The bridegroom is 63 years old, while the bride is a beautiful girl of 20. The prince, who was once an intimate friend of the ex-kaiser, had his previous marriage annulled during the war. His first wife was Mary Cornwallis-West, sister of the former Duchess of Westminster.

G. N. GORDON, M.P., HONORED GUEST IN HOME TOWN

Addresses Brighton Canadian Club And Is Entertained at Banquet.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., was the speaker of the evening, invited by the Canadian Club of Brighton to address them on Monday at their first meeting in the New Year.

Mr. Gordon is an old Brighton boy, and the Oddfellows' Hall was packed to overflowing by his old-time school friends, and people of the town and surrounding district, who came to hear Mr. Gordon, upon his return to Brighton.

The address selected by the Deputy Speaker was "The Growth and Development of Constitutional Government as Adopted by Canada," and much interest was shown by those present, in the skillfully prepared and well-given address.

A banquet was tendered to Mr. Gordon by the House Committee of the Canadian Club, and an address was presented to him by Mr. Geo. Drexler, barrister, and chairman of the Board of Education at Brighton.

For Mr. Gordon's entertaining address, the Rev. J. S. L. Wilson, pastor of the Methodist Church at Brighton, and the Rev. E. W. Pickford, the minister of the Anglican Church respectively moved and seconded a vote of thanks.

FIVE POISONED BY CANNED GOODS

Tecumseh Man is Dead and Wife and Three Children Critically Ill

Canned soup, of which they had partaken freely at the evening meal on Tuesday night, is believed to have caused the death of Jean Campau, 45-year-old farmer living in the village of Tecumseh, and the illness of his wife and three children. Campau's body was found on the floor of his home Wednesday morning by a neighbor. The other members of the family were lying about unconscious except an 18-month-old babe which was crawling about trying to arouse its mother.

Mrs. Campau and her children were hurried to Hotel Dieu, Windsor, arriving about noon, and everything possible is being done. The condition of the mother, however, is regarded as critical, and her recovery is doubtful, doctors say. She has not yet regained consciousness.

A quantity of canned soup and some canned preserves found in the Campau home, have been taken by the police, on instructions from Coroner Poisson, and will be sent to Toronto for analysis, as also will the stomach of the father.

OBITUARY

Late John Benson

Mr. John Benson, who died at his home, Bewdley, on Wednesday, Jan. 28th, was born in that neighborhood in 1854 and had farmed in the vicinity all his life.

He was a Baptist, but usually attended the Methodist Church, which was near his home.

The late Mr. Benson had been ailing for about a year and a half, and only became seriously ill about three weeks previous to his death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, formerly Miss Anna Porter; three daughters, Mrs. Bert McIntosh, Bewdley; Marjory and Alice at home; three sons, Dr. H. W. Benson of this town, J. H. Benson of Bewdley, and J. K. Benson at home; one brother, William; and four sisters, Mrs. Wm. Henderson of Chicago, Mrs. Frank Lan of Harwood, Susannah and Clara. Another sister, Miss Annie, passed away last August.

The funeral takes place from the family residence on Friday at 1:30 o'clock, to Ballieboro Cemetery.

Late Mrs. Jessie Pemberton

After an illness of only five weeks, Mrs. Jessie Pemberton died at the residence of her mother, Mrs. P. Paul, Elgin street, on Tuesday.

The late Mrs. Pemberton was in her thirty-third year, being born in Peterboro in 1891. She leaves a husband, several small children, and her mother to mourn her loss.

The funeral was held from the residence of her mother, Mrs. P. Paul, this afternoon and was largely attended.

C.N.R. ORDERS ENGINES TO COST $720,000

Will Haul International Flier Between Montreal and Chicago

A despatch to the Wall Street Journal from Battle Creek, Mich., says:—The Canadian National Railway has ordered for delivery at Battle Creek eight 170-ton mountain type passenger locomotives for use on the International Limited, fast train between Montreal and Chicago. Locomotives will be built to haul 15 passenger coaches. They will have 90 1-2 foot wheelbase, and cost $90,000 each. Order was placed with Baldwin Locomotive Works for delivery, so that the new service, which cuts several hours from running time, may go into effect April 1st.

HEARD ON THE STREET

This is certainly an improvement!

Not many regret the rising temperature after the real keen weather to which we have so recently been subjected.

The east wind and the general feeling of the atmosphere, along with the appearance of the sky, would seem to point out that "Old Preb's" prediction of snow was likely to be fulfilled.

"Omeme roads filled by wind," reads a heading in the Peterboro Examiner. That's a peculiar thing. We find the roads and cuttings filled with snow, which forms a real obstacle.

About twenty-five of the members of Ganaraska Rebekah paid a visit to Oshawa Lodge last evening. After the usual formal opening the visitors were in charge of the entertainment. After a delightful evening of games, lunch was served, and the locals returned home.

The post office again advises that a large number of letters addressed to Newfoundland and posted in Canada are found to be short of postage, and must, therefore, be surcharged double. The regular rate is four cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce or fraction.

A local hockey enthusiast who visited Oshawa yesterday says they are quite confident that they can defeat Trenton. Here's hoping their confidence isn't misplaced.

Charged with non-support, James Hook, of Toronto, was taken into custody yesterday by the Peterboro police and will be brought back to Toronto by Detective Sergeant Ellett. Hook is charged with deserting his child.

The ice was the best this season last night, was the opinion expressed by a number of those who enjoyed Band Night at the rink.

Half-smothered, their noses and ears filled with fine salt, two workmen—Joseph Glode, 42, and Henry Roberts, 22—employed at the Sandwich plant of the Canadian Salt Company at Windsor, narrowly escaped death Wednesday when the salt pile fell in upon them. The men were at work filling bags with salt, and had dug deeply into the pile, which suddenly caved in, burying them beneath it. Fellow workmen who witnessed the accident rushed to their aid, and the men were soon dragged out of danger.

We didn't get the brunt of King Winter's onset. It is reported that the mercury dropped completely out of sight in and near Cornwall. One thermometer recorded as low as 50° below zero.

Mr. W. P. Tickell is some optimist, for in the bitterest winter weather he is preparing for the coming summer. Last week he unloaded a car of ice-cream salt, and this week he is having his ice-house filled. This will require almost one hundred loads.

An interesting sidelight on the activity of both Union and non-Union members of St. Andrews Church, Renfrew, in the Church Union voting, is revealed in a story told by one of the workers. Not long before the poll was closed it was found that there was a woman entitled to vote whose home is in the village of Douglas, 12 miles from Renfrew. Two cars were despatched to bring her, the two going in order to make sure of locating the house. As they were entering Douglas, they met another car leaving that village for Renfrew. In the car was the voter, captured by the opposite side.

Midnights at Bankers Tonight

The Midnights and the Pen Pushers are scheduled to meet at the rink tonight between six and seven. Harry Sanders has his best line-up in shape for the big game and the tactics they have been practicing during the mid-night hours are sure to fool the Short Changers.

"Bob" Melville has consented to play in this fixture at the earnest request of the Banker's manager.

Will Oshawa Defeat Trenton?

All the Lakeshore group advance hope on Friday evening's Trenton at Oshawa game give the Motor City the odds for a win. Oshawa having had a solid week's rest after their strenuous game with the locals last Friday night, will meet the somewhat crippled Quinte team at Bradley's Arena with an unbeatable line-up.

Personally, having seen both the Trenton and Oshawa sextettes in action, we can truthfully say that the Green and White have the best all-round hockey team of the two. Bowen in goal is Trenton's only hope.

Should Oshawa defeat the Trentonites, and the locals defeat Oshawa here Monday night, the Ontario's would be given another opportunity to whip the eastern aggregation, Oshawa, although they can no more than tie for second place for Port Hope, are determined to make a strong bid for a win Friday night.

The local fans are planning to go up "en masse" to cheer the Green and White to victory. Buck up, Oshawa.

Hamilton 4; St. Pat's 0

Hamilton outplayed St. Pats in an N. H. L. fixture in Hamilton last night and finished on the long end of a four to nothing count in a game featured by brilliant individual work by "Shorty" Green. The Sudbury wizard showed dazzling speed throughout, scored Hamilton's first two counters and turned in a defensive game that equalled any seen there this season. Other members of the Hamilton team also turned in good cards.

In the second round of the junior series Peterboro plays at Bowmanville, Tuesday, February 3, with the return game in Peterboro, Friday, February 6.

D. A. Lowry will referee the Trenton at Oshawa intermediate game tomorrow. A win gives Trenton group honors.

Bowmanville Juniors Lose

In one of the fastest games of hockey seen in years Cobourg Juniors defeated Bowmanville by a score of 9 to 4 in the Ferry Town last night. Bowmanville ran a special train to support their lads, hoping they would go through the district without a loss but the fast combination and back-checking of the locals, backed by the stonewall defence of Cavanaugh, Walden and Lloyd proved their downfall. For Bowmanville, Hooper and Chartrand were the best. The line-up:

Bowmanville—Goal, Westaway; defence, Hooper and Hughes; centre, Osborne; wings, Corden and Chartrand; subs., Gillifallan and Lockington.

Cobourg—Goal, Lloyd; defence, Cavanaugh and Walden; centre, Gibson; wings, Brinning and Rollings; subs., Fardella and Ovens.

Referee—Rowden.

Kingston Stays in Hunt by Winning in Brockville

Brockville was outplayed by Kingston Intermediates in Brockville last night, and were defeated three goals to none in one of the fastest and the hardest fought battles seen there in many a day. A win for Brockville would have given them the championship of the group, but Kingston's victory puts them well up in the running with two home games to play. Joe Smith, veteran forward for Kingston, was the hero of the game, and scored the first goal for the visitors. He was the pivot of every attack, and was the most spectacular player on the ice. Rogers, the Kingston goalie, was next best, and he was given admirable support by Reynolds and Rooney on defence. Though Kingston had the edge by three goals, the score does not represent the play, as until Hargraft scored Kingston's third goal half way through the final period, it looked like either team's game. Harold Farlow, Toronto, was the referee and the teams were:— Kingston—Rogers, goal; Reynolds and Rooney, defence; Gibson, centre; Smith and Hargraft, wings; Donnelly and Watt, subs.

Brockville—Murray, goal; Holway and Saunderson, defence; Munroe, centre; Guest and Higgins, wings; Kerwin and Kennedy, subs.

Last night's game in the Big Six senior O. H. A. group makes it almost certain that Niagara Falls and Stratford will figure in the play-off for the right to enter the finals. Both teams can clinch things tomorrow. Niagara Falls by winning in Kitchener and Stratford in London.

BASEBALL

French Writer Sees Defects in Baseball

France has not forgotten the games played by the Giants and White Sox in Paris. Discussion has followed discussion in the newspapers and magazines until now the controversy has attracted more attention than the tour. Magazines not devoted to sport, have become involved in the debates that are taking place, and a "neutral observer" has written in one publication his idea of baseball and just why it can not become a national sport in France.

"To start with," he said, "there is the rather unique situation of one man being opposed to nine. The batter goes to the plate and tries to hit the ball. Nine men are opposed to him. It sounds paradoxical, but it is true nevertheless that the pitcher throws the ball to the catcher and over a sack called the home plate in the hope that he gets the ball where the batter can hit it but fails to do so. If he puts the ball beyond reach of the batter he is penalized and yet if the batter hits the ball he is not considered as having done his duty to his team.

"Then, too, it seems a little undecided to have the batter up there alone. If he connects with the ball the opposing side has unrestricted opportunity to recover it. What we in France expected to find was that the other members of the batter's team also would be on the field and that they would do all in their power to keep the opposing side from getting the ball when it was batted. To our point of view that would be competition and would make baseball a faster and more exciting game.

"There is another factor in the great American game that has a drawback from our point of view, and that is the fact that when a side is at bat it may be retired without all the nine players facing the pitcher. Some of them come in from the field and just sit on the sidelines, or bench as it is called, and rest and when three of their side have been put out they go onto the field again. In rugby and soccer the players are active during the whole of the playing time, but in baseball there is a lot of resting, a

PORT PERRY LADS GET INTO TROUBLE

Two Lads Come up on Charges of House Breaking

A Port Perry youth, who is under sixteen years of age got into dangerous waters by attempting the role of a house breaker and robber.

He entered the residence of Mr. H. Nasmith, who with his family is now in Florida and completely ransacked the whole place looking for valuables that were easily removable.

The lad requisitioned every old valise and bag about the place and had them packed full near the back door all ready for removal to Toronto where he proposed very likely to find a ready sale.

His footprints in the snow led to his detection and he was taken by Officer H. O. Taylor of the Provincial staff.

He had in his possession a ring containing over forty keys and had evidently got into his head that he would become proficient in business of house breaking.

He has made a confession of his wrong doing and is now awaiting the action of the court.

Another lad of the village has been summoned on a charge of pocket picking. Many complaints were recorded following the recent hockey games in the arena.

NAVAL SECRETS IN TWO LETTERS

Two Men Charged in London With Offences Against Public Safety

A remarkable story of an alleged plot to discover British naval secrets was told at the Bow street police court, London, Eng., Monday when two young men, Jeremiah Joseph O'Leary, described as a shipwright of Portsmouth, and Cyril McGough, a civil servant of London, were charged with offences under the Official Secrets Act, the former with communicating to McGough information relating to a prohibited place namely, the Haslar Dockyard at Portsmouth, and McGough with unlawfully receiving such information.

Travers Humphreys, who prosecuted for the Crown, stated that two letters were found on McGough when arrested. One bore the stamp "Irish Republican Army, Number Seven Area, Britain." It was dated January 14, was headed "Intelligence Department" and was addressed to "Intelligence Officer, Britain." The letter related to certain experiments at Haslar Dock and aboard the warship Monarch, and also contained statements relating to most important secret matters the publication of which would be prejudicial to the national safety. The other letter was a similar communication from "Number One Area, Irish Republican Army" and was dated January 11.

Documents found in O'Leary's room at Portsmouth showed that O'Leary was the writer of the first letter which was sent to McGough living in London who appeared to have acted as a sort of post office for the two men.

Rear-Admiral Hothan gave evidence that the publication of a statement in the letter in regard to a naval experimental tank at Haslar would prejudice the national safety. Mark Paine, Superintendent of the Admiralty experimental work at Haslar, said that the statements in the letter in regard to secret experiments in 1914 were substantially accurate. The accused were remanded.

THE LUCKY DOG

Bob Hampton paused, trowel in hand, as Lew Stiles drove by in his high-powered car. "There goes a lucky dog if there ever was one!" he muttered. "His father left him a million. What did my father leave me? Nothing!"

Old Turner Gill straightened up and regarded his young fellow workman quizzically. "Didn't leave you anything, eh? Well, I've worked beside old Sol Hampton many a long day when bricklaying wasn't so remunerative as it is now. I've watched you grow from a hood to manhood, and I'm here to say that your father left you things that money can't buy. He left you a name that is respected, a strong, healthy body and brains enough to use it, domestic tastes and qualities that have enabled you to contribute your share to the making of a happy home, a love of virtue and a distaste for vice that have kept you straight so far and will keep straight the rest of your days if I am not much mistaken. Besides, he left you a faith in God that will keep you to the journey's end. These things are worth more than money, Bobby.

"And let me tell you something else. A million dollars isn't all that Lew's father left him. He left him selfishness; he left him the means and the liberty to cultivate a taste for dissipation that has wrecked his health and all but wrecked his home. He left him the curses of hundreds whom he had cheated out of their earnings. Lew Stiles hasn't a real friend in the world. Ole Jem Stiles was too busy grabbing and getting to have time to make anything except a spender out of his son. Take away Lew's money and he would be nobody. Take it all in all, I consider Lew Stiles as about the unluckiest dog that ever barked at his shadow!"

CALL STRIKE ON ROYALTY

Volunteers Now Run Engineering Services at Buckingham Palace and Houses of Parliament

The electric lighting, heating and other engineering services at Buckingham Palace, the Houses of Parliament, Hampton Court and Kew Gardens, were being run by volunteers Tuesday, owing to a strike of the engineering staff of the office of works because of the unemployment of a non-union man in the eastern division.

Early yesterday 220 men struck and it was expected 900 in all would be involved later. Volunteers always nearby in cases of emergency were called on to do duty, and will keep the electricity going in the royal apartments, but with King George and Queen Mary still at Sandringham their majesties are not likely to be affected by the discontent of their subjects unless the strike is extended.

The heating furnaces in the Houses of Parliament will be closed down this afternoon.

The situation grew worse later in the day, when a mass meeting of the strikers unanimously decided not to resume work until a full settlement was reached. Other districts also voted to support the strikers.

800 SKELETONS FOUND IN A TENNESSEE CAVE

Believed to be Members of Colony That the Indians Massacred

Eight hundred skeletons, believed to be remains of a white colony massacred by the Indians about 1590, have recently been discovered in a cave near Benhams, Va.

The discovery was made by S. C. Dyer, scientist of Mohawk, Tenn. The colony came from England and landed on Roanoke Island, Va., July 22, 1587, with John White as Governor, according to history records. Virginia Dare, the first white child in America, was born there August 18, 1587.

Gov. White went back to England to obtain supplies, and on his return in 1590 found Roanoke Island abandoned. No trace of his colony was found except the word "Croatan" carved on a tree. Historians deduced from this that the colonists were either massacred or during White's absence moved to a place called "Croatan."

Some scientists believe the Indians herded the entire colony into the cave and left them there to starve.

Souvenir hunters carried away so many skulls soon after the discovery that it has been impossible for scientists to determine by measurements whether they are of Mongolian, Caucasian or Ethiopian races. There is a possibility, scientists say, the skeletons might be those of Cherokee Indians.

The number of the skeletons corresponds with the number of members of the colony, according to records in histories.

LATEST MELODRAMA BY CARTER AT ROYAL

Remember how you were thrilled last year by "The Eleventh Hour" and "The Arizona Express?"

Well, get ready to have the same pleasure in double or triple measure.

Lincoln, J. Carter, creator of thrilling super-plots, has written another one for William Fox, called "The Cyclone Rider," which will be at the Royal Theatre tonight for a three day run.

This picture is a 1925 high-speed melodrama and contains a dazzling automobile race which will set your spine a tingling and your flesh a creeping. It is a roaring race for girl and gold and Reed Howes, as Jim Kent, a young automobile racer, shows you how to step on the gas. Alma Bennett has the feminine lead.

William Bailey, villain par-excellence of the screen is seen in the role of Gordon Trask, a leader of the Underworld.

Among the things the hero is called upon to do are climbing the skeleton framework of a skyscraper, dashing madly through the city street with his racer going full speed, leaping across a ten-foot gap of water in his car to a moving ferryboat and dashing like mad under the nose of a speeding express train. In fact, every move Jim makes, would in ordinary life be considered a narrow escape from death.

Portia's father was old-fashioned

In the days of Shakespeare's famous heroine, buying and selling were contests of wits. In Venice, haggling and dickering were the vogue. Along the Rialto, sharp practice was the rule. Every purchase of silk or spices was made at the buyer's risk. One had to be a shrewd judge of values and one's fellows to escape trickery.

Portia's father—a merchant—was used to the ideas of guess, luck and accident. So much so, indeed, that it seemed natural to him to entrust the choice of his daughter's husband to three closed caskets and a lucky guess!

Nowadays, we do not transact business blindly—nor leave important decisions to chance. It is not necessary for us to gamble when we buy. Commodities are identified for us by trade-marks. Manufacturers go to the advertising columns to tell us about their products. Merchants describe their merchandise—price, quality and service.

By reading advertisements, we get a knowledge of goods and stores that we can depend on. Advertising reduces chance, in buying, to a minimum.

Do you read the advertisements in the Guide?

factor which detracts from the interest of the sport.

"It is useless, however, for us to try to adopt the American game and alter it to suit our tastes. Baseball is popular in the United States because it is played according to the wishes of the people there, and differences in nationalities are such that it is not easy for one country to adopt the peculiar sport of another and transfer with it all the fine points of the game."

No definite action was taken at a meeting last night when Joe Page, president of the Quebec-Ontario Baseball League, explained to a few enthusiasts the scheme for Peterboro's entering professional baseball. He declared $18,000 would cover the outlay for the season, expressed the opinion that a profit should be shown on this cost.

ROAD BLOCKED TO BAILIEBORO

After last week's snowing and blowing, the road gangs on the provincial highway, as well as the patrollers and men residing on the sideroads near Bailieboro, had their full share of shovelling snow. Many of the snow banks, along the road were five and six feet deep, and the snow in these banks was packed so hard that many of them would hold a team of horses and sleigh.

Many of the roads were broken through the fields alongside of the highways, while other path-masters dug the road out until it was possible to drive a team and sleigh through and break the road out.

It is scarcely likely that any cars will venture into the highway, as the snow is so deep that it would be impossible for them to get through the banks.

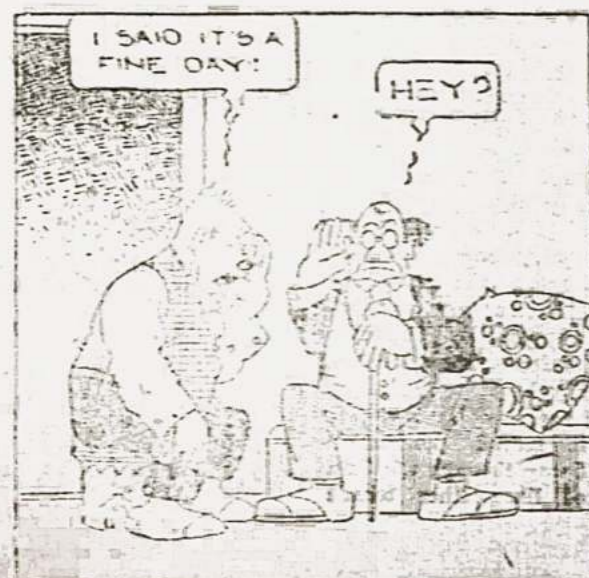

From the north there came into Toronto this week the strangest of procession, a train of 15 wolves and huskies driven by Joe Laflamme, trapper of Gogama, with two friends, one an Indian and the other a French-Canadian. Upper right, the sleigh and part of the team. Lower right, a group of the wolves and huskies.

Dent. My pride, if no better motive, will keep my honor bright."

"Your pride has not heretofore sustained you, madam. Pride goeth before a fall, and a haughty temper before destruction. I feel constrained to tell you, Juliette, that a woman whose passion has once betrayed her principle, is not secure, at least in her youth, from a second error! I speak this in warning, not in reproach."

She half started, looked at him keenly, half rose, sank down in her seat again, the blood rushed to her face, and, retreating, left it pale as marble. She had not believed he could have wounded her thus, yet she knew that extreme delicacy and tenderness formed no part of Ernest Dent's large, strong organization. At last "Traitor! dastard!" escaped between her clinched teeth. "Oh, God! how I loathe myself for ever having loved this dastard!"

"Dastard! the most provoking, the most exasperating word that a man can hear from a woman's lips. He replied:

"Loathe yourself as I now loathe you for having loved, not the man, but his rank! loathe yourself as I loathe you for having repaid benefits with ingratitude, trust with treachery! loathe yourself as I loathe you for having betrayed the confidence of your best friend and benefactress, my angel wife, Hester!"

It was now her turn to start from her seat and pace the floor with the rage of a chafed lioness. At last she, trembling, paused before him. Yet even then, in her rage, she was guiltless.

"And who led me into this? Oh! coward and traitor! Who led me into this? I was a young, unsophisticated girl; am so still—you a potent, grave and reverend scion of Heaven save the mark! A pillar in the State! And I an unwary girl, whom you should have guided into holiness, not led into sin. You said that my passion had betrayed my principle. Why had you not said our passion? Recollect yourself, Ernest Dent! Send back your thoughts to the past! If it had not been for my steadfastness of principle, where, in Heaven's name, should I have been now? No, sir! it was not you, principle, but mine, that saved us from the last degree of crime!"

They ran down the little tangled path together.

They hadn't gone far until Dicky spied a queer, tiny house, with a playground all around it, and he pulled Happy Giggles over to see it.

"Look at that lovely wigwam!" he cried excitedly. "It must have been built by some fairy. Oh, Happy Giggles, look!"

It was a pretty, neat little place, built of slender twigs.

"Look, look!" he cried excitedly, as he spied the wee gallery on the inside of the tiny cabin. "Isn't that too cunning for words? How high is the cabin, anyway? About twenty inches, shouldn't you think?"

"Just about," replied Happy Giggles. "And look at the lovely garden out in front of the door. Mr. and Mrs. Garden Bird—"

"Garden Bird!" Dicky exclaimed. Then out of the tree above them fluttered a dear little bird.

"Mr. Garden Bird, this is Dicky."

"A Bird Owner of Wigwam."

said Happy Giggles, laughing at the queer expression on Dicky's face. "Dicky is surprised to find a bird the owner of this wigwam. He thought it belonged to a fairy, you see."

"No, it belongs to my wife and me," chirped Mr. Garden Bird. "Do you like it?"

"Very much, indeed," replied Dicky. "Just the place to raise a family, I should think."

"But that's the funny part about Mr. Garden Bird and his wife," laughed the elfin. "They don't use this for their nursery. Mr. Garden Bird builds a nest for the nursery up in the very top of the tallest tree he can find. They just use this little wigwam for a playhouse."

"You see, we love the beautiful things, so that's why we build these places," chirped Mr. Garden Bird.

"Well, I'm glad I was homesick," Dicky declared, "or Happy Giggles and I never would have found this lovely little wigwam. May I come back again sometime?"

"Any time at all," replied the bird. "But I must go now, or Mother Garden Bird will be worried." Spreading his pretty wings, he sailed away into the blue sky.

Dicky looked again at the tiny, fairy-like wigwam, then he and Happy Giggles went in search of new adventure.

MUNDANE WORLD PAUSES TO HONOR AGED WOMAN

The world of affairs has paused a moment at the door of Sister Mary Rose, an aged Chicago nun, to do honor to a wrinkled little woman who 50 years ago left the world behind.

Industrial magnates, professional men, friends and sister nuns gathered at the Good Shepherd Convent in Chicago to honor Sister Rose on the occasion of her golden jubilee.

Pope Pius XI sent her an autographed prayer—a distinction reserved for the few. Bishop Hoban presented her with a silver loving cup, while ecclesiastics and former pupils showered her with gifts and congratulations.

Sister Rose entered the convent there before the Chicago fire, which destroyed the Good Shepherd Convent. Before she took the veil she was Mary Cassin of Stratford, Ont., Canada. Sister Rose was 16 years of age when she became a nun.

DENIES THAT COUNCILLORS TOOK REDUCTION IN PAY

The Peterboro Examiner Rose-nath correspondent writes:—"We wish to correct an error in the last Council report of Alhwick Township Council, where it was stated that the Councillors had reduced their salaries from $3.00 to $2.50 a sitting. This was wrong, as the resolution (to lower the salary) by Reeve Mouncey and Councillor Timlin was defeated and the old rate of $3.00 a sitting remains in force."

SHOW CHARACTER OF METAL

Sparks Enable Expert to Make Sure Determination of Steel's Hardness and Quality.

A simple method of approximate analysis of metal has been introduced in France recently, based upon the sparks emitted when the steel is pressed upon a grindstone.

Each kind of steel gives its own characteristic shower of sparks, from which a practiced eye can judge of its hardness and quality. There are three principal forms of sparks. In the first, the incandescent particle makes very fine luminous threads. In the second, the shower is decorated with a few explosions of tiny "shells." In the third, the shower is made up of these little explosions. In addition to these forms, the expert classifies the sparks by their color, red, yellow or white in a great variety of shades. The grinding is, of course, done in a dark room.

A piece of steel containing a little carbon makes straight yellow lines; as the content of carbon increases explosive sparks appear and become more numerous the more carbon there is, and the straight rays diminish in size and number. Steels with a high carbon content give a short shower of sparks, explosions taking place near the extremity and all dazzling white.

Steels containing 18 per cent tungsten give only a few dark red rays. Manganese steels give white sparks with explosions at the end and sometimes in the middle. Chrome-tungsten steel gives bright red and dark red rays alternating with the white.

THE GUIDE STORY

"Prettily conceived! God in heaven! Juliette! if you begin by calling that insult, at which you should blush, 'prettily conceived,' where will you end? What will you inspire them to call you next? The American Aspasia, probably; the American Messalina, possibly; the American Ninon, without a doubt!"

He strode up and down the room in agitation several times, and then he stood before her again. She looked at him with an audacious joy, sparkling through her dark eyes, that were purposely veiled by their long lashes, and farther to provoke him, she said, flippantly:

"By the way, how did you like my costume this evening, Colonel Dent?"

"Insolent! Your 'costume'—well, I will take patience, and answer you! I felt humiliated that any woman that bore my name should be tricked out in a gauze of gold like a tawdry actress—an actress! I do not know that an actress would have so bedecked herself."

Then, curbing his resentment, he sat down beside her. He took her hand, and talked to her as he thought her case demanded, admitting the strong fascinations her brilliant position in society must have for one like her. He warned her of the temptations and dangers that surrounded her, the snares and pit-falls in her path of life. He told her, as he could tell her, how Satan approaches the heart in the form of an angel of light, singing a song of joy, giving a promise of heaven. The very spirit of perversity and wantonness now reigned in the heart of Juliette. She cut short his eloquence with a gay laugh. His brow flushed.

"What do you mean by that, madam?"

"It is so amusing!"

Again her silvery laugh rang out upon the air.

He grew angry.

"Leave the room, Mrs. Dent!"

"When I please, sir! I remained here first for your pleasure. I remain here now for my own. If you have the bad taste to weary of my company, you are at liberty to withdraw yourself."

"What do you mean by this contemptuous conduct, madam!"

"Madam—yes. A Frenchman always calls his wife 'madam' from politeness; an Englishman or an American, never, except he be in a rage with her. Listen, Colonel Dent, Senator Dent, Envoy Extraordinary, Minister Plenipotentiary, etc., President of the Virginia Liberty Convention, Delegate to the Episcopal Synod, and Vestryman of All Saints' Parish—listen to me! When you review your troops, and talk to them of courage, patriotism and glory; when you address the Senate upon the subject of general emancipation; when you speak to the convention of equal rights; when you harangue the synod upon the unity of the faith; when you exhort the vetry upon the claims of foreign missions, you may stand some chance of gaining credit for sincerity, as well as for eloquence; but when you read your wife a lecture upon modesty, discretion and fidelity—pardon me, it is too amusing! As though King David, after the episode of Uriah's wife, had become eloquent upon the Seventh Commandment!"

"Scorn!"

"Ay, 'scorn.' I do scorn hypocrisy."

Then, changing her tone to one of haughty assurance, she said:

"But you need no fear, Colonel"

THREE CLERKS SINCE 1842

Letter Points Out the Neglect of Pioneers' Graves in This District

At the Tuesday evening meeting of the Counties Council of Northumberland and Durham held in Cobourg there were two nominated for Warden.

Reeve M. J. Elliott, Bowmanville, was nominated by Reeve C. Davidson, Campbellford, seconded by Reeve H. H. Holdaway, Port Hope.

Voting is by open ballot for this office. The first two ballots resulted in a tie—nineteen votes for each candidate, Reeve M. J. Holman Clarke, not coming in until just before the third ballot was taken. A majority of one vote gave J. L. McCamus the Wardenship for 1925, and at the request of the clerk, he retired, with his mover and seconder, took the oath of office, was invested with the official robe, and returning to the Council Chamber, was received by the members standing, and escorted to the Warden's chair.

In thanking his fellow members for the honor, which they had conferred upon him, the warden-elect expressed the sincere pleasure which he had always felt in their associations together, ever since he first became a member of the council six years ago, when ex-warden Maybee was in office. "We have not always agreed, but I have found you gentlemen upon every occasion."

The business items that would chiefly demand attention were briefly outlined, including the administration of justice, the county road system, and the share of responsibility in connection with work on the provincial highway.

The minutes being taken as read, printed copies being in the members' hands, the reading of communications followed.

A Record
It is worthy of note that there have been but three county clerks holding office since 1842—Morgan Jellett; from 1842 to 1863; D. A. MacNaughton, 1863 to 1891; and his son, Colonel Neil F. MacNaughton, from that date up to the present time. Four county treasurers have held office in the same period—Hon. Zachaeus Burnham, 1842 to 1852; Hon. Asa Burnham, 1852 to 1873, when the two offices were merged in one person, the MacNaughton, father and son, fulfilling the duties up to the present time.

Communications
The largest items in the communications referred chiefly to roads, administration of justice and schools. Three tenders were received for the printing contract, which expires on March 1st. Referred to Contingencies Committee.

Estimates for the county roads for 1925 were referred to the Finance Committee.

Communications from the Globe Indemnity Company regarding insurance protecting the counties in case of litigation in connection with accidents occurring during repairs to the roads, rates being given, was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

A communication from ex-Mayor Col. F. D. Boggs, Cobourg, asking to be appointed auditor of criminal justice accounts, was laid upon the table.

The usual yearly grant was requested by the county hospitals at Cobourg, Port Hope, and Bowmanville, and an invitation extended to visit the Cobourg hospital while the Council was in session. The first part was referred to the Finance Committee, and the invitation accepted with thanks, Wednesday afternoon being the time mentioned if convenient arrangements could be made.

Communications from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, and the Salvation Army, asking aid in their rescue work, were also referred to the Finance Committee.

The matter of granting the $300 asked by the Canadian Institute for the Blind, and the request from the Ontario Municipal Association that the annual fee of $25 for towns and cities, and $10 for villages and townships, be paid, was left with the Finance Committee.

The request from the department of forestry, that a committee of three members, holding office for ten years, be appointed by each county, was left with the County Property Committee. The names of ex-Warden W. Fowlds and Reeve Peter Haig of Haldimand Township, were suggested by the chief forester, because of proximity to the area reforested during the past year.

A communication regarding neglected cemeteries, often the burial places of many of the pioneer settlers, and yet left as an eyesore, asking the Council to take action, and pointing out the duty of the inspection and proper maintenance, was laid upon the table.

The Ontario Good Roads Association, which meets in Toronto, Feb. 25, 26 and 27, asked that delegates be appointed and the annual fees, $15 for towns and $5 for villages and townships, be paid. This was left with roads and bridges committee. The conference of the department of public highways will be held Feb. 23 and 24, with the annual banquet on Wednesday, the 26th inst, and the Council was reminded that reservations must be applied for at an early date.

The liability of the council for 25 per cent. of the total purchase price ($8,000) of the Cobourg and Port Hope Toll Road, in 1919, has not as yet been discharged, and the communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

Road Estimate
The Department of Roads and Highways gave the following as the estimate for 1925:—Roads to be paved: Bowmanville to Newcastle, 8.15 miles, $27,000 a mile, $139,050.00; Port Hope westerly, 5 miles, $135,000.00; Trenton to Brighton, 8.58 miles, $231,660.00; Cobourg to Brighton, 7 miles, $189,000.00.

For surface treatment: Peterboro to Frazerville, 2.10 miles, $900 a mile, $1,890.00; Oshawa to Bowmanville, $645.00; Cobourg to Port Hope, $580.00; Port Hope to Newcastle, $1,500.00; Welcome to Dale, $263.00. Maintenance of pavement: Port Hope to Frazerville, $100 a mile, $179,000; Grafton to Colborne, $810.00; Colborne to Brighton, $750. Snow cleaning, $250.00. Total—$703,188.00.

Protect Sheep Raisers

A communication from the clerk of Welland County asking co-operation in petitioning the government for better protection for sheep raisers who suffer severe financial loss owing to the ravages of dogs, largely from the urban localities. A deputation to be appointed if thought necessary. Referred to Legislative Committee.

Reports in schools in No. 2 District by Colonel Odell and Colonel Snider were referred to School Committee.

Other communications were read and referred to the proper committees.

Moved by Reeve W. J. Corbett, Cobourg, seconded by Reeve W. F. Elliott, of Murray Township, that the Reeves be a committee to appoint standing committees for current year. The committee retired and appointed as chairman, Reeve Thomas Baker, Darlington Township, spoken of as "the daddy of us all," now sitting under the sixteenth Warden to hold office since he first became a member of the Counties Council.

Brief addresses were made by the ex-Wardens present.

CAN. NIAGARA TO BE LIGHTED

General Electric Gets Contract to Illuminate Cataract by Electricity

The contract for the illumination of the Falls has been awarded to the Canadian General Electric Company, and the work of installation will be done under the supervision of D'Arcy Ryan of Schenectady. A board of directors of the two cities of Niagara Falls and Queen Victoria Park has been appointed.

The lights to be installed are 24 of 36-inch diameter, low intensity carbon arc searchlights, and Mr. Ryan is in Niagara Falls, Ont., to decide on the location for these units. In conjunction with the actual illumination of the Falls, color screens will be supplied with the units, so that attractive multi-colored drills may be done with the units.
