THE INAUGURAL MEETING OF PORT HOPE'S 1925 MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

Prayer Offered by Rev. O. Rigby; Mayor Chalk Summed up Work for 1925; Councillors Delivered Inauguration Speeches

Port Hope's newly selected ruling body held their inaugural session in the Council Chamber at eleven o'clock this morning. Mayor T. B. Chalk was in the chair, with all members present.

Reverend Oswald Rigby offered a brief prayer, after which Mayor Chalk welcomed the new Council, and spoke regarding the work which is to be done during 1925. His address in full is as follows:—

Fellow Citizens,—I take this opportunity of welcoming to the Council table of this municipality these new, young, active men whom the ratepayers in their judgment chose to look after the business of the town. There is a two-fold thought in this welcome, first, being that the men at this Board to-day are all new men, save the Reeve and Deputy; second is that the new members have been the choice of the electorate after one of the most interesting elections in the history of the town. It is especially pleasing to me to-day to be occupying this chair. It is just 20 years since I first occupied the same position, and while in sporty circles it is claimed that it is a hard thing for a man to come back, I have been more than pleased that I have been able to come back and be with you after 20 years' absence. There is no doubt that the ratepayers will be looking for some good results from this Council, and, as has been already said to me on several occasions, some are looking for a reduction in the taxes. I would not like to promise anything in that respect to-day, but one thing I will say is that I am certain that this Council will at no time plunge the ratepayers into expense that can be avoided.

One of the problems that we have to deal with will be the equalization of the assessment. There are many cases of inequality. Competent assessors will have to be employed, and a system of assessing land at a proper valuation, that there will be no further assessing of vacant land at farm land values.

One of the first things that should be done by the new Property Committee will be a re-valuation of the town property. A glance at the financial statement issued by the town shows that the buildings are valued far below their worth, while some of the other items are valued above what they should be. I think this is essential so that the town's valuation will be just.

Another question to be taken up is that of street paving. As you know, this was one of the big questions last year, and this year things will have to come to a decision. With the completion of the Cobourg road to Mill street and the letting of the contract of the Welcome road, if the main street of our town is not paved it will be the missing link. I would say that this is the opportune time to have it done, particularly if this work were done by the same contractor, as he would have all the necessary equipment on hand and it would surely be a big saving for the town.

My position on this question has been that all the preparatory work should be done first, and would suggest that one of the first things to be taken up by the S. & B. committee would be a thorough investigation into the whole question; further, the Council will be fully aware of just what is necessary to be done in the way of improving our streets and walks and also the laying of sewers, that the S. & B. Committee, along with the Town Engineer bring to this Council at the earliest possible moment a detailed report of the work that they think necessary, along with a statement of the necessary cost.

Another important work to be done in my opinion is the providing of a public lavatory. There has been much talk about this for some years. No one realizes how important this is until they investigate how much it is needed. A plan could be quite easily formulated to give the necessary accommodation at a very little expense, and when the time comes for discussing this question I will be in a position to suggest a plan that will meet with the approval of the Council.

There has been much talk lately about the gas supply. Now that the town is practically the controller of that plant I think that a committee should be appointed from the Gas Board. This Board and an expert to see what could be done to better the system and a report brought in. This should be done from the standpoint that the town should not be in the gas business, not from any profit that might be derived, but it should be for service to the public.

As debentures will have to be sold very soon for the new school building, also for the new sewer, which at the present time the Bank is carrying the expenses. I would like to suggest to the Finance Committee that they seriously consider, when the time comes, to placing these debentures on the market that some of our local institutions be given the opportunity to purchase or handle them so that the people in town who are in a position will have an opportunity to do so.

Town Park—With the beautiful situation of our Town Park that the Town Property Committee should look into the question of having the park put into proper shape. Now that we are advertising the fact all over the country that Port Hope is supplying a Tourist Camp, we should live up to that advertisement.

The top of the hill should be levelled, proper lavatory accommodation installed and the centre of the large grounds levelled. We have to do something for the young men of our town in the way of supplying proper recreation ground and there is no better place than our Town Park, with the co-operation of the Parks Commission the park could be made a credit to the town.

We could have also a natural landing place for aviators and if it were known that we had such a place for aviators it would be a big advertisement for the town. I have also thought that there is no better place in town for promoting winter sports than at the Town Park. You could install two toboggan slides that would be a great attraction to keep our people off the dangerous streets.

This is only a very sketchy outline of some of the things that I feel should be done and if the members of the council will display the same energy which the people did in electing them to office. I am certain when the end of the year comes, the people will have no cause to complain of the work of the Council.

The main thing to be remembered is that we are all working in the interests of the Ratepayers' and everything that we do must be considered from that angle.

Reeve Holdaway was next called upon, and he congratulated Mayor Chalk upon his election. The confidence the ratepayers have in him is shown, he said, by his re-election after twenty years' absence from the Board. He hoped that after 1925 had passed, that that confidence would be stronger than ever. He also expressed his pleasure at the election of the Councillors, and assured them of his aid and advice in every way during the coming year. The work for 1925 should be commenced at once, he thought, in order that this Fall the Council might not have to face as much unfinished work as they did last year. The work at the East Ward School is progressing as rapidly as might be expected, and debentures for this work and the sewers should be issued as soon as possible in order that the Council might commence the New Year's business with a clean slate.

Deputy Reeve Edmunds followed the Reeve, and heartily congratulated the Mayor on his election, although he admitted that he did not help him to his position. Before going any further, he desired to correct a statement made at the

MODERATOR HERE ON SUNDAY

Dr. Clarence MacKinnon at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church

The Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly delivers most inspiring messages at both services yesterday.

The Presbyterian people of Port Hope were greatly privileged yesterday to have a visit from the Moderator of the General Assembly in the person of the Rev. Clarence MacKinnon, D.D., of Halifax.

Having been especially asked to speak on the subject of Church Union which is so vitally interesting, the Presbyterians just now on account of the approaching vote on the question, Dr. MacKinnon referred to the matter mainly at the morning service, and Unionist and Anti-Unionists alike are loud in their praises of his statesmanlike presentation of the case: from the point of view, the churches proper and real business.

He emphasized the fact that church union is by no means a new question, and recalled the experience of St. Paul in dealing with the perplexing question as to whether there would be a Jewish Christian church and a Gentile Christian church or a United Christian church in the first century. He referred particularly to the sublime teaching of the Apostle in his letter to the Ephesian Christians and to his wonderfully effective influence in favor of Union as enjoyed in the first century and throughout the subsequent history of the Christian church.

The Moderator then spoke of the splendid effect upon Scottish life and character of the Unity of Spirit which has been so wonderfully presented in the church life of Scotland and he pointed out the need of such a spirit in Canada with all our complex problems of race, religion and nationality. He dealt with the question of rural life in Canada and spoke of the importance of the church as the centre of all that is best in social and community life. Canada's rural stretches have been too much depleted because of the unattractiveness of country life, and the Christian church should unite her forces at full strength to make more attractive these community centres so that they might gather together and interest the younger citizens who will help to maintain agriculture as the basic industry of our country.

In the evening Dr. MacKinnon spoke on the subject of "Progress" as seen in a variety of spheres and by no means least in the Christian church. He emphasized her great Missionary undertakings and touched upon union with all its perplexing difficulties as the desirable objective which would help the church to accomplish her great task in these days of unexcelled opportunity.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Rev. Dr. W. R. Young Preached at Methodist Church on Sunday

The anniversary services commemorating fifty years use of the present church building continued yesterday. Rev. Dr. W. R. Young, of Toronto, another former pastor conducted the services. The morning sermon was especially attractive to those who formerly attended this church when Dr. Young was pastor. One lady on her way home from church remarked, "I don't care, I cried all the time, I couldn't help it." There were plenty others too, but they were not so outspoken. In looking over the congregation Dr. Young found but few faces of those who formed his congregation during his pastorate in Port Hope—the end of the last and the beginning of the present century.

Both sermons were eloquent gospel discourses. The morning text was the words of Jesus "As my Father has sent me, even so send I you." John 20: 21. The evening "Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before." Phil. 3: 13.

The choir which was out in full force rendered most efficient music at all the services.

Rev. Dr. Young and his son, Rev. W. H. Young of Peterboro (who by the way is an old Port Hope boy) will address the congregational meeting in the church tonight.

Much may be forgiven a man who is honest and punctual.

HOPE TOWNSHIP COUNCIL HELD INAUGURAL MEETING

Only Three Members Present at the Morning Session Little Business Done

At the opening meeting of 1925 Hope Township Council only three members were present—Reeve, H. B. Lawson in the chair, Councillors Fred Ough and T. A. Finnie.

Reeve Lawson opened by welcoming the old members back, and said that they could feel that the returns seemed to be a proof that their work last year had proved satisfactory to the ratepayers. He felt sure that with the experience they had gained in service that the Council would be able to do better. He knew they might differ in opinions, but that often brought better conclusions. He felt sure the Council would get on well together in the work of the present year.

The minutes of the meeting of December 27 were read, and it was moved and carried that they be adopted as read.

Communications
A communication was received from Mr. Geo. A. Finnie asking for the appointment of auditor.

A letter from the Ontario Municipal Association was received regarding a meeting to be held in Toronto on January 15th. Left for consideration of the whole Council.

Counties Council sent letter regarding assessment roll. Left for clerk to fill out blanks.

A communication was received from the Sick Children's Hospital asking for grant. Left for later consideration.

Department of Public Highways sent new by-laws and pointed out that statute labor had been abolished and the appointment of a road superintendent was necessary. This was also left for the consideration of the whole Council.

In the matter of Mrs. Jessie Pemberton, indigent patient at Port Hope Hospital, the Clerk had received no reply to his letter answering the one read.

The meeting then adjourned until 1.30.

The entire Council were present this afternoon.

The chief item of interest was the finance report.

Ontario's Contribution to New York Aquarium Has Ill-Luck Much Inquiry About Canadian Tours

A heavy casualty list reported Thursday by the Canadian Government, section of the motor boat show at Grand Central Palace New York.

Twenty-eight Canadian fish—muskellunge, sturgeon, rainbow trout and black bass—were captured in Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay and brought to New York in special tanks to be placed on exhibition in the Canadian section. Thursday is "Canadian Day" at the show, but only two of the fish are flopping about in the big glass tank in celebration of it. The others all died en route to New York or during the early days of the show.

The New York aquarium has no muskellunge or rainbow trout and the intention was to present the Canadian fish to the aquarium at the close of the show. Experts from the aquarium co-operated with those in charge of the Canadian exhibit in looking after the fish, but the combination of the long train journey and New York water proved too big a handicap.

Mr. Alex Kay, of the Department of Railways and Canals, is in charge of the Canadian exhibit, which includes the working model of the big lift locks at Peterboro. This has been a feature of Canada's exhibit at previous shows and this year it has again proved to be one of the biggest attractions of the show. Mr. Kay said Thursday that an unusually large number of inquiries regarding Canada had been made by visitors to the exhibit. Interest centered largely in automobile and motorboat touring routes in the Dominion and in Ontario's electrical development.

Were you able to get your house warm Sunday?

With that bitter north wind yesterday many people found it very difficult to keep the house warm.

There were three blackbirds or a willow tree beside the Ganeraska near Ontario street yesterday. Our corner friend hopes they are enjoying this weather.

Sherly after starting to work showing snow from the front gate of Portsmouth penitentiary Friday morning, James Robinson, aged 60, known as Inmate E949, dropped dead of a heart attack. Robinson was sentenced at Sudbury on Oct. 1909, to serve 28 years. He had served 15 and was at all times, a model inmate.

"Norman McBride has had such a rush of business that he has boarded up the front," a person remarked as he passed there to-day. Actually the building is undergoing repairs, and a stairway is being put in by which the apartments above may be reached.

It is said Canada is cutting in on German trade by selling automobiles and machinery, so we may not be condemned for paying for them. It is good business to trade with them, especially as the export trade is by far the larger.

While preparing to remove the body of John Picou, an Indian aged 80, from the place where it had been found in the woods near Hampstead, the men from an undertaking establishment were greatly startled to find that he was still alive, although he had been in the open for more than 36 hours with the mercury ten degrees below zero. An examination disclosed that the man was badly frozen. First aid measures were taken, but Picou remained unconscious and was brought to the General Public Hospital, St. John, N.B., where it is said that his condition is unchanged. It is expected that he will lose one hand and several toes.

Whitby Presbyterians, members of St. Andrew's church, will on Monday evening next decide whether or not they will enter the United Church. A congregational meeting has been called, when the date for taking the vote will be determined. Some church officials claim that the vote will be very close, with a possible majority for the Unionists. The minister, Rev. Edward Turkington, formerly a Western pastor, favors union.

ed Councillors Giddy and Lingard for not opposing him in the election.

Councillor Pethick, as a new member of the Board, expressed his willingness to act in any capacity with his fellow members in the best interests of the town.

Councillor Brimstin, after congratulating the Mayor and his fellow Councillors on their election, stated his views as to the duty of a Council. As the people's representatives, they were responsible for their actions, not only to those who voted for them, but the electors as a whole. He was pleased to see so many ratepayers present, and considered it a proof of continued interest in municipal matters as was manifested in the recent contests.

Councillor E. B. Lingard took great pleasure in congratulating Mayor Chalk on his thrilling comeback after a twenty-year absence. During that time Mayor Chalk had always shown a steady interest in Port Hope as a member of the Board of Trade, and his financial, whole-hearted support of new industries. As a member of the Council, Mr. Lingard desired to co-operate with his fellow members in the points and ideas expressed in the Mayor's address. Port Hope, he said, is the "Best town in Ontario, and has the best earth streets he was ever on."

But at the same time it was necessary to fall in with changing conditions. Street oiling and watering was a huge item of expense each year, he said, and ratepayers in sections never benefited by these treatments were called upon to pay their share. In his opinion, those desiring the service should pay for it. During 1925, he urged the practice of economy, not to the extent of stinginess but to get value for every dollar spent. Attention had been drawn, he stated, to the necessity of a playgrounds for the children. Every day the dangers of children sleigh-riding and playing on the streets were made evident to him through his work. Near accidents had caused his heart to jump into his throat on numerous occasions, and the easiest way out was the establishment of a municipal playgrounds. In 1924 he was instrumental in having rinks built in both ends of the town, and although the success of these did not come up to his expectations, they were very popularly received.

Councillor Reynolds congratulated the Mayor and Councillors upon their election, and hoped that they would do their best with the vast amount of work ahead of them.

After congratulating Mayor Chalk and his fellow Councillors upon their attaining offices in the Council for 1925, Councillor Mitchell referred to the new and important things brought up in the Mayor's address, which must be at once attended to. He would, and he hoped his companions would too, always act in the best interests of Port Hope, and to the best of his ability carry out the business of the town to the satisfaction of the ratepayers.

Last, but not least, Councillor Lorrie Giddy was called upon. He expressed his pleasure at being returned to the Council, and announced that he would co-operate in every way with his fellow members. He thought there were many interesting points in Mayor Chalk's address, and the work for 1925 was pretty well covered by it.

Upon the motion of Reeve Holdaway, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. Dr. Rigby for his kindness in conducting the devotional service of the inauguration ceremony.

The Council, as a whole, were appointed as a Committee to strike the committees for 1925, and adjourned for fifteen minutes for that purpose.

The meeting was once more called to order and communications were read as follows:

From the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland as to payment made to the town of Port Hope regarding $2,459 as a road grant.

From the Canadian National Railway Road Superintendent regarding the approaches to the Ontario street bridge. The railway representatives met with the Council on December 19th, and it was arranged that the railway make the necessary repairs. Due to the lateness of the season, however, the railway now desire to have the work deferred until spring, only the most necessary work to be done at this time.

From the Ontario Municipal Association requesting a delegation to their convention to be held in the City Hall, Toronto, on Jan. 25th.

The above communications were referred to the various committees.

The report of the committee appointed to strike the Standing Committees was received and adopted as follows:

Port Hope, 12th Jan., 1925.
To His Worship the Mayor and Municipal Council of the Port Hope Corporation.

Gentlemen,—We, your Committee appointed to strike the Standing Committees for the year 1925, beg to report as follows, the first named on each Committee to be chairman, viz.:

MORE ABOUT THE NEXT WORLD WAR

Illustrating rather jocosely the truth of the statement that there are (often!) two sides to a story comes the "latest" note on the next war which is that all the frightful tales of gas and its promised deadliness are mostly piffle! That's a bit refreshing to say the least, particularly to those who had a mouthful or more of gas within the last few years.

The question of gas has point because all the experts have been assuring us that the next war would be so frightful, that many people come to the opinion that it would be much better for all concerned to get along without any next war. Particularly as many of us are not convinced that the last war did a great deal toward the betterment of humanity. One asks with some impatience if we are indeed not a good deal worse than in 1914?

That may be open to argument, but at any rate, along comes this chap a bio-chemist with an article in the most recent Atlantic Monthly, a fellow who has made poison gasses, who has studied them as military weapons and who experienced their effects in the trenches. This man declares that the use of gas is not cruel. He declares that while more effective than other devices it inflicts far less pain than do shell and bullet wounds. The fatalities, he says, are comparatively few and the vast majority of those who are disabled by it make complete recovery. The most terrible of all the gasses, the so-called "mustard gas," is nothing like so terrible as it has been represented. It affects its victims like sunburn. Nearly all negroes and most whites who can defy the sun are not much inconvenienced by it, unless they receive it in unusually large quantities.

One reads all these articles with a sense of rather large doubt. One remembers, for instance, that subaltern officers and men generally were too busy to wear masks when oftentimes the brass hats were ploughing around with them on. There were enough varieties of gas floating around many times to equip all the scientific labs. in the world with material for their peculiar brand of enjoyment, yet few men went down the line. The Canadian batteries sent over many tons of projectiles filled with the deadliest gasses known to these sharps, much more effective than the Hun could produce. But the Huns lived and fired back at these perspiring Canadians. If the gas got too bad in the line the lads wore the masks and were as safe as in church. One must remember that preventive measures always seem eventually, to equal the worst the enemy can do.

To those nervous people who get a thrill out of predictions about the next war one might suggest that they wait till it arrives. There are people looking after their interests right now, though these people do not get into the papers.—Belleville Ontario.

Canada's Smaller Wool Crop Affords Food For Thought

Col. Robt. McEwen's champion car lot of Canadian weather lambs, "Southdowns," at Chicago International Show.
Farms in the British Isles support 24,000,000 shorn sheep, while the whole Dominion of Canada supports but 2,000,000, one-twelfth as many. Yet during the fiscal year ended March, 1924, woollen and knitting mills imported into Canada some 19,375,225 pounds of raw wool.

In Canada, in 1922, according to the Census of Industry figures we had 277 woollen and knitting mills, which employed some 22,000 workers. Yet in 1922, countries abroad sent into Canada $38,000,000 worth of woollen and knitted goods, and in 1923, $11,000,000 worth, representing employment for some 17,000 to 20,000 workers. Although during the past year the wool and knitting industries have expanded to some extent and, particularly in the Eastern Townships of Quebec, have new mills opened up, it is seen that only about half of the woollen goods sold in this country could have been produced here. Raw wool, grown in Canada, comprises but a small fraction of that which is used by the mills that are operating in the Dominion.

There is not enough wool grown to supply the demand of the world. Japan and China, the staple clothing and bedding materials for which countries were formerly silk and cotton, are rapidly becoming great wool consuming countries, imports to Japan alone having jumped 700 per cent in ten years.

Thus it is seen that the Canadian wool grower has not only a growing domestic market, but an ever increasing foreign market for his clips, yet sheep are rarely given due consideration by Canadian farmers even though they have been dubbed "mortgage lifters" in the West.

Col. Robt. McEwen of London, Ont., president of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, who won the championship for a car-load lot of Canadian weather lambs, "Southdowns," at the Chicago International Show, has said, "taking Canada as a whole it has been proved that climatic conditions are favorable to sheep raising. No devastating disease has visited our flocks. Yet today we find ourselves up against the serious economic condition of consuming more wool than we produce, and for a comparatively new and fertile country like Canada to have reached the stage of deficient supply for such an essential as clothing should surely demand the serious consideration of us all."

But although wool growing as an industry in Canada does not come up to what might be expected of it, those who are engaged in it are highly and effectively organized as regards marketing. In 1914 those in charge of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, began to urge that shepherds be more careful in putting up their fleeces and that they stop selling at any old price which might be offered locally. Following their efforts various sheep breeders and wool growers' associations throughout Canada began to collect wool from their members, this wool being graded in turn by expert graders supplied by the Dominion Government and being sold on the graded basis. As more and more local associations were formed, it was felt that all should be affiliated under one central selling agency with the result that in 1915 the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Limited was formed with headquarters in Toronto. This is a commodity marketing organization handling wool only, having about 2,500 shareholders and approximately 12,000 shippers of wool throughout the Dominion. Individual clips are collected at various points for shipment in car-load lots to the central warehouse at Weston, Ont., for grading and sale.

At the present time this organization, which operates from coast to coast, is handling from a quarter to one third of the Canadian clip reaching the open market. Its influence is being extended more and more each season as will be noted from the fact that in Ontario alone the number of shippers has increased from 3,200 in 1922, to 4,000 in 1924. The various grades of wool are sold to equal advantage in Canadian, American and English markets, and it is perhaps noteworthy that during the past two years approximately three-quarters of a million pounds of Canadian graded wools have found a market with English mills.

HOW LITTLE PEGGY BEGAN THE NEW YEAR

When the day before New Year's rolled around, Peggy was just as cross as she and Squeedee himself, the from Joyland, had to put over his lips to keep from the funny expression on ness, Peggy!" he said, curly head "better get those frowns and cross looks off your face before to-morrow or they'll stay there all year long."

"Well, I guess if all your little friends were going to a New Year's Eve party and you couldn't go, you'd feel bad, too," and tears of disappointment rolled down her cheeks. "They'll all have a good time and I won't."

"Pshaw!" laughed Squeedee, sitting on the floor beside Peggy in front of the fireplace, "what good will that do them? To be sure, they will usher in the New Year with fun and frolic; but I'll tell you a way to bring in the New Year that will be nicer than that."

Peggy wiped her tears away and smoothed out her little white apron. "And will I have fun doing it?" she asked, her face all smiles again. "Sure you will, and I'll help you," agreed Squeedee. "Now, get a paper and pencil."

Peggy ran for a paper and pencil. First of all, write down the things on this paper that you don't like to do, like sweeping, dusting and washing dishes."

Peggy did as Squeedee told her and by the time she had finished, the paper was just filled with little every-day things Peggy hated to do. Squeedee laughed as she handed it to him to read.

"Now, just at the stroke of twelve to-night, throw this paper into the fireplace, and stand there and watch it burn, and as the flames die down, you'll find you will be a changed girl."

Squeedee waved his magic whistle over Peggy's curly head three times. "All the time the paper is burning, keep saying to yourself, 'I shall change and love the things I always disliked before. I shall love to wash dishes, sweep and dust for those who love me.' Then crawl into bed and see what happens."

"You see, in the olden times on New Year's Day folks would jump over fire to burn up the evil spirits that had clung to them during the old year. So why can't you burn up the things that make you unhappy?" Before Peggy could ask any more questions, Squeedee had disappeared.

That night on the stroke of twelve, Peggy slipped out of bed and tossed the folded paper into the fire, and you can believe it or not, New Year's day when she awakened it was with a great longing to help someone.

She spent all New Year's day helping her Mama, and when she lay down in bed that night she was the happiest little girl in all the world. For after all, the surest way to be happy is by helping those around us.

THE GUIDE STORY

"Is Mrs. Dent—is poor Hester sensible of her situation, and is she prepared for the change?"

"She does not dream of it, Miss Huldah! She is talking now of joining Colonel Dent in Washington, as soon as she gets well."

"Poor thing! poor young thing! To be cut off so in early youth, too! To leave so many blessings, so many hopes, and go down to the cold, dark, forgotten grave! It is an ungracious task, indeed, to break the truth to her, but I must do it. Show me up to her room, Miss Summers."

Juliette complied with her request, and left her just within the door of Hester's chamber.

When Mrs. Dent saw the old lady come in, she held out her hand affectionately.

"How are you to-day, my dear?" said Miss Huldah.

"Exhausted by a night of pain, but very much better, notwithstanding," said Hester.

"Really better, Hester, my love?" "Yes, quite easy; too weak to talk much, though, yet. Come, sit upon the bed by me, Miss Huldah, and talk to me. Do you know that, if the weather is fine next week, I intend to invite myself to your house to spend a few days?"

"I should be overjoyed to see you, if you are able to come, my dear."

"Oh, I shall be able to come—to ride, I mean. I have not walked anywhere for six or seven months."

"Hester, my poor, dear child, listen to me. Hester, have you ever thought of death?"

"Death!—yes—no—yes!" said Hester, vaguely.

"Have you ever thought of your own death, Hester?"

"I don't know; not often of late," said Hester, indifferently. "Please touch the bell, Miss Huldah; I wish the child brought to me."

Miss Huldah sighed deeply, and complied; then, rescating herself, she said:

"Hester, my poor child, I want you to be serious. Are you prepared to die?"

"Why—no," said Hester; "not certainly as I ought to be. You have a protracted meeting at your church, haven't you, Miss Huldah? Are there many inquirers? Indeed, I know I neglect these things, more than any one, especially a wife and mother, ought; but next Sunday if I live—"

"Yes, if you live, Hester."

"I say if I live—I will ride over to church."

"Hester, you will never go to church again."

"Oh, yes! I will, Miss Huldah, if Heaven spare me. Consider, I have been too weak to go for several weeks; but it is my full intention, as soon as I get up—"

"My poor, dear Hester, my poor, dear child, you don't understand me. Hester, you are very low—very low—do you know it?"

The truth began to overshadow her mind slowly, as night comes to earth.

"Hester, my love, are you prepared to die?"

"No—no—no. Why do you ask?" faltered she.

"Are you afraid of death, Hester?"

"Yes! yes! I'm afraid of death. What makes you ask?"

"Hester, you have lived a holy life. You should not fear death."

"But I do, Miss Huldah! What does make you question me so. You don't think that I am in danger of death, do you?"

"I think that very soon your Father will summon you to heaven, Hester; and I hope, I trust, that you will be able to obey His summons with cheerful resignation."

Hester grew very pale, pressed her fingers together, and remained silent.

The old lady then went on to talk of the purity and joy of heaven, the sin and misery of earth, etc.

Hester's face was covered with her hands, and the tears were stealing through her fingers, but she murmured:

"It is not a 'miserable world'; it is a fair, beautiful, lovely world, a dear, good old mother earth; and I love it—I love it; its green vales and misty hills; its bright sunshine and soft rain; and, oh, besides, it contains all my treasures! all my heart's treasures!"

"Ay! Where the treasure is, there will the heart be also; but heaven is a better place, my dear Hester."

"Ay, but I don't know it! It is a strange place! No one I love is there! Ernest is not there! And, oh! I tell you, Miss Huldah, where my husband is, there is heaven for me! Washington is my heaven now."

"But, my dear child, this is rebellious and wicked; you must not talk so."

Hester remained silent a good while, and then said:

"Miss Huldah, is it true that I am to die soon? What does the doctor say?"

"He says, my poor child, that you may linger a fortnight yet."

"A fortnight—two little weeks; fourteen short days. Perhaps no: so long—Miss Huldah!"

"Well, my dear?"

"Have a letter written and posted at once to Colonel Dent. I would spend every remaining minute of life with him."

"Yes, I will, my dear. Don't you begin to feel a little more reconciled?"

"Oh! Miss Huldah, I don't know how I feel. Go and leave me now, Miss Huldah, please. I wish to collect my thoughts. Tell Minny she need not bring the child just yet; no, not just yet. I could not endure it. Let no one come up for an hour, Miss Huldah. I want to think. I want to think. Oh! if Ernest were only here; I want him so much."

FROM MILL HAND TO WHEAT GROWER

Seventeen years ago a young mill hand in a Manchester cotton factory, Mitchell by name, determined that he had had enough of his narrow and none-too-healthful occupation. He emigrated to Canada, took up a "quarter section" of land—160 acres—and went to work to raise wheat.

He knew little enough about farming, but he was ready to learn and ready to work. Moreover, he took pride in doing his work well, and he took pains. He was one of the first farmers to appreciate the value of selected seed and to seek quality more than quantity of yield. Before he had been many years a farmer he had won the prize annually offered by the International Live Stock Exposition for the finest bushel of wheat entered in competition. A year or two later he won it again. A few weeks ago, on the same day that President Coolidge visited the exposition at Chicago and spoke there on the troubles of the farmer, Mr. Mitchell won the prize for the third time. He has a right to call himself the "champion" wheat grower of North America. Incidentally we may say that a Canadian farmer has won that title thirteen times in fourteen years. The virgin soil of western Canada and the long sunny days of the northern summer produce wonderful crops, and the farmers know how to take advantage of their blessings.

The experience of Mr. Mitchell is interesting because it shows what opportunities agriculture still holds for men of pluck and intelligence, even though they lack the vocational training given by a boyhood spent on the farm. Our own good homestead land is gone, but there is still plenty to be had in Canada. There are men who are better satisfied among the noise and grime and overcrowding of a great industrial city than they would be on the open prairie co-operating with nature to raise food for mankind. Men of that kind are indeed far more numerous than we wish they were. But for the man who loves the soil, who loves labor in the open air rather than toil in a rattling, overheated mill room, who loves the independence of the farm life and the satisfaction of doing something worth while by himself and as his own master, the achievements of our Saskatchewan friend, the champion wheat grower of North America, may carry a message worth his listening to.—Youth's Companion.

Mary Roberts Rinehart's Saturday Evening Post story, "The Altar on the Hill," is the foundation of Frank Lloyd's production of "The Silent Watcher," a First National picture with Glenn Hunter and Bessie Love, commencing a three day engagement at the Royal Theatre tonight.

The story deals with the efforts of Joe Roberts, a young secretary to John Steele, lawyer and politician, to protect his employer from scandal, to assume the burden of responsibility for a murder he knew nothing of, and to hold the faith of his wife. Those who have viewed the photoplay are of the opinion that it is one of the most brilliant displays of dramatic achievement in some time and that Hunter and Miss Love demonstrate extraordinary ability in the interpretation of the principal characters.

Hobart Bosworth, as Senator John Steele, and Alma Bennett, as Lily Elliott, a musical comedy soubrette, head the supporting cast which includes such other well known players as Gertrude Astor, DeWitt Jennings, Lionel Belmore, George Nicholls, A. Herring and Brandon Hurst.

REGRET PASSING OF MR. GRANDY

Port Hope High School Board Passes Unanimous Resolution

At the last regular meeting of the Port Hope High School Board the following resolution of regret and sympathy was unanimously passed.

Resolution
"The Port Hope High School Board desires to put on record its deep regret at the demise of Robert Grandy, for many years a member of this Board. In this capacity the late Mr. Grandy ever displayed such unflinching zeal and tireless energy that his loss to the councils of this Board it will be very difficult, perhaps impossible, to repair. As citizens of Port Hope the members of this Board deeply regret the removal from their midst of one who so fully understood and practised the duties of citizenship, whether in the broad domain of Dominion and Provincial politics, or in the more restricted field of Municipal affairs. As individuals the members mourn the loss of one who had ever been to each a sincere personal friend. To the sorrowing widow and daughter this Board hereby conveys its deepest sympathy and condolence."

NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH FROM GAS

Alfred Luke Whitby, Found in Garage Under Car—Gas From Exhaust

Alfred Luke of the Ontario Motor Sales Garage, Whitby, had a narrow escape from death on Thursday by carbon monoxide gas from a car which he was repairing. Mr. Luke was under the car with the engine running and the garage doors closed, and was almost dead from gas from the exhaust when found by a man who happened to visit the garage.

Calling to Mr. Luke under the car, the man received no reply, and on investigating found him almost dead, and apparently suffering terrible agony. The alarm was given, and Drs. McGillivray and Proctor soon arrived on the scene. The victim was removed to the Town Hall near by, where he received medical attention. The doctors say that in one or two minutes more Luke would have perished. It took a long time to revive him, and he is now at his home, recovering slowly from his terrible ordeal.

COLD TAKES TWO INFANTS

Saturday afternoon Beatrice Lorraine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Jordan, Walton street, was taken by death after an illness of only three days. The little one caught cold on Thursday, and being only two months and ten days old, was unable to withstand it and succumbed on Saturday. On Sunday the child was buried. Rev. Mr. Emmett of Toronto performed the funeral service. The sympathy of the community goes out to the sorrowing parents, sister Victoria, and brothers Charles and Lewis.

On Sunday morning another infant, the same age, contracted a cold and likewise succumbed. Francis William, infant son of L. McGuire, Caldwell street, died Sunday night and was buried this morning. The funeral service was held at the Church of Our Lady of Mercy. The heartbroken mother, father, sister Anna, and brothers Robert, Leo and John have the sympathy of the citizens of the town in their hour of sad bereavement.

He who can take advice is sometimes superior to him who can give it.

BASEBALL

Oshawa Delegates at C.O.B.L. Session
Messrs. F. J. Bailes and J. Ewart MacKay will represent the Oshawa Baseball Club at the annual meeting of the Central Ontario League which will be held in Cobourg on Tuesday. Mr. E. Parsons will attend as Past President of the League, while Mr. C. M. Anderson, who is vice president of the C.O.B.L., will be present.

The morning session will open at 10.30 o'clock and continue in the afternoon. It is possible that officers will be elected and other business transacted pertaining to the 1925 season. The meeting should be interesting from every standpoint. Considerable enthusiasm is being shown, every club having organized and made preparations early so that there will be no difficulties to overcome as the ball season draws near.

CARD OF THANKS

Miss M. Roddy wishes to thank her friends and neighbours for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of her brother and for the many floral tributes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Jordan, desire to thank their numerous friends, for the kind tokens of sympathy toward them in the illness and death of their little daughter, Beatrice Lorraine. They are also very grateful for the many beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. L. McGuire wish to thank their many friends and neighbours for the sympathy extended them on the death of their infant son, Francis and also for the flowers which were sent.

A STICK OF MILK

In Siberia people buy their milk frozen, and for the sake of convenience, it is allowed to freeze about a stick, which serves as a handle for carrying it. The milkman leaves one or more "sticks" of milk, as desired. A quart of milk frozen on the end of a stick is a very formidable weapon, and few persons risk being impolite to the milkman when he is on his rounds.

"Be careful not to break the milk" is heard instead of "Be careful not to spill the milk," and children ask for a "bite" instead of a drink of milk. Frozen milk is hung on hooks as the most convenient way of storing it. All this, of course, is in winter. During the brief summer the people have to use pans and cans, just as the rest of the world does.

PERSONAL

Friends will be pleased to learn that Mr. W. H. Roper's condition is improved, and hope that he will soon be out again.

Miss O. Simpson, of Bethesda, is spending a few days with friends in Bailieboro.

Happy the man, and happy he alone,
He who can call to-day his own,
He who, secure within, can say
To-morrow, do thy worst, for I have lived to-day. —Dryden.
