candidate, when Thomas Baker, Solina, moved and Dr. L. B. Powers, Port Hope, seconded in capital, optimistic speeches T. A. Kelly, Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and the nomination was ing. W. J. Bragg, Darlington, President of the Durham County Liberal Association, tendered Mr. Kelly the nomination in a very congratulatory speech. Mr. Kelly remarked that he never Cavan, since his name has been before the public, for the feeling in favor of reciprocity down in East Durham is very strong. He had never seen a better political meeting Millbrook than last week's Reciprocity, he said, is purely a business proposition, appealing mainly to farmers, and they should properly look well after their own interests. A public meeting was then organized, President Bragg presiding. He said that he saw in the crowded building and the unparralled enthusiasm and importance of the issue to the farmers a bright omen The outlook is exceedingly promising for Mr. Kelly. Arthur A. Powers, Provincial candidate for West Durham, was

He entreated everybody having the agricultural interests of the Dominion at heart to support the agreement that gives additional markets.

H. T. Bush, President of the Standard Ideal Co., Port Hope, an employer of six hundred men, said : "I appear as a manufacturer in favor of reciprocity." He had thought the matter over, and concluded that if the manufacturers are entitled to protection and the Government gives them reasonable protection, they in turn, to be fair, should help to give the farmers what they believe will be in their best interest, for whatever is for the farmer's benefit is likewise for the manufacturers' interest. The manufacturers cannot succeed unless the farmers are doing well. He counselled all present to have courage to step out and declare in before been unanimously chosen favor of reciprocity regardless of since Confederation. Mr. Kelly's former political affiliations. He assured Mr. Kelly of such support as he can give personally, and he was confident a goodly number of the Idea! Company's employees are in favor of reciprocity. Mr. Bush's address aroused very great applause coming from the President and Manager of the largest industrial concern in Durham county.

J. R. McColl, late M.P. for West Northumberland, said when the enthusiastically confirmed by every agreement was announced in the delegate rising to his feet and cheer. House of Commons it was applauded by both parties. A great many doubted if it would be ratified by the United States authorities, but the United States authorities, out everyone felt that it would be gladly if he might judge by this representative farmers' gathering. He had received wonderful encouragement from men of both British preference likewise. No greater and better trade expansion. Liberais policy is one of expansion. A prominent railway man, a Control of the general tariff may still be inservative in politics, assured him that reciprocity will make a far greater and better trade expansion. political parties in Millbrook and markets will be interfered with; we shall have all we now have, with the United States with ninety million for Canadians to have enlarged people added. It will still be optional with Canadians where they sell. The agreement does not bind for all time, and if not found satisgathering for appointing delegates. factory it can be terminated any time. The Conservatives had not instituted the opposition to reciprocity, but the farmers should take thoughtful notice that it was the moneyed interests, the mergers, combines and financial corporations. Even the famous eighteen Liberals in Toronto who opposed it were connected with monetary institutions. Farmers are justified in soliciting a measure that will be of success for the Liberal candidate. beneficial, as they cannot have too many markets. A nation's wealth comes from the land, all benefit by the farmer's prosperity. The trusts want higher tariffs, the farmers want reciprocity for natural products.

He spoke at length on the horse industry. All remembered, he said, what a splendid market the United States was prior to the McKinley tariff, whe buyers from Rochester and other big American cities paid Canadian farmers high prices for horses. He had conversed with the noted horseman, A. Yeager, Simcoe, within a few days, and he said the Americans will buy more Canadian horses in one year under reciprocity than they do now in ten. Canadian horses are better than those raised in the United States. Our farmers need have no fear of beat them. bought chiefly for the big cities, and the big cities of the United States will want lour heavy horses Ang. 11th, at the Fire Hall. and will buy them first hand from our farmers as formerly. Elect a reciprocity candidate and give the pact a trial, he urged. He was sure that if once in operation it would be so popular that it would continue. This election is not a a political contest; it's a referendum. The question for decision is a straight business one: Are you in favor of reciprocity or against reci-procity? In conclusion Mr McColl said Durham had selected a splendid candidate, who has been successful in all his public career. The election to the Wardenship in the Counties Council, which is largely Conservative, indicates his personal

F. L. Fowke, late M. P. for South Ontario, and for nine years Mayor of Oshawa, received a hearty reception. He congratulated the delegates on the great number present, on their grand choice of a candidate, and on the good cause they were ready to advocate and to support at the polls. He was glad to help along reciprocity because it will greatly benefit Canada, and "Canada is our politics." Referring to Durham's representative in the Commons, he declared that C. Jonas Thornton was anti-reciprocity, for he spoke against it in the House. He was sure Mr. Thornton misrepresents his constituency greater and better trade expansion of every industrial enterprise. All the people knew it would be better

Sir John MacDonald died in the expectation that Canada one day would enter into the desired larger expansion of trade over this North American continent. All the great Canadian politicians are on record for securing reciprocal trade, and every newspaper and magazine published in Canada in the interests of agriculture is advocating reciprocity, except one some one. The National Policy in the sixth article of the act covered reciprocity in natural products.

Mr. Fowke dealt severely with the disloyalty bogey, and declared with emphasis, "There is not a man here who believes reciprocity will weeken our loyalty to the mother country." He told why Mr. Borden would not allow a vote to be taken in the House. Many Conservatives knew their constituencies were in favor of reciprocity would wreck their chances for re-election. Mr. Fowke spoke for nearly one hour with the closest attention of his hearers, who ap plauded his remarks frequently The feeling is exceedingly hopeful that reciprocity will win in Durham

A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

lover, who waited, waited.) 'Foreigners are so stupid-don't you think so? Why should they always expect you to speak their language? -Oh, of course I speak French; but it is such a disagreeable language-don't you think so?'

(Compared with the accents of English devotion, of course,) 'Do you go in for cycling, Mr.

Moxey?' inquired Mrs. Palmer's aughing neice, from a little dis-

'For cycling?' With a great effort he recovered himself and grasped the meaning of the words. 'No. I-I'm sorry to say I don't. Capital exercise!'

'Mr. Dwight has just been telling me such an awfully good story about a friend of his. Do tell it again, Mr. Dwight! It'll make you laugh no end, Mr. Moxey.

The young man appealed to was read y enough to eepeat his anecdote, which had to do with a bold cyclist, who after dining more than well, rode in his machine down a steep hill and escaped destruction only by miracle. Christian laughed desperately, and declared that he never heard anything so good.

But the tension of his nerves was unendurable. Five minutes more of anguish' and he sprang up like an automaton.

'Must you really go, Mr. Moxey?' said Constauce, with a manner which of course was intended to veil her emotion. 'Please don't be another year before you let us see you again.'

Blessings on her tender heart! What more could she have said, in the presence of all those people? He walked all the way to Notting Hill through a pelting rain, his passion aglow.

Impossible to be silent 'longer concerning the brilliant future. Arrived at home, he flung off hat and coat and went straight to the drawing-room, hoping to find Marcella alone. Tolhis annovance, a stranger was sitting there in conversation, a very simply dressed lady, who as he entered, looked at him with a grave smile and stood up. He thought he had never seen her before, Marcella wore a singular expression; there was a moment of silence, for Christian decidedly embarrassing, since it seemed to be expected that he should greet the stranger.

'Don't you remember Janet?' said his sister. 'lanet?' He felt his face flush 'You don't mean to say-? But how you have altered! And yet, no; really, you haven't. It's only my stupidity.' He grasped her hand, and with a feeling of genuine pleasure despite awkwarn reminiscences.

One does alter in eleven years, said Janet Moxey, in a very pleasant, natural voice-a voice of habitual self-command, conveying the idea of a highly cultivated tmind, and many other agreeable hings.

'Eleven years? Yes, yes! How very glad I am to see you! And I'm sure Marcella was. How very kind of you to call on us! Janet was as far as ever from looking handsome or pretty but it must have been a dullard who proclaimed her face unpleasing. She had eyes of remarkable intelligence something like Marcella's but milder, more benevolent. Her lips were softly firm; they would not readily part in laughter; their frequent smile meant more than that of the woman who sets herself to be engaging.

. 'I am on my way home,' she said, 'from a holiday in the South, -an enforced holiday, I'm sorry to

You have been ill?

'Overworked a little. I 'am practising medicine in Kingsmill.' Christian did not disguise his astonishment. 'Medicine?'

'You don't remember that I always had scientific tastes?' If it was a reproach none could be more gently administered. *Of course-of course I do! Your botany, your skeletons of birds and cats and mice-of course! But where did you study?"

'In London. The Women's Medical School. I have been in practice for nearly four years. 'And have overworked vourself.

But why are we standing? Let as sit down and talk. How is your father?'

Marcella was watching her brother closely and with a curious lanet remained for another hour. No reference was made to the long rupture of intercourse between her family and these relatives. Christian learnt that his uncle was hale, and that Janet's four sisters all lived, obviously unmarried. To-day he was disposed to be almost affectionate with anyone who showed him a friendly face: he expressed grief that his cousin must morning.

And a few minutes ' after that she took her leave.

There lingered behind her that peculiar fragrance of modern womanhood, refreshing, inspiriting, which is so entirely different from the merely feminine perfume, ex-

WHERE FARMERS WILL BENEFIT

Every Producer of Hogs, Cattle or Sheep Will Reap Advantage from Having Two Markets.

The Farmer's Sun, an ably edited independent newspaper, published in the interests of the farmers of this country, has been publishing a series of splendid articles pointing out the great advantage that farmers in all parts of Canada stand to gain by the ratification of the Reciprocity agreement.

In its last issue it publishes a list of articles produced on the farm which will be entitled to free entry to the United States under the Reciprocity agreement.

Horses which are valued at $150 per head or less are taxed $30 on entering the United States, while those worth over $150 are dutiable at 25 per cent. Still in the face of these heavy imposes, close on half a million dollars' worth of Canadian horses were sold in the United States last year.

At present calves entering the United States from Canada are taxed $2 per head, while cattle worth not more than $14 each are dutiable at 271/2 per cent. And we sold well over $600,000 worth of cattle in the United States in 1910.

Considerably over half a millon dollars' worth of sheep and lambs "Well, I should say not-he's a were sold in the American market | in the same year, although the tax on the former was $1.50 and on the latter 75c per head.

Of hay $673,000 worth was sold in face of a duty of $4.00 per long

In potatoes our sales reached $346,000, despite a tax of 25c per bushel. In turnips of $174,000, notwithstanding a tax of 25 per cent, and in vegetables of $150,000, leave for Twybridge early in the after payment of the same rate of Furmers in Lambton and Essex will gain greatly in freedom in selling their beets to the Michigan sugar factories. Kent farmers must derive profit from the opening of the American bean market. Wellington, Brant and Wentworth Counties will profit from the removal of the restrictions on sales of turnips. Ontario and York Counties will find a magnificent market for their horses in New York State.

Fruit and vegetable growers all along the lake front will have new and valuable markets, almost within sight, thrown open to their products. Every producer of hogs, cattle or sheep, every dairyman and every poultry fancier will reap advantage from having two markets in which to sell instead of one.

Orillia, Aug. 11.-A quarrel between chums is thought to have been the cause of one man murdering the other in South Orillia, three miles from here, on Wednesday night, when Arthur Sheridan, a young man, stabbed Ross Ford in the throat. Sheridan was at a party at the house of George Duff. Ford arrived at 11.30 p.m., and Sheridan went out and met him. They walked down the road together for them to call a doctor. The deed was apparently committed in cold blood. There did not seem to be any quarrel at the time of the stab-bing and Sheridan did not seem to be very perturbed when he returned to Sheridan remained at the scene for a few moments, talking with the others. Then he went off alone and has not yet been heard from. #### CORONATION PICTURES.

How the Picture Theatres Obtained the Views.

Thousands of Canadians are viewing the coronation procession at the electric theatres and are "following the King" at the Nickels. Does anyone imagine the trouble and expense that it costs to produce these cinematograph films. Here is how the thing is done. The best places along the route were eagerly sought after by the various cinematograph companies, and the sites go naturally to the highest bidder.

How are these films taken and shown on the screen so quickly. It is largely a question of organization. Each company has a number of operators placed in various positions along the route, and directly one has exposed the film and taken that part of the procession falling to his share the film is handed to a messenger who is waiting, and away he goes as rapidly as possible back to the place where they are to be developed. Here a batch of men are waiting.

The method of developing is as fol-The film is first placed on a roll at the head of a long tank. It is then electrically unrolled and passes down a narrow trough containing the developer, and gradually, as the film passes along, you see the picture appearing.

At the time it reaches the end of the tank that part of the film is de veloped. It runs underneath into a bath of water, then comes back again through another trough of hypo, which fixes and washes it again, and finally it passes through a weak solu-tion of glycerine. It is then taken into a room and very carefully unrolled and artificially dried. Here it is looked through, parts that are not required being cut off and any spots or defection carefully touched up.

The titles are made by means of a glass slide. It is then photographed on a piece of film by artificial light, and when the desired number of titles to each part of film has been reached the artificial light automatically goes out.

When these things are completed a positive has to be taken in the same way as an ordinary photograph. This is done by placing an unexposed film together with the negative and printed by artificial light. The ray of light is made to fall directly on to the picture like the light that comes from a magnifying-glass being held

Both films unroll themselves together, receiving the light on each individual picture. The negative runs through the developing tank al-ready described. A full-length film is 1,000 feet, and contains no fewer than 16,000 pic-tures. The whole developing process for a film of this length takes about one hour and three-quarters.

Peer and Playwright.

"The Gods of the Mountain," the short play by Lord Dunsany which has been produced at the Haymarket Theatre, London, is not the first dramatic effort of this young peer, who is head of the great Irish family of Plunkett. He has several other plays and books to his credit, and, indeed, has acquired considerable reputation as a litterateur. As a soldier and and sportsman too he has won distinction, and has proved himself a genial host at Dunsany Castle, which is near Tara, famous in Irish song and story. Among his lordship's stock of stories is one concerning an old Irish woman, who, failing to receive from a large patent medicine firm a sample of pills, for which she had applied, went to the postoffice to inquire why the letter (which she believed to have been posted) had not reached her. She was served with the customary form on which particulars of her grievance must be stated, and after the words, "nature of complaint," she ingenuously wrote "bil-

The fact that there are 18,000 fewer saupers in London to-day than there were exactly a year ago has led the Bethnal Green Guardians to abandon a branch workhouse, which is now ap for sale or to let. Other Boards have vacancies in their institutions, Poplar having over 2,000 fewer people to maintain out of the rates. The City of London has had, for some time, a big workhouse to let or another building of their diminishing pauper forces, which number only about 800. These institution: are rather hard to get rid of, for few private individuals can find a use for them, and London is already amply supplied with hospitals.

VETO BILL PASSES

Lords Swallow Bitter Pill by Majority of 17.

GREAT ASSEMBLY PRESENT

Halsburyites Make a Better Showing Than Had Been Expected, But the Fear of Making a Joke of the Peerage Caused Many Nobles to Vote With the Government - The Bishops Vote With Liberals.

London, Aug. 11 .- Premier Asquith's Government, which claims to repreent the democracy of Great Britain, last night enforced its will upon the peerage by the narrow vote of 131 to 114. By this vote the House of Lords decided to accept what the Liberals contend is the will of the people, and dopted Viscount Morley's motion not to insist upon the Lords' amendments to the Parliamentary bill, which pracsically limits the power of the House of Lords to a two years' suspensory veto and vastly increases the pre-togatives of the House of Commons. The great constitutional struggle, which began when the House of Lords nearly two years ago rejected the budget of David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is ended for a time at least, with the greatest change to Great Britain's working constitution since the passing of the reform bill.

The process of voting consumed hearly an hour and the result trembled in the balance until the last mo-The "die hards" mustered creater strength than the prophets had anticipated, and the Government owes its victory to the votes of be-tween twenty and thirty Conservatives who threw in their lot with the Lib-erals to save their own caste from loss of prestige by a great increase in tts numbers and the King from the necessity of the exercise of the royal prerogative, from which everyone be-lieves he was most anxious to be

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York and nine bishops lined up with the Government, although the eccles-lastical lords generally keep aloof from party questions. The Bishops of Ban-gor and Worcester went with the Halsburyites, "the last ditchers."

It was noticeable that the highest tanks of the nobility furnished the tewest supporters of the Government. The Dukes of Norfolk. Leeds, Marlorough, Newcastle, Northumberland, Somerset and Westminster voted with he Oppostion, while the remainder abstained from voting.

"Drinking the hemlock" had be come an historic phrase in past months, and the gathering in the ancient chamber last night to witness this memorable humiliation was worthy of the occasion. Peeresses. ambassadors and commoners packed the galleries, and a group of private counsellors, exercising the preroga-tives of their position, sat upon the steps of the throne. The benches, aisles and floor were crowded

Lt.-Col Arthur Lee, in speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, said this would be a black day in Eng-land's history if the House of Lords accepted the veto bill and the House of Commons cut adrift from the traditions of centuries to bestow salaries upon its members. Apparently the sentiment of the peers was in full accord with this description of the occasion. Lords frequently forgot the oppressive dignity which customarily marks the proceedings in the Upper Chamber, and fought for a hearing with the strenuousness of an American Congressman who has cherished a public building bill and sees the last hours of the session slipping past. The Earl of Halsbury once went so far as to make a formal motion that one of his supporter be heard in preference to one peer who favored the Government

When the voting began, Lord Lansdowne withdrew to a position behind the throne, but his followers watched the issue eagerly. The bishops on both sides walked through the tellers first. A thrill of excitement marked the appearance of each notable, but none was greater than when Lord Rosebery appeared as a supporter of the Government.

As soon as the result was known, several members of the House of Commons rushed from the galleries and into their own chamber and whisper-ed the news to the members. A great cheer followed the announcement of the Government's victory.

The question of the hour is what effect last night's decision will have upon the future fortunes of the Conservative party. Viscount Morley's definite announcement that enough peers would be created permanently to swamp the Upper House if the Government did not prevail, apparent-ly swayed a few waverers and decided

TWO THOUSAND PER.

British Commoners Vote Themselves a Salary.

London, Aug. 11 .- A resolution to pay members of the House of Commons $2,000 annually for their services was carried by a vote of 156 to 159.

The resolution was moved by Chan-cellor David Lloyd-George, in the House of Commons yesterday. The Chancellor said that Great Britain was the only country in the world that did not pay members for their work in Parliament, which nowadays was so strenuous that the members had little time to attend to anything else.

The Unionists opposed the payment plan on the ground that it would be a violation of the principle of gratuitous public service as well as improper for members to vote themselves salaries. Arthur Hamilton Lee, Unionist member for the Fareham division of Hants, who moved the official Unionist amendment against salaries, argued that the effect of the Chancellor's bill would be to keep out the best types and fill Parliament with professional politicians.

James Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, denied that the measure would cause corruption, and said that it would "tend to help the tide of purity which is flowing over American poli tics.'

This note was received at the Agnes street station on the 6th and Griro made good last night. He declared that no trouble regarding Rosa Brunet had anything to do with the shooting of Tarra.

Being kept informed of the move-ments of the Italians in Toronto, he had heard that the dead man's broth-er had left in pursuit of him under a vow to seek him to the end of the earth and cut him to pieces. Hearing this, even after he had written the letter, he fled wildly and aimlessly from Detroit to Chicago, to St. Louis, from which place he returned equally desperate to seek shelter in the hands

'I'm Frank," he said, on entering the station. 'I'm the man who shot Tarro. I told you I was coming and here I am; come for sentence."

He was a member of the Black Hand Society and that organization tormented him day and night demanding $5 and $10 at a time to keep quiet. Griro said he had over a hundred dollars at the time he left Toronto and last night had only $21.10 left.

The rest was used to keep the society quiet and in railway fares. "I've got a lot to tell about the Black Hand," he went on. "There's a hot of them who should be arrested." After being searched, he was taken Inspector Duncan's office, where he was cross-examined for three hours. He is stated to have made revelations regarding Black Hand bands in To-ronto and elsewhere, which will doubtless prove of great worth to the police.

Just when Griro intended to return was unknown to the police. In his letter he merely stated that he would return and give himself up at the place he did. He arrived at the Union Station and went to Agnes street in a hack, for which he paid before enfering the station. Sergt. Snyder of Agnes street station said last evening that the prison-er walked quietly into the station. He told who he was and put up his hands as if to swear to his identity and also that the officers might search Griro did not live at the York street restaurant, but at 175 Jarvis street, where Rosa Brunet was taken into custody as a material witness.
