HELD UP AND ROBBED

Struck on the Head With a Club and Rendered Insensible.

A young man named Nelson Wilcox, of Hampton, was knocked insensible by highwaymen on his way home one evening recently and relieved of his gold watch, valued at $2.00, and $4.00 in cash. Wilcox, who is about seventeen years of age, works as a farm help for C. N. Rose, a former music teacher of that village. His employer found him in the stable loft the next morning when out doing the chores. How he got there he doesn't know, his last recollection was of placing his hand on the rail of a fence to lift himself over, intending to make a near-cut across the field home. This was between 10 and 11 o'clock p.m. He had evidently been struck with a club, and has since been under the doctor's care. A couple of suspicious persons have been met by different parties in the section of late.—Orono News.

BOWLING

WADDELL OF PETERBORO UNLUCKY

Rennie won his game with Evans of St. Kitts in a romp. In the other half at the Victoria rink Morrison Queen City won the semi-final from R. M. Waddell of Peterboro. The latter was 9 to 1 at the end of the fifth a 2, 3, and 4 put the Bovril men up once ahead they soon had it on ice.

Waddell was unlucky losing his own game. The ninth end he was laying two when he tried to draw a third with his last bowl. He carried the kitty to two of the Queen City bowlers making a difference of four. These Peterboro men are fighters. The last end they were three down and lay shot probably two. There was no chance to draw but by running the kitty to the right or left he would count three.

He got the kitty head on and it went straight ahead to where two Queen City bowlers were and instead of becoming one down he was five.—Toronto Star.

Aylesworth and Laurier

The tribute paid by Sir Alan Aylesworth to his leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, is one of the most earnest and eloquent that has been uttered by public men. Sir Wilfrid invited Sir Alan to join his government and become the minister of justice, and Sir Alan accepted with pride and satisfaction. He had gladly served his leader, and would be glad to serve him still, but deafness had made it necessary for him to retire from the courts as well as from public life. He had read in a Toronto paper an article headed "Aylesworth Forsakes Laurier." This suggested the language that follows:

"When I forsake Laurier the breath will forsake me. (Loud applause.) Ah, fellow-electors, I know the man. I have sat back of him in the house. I have sat at his left hand in council. I know him intimately and thoroughly. I have seen him in every mood, and I come to tell you and to tell you from the fullness of my heart that he is a man among men, and that I shall deem it a privilege to be his friend and supporter as long as life is left me. There is not a thought, nay, not a breath drawn by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that is not single to the good of Canada and her people. He is a loyal British subject, a true believer in that form of imperialism which he thinks and I think is the true form; that imperialism which gives to every component part the fullest freedom, and seeks equally the well being and closer binding together of the whole. (Renewed cheers.) Amid the shrieking and the shouting of smaller men with unworthy motives let me leave this with you. It is my earnest word to you as a man going out of public life: You can trust Laurier. He is worthy of your confidence in every respect. They tell you that his government had become corrupt, that impropriety and wrong are permitted to stalk at large. Intimately associated with him and his government as I have been, if such were the case I would know it. It is not true. In the hundreds of thousands of transactions which devolve upon the departments of government it may be that here and there men have taken advantage of their dealings with the government to collect more than their work was worth. It must, I fear, always be so, but none has more firmly sought and succeeded in administering Canada's gigantic business with strict uprightness and integrity than has Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It is due that I should leave this conviction with you."

This is a testimonial to which every man who knows Sir Wilfrid Laurier can subscribe with a free hand. Sir Alan Aylesworth is not a flatterer. He is not a politician who is seeking favours. He has nothing to gain by fulsome praise. He does not use it. His words have been fitly chosen. They represent the mind of one good man towards another, and they will carry great influence and weight wherever they are read.

Worthy of His Hire.

"Boy, can you direct me to the bank?"
"Yes, for a quarter."
"Isn't that pretty high?"
"Yes, but bank directors get high pay."

PORT HOPE, AUG. 19, 1911
THE SINGLE ISSUE

The leaders of both parties began their election appearances yesterday and both confined their speeches to the tariff agreement. It becomes therefore, as much as possible a single issue election with the reciprocity arrangement as the fighting ground.

Both at Simcoe and London it was manifest that the disposition of the electors was to put all other occasion for contention to one side and to confine their attention to the merits of the one issue, which has been brought to the very centre of actuality by the action of Congress in ratifying the agreement.

There was a very large audience at Simcoe, considering the size and remoteness of the place, and there was no desire whatever manifested to have other subjects discussed. Neither, on the outskirts of the crowd, where the voices of the speakers could not be continuously heard, was there anything else talked of but the agreement. No better indication could be had of the grip the subject has taken on the mind of the farmer, who stands to be the main beneficiary of agreement, and who becomes more and more concerned for the success of it as the days go by.—Montreal Herald.

A HEALTHY TOWN.

Probably no town in the United States can show a cleaner bill of health than Morehead City, N.C. In a population of 3,000 there is not a family having a crippled child or one who is idiotic or insane.

There is, too, a very homologous population. There is neither an Irishman, a Germ, an Italian nor a Jew in town, although there is no ban on any race or creed.

The white population outnumbers the blacks four to one.

Morehead is remarkable for its simplicity in its religious doctrines. There is neither Catholic, Episcopalian, Presbyterian nor Unitarian, although there are eight churches and several denominations.

We would call attention to the card of Dr. Wamsley, of Peterboro, who will be at the Hotel St. Lawrence each Tuesday from 2 to 7 p. m.

A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

That will come to nothing when she hears that I am going to be her step-father.

'Far more likely to develop into a grief that will waste the best part of her lifetime. She will be shocked and make miserable. But do as you like. I am tired of arguing.'

Earwaker affected to abandon the matter in disgust. For several minutes there was silence, then a low voice sounded from the corner where Malkin stood leaning.

'So it is your honest belief that Bella has begun to think of me in that way?'

'I am convinced of it.'

'But if I run away, I shall never see her again.'

'Why not? She won't run away. Come back when things have squared themselves. Write to Mrs. Jacox from the ends of the earth, and let her understand that there is no possibility of your marrying her.'

'Tell her about Bella you mean?'

'No, that's just what I don't mean. Avoid any mention of the girl. Come back when she is seventeen and if she is willing carry her off to be happy ever after.'

'But she may have fallen in love with someone else.'

'I think not. You must risk it, at all events.'

'Look here! Malkin come forward eagerly. 'I'll write to Mrs. Jacox to-night and make a full confession. I'll tell her exactly how the case stands. She's a good woman; she'll gladly sacrifice herself for the sake of her daughter.'

Earwaker was firm in resistance. He had no faith whatever in the widow's capacity for self-immolation and foresaw that his friend would be drawn into another 'frightful scene, resulting probably in a marriage as soon as the licence could be obtained.

'When are you to see her again?' he inquired.

'On Wednesday.'

'Will you undertake to do nothing whatever till Wednesday morning and then to have another talk with me? I'll come and see you about ten o'clock.'

In the end Malkin was constrained into making this engagement, and not long after midnight the journalist managed to get rid of him.

On Tuesday afternoon arrived a distracted note. 'I shall keep my promise, and I won't try to see you till you come here to-morrow. But I am sore beset. I have received three letters from Mrs. Jacox all long and horribly pathetic. She seems to have a presentiment that I shall forsake her. What a beast I shall be if I do! Tom comes here to-night and I think I shall tell him all.'

The last sentence was a relief to the reader; he knew nothing of Mr. Thomas Malkin but there was a fair presumption that this gentleman would not see his brother bent on making such a notable fool of himself without vigorous protest.

At the appointed hour next morning Earwaker reached his friend's lodgings which were now at Kilburn. On entering the room he saw not the familiar figure but a solid dark-faced, black-whiskered man whom a faint resemblance enabled him to identify as Malkin the younger.

'I was expecting you, said Thomas, as they shook hands. 'My brother is completely floored. When I got here an hour ago I insisted on his lying down and now I think he's asleep. If you don't mind we'll let him rest for a little. I believe he has hardly closed his eyes since this unfortunate affair happened.'

'It rejoiced me to hear that he was going to ask your advice. How do matters stand?'

'You know Mrs. Jacox?'

Thomas was obviously a man of discretion but less intellectual than his brother; he spoke like one who is accustomed to the management of affairs. At first he was inclined to a polite reserve but Earwaker's conversation speedily put him more at ease.

'I have quite made up my mind, he said presently, 'that we must take him away with us to-morrow. The voyage will bring him to his senses.'

'Of course he resists?'

'Yes but if you will give me your help I think we can manage him. He is not very strong-willed. In a spasmodic way he can defy everyone but the steady pressure of common sense will prevail with him, I think.'

They have talked for half-an-hour when the door opened and the object of their benevolent cares stood before them. He was clad in a dressing-gown and his disordered hair heightened the look of illness which his features presented.

'Why didn't you call me? he asked his brother, irritably, Earwaker I beg a thousands pardons! I'm not very well; I've overslept myself.'

'Yes, yes; come and sit down. Thomas made an offer to leave them.

'Don't go, said Malkin. No need whatever. You know why Earwaker has been so kind as to come here. We may as well talk it over together.'

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Very Much in Earnest.

At the Liberal Convention at Nanapanee the other day there was a briquet speech by a Conservative farmer which helps to an understanding of how much in earnest the farmer is on the question of reciprocity.

Charles Anderson, always a Conservative, explained his presence at the Liberal Convention by saying he had been one of the delegates who had gone to Ottawa on a farmers' deputation last winter to ask for reciprocity.

When he returned home (so runs the report of his brief but telling address) he had found that three-quarters of the people of the riding approved of the deputation's demand for reciprocity, but now that it was offered the party had brought the old-line Conservatives all into line, and they opposed what before they had asked for. He declared that he was not a traitor to his party, but that the party was traitor to the old policy for which Sir Macdonald and all other Conservative leaders had stood up to the time reciprocity became possible through the Fielding-Taft agreement.—Montreal Herald.

Freedom of Will.

Professor—The result of our investigations for the past half hour is that man has freedom of will. I regret that I cannot continue the subject today, as I have to go shopping with my wife.—Filigende Blatter.

Dropping Into Wealth.

'I fell into some valuable property yesterday,' said the aviator.

'Did you, indeed?'

'Yes; I went through the skylight of a million dollar office building.'—Washington Herald.

WITNESSES DIFFER

Toronto Authorities Forced to Adjoin Wilkie Inquest.

NEIGHBORS ON THE STAND

Mrs. Mary Jane Bryant, Who Lived in the Same House as the Murdered Woman, Tells of Brutality of the Prisoner to His Wife—Daughter of Witness Gets Mixed Up and Inquiry Adjourns.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—So uncertain was the evidence given by witnesses at the inquest yesterday afternoon on the body of Mrs. Ellen Wilkie, that the enquiry was adjourned until Wednesday, Aug. 23, to enable the crown to get the facts straightened out.

Mrs. Wilkie died at 254 Claremont street on Monday night, and it is alleged that death was caused by her husband, who is facing a charge of murder.

Wilkie and Frank Perry, who is included in the charge of murder were present in the court room.

Mrs. Mary Jane Bryant, who lives on the first floor of the house in Claremont street, was the first witness. She told of seeing Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie fighting. Mrs. Wilkie was on the floor in the passage and Wilkie was beating her with his fist, on the side of the head, while Mrs. Wilkie was grasping her husband's leg. Witness succeeded in separating them and then Mrs. Wilkie fainted.

In continuing, the witness was unable to give a clear account of what happened, and as she complained that she was "all unstrung," the coroner excused her for the time being.

Cecilia Bryant, daughter of the previous witness, described several fights which occurred during the evening, between the Wilkies, but as, in repetition, she gave contradictory accounts of the incidents, the coroner decided to adjourn the case.

Had Revolver In Satchel.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—But for the timely intervention of Staff Inspector Geo. Kennedy yesterday morning, Morality Officer Thomas Bloodworth might have met death at the hands of a woman frenzied by the fancied retention of money which her husband has ceased to contribute for her support.

The woman, Mrs. W. D. Joyner, has called several times at the morality department office, and the money, only to be told that its payment had been discontinued. She left in a rage Thursday, threatening vengeance upon Bloodworth. She called again yesterday morning.

While she was talking to Bloodworth she opened her handbag and Staff Inspector Kennedy saw a revolver inside. He took it away from her and placed the woman under arrest so that doctors might decide whether she is sane. She was arraigned in the Police Court upon a charge of carrying concealed weapons and remanded a week.

Will Oppose Fielding.

Halifax, Aug. 19.—F. B. McCurdy of Halifax was nominated by the Liberal-Conservatives of Queen's-Shelburne at a convention held in Liverpool yesterday, to oppose Hon. W. S. Fielding. Mr. McCurdy is one of the successful young men of Nova Scotia. He is a stock broker, capitalist and organizer, and he has considerable interest in the riding which he is to contest with the Minister of Finance.

Baron Hereford Dead.

London, Aug. 19.—Baron James of Hereford, died suddenly of heart disease at Epsom yesterday. He had been in serious ill-health for some time. He was born in 1828 and was attorney-general to King Edward, when he was Prince of Wales.

Two New Boats for C.P.R.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—The Canadian Pacific has ordered on the Clyde two steamers, each of 15,000 tons, to cost $2,500,000 each, was an announcement made yesterday by Mr. G. M. Bosworth, vice-president of the company.

MONARCH KNIT

SINCE Eve turned dressmaker no garments have had the vogue of "Monarch Knit." For lounging coats and sweaters—the correct costume for motoring on land or water, or camping in comfort in the cool of a summer night, "Monarch Knit" is par excellence.

Your Merchant will tell you exactly why "Monarch Knit" coats and sweaters are superior—tell you far more emphatically than we'd care to do over our name. He's wise enough to know that a pleased customer is the best advertisement for his store—

Wise enough to know that once you are pleased more than a few of your friends will be calling around. Our aims and his are identical.

SOUVENIR FURNACE
(New Idea Series)

Keeps the house warm and cosy in the severest winter weather, and heats all rooms equally well. It is very simple to operate—just touch the lever and you dump the ashes; there never can be dead coals at the sides of the firepot; the ashes are readily removed. It is easy to control the heat and regulate the fuel consumption, which means a saving of 25% to 50% in fuel bills. It is a clean and healthful furnace—gas and dust cannot get into the hot air chamber and then into the living or sleeping rooms. It forces pure air through the whole house. The Souvenir Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by

ANOTHER BOOST FOR RECIPROCIITY.—The greatest opportunity in our day and generation: We believe the reciprocity question to be the greatest issue pertaining to the interests of the farmers that has ever been before the country. It is the issue above on which we should stand together because it affects us primarily. It is an issue which every farmers' organization that has been heard from, has endorsed. The only farmers we know who are opposing it are those who are reading the straight party dress, and who have never taken any part in open discussion of the question at any farmers' meeting.—Farm and Dairy
