NEW PASSAGE WAS DISCOVERED

Rescuers Expect to Reach Imprisoned Man Today

Sunday's developments in the Floyd Collins rescue effort included: Discovery of a natural passage seven feet from the shaft which may lead to the tunnel where Collins is imprisoned.

Further sound tests between parties in Sand Cave and in the shaft support previous estimates that the shaft was located near Collins.

Ten o'clock last night marked exactly six and one-half days since Collins was imprisoned in the cave by an accidental fall of debris that caught and held him captive by his ankles.

Discovery of latest underground passage has aroused hopes of workmen in soon reaching Collins to higher pitch than has been noticeable for several days.

Officials forced to install a pump in shaft to draw out water seeping in due to heavy rains Saturday night.

After shaft reached depth of 55 feet, workmen began to excavate at an angle of 45 degrees instead of continuing straight on down.

No progress has been made during the last six hours in the rescue shaft headed towards Floyd Collins' natural prison, "due to dirt falls and necessary timber work," said an official bulletin issued at 8 o'clock last night.

The official statement went on to say:

"The total distance of the lateral heading is now seven feet and we are about ready to drive ahead. Material encountered is still limestone boulder formation, is very loosely formed and difficult to hold."

"It is now thought necessary to continue heading at least four feet further before starting downward into the limestone roof of the avenue in order to clear slits and broken formation immediately behind the shaft of the cave entrance side."

"Work last night was slow and tedious on account of the dangerous ground, but barring unforeseen calamity it is to be expected that the avenue shown by the core drill may be reached by to-day."

H. T. Carmichael, in charge of the shaft operations, in a conversation with newspapermen at 9.45 last night, advised them to go to bed, as he did not expect to reach Collins before Wednesday, "but that he would be disappointed if he did not find him before then."

Workmen were understood to have said when they emerged from the shaft that the new limestone avenue which they had found probably would lead them to another void about three feet above the levels of the old cave passage where they think Floyd Collins is entombed. They then plan to penetrate the remaining yard and hope to strike the void on which Collins' body may be found.

MENNONITE ACRES SOLD FOR MILLION

Deal Reported in Saskatoon, With Chicago Capitalists

That an agreement was signed on Wednesday by leaders of old colony Mennonites, of Hague district for the sale to Chicago capitalists of 40,000 acres of their land with livestock and equipment, for stated by F. A. Williams, of Winnipeg, representing the United States interests there Friday. The price at which the sale is to be made was not stated, but it is believed nearly a million dollars is involved.

While many of the Old Colony Mennonites in the Hague district have already gone to Mexico, there still remains a considerable number of members of the colony who are remaining in Canada, waiting for the sale of their lands before making the trek. A total of some 80,000 acres in the district has remained in the hands of the colony, and the 40,000 acres involved in the contract signed Wednesday is part of this block. It is understood the colony has the right to include as much more of the block as its members can deliver.

The U. S. capitalists undertake to buy the land to re-sell it on terms to the Russian Mennonites, who have come to Canada in the past two years, it is understood.

Greatness is nothing but many small littles.

L. O. D. E. FOUNDED IN 1900

Lucky For I. O. D. E. Twenty-five Years Ago Friday Imperial Order Was Founded

The superstitious belief that Friday the 13th is unlucky and pre-determines the failure of any enterprise begun on that day, gets one all shattering blow in the success of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire.

Twenty-five years ago Friday, Mrs. Clarke Murray, now an octogenarian resident of Montreal, founded with 20 members the organization that now boasts a membership of more than 30,000 patriotic women—and the 13th of February, 1900, fell on a Friday!

Fitting recognition of the silver jubilee of this great feminine body will take place towards the end of the month, and for the purpose of completing the plans a meeting of the municipal chapter, headed by Mrs. W. R. Jackson, was held in Sherbourne House, Toronto, Friday afternoon. It was originally planned to hold the celebration in the form of a mass meeting in Convocation Hall on the 20th, but a postponement has been found necessary.

The one fixed ideal for jubilee year is the completion of the I.O.D.E. War Memorial Fund. This ambitious enterprise, begun shortly after the armistice, called for the collection of half a million dollars, with which to create a fund where by sons and daughters of soldiers killed or permanently disabled in the war could receive the benefits of higher education by means of scholarships. Prior to the beginning of the current year about $400,000 had been raised through the efforts of the various chapters from coast to coast.

Every soldier who fought in France or acted as a man behind the gun in England or Canada knows of the war time generosity of these patriotic women who raised the equivalent of more than five million dollars, during the four years of conflict.

Seldom if ever has any organization shown such encouraging and steady growth from one success to another as has the I.O.D.E., yet this body was formed to meet a loer war emergency on Friday the 13th. The national headquarters, the provincial headquarters, and more primary chapters than in any other city are now located in Toronto, while the national regent, Mrs. P. E. Doolittle, is also a Toronto woman. Plans were recently drawn up for the annual meeting to be held in Ottawa during June.

DEPARTMENTAL EXAM. DATES SET

Time Table of Annual Examinations Announced by Department of Education

A timetable of the Departmental examination, to be held here next June, reached us this morning from the Department of Education.

The dates this year, follow the same plan as last year, beginning on June 22nd and continuing until July 7th. These dates are nearly three weeks later than those of 1923.

High School entrance examinations will commence on June 24th, with grammar, writing and geography. On the 25th there will only be two, arithmetic and literature, the final day, Friday, June 26th, being tabled for composition, spelling and history. The entrance students are finishing their ordeal about a week earlier than usual.

Lower School examinations open on Tuesday, June 23rd, and conclude on Friday, 26th, with a total of eleven subjects to be covered. The Middle School begins with chemistry (or 2nd year agriculture) and composition on June 22nd, winding up with Spanish on July 7th.

The Upper School examinations will take all dates between June 22nd and July 7th, excepting Dominion Day, July 1st.

The Christmas to Easter, Easter to Midsummer terms are the real "hard work" terms of the year, and the students are buckling down in earnest in preparation for the Departmental exams. If the examinations of the last five years are any indication of what they will be this year, the pupils will need plenty of work to put them through.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR RESIGNS

Parting Services Conducted in St. Paul's by Rev. F. W. Anderson

Rev. F. W. Anderson preached his farewell sermons at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday, and at the close of the evening service announced that he would not occupy the pulpit in future, and that his resignation would be placed in the hands of the Peterboro Presbytery at once. His action is a direct result of the strong anti-union vote last week.

ST. JOHN'S WELCOMED REV. MR. EMMETT AT SUNDAY SERVICES

Rev. Mr. Emmett, of Toronto, who is occupying the pulpit at St. John's Anglican Church during the three months' leave of absence granted Rev. Mr. Elliott, conducted both services at the church yesterday. His sermons were very inspiring and extremely well delivered. At the morning service he took as his text, "Where Art Thou," from Gen., 3rd chapter. The evening sermon was built up around the distinction between fear and reverence under the subject, "Even So Would You Heavenly Father Do Unto You."

Rev. and Mrs. Emmett were warmly welcomed by the congregation, who wished them every success in their new field of endeavor. A congregational meeting was held in the Sunday school Friday evening, when an official reception was tendered the new rector and his wife. A letter was read from Rev. Jas. Elliott, welcoming his successor and wishing him happiness in his new position.

SUICIDE AT PETERBORO

Resident of Electric City Found Hanging From Cellar Ceiling by Police

J. George Jay, of Peterboro, was found by a police constable Saturday afternoon hanging from a rope in his cellar, dead. His invalid wife lay in bed in an upper room unaware of the occurrence, which is supposed to have taken place some time Friday or early Saturday morning. The alarm was given by neighbors who missed Jay.

Mr. Jay was born in England, and had served twelve years with the Imperial Army in India. He enlisted in the 93rd Battalion in Peterboro during the Great War, but did not see overseas service. Up until three years ago he was janitor of the Royal Bank Building there, but had not worked latterly.

Although supposedly well-to-do, owning his home and other property, he had worried about being out of work and about the state of his wife's health. She last saw her husband Friday morning.

Ale is Dumped in Canal And is Salvaged Later

A carload of Canadian ale billed to a Buffalo steel company as a car of scrap castings was seized Saturday by the United States Customs Department and was later dumped into the Erie Canal at Bridgeburg by orders of Collector of Customs F. A. Bradley. It is customary in such cases to have the liquor analyzed, but Collector Bradley argues that this involves too much red tape and after notifying the District Attorney's office of his intention to destroy it he was advised that to destroy it would put any blame in connection with it on his own shoulders. However, Mr. Bradley had it dumped into the canal. There is considerable ice in the canal just now and a large quantity of the ale which did not sink was rescued by spectators.

COLLINS EXPECTED TO BE RESCUED THIS AFTERNOON

Late dispatches from Cave City, Ky., this afternoon indicate that the rescue of Floyd Collins may be effected this afternoon. The shaft has been dug within five feet of the imprisoned man.

The case of Fred A. McClean, who was charged here some time ago with defrauding Mrs. Christie of a considerable sum of money, was to have come up for sentence to-day, but owing to the illness of the Judge, the case has been further adjourned.

J. C. McRuer, assistant crown attorney, who went to Los Angeles to represent the government at the Peppall extradition proceedings on February 11th.

TOWN MOURNS "DICK" SMITH

Veteran Bandsman "Fell in" For Last Parade

Port Hope today mourns the passing of one of her oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Richard J. Smith, who died last night at the Port Hope Hospital.

"Dick" has been a resident of this town for over seventy of his eighty-one years' career. A natural genius in mechanical lines, he has conducted a harness and general repair shop on Mill street for many years, and nothing was ever too great or too small for his nimble fingers to repair. Known far and wide, popular and respected by his fellow men, his demise will be mourned by everyone with whom he was acquainted. The children, whom he loved, and was in turn adored by them, will miss "Dick" even more—never again will willing hands remedy a broken doll or mend a battered ball.

As a musician, Mr. Smith was one of the most versatile and accomplished performers in the Port Hope band for many years. In his early days he learned to play the piccolo and flute, gradually conquering the difficulties of every instrument, until at the time of his death he had played practically every instrument in the band, brass, reed or percussion. For many years he conducted the 46th Regimental band, and in that capacity he made his band one of the best musical organizations in Ontario.

Just a week before his death, he fell a victim to a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. He was removed to the Hospital on Saturday, February 7th, but he grew steadily worse, and despite all that medical aid could do for him, died last night.

He leaves several children to mourn his loss. The funeral will be held from A. W. George's Funeral Parlours, tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The Valentine Tea held in St. Paul's primary classroom on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Canadian Girls In Training, proved a success, as the weather was just right for people to get out.

Dr. James McLurg, Saul: St. Marie, who has been on $20,000 bail by five bondsmen and $20,000 on his own recognizance in connection with the death of Mrs. Harry McDonald, whom a coroner's jury found died of peritonitis following an operation, appeared in police court there Saturday morning, and as a result is held in the bail mentioned above for trial at the Spring assizes on a charge of manslaughter.

We were pleased to notice in Saturday's Canada Gazette that Lieut. W. F. McMahon, Port Hope, has been promoted to the rank of Captain in Durham Regiment (136th Bn. C.E.F.). Captain F. Mitchell is also mentioned. It states he has been transferred from Durham Regiment to the Canadian Reserves.

An action has been entered at Napanee against the C. M. Patrie Separator Company of Deseronto for $10,000 damages for alleged fraud and misrepresentation. Some of the stockholders allege that the company, through C. M. Patrie and N. T. Johnston, have been selling the stock of the company through the Napanee district, and the action is to have the subscriptions for stock set aside, and for a return of the money to the subscribers.

A Strange Proposal
A young Scotsman fell desperately in love with a charming girl, but could not screw up enough courage to ask her to be his wife. One day a brilliant idea occurred to him. He took her to the local churchyard and pausing before a large tombstone, said:
"Jean, ma grandfather is buried here, ma father is buried here, an' ma mither is buried here—in fact, a' ma folk lie here. Wud ye no like tae lie here tae?"
The lady said she "wud!"
So they were married.

"JOY WEEK" AT ROYAL VAUDEVILLE TOMORROW

Constance Talmadge in "Her Night of Romance" is the opening attraction for Joy Week, which begins at the Royal Theatre this evening. This is Connie's very latest production and is said by theatre managers elsewhere to be one of the most laughable pictures she has ever made. The story deals with the efforts of an American heiress to escape the attentions of fortune hunters and is chuck full of funny situations. A much newer issue of the Fox News than the recent ones, and a Mack Sennett Comedy complete a light and diverting program.

Tomorrow will be an exceptionally big night at the Royal, with three entertaining new vaudeville acts added to the photoplays. These will include Douglas D. Clark in piano selections, Mabel Robinson in humorous recitations and Eddie Jackson, a Toronto singer, in new popular songs. There will be no advance in prices but passes and complimentary tickets will not be good tomorrow.

WOLF CUBS FIRST BOY SCOUTS LATER

Demonstrations Show How Younger Boys Get Useful Training

Demonstrations and discussions on Wolf Cub work were the feature of yesterday's closing session of the Ontario Scout Leaders' Conference at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, which Scout Master C. P. S. Carman, of Port Hope attended. The demonstrations were carried out by a model Pack in charge of Assistant Chief Commissioner John A. Stiles and Executive Secretary E. O'Callaghan, and were interspersed with Cub games.

In a series of talks on Wolf Cub work, Commissioner Stiles explained that this branch of the movement had been started to meet the demands of boys too young to be Scouts. Their training, he said, must differ from that of the Scouts, otherwise one would tend to supplant the other.

Speaking with regard to the training of Cub leaders, the commissioner emphasized the importance of the new Gilwell courses in leadership, one of which will commence in Toronto in the near future. The Wolf Cub program, he stated, was the personal gift of General Baden-Powell to Cub leaders, and ought not to be varied to suit the ideas of the individual leaders many helpful hints on the subject of leadership, and the proper manner of leading after the boys in their care.

At the close of the session the question box was opened by Assistant Provincial Commissioner Frank C. Irwin, and a general discussion of the contents followed.

At the morning session an illustrated address on backwoods cooking was delivered by W. U. C. Hill of Hamilton, which was followed by a discussion on the relation of the Scout Troop to major athletics, opened by D. C. Curphey, St. Catharines. An address on "Scouting and Bird Life Conservation" was delivered by Hayes Lloyd, of the Dominion Parks Branch, Ottawa, and Arthur H. Richardson of the Ontario Forestry Branch, Toronto, spoke on "Scouting and Forestry."

Rattlesnake Hears With Tongue

The original antenna for radio, according to Jack Allman, Los Angeles curator of reptiles, was the rattlesnake's tongue.

"When a rattlesnake is dormant or sleeping," Mr. Allman said recently "its tongue is idle. But when aroused it starts shooting that forked tongue from its mouth and seems to both feel and hear through it. I have seen rattlesnakes appear as though uninformed of my approach when their tongues were not moving back and forth from their mouths, but the moment they became conscious of it the tongues started. Rattlesnakes have no ears, but those little tentacles on the end of the tongue serve the purpose."

Oshawa Woman is Suing For Breach of Promise

At the Napanee Supreme Court sittings on Tuesday next Mr. Justice Kelly and a jury will hear the action brought by Miss Marjorie Vandusen, of Oshawa, against Frank Detlor of the Township of Sheffield for alleged breach of promise of marriage. The defendant has since married another young woman. Miss Vandusen asks $5,000.

A Bucharest despatch to The London News reports four persons killed and twenty injured by the explosion of a package of dynamite on a train. A mining engineer was carrying the package. A fellow passenger dropped a lighted cigaret on it.

To meet the expenses of the movement leading up to the union of the three churches, Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational in Canada, a special fund of $168,750 is required. Of this the Presbyterian Church is raising $75,000, the Methodist Church $75,000, and Congregational Church $17,750. The amount asked of Port Hope Methodist Church is $97.00

"Home Manager— Purchasing Agent— Art Director—Wife"

Just a slim girl, maybe, or a motherly woman with sweet eyes and white hair—but what a responsibility is hers!

She is the active partner in the business of running a home. She buys most of the things which go to make home life happy, healthful and beautiful. Through her slim, safe fingers goes most of the family money.

And wisely and well it is usually spent too—far better than the average man could spend it himself. For women are better purchasing agents than men. They compare prices, weigh values and shop carefully.

They read advertisements regularly. Every day you'll find the wise little home manager searching the advertising columns for news that will add to the comfort, convenience and improvement of her home. You will find the same clever purchasing agent studying the advertisements to find where and when to buy, and what and how to buy most economically. The advertisements, too, tell this responsive art director how she can make her home more beautiful, more individual—the kind of home that a man appreciates but never knows how it is done!

Advertisements are the wise counsellors in the spending of money that the clever housewife heeds daily.

The business of running a home is made easier by reading the advertisements in the Guide.

THE GUIDE STORY

What was it to him, however, though he had gained, with so much difficulty, great distinction—though he possessed the intellect, eloquence and force of character to direct and control a senate or (no reflection) a mob? What happiness to him when a brilliant political victory had followed the volition of his mind? Except his party acquaintances, who cared, who was pleased, who really sympathized with him? What loving and beloved eyes lighted or suffused at the news? What loving and beloved voice thrilled upon his ear in tones of heartfelt congratulations, more earnest and sincere than the plaudits of a senate or a party? Not his wife's, with her keen intellect and haughty disdain, her biting satire, pointed sarcasm and scornful laugh. For, when he would come home from just such a victory, "bearing his blushing honors thick upon him, they would be nipped quickly by "the cold and killing frost" of her reception. Thus passed the weary years; and every year matured and perfected this beautiful, ardent and unprincipled woman, and every year in the same ratio declined and aged this toiling, struggling and ambitious man—this hard-working, ill-paid servant of two masters." Her sun was ascending in unclouded splendor and glory to its meridian; his was declining in clouds and gloom. When she had grown indifferent, totally indifferent, to his love, she left off raging and storming, and even, after a time, gave up sarcasm and bitterness, leaving him to the peaceful enjoyment of such intervals of repose as his arduous and anxious career permitted him. She gave her whole attention to the preservation of her perfect health and beauty, and to the analysis and development of certain demonic powers and charms that she had hitherto possessed and used instinctively, but which she now understood and wielded with diabolical science. And woe to the purity of women or the honor of man that encountered her baneful spell. Washington city and democratic America became too narrow a field, too plain a theatre, for the exercise of her powers. She wished to go to Europe; and this wish, intimated in the proper quarter, actually procured for her husband a second appointment abroad. This suited General Dent very well about this time, now that she had ceased for some months to goad and taunt him. He, not perceiving in this the decline of her love, had really begun to take some comfort in her society. So, in this promising state of affairs, to Europe they went, and there the thunder clouds that had been gathering so long over this doomed man, broke in ruin on his head.

I had intended to have told you of the marriage of our ne'er-do-well friend, Marcus Derby, and his little golden-haired Fanny; and how Marcus, with his usual happy faculty of getting into scrapes, had blundered into the good graces of his congressional district, and stumbled into a seat in the legislative councils of the nation; with the capers, he cut "before high heaven," etc. But I have already trespassed too long. Besides, I am fevered and excited with this dark Juliette, with whom one cannot even deal without danger of receiving and communicating evil. She comes upon me like a fiend, or a fit of insanity; so I wish to hurry on to the end of her story, and be done with her.

CHAPTER XX. Retributive Justice

"All that could mind or sense delight
Were gathered in that gorgeous spot."
—Byron.
"For his was not that blind, capricious rage,
A word can kindle and a word assuage,
But the deep workings of a soul unmixed
With aught of pity where its wrath had fixed."
—Byron.
"Then flashed the living lightning from her eyes."
—Pope.
"She left a name at which the world grew pale,
To point a moral, or adorn a tale."
—Dr. Johnson.

To the residence of General Dent, the American Minister at the Court of —, to a splendid palazzo near one of the most magnificent sites in the south of Europe, I wish to conduct you. It is an elysium, such as only may be found in Southern Europe; where, to the lavish exuberance of nature, to all that is most sublime in mountain, forest and cascade—most beautiful in lake, lawn and grove, most fragrant and luxuriant in flowers, shrubs and fruits—genius, wealth and taste have added all that is most imposing in architecture, most elaborate in sculpture, most classic and elegant in statuary, and most poetic and recherche in painting. Through groves of orange and of citron trees, through sunny lawns, across whose light the shadows of the beautiful linden, the stately poplar, and the graceful willow, swaying and waving in the wind, float like clouds over sunny terraces, through gilded corridors, up marble stairs, and through long suites of elegant apartments, to the voluptuous bower of the houri of this paradise we go.

To enrich and ornament the splendid suite of apartments occupied by this beautiful epicurienne, the rarest treasures of land and sea, the most precious productions of nature, and the most costly works of art, from the factories and workshops of Europe, from the looms of Persia and of Turkey, from the mines of Potosi and Golconda, and from the groves and gardens of Ceylon and the Maldive Isles, had been collected.

Stone carvings over 2000 years old. Two ancient pieces of Roman British stone sculpture have just been placed on exhibit at the Royal Ontario Museum on Bloor street. More than 2000 years ago they were probably erected to some divinity in a gentleman's garden at Bournemouth. They have weathered badly, but, with the assistance of some coins of the period, the figure of the genius of the Roman people seems to be fairly clear.

white petals gently. "Why, they call me Mayflower, when I bloom long before May."
"Well, I guess they like the name and you bloom so very early," mused Peggy. "March flower wouldn't sound near so sweet."

"No, I shouldn't like that name at all," laughed Mrs. Trailing Arbutus. "I rather like my own name the best. Do you know, they tell me that my blossoms are among the first; they sell on the streets in the Spring. Is that so?"
"Yes, it is the very same flower," agreed Peggy. "But goodness! Buying them tied in a bunch is nothing like finding them right out in the pine forests among the snow patches."

"Well, a long, long time ago all woodland flowers were just as lacy as could be, so Mother Nature offered a prize to the flower who could get up above the ground the earliest." Mrs. Trailing Arbutus shook her pretty blossom bonnets proudly. "And I won the prize that year! It seemed so nice to have folks stop and tell me how brave I was to venture out so early that I decided I'd do the same thing the next Spring and the next. The very second I hear old March Wind set sail over the woodland I begin to push with all my might, and before I know it I'm right out of the ground. True, the winds are still cold at times. But I just snuggle up among the pine-needles and dead leaves and the wind doesn't bother me much. Gather a few of my bonnet blossoms and take them to school with you. I don't mind."

Peggy thanked the dear little Trailing Arbutus and gathered a few of the pink and white blossom bonnets. Then she trotted off to school just as the bell rang for the last time.

Presbytery Meets in Campbellford and Discusses Union Ministers' Position

The Presbytery held a meeting in St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford, on Tuesday afternoon, when the following ministers were present: Rev. F. W. Anderson, of Port Hope, Moderator; Rev. W. A. Bremner, Cobourg; Rev. J. S. Ferguson, Baltimore; Rev. G. S. Girvan, Millbrook; Rev. A. H. McConachie, Centreville; Rev. G. I. Crow, Springville; Rev. J. W. Gordon and Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, of Peterboro; Rev. P. C. Jull, Lakefield; Rev. T. M. Wesley, Norwood; Rev. D. A. Thompson, secretary, Hastings; Rev. G. S. Hammond, Warkworth; Rev. C. F. McIntosh, Campbellford.

The following elders were also present: Messrs. Cameron, Cobourg; Benson and Dutton, Peterboro; Dick, Warkworth and A. H. McKelvie, Campbellford.

There was also a delegation from Warkworth, relative to the resignation of Rev. G. S. Hammond, as follows: Messrs. Black, Carlaw, Dick, Osborne, Wilson and Weatherston.

The delegation from Campbellford relative to the resignation of Rev. C. F. McIntosh was composed of Messrs. J. A. Anderson, Jas. Allan, W. W. Clarke, Dr. H. B. Longmore, Dr. G. A. Hay and D. W. Douglas.

The resignations were read and the delegations heard regarding these.

The two ministers, Rev. G. S. Hammond, Warkworth, and Rev. C. F. McIntosh, Campbellford, who had resigned were also heard.

They thought that it would be to the best interests of the work so that the majority congregations should be able to follow out their own policies. A motion was passed that these resignations be laid on the table till Tuesday, March 10, when they would be considered at the Presbytery meeting held on that date in St. Paul's church, Peterboro. The reason given for this was that not only the ministers and congregations of Warkworth and Campbellford must be considered, but the work of the whole Presbyterian church in Canada. These ministers would no longer be in active service in the work of the Presbyterian church, and in view of the fact that there would be four more ministers resigning, it was thought wise to leave it over till March meeting.

But it was made plain that this would not in any way interfere with the plans of Unionist minority being followed, that of worshipping with the Methodist as had previously been arranged.

THIS SPARROW PAID FOR MEAL WITH DOLLAR

Ottawa may become famous as the home of a wonderful bird of generous disposition.

Dr. S. J. Keyes, of the Normal School staff, Ottawa, is authority for the story and vouches personally for it. His housekeeper, at his home at 188 Centre street, is Mrs. Mary Brown, who sprinkles bread crumbs on the mat near the front door for the neighborhood sparrows.

Mrs. Brown was out Saturday morning giving the birds their usual treat. A small sparrow, more jaunty than his fellows, flew from a tree and after depositing a one dollar bill on the door mat, he proceeded to eat his morning meal of crumbs in contentment. When Mrs. Brown's astonishment had abated, she picked up the bill to find it perfectly good.

GRAFT SKIN TO SAVE A CHILD

Parents of Gerald Babcock May be Called Upon

Parental love is willing and anxious to come to the aid of little Gerald Babcock, aged 5 years, of the village of Holleford, who is in a critical condition in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, suffering from terrible injuries as a result of being scalded. His father and mother have both offered to give the necessary skin to heal the scalds on his limbs and the attending physicians will decide in a few days whether or not grafting will be necessary. The youngster was on a sleigh near his home when a companion accidentally pushed the sleigh against a pail of boiling water which the lad's grandfather was carrying from the house to the barn. The pail was tipped and the contents went all over the youngster.

Blankets will not shrink if washed this way—

To keep your blankets soft, fluffy and unshrunk—wash them in Lux. Blankets of fine wool, wool nap, wool and cotton—you can trust them all to the gentle Lux suds.

Wash blankets this way:

A rich live suds is essential throughout the washing of blankets. To obtain this, use two table-spoonfuls of Lux to every gallon of water in the washing. Dissolve the Lux thoroughly in very hot water, whisking it into a thick suds. Add cold water until lukewarm. Put the blanket into the rich suds, soak it up and down, and squeeze the suds through the entire blanket. If suds die down, add more Lux, taking care that it dissolves before you put the blanket in again. Press the suds through the soiled spots if any, but never rub the blanket.

Rinse in three or more lukewarm waters, of the same temperature as the suds. Fold evenly, run through a loose wringer and hang dripping. Never wring tightly. Pull gently into shape at intervals when drying. Do not expose wet blankets to extremes of heat or cold.

Ordinary common bar soap or chips shrink wool, and coarsen and yellow it. Lux is mild and pure, and entirely free from any ingredients that could harm or shrink wool fibres. Lux keeps your blankets like new.

PEGGY MEETS A BRAVE LITTLE BLOSSOM-LADY

WHEN Peggy spied the dainty little pink flowers blooming so prettily among the dead oak leaves on the ground, she gave a squeal of delight.

"Oh, you dear little blossoms!" she cried, stooping down to touch the pearly white petals with her fingers. "How brave you must be to wake so early in the Spring. I should think you'd be afraid of the snow flying in your face."
"Who, me?" laughed the pretty blossom. "Goodness, no! I'm not afraid of snow. If you knew how restless my little brown seed babies get, buried down so deep in the dark

"And I won the Prize." ground all Winter long, you wouldn't blame me if I pushed right up through the very snow itself. Why, those seeds have worried and hurried me until I hardly knew whether my blossom bonnet was on straight or not."
"I'll say it's on perfectly straight and proper," laughed Peggy. "But with it all, you haven't told me what folks call you."
"How foolish of me to forget that! I'm called Trailing Arbutus, Mayflower, and some folks even call me Ground Laurel," and the pretty pink blossomed lady shook her pink and

O'Leary Maintains Claim Of Mistake by Witness

Sergeant Michael O'Leary, V. C., who was brought before United States Commissioner George Keating on Feb. 7th, charged with having smuggled aliens into the United States on freight trains via the International Bridge, was again arraigned before Commissioner Keating Saturday and identified by one of the aliens as the man who assisted in getting him into the States. O'Leary, however, still maintains that it is a case of mistaken identity and that he did not attempt to bring any one over, nor did he ever accept any money from any one. The case was again laid over.

START DAM FOUR ON TRENT CANAL

G. N. Gordon Has Assurances of Commencement of Work Near Peterboro

That the government has placed in the estimates four hundred and one thousand dollars for Trent Canal improvements, out of which Dam No. 4 will be started and the old dam removed, G. N. Gordon, K. C., M. P., said Friday. It is expected that this work will cost over three hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. Gordon has been strongly advocating this improvement and on several occasions has placed the need of this new work before the government.

Mr. Gordon also advised that Sir Adam Beck had promised him that he would put in a generating plant at Dam No. 4 to use the surplus waters for the development of power for the city.

BURNED TO DEATH

Toronto Druggist Trapped in Prescription Room—Door Was Locked

John K. Patton, Toronto, aged about 70 years lost his life Friday evening when fire broke out in the prescription department at the rear of his drug store near Kennedy Road in Scarboro Junction, an eastern Toronto suburb. Dr. Jewell, who had his office in the building, tried to effect a rescue, but found the door to the prescription room locked on the inside. The building, a one-storey frame structure, was burned to the ground.

Patton had apparently been at work filling a prescription but it is not known whether the tragedy was due to combustion of chemicals or to the overturning of a stove. It is presumed that in trying to escape he evidently clicked the latch on the door and was too far overcome to unlock it.

Patton was a widower and leaves a family.
