CRACK SAFE, GET $15,000

Worked Through Early Morning Hours, Almost in Heart of the Hamilton—Use Blankets as Mufflers

Safe-crackers blew a two-ton safe in the offices of G. H. Lees, jewelry manufacturers, 47 Main street east, early Tuesday morning, and secured booty estimated by Mr. W. Lees at approximately $15,000. Systematically, coolly and thoroughly the burglars worked through the early hours of the morning, carrying on their dangerous work almost in the heart of the city.

Blankets purchased locally, muffled the explosions, which must have been terrific. On the scene of devastation discovered by the company's janitor shortly before eight o'clock, several articles associated with the safe-blowers' craft were found. These included mallets, rope and iron bars twisted into peculiar shapes.

Outside the building no clue or trace has been left by the burglars. Soft snow, which started to fall about 5.30, obliterated all footprints which may have been made.

The jewelry stolen consisted largely of lodge emblems, rings and small stones. Apparently the burglars first decided to place a charge of nitroglycerine in the combination lock of the safe. A small hole had been drilled in the hardened metal. Then they changed their plan, and with one of the mallets knocked the lock off. Another hole was then drilled in the softer metal of the door and the charge inserted. Deadly in its effect the explosive must have been handled with great care.

Used Electric Cap
An electric cord connected with one of the bulb sockets on the lower floor had been stretched up to the offices on the second floor where the safe stood and the charge ignited by means of an electric cap. The cord was fully fifty feet in length. That the burglars knew the lay of the land is taken for granted by police on account of the fact that this cord was connected with a socket on the lower floor. Had the switch controlling the lights of the second floor been turned, nearly every light in the building would have shone forth and the actions of the night workers disclosed to the police on the streets.

Safe Blanketed
To deaden the sound of the explosion the blankets had been tightly wound around the safe. So cleverly was the work done that though the doors were rent asunder the safe was by no means badly damaged.

The smoke of the explosion cleared away and the blankets, what was left of them, removed and scores of treasure-laden trays lay visible.

These were carefully removed, the contents poured into some receptacle and operations moved to an inner office.

Here a small safe was drilled and an explosive charge set off.

The work was not done with the same care, however, and the lock held, although the steel doors were torn across. Luck was with the burglars, however. Had they managed to get to the inside of this safe their labor would have been in vain. It contained nothing but papers and documents. This safe was also tightly wound around with blankets.

MANY ARE BAD SPELLERS

Annual Report Shows They Outnumber the Good Ones

Out of 580 pupils in the high schools and collegiate institutes in Toronto, 181 are classed as "bad" spellers in the 1923-24 annual report just issued by the Board of Education. There are 161 pupils classed as "poor" spellers, 129 "fair" and 109 "good."

In writing, the "good" and "fair" pupils loom up better than in the other two classes. Of a total of 539 pupils examined, 166 were found to be "good," 206 "fair," 118 "poor" and 49 "bad."

It is to impress on the scholars the importance of such subjects as spelling and writing that Chairman A. O. L. Burnese, of the School Management Committee, is recommending the issuing of diplomas to children standing high in these and other important subjects, such as mathematics.

They must often change who would be constant in happiness or wisdom.

TWO MEN MEET DEATH IN FIRE

Canada Hotel Totally Destroyed in an Early Morning Blaze

In a disastrous fire which occurred at three o'clock Monday morning at the Canada Hotel, a boarding house and poolroom situated on Third Ave. at Cochrane, was totally destroyed. Two guests at the hotel were burned alive in the blaze which was completely beyond control when first noticed.

The victims are Edmund Haequet, about 22 years, of St. Therese, Que., and Ernest Frechette, about 25 years old, of the province of Quebec. Another guest, George Demers, a garage mechanic of Cochrane, was severely burned about the back, head and hands, and is in hospital there.

One of the guests, apparently Haequet retired to his room about two o'clock and must have thrown a lighted match or cigaret carelessly. About 3 o'clock he rushed out of his room, his clothing on fire. His room was then a mass of flames. The fire spread with such rapidity that other guests and inmates of the building barely had time to make their escape, while the flames were raging in the building.

Demers suddenly discovered that the proprietor's child was absent. It was while in the act of rushing upstairs to save the child that Demers was severely burned. The building is a total loss.

CLOTHE THE CITIZENS' BAND

Your Support at the Old Time Dance Will Materially Help the Uniform Fund

It is with pleasure that we learn that at the end of nine months the finances of the Port Hope Citizens' Band are in very good shape. Starting the season with the sum of $120 in the bank, the Band have now over $500. It is their special aim, however, this year to raise at least $1,000 more so that uniforms may be purchased.

Many citizens have already given individual sums, and the bandmen themselves have left in the treasury all moneys earned by them at the various engagements last year. To help further increase the fund the bandmen are running an Old Time Dance at the Town Hall on Friday, Jan. 30th, and later other entertainments will be given. We advise every one to be at the dance and help boost the band, who in the summer give so much time to add to the town people's enjoyment.

OIL IN CUTTER CAUSED DEATH

Contents Ignited as Otty Lake Farmer Was Lighting a Cigar

Robert James Richards, a widely known farmer at Otty Lake, near Perth, is dead in the Perth Memorial Hospital after several days of intense suffering following an accident which befell him when he was horribly burned about the body while driving in a cutter from Perth to his home.

About 6 p.m. James McMillan saw a light on an adjacent hill. He went to the door and heard the screams of a man in flames approaching the gate and having run about two hundred yards. Mrs. McMillan secured a quilt and placed it around him. All his clothing was burned off with the exception of the neckband of his sweater, and his long rubber boots. He was removed to hospital. He remained conscious all the while, and was enabled to explain how the accident happened.

He had lighted a cigar and in leaning over to do so a coal oil can with an upper stopper in the spout became in some manner ignited, the flames instantly igniting his clothing. He jumped out of the cutter, threw off his overcoat and proceeded to the farm of Mr. McMillan for help. He was 56 years of age, and leaves a widow and three children.

BURIED IN A PAUPER'S GRAVE

Known as "Antoine Berger," Was Helper in Jewish Bowling Alley—Countess, Cook in Cleveland

Known as "Antoine Berger, laborer," Count Chas. Doba van Doba, one-time high official of Austro-Hungarian Court, diplomatic representative of his country in France and Italy, and for years Aide-de-Camp to the late Crown Prince Otto, the father of the late Emperor Charles, died in Toronto General Hospital and was buried in a pauper's grave yesterday.

In the books of Toronto General Hospital he was "Antoine Berger," laborer. His complaint was pneumonia, anaemia and a disease which was not diagnosed. There was no hope for recovery. The patient knew it, yet no complaint was registered. The slightest service rendered him was rewarded by spoken appreciation in cultured tones which at once placed him far removed from the manual laborer, although hospital books recorded him as a worker in a Dundas street west Jewish poolroom.

Death Reveals Identity

Yet death alone brought about the establishment of his identity. A few hours before the end came at the hospital there arrived a stranger to that city in the person of the Countess of other days. In Cleveland she is a cook in a restaurant. She had been sent for when the patient realized his end was so near. To make the visit her slender means were stretched to the breaking point. From the Countess the life history of the patient was learned. The war in Europe had caused his coming to the United States, but he was plentifully supplied with money. Speculation lured away that fortune, and with it the resources of his wife and mother-in-law. Then he left his wife and came to Canada.

HONORS FORMER PORT HOPER

T. J. Porte of Winnipeg, Becomes a Vice-President; R. M. Haultain, Mgr. Director

Anticipating a new era of business prosperity throughout Western Canada, the firm of Henry Birks & Sons, has made two new appointments.

Mr. T. J. Porte, for many years managing director at Winnipeg, has been appointed a vice-president of Henry Birks & Sons, Limited, with headquarters at Winnipeg. Mr. Porte's long residence in Winnipeg brings to the directorate a viewpoint thoroughly conversant with western conditions.

Mr. R. M. Haultain, a native born Winnipegger, has been appointed to the vacancy caused by Mr. Porte's appointment.

Mr. Haultain is a son of Mrs. Haultain, Sherbourne Street, Port Hope, and the late Dr. C. S. Haultain, of the Royal North West Mounted Police, and a nephew of Mr. Justice Dennistoun, of Winnipeg.

A graduate of Trinity College School, Port Hope, and of the Royal Military College, Kingston, he saw four years' service overseas during the war. He has now returned to make his home in Winnipeg, his native city, where he has so many relatives and friends.

Mr. Gerald A. Birks, who has been in Winnipeg for the last year or so, will shortly move to Montreal, but expects to visit the West quite frequently.—The Winnipeg Evening Tribune.

SUICIDE THE VERDICT

"Suicide" was the verdict given on Tuesday in Peterboro by Dr. T. W. H. Young in the case of Raymond Bell, who died at his home, Smith Township, a week ago Monday. Bell, who was 23 years of age, was first reported to have drunk poison in mistake for medicine, but investigations made by Provincial Constable N. H. Maker and reported to Coroner Dr. Young and Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., indicate, it is said, that death was deliberate.

They who travel in pursuit of wisdom walk only in a circle, and after all their labor at last return to their pristine ignorance.

DIVISION COURT

The first case in the docket at this afternoon's Division Court was Christie vs. Rowe.

The claim was for $6.00 due the plaintiff for a back cover made by him for Rowe's car. F. W. McMahon represented the plaintiff; Mr. Chisholm for the defendant.

Rowe was attempting to sell his car a few weeks ago and spoke to Christie about making a back curtain to replace the torn one on the car. Very little material evidence was presented.

Judgment was given the plaintiff for the amount of the claim and the costs of the Court. Rowe was given the new curtain.

Adjournment was granted in the case of Moore vs. Thompson. D. H. Chisholm represented the defendant, F. W. McMahon for the plaintiff.

Rowe vs. Kennedy

"Teddy" Rowe of Port Hope entered a claim against J. P. Kennedy of Cobourg for wages in arrears. Kennedy counter-claimed for an amount over $500, but on finding this outside the jurisdiction of the Court, consented to deduct all over that amount. This counter-claim was for damages done to the boat while in Rowe's hands for repairs.

Rowe was represented by Mr. F. W. McMahon, Cochrane acting for the defendant. The plaintiff himself gave the opening evidence in the case. He was first employed by Mr. Kennedy on November 20th, at a fixed salary of $1.00 an hour, to repair the boat, then lying in Cobourg harbour. After he had cleaned and repaired the engines ready for service Mr. Kennedy offered him a position as engineer on the boat at $30 per week. He accepted the position and received his pay up to Nov. 30th. This was to be steady work all winter. On Tuesday, Dec. 9th, they ran out of Cobourg harbour, with a cargo of 240 cases of Dow's alk.

Judge Cameron—This was 2 1/2? Mr. McMahon—Oh! no, your Honor. This was good stuff. Mr. Cochrane, acting for Kennedy, cross-examined Rowe, dwelling chiefly upon the repairs made by Rowe to the engine and the propeller shaft. When he first looked over the boat at Cobourg he found this shaft sprung, and uncoupled the irons to allow the shaft to get back into its proper place. When some five miles out, a knocking noise was heard under the boards. For safety's sake he shut off the second engine and ran into Port Hope harbour with one propeller. Captain Marr left the boat and returned to Cobourg, Rowe remaining to watch the cargo.

Cross-examination revealed that about a week previous to leaving Cobourg harbour, Rowe had spoken to Kennedy as to the advisability of removing the bent shaft and straightening it. He (Rowe) denied ever having told Kennedy that the shaft was true. At no time did he repair or touch the shaft, although he helped the other men to straighten the blades of the propeller.

Mr. Cochrane then questioned Rowe as to a Pierce Arrow car loaned to him by Kennedy while in his service. During the time in which he used the car, he never gave it rough usage, and any damage done to it at that time was not due to his negligence.

J. P. Kennedy, of Cobourg, was called. He testified that he had employed Rowe, first at $1.00 an hour and later at a fixed salary of $30 a week. His reason for getting the boat into working order, he stated, was to fulfill his contract with Ames Vandereer of Port Colborne, to let him have the boat for one month. Knowing Rowe was thoroughly fitted to make the necessary repairs, he left him in full charge. At one time he asked him about the shaft, and Rowe assured him that it was all right.

The case is proceeding as we go to press.

BURNED IN CABIN FIRE

Father Escapes Severely Burned—Walks Mile in Bare Feet

Six lives were lost when the cabin of N. Bedour, a Northern Ontario homesteader, was destroyed by fire during the night of Friday, January 16th, it became known Monday. The victims were Mrs. Bedour and her five little children.

During Friday night Bedour, who lives in the township of Brower, a few miles east of Cochrane, awoke only just in time to see the blazing roof of his settler's cabin fall in on the beds in which rested his wife and five children.

An overheated stove set too close to the beds had evidently started the blaze that took the toll of six lives. Barely escaping himself out of the cabin which in an instant was a roaring furnace, severely burned about the head and body and scantily clothed, Bedour, dazed by the horror of the tragedy, walked more than a mile, barefooted through the deep snow to the nearest neighbor.

The temperature was 20 below zero. Bedour was brought to the Lady Minto hospital in Cochrane.

AUTO LICENSES LATE

No Change To Be Made in System of Issuing

"The new auto licenses for 1925 will be shipped and all arrangements completed for issuing them before the end of the month by issuers all over the province.

"There will be no change in the system of issuing automobile licenses. We have gone thoroughly into the question, and have concluded that to issue licenses only from the city of Toronto would not meet the requirements of the public. Out of consideration for the automobilist the system that has been in use will be maintained."

This statement was made yesterday by Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways. Mr. Henry said there was always more or less delay in issuing the new licenses, and that motorists have until Feb. 1 to get the 1925 plates.

In other years, however, a great many have been issued before this, and even then there has been a bad congestion in the last few days.

HEARD ON THE STREET

How do the birds fare these days?

Owing to the depth of snow all the birds' food is covered, and unless everybody will think of them and throw crumbs where they can get them, many of the birds will starve to death.

The sleigh loads of ice remind us that Summer is coming, and people are now preparing for the hot days.

Fire broke out at a religious service in Winnipeg on Sunday. The first started in a back room and is said to have been due to heat engendered by an argument on church union.

DEER SLAUGHTERED LAST AUTUMN WERE 4,000

Four thousand is a conservative estimate of the number of deer killed in Ontario woods during the annual hunting season. As yet, however, there is no scarcity of deer in the province, and the Department of Game and Fisheries does not see any necessity for restrictions such as limitation of shooting permits to buck deer two years old or over, as has been suggested.

Twenty sanctuaries have been set aside in the province, and the latest one, opened last October, comprising 800 square miles in the Thunder Bay district, is already overrun with game of all sorts. In addition to the sanctuaries Ontario deer have been protected by restriction of the season and issuance of hunting licenses. In 1923 17,577 resident deer hunters licenses were granted, as well as 1,247 general non-resident licenses.

The Bible reading was taken by Albert Jarvis. Then hymn 92 was sung. The topic entitled "Missions and Races in Canada" was taken by Margaret Pollard. "The Alaskan," James Oliver Curwood's stirring novel of the far north, which Willis Goldbeck adapted to the screen, forms the basis of Thomas Meighan's brand new starring picture. This widely heralded film will be the main feature at the Royal Theatre beginning tomorrow.

As a story for Meighan, it is undoubtedly the strongest in which this favorite screen star has ever appeared. Herbert Brenon, who produced the picture for Paramount, made a very careful selection of the supporting cast. Estelle Taylor, John Sainpolis, Charles Ogle, Frank Campeau

An honest man's word

More than three hundred years ago, Miguel de Cervantes said: "An honest man's word is as good as his bond." Advertisers must be honest men, if they would remain advertisers. Their announcements are signed. They must tell the truth in their advertising. For their own protection, as well as yours.

What would it profit a man to advertise "Pure, virgin-wool suits," only to have you discover they were shoddy? You would soon separate the sheep from the cotton. And you would never deal with that man again. And, further, you would tell all your acquaintances what a skinflint he was.

As a matter of business, if not of personal principle, an advertiser must tell the truth in his signed announcements. That's what makes the advertising columns of this paper such reliable guides to honest merchandise. The printed announcements are bonds between you and the advertiser.

Read the advertisements. Read them regularly. To be informed on the newest and best in everything. To save hours of shopping. To make the family purse do a bigger, better job. To get goods of known quality at the most attractive price.

You would not plan a motor trip without first consulting road-maps and guide-books. Is it logical to plan a shopping trip without first consulting the advertisements? Read the advertisements. Then go to the stores with your mind more than half made up.

A signed advertisement is, in effect, a sealed bond between you and the advertiser. Read those in The Guide.

DAVID MEETS A FUNNY LITTLE DOG WITH A DUGOUT

DAVID gave a low soft whistle when he spied the queer little animal sitting on its haunches on the pile of dirt, and quick as a wink there came a shrill barking sound and the sentinel disappeared.

"Oh, Happy Giggles, I'm glad to see you!" laughed David. "I was out of sorts because I made a noise and frightened that funny little animal away. I'm sure he dropped right down in the dirt in that mound."

Happy Giggles rapped on the dirt where the animal had disappeared, and out he came, his funny little nose wiggling with glee.

"Well, well, Happy Giggles! I'm glad you came along. I was afraid that boy was going to shoot me," chuckled the owner of the mound of dirt.

"No, indeed, I wasn't going to shoot!" laughed David. "I just wanted to get a plain view of you. I've never seen a Prairie Dog before."

"You Look Like a Woodchuck."

wanted, take a look at me, and you'll know a Prairie Dog when you see one next time, and he sat quite still so David could get a good look at him.

"Hum!" laughed David. "You look more like a woodchuck than you do like a dog. I never saw a dog sit up on his haunches like you do, unless he was trained to. Why do they call you a Prairie Dog? You don't look or act like a dog, to me."

"Certainly I don't," laughed Mr. Prairie Dog. "I guess they heard me bark. That's one thing I can do, and it sounds something like a dog's bark, so they called me dog. Who ever heard of a crowd of dogs getting together and building a village like this? And do you know why we all build such high mounds above our doorways?"

David shook his head. "Why, so we can keep watch for enemies. We take turns playing sentinel for all the village folks."

"But you can't have many who disturb you way out here, can you?" asked David.

"I'll say we do!" chattered Mr. Prairie Dog. "Rattle snakes, hawks and even the prairie wolves hunt and devour us. But one of us keeps guard, and at the first sign of danger we give out that barking noise, and every Prairie Dog in the village will disappear like lightning."

"If you'll excuse me now, I'm off duty, I'll be going," and before David could ask any questions he disappeared into his dugout.

David and Happy Giggles sat there a long time, but when Mr. Prairie Dog failed to show up again, they went across the prairie in search of new adventure.

BIG WEALTH ON LAKE BOTTOMS

Gold, Silver, Copper and Coal Waiting Salvage on the Great Lakes

While South Sea treasure hunters and searches for the buried horde of Captain Kidd are vastly exploited, few people have heard of the cargoes of coal, or pig lead, or copper ingots, of oak logs and the gold and silver bullion which have been lost in the Great Lakes.

How treasures are lost and some times found on the floor of the lakes is illustrated in the tragic story of the Erie leaving Buffalo for Chicago on the 9th of August, 1841, with a large party of immigrants for the West, the vessel caught fire when 33 miles out. An appalling loss of life resulted. The boat at once went down and carried with her $150,000 in the life savings of the scores of immigrants. She lay unsalvaged in 70 feet of water until 1855, when a treasure-seeking party from Buffalo discovered the hull, towed it into shallow water and recovered a fortune mostly in foreign money.

Salver Made $50,000 In recent years the William H. Stevens came down from Lake Superior carrying $101,880 worth of copper ingots. Somewhere between Conneaut, Ohio and Port Burwell, Ont., she caught fire and sank. In due course, Capt. Harris W. Baker of Detroit, fitted out an expedition and recovered $100,000 of the Stevens' cargo. But many treasures still await venturesome hunters on the bottom of the lakes. Somewhere beneath the waters on the south shore of Lake Erie, between Dunkirk and Erie lies the Dean Richmond, vanished mysteriously one night with $50,000 worth of pig zinc aboard her. All hands were lost. Hunts for the treasure have proved futile, though the Murphy Wrecking Co. of Buffalo, had a vessel and several divers searching for most of a season.

Lost Locomotives In the deep water of Saginaw Bay lies the steamship Fay with $20,000 worth of steel billets in her hold. Somewhere near Wilmot Creek, in Lake Erie is the Young Sion with a valuable cargo of railway iron. Off Port Pelee is the Kent with money treasure in her hold and the skeletons of eight human beings in her cabins. Somewhere between Cleveland and the Detroit River lies the Clarion with a cargo of locomotives.

In Lake Huron, near Saginaw Bay are more lost ships than in any other part of the Great Lakes, and for this reason, says James Oliver Curwood in his book, "The Great Lakes," Huron is called the Lake of Sunken Treasures.

In the old days, when lumber camps lined the shores of the bay, much cash went thither in ships. Many were lost in the terrible storms that scourge these waters. It is believed that the City of Detroit with $50,000 in copper ingots aboard, lies at the bottom of Saginaw Bay. The R. G. Coburn, laden with copper, also sank there in 1871, with the loss of thirty lives. Her whereabouts however, have long baffled searchers.

A Milwaukee syndicate succeeded in locating, in 1879, the long lost Pewabic, sunk six miles southwest of Thunder Bay. Nearly a quarter of a century after, when she went down with the loss of 30 lives in Lake Erie the wreck of the Atlantic was discovered and $30,000 recovered from it. But the Lexington, which foundered in 1845 between Cleveland and Port Huron, with 110 barrels of whiskey, has never been found. The Anthony Wayne lies somewhere in Lake Erie with 300 barrels of whiskey and wine aboard, and the Westmoreland, near Manitow Island, with a similar cargo in her hold.

The Gilcher and Ostrich, steamer and tow, that disappeared in Lake Michigan carrying 3,000 tons of coal, has never been located. In 1895 the steamer African went down sunk in Lake Ontario, also carrying a valuable cargo of fuel. As long ago as 1909 it was estimated that at least a million dollars in coal awaits recovery at the bottom of the lakes.

La Salle's Lost Ship Perhaps the most romantic of all disappearance on the Great Lakes was that of the Griffin, built by La Salle at the foot of Lake Erie in 1679. The Griffin sailed across Lake Erie, up the Detroit River and continued until she entered Lake Michigan. In the autumn of 1680 she started her return trip, laden with furs and with $12,000 in gold. She disappeared and was never again seen by mortal man. Historians believe the vessel sank in one of the terrible fall storms that have so often taken toll of men and vessels on the inland seas.

J. A. Gallagher paid $1,000 Tuesday for the national edition of Dickens, limited to 750 copies and said to be the most sumptuous ever printed, at the opening sale of the library of Miss Florence Sturdivant of Boston, in the galleries of the American Art Association. The same buyer gave $370 for number 1 of the Peers' edition, limited to fifty copies of the works of Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield; $800 for a set of the autograph edition of the writings of Mark Twain; $375 for nine volumes, illustrated in color of Don Quixote, Hudibras and Gil Blas, and $350 for a first edition of "Life of a Sportsman," with Alken colored plates.

Mrs. E. A. Lawrence got a set of Audubon's birds of America for $530. Gabriel Wells paid $440 for a set of the works of Ambrose Bierce, with the author's autograph on the fly-leaf of each volume. Twenty illustrated volumes of Cambridge Classics, with insertions of autograph letters by Bryant, Longfellow, Bayard Taylor and C. P. Cranch, went to Mrs. G. R. Koopman for $370, and A. E. Swanson gave $425 for the first edition of Pierce Egan's "Real Life in London," in original boards. The second and fourth folios of Shakespeare will be among the items of the closing session.

"The Problem we Worry about Most"

A big manufacturer says: "If a customer needs goods between our salesman's visits, and a salesman for a competing line calls on him, he is apt to get the order."

"That is why our salesmen and I worry most about how to keep dealers thinking of us and our goods when we are not there to remind them."

Many salesmen call up customers by Long Distance between visits. They tell us it enables them to hold the business - absolutely solves that problem 100%.

The really economical salesman, therefore, is the one who uses Long Distance frequently.

THE GUIDE STORY

"My bright, bright Juliette!" at length he said, "I have a mission to Paris. I shall sail in a month. I cannot leave you behind. You must go with me. My Queen of Beauty and Love, you will go? Sprak, and tell me that you will."

"But this is sudden, dearest Ernest—and I—I am bewildered with this surprise."

"My Juliette! I maneuvered to get this appointment for the very purpose of having an excuse to hurry our marriage. I stooped to this for your sweet sake, Juliette. For myself, without this, I would have gathered you to my bosom in the face of the whole world; but for you, my cherished love! I would not have the slightest breath of censure soil the plumage of my Bird of Heaven!"

"This is joy! this is rapture! this is ecstasy! this is heaven! Juliette!" He was scarce a responsible moral agent—he was insane—a monomaniac—a man with one idea—Juliette.

Enough of this scene. Before the close of it, he had received her promise to become his wife within three weeks.

CHAPTER XV. The Orphan Babe

"For glances beget ogle, ogle sighs, Sighs wishes, wishes words, and words a letter; And then God knows what mischief may arise When love links two young people in one fetter." —Byron.

"The tear down childhood's cheek that flows Is like the dew-drop on the rose; When next the summer breeze comes by And waves the bush, the flower is dry." —Scott.

"Sweet the young nurse, with smiles intense, That smiles o'er sleeping innocence." —Stuart.

This gesture looked so much like anger that Marcus hastened to say: "Suffer me one moment! I will not intrude upon you long, Miss Fanny. I merely returned to say that, however free you may consider yourself to be, I shall hold myself bound by our engagement, and shall never certainly address any young lady, while you are unmarried, Fanny; and this I have come to tell you, because, somehow, I thought I ought to, even at the risk of your contempt. Now, good-by, dearest Fanny; we will part friends, will we not?"

Fanny had rejected all overtures for peace three times that afternoon, but now she turned "with a smile on her lip, and a tear in her eye," and held out both hands. Marcus caught them, rapturously exclaiming:

"Ah! that's my dear, sweet little Fanny! that's my forgiving little lamb! Dear pet, I can't bear to be out with you! I can't indeed! you may take my word for it. I have been perfectly miserable to-day."

"Well, then! what makes you serve me so?" said Fanny.

"Let me sit down, darling, and I will make a confession; but first hold out your finger; let me encircle it with this little ring again. There!—now we stand upon our old footing again, don't we?"

"Yes! though you don't deserve it."

"I know I don't," said Marcus, with humility. "Well! about Miss Summers, Fanny! Fetch me if she don't bewitch me!—she does indeed, Fanny! you may take my word for it."

"There! You needn't swear to it. I have no difficulty in believing it, Marcus."

"You may say that! But mind! when I'm out of her company the spell is off; and now I shall keep out of it. Heaven bless you, Fanny! I'm going to tell you how it used to be with me. It shall be so no longer. Sometimes I would enter the parlor, where you would all be sitting, and, without noticing any one, except by a general bow, I would take my seat; really without knowing who was in the room, and presently feel myself being turned around as upon a pivot, and stopped. Then, looking up, I would find myself facing Miss Summers; would meet her eyes, and then—it was a gone case. I could no more help rising, crossing the room, and taking a seat by her side, than the needle can help following the magnet! And this has occurred every time I have entered a room where Juliette has been."

Pleasant truths these, to tell his lady-love, were they not? "Oh! you were in love with her," said Fanny, growing sick. (To be continued)

A moment's insight is sometimes worth a life's experience.

When a man's knowledge is not in order, the more of it he has the greater will be his confusion.

The greatest object in the universe, says a certain philosopher, is a good man struggling with adversity. Yet there is a still greater, which is the good man that comes to relieve it.

The Game of the Season!

Tonight, what is predicted as the season's biggest game, will be played at the local rink, when the Ontario's meet the Trenton Intermediates in a group fixture. Trenton leads the group, with Port Hope in second place by virtue of their loss in Whitby. The Trenton gang have a very strong line-up, and will put up a real battle with our boys, but after the licking the Ontario's handed Bowmanville Friday night, it looks like our game. It will undoubtedly be the game of the season and there will be a packed house. Trenton are bringing a large number of fans with them, so if you want to get even standing room—be there early!

The Intermediates will open this evening's game with the same line-up which spell defeat in big letters, for the Bowmanville Benedicts last Friday night. This will include Micks in goal; Hutchings and Jex defense; K. Ware, centre; R. Ware and A. Hills, wings; Finnegan Hills, Hagerman or Harwood, and Ham.

Lou Marsh, veteran referee in hockey and boxing circles, will handle the Trenton-Port Hope fixture here tonight. "Lou" will be around to see all his old friends after the game.

The Oshawa Reformer says:—"While the Intermediates did not take very kindly to the treatment meted out by Bowmanville Monday night, they have already decided to take their revenge by putting Port Hope away."

All we can say, is that over-confidence never won a game yet!

A large crowd of supporters will migrate to the Motor City Friday night with the Ontario's. The train connections are excellent, trains going west on the C. N. R. at 6.44 and returning at 11.47, 12.41 and 12.59; C. P. R. trains leave at 7.03 and return at 11.58.

Don't forget to make the old rink shake tonight with the old war cry. The boys will need your cheers—Ontario, Ontario. O-N-T-A-R-I-O Scouts 6; Rovers 1

The Scouts came back strong from their defeat last week, defeating the Rovers 6-1. The Rovers played snappy, clean hockey and held the Scouts down until the final stanza. The line-ups were as follows:—

Scouts—Goal, J. Pethick; defence, N. Strong, K. Kimmell; centre, J. Winfield; wings, C. Bowen, F. Lockington. Subs., Ough, Greenaway. Rovers—Goal, E. Goss; defence, B. Taylor, D. Henderson; centre, B. Rowdiffe; wings, J. Bailey, F. Ryne. Subs., Welch, McMahon.

Peterboro 4; Varsity 1

Peterboro put over its fourth straight win in the senior O. H. A. series at the Arena last night, defeating University of Toronto 4 to 1 in a game that was in doubt until half way through the final period, and it was left to Bert McLeod, a Varsity star of last season, to beat Joe Sullivan with the goal that sewed up the game for the Petes. Peterboro is undefeated this season, having won ten straight games.

The S. P. A. cup-holders did not look so good against Varsity as they did in previous games at the Arena, the Collegians showing a lot of speed used defensive tactics that forced the Petes to head into a six-man barricade whenever they started a drive on the Blue goal. But Varsity were terribly weak with the result that the veteran Joe Dayer, suffering from a severe cold that kept him in bed until train time yesterday, had a comparatively easy night of it.

Harold Parker, Bert McLeod and Irvin Bailey were the only Peterboro players to show their true form, and McLeod stepped out only after Varsity had scored their first and only goal at the start of the third period. Then he led the attack on the Varsity net that could not be denied, and though he scored but one goal, earned at least two more.

Peterboro—Dwyer, goal; McLeod, r. defence; Parker, l. defence; Collins, centre; Bailey, r. wing; Ranger, l. wing; Burgess and Rose, subs.

Varsity—Sullivan, goal; Taylor, r. defence; Porter, l. defence; H. Plaxton, centre; Devins, r. wing; Kirkpatrick, l. wing; Richards and Clouthier, subs.

Referee—Lou E. Marsh.

Pictou Loses in Trenton
Pictou Juniors were defeated by Trenton Juniors in Trenton last night by a score of 2-1. The game was fast and clean, with very few penalties.

LADIES HOCKEY
An urgent meeting of the Ladies Hockey Club has been called for Thursday evening at eight o'clock, in the Agriculture Department Offices. All members are requested to be present.

The ladies tied up the game with Harry Sander's Midnights last night. A return game is being planned.

CURLING
The season here has begun, several good games having been played already. The ice is in fine shape, and the draw for the Club games will be held Thursday night. A full attendance is requested, as it is expected that two games will be played that night.

BASEBALL
If the plans of President Joe Page of the Quebec-Ontario Professional Baseball League come to fruition Peterboro fans will have an opportunity of watching Class B professional ball during the coming summer.

The well known promoter, who has been a scout for the Chicago White Sox for many a year and has had a long and distinguished career in baseball spent the week-end in Peterboro sizing up the situation and will return in a short time to lay the matter before a meeting of local sporting enthusiasts.

The Quebec-Ontario League has been functioning successfully for several seasons and president Page believes that the time is opportune for expanding the organization. The proposition is to add Peterboro, Kingston and Belleville to the circuit with Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, or in the event of the Toronto International League Club placing a team in the league as a "farm," to also include Three Rivers, Quebec, making an eight team league.

Knotty Lee is interested in the Ontario end of the organization and will likely manage the Kingston team. The proposition so far as Kingston is concerned will be completed by me during the present week-end and "Knotty" has also guaranteed that Belleville will fall in line, the preliminary work having already been done there.

HIGHER TEA PRICES EXPECTED ANY DAY

The estimated increase in the consumption of tea in 1924 over 1923 has amounted to over 39 million pounds. An increase in production of only seventeen million pounds during the same period has resulted in tea prices advancing in primary markets from ten to fourteen cents per pound since last summer. The price to the consumer today is on the basis of much lower primary costs, so a general increase to tea drinkers is inevitable in the near future.
