A gay party went on a sleighing trip to Cobourg last night, and reports that the weather was ideal for the outing.

The Campbellford bonspiel, which was to have been held this week, had to be postponed on account of the mild weather.

The cold weather returned just in time to give us a "Band night" tonight and to get the ice in good shape for the High School Skating Party on Monday.

The Pocahontas Club held a well-attended dance in Mathewson's Assembly Room last evening, and the young people tripped the light fantastic until the hour of midnight.

The jury empanelled by Coroner Dr. Ritchie, Chatham, to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Clement St. Pierre on Wednesday afternoon, as the result of injuries sustained on Tuesday evening when he was thrown from his bicycle in front of a motor car driven by Charles Buck, of Paincourt, returned a verdict of accidental death, that no blame can be attached to Mr. Buck and recommending the authorities to pass a law and see that the same is enforced, which would compel all vehicles to display a light while using the highways during the night.

Last evening a number of rural schools gave a successful concert at Morrish. Parts were taken by scholars of Welcome, Bunkers Hill, Port Britain, Morrish and Zion, the latter giving a quartette. The most amusing thing reported was a parody on "How Do You Do?" which had the names of local sheiks woven through it.

FUNERAL RITES IN CHINA Are as Extraordinary as They Are Diversified

Funeral rites in China are as extraordinary as they are diversified, while if the relatives of the defunct are wealthy, elaborate, an expensive ceremonial is observed. Should a mandarin be about to die, he is attired in his best clothes, in order that the exit from the world may be performed with becoming dignity.

of strange beasts are interred with the coffin for the purpose of driving away ghosts. When the grave has been filled the cock is made to bow respectfully to the assemblage. In Canton the body is sometimes taken to a certain part of the town and lodged in a house set apart for the purpose, being kept there until the necromancers decide what date is most auspicious for the interment.

The remains of those whom the Chinaman does not care to honor are treated in a very different manner, being carried to an unfrequented spot and left to the tender mercies of the jackals. Sometimes they are pitched into the nearest pond. This arrangement, however, is frowned at by the authorities, who cause the following notice to be put up: "Corpses may not be thrown into this pond." Few disobey the mandate.

No liberal man would impute a charge of unsteadiness to another for having changed his mind.

Be yourself—but first make yourself worth being.

FEW MARRIAGE LICENSES

Toronto Citizens Balk at Friday the Thirteenth

Hazards of matrimony, perilous at any time, were not added to material Friday by intending couples applying for marriage licenses at the City Hall. There were only four licenses issued and of these eight persons four of them were disconcerted when informed at the bureau that this is Friday the thirteenth.

However, rather than back out, they stood their ground while the licenses were made out.

$100,000 FOR HORNSBY

St. Louis Slugger Signs Contract for Three Years

Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman of the Cardinals, leading hitter of the National League for five years, will receive $100,000 for his next three years' work under a new three year contract.

This is the largest salary ever paid an infielder in the history of the national pastime. Hornsby, in getting $33,333.33 a year for three years, ranks next to George Herman Ruth as the highest salaried player in baseball. Only one manager gets a larger salary than Hornsby and he is John J. McGraw of the Giants.

Ruth is reported to be working on a contract that pays him $52,000 aside from his interest in the earnings of the Giants.

Appreciation For The Press

The Orillia Times says:—At the inaugural of the Orillia town council Mayor McLean paid a tribute to the Press and referred to services rendered by the council and town by the newspapers. Unquestionably he said they render a service that is seldom recognized. None are more loyal energetic boosters of the town than they, and while at times there may be matters

Some ballplayers train in queer ways. Billy Cunningham of the Boston team figured he would be in better form if he had his appendix removed. So he did, and here he is in a San Francisco hospital with two nurses to prove it in council that invite criticism, in the general interests of the community the questions are treated from a helpful rather than a fault-finding standpoint. The policy and practice of the Orillia newspapers with the municipal council and other public bodies has been co-operation, and the result has been progress. Expressions of public appreciation are never sought and so seldom come the way of the newspaper, that in this instance, it seems only proper that some brief reference should be made to it.

UNINVITED GUEST HELPS HIMSELF

A hungry gentleman got into the store of W. A. Moore, East Colborne, last Sunday night, by removing a pane of glass from a window in the rear of the building, and from the looks of the place and lay-out of dishes and cutlery next morning, he appears to have enjoyed a good square meal. He even went so far as to bring down a large clock from its shelf to a counter to serve as a screen. The inner man satisfied, he rigged himself out with three of the best shirts, several pairs of pure wool and silk socks, boots, cigarettes, tobacco—taking the best in all cases.

Tightening Up of Weather Helps The Farmers

During the past couple of days farmers have been somewhat anxious concerning weather conditions. The unprecedented thaw laid the fields bare and fall wheat was exposed. Fortunately with the tightening up process of the weather, there came a fall of snow to cover up the wheat and form a protection.

Wells have also been replenished with water and there has been lots of running water for the stock.

Road conditions were becoming vexed, owing to the thaw having barred the roads in some spots.

There is still a danger that ice may form in the low places and hollows, freezing out the fall wheat.

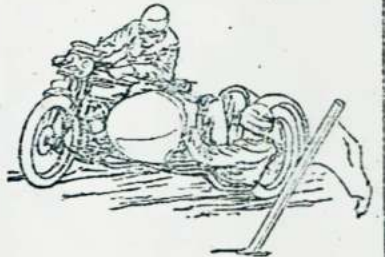

The beginning of all things are small.

Sidcar Rider Risks Life on Curve to Win Motorcycle Race

While credit for most motorcycle racing records is due to the drivers, sometimes their helpers and mechanics deserve no little praise. This was true in a race in Ireland not long ago. The machines were equipped with sidcars and each carried a passenger. To help preserve the balance in rounding a curve at a high rate of speed, the occupant of one of the cars leaned far outward, hanging to the side of the seat and dash. As the race progressed, the passenger's head had indeed striking a flag post that had been stuck in the ground to mark the course of the track.

Scientists to Search Sea Jungles in Hunt for Giant Squid

Turning to the sea for one of the most extensive big-game hunts ever organized, a party of scientists from the New York Zoological society seeks to plumb the depths of the Sargasso Sea and other mysterious caverns of the ocean for traces of the giant squid and kindred creatures little known to man. The expedition, headed by Dr. William Beebe, has fitted the 230-foot steamer "Albatross" with elaborate equipment for scientific research, including hoists, dredges, traps, diving apparatus, complete photographic layouts and a radio-broadcasting set, and contemplates a six months' tour. The ship has a cruising radius of 13,000 miles. Short inland trips in remote sections will also be made and collections of bird and animal life will be gathered on shore as well as from the depths of the sea.

Power of Sun Stored by Plants May Solve Fuel Problem

Although their progress is slow and un-spectacular, scientists are making dogged attempts to discover a way to make artificial fuels which will replace the diminishing supplies of coal and oil. The process they seek to perform in their laboratories is the marvelous one that nature uses every day in storing up energy in leaves and plants by converting waste material into wood, etc. under the action of sunlight. Solution of the riddle is being sought in California by Dr. Herman A. Speer and a staff of research workers. A year's consumption of coal at the present time, represents the accumulation of 100 years, he says.

Protecting Young Trees

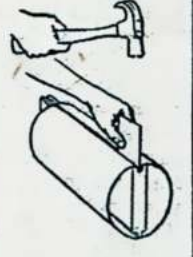

Young trees can be protected against cold by means of old inner tubes and casings slipped around the trunks as shown in the drawing. In the case of very small trees the tubes can be slipped right over the branches, the latter being squeezed together with one hand. The tube is then tied with twine as shown. For larger trees casings may be used, as shown at the right. In the spring the coverings are taken off. After their removal a rubbery odor will be left on the bark, which insects and other vermin dislike.

Reducing Diameter of Stovepipe

Sometimes it is necessary to reduce the diameter of a section of stovepipe when there is not a tinsmith in the neighborhood. However, this can readily be done by anyone at home with materials and tools available almost everywhere. A piece of tongue-and-grooved board, a little longer than the section of stovepipe, is obtained and stuck through the pipe as shown. By means of a piece of flat iron or steel, such as a discarded plane bit or a wide chisel with the edge dulled, and a hammer, the stovepipe is tapped down into the groove as shown in the drawing. The work must, of course, be done gradually from one end of the pipe to the other and the result will be a neat job. If a board of a width to produce the desired reduction in diameter is not at hand, one may be built up of two pieces and then trimmed down to the right size.

A Razor Kink

To the user of an old-fashioned razor who finds it a nuisance to take it to be honed, or too much trouble to do it himself, a method of keeping the tool in shape may prove of interest. One man has kept his razor keen and sharp for a dozen years, by using a trace of flour of emery on one side of the strop. Merely dip one finger into the emery once or twice and rub it on. Start stropping on that side and finish on the other. When the razor gets a little out of condition do it again. No doubt the treatment will have to be varied a little with different razors, but three or four times a year is usually sufficient.

That's Why They Make Monkeys Out of Men.—A British surgeon announces that women exhibit simian traits.

WHY NOT HERE?—An early return to penny postage is contemplated in South Africa. The same should be possible in Canada. The increased rate was a war measure.

Perhaps He Doesn't Smoke.—Guests at the silver wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rhinard, at Berwick, Pa., were surprised when Rhinard passed cigars which he said had remained from those he had passed to serenaders the day he was married. He had saved them in the same box.

Has She a Chauffeur?—A Manchester, N. H., laundress who drives her cars to the various home where her services are in demand has refused, since cold weather set in, to work for any but those having heated garages as she does not wish to have the radiator of her car freeze while she is at the washtubs.

CAN YOU QUALIFY?—Girls seeking a career were advised to take up dentistry, by Dr. Helen Mayo, a successful woman dentist, in a recent lecture in London. "One of the essentials in becoming a successful dentist," said Miss Mayo, is to have large feet, because a dentist has to spend most of her time standing.

67 YEARS OF WEDDED BLISS.—Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Irish, Orillia, had the rare privilege of celebrating together the 67th anniversary of their wedding last week. Many friends called to offer congratulations and quantities of lovely flowers testified to the esteem in which the elderly couple are held.

BUSINESS FAILURES.—Canadian failures in 1924 numbered 244 involving $84,530,975. These figures compare with 3,247 involving $65,810,000 in 1922. Building returns for the whole of Canada show a decline of slightly over 12% as compared with 1923. The comparative figures being $226,000,000 for 1924 and $314,000,000 for the year 1923.

Will Pay "Luxury Bill."—The Berks, Pa., Court, District Attorney and all the attorneys for the defendants approved a bill of $23.20 for 10c cigars supplied to the jurors who served in three murder trials at the December term of Criminal Court, and which the county controller held up claiming such cigars are luxuries.

Everyone to Their Taste.—Mrs. Margaret Cecil of Dunbar, Pa., has a strange taste in pets. In a warm corner of her house lives a boa constrictor, eighteen feet long and more than one foot in diameter. It sleeps in a stout trunk, and is kept carefully wrapped in blankets. She got the snake as a baby in Brazil sixteen years ago.

Not Superstitious, But.—The fifteen-storey medical and dental building under way at San Francisco will have floor numbers running from one to sixteen. The physicians and dentists, who are putting it up, explain that the thirteenth floor has been eliminated, not because they were superstitious, but because the public prefers not to have medical or dental treatment on the thirteenth floor. The roof will have a garage for 215 cars.

GAMBLING NEVER PAYS

Betting on horse racing is very much in the limelight at present. Judge Gauld's castigation of the handbook men has concentrated the attention of the public and the police on the problem of their elimination, and other cities are taking up the task, says the Hamilton Spectator. There is no denying the prevalence and the gravity of the evil, which strikes at the small wage-earner, risking his own meager earnings, just as severely as at the heavy plunger, tempted to steal to gratify his depraved instincts. It would be a great gain if this menace could be cleaned up; but, whatever is done, it is to be feared that the passion for easy money—the something for nothing complex—will never be entirely eradicated. There are many forms of gambling which invite disaster. Equally as dangerous and undesirable as wagering on horse races is the dabbling in stock exchange speculation. The money lost in this way is enormous, and if there are occasional gains, the same may be claimed of turf activities.

The recent course of the wheat market in Western Canada is an example of what happens when speculators jump in with the hope of making a killing. Large numbers have been wiped out through the sudden fall in prices. The recovery which to some extent set in later is of no significance to the man or woman who has been forced out of the market. There is another angle to this question of wheat speculation which is of still more serious import. The effect abroad of fluctuations in price has to be reckoned with. Prevailing high prices are, no doubt, justified to a great extent by reason of the fact of a world shortage of grain. Countries which are in a position to sell naturally demand and receive a higher price for their products; but it is certain the advancement of prices through artificial inflation will react very seriously on the permanent interests of the agriculturalists. The rapid rise in food prices has led to Government investigation in Great Britain and in Germany and France, and measures are in contemplation to checkmate the movement. Speculation never pays in the long run, since nothing which depends on chance and instability can be expected to pay. Gambling, whether it be in wheat, stocks, exchange, the results of races, or anything else, is a game never worth the candle.

FLAMING CROSS OVER CITY TO MAKE MEN GOOD

A huge flaming cross, composed of searchlights will burn high over "Loop" from the tower of the Chicago Temple, in the hope that it will "instill the spirit of goodness in the hearts of the evil," and reduce crime in Chicago, Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the Temple, announced Wednesday.

"This cross will save souls and save lives; it is the whole Christian story at a glance," Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the Temple, said. "Even before being lighted, the cross, piercing the sky 658 feet above the pavement prevented three murders."

"Etched against the drab, smoky, background of the sky, it was seen in their moment of despair by three men, who halted in their determination to end it all in the dark river of death," he said.

VAUDEVILLE NIGHT AND CONSTANCE TALMADGE

Next week is "Joy Week" at the Royal Theatre, with comedy predominating in both programs. For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the feature will be Constance Talmadge's latest success, "Her Night of Romance," which opens a week's engagement at Pantages Theatre, Toronto, to-day. It is the funniest picture this popular star has made for a long time and has been making a great hit in the United States.

On Tuesday there will be a big added attraction in the form of amateur vaudeville—three entertaining new acts, including plenty of music and fun. This is the first vaudeville night in several months, and no doubt will draw a capacity crowd. Arrange to spend a couple of evenings at the Royal next week and you will be well repaid.
