

OBITUARY

MRS. J. H. JAMIESON

Mrs. James H. Jamieson, a resident of Port Hope for the past 25 years, died at the Port Hope hospital Tuesday evening after an illness of some duration. Her maiden name was Anne Wedall and she was in her 69th year.

Deceased was born in England and came to this country some 25 years ago and since has resided in town. She made many friends in Port Hope who will be sorry to learn of her passing.

Besides her husband, two sons in England, one daughter Mrs. C. Johns of Port Hope and two sons, Jack and Fred Jamieson of Port Hope, survive.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, Victoria street, on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, with interment at the Union cemetery.

Dry raiders have no right to search a bona fide private residence even if they are armed with a search warrant and find liquor ruled Cuyahoga County (Ohio) Court of Appeals.

FUNERAL HELD IN PORT HOPE

Miss Mary McGimsie Laid to Rest At Union Cemetery Wednesday

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at Miss Mary McGimsie, from her late residence, Ellen street to the Port Hope Union cemetery and the obsequies were well attended by friends and acquaintances of the deceased. The late Miss McGimsie passed away at the local hospital Monday.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. F. W. Anderson of the Port Hope United church and the following acted as pall bearers: Messrs. Geo. Caldwell, J. Harcourt, Wm. Russell, A. Long, A. Walsan and B. Thompson.

The death occurred on Monday after an illness of some duration. Deceased was born in Kingston and has resided in Port Hope for nearly seventy five years. The late Miss McGimsie was well known and her many friends will regret to learn of her death. Two brothers, one in Kenora and the other in Chicago, survive.

9 FIRE VICTIMS LAID TO REST

Throngs March Behind Sleighs to Accompaniment of National Dirge

The largest funeral in the history of Northern Ontario was held Wednesday afternoon, when the bodies of eight Finlanders and one Ukrainian were interred in one community grave. The deceased were: Oscar Ahucnkoski, Armas Valo, P. Hedi, Charlie Maki, John Kangas, A. Kumpula, W. Y. Altanen and A. Aho, also M. Swaity, the Ukrainian.

The Finlanders' Hall on Fourth avenue was crammed to capacity with mourners and friends, while the sidewalks were almost impassable for a couple of blocks.

The eight caskets were arranged in two groups of four so that a line of people could view the remains. Over 1,000 persons passed through the edifice within an hour. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The principal speaker delivered eulogies of the deceased men and a few minutes after 4 o'clock the long procession formed for the last part of the journey.

The Finlanders' band, playing their national funeral music, headed the procession up Fourth avenue and then south along Pine street. The band was followed by three sleighs, each bearing three caskets with a large number of pall bearers walking alongside. Then came three large sleighs filled with women mourners.

Many more men and women followed on foot. The number of persons in the procession was more than 800, while two or three thousand more viewed the scene from the sidewalks.

Viewed from the boundary of the town, the cortege wending its way along the snow road presented a sight that was solemn and pathetic. From the main road an eight-foot passage had been dug out of the snowdrifts to the large community grave at the west side of the cemetery, and this passage was floored and lined with evergreens. In the excavation of the large grave a ramp had been left at one end, and the caskets were carried down by the pallbearers and placed side by side. The grave was covered in when the nine caskets were in place.

Speed Skating at Bowmanville Offers Interesting Program On Monday

A beautiful exhibition of speed skating is to be given in Bowmanville on Monday next, under the auspices of the Physical Department of the Boys' Training School, according to an announcement in our Coming Events Column.

On looking over the program with its list of artists, which contains the names of Leila Brooks-Potter, champion of the world; Geraldine Mackie, Isabel McCullough, Jacqueline Belanger, Hattie Donaldson, Jimmy Good, Roy Pendrel, Fred Brooks, Art and Wilf Flack, Orel Duffy, Dug. McQuarrie, Herb Flack and Albert Waters, we are of the opinion that it will be well worth going to see.

Besides the artists placed on the program there have been listed a few events which will very much interest skaters who are attending, as they can take part. It has been so arranged that there can be no unfair competition, in the events open to skaters from Bowmanville, Oshawa, Whitby, Port Hope, Cobourg and all intermediate points; skaters from Toronto will not be permitted to enter.

Entries will close Saturday, so if you wish to be in the races, you will have to write to J. E. Cunningham, Physical Director of the Boys' Training School, tonight or tomorrow.

TAUGHT SCHOOL IN THIS COUNTY

Prof. John Squair Died in Toronto Wednesday After Heart Attack

Prof. John Squair, formerly head of the French department of the University of Toronto, passed away Wednesday morning at his residence 368 Palmerston boulevard, Toronto, in his 78th year.

The end was unexpected. Tuesday Prof. Squair complained of feeling ill and was confined to bed. He passed away at nine o'clock Wednesday, the cause being heart failure.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura Squair, one daughter, Miss Marion, three sisters, Mrs. Abee Craig, Mrs. Geo. Stephens, Mrs. Wm. Pollard, and one brother, F. C. Squair, all of Darlington township.

In 1914 the French government awarded Prof. Squair the distinction of being made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Retired in 1916

In 1916 the professor retired from his position as head of the French department of the University of Toronto, after 35 years of service, during which time he did much to foster "bonne entente" between this province and Quebec.

At Varsity he endowed a twenty dollar annual proficiency prize in French and he also endowed a prize at Laval University (Quebec) for proficiency in English.

He was a member of the York Pioneers, the Durham Old Boys' Association, the Ontario Historical Society, the Art Gallery, and the York Club.

Taught in Durham Schools

In his early youth the late Prof. Squair taught school in Durham county. He obtained his B.A. at Toronto University and won the gold medal for languages when he was 31 years old. For many years he held an assistant professorship at the university before he was made head of the department.

He is best known to Ontario citizens for his share of the work in writing the Fraser and Squair French grammar, which is reported to be the best of its kind that has ever been published. Other works from his pen include a history of the township of Darlington and Clarke, and many pamphlets on such diverse subjects as problems in the study of languages and coeducation.

TOWN LEAGUE GAME TONIGHT

Maroons Must Defeat Leafs in Order to Stay in Running

One of the best games in the Port Hope junior town league will be played tonight from 7 to 8 when the Maroons take on the League leading Maple Leafs and the former aggregation must cop a win in order to stay in the running. The Leafs are travelling at a fast pace and the game should be a good one.

On Friday night from 6 to 7 the Falcons and Rangers hook up in a scheduled juvenile game.

The standing of the league is as follows:

	W	L	D	Pts
Maple Leafs	2	0	2	6
Shamrocks	2	2	1	5
Victorias	1	1	3	5
Maroons	0	2	2	2

The standing of the Juvenile League is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Alerts	2	0
Falcons	1	1
Rangers	1	1
Midgets	0	2

WILL OPEN MORE LIQUOR STORES

More liquor stores and brewery warehouses will probably be opened by the Ontario Liquor Commission in Eastern Ontario and especially on the Quebec border, it is understood. Stewart McClenaghan of Ottawa, member of the Liquor Control Board, finds that law is being well observed in this section. The Board by spring will open altogether a hundred more liquor stores in various parts of the province, according to forecasts.

PERSONAL

Mrs. A. Stevenson, Walton Street, was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Mrs. J. T. Steen, Walton St., has returned from Toronto after a pleasant visit with friends.

Mrs. M. Milcott and Mrs. A. O. Keefer, were in Toronto and called on the former's daughter, Miss Mabel Milcott.

More than 97,000,000,000 cigarettes were produced in the U. S. last year.

THE CANADIAN BANDIT ASSOCIATION

The occasion of the recent proposals of the Canadian Bar Association to the Prime Minister at Ottawa might very well be embraced as justification for suggesting that the organization should be called the Bandit instead of Bar Association. The demand of the delegates that the salaries of the Judiciary of the Dominion shall be enormously increased is little less than a legalized effort to loot the Federal Treasury.

The proposal to increase the salaries of the higher court justices to $15,000 and $20,000, and certain of the County judges to $9,000, on the plea that the leaders of the Bar cannot be expected to abandon their much higher professional earnings in order to assume the ermine. If this is a fact, it is a strong argument that the door should be effectively closed to any of them being appointed to judicial positions. The legal rights of the "man on the street," which have to be settled by litigation, are more likely to be properly adjudicated by the ordinary legal practitioner, than by the hi-jacker whose splitting of legal hairs increases his bank account by five hundred or a thousand dollars a day.

The judiciary of this country has earned a high reputation, even when the salaries were one-half of the amount that they are today. There have been no difficulties, whatever, in filling vacancies on the Bench with ability and sound judicial characteristics. The judgments of the Canadian Courts, from Police Magistrates to the Supreme Court of Canada, will bear comparison with the judgments of any of the Courts in any of the countries of the world.

There is no difficulty, whatever, in filling vacancies in the judiciary from the Canadian Bar. It is safe to say that the number of members of the Bar who have been invited to accept seats on the Bench throughout the entire Dominion, and who have declined the honor on account of being able to earn more in fees at their practice, can be counted on the fingers of one hand in the last sixty years. The actual statistics in this regard proves the absurdity of the contention of the Canadian Bar Association.

Any government that would undertake to carry out the suggestions that have been made on this question by the representatives of the Bar would be assuredly driving the final nail in their political coffin. No public approval could possibly be secured for any such ridiculous proposals. There is no evidence that the judiciary is requesting this. But probably emanates from certain of the profession who hope to reach the Bench some day. That personal interest, not public welfare, is at stake. That is only too painfully evident.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Good morning! Do you think we'll have the usual snappy week end?

Skaters are hoping it will freeze hard tomorrow and Saturday to make a keen band night.

The United church Sunday school is putting on a concert on the last day of this month, according to the Coming Events, and it should be the last word.

The Royal Theatre has an automatic ticket seller which has just been installed and is creating considerable interest. The young lady just presses a button for a certain number and kind and with a whir through a trap door pops the ticket.

The band had a good practice last evening and are getting in splendid shape for the monthly concert. Mr. Walter Frazer, who came here from Mandalay, Burma, was present at the practice. He is an excellent musician, having been bandmaster of the Burma Police Band. He likes Port Hope and will prove a valuable acquisition to our band if a position can be found for him.

Besides the list announced in the Guide a few nights ago of the prize winners in the special short course on swine held at the packing plants in Toronto last week, Wray Edwards of Durham county obtained third prize in the "dressed carcasses" competition.

A team from Trinity College went all the way to Toronto to get trimmed 4 to 1 by Upper Canada College.

The Boy Scouts of the district are going through to Peterboro where a convention is being held.

The missing Oshawa boys have been traced to Detroit, but how they managed to slip across the border is more or less of a mystery. Jimmie Webster of 737 Cedar street, has written his mother from the American city that he is alright and is searching for work. The post card was stamped at the Detroit post office at ten o'clock Sunday night. Clement Innis, 126 Alice street, has not yet written home, but his parents have now learned that he intended to go to Detroit after failing to find work in Oshawa.

Convicted of operating radio sets without a license, the following were fined $5 and costs in police court at Oshawa: Frank Bice, Jas. Hewson, John Cowan, Arthur Bouckley and Gordon Annis.

Daylight saving will go into effect in Oshawa at the same time as it becomes effective in Toronto, April 29 to September 30. The council last year passed a motion making daylight saving effective for five years, to begin and end on the same dates as apply in Toronto.

Robert Condit, builder of the Miami Beach-to-Venus non-stop rocket, who steadfastly has insisted that his proposed flight is a scientific experiment that should not be exposed to prying eyes of the curious, asked permission of authorities to charge admission and admit the public to his hitherto impregnable stockade. Miami Beach City Councilmen, however, chose to sustain Condit in his first position, and disregard his change of attitude, for they refused to grant him a license. Condit claims he will hop off for Venus about March 1.

Skating tonight, good sheet of ice, from 8 to 10. Hockey, town league from 7 to 8.

COULDN'T GET AWAY FROM IT Arthur and Evangelina were climbing the highest peak in the Alps and she stood above him some twenty feet.

"What," he gasped—"what do you see?"

"Far far below," she cried, "I see a long, white streak, stretching like paper ribbon back almost to our hotel."

"Ha, ha!" he ejaculated. "It's that hotel bill overtaking us."

HICKMAN FACES SECOND CHARGE

Goes on Trial With Welby Hunt For Killing Druggist—Postponement Likely

Condemned to die on the gallows on April 27 for the killing of Marion Parker, William Hickman continued to fight for his life as he was called upon to answer another charge of murder.

Hickman and Welby Hunt, partners in crime, were ordered into the Court Wednesday for trial on charges of slaying C. Ivy Thoms in an attempted drug store holdup in Rosehill, a suburb, on Christmas Eve, 1926. The initial court session was expected to be little more than formality, as Jerome Walsh, Hickman's attorney, signified his intention of asking a continuance until Monday, and Superior Court Judge Carlos Hardy indicated it would be granted.

PRISONER ABSENT WHEN CASE CALLED

Order the Arrest of Jackson Blake of Toronto—May Estreat Bail

Jackson Blake of Toronto, did not put in an appearance when his case was called in the county Police Court at Newcastle Wednesday morning before Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg, and an order was issued for his arrest and his bail may be estreated. Blake was remanded when he came up two weeks ago, charged with theft of $3,133.50 from Peter Galbraith of Orono. Bail was accepted for $20,000 in three sureties—$10,000 surety by Mr. Blake; $5000 by Mrs. M. Johnston and $5000 by Mrs. Blake. Last Tuesday Blake came up for hearing at Newcastle and was remanded until Wednesday.

Will Watch Hornsby

When the Boston Braves take the trail for Florida shortly and swing into action at their St. Petersburg training camp, they will be cast in the roles of an interesting little drama centering around Rogers Hornsby. Boston fans are wondering right now whether he will be the hero or the villain of the piece.

Hornsby knows his lines well and he is not much of a hand to take prompting from anybody. When he arrives in St. Petersburg he will probably hustle over to his hotel ask for his room, set up his wardrobe and tell the bell boy to send him the Boston trainer with a uniform. If the uniforms have gone to the ball park, Hornsby will go out there looking for one and then he will begin to limber up and arouse an appetite for dinner.

The first fact that will percolate through the brains of Jack Slattery who manages the Boston club this year, will be the brusqueness of Hornsby. Rogers will not cry for the moon when he wants it. He will simply say: "I want a piece of that moon and hurry it."

It was Hornsby's decisive manner that took the management of the St. Louis Cardinals away from Branch Rickey and also that assisted in separating Hornsby from St. Louis and perhaps New York. There is reason to think that Hornsby spoke his mind freely and without reservation in regard to some things on the New York club.

That brings up the probability of the arrangement of the Braves when they arrive at St. Petersburg. Of particular interest will be Hornsby's attitude toward Eddie Farrell, short stop, who was formerly with the Giants. It has been said by men who were companions of the Giants in 1927 that Hornsby objected to Farrell when the latter was a Giant because Eddie was behind the clock on double plays. Others have said that Hornsby made Travis Jackson fast on double plays, which is so far from the truth that it will never catch up with it.

Hornsby did not speed up in 1927 until the first of July and perhaps he did not like Farrell; but when Jackson got into the game he was so fast that Hornsby had to speed up. As a result, the fortunes of the Giants began to go up.

New Boston has taken Jimmy Cooney, shortstop, away from St. Louis Cardinals. Why? Was a hint dropped to the owner of the Braves that he ought to get Cooney because the latter had once played shortstop for Hornsby and knew how to play it better than Farrell?

That's what will stir folks up when the Braves unlimber at St. Petersburg and the new manager makes his first statistical move. If Hornsby doesn't like it, he will tell Slattery so in the course of time. And he will give mighty good reasons for any suggestions he may make in regard to plays and players. For Hornsby does know a little about baseball, even if he is way on horse racing.

BELLEVILLE ADVANCES

Belleville juniors, playing their second game in the round with Markham at the Trenton arena last night, defeated North Toronto by 4-0, as the game in Markham was won by the home team 2-1. Belleville thus captures the round by three goals. Belleville will now meet St. Michael's College in the next round.

It was apparent from the beginning that Belleville would win, as they forced the play from the outset. The ice was heavy, but it favored the lighter Belleville team, and they took every advantage of their speed. In seven minutes after the opening Simpson broke through from the right boards and lifted one pass; Luna. From then till five minutes after the opening of the third period the play was confined to centre ice. Scott broke away from his check and back-handed one past Luna. Simpson followed with another nice effort, and Scott concluded the scoring when he took a pot shot from the blue line which fooled the goalkeeper.

Markham showed a clever, heavy team, but the close backchecking was too much for them. For the winners Scott, Simpson and H. Canning stood out with the goalkeeper. Jeffery played a stellar game. Stewart on the defense and Crosby in centre were the best for the losers. The game was clean.

Belleville—Goal, Jeffery; defence, Ethler and Young; centre, H. Canning; wings, Simpson and Canning; subs, Galaway and Scott.

Markham—Goal, Luna; defence, Stewart and Williamson; centre, Crosby; wings, McDonald and Pringle; subs, Hagerman and Grant.

Referee—Ernie Wortley.

THE ADVERTISERS "PULL"

What does your newspaper actually cost? It is obvious that the small amount you pay does not cover the expense involved in the writing and printing of this newspaper.

What do magazines cost? It is reported the actual cost per copy of a famous weekly selling for 5 cents is actually 42 cents. Somebody pays for your newspaper and your magazine. This somebody is the advertiser.

And, of course, if the advertiser makes the paper possible, it would seem reasonable to assume that he controls the independence of the editor and directs the policy of the owner.

But it is not in accordance with either logic or truth. Advertising makes possible your paper. But no individual advertiser makes it possible! The bulk of advertising carried in a newspaper makes possible the publication of that paper. Newspapers frequently reject undesirable advertising. In doing so they not only assert their independence of individual clients; but enhance the tone of the paper and increase the pulling power of the advertising columns. The advertiser's "pull" with the editor and publisher is a myth. The only pull is the pulling power of a well-written ad in a reputable newspaper.

"I'LL DO WHAT I CAN."

Who takes for his motto, "I'll do what I can," Shall better the world as he goes down life's hill The willing young heart makes the capable man, And who does what he can, oft can do what he will.

There's strength in the impulse to help things along, And forces undreamed of will come to the aid

Of one who, though weak, yet believes he is strong And offers himself to the task, unafraid.

"I'll do what I can" is a challenge to fate, And fate must succumb when it's put to the test; A heart that is willing to labor and wait In its tussle with life, ever comes out the best.

It puts the blue imps of depression to rout, And makes many difficult problems seem plain; It mounts over obstacles, dispatches doubt And unravels kinks in life's curious chain.

"I'll do what I can," keeps the Progress machine In good working order as centuries roll, And civilization would perish, I ween, Were not those words written on many a soul.

They fell the great forests, they furrow the soil, They seek new inventions to benefit man, They fear no exertion, make pastime of toil— Oh, great is earth's debt to "I'll do what I can."

THE GUIDE STORY

"In her room!" said another. "Poor Miss Mur! I don't think as she has been so well lately, she do look so purely white and so sad-like. She be just like Dame Freeman's Lucy before she took the consumption. But there! a wedding's a trying thing to such a sweet girl as she be, and—" with a long sigh—"indeed to any woman as has been properly brought up. It's for better or for worse, you see, and it's quite a straw if the wind whether it's one or t'other."

Here the matronly moralizer fell to at an apricot tart, and shook her head solemnly.

The farmer, who would not have broken his daily routine if fifty weddings were hovering round him, came tramping in at six o'clock, and, having given an approving glance at the extensive preparations, dismissed the many cooks with a good-tempered nod, and sat down to his tea.

Muriel entered the room as he drew his chair to the table, and the old man, looking up with a fond smile, was struck into silence by the fearful pallor of her face.

With a painful little smile, she seated herself at the table and gave him his tea. "Why, lass, how skeered you look!" he said. "Beant you well tonight?" "Yes, father," said Muriel; "a little headache, that's all. We have been very busy today, you know." He nodded.

"The last day's work you'll do, lass, I'll be sworn! Tomorrow you'll have as many servants as any lady of the land."

Muriel smiled. "Don't you get excited," he continued, rubbing his hands and looking at her. "Keep quiet, lass, and show Alfred a bright face; for he's a good lad, and deserves thee, and that's saying a good deal. Why, it's me that ought to hang the miller's sign out, for I lose the best daughter ever a father had."

Muriel's eyes filled with tears. "Not lose me, father," she said. "We shall be very near each other."

Alas! it was the only comfort she had.

"True, true!" said the old man, chuckling. "The palace—ha! hal it's my whim, my love, to call it the palace, now the chaps from London have been at it sticking gold and silver and silks and satins about as if they were just nowt at all—the palace isn't a stone's throw from the old place where you were born, and your old father can look out of his window and see his daughter in all her glory."

He laughed loud and long, then suddenly broke off and bade her leave him.

"You'll want a rest, lass, and a little quiet, and I've got a little reckoning to do."

Muriel kissed him, and, as silently as she had entered, stole to her room again.

The old man waited until she had gone, and then tramped down stairs returning in a few minutes with a tin box and a canvas bag. These he put on the table, and, after looking the door, emptied from them a heap of bank-notes and gold. With one eye closed and his brow wrinkled like a piece of parchment, he set to work counting out the money.

It was Muriel's ten thousand pounds dowry.

While the farmer was, with infinite labor, adding up notes and piles of sovereigns, a young man sat in the sanded parlor of an ale house just three miles off, with his arms on the table and his head on his hands.

He had been sitting in the same room, and in the same attitude of quiet distress, for fully an hour, and when at last he started up, it was with a sigh that told pretty plainly of the effort the movement had cost him.

He took out his watch and glanced at the window.

"Seven o'clock!" he muttered. "The time seems to spin round so fast that it makes me giddy. How many hours before I shall have lost her forever? Oh, Wynter Leigh, Wynter Leigh! this is neither wise nor manly to sit like a wounded dog, fretting and moping for a woman who has thrown you over for a wealthier match. Women always have been fickle, and always will be. But could I have dreamed that my Muriel, my sweet, tender-hearted Muriel would have been so base? I raised her from woman to angel in my mind, and it was there I erred. There's not a woman in the world that gold can't buy if Muriel held that gold could not withstand it. Poor girl! for I can pity her while I pity myself. Gold can't buy love, and life without love is worse than death. I know that well enough, for I'm wicked enough to wish that I was dead this minute, sleeping quietly in a corner of the church yard at home with all the dead-and-gone Leighs, of whom I am most assuredly the most unhappy!"

He caught up his hat as he spoke and sauntered wearily into the bar.

DIVISION COURT

As a sequel to an accident which occurred on November 26th on the Provincial Highway east of Port Hope when a car driven by Mr. Simpson of the Oshawa Motor Supply Co. crashed into a rig driven by Wm. Clarke and occupied by Mrs. Robert Greer, an action was entered in Division court here today. Today's session marked the first appearance of County Judge L. V. O'Connor in Port Hope. W. F. McMahon of Port Hope, represented the plaintiffs, while J. P. Magnan of Oshawa, appeared for the defendants. A counter claim was entered for $120.00.

Considerable evidence was heard throughout the session which terminated at four o'clock this afternoon. Simpson, the driver, claimed he was blinded by the glare of an approaching car and crashed into the rig. Mrs. Greer and the driver were thrown into the ditch and the horse received injuries which resulted in its death.

WHICH ARE YOU?

There are two kinds of people on earth today—
Just two kinds of people, no more, I say.

Not the sinner and saint, for 'tis well understood
The good are half bad and the bad are half good.

Not the rich and the poor, for to count a man's wealth
You must know first the state of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud, for in life's little span,
Who puts on vain airs is not counted a man.

Not the happy and sad, for the swift flying years
Bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.

No; the two kinds of people on earth I mean,
Are the people who lift and the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find the world's masses
Are always divided into just these two classes.

And oddly enough, you will find, too, I ween,
There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load
Of overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?

Or are you a leaner, who lets others bear
Your portion of labor and worry and care?

LOTS OF FUN AT THEATRE PARTY
Fine Program for High School Athletic Association Benefit Night

It would be difficult to imagine a more suitable or entertaining bill of photoplays than that arranged by the management of the Royal Theatre for the High School Athletic Association, which is sharing in the receipts for last night and tonight. Comedy predominates, and the Royal has never resounded to heartier laughter than rang through it during the feature picture, "A High School Hero," the lighter side of the classroom and the mishaps attending the presentation of a Latin play are responsible for many a screamingly funny situation which sent the grownups as well as the students into uproarious mirth, while the basketball game added some real suspense for good measure.
Lyman Howe's "Hodge-Podge" reel of curiosities furnished a few minutes of sugar-coated instruction and a special Canadian film, "The Scots at Banff" showed that our own country had not been overlooked. The comedy, "Wedding Wows," with Bobby Vernon, was well chosen for good, clean fun and ran the feature a close second as regards amusement.
The whole program will be repeated tonight; it is open to the public and if you like to laugh you will make no mistake in attending.

It's the money you spend wisely that counts.

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of modern means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable help to anyone.

A budget helps you keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you should spend for this. Spend all of it but don't spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. A little more value here, a little more value there . . . in this thing slightly more durability . . . that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, a higher quality of goods and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

BOWMANVILLE LOSES AT HOME

Oshawa Shamrocks Win 2 to 1 And Enter O.H.A. Play Downs

Oshawa defeated Bowmanville in a hard fought game at Taylor's Arena at Bowmanville Wednesday night 2 to 1. Ice was heavy which was a hard break for Bowmanville, but Oshawa seemed to play a better game on soft ice. The game was clean for a change, teams were evenly matched and the game was anybody's until the last gong rang. Osborne scored Bowmanville's lone goal while Arundel scored Oshawa's goals. Both Oshawa goals were lucky flips which could not be avoided by the Bowmanville goalkeeper. Osborne earned his goal in the last period in a scramble around the Oshawa nets. Had the ice been hard the score might have been different. The stars for Bowmanville were James, Osborne and Candler and for Oshawa, Harrington, Little and Whitten. Oshawa wins the group and plays Newmarket in Oshawa Friday.

Bowmanville—Goal James; defense Osborne and Hooper; centre Candler; wings McMullen and Rundel; subs, Jamieson and Jackson.

Oshawa—Goal Leveque; defense Rowden and Harrington; centre Arundel; wings Black and Little; subs, Whitten and Grey.

FARMERS TOUR IN GT. BRITAIN

Canadians Are Pleased With Conditions in Mother Land

The members of the Canadian farmer's tour, travelling through Britain under the auspices of the Canadian National Railways, are learning more and more that what was told them at Manchester by the provision trade about the Englishman's "fashion in foods," is supported by the evidence presented to their own eyes and ears as they go along, delving for themselves into the ramifications of the immense marketing places of Britain.

Had the Canadian farmers' party been dropped from the skies into the centre of one of these great marketing places, and had seen the enormous stores of food supplies which are handled, their first thought would have been, "where in the world are there enough people to consume it all." But travelling as they have done from Liverpool to Manchester and at last to London, where the one thing that constantly forces itself upon the mind of the visitor, is the teeming millions of population, and visiting as they have done the great Smithfield markets at Manchester, from where fourteen million people draw their daily food they have gained at last, a real impression of what a vast consuming public Britain has, and of the consequent opportunity which Canada has to sell its agricultural products to this market.

But the Englishman's 'fashions in foods,' which reveals changing tastes in food for every 100 miles or so, a characteristic which dates back for centuries and cannot with ease be broken down, presents a difficulty, which, while not insurmountable, is a little confusing to the Canadian producer, and is somewhat responsible for some of the problems we have in selling our produce to the British market.

However, be that as it may, the discussions which the Canadians have held with the traders handling their products, discussions which have become franker and more illuminating as the tour progresses from place to place, may be boiled down to one concrete statement that while Britain would like to buy more of Canada, she after all buys in the cheapest market the best she can get, and the Canadians in reply have pointed out that they cannot be blamed if they sell in the market in which they can get the best price at the time, which simply means with respect to some products which Canada might be sending to Britain now, that Canadian farmers are getting a better price across the line in the United States than they can get here.

It is constantly being reported to the Canadians that the United States after all is only a temporary market for their goods and that Canada should keep on building up its trade over here, hanging on to the lean year for the prospect of the fat one to come. And come they will, there is no question of that in the minds of any. But there is no more hard-headed, shrewder buyer than the British trader, and he will buy his wheat or his butter and eggs and cheese and bacon where he can get it for the least cost and get the best, and there is no sentiment about it. The Canadian delegation has taken care to point out emphatically, that, desirable as it is for Canada to sell products to Britain as part of the great empire market scheme the Canadian farmers can scarcely be blamed if they are inclined to do business on the same basis as the British trader.

But the Canadian farmers are learning a great many things about how their products are received here and how things can be improved back home. They are finding that the British miller does not want any admixture of softer wheats, and will look elsewhere for the wheats he wants if he does not get them from Canada; that our bacon, excellent as it is, is not always the best we can produce, that our apples do come forward many times to these shores in very poor condition, affecting the whole status of the Canadian fruit trade here; that our cheese sometimes is of inferior quality and that there are often many things wrong with our stuff.

All the British packers, moreover, have taken the trouble to bear down upon the one factor of lack of continuity of supply. Canada no sooner establishes a market for one product or one particular brand of product, and creates a demand for it over here, than suddenly something happens to cut off the supply and the British trade is irritated and the market lost. That sort of thing does more to prevent the permanent establishment of Canadian farm products in the British market than perhaps anything else.

Since leaving Manchester the party have seen many angles of marketing. They had a most practical demonstration of the bacon industry at the factories of Marsh and Baxter, in Brickly Hill, one of the most famous bacon factories in the world. Here Mr. Marsh spoke for about an hour, with the use of charts, illustrating factors in the bacon industry. It was established here that the 180 to 220 pound hog is the most useful animal from all stand-points.

Markets in Birmingham were visited, and in London, all the great markets were visited, and the conferences held with the provision trade under the auspices of the London chamber of commerce. Here some very fine discussions were held, and in a franker tone than had yet been adopted, all of which was to the benefit of the party.

At an elaborate function in London that night, the Empire Marketing Board entertained the visiting farmers, with Lord Lovatt, Under Secretary for the Dominions, in the chair. Empire marketing and emigration were both touched upon, with the realization that these problems were co-related. The Empire Marketing Board is probably the greatest effort at advertising Empire products ever made and the desire that Canada should send British her products was emphasized on all hands, the lead being taken from Lord Lovatt, who himself is a farmer. But here again it was explained by H. S. Arkell and Miss Cora Hind, speaking for the dominion, that the Canadian farmer was inclined to sell in the market where the best price was, even though that market be only a temporary one. "It may be," said Mr. Arkell, "that we will yet come to you, hat in hand asking for your markets, but in the meantime, that is the situation in Canada with respect to much of our products and you should understand that. We are not going backward but we are going forward in the matter of increased production, but our farmers will be in the market bidding the best price."

The farmers were doubly honored in London by being received by the Lord Mayor, Sir Charles Batho, and in being entertained at the Guildhall to luncheon, an honor which many Englishmen, as Hon. George Langley, himself a former Londoner said, would give much to attain.
