Annual Congregation Meeting of St. Paul's Church Held Thursday Evening

The congregation of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church hold their annual meeting on Thursday evening, the 15th inst, with a large attendance of members present to hear the excellent reports that were read by representatives of the various organizations of the Church.

After devotional exercises, conducted by the Rev. F. W. Anderson, the congregation ask d the minister to continue in the chair for the business part of the meeting, and Mr. Thomas Wickett was appointed sec-

Mr. Anderson then read the annual address of the session of St. Paul's, which is as follows:-Address of Session

In presenting the Session's address to the congregation at its annual meeting this year, we feel that there is special reason for gratitude to God for the fine spirit of united service that has been exemplified in every department, making possible such splendid reports as will be received at this meeting.

While so many congregations have been seriously affected by the Church Union conflict, our people have work. ed together in harmony and good fellowship, and we trust that this attitude will be maintain d even after the destiny of the congregation has been determined by the vote of the members which will be taken

The managers are to be ongratulated on the financial standing of the congregation, which has never been better than at present. A substantial sum has been paid off the mortgage indebtedness, which has now the maintenance account shows a satisfactory balance, and the missionary offerings are very much larger than usual, partly on account of a special gift of $500 from one family whose name is withheld at heir own urgent request.

Government to Take no Action; Question Will Likely be Raised

When the minister of justice in the coming session introduces, a, bill to mend the criminal code in a number of ways asked by the Social Service congress, the prohibition of betting on race tracks will not be included, but while it will not be a government measure, the subject will likely be The givings of the people for cur- tackled. An additional amendment, it is understood, will be proposed by W. C. Good, M. P. for Brant. This action, however, may depend upon whether Mr. Good's resolution on the subject is the disposition of the house. If a resolution were debated and rejected, a like fate would wait a formal amendment.

What will be proposed is to elimnate that section of the code which The financial statements submitted exempts race track betting from the common criminal law against betting. The aim is not to prevent bets between individuals, but to do away with the organized business at race tracks and through hand books.

Belleville Intermediates provided just enough opposition for the Peterboro Seniors at Belleville last night to make the exhibition fixture an interesting one for the fans. Peterboro carried away an 8-2 victory. The contest provided excellent practice for both teams, as the pace was hot throughout. This was Peterbere's hinth straight victory, of the season. Believille surprised the visitors by scoring the first goal in three minutes. It served to awaken Peterboro, for in haif a minute Parker slipped around the Belleville defence for an easy tally. The rest of the period was all Peterbero's with Bailey and Parker scoring. The remainder of the game showed Belleville always on the offensivel Endto-end rushes were the order. THE GUIDE STORY

The Lawyer and the Widower "Death lies on her, like an untimely frost Upon the sweetest flower of the field!"

So Hester Dent, the loving, but dead at last. The low, swest voice, whose tones were never heard but in Summers' room, intending to pass words of sincerity and affection, was through into her closet, to lay the hushed; the gentle eyes, whose mild babe on her own cot bed. Miss beams ever shone with the light of Summers heard her enter, and, opentruth and love, were closed; the little ing the bed curtains, she asked: hands, ever so busy in the service of them-the treacherous, who dead, and out of the way.

He thought that, had he given her the care that was her due-had he cherished her life and health with the solicitous affection that she so much desired and needed, and so well deserved-she might now have lived. Did he not regret, in anguish of soul, that this had not been the case? Reader, no. There was the point at which his compunction hard. ened into obduracy, instead of growing into remerse, or melting into repentance. For everything that had been wrong in his conduct he felt oppressed-pained that he had stained his soul with error; but even while he contemplated that dead wife and motherless infant-that gentle and tender death scene-he was conscious, through all his pain, of a morose satisfaction, in the idea of his newly acquired freedom. And what had wrought this change in the feelings of Ernest Dent since the morning when he had come home full of compunction for having stayed away so long, and sat by her bedside, melting into penitence at the sight of his dying Hester? Juliette Summers, his beautiful evil genius. She exercised a demoniac influence over him, and it was under the power of her spell that his heart had

"You are right, Happy Giggles," replied the tallest tree, glancing down proudly at her family of young trees. "I like to have them near me."

"Yes, but your trunk is all rough and theirs are just as smooth as the trunk of the beech tree in our backyard at home," laughed Doris softly. I could see that your leaves were the same, but I couldn't figure out why the trunks were not alike."

If we charged so much a head for INFECTIOUS ABORTION

A Serious Trouble Threatening Cattle Herds

ellers Should Be Honest With Buyers-Outside Cows Purchased Need Careful Examination-How to Deal With Infected Animals - Chicken Lice and Mites.

Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

To protect a clean herd from becoming infected precautions must be taken to prevent infected cows from mingling with healthy ones. Suspected animals should be kept isolated until a test of their blood has been made: If the test results indicate a positive reaction, the animal should not be admitted into the clean herd. As already stated, the disease is generally introduced into a clean herd through obtaining adult breeding cattle from an affected herd. Before purchasing breeding cattle careful enquiry should be made to ascertain if the herd from which they are being obtained is affected. One can sometimes gain a fair idea of this by checking up the number of calves and yearlings with the number of females of breeding age.

Sellers Should Be Frank With Buyers.

As the bases of an honorable transaction between breeders, the buyer as a moral right to receive from the seiler a frank answer as to the existence or otherwise of contagious abortion in his herd. The buyer may still further protect himself by having newly obtained pregnant females kept isolated pending a test of their blood or until they calve. By sending blood samples to a suitable laboratory for examination by the agglutination test a person is acting discreetly. This can conveniently be done and a report received back within a week The same thing should be done in the case of a buil. In purchasing cattle at public auctions from unknown herds the safest plan is to select only young cattle at weaning age, or not over one year old, and which have not been bred. In all cases where the blood of an animal reacts to the test it indicates that it is infected, and is not a safe animal to be added to a clean herd, but should be excluded and, if the agreement of purchase will permit, should be returned to the seller or the original owner.

Outside Cows Should Be Carefully Examined.

In event of outside cows being permitted to come to be bred to the bull of a clean herd, they should only be bred providing they are free from vaginal discharge, and service should take place in a small yard or pen kept for that purpose. Needless to say outside cows from doubtful berds should not be allowed to mingle with those of a clean herd, nor occupy the pastures on the premises in order to prevent contamination. Precautions should also be taken in the case of cows from clean hards being sent to another herd to be bred. Lixewise precaution must be taken in the case of clean-breeding females being taken to live stock fairs and exhibitions. The precautionary measures which have been described are quite simple and applicable to any berd, and if consistently carried out may prevent infection abortion from entering a clean herd. Should perchance a com abort in a supposedly clean herd, it should be regarded irrespective of excusable circumstances, as being probably the contagious form rather than purely accidental and precau-

How to Deal With Individual Cows. In the event, therefore, of any animal aborting in the stable, or at pasture, it should at once be removed from the herd and kept isolated for at least three weeks, or until it has properly cleaned and all discharges have ceased. At the end of ten days from the time of aborting an examination of her blood should be made Immediately after the abortion has taken place the aborted fetus and afterbirth should be safely disposed of by burying detply in the ground. All of the contaminated bedding and fitter should be removed from the stable and burned. The stable walls and stalls up to a height of about six feet, and the floors and gutters should be thoroughly cleaned and washed with a solution of ordinary lye and hot water, and then disinfected with time wash and cresol or cartolic acid, la the propertion of one pound of crosol or crude carbolic acid to five gallons of whitewash .-C. tions taken accordingly.

Chicken Lice and Mites. The presence of lice and mites inlicates indifference, or too much don't care. Lice and mites lower the vitality of the birds, making them more surceptible to colds, roup and wher diseases. Mites are killed by praying the house inside, paying buticular attention to the roosts and nesting boxes, saturating well with an nig do A. A mixture of kerosene and ment oil fram the auto crank case does very well and is not expensive. For lice use sodium flouride - one ounce to a gallon of warm water. Lup he chickens, saturating feathers and ikin. Do this on a warm bright day. Ouring cold weather use the so flum louride as a dusting powder, piacies mall quantities at the points most frequented .- L. Stevenson, Director of Extension, Ontario Agricultural College.

NOTHING TO DO

It is disturbing to think of the number of people who have no satisfactory way of spending their leisure. Bridge and golf and crossword puzzles and such things help to fill up empty hours; but even those who fill their empty hours by such expedients would probably admit that the time might be better employed.

Many people drift into crime because they have not learned to make use of their leisure; but leaving aside the factor of crime, is there anything more pathetic in life than the spectacle of men and women spending weary hours in misery because they have nothing to fall back upon when their work is done?

And the problem is becoming more and more serious as organized labor and modern machinery succeed in shortening the hours of labor. More and more the working people are finding leisure time on their hands. Some have no difficulty in adapting themselves to the changed conditions; they can always occupy themselves usefully or pleasantly; but large numbers are without this capacity.— Woodstock Sentinel Review.

GREEK NEW YEAR

Is Thirteen Days Behind the Times

Hundreds of millions of Greek Catholies throughout the world, and thousands of adherents in Canada, celebrated their New Year on Jannary 14. The vast majority of Russians, Balkan people and Greeks belong to this church, of which the late Czar Nicholas of Russia was the head, and are Greek Orthodox, so it can be appreciated that over the greater part of Europe New Year's comes 13 days late.

This custom has a very interesting history and is largely traceable to the fact that it takes the earth 3654 days to go round the sun, rather than 365. Julius Caesar reformed the calender, put it in shape, and gave us the basis of our modern calendar with very few changes. His fee for doing this was to name one month after himself, Julius (July,) and one after his title Augustus (August.) This was known as the Julian calendar. But in the Middle Ages, science just commenced to emerge from a thousand years of superstition, and it found that the world was literally 13 days behind time. By not having leap trail. year, 13 full days had been lost.

DEHYDRATED APPLES

partment of Agriculture

The first shipment of dehydrated apples from the Ontario department of agriculture has been received in Hamilton and they are now on saie in some of the grocery stores. As the fall on Saturday. At her age, in her name implies, these apples have had the water taken out of them and they are cut in slices, coming in one-pound boxes at 25c a box. Each box contains the equivalent of a bushel of apples, and after being soaked in water can be used for any purpose. The hydrated apple is an experiment of the department of agriculture, which hopes in this way to stimulate this industry. The apples were grown in the orchards of Grimsby.

> BORS HER HAIR AT 106, DEFYING DAUGHTER OF 78

Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce Yerkse, of trate her 107th birthday on July 22. is nothing if not up to cate. As a result West Chester now claims the cliest bob-haired girl in the country

Mrs. Terkes's daughter, Mrs. Ellsworth Darlington, 70 years old trenuously opposed her mother's wishes. Mrs. Yerk's waited until her daughter was absent and then summoned Mrs. Mary Cheyney, a barber, and had her hair trimmed to the style.

Mrs. Yorkes, who each year spends six months in West Chester and six menths with another daughter at Markham, Delaware County, occupies much of her time in knitting and sewing, at both of which she is adept. Her faculties are retained to lable degree with the ex ception of her hearing, which is growing poor.

Sandwich Peddlers Feed Busy Berliners on Walk

"Eat while you walk to your office" is the slogan of a new species of street peddlers which has recently invaded the down-town section of Berlin. Imitating Swedish models, these peddlers wheel an immaculately white cart thru the city, on top of which, under a glass globe, are exhibited appetizing sandwiches at a price of three for 50 or 75 pennigs, depending upon the quality of the meat or cheese offered.

The peddlers themselves are also in white, in the familiar garb of a chef. They report a good business thus far. Hustlers who are disgruntled at the slow method of serving which is characteristic of European restaurants generally, welcome this means of getting away with a noonday lunch as they rush from one appointment to another.

NATIVE BORN CANUCKS

Dr. Headlam's remarks on the disparity between the birthrate of French-speaking Canada and the birthrate of English-speaking Canada may be the means of rousing interest in the question and promoting efforts for the redressing of the French-speaking Canada is to be praised, no: blamed, for its high FRESHMAN birthrate. English-speaking Canada STROMBERG CARLSON is not to be praised for its low birthrate. The best clement in the growth of the country's population is the native element. One good nativeborn Canadian is of more use to the country than are two immigrants.-Toronto Mail and Empire.

The greatest efforts of the race have always been tracrable to the love of praise, as its greatest ENGLISH MURDER MYSTERY

The slow but sure methods of Sotland Yard, so despised by Sherlock Holmes, on Thursday solved a murder mystery in the heart of the Sussex countryside, England, where Conan Doyle's great detective roamed on many of his ficticious adven-

Led by bloodhounds to a spot on the poultry farm of Norman Thorne, the police started digging and soon came on a woman's suitcase. A bit further on they found her clothing and when a pair of eyr-giasses were dug up, the authorities had suffiient evidence to warrant their arresting Thorne for the murder of his fiance, Elsie Cameron, a London stenographer, who disappeared on December 5th.

The girl came to Crowborough, which is the home of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, announcing she was to marry Thorne, and would not return to London. She was seen crossing a field on the way to his farm. and then disappeared.

Therne had claimed Miss Cameron never arrived at the farm. Scotland Yard finally put bloodhounds on the
