THE ROMANCE OF METHODISM

Grand Climax of Jubilee Services To-night

Over one hundred characters will take part in the grand jubilee pageant, "The Romance of Methodism," to be presented at the Methodist Church to-night.

There will be eight scenes outlining the history of the Church from the early days of John Wesley, leading up to the present. Local talent in costumes will portray the different characters, while the choir will form the background of song.

This pageant was presented to thousands of people in Massey Hall, Toronto, some time ago, and met with city-wide approval. Something out of the ordinary, the pageant includes entertainment with instruction.

It is being presented here under the direction of Rev. J. W. Baird, and has required an immense amount of time and labor to prepare. Mr. Baird takes part in several of the scenes in person, while members of the choir, Brotherhood, Y.P.L., and Sunday school assist in the various presentations.

A large number of tickets have already been sold, and a capacity crowd is expected.

GERMANY AND EAST EUROPE

Professor Roy of Queen's Spoke to the Women's Canadian Club on Conditions There

Professor James A. Roy, of Queen's University, was the speaker at the Women's Canadian Club last night, when a good-sized audience were treated to an intimate view of Contemporary Germany, unbiassed, impartial, and clear, as only a man of Professor Roy's ability, training and opportunity could give it. In the absence of the President, Mrs. Snider presided and introduced the speaker, Professor Roy, a native of Barrie's immortal Thrums and a son of the manse, was studying in Germany when the war broke out. For three years and a half, he served as an (Continued on Page 2.)

OSHAWA Y. M. C. A. SPORTS HAD RATHER HECTIC TRIP

Last week a number of perfectly respectable members of the Oshawa Y. M. C. A. went down to Peterboro to take part in a volley ball tournament. Half of the crowd (the more respectable portion) stayed in Peterboro overnight. The other half decided they would come home.

They took a mixed train to Port Hope, arriving there about midnight expecting to catch a local freight train to Oshawa. However, the freight train left before they reached the "Prettiest Town in Canada," so there was nothing to do but to camp in the station until the 3.45 came through.

The Reformer understands that the police all along the line had instructions to watch the "gang." They reached Oshawa sometime about five o'clock in the morning much the worse for wear as a result of their many harrowing experiences on freight trains, sleeping on railway station benches and walking the streets vainly seeking something to eat.—Oshawa Reformer.

HIGH SCHOOL BOARD MET

Mr. Fred Rosevear Made His First Appearance at the Inaugural Meeting

The inaugural meeting of the High School Board was held in Mr. D. H. Chisholm's office last night. The members present were: Messrs. D. H. Chisholm, Ed. Brown, J. H. Stephens, C. H. Wickett, J. A. Hume and the newly appointed member, Mr. Fred Rosevear, and the secretary, Dr. J. F. Thompson. Rev. Dr. J. T. Daley was the only absentee. Dr. Thompson acted as chairman until the appointment for 1925 was made.

Mr. D. H. Chisholm was re-elected chairman for another term and took charge of the meeting. Dr. Thompson was asked to keep the secretaryship, and the town treasurer, Mr. N. S. Choate, was elected treasurer of the High School Board.

The Furnishing Committee is composed of Messrs. Chas. Wickett, Ed. Brown and Dr. J. T. Daley.

The Finance Committee is: Messrs. J. A. Hume, J. H. Stephens and Fred Rosevear.

The Janitors' Committee for this term is: Messrs. J. A. Hume and Ed. Brown.

The Technical Committee, which may have no duties, as it has not been decided to re-open the night school, is composed of four members of the Board and four others, namely: Dr. J. T. Daley, Chas. Wickett, Ed. Brown, W. A. McCarty, W. J. Fielding, Chas. Roberts and W. N. Moore.

Mr. J. A. Hume, Dr. J. T. Daley, Mr. D. H. Chisholm, K.C., Mr. J. H. Stephens, Dr. S. S. Dickinson, Mr. W. J. B. Davison, Mr. M. P. Wickett, and Dr. H. W. Benson compose the Commercial Committee.

After appointing the above committees, a discussion ensued as to their duties. The most important thing which came up was the difficult problem of the Finance Committee to O.K. bills of different local merchants and firms covering periods before their term of office, of which they knew nothing of the correctness. They wish to receive all accounts monthly so that they may be disposed of without difficult research.

The next order of business was reading the minutes of the last regular meeting, which were confirmed as read.

The minutes contained a record of instructions to the secretary requesting him to ascertain if a larger grant from the Strathcona Trust Fund could not be obtained, and if so, how. The secretary read two replies to his enquiries, one of which threw no light on the subject. But the other, from Capt. Heron, Cadet Inspector, gave some interesting facts. It said in effect that the fund was $500,000, and the interest therefrom was divided amongst the different Cadet Corps of the Dominion, according to the grade which they receive from their inspection. In the past two years our corps had not received the highest grading, but Capt. Heron assured the Board that under the competent instruction of Capt. Geo. Adkins, the corps will make an excellent showing at the next inspection. Already they have received first grade in musketry, and with training under Capt. Adkins, who has a thorough knowledge and long practice in drill, the corps should attain a high grade for efficiency. The Board thought nothing further could be done in this matter at present, and that it were better to await the results of the inspection.

It was moved: "That the meeting of the Board be held at Mr. Chisholm's office or at the High School on the first Tuesday of each month." Carried.

A communication was received from Mrs. Robert Grandy and Miss Mary Grandy, thanking the Board for its message of sympathy and flowers which they sent on the death of the late Robert Grandy, who was for so many years an active member of the High School Board.

CHINOOK BROUGHT WAVE OF MILDNESS

Thermometer Jumped 60 Degrees to 49 Above in Calgary

Swept by frigid blasts during the week-end, the Prairie Provinces yesterday illustrate the variable weather changes which often are wrought in a comparatively short space of time.

In Alberta, extreme sub-zero temperatures generally prevailed throughout the provinces on Sunday, but today's spring-like conditions have been ushered in on the wings of a chinook. In Calgary the rise of the mercury has been most pronounced the official reading there this morning showing 40 above, a rise of 60 degrees, while at Medicine Hat, the jump was 58 degrees from 16 to 42 above. Other points in the provinces reported similar variations in temperature.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba, continue their contest, Regina, Qu'Appelle, The Pas, Winnipeg, all tobogganing for low records, reaching the 25 below zero mark. Prince Albert, Sask., showed a marked recovery from the sub-zero depths, a rise of 40 degrees being reported from the extreme dip of 45 yesterday. A warm wave is heading across the prairies from the Pacific Coast, giving hope of even milder weather.

LOCAL SANTARY CO. DID WELL

Absorption of Galt Brass Co. Expected in Near Future

Only a small amount of Port Hope Sanitary preferred stock remains outstanding, and it is probable that these will be retired in the near future. When this is done a declaration on the common may be expected. The year of the company will close at the end of this month. Some interesting announcements are expected to be made soon regarding Port Hope Sanitary. These will probably include a change in the board of directors. It is also stated that the absorption of the Galt Brass Company is a near prospect. The company has done remarkably well during the past two or three years.

REV. ELLIOTT GIVEN LEAVE OF ABSENCE

St. John's Vestry Meeting Held Tuesday Night

At the annual vestry meeting of St. John's Church, held on Tuesday evening, Rev. James Elliott was given three months' leave of absence, and Rev. A. G. Emmett, of Toronto, appointed preacher for this period. Rev. Mr. Emmett preached at St. John's two weeks ago, and in the opinion of many present, it would be difficult to find a better man for the position.

Mr. D. H. Chisholm, K.C., presided as chairman, and Dr. J. F. Thompson acted as secretary. A resolution was passed tendering the sympathy of the congregation to Rev. Elliott in his severe and prolonged illness.

A balance of $295 on hand was shown in the Church Warden's report, after all expenses were paid. The rector sent word that he had re-appointed M. V. Ferguson his warden for the year, and it was unanimously carried that Mr. Ferguson be warden to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Mr. J. S. Smart.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Smart for his excellent work during his five years' service as warden.

Mr. C. H. Wickett was unanimously elected People's Warden.

Messrs. Smart, Ferguson and Reper were appointed lay delegates to the Synod, and Messrs. Buckley and Ryan auditors.

A vote of thanks was made to Mr. George for the good work he has done in connection with the cemetery. Mr. George presented a very pleasing financial statement.

On motion, the reports of the Sunday school by Mrs. Reid; Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Smart; Chancel Guild, Mrs. Martin; Girls' Guild, Miss Edith Moffatt; Service Club, Mrs. George; Girls' Club, Miss Addie Kennedy, were received and adopted as read. All showed a very successful year's work.

It was wrongly reported that the local Department of Highways had orders to keep the roads cleared for automobile traffic. Only the highway from Toronto to Bowmanville is to be opened for automobile traffic and a plough is supplied for the work. Here the department is only required to open the road for His Majesty's mail carriers and sleighs. Motor travel is not encouraged through the winter.

Driving along the country roads these days one may see hundreds of pussies clinging to willow branches that are begging to be rescued from the icy grip of Old King Winter. These pussies are partly protected now with brown hoods, but they would enjoy a corner in a warm house, and if given a drink would soon be covered with glossy silver fur. They are the first signs of spring.

At a meeting of William Crawford L.O.L., No. 2884, Toronto, on Monday evening, Councillor N. M. Brinston, former master of the Lodge, was presented with a beautiful Past Master's medal, and is the first master of that Lodge to be so honored.

At the I.O.O.F. euchre last night in their rooms on Walton street, over fifty were there to play the game. The first of the ladies' prizes went to Mrs. C. Rowden and the second to Mrs. Geo. Elliott. Mr. Geo. Corbett won the men's first prize and Messrs. Joe Harcourt and Geo. Elliott cut for second, as both had an equal score. The former turned up the good card.

This week's luncheon of the Lindsay Rotary Club was featured by an admirable address from Rev. Harold Young, of Peterboro. The reverend gentleman in the course of his remarks pointed out that although in many ways men's lives are similar, yet they live in different worlds. If our world is a world of material things, we teach our souls to respond only to that world. It is the greatest importance to Rotary what the things are to which the members respond.

Caught in a grain grinding machine, Franklin Dewitt, Crossfield, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dewitt, was instantly killed on Monday evening at the farm, four miles south-west of Calgary, Alta.

The Experienced Invalid
The new doctor, fresh from the medical school, called to see a very old patient who immediately began to relate to him his various ailments. "And, worst of all, doctor, I'm afraid I've got a diseased heart," the old man concluded.
"Oh, no," said the doctor, "it's not quite so bad as that, I'm sure."
But the old man held up a silencing finger, and said: "Excuse me, doctor, but it's not for a young man like you to contradict an experienced invalid like me."

It Has Many Qualities.—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is armed against many ills. It will relieve a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, relieve the most persistent sores and will speedily heal cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself.

officer in the British army and passed through many of the stiffest engagements of the war, Ypres, The Somme, Vimy. Then because of his linguistic qualifications and his acquaintance with Germany his services were enlisted by the British Intelligence Department and since 1918-19 he has become intimately acquainted with problems in Germany and East Europe. Only last summer he returned from Germany where he had been. It can be easily seen that Professor Roy speaks from no superficial observation, and that his conclusions may be regarded as coming from an authority.

There were three or four points of startling interest which were made in the course of the evening, which brought back vividly to our minds, events now becoming dim in memory. In the first place, Professor Roy made it very clear that the war mentality of the Germans was rapidly re-asserting itself. This was due to many different factors,—but principally to the fact that the people who were now recovering from the great physical privations which they suffered during the war, were beginning to look for a means of regaining their shattered glory and prestige. The schoolmaster again is teaching the German youth the stories of German military heroes and inspiring him with intense zeal for a similar career. In spite of the terms of treaties the Germans are creating the nucleus of a well-trained army, and experimenting with substitutes for a navy and air force, even though handicapped in the training of the personnel.

Professor Roy made it perfectly clear that another war was imminent. The German people themselves are expecting it, and as confidently looking forward to "Der Tag" and Deutschland "Uker Alles" as ever they did before the war. The German student struts in his cadet's uniform with the same pride as in the days of the Kaiser.

But the Germans do not anticipate the same alignment of forces. In fact they hope to retrieve the mistake they made in their misapprehension of the British position and this time to fight on the same side. In fact they hint that the next war will be in even a broader sense a "world war" for it will be a religious war or a racial one—the Nordic races against the Latin. To prove that a religious war is not really beyond imagination, Professor Roy allowed us an intimate glimpse of the inner workings of diplomacy in Alsace Lorraine, and to further prove his point mentioned the Franco-Polish alliance, and the conditions in Schleswig-Holstein and Posen. Whether or not the exact division which the Germans anticipate will occur, the menace of a great war is no less real.

To make matters worse, Germans disclaim all responsibility for the last war. They affirm that they were the victims of the Franco-Russian alliance; that they fought a defensive warfare against French and Russian aggression, and that Great Britain entered for gain. Moreover, they admit no military defeat, and for every atrocity and crime they have a reason or a recrimination. When confronted by the cruelty and barbarism of their submarine warfare, they advance the counter argument of the cruelty of our blockade, and point to their rickety children, their consumptive youths and to the gaps in every family circle made by starvation, due to the British blockade. This they maintain to be the greatest crime of all. The psychology of the German mind is unchanged; as firmly as in 1914 does the German believe that German Kultur is best and though their nation is unjustly broken and beaten to the ground, their Kultur suffers but a temporary eclipse and will eventually triumph and rule the world.

Economically, the people suffered after the war. The fantastic stories about the fall of the German mark were all too true. Their industrial machinery, while not ruined, was completely put out of gear and this combined with the loss of the coal areas, has made great suffering. It is only recently with the operation of the Dawes plan that the currency has been stabilized and economically and industrially, Germany is regaining her feet. But this does not dismiss the problem. Germany must have room to expand. All opportunity has been denied her; seething, discontent must follow, fostered by 150,000 Bolsheviks who are unwelcome immigrants in Canada or the United States. An eruption will naturally follow.

Politically Germany is at heart monarchistic. Ebert who was a paddle maker and a close friend of Ramsay MacDonald in Socialist days, is really a monarchist at heart. He will some day quietly abdicate in favour of a monarch, who will be not the Kaiser, but a man who will serve as a key-pin to a constitutional monarchy,—limited to a degree similar to our own. Rupprecht of Bavaria's name was mentioned in this connection. Meanwhile, the German nationalistic spirit is being kept alive by the youth of the land, by a movement similar to that which preserved the national self consciousness of the Czechs during a hundred years of foreign rule. The German spirit is vigorous and as long as it has the loyal self-sacrificing support of the masses it will never change. The spirit that prompts a German Frau to sacrifice her gold wedding ring for the "Vaterland" cannot be changed by coercion. Conversion in the sense of a spiritual change from within there might be, but the Germany who feels herself misunderstood, imposed upon by uncharitable victors will become more and more jealous of her rights and her privileges and anxious for her place in the sun, France's policy in the occupation of the Ruhr is motivated by fear and follows its historical parallel of Napoleon's policy after Jena in 1806 to have a happy ending.

Uncharitable treatment, unwillingness to understand Germany, will only intensify the situation, and Prof. Roy closed his address with an eloquent appeal for charity and understanding for our neighbours, whether individual or a nation.
Mrs. Ryan, seconded by Mrs. Dews, moved a vote of thanks, which Mrs. Snider tendered the speaker and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

BROTHER USMARS MUST STAND TRIAL

Was Found Guilty of Death in Orphanage

Unable to furnish personal bonds to the amount of $5,000, Brother Usmar of the Order of the Brothers of Mercy, and teacher at the Huberdeau Orphanage, was taken to Bordeaux jail late Wednesday afternoon, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death by scalding of 8 year old Hector Galarneau, who died in St. Justine Hospital on Jan. 24. The preliminary trial was set for Feb. 11.

Brother Usmar, civilly known as Rene Francois de Vleeschouwer, was conveyed to jail in the "black maria" in company with other prisoners.

The proceedings Wednesday before Judge Monet, following the verdict of the Coroner's jury that Brother Usmar was responsible by criminal negligence for the death of young Galarneau, were brief. The accused maintained an impassive attitude as the charge was read to him. The verdict was rendered by the Coroner's jury after 14 minutes deliberation.

Possibility of Accident Scouted

Evidence presented before Coroner McMahon Wednesday centred on the possibility of the dead child having accidentally caused his own death. But this, in the opinion of Dr. Wilfred Derome, Provincial Autopsist, was unlikely. The boy had been scalded in a tub at the orphanage on Jan. 21, having been conducted thither by Brother Usmar for a wash in consequence of the child's unfortunate personal weakness. Dr. Derome testified that, in his opinion, the boy had been either held in the boiling water for more than an instant or stayed there of his own accord, which was not likely.

In the boy's case, physical examination showed that his body was burned on the lower part, the legs and back. He had apparently been seated in the tub with his legs extended, or seated resting on his toes. "In my opinion," said Dr. Derome, "the child could not have fallen into the water. He was either held or remained there."

Evidence of a number of inmates of the orphanage was to the effect that Brother Usmar had encouraged the boys to beat little Galarneau, telling them to "jump on him."

This was brought out after Victor Cote, aged 9, had declared that about twelve boys of his own age had thereupon attacked young Galarneau with their fists, and after beating him down had piled on the top of him. Brother Usmar was in the hall, but did not stop the assault. Finally, after Galarneau was weeping and covered with blood, the other boys left him of their own accord.

Other Punishments Inflicted

Other punishments inflicted by Brother Usmar on the child were testified to by Leon Chouinard, aged 13; Achille Sureau, and Edouard Galarneau, a former inmate, but no relation of the deceased. This evidence was to the effect that Brother Usmar had kicked the child on several occasions and that he had punished him by forcing him to walk apart from the other boys, and also by compelling

Training For Future Existence

Clarence Darrow, the lawyer, says: "There is neither purpose in existence nor a goal in living. If we knew where we were going, we could pick out the road. But so far as science, philosophy or history can throw any light on the subject, we are not going anywhere and there's no purpose."
Darrow is wrong.

There is a purpose behind this journey we call life, though it may not be revealed to us this side of the grave.

Life is a spiritual gymnasium. Pain, troubles, burdens, disappointments, heartaches—all these are to the character or soul the same as the punching bag and Indian clubs are to the athlete.

Life is a training for a future existence.—Kitchener Record.

ing him to kneel at the refectory, with the result that young Galarneau on the last occasion had only a piece of dry bread to eat.

Mrs. Galarneau, mother of the dead child, testified to the boy's declaration to her at St. Justine Hospital, where he died, that he had been dipped in boiling water by Brother Usmar. She said that he was then fully conscious, a statement that was afterwards corroborated by Detective Joseph Laroche.

Lives spent in indolence are therefore sad.

THE GUIDE STORY

(Continued from Yesterday) Mrs. Dent—(I have called her Juliette, and "her," and "his her face—she gave a hurried glance wife," all this time, because I hated at her mistress—Mrs. Dent was looking to give her our Hester's name, but being keenly at her—she dropped the it must come at last)—Mrs. Dent, hat and gloves, covered her burning who was paying her formal daily face with both hands, and burst in-visit to the nursery, was lunging to tears. How much shamed inno- in an easy chair, listlessly turning her face looks like guilt sometimes. over the leaves of her favorite Had a bombshell fallen into the "Rochevaucauld." The door opened, room, the effect could not have been and General Dent came in. As usual greater on one of the party. Juliette's by force of habit, without a thought, face grew pale, paler, whiter than Minny sprang up and set a chair marble—her blue lips parted away for him, and, taking his hat and from her set teeth—her eyes glit-

KEEPS 15,000 CARS MOVING; BUT SHE CAN'T MAKE SALADS

WHEN the Transportation and Car Service directors of the Canadian National Railways assembled in conference in Montreal recently, one of the best "men" around the large table in the board room at the General Offices in McGill Street was Miss Lucy Wright.

MISS LUCY WRIGHT

Don't infer from this that Miss Wright is one of those masculine creatures who has buried her sex and submerged herself in the idea that she wants to be a man; on the contrary, she is decidedly feminine. She is not one who thinks that women should take the men's places in the business world, but rather one who believes if a girl starts out to carve herself a career she should strive to attain the highest point possible in that career. "If a girl intends to get married," said Miss Wright, "she should marry young. Either prepare for marriage or prepare for business. In the former instance learn home economics, the business end of managing a home and arrange to meet proper young men, but for business it is different. One cannot be a successful business executive and an expert salad maker at the same time. I know that in my case it would be a dangerous thing to put me in command of a kitchen stove."

With this brief introduction to Miss Wright in mind, picture the surprise of a factory traffic manager who strode into the offices of the Canadian National—Grand Trunk Lines at Detroit the other day and demanded: "Where's the General Car Distributor? Show me his office."

"Here I am. I'm the General Car Distributor." It was Miss Lucy Wright, sitting behind her neatly kept desk from which she directs the movement of some 15,000 freight cars. After the stock of surprise had subsided the factory representative forgot what it was he "wanted to tell" and listened instead to a satisfactory explanation of just why the cars he had ordered had not been delivered.

Appointment of Miss Lucy Wright to the important office of general car distributor by the Grand Trunk came as a big surprise to Michigan railroad men. It is believed she is the only woman in America occupying such a position. It is her duty to keep on the move the thousands of freight cars on Grand Trunk tracks, supplying the demands of shippers. An idle freight car costs the railroad $1 a day, and there are 15,000 or more cars on the many railroads.

Though many men and ship- perers were skeptical when a woman was placed in charge of the distribution of the cars, all are learning to respect her ability. Born on a Farm Miss Wright was born on a farm near Durand, Mich., and at her father's death when she was eleven, she took active charge of the family. At twelve she was managing the farm success- fully, incidentally learning the funda- mentals of busi- ness.

"Lucydities"

Girls who need advice most won't take it; the others will succeed anyway. The worst crime a business woman can commit is to divulge office secrets. Don't be an automatic stenographer; anyone can run a machine. A girl who merely typewrites will always remain a stenographer; one who learns the business she is in will become a private secretary. One can't be a successful business executive and an expert salad maker at the same time. There isn't a position in the world that can not be filled by a woman as capably as by a man.

tered, and a furrow, black as night, doubled between her eyebrows. "Twas confirmation strong as proof from Holy Writ" to her. "Leave the room, minion!" at last she said, in a low and husky tone. Minny obeyed. General Dent, with his back toward them, was occupied with his child, and did not perceive this short passage Juliette arose, passed into her own apartment, and rang the bell. "Inform the housekeeper that I would speak with her," said she to the servant who obeyed her summons. Mrs. Wimsat soon entered. "Mrs. Wimsat, I have sent for you to request you to send Minny Dozier to the quarters—to the quarters of the field negroes—with a note to the overseer, directing him to set her to work to-morrow with the others. I have also to request that you will seek out a proper person to supply her place in the nursery."

This cruel order was given with the greatest apparent composure. Mrs. Wimsat evidently either did not comprehend it, or she distrusted her own ears. "Did you hear me?" asked the lady. "Yes, madam; but I do not think I quite understand you." Mrs. Dent repeated the order with great distinctness. "Now, I presume, I make myself intelligible?" "Yes, madam, I think I understand you; but pardon me, Mrs. Dent—Minny Dozier! the poor child is no more fit to handle a hoe, and work out in the hot, broiling sun, than you are, madam (meaning no offense); but she is such a delicate, gossamer little thing—such a sweet, beautiful, refined little creature—dear me! Mrs. Dent, it would kill her in a week—to live in the dirty quarters, too!—and she so delicately brought up. Why, her former mistress, the late Mrs. Dent, you know, used to take as much care of her as though she had been her own dear sister; indeed, madam, I hope you will think better of it. What has Minny done? I will make her come and beg your pardon." "There is no necessity, Mrs. Wimsat. She has done nothing. I simply dislike her about the house, and desire that she be transferred to the fields. You will be so good as to attend to it."

"But, for Heaven's sake, Mrs. Dent!" "I am not accustomed to hold a controversy with people in my employ, Mrs. Wimsat. I give you an order, and I expect it to be obeyed. You may withdraw."

Mrs. Wimsat left the room, muttering to herself: "What ails her? This was always the way. There was Hester Grey, descended from one of the oldest and proudest families in Virginia, with some of the best blood of old England running in her veins. There was Hester Grey, distinguished for the perfect simplicity of her character and man- ners. And here's this upstart, Juliette Summers—this beggar—this Italian founding, who, now that General Dent has married her, assumes the airs of an empress. It's always the way—set a beggar on horseback, and he'll ride to the Old Nick! However, as General Dent may be presumed to have something to do with his fields, if he hasn't with his house, I shall see him upon this subject of putting a new hand to the hoe." Which she accordingly did. General Dent received this piece of information with unfeigned surprise, and immediately sought the presence of his wife for an explanation. Juliette was reclining in a large chair in her chamber. As soon as she saw him enter she arose, walked to the farthest window and looked out. He came in, speaking: "Juliette, my dear, I have come to inquire into poor Minny's offense, and to intercede for her. What has the poor little fool done to deserve banishment?"

She turned her white face upon him. He positively started with the shock her look gave him. He was much alarmed. He thought that she was suddenly ill. "Why, Juliette! my dearest Juliette! What is this—how long have you been thus—what is the matter?" inquired he, anxiously, as he approached very near her. She recoiled from him, and raised her hand with an abjuring gesture. "I have no accusation to make, General Dent!" she muttered, in a deep and husky tone. (To be continued)

DICKY AND SQUEEDEE HAVE A CHAT WITH YOUNG SAPSUCKER

DICKY stood watching the black and yellow bird clinging to the trunk of the tree. He was so intent on the bird that he didn't see the wee elfin, Squeedee, until the tiny hand touched his arm—then Dicky nearly jumped out of his shoes. "Goodness, Squeedee! I thought that bird's mate had nipped me, as sure as I'm alive," he laughed. "I'm glad to see you. Say, isn't that a queer-looking Woodpecker? Most all Woodpeckers I've seen have a red head, while that fellow has a red crown, chin and throat. Who is he, anyway?" Squeedee glanced up at the tree, then shook his head. "I'm sorry to have to tell you that's Willy Sapsucker, Reddy Woodpecker's cousin. Too bad, but Willy Sapsucker is the black sheep of his family. He does one thing that we can't make him stop. "And that's what?" asked Dicky, his eyes as large as saucers. "Maybe if you talked to him he would change his ways."

"Gets His Name Honestly."

destroy the trees. But Willy Sapsucker doesn't. He drills holes in the trees to suck the sap from the tree. Why, in a short time a Sapsucker can kill a tree. That's why he hasn't many friends. He drills into the inner soft bark and sucks the sap. Before he gets through he'll have a whole bait of holes around that tree trunk."

"No, he won't, if I can help it," laughed Dicky. "Let's call him down and talk to him. I've never seen him very close, anyway."

Squeedee whistled and Willy Sapsucker flew down to his side. Squeedee introduced him to Dicky and he bowed and strutted very politely. "He was just a wee bit smaller than Robin Redbreast. Black, yellow and white above, with a bright red crown, chin and throat. The black on his breast formed a crescent. A yellowish white line, starting at the bill, ran down into a pale yellow vest. His wings were spotted with white and his tail was black, with a wee bit of white on the middle feathers. "Sapsuckers are a nuisance, I'll agree," he chirped sadly. "We do destroy trees. But oh, that juice is so good! After we peck a hole in the limb we can sip the juice until we are almost drunk. But I don't believe I've ever killed a tree. I rather like to get a little sap here and there, but I promise you one thing—I won't bother your trees any more." With a merry chirp Mr. Sapsucker sailed away over the treetops to the woods beyond.

"Well, he's a mighty pretty fellow all right, Squeedee," began Dicky, but when he turned around he found he was alone. Whistling merrily, he trudged off to school wondering where Willy Sapsucker would spend the day.

CREATING OPPORTUNITY

Heredity and environment are about equally powerful in shaping the individual. This is the conclusion drawn from laboratory experiments with lower forms of animal life and plants. When it comes to people, however, a third influence operates—character and ability born in the individual and which cannot be traced to environment or heredity. A beautiful swamp flower has little in common with the swamp. Eighteen years ago a Denver man rented the smallest office in a 25 story building in New York City. Recently he bought the building for about $2,000,000. This man is now head of 200 corporations.

One cannot attribute such success mainly to opportunity. Rather, it is due to ability—born in or developed. A few men find opportunity. The majority create it.—Kitchener Record.

Some relaxation is necessary to people of every degree; the head that thinks and the hand that labors must have some little time to recruit their diminished powers.

ONTARIO BOYS UNDERTAKE A CAMPAIGN TO FINANCE THEIR WORK

The members of the Fourth Ontario Older Boys' Parliament have pledged themselves to raise the sum of $8,500.00, the amount necessary to carry on their four-fold program of training for service during 1925. Beginning tomorrow, Saturday, January 31st, and continuing until Tuesday, February 10th, the Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers of Ontario will ask the public for their sympathetic and practical support. The public will be asked to invest money in Canadian Citizenship, to buy bonds which will pay dividends in better boyhood.

Is the work worth while? Does the cause merit support? Read what Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General of Ontario says: "The members of the Fourth Ontario Older Boys' Parliament impressed me greatly. Their earnestness and zeal were striking. They deserve every encouragement in their work."

Mr. R. A. Stapells, retiring President of the Toronto Board of Trade, said: "It should be both a privilege and a pleasure for the business men of this Province to assist the boys in their efforts to develop better citizenship." And this from Norman Somerville, President of the Toronto Rotary Club: "Ontario's greatest undeveloped asset is its boyhood. Any investment in it is worth while. After meeting the members of the Older Boys' Parliament, I feel that the work they are engaged in is deserving of warm support."

And where will the money go? How will it be used? These questions are best answered by a glance at the list of C. S. E. T. activities for 1925: 14 Summer Camps. Leadership Training Camp. Boys' Conference for 2500 boys. Father and Son Banquets. Mentors' Training Institutes. Older Boys' Parliament. Canadian Standard Efficiency Training for 12,000 boys. The boys of Ontario are genuinely concerned about making better citizens of themselves. If you consider their efforts worthy of assistance, invest in their bond issue.

Modesty seldom resides in a breast that is not enriched with nobler virtues.

Mirth prolongs life, and causes health.

A generous action is its own reward.

What's built upon esteem can never decay.

Everything is beautiful in its season.

How long we live, not years, but actions tell.

Clap an extinguisher upon your irony, if you are unhappily blessed with a vein of it.

Virtue is like a rich stone, best plain set.

CAMPBELLFORD GEYSER SCARES ICE-CUTTERS

Water Shoots in the Air for Period of Nearly Half an

While harvesting ice in Barrie's Lake, near Campbellford, ice-cutters got a bad scare when a huge spurt of water, resembling a fountain, shot up in the air a distance of 15 feet, continuing nearly half an hour. The lake is a small one, covering only about 10 acres. Air pressure is given as the cause. Needless to say, the men and teams made a quick run to the shore, the sight being something new in these parts. Operations were suspended for the day. Ice in this district ranges from 15 to 18 inches in thickness, and every available team is on the job getting ready for the good old summer time.

SMUGGLING BASES NAMED BY STATES

Attorney General Says 332 Foreign Vessels are Engaged in Trade

United States Attorney-General Stone yesterday made public official data showing that foreign-flag vessels have during the past year been engaged in wholesale and organized efforts to smuggle liquor into the United States in violation of the American prohibition laws, and are still so engaged. At the same time it was indicated by the Department of Justice officials that a relentless campaign will be continued against all such violators of the law.

Attorney General Stone stated that investigations disclosed that 332 foreign ocean-going vessels have been engaged in the "business" of liquor smuggling during the past year. Out of this number 307 were found flying the British flag, 10 the Norwegian, four French and the remainder displayed flags of various other nations.

"A great many of these vessels engaged in no other business and have operated as rum smugglers for several years," the attorney general stated. "Others have engaged in the traffic only casually."

According to the statement, the chief British bases are Halifax, Lunenburg, Sydney and Yarmouth, Nova Scotia; St. John's, Newfoundland; Bermuda, Nassau and the Islands of Bomini and Buncay, British West Indies; Victoria, and Vancouver, B. C.; and Windsor and Belleville, Ontario. Other important bases are St. Pierre, Miquelon (French); Havana, Cuba; Hamburg, Germany and Antwerp, Belgium.

"Practically all of the foreign liquor laden vessels which hover off our coast," continued the attorney general in his statement, sail on fraudulent clearance papers. In addition to the liquors being smuggled into the country from the open season there is also a large amount of liquor being illegally introduced from Canada. Some of it comes over the land borders and some through the water ways of the Great Lakes.

END OF WORLD FALLS ON FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6th.

According to reports from Washington, D. C., it is said that the end of the world is to come on Friday, February 6. This prediction has been attributed to the Seventh Day Adventists. The headquarters of the sect in Washington, issue a denial that "they have set any date for Christ's second coming."

Evangelist Wilson of the local Seventh Day Adventist group says, "The Seventh Day Adventists have not, and never will set the time for the Lord to come."
