PROTEST AGAIN WATER STEAL

Great Lakes Harbour Association Resolution Against Chicago's Action

The Secretary of War is requested to urge Chicago to install a modern system of sewage disposal in the Chicago district, in a resolution adopted by the Great Lakes Harbor Association in Cleveland yesterday. The resolution protests against any congressional action diverting like water for this purpose.

With an astounding disregard for the rights of her neighbors and in defiance of all precepts of law and justice, under the pretext that the sanitary welfare of that city made the dilution system of sewage disposal necessary, Chicago has for twenty years been abstracting the waters of the Great Lakes in colossal quantities.

This abstraction of water has on the one hand caused the lowering of the levels of the lakes to the injury of commerce thereon, and on the other the raising of the levels of the Illinois river to the injury of the land owners of that region. The sewage which Chicago by virtue of its sanitation system, is thus carrying into the Illinois river is polluting the waters of that stream to an alarming degree. Thus, in order to gain an advantage for a single community a two-fold injury is inflicted which affects a wide area and millions of people.

The resolution submitted read as follows:—

"Be it resolved: That the Secretary of War be requested to urge upon the sanitary district of Chicago the installation, within a reasonable length of time, of a modern system of sewage disposal and one whereby the abstraction of lake water may eventually be deemed unnecessary.

"That we protest against any legislation at the hands of the congress of the U.S. that may sanction diversions affecting the water level of the Great Lakes, and thus impair the commerce thereon, which not only serves single states, but the nation as a whole."

Mr. Harry Sandy, Managers, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. Gillies. Messrs. E. Bradburn and E. Eyres, of Peterboro, are visiting Mr. Victor Bradburn.

Messrs. Ernest and Edward Dawkins, who have been spending Christmas and New Years with their parents at Warkworth, were in town today. They are leaving tomorrow for Winnipeg.

We received word today of the death of W. J. Hamill, son of Mr. R. Hamill, of Garden Hill. Mr. Hamill was conductor on a freight on the main line and while at work in the yard at York this morning he was struck by the flyer. He was 37 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

WHAT'S DOING IN COBOURG

Clippings of Interesting News From the Sentinel-Star and World

SENTINEL-STAR Matter Has Been Settled

The litigation proceedings between Mr. N. E. Merriam, of Harwood, and the township of Hamilton over the old abandoned of the Cobourg and Peterboro railway, which Mr. Merriam purchased from the railway, has been settled by the township paying Mr. Merriam $100.

Hamilton Tp. Resident Dead

The death occurred at the home of his son at Camborne on Sunday morning of John Davey, an old resident of Hamilton and Haldimand townships, aged 88 years. Deceased was a native of Haldimand township, and had been in failing health for some time owing to old age. A large family survive. The funeral took place last Tuesday afternoon to Bomanton cemetery.

Successful Dance

Last Friday evening a very successful dance was held at the Armories under the auspices of the Cobourg Hockey Club by Mr. W. G. Scoppis, who conducted the arrangements. Ben Hoke's orchestra from Toronto was present, and rendered very good music during the evening. The club is greatly indebted to Mr. Scoppis for the interest he has shown in them.

A Near Accident

What came very near being a bad accident occurred at the King street west crossing of the Canadian National Railway line leading from the ferry dock on Monday morning shortly before 9 o'clock. The Grafton bus, with a load of pupils for the Collegiate Institute, was coming along west on King street as the engine drawing a load from the ferry dock crossed King street. The watchman at the crossing was out with his signal, but the driver of the bus evidently did not see him and kept on coming. In order to avoid a collision Engineer Corbett of the shunter threw on his brakes hard and had to put the engine into reverse to miss the bus by less than a foot. Had it not been for his presence of mind, a bad accident would have taken place, the engine being brought to a complete stop in a very short distance.

Judgment Given

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario, consisting of Chief Justice Mulock and Justices Magree, Hodgins, Ferguson and Smith, gave judgment on Monday at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on the appeal of D. McAllister, of Gore's Landing, against the judgment of Judge Ward in the case of Rice Lake Fur Co. v. McAllister, tried by him in county court here last March. The company brought action against McAllister primarily for a declaration that the defendant was not entitled to hunt and trap upon certain lands owned by them at Rice Lake; for an injunction restraining the defendant from trapping upon the lands in question and damages for trespass. In defendant's arguments he claimed that wherever he could go with a canoe he could trap, and admitted that he had trapped on the land claimed by the company, although there were notices upon the land forbidding such hunting and trapping. Judge Ward, in his judgment, declared that as the plaintiffs had shown title to the land in question, and properly placarded it with notices, the defendant had no right to trap there, and in giving judgment for plaintiffs awarded them $5.00 damages, also granted an injunction forbidding further trespass and trapping thereon. The Appellate Division sustained Judge Ward's judgment and dismissed the appeal with costs. The case has aroused considerable interest throughout the province among trappers, and the judgment has been eagerly looked to, the appeal having been hard last fall.

FROM THE WORLD

Want the Town to Guarantee Bonds A special meeting of the town council was held yesterday afternoon to meet representatives of a firm that are desirous of starting a shoe manufacturing business in the plant of the Cobourg Felt Co. The two gentlemen who interviewed the council would like the town to guarantee their bonds to the extent of $25,000 or $50,000, depending on the number of units they can operate in the factory. No decision was arrived at, and there will likely be another meeting of the two to further discuss the matter.

YARD DETECTIVES CLEAR MYSTERY

London Police Organization Again Demonstrates in Ferretting Out Crime

With the discovery of a woman's body cut into three sections and buried on the property of Norman Thorpe, a young farmer, another gruesome tragedy has been revealed in the little village of Crowborough, Sussex, England. The victim is Elsie Cameron, a young London typist, whose mysterious disappearance from her home at Kensal Rise on Dec. 5 resulted in investigation being made by the authorities.

On January 13 the young man sent a remarkable letter to the newspapers, addressed to his fiancée, in which he said: "Dear Elsie,—If you are alive, no matter where you are and no matter what happened please just write me a line to remove the dreadful suspense. You must realize, dear, the almost intolerable agony your silence is causing. It was my love for you which sustained me in the wilderness and isolated existence at Crowborough. I came through it with a smile for your sake in my little wooden hut, with the companionship of only the fowls, a dog and cat. I have been a Robinson Crusoe in England; but everybody is thinking of me; they come down the lane and peer at the hut through the gate as if some remarkable outcast occupied it. I am sure their evil minds are imagining most terrible things."

In the meantime detectives, including Scotland Yard men, were busily following up clues both in London and the Sussex village. Thursday they requested Thorne to visit Crowborough police station and simultaneously digging operations were commenced in a heavy rain on the poultry farm. The first discovery was an attache case containing a woman's clothing and a pair of spectacles which had been buried in the fowl run. Search continued throughout the day, and just before midnight the police unearthed the body cut in three sections, two parts being wrapped in sacking and the third in a box tied with string.

Thorne was then arrested and charged with murder. He appeared in Crowborough Police Court yesterday.

APPLAUSE IN COURT SAVES FIDDLER LOSING HOME

The same fiddle that brought Arthur Loesserman, 20, before a New York court on a charge of disorderly conduct, gave him his freedom on Thursday.

Neighbors in the apartment house where Arthur lives came to court in a body to ask Magistrate Conway to have the student of music evicted. "Let's hear how badly you play," said the judge to the defendant, who had brought his violin. Arthur obliged with the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria."

When he finished the courtroom broke into applause and Magistrate Conway dismissed the complaint.

OBITUARY

Late Ann Jane Holmes Ann Jane Holmes, relict of the late Henry Skitch, passed quietly away at her residence on Walton street on Thursday, after only a week's illness.

The late Mrs. Skitch was born in Cornwall, England, in 1849, coming to Canada with her parents four years later. The earlier part of her life was spent in Millbrook where she was educated. In 1868 she married the late John Holmes, two children, Mrs. W. R. Boudry, of Toronto and T. George, of Brampton, blessing the union. The late Mr. Holmes died in 1896.

In 1909 she became the wife of the late Henry Skitch, and has since that time resided in Port Hope. From the time of her husband's death a few weeks ago, she has been failing in health and contracting a severe cold, which developed into bronchial pneumonia. A week ago Thursday, she passed peacefully away one week later.

The late Mrs. Skitch was of a loving, gentle disposition and had a wide circle of friends who mourn her loss. A life long adherent of the Methodist church, she was a member of the Ladies Aid and other church societies.

Surviving the late Mrs. Skitch are one daughter, Mrs. W. R. Boudry, of Toronto; one son, T. George of Brantford; three grandsons, John Holmes, of Brantford and Ernest and Walter Boudry, of Toronto. Two step sons, Bernie of Port Hope and William of Toronto and two step daughters, Letta of Port Hope and Annie of Trenton are also left to mourn her passing.

A FINE OLD CHAP

After all, you have to hand it to John Bull. At least he is never foolishly sentimental, as Uncle Sam often is. He is always on the job to see that his interests are protected. At the time he lives up to his obligations. If he has protested against America sharing in the reparations, he paid ninety million dollars principal and interest on his indebtedness to America this week. He has set an example to the world of a high sense of honor. If he borrows, he will pay. If he expects all there is coming to him, and perhaps a little more, he is equally ready to do justice himself. A pretty fine old chap, John Bull.—Kansas City Times.

The Methodist Tennis Club and a number of their friends, went to Cobourg last evening on a sleighing party. A pleasant evening was spent at the Cobourg rink and the party arrived home about 1.30.

POLICE COURT

A local man appeared in Police Court this morning charged with having appropriated to his own use $75 of the funds in his possession as treasurer of the local Orange Lodge.

Fay Echer, on behalf of the lodge, stated that as restitution had been made, they did not desire to press the charge. He asked the leniency of the court, as the accused was a married man with two children.

The prisoner stated that during the last year he had been employed at different times in printing offices and had obtained a position just recently in Belleville.

Magistrate Campbell, taking into consideration the recommendation of leniency by lodge officials and that the accused had made restitution, registered the conviction and let him off on suspended sentence.

His Honor recommended that the prisoner use every care in future and contribute in every possible way to the support of his family.

Peddled Meat Without a Licence

William Tait pleaded not guilty on a charge of delivering meat about the town contrary to provision of the Act.

Fred Fenton testified that he had seen meat in the accused's rig, but knew nothing further about the matter. The matter was allowed to stand for a few minutes.

Clarence Smith was called on like charge, and Tait was called to give evidence against Smith. Although he denied working for Smith, he had delivered meat for him on two occasions. He admitted having tried to sell meat to Fenton, but had never succeeded.

Smith gave evidence in the case, but nothing material came up. Chief Murphy asked an adjournment until Thursday in order that he might investigate the case.

THE MARKET

The market this morning was fairly well attended with produce about the same prices as last week. Butter is still 40c, eggs 35-60c doz., chickens, ducks and geese running at approximately 35c a pound. Cream was 50c a pint as usual. Apples were not very plentiful at 40c a peck. Potatoes 75c. Honey is still 25c in the section, 75c a five-pound pail.

Brilliant sunshine, invigorating cold, and sleigh bells jingling would cause to-day to be termed an ideal Canadian Winter day.

The apparent neglected state of the steps at the Port Hope Post Office has been the cause of much comment, and some narrow escapes from serious injury are reported. Uneven lumps of ice and snow are not conducive to safe travelling.

It has been many years since there has been a total eclipse of the sun where the path of totality was so close to this section of the country and it will be many years before there is another.

AMATEUR SPORTS

Finland is only a small country, yet on a per capita basis her athletes made the best showing of any country in the world at the Olympic games recently held in Paris. The achievement of her athletes is a tribute to amateur sport, and is an incentive to the people of Canada to furnish a like encouragement to the athletically inclined young people of this country.

There has been a marked improvement in respect to our attitude towards athletics in the past few years. Some years ago only a few played games, the balance being spectators.

Now in every small town and village and in the country as well, thousands of boys and girls are playing softball, baseball, tennis, hockey, bowling, etc. This is as it should be, because good, clean, healthy sport is the best thing in the world for young people.

MURDERS HER MOTHER THEN DANCES ALL NIGHT

Sixteen-Year-Old Frisco Girl Confesses to Crime

Pleasure-loving, Dorothy Ellingson, 16-year-old confessed slayer of her mother, Mrs. Anna Ellingson, maintained Thursday the smiling mask of indifference that had characterized her attitude since her arrest charged with murder.

The police have rounded up three of seventeen young men for whom warrants were issued for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Father and brother confronted the girl in the prison at San Francisco, the former sorrowful and pleading, the boy stern and unforgiving. The brother repudiated the advances of his sister when she sought to embrace him in his cell. With the cry, “Don't touch me. You killed our mother,” the young man pushed her from him.

The shooting came as the climax to a long series of family differences over the girl's actions. Her father and mother had a quarrel because of the clandestine life their daughter admits she led. The mother defended her daughter, and the father left home.

She was arrested through information given the police by one of her male companions.

OLD PIONEER POSTMASTER DEAD

No Stamps Used When James Matthews First Assumed Duties in 1855

After serving as postmaster at Acton for seventy years, the longest record of service for a postmaster in America, the death of James Matthews took place at his home in Acton recently at the age of 90 years.

He visited his office regularly until six weeks ago, when he was stricken with paralysis.

Mr. Matthews was born in Pilkington, near Elora, Ontario, on April 6, 1835, where Roswell Matthews settled in December, 1817. Later, Roswell Matthews removed to where Guelph now stands, and in 1825 he was killed while at work on the first building erected in Guelph, the old Priory House, later used for many years as the C. P. R. station. He was the first white man to be buried in Guelph.

The parents of Mr. James Matthews came to Canada from Vermont in 1800 and 80 years ago removed to Acton. He entered the post office at Acton as a clerk in 1853 under his uncle, the late Robert Swan. In January, 1855, he was appointed postmaster and served in that capacity until his death.

The year he was appointed to office was that in which Lord Palmerston became Prime Minister of Great Britain and Sebastopol was taken. At that time stamps were not used in Acton, and letters to Canadian points were marked with a steel stamp, “paid 3 cents” or “collect 3 cents.” Sixty-four years ago he was appointed agent of the Montreal Telegraph Company, and at the time of his death held the record for service in this capacity also.

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.

There is a fine sheet of ice at the rink, and the band will be in attendance to-night.

Veregin Left $45,593.—The will of the late Peter Veregin, Doukhobor leader, was recently ordered probated by Judge J. A. Forin. The estate, of a sworn value of $45,593, has been left to the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, but against it are liabilities, chiefly owing to the community of $141,450.

THE WEALTH OF THE WORLD

A question that is frequently asked; “How much money is there in the world?”

Experts place the amount of gold in all the banks of the various countries at just under $10,000,000,000, whilst the silver totals up to $2,000,000,000.

This, however, by no means exhausts the amount of the world's currency, for in addition to the metal coins there is the huge amount of paper money used, which—apart from Russian roubles and German marks of to-day—has been placed at $60,000,000.

The gold coins, of course, do not represent all the gold that has been produced. In the last four hundred years it is known that gold to the value of nearly $25,000,000,000, has been found. Also, there are such items as the gold used by dentists for stopping teeth and the supplies of the gold leaf trade which also use up $5,000,000 a year.

How was all this gold obtained? Until the precious metal was discovered in California some seventy years ago the supply was comparatively small. In the years 1856 to 1860 the total amount of gold of all the countries jumped from something like $25,000,000 to nearly $150,000,000, and though all the years have not been as good, North America has supplied altogether $4,200,000,000.

Lately the American supply has fallen off, and Africa is now the big gold-producing region.

In 1923 Africa produced more than half of the world's gold, whilst the remainder contributed by $50,000,000 from the United States, $25,000,000 from Canada, and $15,000,000 from Mexico, with small amounts from South America, Australia, Asia and Europe.

ARMLESS MAN ASKS PAROLE

Six months ago a young man of twenty-one, whose two arms are cut off at the elbows, jumped into a motor car and drove it off, controlling the steering wheel with his two stumps. “It was just a prank, because I felt I knew I could drive it,” he said. A judge gave him two years in the penitentiary.

On Thursday in Montreal he startled Adjutant Trickey of the Salvation Army by picking up a pencil and writing a legible hand. He had learned to do this in six months and he asked the Salvation Army officer if he could get parole so that he could get a job which required some writing combined with other labor.

“Any man who can learn to write with his elbows in six months ought to be encouraged,” said the adjutant, and he and the Canadian prisoners' welfare association are looking into the case.

Term #Four Hundred.
This term was originally applied by a well known society man of New York, Ward McAllister, to the wealthiest residents of that city. For a ball given by a millionaire in New York city, McAllister was in charge of the invitation list. When questioned by a reporter, he stated that only 400 cards were to be sent out, adding “After all, there are only 400 persons in New York who count in a social way.” The reporter was able afterward to obtain the list of guests and had their names printed as New York's Four Hundred.

Teaches Birds to Sing.
Taking advantage of the imitative faculty of song birds, a simple mechanism has now been contrived that actually teaches canaries and other pet warblers how to increase their singing repertory, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A partly water-filled cylindrical metal tank, in which a slightly smaller inverted tank slides up and down, provides enough air pressure for blowing a series of whistles of different tone.

Liked to Hear it.
Little Ruth was put to bed for her daily nap, and during the afternoon a severe thunderstorm arose. Her mother, thinking that Ruth would be frightened should she arise and hear the thunder, started up stairs, and on reaching the top was asked to find the child sitting upright on the bed clapping her hands, and at each peal of thunder shouting: “Bang it again, God, bang it again.”

No Return on Investment.
“Gentlemen,” said the speaker, “I can't sit still without saying a word, and so I rise. I will speak what lies close to my heart. Everybody debates the future of the country. Buildings are erected for posterity. Everything that is done, built, planted, is simply for the benefit of posterity. Now what is heaven's name has posterity dope for us?”

Arithmetical Problem.
A country lad went to a neighboring town and applied for a situation advertised in the local paper. One of the questions was: “A man buys an article for $4.00 and sells it for $6.04; does he gain or lose on the transaction?” After pondering the question, the rural youth answered: “He gains on the dollars, but loses on the cents.”

Huge Sheep Ranch

There are, of course, some great open spaces left in North America, but hardly any so great that many can grasp the size of the sheep ranch owned by the “Wool Queen of South America,” Mme. S. B. de Valenzuela, who has just sailed on the Essequibo back to her homestead of 20,000 square miles. She had to go back to supervise the clipping of her 2,000,000 sheep and the sending to market of 5,000,000 pounds of wool.—Montreal Herald.

THE GUIDE STORY

After returning from the funeral, Miss Huldah Gales invited Juliette to return home with herself and Fanny, saying:
"I promised Mrs. Dent that I would try to supply her place to you until you should fix upon some future plan of life. Ah! Miss Summers, we have had a great loss; I and you, the family, and the whole neighborhood. We now know that an angel has departed with us."

for we have seen 'the glory of her vanishing wing.'
Juliette readily accepted the invitation, and retired to prepare for her journey. Meeting Colonel Dent as he was returning, dressed for her ride, he inquired:
"Where are you going, Miss Summers?"
"Home with Miss Huldah."
"Don't go to-night, Juliette. I am wretched—and it is by and through you that I am so wretched. Satan himself wouldn't wish a human being more misery. Remain to bear me company this evening, Juliette."

Director of Home Bank faces trial. On the left, above, S. Casey Wood, K. C., Home Bank director, is shown leaving Toronto city hall on the opening day of his trial on charges of violating the Bank Act. With him is Mr. G. M. Jarvis, his solicitor in the Home Bank trial, and member of his law firm.

While a U. S. Government dredge was working in the Hudson river, it sneaked up from the hard clay of the river bed the above head of Augustus Caesar, chiselled in fine Carrara marble, and believed to have been the work of some sculptor of the first century. How it came from Italy to America is still a matter of conjecture. Experts declare it probably would have taken the marble head well over a hundred years to sink to the depth at which it was found in the clay.

I shall return to Washington tomorrow myself."
Juliette had little fear of sin, but a great horror of "social mistake," so she answered, gently, however:
"You must be aware, Colonel Dent, that I cannot accept your hospitality, even for a night," and she passed on.
Early the next morning Colonel Dent was closeted with Mr. Jenkins, the lawyer. A great many small packets were strewn over the table between them, the deeds of manumission poor Hester had signed on the last day of her life.
"They are invalid, I tell you, Mr. Jenkins—good for nothing; they could not pass muster in any court of law," said Colonel Dent, who knew far more of law than the petty lawyer by his side; "they are full of flaws."
"They were drawn up in haste, sir."
"If they had been drawn up with the utmost legal precision, other causes would have invalidated the deeds, not among the least of which is the fact that Mrs. Dent had not attained her majority when she signed them, or even, indeed, when she died."
"How! what!" exclaimed the astonished lawyer.
"It is very simple, sir. Hester Grey was born at ten o'clock p.m. on the day of December, 1782, the day upon which peace was proclaimed; and Hester Dent affixed her signature to these papers at twelve o'clock and died at seven o'clock p.m. on the twenty-first anniversary of her birthday; so that she really wanted twenty-two hours of her majority at the hour that she signed these deeds."
"You are well assured of that, I presume, sir."
"I was in camp with her father at the time of his receiving the letter announcing the fact. We, with our brother officers, were celebrating over a dozen or so of champagne, the cessation of hostilities."
"You an officer at that time, sir? Why, you must have been quite a youth—a boy, in fact."
"I was twenty-four years of age."
"Is it possible! I had not supposed there had been that disparity between your age and that of Mrs. Dent," and the lawyer looked up with a smiling expression, that seemed to say:
"You are a devilish fine-looking man for your age, colonel."
Colonel Dent bowed gravely.
"Then what disposition shall I make of the deeds?"
"Put them into the fire, if you feel disposed, sir."
"They employed myself and two clerks half a day to draw them up," sighed the lawyer, lugubriously.
"Pay yourself, Mr. Jenkins, and when you have done so, return the book to me," said Colonel Dent, laying his pocketbook on the table and leaving the room.
An hour from this time Ernest Dent found himself on the road to Washington. Colonel Dent reached the city just one week after leaving it, and immediately threw himself into the vortex of political strife. Very much was Ernest Dent admired for the fortitude and energy with which he entered upon the field of political conflict so soon after his "heavy bereavement." Yet, for just one week he had left the exciting scenes of the capital—had hurried to his quiet home in the Vaie—had received the last sighs of his wife—and was back again. Everything in the city was so unchanged that, but for the suit of black, he might have looked upon the events of the last week as only a gloomy dream.
Yes, there was another thing—the return of the postday that brought him no letters from home.

One morning, when Miss Summers had been a guest at Rock Spring about six weeks, Fanny Gales came running into her aunt's room, and, throwing herself into a chair, burst into tears, and exclaimed:
"Aunt Huldah; dear Aunt Huldah! I am perfectly miserable, and I wish I were dead!"

INSURANCE RATE REDUCED
The surcharge of 15 cents, on the insurance rate of certain retail stocks imposed July 1 last, has been removed, effective January 8, on all new and renewal business but not on existing policies.
When this surcharge was imposed the fire insurance agents made a united and vigorous protest, and it is very gratifying to them as well as to the merchants affected, to know that the surcharge has been removed.

Husband's Love Gone, Killed 7 Year Old Son.—Mrs. Jennie Jarzycki, wife of Felix Jarzycki, a New Haven, Conn., blacksmith killed her 7 year old son Tuesday morning by cutting his throat with a razor. The woman then hurried to the police station where she fell in a faint. The child was found lying dead on the floor at her home, blood still flowing from a wound. Asked the reason, the woman replied that her husband did not love her any more.

Good Night Stories

BETTY EATS A STRANGE MEAL WITH GOCOMEBACK

"O H, dear!" Betty fussed when her Mama called her from play to help with the lunch. "Sometimes I almost wish we didn't have to eat old bread. I hate to cut it, and I hate to fill the sugar bowl, and—"
"And I suppose you think you'd like to do without either?" laughed a sneaky voice, and out from under the kitchen table peered a funny little elfin face.
"My, how many little girls I find every day wish just as silly things."
"Oh, Gocomeback!" and Betty's face cleared a wee bit. "I like bread and I like sugar, but if I didn't, I wouldn't have to cut the bread, or fill the bowl. But I guess it wouldn't do any good to wish I lived where they didn't use—"
But before Betty could finish her sentence, she was whisked through the kitchen window and sailed right out of town, through the country, over mountains and seas and set down in a strange land.
"My gracious me!" Betty laughed when she could get her breath. "You do work fast, Gocomeback. Where in the world are we, anyway? Looks to me like we were in Japan. Are we?"
"You're right," chuckled Gocomeback. "And just in time for dinner, too," and he rapped on the side of a pretty little house.
The wall moved back and a little

"Oh, Gocomeback!"
black-eyed, yellow-faced girl peeked out. When she saw Gocomeback, she slid the door back and invited them in.
"Isn't this lovely, Gocomeback!" she cried, shaking both the elfin's hands. "You and your friend are just in time for dinner."
"Well, I'll say that is nice," laughed Gocomeback. "For Betty came away from her home in America before her dinner was ready and I'm sure she must be hungry."
The little Japanese girl led them into a lovely house and set them down on the floor in front of two tiny little tables. At first Betty had a time getting her feet fixed just right, but Gocomeback showed her how, while the Japanese girl laughed merrily.
A wee bowl of soup was placed in front of Betty and after she had finished it, she was given several kinds of fish, roasted eels and pickled eggs, but no bread, and when Betty asked for a piece of bread to eat with her fish, she was handed a bowl of rice instead.
"We never have any bread in Japan," laughed the little hostess. "We eat rice instead. It's much healthier. Have some tea?" and she handed Betty a tiny little cup of very strong tea. When Betty was told there was no sugar for her tea, she pushed the cup aside and laughed.
Like a puff of smoke, the little Japanese girl and her tiny tables vanished, and Betty found herself standing in her own kitchen in America.
"Gracious me! but it must be dreadful to live in a country without bread and sugar," she mused and humming merrily, she cut the bread and filled the sugar bowl, and no one ever heard her complain again about these duties.

Be cautious with whom you associate, and never give your company or your confidence to persons of whose good principles you are not certain.

Isaac Pitman, contrary to common belief, was not the first stenographer. The first stenographer, so far as can be determined by the records unearthed up to the present, was Marcus Tullius Tiro, the scholarly secretary to Marcus Tullius Cicero. Tiro took down a speech delivered by Cato in the year 83 B. C.

His Sentence.
"A teacher wrote a list of spelling words on the board, asking the pupils to put them into sentences to illustrate their meaning. One word was 'goblet,' and a boy wrote this sentence: 'If I had a piece of cake, I would goblet.'"

The catamaran of India consists of three logs lashed together, flush with the surface. On these a fisherman, with a single oar, braves surf and storm, for the craft is unsinkable and the natives do not mind a ducking.

NORWAY HOUSE, MAN.

TRADING POST OF HUDSON BAY COMPANY.

One of the Most Interesting Places Names in the Province of Manitoba —Norwegian Convicts Imported as Axemen in 1814.

One of the most interesting place-names in the Province of Manitoba, says R. Douglas, in the Montreal Star, is Norway House. Still a trading post of the Hudson Bay Company, Norway House was the headquarters of the company after the union with the rival North West Company in 1851. From its situation near the outlet of Lake Winnipeg, it was a busy place in the heyday of the fur trade, as many as 167 freight boats having passed it in one season, bound inland or northward to Hudson Bay.

The rivers and lakes between Lake Winnipeg and Hudson Bay are open for navigation for a comparatively short season. After weighing the matter for a year or two, the directors of the Hudson Bay Company decided in 1814 to construct a road between the lake and the bay in the belief that more goods could be carried by horse and sleigh in the winter than by boat in the summer. Governor Thomas, stationed at York Factory, was so informed in April. It was intended that the road should be on the ice of the lakes and rivers as much as possible, only leaving the ice to avoid long bends and obstructions.

First of all a chain of posts would have to be established within a moderate distance of each other to accommodate those employed in the winter transportation. It was calculated that the distance from York Factory to Lake Winnipeg could be covered in 18 days by a loaded two-horse sleigh, and that five intermediate posts would be necessary. To build the road, Thomas was informed, Norwegian expert axemen were being sent out.

The Norwegians reached York Factory, Hudson Bay, in the summer of 1814. Some, if not all, seem to have come from Norwegian prisons. Writing of them in the following year, Thomas has the following: "The habits of indolence which the Norwegians had acquired during a long confinement in prison and of which they gave evident proofs before they left London, have not been changed since their arrival here. It was with the greatest difficulty that they were prevailed upon to use the exertion necessary on their journey inland last fall, and since that time Mr. Sutherland has endeavored in vain to make them work. They have cleared and brought into cultivation only two acres of land." Thomas goes on to mention their complaints about their food and aids. "The corn (barley and buckwheat), will not come to maturity this season at the outlet of Lake Winnipeg."

Lake Winnipeg is drained by Nelson river, which almost at once expands into Playgreen lake, the separating strip of land between the two lakes being a peninsula jutting out from the west. Just below Playgreen lake, about 25 miles from Lake Winnipeg, the Nelson river is joined by a small tributary coming from the east, known as Jack river from the number of jack pike caught in it.

To a post of the Hudson Bay Company hereabouts, under pressure of the forces of the hostile North West Company, some sixty Red River soldiers, led by Archibald McDonald, retreated temporarily in June, 1815. They stopped their journey, however, at the peninsula above referred to, reaching the end of the peninsula on Monday, July 10. The entry in McDonald's journal for that day reads: "Got to the North Wagon's place in the morning. The settlers went ashore here with their supplies, and here they stayed till their return to Red River later in the year."
The curious phrase, "the North Wagon's place," puzzled the writer till he came upon a somewhat similar entry in McDonald's diary for July 16. On that day he speaks of fourteen sturgeon being shared between his people "and the six North Wagens." He had camped at Norwegian or Norway Point where the Norwegian axemen had established themselves for the time being in their road-making operations, and had cleared a "farm" of two acres.

Shortly after this date, the Hudson Bay Company's post at Jack river was moved to the peninsula and, because situated at Norway point, became known as Norway House, a name which it retained when it again moved to the old and present position, some two years later.

When the settlers reinforced in number, returned to Red River with Colin Robertson in the autumn of 1815, the Norwegians went with them to harvest the crops.
According to Cowie in "The Company's Adventurers," published in 1913, there must have been more than one contingent of Norwegians. Cowie writes: "Many of the men engaged in Norway were spendid fellows and well adapted for the service, but the agent employed to procure the recruits there appeared to have thought more of the head money allowed for his services to the company than the moral character of the men engaged."
Tradition avers that the Norwegian authorities got rid of many of their able-bodied convicts by permitting them to be deported as recruits for the Hudson Bay Company's service. On one occasion fifty or sixty of them refused to disembark at York Factory and compelled the ship's company to take them back to Europe. On another occasion others deserted from Moose Factory, and of these the majority perished in the wilds.

KIWANIS RAISE MEMORIAL FUND

To be Located in Stanley Park
Vancouver, B. C. Where Harding Made Last Speech

The raising during the week of January 18 to 24 of the fund for the granite and bronze memorial to be erected by the Kiwanis clubs of the United States and Canada in Stanley Park, Vancouver, B.C., honoring the late President Harding and symbolizing the friendship and good will between the two countries, will be a feature of the tenth anniversary of Kiwanis, which will be celebrated by all the clubs this week, according to an announcement made by officials in Chicago.

"This anniversary week has been selected as a particularly fitting time to raise the money for this memorial," said John H. Moss, of MILwaukee, international trustee and chairman of the Kiwanis Harding Memorial Committee, "because Kiwanis is celebrating the tenth year of its organization, which means ten years of co-operation between Canadian and American clubs in civic objectives common to both countries,
thus strengthening the friendship between the two countries.

"It was President Harding, a charter member of the Kiwanis Club of Marion, Ohio, when he was a senator, who when he made his last public speech in Vancouver, said that the protection of the two countries lay in their friendship, and that the tie that binds is the ever increasing acquaintance and comradeship through interchange of citizens."

The design of the memorial by Charles Marega, sculptor, with whom are associated Twizel & Twizel, architects, of Vancouver, has already been accepted by Kiwanis officials, and the details of the design and the moulding of the bronze figure in the memorial are being expedited so that the dedication can be held in Vancouver next May.

Kiwanis clubs have been working on their general community betterment program for ten years, the first club having been built in Detroit on January 21, 1915. Since that time the idea of the business and professional men's service club has grown to over 1,300 cities in these two countries, each club working independently as far as its service work in its own city is concerned, but all clubs working in accordance with general policies of the International organization, which are made up after consideration of the needs of cities in both countries, and consideration of such civic and social service work in which all clubs can cooperate.

"One of the general policies of Kiwanis, for instance," said Victor
M. Johnson, president of Kiwanis International, "is to perform such service on behalf of under-privileged children that will remove their handicaps and open the way for them to a higher type of citizenship than they could obtain unaided.

"Other general policies in which all of the clubs are engaged in their own way are the promotion of a more aggressive and servicable citizenship, work to make the relations between farmers and business men more harmonious, co-operation in all civic activities, and development of a sound public opinion on all important public issues.

"The activities of the many Kiwanis clubs illustrate the practical nature of these policies. When the previous lack of this kind of civic work by men whose time was formerly given up entirely to business is considered, the growth of Kiwanis with its yearly accomplishments which amount to thousands of distinct community activities, is remarkable.

"The slogan during our anniversary week is 'A Tenth of a Century of Achievement—Greater Responsibilities Ahead.' This indicates, that even though much has been done in these past ten years, the clubs consider their work only as fitting them for still greater work to be done."

HOCKEY

Bowmanville Snowed Under by Fast Ontario's in Last Night's Intermediate Fixture

The score of last evening's Bowmanville-Port Hope fixture at the rink here is: not indicative of the game itself. The cleanest, best game of hockey one could wish for was staged against the Benedicts, and no one could complain that the game lacked excitement.
The Bowmanville team were snappy and aggressive, and seemed to be having a streak of really hard luck.

In the preliminary practices, both teams showed plenty of pep and dash, and when the opening bell was rung it looked like a real battle. The first spacer opened with Bowmanville on the offensive. One rush resulted in an easy shot on our nets,
but Joey turned it away quite easily.
Steve Jex retaliated with one of his famous rushes, but also failed to tally. Coming back strong "Steve" rushed again, and this time succeeded in going right through the defence and scored our first counter.
Avery for Bowmanville, taking the puck after the face-off, made one of the cleanest attacks of the season and chipped up their first goal. Ware and Finnegan worked their old combination with fine success in the last few minutes of the period for our second score, the same combining making another goalgetting rush a minute later, ending the period 3-1 for the locals.

Bowmanville were much faster and aggressive in the final stanza.
Moise and Avery taking the puck through the Ontario defence for their second counter soon after the period began. Steve Jex worked his old rush, and skated right into the nets for the eleventh tally. Finne-gan and Windy Ware took the rubber past the Benedict "stone wall" defence for another counter, Hugh Cayley making an unassisted play, scored, Ken Ware turning in the final counter in the last minute.

In the second period Port Hope had everything their own way, rush after rush resulting in scores. Kenny Ware alone, scored the opening goal in the first minute of play, his brother Roy turning the trick for another half a minute later. Finne-gan and Roy Ware combined and tacked up another, Deed Hills and K. Ware repeating the play shortly after. Kenny swept in again and scored the eighth goal alone. Howard Hutchings made some nice lone attacks, failing to tally until R. Ware combined with him. Deed Hills made a beautiful solo rush for the closing score, the period ending with Port Hope leading 10-1.

Bowmanville were much faster and aggressive in the final stanza. Moise and Avery, taking the puck through the Ontario defence for their second counter soon after the period began "Steve" Jex worked his old rush, and skated right into the nets for the eleventh tally. Finnegan and Windy Ware took the rubber past the Benedict "stone wall" defence for another counter. Hugh Cayley making an unassisted play, scored. Ken Ware turns in the final counter in the last minute.

Kenny Ware was struck in the face with the puck and forced to leave the ice. Finnegan Hills with one of his old familiar rushes slid through for the final net bulger, the game ending 15-2.

Bowmanville played a real game
and showed themselves as real sports—credits to hockey. Only two penalties for very minor offenses were "bestowed." Bobby Hewitson handled the gong very satisfactorily.

Avery and Moise starred for the Benedicts, and no one starred for the locals—every man being up to the mark. If the boys play like they did last night, when Trenton comes here Wednesday, it's going to be a nonsense. They played real, clean hockey, and their combination and stick-handling was something to wonder at!

The ice was in fine shape, and was kept cleaner than usual through the good work of Moss Hewson.

fence; Piper and Densum; centre;

GUNSHOTS RID MINES OF PERILOUS COAL DUST

Shooting at dust with a cannon is a new and strange method by which the federal bureau of mines expects to reduce the annual appalling death toll in mines caused by the many coal-dust explosions, says Popular Science Monthly for February.

The dust cannon is mounted on a mine car and moved quickly to any part of a mine where danger is believed to be imminent. The gunner fires a charge of black powder, sending the dust, if there is any, spraying in all directions.
