Now for 12 O'clock Point

Nearly everybody in town has had so many busy days about other points of various kinds that have worried and wearied them. A Point is needed where a pleasant day's outing and rest can be had, and that is at 12 O'clock Point.

You can get there and have the restful day you need by taking the Str. Argyle at 8 o'clock on Monday morning, August 21st. Don't forget the date.

The Steamer Argyle has been thoroughly overhauled and repaired since her recent mishap and is safer and sounder than ever and has been secured for St. Mark's Parish Excursion and Picnic at 12 O'clock Point, leaving Port Hope at 8 a.m. and Cobourg at 8.45 a.m., where the members and friends of the Presbyterian Church and Sunday School will join the excursion party.

Various kinds of sports will be held and prizes offered, the special feature being a baseball match between Port Hope and Cobourg teams.

OLD JOKES.—A trunk belonging to some vaudeville actors exploded at a Railroad station in Pennsylvania. The police think that the explosion was caused by peroxide, whose chief use in dramatic art is gild the lilies, or the top-knots thereof. But it may be that some of the jokes had been kept too long.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The death occurred very suddenly yesterday of William Thurtle, of Welcome. Deceased was taken ill on Monday with tetany and despite the best of medical skill, he passed away. Deceased was 46 years of age and a very highly esteemed resident of the township.

OUR NEW PARK.—The promoters of the new park are meeting with great success and are told on every hand that such a resting place is very desirable in the centre of the town. Everything is now arranged and if the money will be subscribed the park will be a certainty in a short time. Subscriptions will be received at the O. K. Fair, where the list has been open the last week and several of the leading townspeople have placed their names for generous amounts. Remember everybody may help.

POLICE COURT

Two Men Got Drunk and Interfered With Pedestrians

The Sentence of the Magistrate Should Prove As a Lesson.

Leo Macklam and Frank Arkless got drunk on Tuesday and then became very polite by removing their hats to every lady they met, the latter being the chief offender. The chief, however, interfered and this morning the men had to explain their actions to Police Magistrate White.

Their explanation was not satisfactory and Macklam was fined $2 and $3 costs or 30 days in jail, the sentence being light owing to this being his first offence. The money was paid.

Arkless was fined $10 and $3 costs or four months in jail and at the time of going to press he had not settled.

1908, encouraged its readers by demonstrating the hopelessness of the Government's position. Ontario alone was going to give a Conservative majority of 36. As for the Maritime Provinces, it published a telegram from Mr. Borden himself which said:—"Prospects in the Maritime Provinces point to a substantial majority on Monday. Our meetings in every constituency have been wonderful in point of attendance, interest and enthusiasm. From all sides comes the same report—namely, this is 1878 over again." When the votes were counted there was a liberal majority of 17 in the Maritime Provinces.

How Does He Do It?

Toronto Star Anxious to Find Out Mr. Gillies' Secret of Success

Throughout the country there are occasional instances of teachers who are able to pass a percentage of pupils which seems marvelous. Not only do they pass them, which is, after all, a secondary matter, but they instruct them with thoroughness and inspire them with a love for study and research. Such are not always spoonfeeders, nor are they inevitably found in the most highly remunerated positions.

The Star then refers to the GUIDE's local congratulatory Mr. Gillies upon his success and adds: "It would be a fine thing if Mr. Gillies could explain the secret of his success to his fellow-pedagogues. But probably he cannot. Teaching is a natural rather than an acquired art, and it is one which Port Hope's prize schoolmaster apparently possesses to a remarkable degree."

Manufacturers Strongly In Favor of Reciprocity.

At the Liberal Convention held in Brockville two manufacturers came out strongly in favor of the reciprocity pact.

Mr. John Gill, President and General Manager of the James Smart Manufacturing Company, the largest industry in Brockville, and one of the largest hardware and edged tool manufactories in Eastern Ontario, rose at the beginning of the convention to place on record his hearty endorsement of the reciprocity agreement. Larger and freer markets in natural products must improve trade conditions generally and direct benefit must accrue therefrom.

Mr. Gill deprecated the suggestion that the opportunity for increased prosperity would weaken in any way Canadian fidelity to Great Britain.

"The agreement," said Mr. Gill, "is purely a sound business one, and Canadians will do well to avail themselves of its advantages, altogether apart from politics. I am glad as a manufacturer to have this opportunity of heartily approving of this reciprocity agreement and of the sound businesslike agreement secured by Mr. Fielding."

"I, too, desire to give my views as a manufacturer," added Mr.

William C. MacLaren, General Manager of the Halls, Limited, manufacturers of gloves, suspenders, etc. "I have given the matter of this reciprocity agreement a great deal of thought and I have found that there is nothing in it except benefit to the people of Canada. I cannot understand how manufacturers can take any other position. This agreement in no sense injures any of us, and cannot fail to be a big thing to the farmers and artisans. I desire to put myself on record as a manufacturer in complete accord with the reciprocity agreement, and am glad indeed that the farmers are to have this opportunity to secure better returns for their labors."

"I do this because I feel strongly that the unwarranted position in which the manufacturing interests have allowed themselves to be placed is exciting animosity and class feeling in the minds of the farmers. We should not object because the farmers reap benefits; nothing has been done to interfere with the manufacturers, and we will be well advised to attend to our business. I am a director in one lumber company in Quebec, and in another in British Columbia. And I know that reciprocity will benefit both. I cannot see why any manufacturers have been induced to take a stand against it."

a miser's hand until the harp strings of youth are broken and its music forever fled. I would rather spend my last nickel for a striped marble to gladden the hearts of my bare-footed boys than to deny them the childish pleasures and leave a bag of gold to quarrel over when I am gone. I abhor the pitiless hawk that circles in the air only to swoop down and strangle the song of the linnets or bury its talons in the heart of a dove. I despise that soulless man whose greed for gold impels him to strangle the laughter and song of his own family."

each other as we have done. I like you. Earwaker and I respect you; I think you know that. But occasionally you seem to have too little regard for one's feelings. No I don't feel able to pass it over with a joke.—There! The deuce take it! I've bitten off the end of my pipe."

He spat out a piece of amber, and looked ruefully at the broken stem.

"Take a cigar," said Earwaker, fetching a box from a cupboard.

"I don't mind.—Well—what was I saying? Oh yes; I was quarrelling with you. Now, look here, what fault have you to find with Bella Jacox?"

"None whatever. She seemed to me a very amiable child."

"Child! Pooh! pshaw! And fifteen next Sunday, I tell you. She's a young lady, and to tell you the confounded plain truth, I'm in love with her. I am and there's nothing to be ashamed of. If you smile, we shall quarrel. I warn you, Earwaker, we shall quarrel."

The journalist instead of smiling gave forth his deepest laugh. Malkin turned very red, scowled, and threw his cigar aside.

"You really wish me to go on Sunday?" Earwaker asked in a pleasant voice.

The other's countenance immediately cleared.

"I shall take it as a great kindness. Mrs. Jacox will be delighted. Meet me at Halborn Viaduct at one-twenty-five. No to make sure I'll come here at one o'clock."

In a few minutes he was chatting as unconcernedly as ever.

"Talking of settling down, my brother Tom and his wife are on the point of going to New Zealand. Necessity of business; may be out there for the rest of their lives. Do you know that I shall think very seriously of following them some day? With Bella, you know. The fact of the matter is, I don't believe I could ever make a solid home in England. Why I can't quite say; partly, I suppose because I have nothing to do. Now there's a good deal to be said for going out to the colonies. A man feels that he is helping the spread of civilisation; and that's something, you know. I should compare myself with the Greek and Roman colonists—something inspiring in that thought—what? Why shouldn't I found a respectable newspaper, for instance? Yes I shall think very seriously of this."

"You wouldn't care to run over with your relatives, just to have a look?"

"It occurred to me," Malkin replied, thoughtfully. "But they sail in ten days, and—well, I'm afraid I couldn't get ready in time. And then I've promised to look after some little affairs for Mrs. Jacox—some trifling money matters. But later in the year—who knows?"

Earwaker half repented of his promise to visit the Jacox household, but there was no possibility of excusing himself. So on Sunday he journeyed with his friend down to Wrorham. Mrs. Jacox and her children were very comfortably established in a small new house. When the companions entered they found the mother alone in her sitting-room, and she received them with an effusiveness very distasteful to Earwaker.

"Now you shouldn't!" was her first exclamation to Malkin. "Indeed you shouldn't! It's really very naughty of you. O Mr. Earwaker! Who ever took so much pleasure in doing kindnesses? Do look at this beautiful book that Mr. Malkin has sent as a present to my little Bella. O Mr. Earwaker!"

The journalist was at once struck with her tone and manner as she addressed Malkin. He remarked that phrase, "my little Bella," and it occurred to him that Mrs. Jacox had been growing younger since he made her acquaintance on the towers of Notre Dame: when the girls presented themselves they also appeared to him more juvenile; Bella, in particular was with an exaggeration of childness decidedly not becoming. One had but to look into her face to see that she answered perfectly to Malkin's description; she was a young lady and no child. A very pretty young lady, moreover: given to colouring but with no silly simper; intelligent about the eyes and lips; modest, in a natural and sweet way. He conversed with her and in doing so was disagreeably affected by certain glances she occasionally cast towards her mother. One would have said that she feared censure, though it was hard to see why.

On the return journey Earwaker made known some of his impressions though not all.

"I like the girls," he said, "Bella especially. But I can't say much good of their mother."

MY LADY'S COLUMN.

SERVANTS IN NORWAY.

A Place Where They Have Solved the Servant Problem.

In Norway they appear to have solved the servant problem to the satisfaction of both mistress and maid.

In such places as Bergen, Christiania and other large cities the municipal government takes entire charge of the matter. There is a central employment bureau under municipal control and twice a year—once in summer and once in winter dissatisfied servants can look out for new masters and mistresses, and dissatisfied employers can seek to improve their service. The mistress who wants a maid can go to it, fill in a form stating her requirements and the wages she is willing to pay and then leave all the rest to the bureau.

Her card is placed on file and the position she offers is posted in a conspicuous place on a blackboard. Men and women servants in want of work examine these cards, and, when they decide upon applying for any position, submit their recommendations to the bureau for examination. If these are satisfactory, the applicant receives a card to the prospective employer, available for one day only.

Should the lady hire the servant, she fills up the card with a list of the duties, wages and forms of service agreed upon and returns it to the bureau, where it is carefully filed for future reference if necessary.

If the applicant does not suit, the card is returned with "not satisfactory," which indicates that other applicants may be sent.

HAS A HARD TASK

Mr. Borden Begins Work of Opposing Reciprocity.

GOOD CROWD AT LONDON

The Conservative Leader Addresses a Gathering of Two Thousand Persons in Tory Stronghold and Gets a Warm Reception—"Preserve Autonomy of the Nation" Is His Cry to the Electors.

London, Ont., Aug. 16.—Mr. R. L. Borden began in earnest last night his uphill fight to convince the people of Canada that reciprocity means the severing of the Imperial tie, the commercial and political absorption of the Dominion, and—but not incidentally—to convince a skeptical people that their crying need is a Tory regime at Ottawa. Mr. Borden has set himself a heavy task, but he faced it valiantly, even hopefully. Backed by a platform crowded with stalwarts and encouraged by an audience of two thousand people, he laid heavy hands upon the reciprocity agreement.

He assailed the Government condemning the attitude of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues in acceding to President Taft's request. He contradicted the argument that reciprocity had been the hope of all parties in Canada for forty years. Reciprocity was a seduction and designed only to promote the interests of a political party in the United States.

He inveighed against secret diplomatic tariffs, and declared that the Canadian tariff policy should be worked out by Parliamentary control. "Then, and then only," he declared, "can we preserve and maintain the true fiscal independence and autonomy of the Canadian nation. And above that let us take no steps which may weaken or imperil the ties which unite us to our world-wide empire, dowered with the imperishable memories of a glorious past and crowned with the confidence and hope for a still more splendid future."

"Our strong determination," he declared, "is to preserve our freedom of action and thus to work out our destiny, which, affirmed here by our own voice and along our own lines, will most assuredly win the respect of our neighbors, who have given their own inspiring example." That the national appeal was stronger than the citation of figures regarding prices and profits, spurious speculations and the like, was manifested by the oft-recurring applause that greeted every reference to the development of a Canadian type.

"If we are to follow the laws of nature and geography between Canada and the United States, the whole trade would flow south to north, and from north to south. We have done everything possible by building canals and subsidizing railways to bring the trade from west to east and east to west so as to bring trade into British channels. All this we have done, recognizing the principle of the great advantage of forcing trade within the British Empire. There is no boundary line except a purely conventional one over the whole territory of North America. Their habits are the same as ours, and therefore we are induced to trade and cannot help it by the force of nature. But so far as legislation can influence trade, we have done everything possible to push our trade towards the British people as against the American people."

"There was a time when we wanted reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts and our offers were put aside. We have said good-bye to that trade, and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade."

"Does the Prime Minister also realize that twelve foreign nations with an aggregate population of three hundred millions and an enormous production of agricultural and animal products will also have access to the free Canadian market. Canada will receive no reciprocal advantages from these countries; and the United States producer will not be exposed to the same competition."

"If Canada can be neutral when Great Britain is attacked," he said, discussing the navy, "why cannot Britain be neutral when Canada is attacked?"

Wm. Gray, president of the London Conservative Association, was in the chair. He spoke briefly, directing attention to the dominant move before the country. Major Beattie spoke briefly.

A warm reception was accorded to Hon. Adam Beck. Mr. Beck did not trespass at length upon the time of the audience, but he felt he would not be doing his duty as a Conservative and a representative of the City of London if he did not come forward and lend his hand to help Mr. Borden in the fight against reciprocity. The Conservative leader was able to rise above party bias and deal with such questions on a statesmanlike basis.

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

SIR JAMES WHITNEY, Premier of Ontario

Sir James Whitney is probably the most learned man in Canada occupying a First Minister's position. He is L.L.D. of Toronto and Queens Universities and D.C.L. Trinity University, surely something to be proud of. And as if scholarship was not sufficient Sir James must needs take an active interest in the defence of his country. He has taken part in the Fenian Troubles as a N.C.O. Born in Ontario in 1813, he was educated at Cornwall Grammar

SIR JAMES WHITNEY, Premier of Ontario.

School and after graduating at Toronto was called to the Bar in 1876, and created Q.C. 1880. He was first returned to the Ontario parliament in 1888 and chosen leader of the opposition 1896. In 1905 he formed his first Government assuming the position of Attorney-General in addition to that of Prime Minister. On his Government being re-elected Sir James relinquished the office of Attorney-General. He was created knight by the present king on the occasion of the Quebec Tercentenary.

SIR GEORGE GARNEAU

When Sir George Garneau was knighted in 1908 at the time the King was in Quebec attending the Tercentenary it was a double honour—to the city and literature—for while Sir George was Mayor at that time, he represented a family, the members of which for many generations, have taken prominent parts in the public life of the Province, and at least one member is recognized as one of the great historians of French Canada. And Sir George himself—who is no mean litterateur,—in conjunction with Col. Wood, in bringing about the pageant which for a time focussed the eyes of the world on Canada did more than anything else to convince Britishers and even foreigners that Canada had a past of which it was proud. What the tercentenary meant in work probably only Sir George Garneau knows, but he must have been a proud man to see the consummation of his months of successful thought and planning.

COL. F. S. MEIGHEN

The election of Col. F. S. Meighen to the Presidency of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co.—the position so long held by his late father, Robt. Meighen—brings out comparison and queries. The father whose name was known from coast to coast was a masterful man, with a reputation that would overshadow a son even of Col. Meighen's ability. But the father knew his son and knew his worth—so much so—that he was already contemplating resigning in favour of him when death overtook him.

For his present position Col. Meighen has served a long and arduous apprenticeship. When young fellows of Meighen position were taking life easy, he kept his nose to the grindstone—working and acquiring—and probably enjoying it all. Be that as it may, it will be hard to say that worked the hardest, Meighen father, or Meighen, son, and the same reputation for integrity and honour applied to the father applies equally so to the son.

For many years—'t' Militia took up a good deal of his time,—he going through all the grades, to the command of his regiment.

A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

THAT'S a straight, emphatic statement which we are prepared to prove—This way: Every merchant handling "Monarch Knit" will guarantee our garments to give absolute satisfaction.

"Monarch Knit" garments are all wool—selected wool at that. Every ounce of the raw material is imported from Australia, where the best wool comes from.

The SOUVENIR

(NEW IDEA SERIES)

SOME folks dread the winter—because of the furnace troubles it brings. Antiquated heating systems are certainly a nuisance. Dust and ashes, sometimes deadly gas fumes, all over the house. Or hot air like a breeze across a desert waste—poisonous, dry, health-destroying air. All because conservative manufacturers would not consider New Ideas in heating. The SOUVENIR furnace makes the hot air system the healthiest, cheapest and best.

It's built right—A solid, one-piece iron fire-pot—tested and selected iron at that—and flanges on the outer side to increase radiating surface.

The grate is simplicity itself—ashes easily dumped by a simple turn of the lever. No place for clinker troubles.

From base ring to dome every SOUVENIR furnace is perfect.

POWDER PAPER BOOKS.

A book of powder paper is always a luxury in travelling, and one of these books, which costs but a quarter enclosed in a dainty linen cover or a cover of ribbon or silk, will immediately find its place among the toilet articles in the dressing bag.

Still another convenience for the traveller is a collection of small chamomile lined silk or linen bags, in which to keep when not in use the coin of different countries. A tourist in these days of rapid locomotion will often cross the borders of three or four countries where different money will be needed in each place. The name of the coin should be marked on each bag, as, for example, French, German, Italian, and so on. Instead of the bags a collection of five or six tiny leather purses will make a welcome gift, but these purses should all be stamped, or burned with the names of the various countries which the tourist is to visit.

Sashes are worn a great deal with afternoon toilets.

Paris decrees black velvet slippers for evening toilets.

Blind embroidery and English eyellet are both favorites for the separate white waist.

It is going to be a great cotton season, and cottons are going to be tolerated where formerly they have been prohibited.

To be really fashionable this season one must be slender. En silhouette is the rule of the day, a rule modish women are trying religiously to follow.

If a net blouse is to be laundered it should be ironed on the wrong side while it is quite damp with a clean and moderately hot iron. This causes the new fabric to stiffen. Lace may be treated in the same way.

NO HATPINS NEEDED.

Hatpins are not required for several of the new types of toques. Instead, the drapery trimming of the toques is wound rather tightly around the head and lower part of the toque body in a manner which reminds one of the cloths women wind around their heads as a dust protector when cleaning house. The free end of the drapery is fastened by means of hooks and eyes after being wound.

For Skin Irritation

I Guarantee Relief. Your Money Back If Not Satisfied.

I have an ointment possessing extraordinary power to permanently relieve all forms of eczema, skin eruptions, pimples, blotches, ring-worm, acne, tetter, scaly scalp, hives, all forms of itching and irritation caused by insect bites. Its power to soothe ulcers, sores and wounds is very pronounced.

I am so positive that Rexall Eczema Ointment is unexcelled for overcoming these ailments that I sell it with my personal promise that it will not cost the user any thing unless it in every way gives satisfaction. I exact no promise and in no way obligate the purchaser. You must admit that I could not afford to make such a broad liberal guarantee except I am certain I could substantiate my claim.

Rexall Eczema Ointment is a grayish white, pleant smelling, antiseptic, cooling, healing salve that is strongly germicidal. It destroys the germs that penetrate the skin and cause eczema and other tormenting skin ailments. A remedy must do that to be effective, for in no other way can such diseases be overcome.

Rexall Eczema Ointment is ideal for the treatment of skin irritations peculiar to children, for barber's itch, and for sore, itching feet.

It is positively the best remedy I know of, and I urge you to try it at my risk. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. The Rexall Store. H. W. Mitchell, Phm. B.

Flowers of colored straw are popular as trimming. Black and red flowers have yellow centers and there are various striking color combinations. They represent edelweiss, dahlias, roses and poppies in natural tints and shapes.

Some of the new parasols are edged with narrow ostrich feathers and have a big bow of ribbon on the handle, also edged with feathers.

There is a new satin called felt satin. It is faced with woolen and makes a serviceable as well as elegant outer garment—either mantle, suit or coat.

Rather Burn $12,000 Boat.

Boston, Aug. 16.—Rather than pay the $500 annual tax imposed by the U. S. Government on all foreign built vessels, Lindsey Loring has directed that his boat, the Eelin, be burned at her dock in South Boston. Everything of value has been stripped from the boat, including her 20-ton lead keel, her masts and rigging.

The Eelin was built at Southampton in 1899, and was brought to this country as a racing boat. She was 90 feet long and valued at about $12,000.
