EXIT JACK CANUCK
There will be little sorrow over the fact that the publication which was known as Jack Canuck, recently fired one thousand dollars at the same time that its chief director was sent to jail for contempt of court, will not make any attempt to resume publication. The paper may have its mourners, because there are those who contend that a muck-raker does a public service of a kind. The trouble is that a garb of respectability may cover many sins. It is true that people who would not let Jack Canuck into their homes will buy fifth hand magazines dressed up in the American magazines so that it has an exterior attractiveness. The disappearance of Jack Canuck will be no great loss to journalism in this country. It did not publish the stuff it used to in an effort to raise the tone of the people, but because it thought there was a large market for the garbage it printed.

SPORTING SKITS

HOCKEY
Two Games for the Price of One
Oshawa Juniors are paying a visit to the Young Ontarios this evening, and with the locals strongest lineup on the ice it looks as if we're going to pack away our first win in the group. The Motor City team are fast and heavy and will put up a good scrap, but the locals are determined to put them out of the running.
Through the courtesy of Manager Moss Hewson, the hockey fans will be given two exhibitions of real hockey this evening for one admission. He has arranged that the two intermediate teams will take the ice at seven o'clock, and play twenty-five minutes each way. The boys turned out last week with the same line-ups in a practice game, and turned in the fastest game of real hockey of the season. Read the line-ups. Every man a Star!
Ontarios—Goal, Micks; defence, Hutchings and Jex; centre, K. Ware; wings, R. Ware and A. Hills.
Seconds—Goal, Ham and Record; defence, Cayley and Harwood; centre, Finnegan; wings, C. Francey and Hagerman.
Remember the first game begins at seven o'clock sharp! Admission to the two games will be thirty-five cents. Reserved seats at Strong's. Be on hand early and see two of the best games of the year.
Sneyd, right defence man for the Juniors, will be unable to play this evening.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL

New York is being scourged with typhoid fever. People and the papers speak of it as an epidemic. It is scarcely that in the true sense of the term, but it is at least a very serious outbreak, such as the city had not known for years, and such as it was supposed no civilized community would ever suffer again.
There seems to be little if any doubt that this outbreak of fever has been caused in New York by the consumption of oysters or other sea food taken from coastal waters which are contaminated with sewage. That might mean from any coastal waters from New England to the Gulf, since there is scarcely a bay or sound or estuary that is not a receptacle for raw sewage swarming with germs.
It is an interesting matter of speculation how many such lessons as this will be required to convince the public of the folly and iniquity of pouring raw sewage into the nearest stream or body of water, instead of disposing of it in a safe, decent and economical manner.—Washington Post.

COMING EVENTS

A EUCHRE PARTY WILL BE held in the lodge room of the Boy's Orange Lodge at 8 o'clock, on Tuesday, Jan. 20. Everybody welcome. Admission 25c. Refreshments served. 1541d
ALL MEMBERS OF THE PORT Hope Ratepayer's Association are requested to attend a special meeting in the Foresters Hall, Queen street, on Tuesday, Jan. 20th, at 8 o'clock sharp. W. J. Fielding, Sec. 1321d

SPEECH RESTORED ARTIFICIAL WAY

Mute Persons Enabled to Make Articulate Sounds With Ease

Use of an artificial larynx to restore speech to mute persons has been found practicable, it was learned recently. Three persons who had lost the power of speech, and who had undergone special operations in order that the artificial larynx might be applied to them, were able to speak at a recent clinic held in New York. One of them had not spoken since October, 1923 and another has been mute for three months. They both spoke distinctly. The third lost his power of speech seventeen years ago. In his case the use of the instrument was not so successful because he was awaiting an operation but he was able to form a few words. All three were over 50 years old.

The device is applied externally and consists of a pad strapped over an aperture in the patient's neck at a spot where the windpipe terminates. From the pad a rubber tube leads to a small mechanism placed in the mouth. Air forced from the lungs is set in vibration and the vibrations are carried through the tube into the speaker's mouth. These are modulated in much the same manner as if they were produced in the throat.

"BUILDERS OF A NATION"

Lieut.-Col. C. R. McCullough, of Hamilton, Spoke Here Friday Night

Lt.-Col. McCullough, of Hamilton, Honorary President of Canadian Clubs brought an inspiring message to those who gathered last Friday night to hear him, when he spoke on "Builders of a Nation." Col. McCullough is not a stranger to Port Hope audiences and recalled, in opening his address, his previous acquaintance, when recruiting in the early days of the war. He spoke sympathetically of the difficulties that all clubs are facing at the present time, but assured us that the task before the Canadian Club is as real now as it was in the 80's and 90's, when it was inaugurated.

"Our duty to our country is to devote ourselves to raising the confidence of our people in a land worth while." This task of building a nation may be the big organizing task of the contractor or the humble one of digging with spade or working with trowel. We must devote ourselves to the establishment of stability of the community, then of the country and then only will our energies be freed for wider world work.
Col. McCullough declared that the most necessary characteristic of a nation is its spirituality—not that we are not rich in material resources. On the contrary we are so rich, we are "land poor," and this fact is better known than it was thirty years ago when in an unparalleled period of pessimism, Sir Edmund Walker astonished his audiences by facts about the Natural Resources of Canada. In fact Dr. Ellis Powell addressing the Royal Colonial Institute said that in 50 years Canada would have 50,000,000 people and would be the economic centre of the British Empire. This is a country worth standing by, a country with a wealth of tradition, and a history of which to be proud—a country founded upon principles, for which our forefathers were happy to leave the culture and comfort of New England and here homes in a wilderness. It is true that our people can be best bound to our land by developing the spirit of responsibility and gratitude and love of our democratic institutions and it is the work of Canadian Clubs to increase this faith in Canada as it is the duty of everyone to refrain from abusing men in public office and to exercise the God-given privilege of the ballot, now only too lightly regarded. In truth, it is Col. McCullough's opinion that if the proportion of the electorate exercising the franchise continues to decrease, a Solon must come forth who will rescue our democratic institutions. Our spirit should be, as Earl Grey remarked, one of giving, not getting, and as the Ancient Athenians were pledged to leave their country greater than they found it, so must we—not materially but in the sense of a greater spirit of courage and intellectual appreciation of our own land. Drummond said in a poem inspired by this thought—
"Our fathers came to win us
This land beyond recall,
And the same blood flows within us,
Of Briton, Celt and Gaul
Keen alive each glowing ember
Of our sireland, but remember
Our country is Canadian,
Whatever may befall."
Earl Balfour, and the Prince of Wales recognized this local patriot.

Arena. One of the group leaders are sure to take a tumble to the tail-enders to-night.

"Bert" Smith will referee the Junior fixture here this evening.

Port Hope has three of their hardest games to play within a week. Meeting Trenton on the local ice Wednesday night, they are scheduled to return the compliment next Monday night, with a little tussle in the Motor City Friday night thrown in for good measure.

Glen Smith is to handle the bell at Bowmanville to-night.

When the Parkdale Canoe Club Seniors win they earn the verdict. Hamilton Rowing Club's collection of newcomers made them hustle to gain a 3 to 2 verdict at the Toronto Arena, and on Saturday night, before one of the smallest crowds of the season, Ara Lee forced the Paddlers into overtime, and lost by 4 to 2.

The Whitty Chronicle-Gazette devotes nearly two columns of their valuable space to comment on reports of the game in which the Ontarios were defeated by the County Town sextette on January 9th. They demand an apology to Sheriff Paxton for the insinuation that the Whitty O.H.A. executive representative had the game "fixed."

NEAR DISASTER AT NIAGARA

Plunges From Rails When Midway Across at Niagara Falls

A Canadian National Railway yard engine running light on the steel arch bridge at Niagara Falls last Thursday night, jumped the tracks and came within a few feet of plunging headlong to the icy surface of the Niagara River. It was the first time in the history of the bridge that an accident of this kind has occurred, and had it not been for the skilled action of the engineer the locomotive would have plunged several hundred feet to the river below. The engine had jumped the rails and forced its way through the guard rails and was brought to a stop at the edge of the bridge. The cause of the derailment is still enshrouded in mystery.

The yard engine was proceeding from the Canadian to the American side of the bridge to pick up a consignment of freight cars, and was about midway across the huge steel structure when the engine suddenly swerved and leaped across the rails and the tender became uncoupled. Meanwhile, the engineer had succeeded in securing control of his charge, leaving the tender straddling the rails, with the result that traffic in both directions was completely blocked. The Canadian National New York train connection was held up, and it was not until a wrecking crew had succeeded in moving the tender, that west bound traffic was resumed. The New York connection was held up and pulled into the Union Station forty-five minutes late.

P. O. INSPECTOR DIED SATURDAY

Alex. Sutherland had been Superintendent of Toronto Postal District

Alexander Sutherland, who retired only two months ago from the office of Superintendent of the Toronto Postal District, died suddenly Saturday night at his home, 141 Howland Ave., aged 71 years. Death was due to an acute attack of indigestion and heart disease, the end being entirely unexpected.

Loved by all for his kindly disposition, he had been Post Office Inspector and more recently District Superintendent, for 14 years. His early days were spent as a general dry goods storekeeper in Newmarket, and some 30 years ago was appointed Deputy Sheriff for York County, with his office in the City Hall. In this office he early gave evidence of being a courteous official, and was very popular with Judges and members of the Bar. From this position he went into the postal service during the time Sir William Mulock, a close personal friend, was Postmaster-General of Canada. His appointment to the chief office in the Toronto district when it was created was an honor well earned.
The late Alexander Sutherland leaves his widow and two sons: W. A., a silk buyer, of that city and Dr. H. R. of Chicago. A brother also survives. The late Justice R. F. Sutherland was a brother. Deceased was a member of Knox Presbyterian church.

GOING DOWN!

Man is old when he quits growing and not until then. We have seen men who were old before they were 27; they had neglected both their bodies and their minds and were literally in the sere and yellow leaf. But all of us have seen men whose years were many, yet who left the impression merely of superior experience.

Between fifty and sixty men often age perceptibly, but that is because they do not keep their bodies in shape by exercise and healthful activity, and because they have not been feeding their minds. Travelling only on the momentum of their youth, they run down, and pretty soon begin to lie about the weather as it used to be, and are known as the Oldest Inhabitants.—Cincinnati Times Star.

Canadian National Railways Earnings
The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending January 14, 1925 were $3,735,713.00 being a decrease of $433,769.00 over the corresponding week of 1924.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways from Jan. 1 to Jan. 14, 1925, have been $7,328,539.00 being a decrease of $859,352.00 over the corresponding week of 1924.

The mind ought sometimes to be amused, that it may the better return to thought, and to itself.

QUET SESSION OF HOPE COUNCIL

Very Little Business Conducted at Saturday's Meeting

Hope Township Council met in the Clerk's office Saturday afternoon, Deputy-Reeve Wilson being the only absentee. The better part of the session was spent in filling in the Government reports as to road conditions, etc.
The Reeve and Deputy Reeve Wilson were appointed as a committee to see about the timber in Dyer's bridge, with a view to purchasing the structure for the Township.
The Deputy Reeve and Councillor Caldwell were appointed to investigate the cutting of timber on a road in northern part of the Township. Reeve Lawson was instructed to advertise for a new school attendance officer, a road superintendent and tenders for cedar.
No other business being up for consideration, the Council adjourned.

Here and There

Roy Patrick, 27 years old, is held in Marion, Va., jail on a charge of being responsible for the muck dam collapse in Saltville, Va., Christmas Eve, in which 19 persons lost their lives. It is charged that Patrick used dynamite to cause the dam to flood the little valley 200 feet below.

Last week Mr. Shutey N. Haskill had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse which was struck and killed by a C.N.R. train. We understand two other horses were on the track at the same time, but only one figured in the collision.

Awakened about two o'clock Friday morning by the cries of their baby, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Plaskett, Clinton, Ont., discovered their home on fire. They managed to escape from the building, but could not save any of their belongings, either clothing or furniture.

Bachelors and childless couples are to be still more heavily taxed for the benefit of large families under the terms of a Bill introduced in the Chamber of Deputies, Paris, and backed by the members belonging to almost all the parliamentary groups. The Bill proposes to raise a month allowance to parents with large families from 90 francs to 360 francs.

Pursued by hunters, a wild boar crashed into a private house in the village of Grand Mallery, near Bourges, France, and made its way into a bedroom where an invalid had been lying for months. The sick man shouted for help, then rose and jumped out of a window. The wild boar was finally killed. The invalid has returned to work.

Safety Pins Long in Use.
Safety pins can be traced back to the Fifteenth century B. C., when pins were made of bone and bent over, shaped like the modern safety pins. Many of them have been found in graves of that period. Since then the safety pin has passed through many changes and been made of various metals. An average of 1,000,000 gross of safety pins are now manufactured yearly.

Chairs of Historic Interest.
There is still kept in the museum at Dorchester, England, the judge's chair—a very substantial article—used by Jeffreys at the assize at which he tried the Monmouth rebels after Sedgemoor, in 1683; and in Moreton-in-the-Marsh may be seen the elaborately upholstered chair and footstool used by Charles I at his trial. They are kept in a glass case.

New Alloy Resists Corrosion.
Possessing the color and appearance of nine-carat gold, a new alloy recently exhibited in England also has the property of resisting corrosion from chemical fumes or sea water. It has the ductility and malleability of its precious counterpart and a tensile strength of 20 tons per square inch. It may be rolled, drawn, wrought or cast.

New Perch for the Fisherman.
A new sport followed to some extent along the Pacific coast is that of fishing from airships of the "Blimp" type. The fishermen ascend to a height where they can readily spot a school of fish and then they descend and drift along with the fish. Hovering over the water they pull in the fish as fast as they can throw over their lines.

Cigar Nomenclature.
The nomenclature of the cigar trade is one of the very interesting phases of democracy. No gentleman intent upon building up a market for a 19-cent cigar ever named it for a statesman. He complimented, instead an actor, a philanthropist, a race horse, a hypothetical Indian maid or a supposititious Spanish grandee. To have named a 10-cent cigar for a statesman would have been to "queer" both the cigar and its involuntary patron. The people would not have stood for that sort of thing. It would have presumed a certain superiority which they would have rebuked both at the cigar stand and at the polls.—Philadelphia Public Ledger's "On Second Thought."

Up to the end of October, 1924, more than 1,000 circulating libraries were in operation in Saskatchewan, as compared with about 800 at the same time in 1923. The average number of families reading each book is 17. More than half a million volumes were circulated by these libraries during the year.

Origin of Manitoba.
The name Manitoba sprang from the union of two Indian words, Manito (the Great Spirit), and Waba (the "narrows" of the lake). This strait was a sacred place to the Crees and Saulteurs, who called them "Manito-Waba," or the "Great Spirit's Narrows."

Halloween.
The celebration of Halloween dates back to antiquity. It was a holiday combining classic mythology, Druidic beliefs and superstitions of that far-away time. The change to a social anniversary was gradual and finally became a recognized time for general merriment.

An honest man's word

More than three hundred years ago, Miguel de Cervantes said: "An honest man's word is as good as his bond." Advertisers must be honest men, if they would remain advertisers. Their announcements are signed. They must tell the truth in their advertising. For their own protection, as well as yours.

What would it profit a man to advertise "Pure, virgin-wool suits," only to have you discover they were shoddy? You would soon separate the sheep from the cotton. And you would never deal with that man again. And, further, you would tell all your acquaintances what a skinflint he was.

As a matter of business, if not of personal principle, an advertiser must tell the truth in his signed announcements. That's what makes the advertising columns of this paper such reliable guides to honest merchandise. The printed announcements are bonds between you and the advertiser.

Read the advertisements. Read them regularly. To be informed on the newest and best in everything. To save hours of shopping. To make the family purse do a bigger, better job. To get goods of known quality at the most attractive price.

You would not plan a motor trip without first consulting road-maps and guide-books. Is it logical to plan a shopping trip without first consulting the advertisements? Read the advertisements. Then go to the stores with your mind more than half made up.

A signed advertisement is, in effect, a sealed bond between you and the advertiser. Read those in The Guide.

Read those in this issue.

THE GUIDE STORY

The old lady dropped her knitting, adjusted her spectacles, and looked steadily and reprovingly at her niece. "Yes, I do! I do wish it! Marcus does not care for me now. He is all the time with Juliette. All the time! Oh! dear!" sobbing. "I wish I could die and break his heart; I do so."

"My dear child! My poor Fanny!" said the old lady, tenderly. "You are jealous; you should not be jealous." "A saint would be jealous! an angel would! to see the way in which he acts. He treats me as indifferently as possible. It is often Fanny, get out of my way, and Fanny, don't bother me, and Fanny, please let me alone, I want to fix this for Miss Summers; and often, when we are sitting together, he will get up, and yawning in my face, ask me, 'Fanny, where is Miss Summers?'" sult them always, Fanny." "But, dear Aunt Huldah, in this case —"

"Get your Bible, and turn to Matthew, 18th chapter and 15th verse, and read."

Fanny took down the Bible, and, more from curiosity to see what it would say upon the subject than from any other motive, turned to the text in question, and read:

"If thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone; if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."

"That is the best way," said the old lady, seriously. "Ah! if people would always do so! Many a heart that is withering under a sense of injustice and suspicion would rejoice to be treated with the fair dealing extended to a felon, instead of being condemned and sentenced unheard."

"Go to Marcus and tell him what annoys you. You are his betrothed. The scene you witnessed just now might have been the mere impulse of an emotion—the effect of music and poetry. You must not expect too much of human nature, Fanny. And, oh! Fanny, of all things, do not cultivate jealousy. Jealousy never prevents, but frequently suggests, the very infidelity that it fears."

Fanny bathed her eyes, smoothed her curls, adjusted her dress, and went in search of Marcus. It was a beautiful morning for the season. Several "hands" were in the garden, doing up the flower-beds. Miss Summers was superintending one of them. Marcus was in the small closet, opening on the piazza, in which dried herbs, flower seeds, and roots, and such things were kept. He seemed to be very busy among the bulbous. Fanny went up to him, and, being at an utter loss how to proceed in arraigning her culprit, and reading the indictment, she stood some time in silence by his side. He was too much occupied to notice her. At last, impatient at herself, as well as at him, she tossed her pretty head, with all its golden curls, and said:

"I have a crow to pick with you, Mr. Marcus. I have so—one of the blackest of crows—so come along, and sit down on the bench, and help me to pick it." "Oh! Fanny, don't bother. I'm busy," said Marcus, asserting some tulip roots. "And always are! But, Marcus, I must and will have a talk with you so there! Come now, I won't be put off." "Well, talk fast; for I want to set out some tulips and double hyacinth roots for Miss Summers," said Marcus, as, impatiently sitting himself down, and spreading a handkerchief over his knees, he commenced intently selecting and assorting the roots, talking all the time: "Let's see; double white; talk on, Fanny; double carnation; rainbow tulip do make haste, Fanny. I'm in a hurry. Double pink —" "Double tongue! double heart! double dealer!" exclaimed Fanny, thoroughly exasperated. (To be continued)

Every once in a while there suddenly appears on the film horizon a motion picture that offers something new in the way of story and theme. Originality in photoplays, as regards plot is 'mighty rare, and for that very reason "Sinners in Heaven," the new Paramount picture, which comes to the Royal Theatre tonight for a three day run, deserves to be singled out for special and honorable mention.

To many film fans the title of this screenplay has a familiar and reminiscent sound. That's because it was adapted by James Creelman from the powerful novel of the same name by Clive Arden who had the coveted honor of having this story adjudged the prize-winner in the English book competition of last year.

Alan Crosland, who produced the picture, has many directorial triumphs to his credit, but it is no exaggeration to say that he has surpassed all of his previous efforts with "Sinners in Heaven."

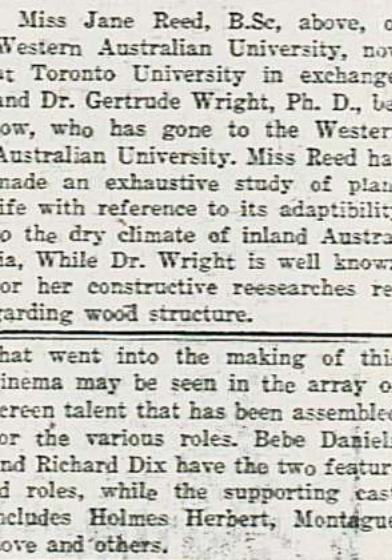

An indication of the extreme care

"Looks that way," replied Mrs. Gossamer-Wing. Butterfly proudly. "Whenever you see funny little caterpillars like these, you may know they will grow up to be beautiful gossamer-wings like I am," and spreading her pretty, gauzy wings, the beautiful butterfly sailed away into the sunshine.

Miss Jane Reed, B.Sc., above, of Western Australian University, now at Toronto University in exchange, and Dr. Gertrude Wright, Ph. D., below, who has gone to the Western Australian University. Miss Reed has made an exhaustive study of plant life with reference to its adaptability to the dry climate of inland Australia, while Dr. Wright is well known for her constructive researches regarding wood structure.

that went into the making of this cinema may be seen in the array of screen talent that has been assembled for the various roles. Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix have the two featured roles, while the supporting cast includes Holmes Herbert, Montague Love and others.

Orchestra Leaders Heed Advice To "Go West"

because the romance and abandon of the West encourage dancing. "Out there, everybody is a pioneer," he pointed out while on a brief visit East. "If you remember, it was only a few years ago that the rest of the United States, and in fact most of the world, was copying dances from San Francisco's Barbary Coast."

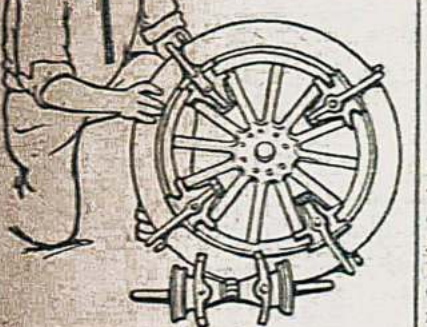

Though dance orchestras had not come into their own in the days of Horace Greeley, that gentleman's "Go West" advice has, queerly enough, been heeded by all those conductors now riding on the crest of popularity's waves. From the king of them all, Paul Whiteman, who started California-wards to Win Their Laurels

Spikes on Wheels of Automobile Serve as Mud Puller

A device that, it is promised, will pull an automobile out of any kind of a mud hole or give traction on the slickest dirt hill has been patented. The puller is simply a set of strong steel spikes, four of which can be locked around each rear wheel. When the hinged and folding halves are fitted into place they just fill the space between two spokes, giving a solid bearing surface which prevents slipping.

Ocean Bottom Rises and Falls in Waves, Charts Show

Islands in the sea which have been carried on shipping and marine charts for years are frequently found to disappear suddenly owing to unnoticed sinking of the ocean floor due to earthquakes and volcanic action. Many rise again from the same cause after ages of submersion. The largest rise of a group thrown up in the Pacific ocean by the earthquake which destroyed Tokyo, Japan, rose ninety-five feet above the water and gradually became covered with small vegetation. One morning it was found to have completely disappeared. Investigation showed that it sank back to a depth of twenty-five fathoms beneath the sea. In other volcanic regions many similar islands have appeared and disappeared during subterranean disturbances which pass otherwise unnoticed. Others reported to exist at certain localities centuries ago cannot now be found, though they are marked as "doubtful existence" and "doubtful position" on the maps which guide mariners. Some such isles thrown up in the past have remained to be settled by flourishing colonies, while hundreds of tiny peaks come and go with a regularity that gives great concern to the makers of the charts.

Resin-Core Solder Aids in Wiring Sets

In conquering the problem of radio frequency, radio engineers and manufacturers learned of the importance of using only a pure resin flux for all soldered joints. Tests show that where acids, pastes and compounds are used, they either spatter, fume or run over surrounding delicate parts. This causes leakage and reduces resistance in a manner comparable to a grid leak. Therefore these fluxes should never be used on radio work.

To assist in developing better soldering, a special radio solder has been put on the market in a most convenient form. It is a hollow ribbon of genuine tin and lead, having inside a pure resin flux. This flux is in proportion to the surrounding solder and feeds out as the solder is used.

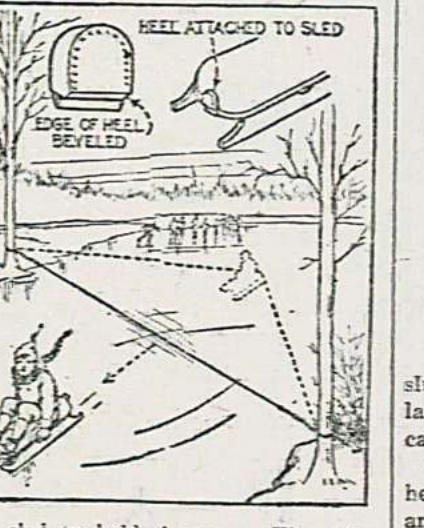

Keeping Plants Moist

When leaving home for a visit, and it is not desired to bother neighbors to care for the flowers, put all the pots together on a piece of tile in a cool and shady place in the house (if it is not freezing weather) and place a saucer under each pot. After giving the soil a good soaking so that some of the water runs into the saucers, cover the top thickly with moss, and the plants will not need water for quite a while. Another good way is to put one end of a wick, made by braiding together several lengths of thick knitting yarn, in a pail of water and the other on the soil in the pot, near the root of the plant. The wick should reach to the bottom of the pail. The water will pass by capillary attraction from the pail and will supply plenty of moisture to the soil. Plants cared for in this manner will keep moist for several weeks.

Coasting on Ice

Children who live in level regions, where coasting downhill is not possible, will appreciate the device shown in the drawing, which will enable them to coast on the ice on a pond. A stout clothesline with a heavy coil spring at each end is stretched tautly across the pond, or a boy, between two trees. The sled is pushed backward against the center of the rope as indicated by the dotted lines, and will, as soon as it is released, coast a considerable distance over the ice, due to the action of the coil springs. An old leather heel is nailed to the back end of the sled to hold the rope. The rider pushes the sled backward against the rope by digging the sharp ends of his skates into the ice, or he may be pulled back by another boy.

"Hello There, Babies!" slug-shaped, smooth-bodied caterpillars. "Hello, there, babies!" she called proudly. The caterpillars at the sound of her voice raised their little heads and craned their necks to see her. They looked so very funny, Peggy laughed. "My goodness, what funny necks they have," she mused. "They can stretch them out just like rubber, can't they?"

TELL THE WORLD

As The Star pointed out a few days ago, one of the most important sources of revenue upon which Canada can draw is that of the tourist industry. As noted at that time, an unofficial estimate places
the return from this agency last year at approximately $150,000,000, or $25,000,000 more than American investors are said to reap annually
from their holdings in this country.
Nothing, then, could be more obvious
than the desirability of building up and adding to the size of this extremely valuable avenue of income.
In this connection various suggestions have been put forward and some of them are now being acted upon. A good deal of advertising is being placed in American newspapers and periodicals, mostly by our transcontinental railway lines, setting forth the advantages of the Dominion and inviting our American cousins to visit us. By means of government advertising—federal and provincial—throughout the States, and through specially selected lecturers and immigration agents sent across the line, additional good results can be obtained. Not only do we want American tourists, but we expect that a large number of Americans who visit our country as sightseers will be so impressed that they will feel the urge to break old ties and settle down amongst us. This should be particularly true in the Western provinces with their great stretches of the finest wheat land in the world, available for settlement at low cost. It should also be marked in Western Ontario, the "Garden of Canada," where climatic conditions, fertility of soil, variety of possible crops, proximity to large cities and to the United States, an unexcelled road system, Hydro power available for rural as well as urban use, and other advantages form a rare combination.

Attraction of tourists and new citizens is one of the most important tasks facing our governments today. Nor is it entirely the work of governments. Districts, counties, cities, towns, townships, villages and private individuals should feel the necessity of co-operating in every possible way. It is within the power of almost every person to accomplish something along this line. Individual effort of this kind, no matter how seemingly small and unimportant, becomes a tremendous factor when considered from an aggregate point of view. One hook-and-line thrust into a lake full of fish would not amount to much; but if several million individual lines were thrown in by several million fishermen, the mortality among the fish would be exceedingly heavy. In the same way, if every public-spirited Canadian will do what he or she can toward building up Canada's tourist industry and attracting new population—our greatest need—we shall accomplish something very much worth while. Let us stop leaving it all up to the other fellow; instead,
considering such work for the nation and for each community as being something in the nature of an individual responsibility.

The further suggestion has been made that the radio offers one of the most advantageous means of attracting tourists and immigrants. A great government broadcasting station could reach every corner of America. High-class musical programs, interspersed with attractive national salesmanship in the form of lectures, talks and invitations would undoubtedly bring results. The "stunt" would be more or less original, and undoubtedly would attract great attention across the line. "Canadian nights" on the radio would be looked forward to in millions of American homes, and no one would be more interested than the several million former Canadians now residing all the way from Maine to California.

For them these "Canadian nights"
would constitute a breath from home, and in more than one instance might be the means of bringing repatriation. The Canadian National Railways is doing some excellent broadcasting work. Why not build up this idea and cash in on it?—The Border Cities Star.

refreshments were served.

THE FINER THINGS

A minister of the Gospel in Evanston, Ill., declared recently that he would not advise young people accustomed to the finer things of life
to get married on less than $3,000, and preferably $4,000 a year. But,
of course, much will depend on what are regarded as the finer things of life. Money is useful and even necessary, and money can do much to provide some of the finer things of life, but not all.

Some people, looking back over their own experience, might say that among the finest things in life was the spirit of unflinching comradeship which had enabled man and wife to face together, with courage and confidence, the battle of existence, and which had been strengthened and glorified in the process. Money is a good thing; but it is quite possible that more marriages are spoiled by too much money than by too little.

WEDDING TO GO ON
BUT NO GROOM THERE

With tables laid for 125 guests
and with a clergyman in readiness to perform the ceremony of making a young St. George couple man and wife recently, a serious break occurred in the elaborate plans when the groom failed to put in an appearance. He left St. George for Brantford to purchase the wedding ring and obtain the marriage licence and has not since been seen in the village. The young man had been a resident of St. George and immediate vicinity for the past ten years.
He had no relatives there, his parents still residing in Ireland.

Holiday Schedule For Year 1925

Here, for convenience in arranging falls:

- Valentine Day—Saturday, Feb. 14
- St. Patrick's Day—Tuesday, Mar. 17
- Good Friday—April 10
- Easter Sunday—April 12
- Shakespeare's Day—Thursday, April 23
- Victoria Day—Sunday, May 24
- King's Birthday—Wed., June 3
- Dominion Day—Wed., July 1
- "The Twelfth"—Sunday, July 12
- Civic Holiday—Monday, August 10
- Labor Day—Monday, September 7
- Hallowe'en—Saturday, October 31
- Armistice Day—Wednesday, Nov. 11
- Christmas Day—Friday, Dec. 25.

TEA SUPPLY INADEQUATE—PRICES HIGHER

Tea prices are going up mainly because tea is being demanded by millions more people. Tea is the cheapest and certainly one of the most palatable and satisfying beverages known.
But the tea-growers have been unable to meet the tremendous demand.
It takes three years for a tea bush to mature to the plucking stage.

Time is the surest judge of truth.
There is nothing insignificant—
nothing!

Man can effect no great matter
by his personal strength, but as he acts in society and conjunction with others.

1925, Robert Rankin, aged 73 years.
The funeral service will be held at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr.
Fred Sneyd, corner of Chestnut Hill and Cavan street, on Tuesday afternoon, January 20th, at 2.30 o'clock.
Interment at St. John's Cemetery.

Who hears music feels his solitude
peopled at once.

Suspiciousness is as great an enemy to wisdom as too much credulty.

Man is a thinking being, whether he will or no; all he can do is to turn his thoughts the best way.

Every man living shall assuredly meet with an hour of temptation—a certain critical hour—which shall more especially try what mettle his heart is made of.

If you wish success in life make perseverance your bosom friend, experience your wise counsellor, cau-
