BLIZZARD RAGED NEAR BELLEVILLE

Main Arteries Leading To City Are Blocked By Snow Storm

Belleville and vicinity is still in the throes of one of the worst snow storms of the year and the result has been the blocking of the main arteries of travel leading to the city. Saturday night the cold wave hit the city, it being down as low as five degrees below zero. The storm was accompanied by a heavy gale, sometimes attaining a velocity of 40 miles per hour. Monday the gale was still raging, with snow blowing in all directions.

The roads leading to Madoc, Marmora, Tweed and Stirling are completely blocked, the bus routes being cancelled. The Kingston bus made a trip Monday afternoon but had to be shovelled out in several places. The highway to Trenton was plowed out early Monday and traffic was uninterrupted.

No serious trouble was experienced with Hydro power or telephone communications. Some trouble was encountered but a large number of line men kept the lines in order. Trains maintained their schedules on the main lines but the north lines to Lindsay were blocked. They were cleared later.

WHITBY IS ELIMINATED

Oshawa Intermediates Continue To Mow Down All Opposition

Oshawa defeated Whitby at Oshawa last night 3 to 1 and took the round 7 to 3 in the second round O.H.A. intermediate series by a score of 7 to 3. Whitby put up a great battle all the way, holding the systematic Oshawa team well in hand throughout. At the end of the first period the count was 1 to 0 in favor of Oshawa and the end of the second 2 to 1 in favor of Oshawa. Only a fair crowd turned out, expecting the Oshawa squad to gain an easy victory but those who attended were given a big surprise.

Whitby—Goal Prentice; defense, Hall and Sleightholm; centre Smith; wings Rundy and Atkinson; subs Rice and Ross.

Oshawa—Goal Smith; defense John ston and Chartrand; centre, Avery; wings Rowden and Houck; subs Lowe and Joyce.

Referee—Bobby Armstrong, of Toronto.

WINTER SHOW AT MILLBROOK

Dr. H. W. A. Zealand Wins First Place in Roadster Races

Dr. H. W. A. Zealand captured first place at the Winter Show at Millbrook on Friday with his eight year old brown mare in Class 2, Roadster horses, single horse in harness under 15-2. There were six entries in the class.

The annual horse show under the auspices of the Agricultural Society, overtopped the record of any previous year in the success which attended the event, all classes being well filled and the estimate of fully one thousand people in attendance being apparently well within the mark.

The judge, Albert E. Webster of Oakwood, was there for the first time in his official capacity. His decisions on the whole, gave general satisfaction.

The weather was favorable and King street, where all horses were exhibited was in good condition when the driving began about 1.30 o'clock.

All animals entered had to be the bona-fide property of the exhibitors, and no animal shown could be entered in more than one class, but might be shown in more than one section of its class; all exhibitors were required to be members of the Agricultural Society. No entrance fee was charged.

ADJOURNMENT IS ORDERED

Move Designed To Give Royal Commission Inquiry Precedence

When the inquest into the death of two-score miners in the Hollinger disaster was resumed today, it was adjourned for a week. This adjournment was made on instructions from the Attorney-General's office at Queen's Park. S. A. Caldwell, Crown Attorney for the Cochrane district said Monday night that he had received instructions from the department to ask for the adjournment of the inquest.

It was not, he said, a question of witnesses or evidence not being available that made necessary a delay of the inquiry into the deaths of the 39 victims, but purely a mandatory order from the Attorney-General's Department.

The decision to ask for a further adjournment came as a distinct surprise, as it was understood that an extensive list of witnesses had been prepared, including officials of the Hollinger Mine, and that the inquest would go on without further delay. The jury have already viewed the bodies of the unfortunate victims and have also inspected the underground workings of the Hollinger Mine where the tragedy occurred.

It is now thought here to be probable that the Royal Commission may commence its inquiry into the disaster before the inquest proceeds. In some quarters it is surmised that Mr. Justice Godson, Commissioner, may arrive here as early as Wednesday.

LOCKHART HOPES TO BEAT RECORD

U.S. Driver To Go After Campbell's Mark—Tiny Machine Declared To Be Very Fast

Two American race drivers, one with a diminutive appearing machine, is appearing to make attempts to break the record of 206.95602 miles per hour established Sunday by Capt. Malcolm Campbell of England, over the Ormond-Daytona Beach course.

The two Americans are J. M. White of Philadelphia, in a powerful 36 cylinder special design and Frank Lockhart in a small, two-engined Stutz. White's machine has been barred by the A.A.A. but he was expected to revise it to meet classifications.

Lockhart's machine is pigmy beside the great "Bluebird" which Campbell drove to victory Sunday and White's big machine. He has been able to exceed 180 miles an hour in tests and believed it would be able to break the record Campbell made.

The British driver made brilliant runs in establishing his record, which broke that of a fellow Englishman, H. O. D. Segrave. The Beach was slightly rolling and there was a strong north east wind blowing.

SPLENDID PLAYS ST. JOHN'S Y.P.

"The Dress Rehearsal" And "Who Kissed Barbara" Make Decided Hit

We would advise all who were unable to attend the A.Y.P.A. plays in St. John's Parish Hall Monday night to be sure and see them tonight as they are well worth while. Clean and wholesome humor run through both plays. The cast know their lines perfectly, which does not usually go with amateur plays, and we have seen professional actors and actresses who did not play their parts nearly as well as did the members of the A.Y.P.A. Monday night.

The first play was entitled "The Dress Rehearsal." We wouldn't like to say that the star part was taken by the telephone, but it sure did interrupt the star, "Miss Ciceley Hancock," almost incessantly. Miss Hancock made a sweet and winning Nancy and played the part splendidly, but she almost lost her sweet heart Tom, "Herbert Winfield" on account of that telephone. My, but Herb. can tell a telephone off. The other parts, Agnes, taken by Miss Claudia Gardiner; The Worried Aunt by Mrs. Louise Gibson; Dick, "Jack Mitchell" who has been wiled into playing in private theatricals by his sweetheart, Agnes, and Mose, "Stanley Woods," the colored butler were all exceptionally well done.

Between the acts Mrs. Gordon Scott entertained the audience with two humorous readings, Miss Margaret Milne with a solo, and Mr. Alf Stagg with two violin solos.

The second play, "Who Kissed Barbara," was rather a difficult play for amateurs as pantomime and facial expression were really necessary for its success, but the cast proved equal to the occasion. The difficult role of "Barbara" who had been kissed in the dark and wanted to know who did the deed, was cleverly taken by Miss Margaret Strong, and that of her chum, Katherine, who helped her find him, by Miss Ivy Ansell. Jack Winfield, who is one of Port Hope's favorite amateur actors, lived up to his reputation in the role of Paul, Katherine's brother, and Charles Fourn and Arnold Wiseman as "Horace, the man who was to marry Katherine tomorrow" and "James, the butler," were both good.

The orchestra under the leadership of Alf Stagg, and which included Miss Dorothy Wormington, Carl Rutter and Albert Mann, delighted the audience with their numbers.

NEWSY NOTES FROM BEWDLEY

Ice Cutting Operations Are In Progress—Considerable Traffic on Highways

Mr. W. McClung and Mr. S. Perrin are busy cutting ice. They have the contract of filling five large ice houses; the ice is about 24 inches thick. They are cutting with a machine built by McClung and Perrin.

Mr. William White was removed to Port Hope Hospital where he is resting under the good care of the hospital treatments. (Mr. White has since passed away).

Mr. and Mrs. Hector Boudry and two sons, and Mr. John Boudry, spent Sunday in Bewdley, guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Harvey, attended St. Anne's Church and enjoyed an excellent sermon preached by Rev. J. M. Crisall.

Mr. Fred Sidey is preparing to start his sawmill, where he will be able to attend to all orders for custom work.

The traffic on the Highway is getting quite brisk, large trucks of freight passing through every day. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell entertained some friends to a Radio Concert which was enjoyed very much.

A recent survey of the forest resources of British Columbia showed a total stand of approximately 76,000,000,000 feet board measure of Douglas fir. While all this is not at present commercially accessible, a large proportion is within reasonable distance of water and rail transportation. About 80 per cent of it is situated on Vancouver island and the adjacent mainland.

ST. MARK'S Y.P. VISIT ST. PAUL'S

Interesting Debate Was Held and Judges Decision Resulted in a Tie

A large representation of St. Mark's Anglican Young Peoples' Association spent an enjoyable evening Monday when they were the guests of St. Paul's Young Peoples' Association and a most enthusiastic joint meeting was held.

After the opening of the meeting by the singing of a hymn, Emerson Wade read the scripture lesson, followed by prayer by Rev. H. D. Cameron, E.A., former pastor of the church. The president of St. Paul's Association, Mr. L. Curtin, extended a cordial welcome to the visiting leaguers and announced that the feature of the evening would be a debate between the two societies. Forty per cent, was allowed for gracefulness, diction and presentation, while sixty per cent. was allowed for subject matter.

The subject of the debate was, "Resolved, that co-operation was better than competition in Young Peoples' Societies." St. Mark's presented the affirmative side of the argument and were ably represented by Miss J. Morrow and Harold Westaway, while St. Paul's, represented by Miss Vera Misener and Milton Oliver, supported the negative side. The four debaters handled the subject very creditably and presented many points in favor of their respective sides.

The judges, Miss M. Tuer, Miss K. Staples and Rev. H. D. Cameron, after weighing the argument carefully, decided that the debate ended in a tie. The judges pointed out that although the affirmative were better in manner, they were somewhat weaker in argument, while St. Paul's although weaker in manner were considerably stronger in argument.

After numerous contests were enjoyed, the joint session was brought to a successful close with delightful refreshments.

ANCIENT WARRIORS BOBBED HAIR

Four thousand years ago, the men bobbed their hair, the Metropolitan Museum disclosed in a report on explorations at the Temple of Mentuhotep, near Thebes.

A sealed underground tomb disclosed a party of 60 warriors slain in battle. All had a thick crop of hair, some wearing it in a square bob seen on many flappers today and others having it curled in tight ringlets close to the head.

The Egyptian fighters had died, apparently, during an assault on a stronghold. Ebony tipped arrows had accounted for many, while others died from small stones flung against their heads from a sling shot with the velocity of a bullet.

MOTOR CO. ENTERTAIN

Willis-Overland Motor Co. Give Banquet to Editors and Others

The editor of the Guide was honored by Mr. T. A. Russell, president of the Willis-Overland, with an invitation to visit their plant on Monday.

Others were thus honored to the number of some five hundred. Premier Ferguson, large as life and the Ontario Legislature could have held a session, so many were there.

Sir Joseph Flavelle, Mr. K. J. Dunstan, vice-president of the Bell Telephone, in fact, the great as well as the small of Toronto and the provincials were in attendance.

Ex-Premier, the Hon. Arthur Meighan, and Mr. Stanley McLean were neighbors at table with your humble editor.

The guests, as they arrived, were welcomed by President Russell and were conducted through the busy works where the parts for the cars were drilled, dressed, reamed and put through the various processes in readiness for assembly in the Willis-Overland car. When the guests would linger over a particularly interesting piece of machinery, for instance, a press drill, operating a dozen or more drills at once, the attentive guides would suggest haste or the luncheon would be late. Some of the guests would rather watch than eat.

On one floor of the new four story addition to the already large factory, tables were laid and ample provision made for the comfort of the inner man, but there may have been some disappointment for some, as the beverages were cold water and hot coffee, followed by smoke.

It really couldn't have been other wise, right under the nose of the Super-Strong Man of Ontario, besides the new building was more than a tent and less than a tenement, so there was no hard stuff or headaches.

After luncheon, president Russell gave a very interesting talk relating the experiences of the company from a very meagre beginning to its present ample proportions, in spite of alleged disadvantages from tariff, competition and sundry other drawbacks.

Premier Ferguson followed and in his usual happy manner jollied everyone, (except the Ottawa government) and the best of good feeling prevailed, because he was speaking in loyal, Conservative Toronto.

MOTHER WANTS DAUGHTER BACK

The mother of Anita del Valle, Toronto, girl now held by Akron, Ohio, police said that if the police of the American city would release the girl she would go to Akron and bring Anita back to Toronto, and endeavor to place her in some institution where she would be kept under restraint for a year or so. The girl was in the stolen car driven by Bud Sheppard, also of Toronto, when Sheppard was killed by a police officer while fleeing from arrest for reckless driving. Previously, Anita, married Jack Sullivan, an Arizona bandit, who is now in the penitentiary for his escapades.

Roads Are Very Bad

Mr. J. W. McBurney of Quay's was in town today. He tells us that the roads are in a very bad condition and there are portions of them blocked that to his recollection were never before closed. For four miles from Knoxville church on his way to Port Hope he only travelled one half mile on the road, the rest of the journey he was obliged to make thru the fields.

Production Increasing in Dominion and Canadians are Taking Heavier Supplies

"The poultry industry is in a healthy condition."
 "The Canadian people are eating 25 per cent. more eggs than they were seven years ago."
 "Egg production has increased by leaps and bounds in recent years throughout the dominion."
 "These were outstanding statements made by H. B. Clemes, Toronto, president of the Canadian Produce association, in his address at the 16th annual convention held in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, recently.
 "Egg production on farms throughout the dominion has more than doubled since 1921," President Clemes stated. "The provinces of Quebec, British Columbia and Ontario showed the largest increases."
 "The egg production showed in 1926 an increase of 33 1-3 per cent.

over 1921. Our per capita consumption increases, for the same period, is a little over 25 per cent.

"With our rapidly increasing supply, and especially winter production in British Columbia, it appears imperative that a steady export outlet should be developed and maintained. In order to bring this about, although it might not appear from a producer's standpoint to be a good thing for me to say, we must get our values during the spring storing season down to a world's competing basis.

"Reviewing the egg trade for the past year, the small volume of export business to Great Britain is quite striking. At November 30, 1927, our total export of eggs to Great Britain were a little less than 40 per cent. of 1926, and about 14 per cent. of 1921, the top year since the end of the war. Our exports since 1921 have been steadily declining, whereas production has steadily increased. It is true (thanks to the efforts of the department of agriculture at Ottawa) that home consumption has increased wonderfully, but not in proportion to the increased production.

"Great Britain is our best market, the British importers are all pretty well acquainted with our eggs, and are prepared to pay premium for them provided such premium is within reason. Within the past few years our available supplies of storage eggs during the early winter are more than our own home consumption can take care of. In 1925 very severe losses were taken by those who had storage eggs left on their hands after December 31. In 1926 the result would have been identical had it not been for the government imposing the dumping duty on the American eggs. Again this year, although we still have the protection of the dumping duty, the situation does not look any too rosy, and there are, probably, many today who own storage eggs who would be glad to dispose of them at prices that were obtainable for export to Great Britain early in the season.

"There is, however, another possible export market which can be taken advantage of and that is the Argentine.

"Increasing egg production means increased flocks of poultry, the market for which has to be taken care of, and the best market to develop is our own market—right at home. Experience has shown us what standardized grading can do in increasing consumption, and I see no reason why the same results, along with an educational and advertising campaign, cannot be attained with poultry."

ST. MIKE'S TRIM BELLEVILLE

St. Michael's College Juniors disposed of Belleville in the third round of the O.H.A. at Trenton last night. The score was 4-3, and by periods, 2-0 and 2-1. St. Mike's won in Toronto, 8-3, which puts them six goals up on the round. The Belleville team displayed fine staying qualities, and fought till the last whistle, but the College six had too much speed and were better drilled in combination effort. Convey, the centre man, was the pivot of all St. Michael's plays and he deceived the defence men with his fake pass, and then fed his wings, who drilled them dead on the button. Cerre and Kehoe went well on the line, and backchecked constantly.

The first period was eight minutes old when Cerre lifted a long one, which Jeffery stopped, but allowed to roll in the cage. Convey followed with a goal six minutes later, when he took a perfect pass inside the blue line from Sullivan.

Simpson of Belleville outguessed Whelan in the second period when he circled the back of the net and poked the rubber in the corner. Johnny Canning evened the count on the game early in the third frame when he took a pass from Galway to Whelan from close in. Kehoe ended the scoring when he received a nice pass from Cerre and sent it home. For St. Michael's, Sullivan, Convey and Cerre starred, and for the losers, Jeffery in goal, Henry Canning in centre stood out. The game was clean in the first period, but the second and third were strenuous, a lot of butt-ending and hooking being indulged in. There were eight penalties handed out, evenly divided.

Belleville—Goal, Jeffery; defense, Ethier and Young; centre, H. Canning; wings, Simpson and J. Canning; subs, Galway and Scott.
 St. Michael's—Goal, Whelan; defense, Sullivan and Regan; centre, Convey; wings, Cerre and Kehoe; subs, Bruyca and Doran.
 Referee—H. Matthews, Toronto.

OSHAWA JUNIORS OUT

Newmarket juniors had just a little too much experience and punch for the Oshawa youngsters, and as a result they will meet Kitchener in the O.H.A. semi-finals, having defeated Oshawa at Newmarket last night, 6-0, and thus won the round in two straight victories by 8-1, a margin of seven goals.

The ice conditions were perfect for good hockey, and the gladiators attended to their work from start to finish, with the result that the large crowd was treated to a splendid exhibition.

The first period had not progressed very far when Pringle grabbed the puck from in front of his own goal and stickhandled his way through the whole Oshawa team for a shot which hit the goaltender and bounded out to Pringle again, and this time he made no mistake. Trivet got the second counter a few minutes later from a scramble in front of the goal. The period was nearly over when Collins got the third goal, taking the puck from his own blue line and stickhandling his way through for a counter.

Newmarket added two more in the second period, Thoms scoring one minute after play started. He shot from just outside the Oshawa defense. The other goal was registered by Murray. Pringle carried the puck from end to end, circled the Oshawa net, and passed the puck out to Murray, who did the rest.

Oshawa's Five Forwards.

Oshawa came out for the third determined to avert a shutout, and all five men were up on the front line for most of the period, but they could not get the puck past Ames, who played one of the best games of his career. Murray scored the sixth and final goal of the game from a scramble in front of the net about halfway along the period.

Ames was the star for Newmarket, although all the Canal Town players handled themselves in splendid fashion, and should make it interesting for Kitchener in the next round. Harrington, Arundel and Black were the best for Oshawa.

The game was very clean, only seven penalties being handed out. Oshawa got three and Newmarket four, all for minor offenses.

Oshawa—Goal, Leveque; defense, D. Rowden and Harrington; centre, Arundel; wings, Black and Little; subs, Whitten and G. Rowden.

Newmarket—Goal, Ames; defense, Perrault and Pringle; centre, Thoms; wings, Murray and Collins; subs, Trivet and Waller.

Referee—Ernie Parkes.

'SORRELL AND SON' WORTH SEEING

English Picture Much Enjoyed By Royal Theatre Patrons Monday

"Sorrell and Son" proved just as popular here as in all the other theatres in which it has been shown.

It is one of the most human, natural photoplays shown at the Royal this season and has a special interest because it gives a vivid description of the problems which had to be faced by our returning heroes, problems and difficulties which took more fortitude to meet and stand against than the enemies bombardments of gas attacks.

The father wins your respect and admiration from the start for his self sacrifice in doing hard work which his wounds would not permit him to do without much suffering, in order that he might earn money to fit his son to become a success in life.

As a boy his courage and sporting way delighted everyone and then when he had achieved success he was ready to give his father all the credit for having made it possible. At the conclusion you can not but admire him for the difficult task from which he does not shrink because of his love for his father and his strong determination that as his father did all for him, he will do his best in return.

We have not heard of any who did not think that "Sorrell and Son" was well worth seeing. When there are no dissenting voices you can expect it is a marvellous picture worthy of its popularity.

GOOD MECHANICS GET EMPLOYMENT

Unskilled Workers Are The Unlucky Ones in Oshawa

While employment in Oshawa is at the minimum at the present time, conditions are far better for this season than at the corresponding season of last year, according to G. Hamilton, superintendent of the Oshawa branch of the Employment Service of Canada. Sustained activity in construction work in the city has resulted in a steady demand for building mechanics with the exception of a few carpenters, practically no men in the building trades are without jobs. All demands for help of this kind can be met locally and it is not necessary to bring men from out side points to fill any jobs. Skilled workers are also in demand at the General Motors and other Oshawa plants.

As for the unskilled worker, his chances for employment in Oshawa are very slight indeed. Such jobs as are obtained mostly of a very temporary nature. The factories are taking on practically no untrained men and there is little demand for them in any other branch of industry. Farmers in the district are beginning to ask for help but are only in need of experienced farm hands. Workers of all kinds, many of them without any trade, are still going to Oshawa in large numbers in the hope of finding jobs, and many are going away disappointed. The prevailing scarcity of work for the unskilled is only seasonal, however, and an abundance of employment of all kinds is expected as soon as spring arrives. Mr Hamilton described conditions as better than normal.

In the women's department there is a considerable surplus of day workers, a large number of women being registered for these jobs. There is little difficulty in meeting the demand for domestics.

HOPE TO END LEPROSY SOON

The complete stamping out of leprosy within the next decade by means of treatment with oil extracted from the dried fruit of the dried hydrocarpus tree is predicted in the annual report of the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association which will meet on Friday. It is estimated that in the British Empire alone there are 916,000 persons afflicted with leprosy. Stations for treatment of the disease will be started all over the Empire, where it is prevalent, the Imperial and Dominion Governments co-operating in this move.

ANNUAL MEETING WAS NOT HELD

Fish and Game Protective Association Annual To Be Held Later

The annual meeting of the Port Hope Fish and Game Protective Association which was scheduled to be held at the Department of Agriculture on Ontario Street Tuesday evening did not materialize and a later meeting will be held in two or three weeks time at the calling of the President of the Association. About a dozen members were in attendance Monday night and the attendance was no doubt hampered by the severity of the weather. It was deemed advisable not to hold the annual meeting until a larger representation would be present.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

INTRODUCING MRS. GREAT SPANGLED FRITILLARY

"O H, OH, OH!" cried Betty when she spied the beautiful brown butterfly hovering over the pink blossoms. "What a lovely creature you are!"

"Isn't she beautiful?" questioned a tiny voice and Betty turned around to look down into the smiling face of her little elfin friend, Happy Giggles. "I love the two shades of brown in her dress and the lovely silver spots scattered over the lower surface of her wings. Have you ever met her, Betty?"

"No, I haven't, Happy Giggles," replied Betty all excited. "But I'd love to know her."

Happy Giggles waved his tiny wand to the lovely butterfly and she came swinging thru the air and settled down on a blossom right near Betty's nose.

"Mrs. Great Spangled Fritillary, meet my little friend Betty," he laughed after shaking the creature's front foot. "Betty is one more you may add to your long list of admirers."

"You certainly may add me to your list," laughed Betty. "For I think you're one of the prettiest butterflies I've seen in a long time. Have you been gathering honey?"

"A little," replied Mrs. Great Spangled Fritillary. "But I have been kept pretty busy these last few days laying my eggs. You see, every Fall we Fritillary Butterflies all lay our eggs. I just finished putting mine on the leaves of the violets out at the edge of your garden."

"Isn't that lovely!" Betty cried.

"I'd Love To Know Her."

"And how will I know your children from the other butterflies?"

"You'd never guess they were my children," laughed Mrs. Butterfly, "for the caterpillars are very, very small. It doesn't take them very long to hatch from the eggs. That will be before the snow flies, then they must hurry and build tents for themselves in which they must sleep the winter away."

"Won't you be glad to welcome them in the spring?" questioned Betty. Mrs. Butterfly's face clouded for a second and then she laughed merrily.

"Well, if I did live to see them in the Spring, I would be the only one of my kind that ever has. You know when the Mother Great Spangled Fritillary Butterfly lays her eggs that is her life's work and she must die. There, there, now Betty," she laughed as she saw Betty's eyes fill with tears, "don't feel sorry for me. I'm very happy to think I've been allowed to live in this beautiful world long enough to lay my eggs. We never weather the winter."

"But when those lively little caterpillars do hatch out, they get busy right away and begin to grow," Happy Giggles laughed. "I think they make several changes before turning into butterflies, don't they Mrs. Spangled Fritillary Butterfly?" She nodded her pretty head and spread out her lovely silver spotted wings and before Betty could ask any more questions she had sailed out of sight across the garden.

Happy Giggles and Betty ran out to the violet plants and sure enough on the under-side of the green leaves they found the wee butterfly eggs.

OUR NEW STORY

CHAPTER I.

It rained all Monday, all Tuesday, all Wednesday, all Thursday. My tutor, who never went out if he could possibly help it, and who cared for nothing so long as he had his books with him, was proof against the miserable weather, and was not even polite enough to agree with me when I complained of it. I, who was reading with him for my college examination, found my spirits so seriously affected by the incessant rain that I resolved, unless the sky cleared at the end of the week, to propose that we should depart forthwith from the little Cumberland watering-place which we had unfortunately selected as the place of our temporary abode.

Friday came. The morning began with some gleams of watery sunshine; but towards noon the clouds gathered again, and down came the rain as persistently as ever, just as I had made up my mind to take a holiday, and had got my hat on to go out. In sheer desperation I resolved to adhere to my original intention, let it rain as it might. Leaving my tutor with his eternal books on one side of him, and his eternal snuff-box on the other, I descended to the ground floor of the inn at which we were staying, and sent for the landlord.

"I have been waiting for the weather, in this horrible climate of yours, for four whole days," I said, "and I mean to wait no longer. Get me a horse, or a gig, or any conveyance you possess, and tell me where I am to go to get rid of the sight of that waste of drab-colored sand in front of the window, and of that changeless strip of dreary gray sea beyond it."

The landlord—a very intelligent and very good-natured old man—laughed, and said that he had a gig and horse at my disposal, if I was really determined to take a drive in the rain.

"Order the gig," I answered, "and tell me which direction I am to take. Are there no sights in the neighborhood?"

"No, sir," was the uncompromising reply. "No sights that I know of."

"What! no old house anywhere inland!" I exclaimed. "No great family seat in this part of the country that strangers are allowed to see!"

The landlord's face changed a little, I thought. He looked away from me, and his hand trifled rather uneasily with the curtain of the parlor window at which we were standing.

"The only family house in these parts," he said, "is Darrock Hall. And that has been an empty house for some years now."

"A fine, ruinous, dreary old place, no doubt?" I said. "Just the sort of house I should like to see. Order the gig, and send somebody with me to show me the way to Darrock Hall."

"You would only be disappointed when you got there, sir," said the landlord, shaking his head gloomily. "It's neither a fine place nor an old place. Darrock Hall is nothing but a square stone house, and it wasn't standing a hundred years ago. So far from the place being at all ruinous, it is now being altered and put into thorough repair. They say there's a new lead mine been discovered near; and a strange gentleman—one of the sort they call speculators in London—has taken the Hall and means to work the mine right down under it, as I am told."

"Well," I said, "if there is nothing to see at the Hall I can look at the mine. I must drive somewhere, and I may just as well go there as anywhere else in the rain. How far off is it?"

"Nigh on eleven miles," said the landlord. "The road goes round about so that no stranger could find it, and the last three miles are all uphill."

"Is there nobody who could go with me in the capacity of guide?" I asked.

"Nobody who can be spared just now," replied the landlord, "unless it's myself. And I—" he stopped and looked at me doubtfully.

"And you," I rejoined, finishing the sentence for him, "are not quite young enough to risk getting wet through with impunity?"

"No," he said. "It's not that. People who live in Cumberland do not mind the rain. I'll go in the gig if you specially wish it. But, to be plain with you sir, there isn't a place in the neighborhood I wouldn't sooner drive you to than Darrock Hall."

"Indeed! May I ask why?"

"Well, sir, when I was a young man I lived in service at that house, and certain things happened there which have made the sight of the place, since that time, not over-pleasant to my eyes. It was a frightful business, sir; and I was mixed

SEEK OLD TRIBE AT LAKE SUPERIOR

Expedition Will Study Relics of Unidentified People On Island 400 Years Ago

Sparingly settled Isle Royale, lying in the northwestern part of Lake Superior, just south of the Canadian line, will be the scene this summer of an attempt to learn of a race of men who dwelt there probably between 1000 and 1500 A.D.

The saga of the vanished people must be read from a heap of moldering stones, which apparently composed the sides of a tribal house, and a series of mine workings cleft through a copper lode with primitive tools.

The location of the find on the 44-mile long island has been known only by its discoverer, William P. F. Ferguson, a newspaper editor of Franklin, Pa., but now he has shared the secret with Eugene F. McDonald, a Chicago sportsman, and the latter is preparing to head an exploring party there this summer. McDonald will use his own yacht and B. A. Massee, another Chicagoan whose hobby is exploration, is having a $15,000 yacht constructed to make up the second ship of the party.

Ferguson made his discovery in 1922, but has been unable to identify the people who dwelt on the island or to determine how long they have lived there. They may have been Norse. Ferguson is convinced that the island dwellers were not Indians. By decayed pine trees, he has fixed their habitation of the island at between 400 and 900 years ago. He has found broken hammer-heads of stone, many small stone hammers and several fire platforms.

A Mother Believed in Him Long Ago

Time-worn, weather-beaten, with dim, bleared eyes,
His face a map of the Country of Sin;

Knowing no hope, winning no prize,
Callous without and hardened within—

Room for him still on the great highway!
Comrades of shame and companions of woe;

Look where he staggers and softly say:
"A mother believed in him, long ago."

A wee little babe, on her bosom he lay,
And gently she chanted an old, sweet song:

"Hushaby, lullaby; ever, always,
His white angels guard thee from error and wrong."

And his eyes were bright, that of God,
And his eyes were bright, that are heavy and dim,

As sleep-angels bore him, o'er fields untrod,
There where the twilight was singing its hymn,

Time-worn, weather-beaten and yet, she dreamed,
With love in her eyes, as a mother must;

And she saw where the sunlight over him streamed,
And the prayer in her heart was the prayer of trust.

A mother believed in him, long ago,
(This is his passport to heights of Peace

Where we walk no more with error and woe
And the pain and the travail forever cease.

Only a wreck, mid the wrecks of men,
Crushed in the battle; lost, forgotten;

Staggering on, through mire and foam,
Yet, to hope's heritage he was born,

Make room for him, then, on the great highway
Whither 't will lead him we may not know,

Out of the maze of doubt and dismay,
Since a mother believed in him, long ago.

These words made me naturally anxious to know what had happened at the mysterious mansion. I abstained from giving any expression to my feeling of curiosity; but I suppose my face must have betrayed me, for the landlord pursued the subject of his own accord.

"WHAT OF THAT"

"Tired! Well, what of that? Didn't fancy life was spent on beds of ease,
Fluttering the rose leaves scatter'd by the breeze?

Come, rouse thee! work while it is called today!
Coward, arise! go forth upon thy way!

"Lonely! And what of that? Some must be lonely! 'tis not given to all
To feel a heart responsive rise and fall,
To blend another life into its own.
Work may be done in loneliness.
Work on.

"Dark! Well, what of that? Didn't fondly dream the sun would never set?
Don't fear to lose thy way! Take courage yet!
Learn thou to walk by faith and not by sight;
Thy steps will be guided and guided right.

"Hard! Well, what of that? Didn't fancy life one Summer holiday,
With lessons none to learn, and naught but play?
Go, get thee to thy task! Conquer or die!
It must be learned! Learn it then, patiently.

"No help! Nay, 'tis not so! Though human help be far, thy God is nigh,
Who feeds the ravens, hears His children cry,
He's near thee, wheresoe'er thy foot steps roam,
And He will guide thee, light thee, help thee home."

GOD BLESS MY MOTHER

God bless my dear old mother,
Who in my infant days
Watched o'er me in my cradle,
And sang sweet lullabys;
From childhood up to manhood
Kept me with tenderest care,
And asked God's blessing on me,
In faithful, earnest prayer.

Ah! well do I remember
When leaving childhood's home,
Among cold-hearted strangers
In the wide world to roam,
To seek my place and fortune,
Life's short, swift race to run;
Her tears and prayers were mingled
With blessing on her son.

Her blooming cheek is faded
eDp furrows mark her brow;
The steady hand now trembles;
Her step is feeble now;
Long year's life's heavy burdens
Their impress deep have made;
The mind once clear, unclouded,
Is dimmed by evening's shade.

God bless my dear old mother—
Tears blind my eyes tonight
As memory recalls the past—
I can no longer write.
God bless my dear old mother,
And bring her safely o'er
The swelling of the tide of Jordan,
To Heaven's peaceful shore.

4-TEAM LOOP NOW ASSURED

At a very enthusiastic meeting of the Central Ontario Baseball League on Saturday in Port Hope, plans were laid for the activity during the coming summer. Representatives from Peterboro, Belleville and Kingston were present. Oshawa was not represented but notified the League officials they were behind the league and would do anything to help the league along. They also stated the team was ready to take the field and were very pleased with the reformation of the old league. It is assured that four teams, Belleville, Kingston, Oshawa and Peterboro, would form the league and that the opening games would be played on May 24th.

There was no formal resolutions passed and the representatives present simply sat around the table and discussed the prospects from every angle. Belleville was represented by Major A. W. Pratt, Walter Gerow and Newton Thompson, secretary of the league. Kingston by Major Ponsford and Stanley Hall. Peterboro sent down Mr. McFayden, the president of the league and Fred Hamilton.
