Maple Leafs and Victorias Will Clash In First of Three Game Series

The first game of the play offs between the first and second teams of the Port Hope Junior Town League for the championship is listed for Tuesday evening from 7 to 8 when the Maple Leafs and Victorias come together. A good crowd should be on hand when these two teams clash as a fine brand of hockey will be displayed.

The managers of both teams are urged to have their teams ready to take the ice at seven o'clock sharp and thus have full advantage of the time limit, and also have the necessary pads for their goal keepers. Howard Hutchings will referee.

Wedding Bells

A quiet wedding took place at Mill Street Presbyterian church on Thursday, February 27th, 1908. The Rev. Alex McNaughton and the Rev. W. H. Brockshire performed the beautiful ceremony when James Clark, Esq., merchant, was united in marriage to Margretta Elizabeth (Gretta) only daughter of George Wadell, Esq., "Woodville," Port Hope. The happy couple left on the morning flyer for Montreal, Ottawa and other eastern points. At the close of the ceremony, Rev. W. H. Brockshire, on behalf of the Mill Street congregation presented the bride with a richly bound copy of the Bible and Presbyterian Book of Praise.

TO TRY ELLIOTT IN SUPREME COURT

According To Advice From Attorney General's Department—Fiat Issued to That Effect

According to advices which have been received the more serious charges still pending against H. W. Elliott will be heard in the Supreme Court of Ontario by judge and jury. This action was decided upon by the Attorney-General's Department and relayed to the parties interested through Crown Attorney J. A. McGibbon at Whitby.

The Attorney General has, it is understood, issued a fiat to the effect that, in the two particularly serious charges still pending against Elliott, they will have to be heard by the Supreme Court, not in the County Court as the two serious ones already dealt with have been. It is expected that they will be heard at the Spring Assizes before Mr. Justice Rose and a jury.

It will be remembered that two of the charges against Elliott have been dismissed by the county judge and that in the other one, in which he was convicted and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, the conviction was quashed on appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Several charges are still pending against him. D. A. J. Swanson is counsel for Elliott.

SPEEDY BULLET SLOWED DOWN

Motion Pictures Taken at a Terrific Rate—Projectile Travels Gently Thru Air

Moving pictures, taken at the rate of 20,000 exposures a second, showing a bullet apparently barely moving as it shattered a glass bulb, were shown at a meeting of the Optical Society of America.

Professor Alexander Klemm, of New York University, who gave the demonstration at Columbia University, said the camera used was very similar to an ordinary one, except that a spark, vibrating with high frequency, took the place of a shutter.

Pictures of a whirling propeller of an airplane, taken at the rate of only 2,100 a second, showed the blades turning at a rate not much faster than a slowly revolving door.

The pictures of the bullet shattering the glass bulb, taken at a high frequency exposure, showed the shattered glass fragments falling thru the air so slowly as to be hardly perceptible.

SUCCESSFUL SHORT COURSE

Local Representative Organized Course at Bowmanville Which Was Well Attended

"The best poultry short course we have had this year," declared Mr. J. W. Clark, Cainsville and Mr. T. A. Benson, Poultry Division of the Federal Live Stock Branch, at the conclusion of the three day poultry course in Bowmanville.

This course was very well attended. The average for all sessions was over 95 with the highest attendance 120 on Thursday afternoon. The poultrymen and farmers who attended expressed themselves as being delighted with the course. Addresses were given on Breeds of Poultry, Housing and Sanitation, Judging and Culling, Diseases of Poultry, Incubation and Brooding, Feeds and Feeding, Grading of Eggs and Co-operative Marketing, Rearing of Chicks and Fattening and Killing.

Keen discussion on the egg grading regulations took place, after which the following resolution was moved by W. H. Carruthers of Bowmanville and seconded by A. H. Clemence of Hampton and was unanimously passed by about 100 poultrymen and farmers present:

"Whereas our poultrymen at certain seasons have a large proportion of small eggs of the quality of extras which in spite of the fact that there is a grade for pullet extras, are graded by dealers as seconds, and whereas this constitutes a serious loss to poultrymen generally, we, the members of this Poultry Short Course, Bowmanville, do ask the Dominion Department of Agriculture to take measures to have the grade pullet extras recognized by the trade, and further, that the Department of Agriculture have the grade pullet extras included in the colored illustrations put out illustrating the grades of fresh gathered eggs. Be it further resolved that measures be taken by the Dominion Department of Agriculture to point out to consumers the value of pullet extras and the distinction between these pullet extras and seconds."

A vote of thanks to the Bowmanville Town Council for their assistance and co-operation was also passed and a vote of thanks to the instructors. It is planned at an early date to have a meeting and organize a Poultry Association for Bowmanville and the adjacent communities. The interest shown by everyone in the course was very gratifying to Agricultural Representative J. Y. Kellough, who organized the course and who states that he hopes to hold similar courses annually in Durham County.

LATE T. H. BELL LAIN TO REST

Impressive Ceremony Conducted Under Masonic Auspices Sunday Afternoon

One of the largest funerals conducted in this district for some time was held here Sunday afternoon when the mortal remains of the late Thomas H. Bell were interred at the Port Hope Union Cemetery. Numerous friends and relatives were in attendance and included many members of the railroad fraternity.

The casket was banked with flowers and testified the high esteem in which the late Mr. Bell was held. Rev. A. G. Emmott, Rector of St. John's Anglican church, conducted the impressive funeral service. Members of Hope Lodge, A.F. and A.M. No. 114, of which the deceased was a valued member, conducted the beautiful Masonic service and was in charge of W.M. Bro. W. F. McMahon and P.M. Bro. C. S. Hamly. Following were the pallbearers: Messrs. A. Fulford, Arthur Mark, George Kernan, R. J. Edmunds, Geo. Garnett and B. Myers.

TRUCK CRASHES INTO TREE TODAY

Truck Owned by "Hill the Mover" Comes To Grief At Corner of Toronto Road

The corner at Toronto Road and Ridout street has been the scene of many accidents and another mishap occurred there shortly after 2.30 this afternoon when an eight ton Clydesdale truck owned by Hill The Mover, crashed broadside into a tree on the south side of Ridout Street.

The two men in the cab of the truck were badly shaken up and it was necessary to remove one to the Port Hope Hospital owing to lacerations received when the windshield was shattered.

It was learned that the truck, loaded with furniture, turned out to let a car pass and skidded on the ice. It struck a tree broadside and the trunk was forced nearly half way through the frame work of the car.

KITCHENER WINS FROM OSHAWA

Carry Three Goal Lead for the Return Game At Whitby Tonight

When Kitchener and Oshawa intermediates step on the ice in Whitby tonight for the second game of the 4th round in the O.H.A. intermediate series Kitchener will have a 3-goal advantage as a result of their 4 to 1 win Saturday night over Oshawa.

Many better intermediate games have been played than that displayed at Kitchener, but the winners deserved their victory by the margin indicated. The homesters had the better of the game throughout, scoring one in the first, three in the second and being balanced in the third when the visitors got their lone counter on a long shot from centre ice that bounced in off Rupel's chest after he had cleared a puck hurriedly to centre ice. He was not set for the return shot.

Condition played a great game in the contest, and in this respect the winners had it on the visitors. The latter were not able to keep up a hot pace and their backchecking consequently suffered in comparison with Kitchener, though both were good at this style of game. The losers were outplayed in the first two periods, but in the third, with a 4-0 score staring them in the face and realizing that any more might mean their elimination, played a much better game. If they play in Oshawa as they did in the last frame then the round will be a tight one. Oshawa did not seem to get going properly until the final session.

Oshawa—Goal Smith; defense Chartrand and Johnson; centre Avery; wings Rowden and Houck, subs Lowe and Joyce.

Kitchener—Waterloo—Goal Rupel; defense, Berlet and Trushinski; centre Hamel; wings Shirk and Baetz; subs Bender and Schmidt.

WORLD PEACE STILL A VISION

League Agrees Nothing Can Be Accomplished—All Inclusive Treaty Plan Is Abandoned

Formal agreement that it was impossible at present to launch a world wide agreement to provide nations security against attack was reached Saturday by the League of Nations security commission.

The commission decided to recommend negotiations only to direct treaties between two nations and regional treaties among groups in which signatories would pledge themselves to defend each other against attack.

At one time it had been hoped the league could sponsor one all-inclusive treaty that would bind all nations to defend any one nation that was attacked. But some of the great powers, notably the British Empire powers, refused to bind themselves to send warships or transport troops to any part of the world the league might direct in order to prosecute wars in which they might not be interested.

THE MONTREAL STAR AND IMMIGRATION

The Montreal Star published a sensational appeal a day or two ago to the government at Ottawa for the inauguration of an extensive Immigration policy. It pointed out that practically since the Laurier regime there has been no practical and effective Immigration propaganda by any government. The Star says that we have vast areas of vacant land waiting to be tilled. Given a practical agricultural immigration, sectional and labor complications in centres of population will be overshadowed by permanent general prosperity in all sections and classes of the community.

There can be no dispute respecting these general premises. But with all due respect to the wisdom of our distinguished contemporary, the Guide thinks the Star's proposed solution of the immigration problem lacks a proper conception of the situation. The remedy proposed would be worse than the disease. The Star wants a tariff vastly increased to assist manufacturing, as manufacturers have plants far in excess of Canadian requirements, that they cannot prosper and employ the labor they otherwise would unless an extensive export business can be developed, and that further this can only be done by the government subsidizing manufacturers on their export business. And that the latter is necessary on account of the cost of transportation to foreign countries.

Very little discussion in detail is necessary to reply to the Star's proposals. Any reasonable suggestion to increase the marketing facilities of our manufactured products should be encouraged, provided the interests and welfare of the general community are properly protected or, at least, shall have some share in the benefits to accrue to the industrial life of the nation.

But to give manufacturers greater protection and an opportunity to increase their prices for all the goods that Canadians have to buy, and then subsidize them as well on all products sent to markets overseas, so that they may successfully compete in the world's centres, it's rather playing both ends against the middle—"heads I win; tails you lose."

There is a very simple way to secure entrance into all the overseas markets in the world for the products of Canadian industrial life. And at the same time confer equal benefits upon the agricultural community, and every other phase of Canadian life as well.

If the Star will assist in inducing Parliament to tackle the real solution of the inability of manufacturers finding overseas markets, it will confer the greatest direct relief to the Canadian public ever attained through the influence of the Press. The North Atlantic steamship Combine is the greatest deterrent existing to the expansion of Canadian manufacturing, agricultural, commercial and economic life. This octopus has increased freight rates from 300 to 700%; saloon rates from $75 to $250 and $300; cabin (second class) from $40 to $150, emigrant rates from $25 to $90. In excess fares over and above the pre-war rates this octopus took $6,000,000 last year out of the pockets of the overseas immigrants coming to start life anew in Canada, or an excess of $7,125,000 over the early Conference rates.

Is the Montreal Star so bound up with capitalistic, corporation, syndicate and Steamship Combine bloodsuckers that it cannot see its way to assist in the only solution to the problem, not only the manufacturing but the great agricultural interests, as to how the great overseas markets can be successfully reached with Canadian products.

REPORT OF DENTAL SURVEY IS GIVEN TO ROTARY CLUB

Dr. E. A. Totten Presents Interesting Report Friday Evening And Children of Public School Reap Benefit and Realize the importance of Dental Hygiene

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Port Hope Rotary Club held at the Queen's Hotel Friday evening, the members were privileged to hear a report of the Dental Survey in the local public schools presented by Dr. E. A. Totten. The address proved to be of exceptional interest and it showed the fine results following the dental surveys.

"In coming before you," commenced Dr. Totten, "to present the report of our surveys of the public school children's teeth, I wish to acknowledge on behalf of the dentists, your continual interest in this question of dental welfare."

The figures obtained as a result of the survey are as follows:

Year	No. of pupils examined	Defective	Temp	Per
1926	676	1161	718
1927	same	1436	615

"To obtain facts and figures," continued the speaker, "in a question of this sort is a matter of importance, as from them we may secure some idea concerning the measure of care being given the teeth of the pupils. It also makes it possible for us to find out those who may be receiving very little care, or even none whatever."

"After taking part in 3 surveys in Port Hope public schools, I can say it is very gratifying to see how many are having their teeth properly looked after. Teachers and parents are alive to the importance of dental hygiene, and the children are reaping the benefit. To this club must go a measure of praise for their interest in this matter, and for the results attained.

A survey arouses special interest in the subject of dental welfare work, many of the parents are not only willing but are anxious to have any defects remedied, once they know of them. Thus the object we seek is obtained in the easiest and most practical way. "Our special interest, however, as well as the members of the Rotary Club, must centre around the child whose chances for receiving any benefit from these examinations are very small. There may be various reasons for this. First, there is the indifference of parents. Fear on the part of the child to go to the dentist is another factor. The question of finance may stand in the way. Surely the neglected child who may have to bear the painful result of neglect in future suffering, is as much entitled to receive the benefit of dental work as the child of the parent who is more thoughtful in such matters. Why should any child suffer if some way may be devised of preventing it. It's the neglect of a simple defect that leads to a serious and painful problem. Much dental troubles centre round the first permanent molars. These come at the age of about six years or even younger. When the parents often think they belong to the temporary set, to be replaced by others. This mistake leads to much dental trouble. An early examination of children's teeth will reveal these defects when they exist and they may be easily remedied. These molars often decay very early and if allowed to go, will soon cause a severe tooth-ache and may later be the cause of abscesses forming. "Because these abscesses in many cases have a serious effect on the general health of a child, it is doubly important that they be prevented. In our survey, we found a number of cases where children's teeth were neglected and where it would be well if there was some organization or place whereby these children might have dental work done for them.

"The importance of this question is being understood throughout our province, and we are moving rapidly forward in this work of dental welfare.

"We now have a dentist, Dr. Conboy, acting as director of dental services, in the department of public health of our province, and plans are under way to make it possible for any municipality to have a branch of dental service.

Deputation Urges Grant

On January 12th last, a deputation waited on the government for the purpose of stressing the necessity of providing grants to assist municipalities in financing public dental clinics.

This deputation was received by Dr. Monteith, Treasurer of the province, Dr. Bell, Deputy Minister of Health and Dr. Conboy, Director of Dental Services.

The deputation was a large and influential one and represented such societies as the Canadian Life Insurance Association, The Canadian Medical Association, The Ontario School Trustees and Educational Association, The Trades and Labor Council, The Red Cross Society as well as the various dental societies of the province and other societies also.

The deputation was introduced by Mr. H. C. Schofield, M.P.P. of Toronto, and he said that it represented, in a large measure, public opinion of Ontario. Dr. Monteith, in reply, said that the Dental Branch of the Ontario Department of Health was already doing valuable work, and he assured the deputation that its message would receive the sympathetic attention of the Government.

The time may not be far distant when all municipalities may be asked to guard the health of the children by insisting on dental examinations as a means of promoting their health and also as a means of preventing the spread of disease which may follow as the result of neglected teeth and abscesses.

Already Toronto has a well organized dental clinic and to child attending their public schools need suffer with dental troubles or go with neglected teeth, and it pays over and over again in the increased comfort of the children and their ability to apply themselves to their school work and also the decreased number of days lost through that much dreaded tooth-ache. Oshawa, and other towns have also accomplished good work in the same way. How about Port Hope? Do we not need something in the way of a dental clinic? Now that there is a Provincial Director of Dental Services, it will be possible to learn the best way of proceeding in a case such as ours. The dentists would ask the continued co-operation of the members of the Rotary Club in any effort that might be made to secure for every child within the limits of our town, the boon that will come through teeth properly and systematically cared for."

CANADA'S LEADING POWER POSITION

Canada's position in respect to waterpower development is one of outstanding importance. Although only a little more than eleven per cent of her water-power resources has been developed, her aggregate installation, 4,778,000 horse-power, places her second to the United States in the countries of the world. Canada's per capita development, however (502 horse-power to 1,006 population) exceeds that of the United States, and is surpassed by no other country only, viz, Norway.

The vigorous impetus which Western development has lent to Canadian progress during the present century is pretty generally realized, but it is doubtful whether there is full appreciation of the no less striking manner in which prairie agriculture has likewise led the way in strengthening the economic bonds of Empire. For twenty years prior to 1897 Canada's commerce with the mother land was virtually stationary, barely holding its own. Its value in 1895 was less than it had been in 1875, two decades earlier. Then commenced the amazingly rapid settlement of the Canadian prairies—the development of wheat-growing resources on a scale that was destined not merely to remould the business life of the Dominion, but to pour a torrent of new power into the sluggish channels of Empire trade. Within the past thirty years the commercial current between Canada and the other Country have been revitalized and transformed. Today the United Kingdom's purchases of Canadian wheat and flour alone are many times greater in value than her total imports of Canadian products of all kinds in 1897. Western Canada's wheat-growing resources, still far from having reached the limits of their productive capacity, have woven between the British Isles and the Dominion an economic bond of such power and permanence as only the most courageous vision could have imagined less than one generation ago.

LATEST CURE FOR DEAFNESS CLAIMED

Specialist Describes Amazing Results Which Startled Himself

"I am almost astounded myself sometimes, at the results," said Major Vincent Nesfield, the Harley street specialist and ophthalmic surgeon, at the Queen's Hospital for Children, London, whose amazing new cure for deafness is the talk of the medical world.

Persons who have been deaf for as long as 30 years may now have their hearing restored by an operation to make a new air passage to the middle ear.

Major Nesfield has given some remarkable instances of this operation and quotes from 200 operations on persons whose ages range from four to 70 years.

"I can say," he said, "that, in a certain number of cases, there have been wonderful cures; some are fair, none is worse than before the operation.

My attention was first directed to the prevalence of the disease while I was in the Indian Medical Service in 1919. I had never seen so many deaf people.

"For months I devoted my whole thought to the problem, and specialized in removing cataracts. I came to the conclusion that, as the aim in such cases was to let light into the eye, so in the case of deafness it should be to let air into the ear.

"Deafness is due to the non-entry of air into the ear, through what is known as the eustachian tube, which: runs from the throat to the middle ear.

"It is impossible to get to this organ and if one tries to remove the obstruction by blowing through the tube, it only sends the substance into a 'cul-de-sac.' Therefore it occurred to me to make what one might call an additional tube from the external ear around to the middle ear.

"This gives the person an air inlet which goes to the middle ear. This is a delicate operation and entails a great physical effort on the surgeon.

"I use a local anaesthetic and chloroform and the operation takes about half an hour. So far as I can make out this is the only definite attempt that has been made in the history of medicine and surgery in this country to produce hearing."

Major Nesfield told how he came to carry out his first operation.

"One day while I was in India," he said, "I removed the cataracts from both eyes of an old Sikh who was totally blind and he was able to see beautifully.

"The old chap was so overjoyed that he got the idea that I could perform miracles. He told me I must now cure him of deafness. I assured him that it was not possible. One day I found him lying on the operating table in the hospital. He had vowed he would not move and would starve to death unless I did something to cure his deafness.

SNAILS ARE ENEMIES TO FISH

Devour the Eggs Even of Pugnacious Variety—Tests in Indiana

The humble pond snail has been indicted as one of the criminals whose activities have interfered with the peace and welfare and the family life of our fresh water fishes. Ichthyologists generally have been unable to explain why so few of the hundreds of thousands of eggs laid by each female among the fresh water fish ever reach maturity.

In a life history study of the long-eared sunfish carried on at the Indiana university biological station at Wirona lake, Indiana, observations were made each day of the troubles of a vigilant male sunfish to guard his nest with its precious eggs.

Long car, who is rather long on pugnacity, had very little trouble with the larger fish. They had seemed to learn their lesson of the purpose and use of the Long Ear's fin spines and remained at a respectful distance. Minnows lingered in a persistent swarm and darted into the nest every time the warrior's attention was diverted, but their activities were more of a nuisance than a vital menace.

The greatest difficulty the harassed father sunfish had was the insidious advance of the tank corps of snails. The sunfish could not kill the snails because of their protective shells, but had to pick them up and carry them away from the nest one at a time. But by the time he was transporting one half a dozen, others would crawl in among the eggs and eat their fill.

Several thousand eggs and a few snails were put in a basket overnight. In the morning all the eggs had disappeared and an examination of the snails' stomachs did not leave even a scientific doubt as to where they had gone.

BISHOP SWEENEY COMMENDS SELF DISCIPLINE IN LENT

"There are two clear calls of Lent" declares Rt. Rev. J. F. Sweeney, Bishop of Toronto, in issuing his Lenten pastoral. He states one is the call to man by God and the other is the call of man upon God. Addressing himself more particularly to the laity and emphasizing the point that with them rested the responsibility as to the character of their observance of Lent, the Bishop pointed out that three things might be said: First, from the world's point of view the Lenten season be regarded and used simply as a mere respite from the social round of worldness and pleasure, in which case, spiritually, it would profit them nothing; second, if an easy religionism demanded a conventional concession to its observance it might profit them a little; and third, it might be a sincere attempt at self-discipline, of suffering the flesh to be subdued to the spirit; a period of abstinence and self-denial, of giving up what cost something, in which case it would profit them much.

RULES HAMPER IMMIGRATION

General Booth Thinks Empire Settlement Board Could Be Formed

"Men of affairs of Canadian life loudly profess their desire for an increased flow of British people," says General W. Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, in a letter to the press, "but whether it is by intention or lack of foresight the Canadian Government hampers by its regulations the movement of immigrants from the British Isles to Canada."

General Booth admits that any mass movement of migration is not desirable and he asserts that any State-controlled migration movement is predestined to fail. The General suggests that an Empire Settlement Commission should be appointed, the Commission to be non-political and composed of business men.

THE GUIDE STORY

Weeks passed after this, till it was more than a month since the day of my master's departure, and no letter in his handwriting came to Darrock Hall. My mistress, taking this treatment of her more angrily than sorrowfully, went to London to consult her nearest relations, who lived there. On leaving home she stopped the carriage at the parsonage, and went in (as I thought, rather defiantly) to say good-bye to Mr. Meeke. She had answered his letter, had received others from him, and had answered them likewise. She had also, of course, seen him every Sunday at church, and had always stopped to speak to him after the service. But this was the first occasion on which she had visited him at his house. As the carriage stopped, in great hurry and agitation, the little parson came out to meet her at the garden gate.

"Don't look alarmed, Mr. Meeke," says my mistress, getting out. "Although you have engaged not to come near the Hall, I have made no promise to keep away from the parsonage." With those words she went into the house.

The French maid, Josephine, was sitting with me in the rumble of the carriage, and I saw a wicked smile on her face as the parson and his visitor went into the house together. Harmless as Mr. Meeke was, and innocent of all wrong as I knew my mistress to be, I regretted that she should be so rash as to despise appearances, considering the situation she was placed in. She had already exposed herself to be thought of disrespectfully by her own maid; and it was hard to say what worse consequences might not happen after that.

Half an hour later we were on our journey. My mistress staid in London two months. Throughout all that time, no letter from my master was forwarded to her from the country house.

When the two months had passed, we returned to Darrock Hall. Nobody there had received any news in our absence of the whereabouts of my master and his yacht.

Six more weary weeks elapsed; and in that time but one event happened at the Hall to vary the dismal monotony of the lives we now led in the solitary place. One morning the French maid, Josephine, came down after dressing my mistress, with her face as pale as ashes except on one cheek, where there was a mark as red as burning fire. I was in the kitchen at the time, and I asked what was the matter.

"The matter!" she said, in her shrill broken English, "advance a little, if you please, and look with all your eyes at this cheek of mine. What! have you lived so long a time with your mistress and don't know the mark of her hand yet?"

I was at a loss to understand what she meant, but she soon explained herself. My mistress, whose temper had been adly altered for the worse by the trials and the humiliations she had gone through, had got up that morning more out of humor than usual; and in answer to her maid's enquiry as to how she had passed the night, had begun talking about her weary, miserable life in an unusually fretful and desperate way. Josephine, in trying to cheer her spirits, had ventured most improperly, on making a light, jesting reference to Mr. Meeke, which had

Testing Children for Defective Hearing

The audiometer for determining the degree of hearing retained by deaf persons is one of the recent inventions of the Bell Telephone Research Engineers. It has been found that to test the hearing of children in groups, rather than individually enables them to concentrate better on the hearing test. After the telephone receivers have been adjusted on the right ears of the children they are told to write down as many numbers as they can hear as the phonograph utters them. They hear numbers coming from the telephone receiver, the intensity of each successive number group being three sensation units less than that of the preceding group. The receivers are then changed to the left ears and the test repeated. Children's hearing can be much benefited when defects are ascertained before it is too late.

so enraged my mistress that she turned round sharp on the foreigner, and gave her—to use a common phrase—a smart box on the ear. Josephine confessed that the moment after she had done this, her better sense appeared to tell her that she had taken a most improper way of resenting undue familiarity. She had immediately expressed her regret for having forgotten herself, and had proved the sincerity of it by a gift of half a dozen cambric handkerchiefs, presented as a peace-offering on the spot. After that, I thought it impossible that Josephine could bear malice against a mistress whom she had served ever since she had been a girl, and I said as much to her when she had done telling me what had happened upstairs.

"! Malice!" cries Miss Josephine, in her hard, sharp, snappish way. "And why, and wherefore, if you please? If my mistress smacks my cheek with one hand she gives me handkerchiefs to wipe it with the other. My good mistress, my kind mistress, my pretty mistress! I, the servant, bear malice against her the mistress! Ah, you bad man even to think of such a thing! Ah, fie, fie! I am quite ashamed of you!"

She gave me one look—the wickedest look I ever saw—and burst out laughing—the hardest laugh I ever heard from a woman's lips. Turning away from me directly after she said no more, and never referred to the subject again on any subsequent occasion. From that time on, however, I noticed an alteration in Miss Josephine; not in her way of doing her work, for she was just as sharp and careful about it as ever, but in manner and habits. She grew amazingly quiet, and passed almost all her leisure time alone. I could bring no charge against her which authorized me to speak a word of warning; but, for all that, I could not help feeling that if I had been in my mistress's place I would have followed up that present of the cambric handkerchiefs by paying her a month's wages in advance, and sending her away from the house the same evening.

CROWD ATTENDS DESPITE STORM

Second Concert By Port Hope Band Is Well Received Sunday

The storm did not keep the crowd from coming out to fill the Royal Theatre to hear the splendid band concert provided by our local band which has improved immensely by hard work in practice and able direction.

The storm made slight changes in the program necessary because the members from outside were unable to take their places, hence the quartette had to be changed to a trio, and Mr. Walter Frazer could not take his flute solo as he had a heavy part of bass to carry.

The whole concert was considerably better than before as the first appearance in the Royal Theatre gave the band a chance to hear how it sounded in the ears of those who were being entertained and they moderated the long, loud passages to make them more suitable to the auditorium.

We could not say anyone did any better than another, but we must mention that the solo of Mrs. Norman Johnston, wife of the new manager of the Bank of Montreal here, was very much enjoyed and Mr. G. Reid, who is also a newcomer, was delightfully received and both will be a great addition to Port Hope's splendid musical circle.

The public of Port Hope have the bandsmen to thank for giving up their time to practice and entertain and the Royal management for placing the theatre at their disposal.

The following is the program:

Band—New Colonial March.
Band—Ex Tempore (overture)
Chairman's remarks.
Vocal solo—Mr. G. R. Reid.
Band Selection—Forever With the Lord.
Selection—Hearts Ease—Intermezzo.
Band
Valse Septembre—Band
Solo—Mrs. Norman Johnston.
Dainty Maid—Band
Violin Solo—Selected—Al Stagg
Brass trio—A. Taylor, H. Allen, D. Greenlaw.
Gavotte—St. Malo.
Vocal Solo—Miss Cancilla.
Serenade—Twilight Thoughts—Band
March—Royal Marine Band
GOD SAVE THE KING.

The mother's heart is the child's schoolroom.

The world knows nothing but of its greatest men.—Taylor.

I would not anticipate the relish of any happiness, nor feel the weight of any misery, before it actually arrives.

BANDIT QUEEN IS GOING TO TOLEDO

Anita Del Valle Says She Intends To Go To Work

Anita Del Valle, of Toronto, is believed to be on the way to Toledo, following her release from Akron County Jail. On her arraignment before Judge Cox, the "Bandit Queen" was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment and fined $25 and costs, suspension of sentence being conditional on her departure from Akron. The Del Valle girl, whose yearning for criminal adventure led to the shooting of Bud Sheppard, seventeen year old Toronto boy, by an Akron detective a week ago, and the arrest of Granville Legge, fifteen, subsequently in Toronto, told Detective Chief McDonald before leaving Akron that she intended to go to work. She said she had relatives in Toledo.

The Modern Miss Brings The Kerchief Down To Date

Like history, style repeats itself. In the early period of American colonization, the prim Puritan maids wore stiffly starched kerchiefs as the sole trimming to their long sweeping dresses. Little did they realize that the modern miss of knee-length frocks and far from puritanical thoughts would consider forms of the kerchief as extremely smart. The yoke that ties in a soft bow on this strikingly new frock is one of the many adaptations of the old kerchief and is very becoming. The geometric band trimming as well as the individual cut of the sleeve at the wrist are other interesting features. The inverted pleat gives fullness to the skirt and a narrow leather belt finishes the trimming. This style is well suited to both sides of crepe satin or reversible silk, crepe de chine, or silk prints. (Copyright, 1928, by Butterick)

The Once Over

Leap year is the open season for unattached males. The sport, it seems, resembles in some ways elephant hunting in India, where the hunters use tame elephants to help round up the wild ones. For example, an old tusker, who has evidently been long in captivity sends in the following very practical advice to elephant hunters. All ready! Prepare to leap.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Good morning! Who says it's "blue Monday?"

There is nothing than sunshine after storm, for which reason everybody is happy today.

Tonight there's going to be a debate at the Y.P.S. meeting at the United church. Present indications would lead one to believe it will be interesting.

It isn't often that the Music Study Club have an evening open to the public so just look over the program in another column and plan to enjoy it tomorrow night in the Town Hall.

There's a lot doing this week, but whatever you leave out, don't let it be the Japanese Operetta, Princess Chrysanthemum, which is being put on by the United church Sunday school Thursday evening.

Who'd think of golf now? Well, the ladies' section of local enthusiasts get together for the annual meeting tonight.

The Highway snowplows were on the road today as the snow drifted with the wind.

When a baby was born Sunday morning to Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brown, Rogers street, Peterboro, Dr. Hewitt was unable to induce breathing and the Fire Department was called on to use the pulmotor. After a few minutes' application, the child breathed and is now progressing well. This is the first instance in that city of the pulmotor being used for such a purpose.

Subscribers at home can help us make the paper more interesting by sending in local news items. Every item of interest helps as it is the home news that makes the newspaper worth while. And those at home also like to read any news of former townspeople who have moved away. Send in the news early and often.

There will be general skating at the rink tonight.

The I.O.D.E. are holding their annual meeting in the Library Hall this afternoon for the adoption of reports and the election of officers.
