CONFLAGRATION MAY SPREAD

Village of Lakefield Menaced by Outbreak of Fire

The village of Lakefield was endangered last night by a fire that completely gutted Hill's grocery store, and was still blazing at midnight, with the firemen making frantic efforts to prevent the spread of the conflagration. Two large families, including a number of children, were rescued in their nightclothes. The building was of frame construction, and was formerly a hotel. A west wind carried sparks and blazing chips over the village, endangering a thickly built section.

L. O. D. E. ANNUAL MEETING

The Daughters of the Empire held their tenth annual meeting in the Library Hall, Friday afternoon. Annual reports were brought in by the various officers and plans for continuing the present war memorial work during the coming year were discussed.

The officers and executive for 1925 were all elected by acclamation as follows:—

Regent—Mrs. Mulholland.
1st Vice Regent—Mrs. S. C. Bennett.
2nd Vice Regent—Mrs. F. Sculthorpe.

Treasurer—Mrs. James Reid.
Secretary—Miss E. White.

Echoes Sec'y—Mrs. Daley.
Councillors—Mrs. Westaway, Mrs. H. Mitchell, Mrs. Snider, Mrs. Dore, Mrs. J. Massie, Mrs. Hughes-Charles, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Martin.

To the Members of the Col. Arthur Williams Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Ladies:—Time in its flights has winged its way, and we can hardly realize that another year is gone were we not reminded of it by our annual meeting with its reports of our year's work.

It is not my purpose to enlarge on the facts and figures presented by our efficient secretary and treasurer only in so far as they relate to the object attained by the united efforts of the Chapter. While not as active as we were during the hectic war period, we have not passed into oblivion but in our quiet, persevering way are still pushing on toward our goal, viz. our Memorial which we hope will fittingly crown our efforts. We rejoice that we are now within sight of our objective; the Parks Commission who are in full sympathy with us, have definitively promised that within a few months the rick building which has been a stumbling block to our progress will really be removed, thus enabling us to have the one and only suitable site on which to erect a proper memorial which will be a credit to our town as well as to our Chapter. As soon as the site is ready, we have the money on hand will at once proceed with the work. As to the form the memorial will take—that cannot be settled until a meeting of the citizens is held, for we shall still require the sympathetic co-operation of our townsmen who have through their contributions made this memorial possible.

Although we have in the bank over $4000.00 toward this fund, we are not at all sure, in fact we are very doubtful that this amount will be sufficient but in a case like this our word will be as good as our bond, and time will be given us to make our final payment, and by putting forth a little extra effort we can easily meet our obligations when they fall due.

The Col. Arthur Williams Chapter is not a dead or dying organization but it always springs to life when occasion demands as was demonstrated last summer when our Vanity Fair was such a decided success. True, our membership is not so large as it was last year, for various reasons, one of which was that the year-fee was increased by orders from Head Office, and some members thinking it was too high, dropped out. But we know from history as well as from our own experience that it is not always by many but by few that great things are accomplished. We have only to recall our knowledge of Bible stories, and of Gideon's little army, to see what can be done by courageous, concerted action.

This year we have devoted ourselves exclusively to work for our own memorial, but we have been reminded by our National Executive, that there are other calls upon us which as loyal daughters we must acknowledge and support, one of which is our National War Memorial, for which a special donation from every Chapter is asked, to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the I. O. D. E.

For this I think we should be prepared to make a generous donation. Our Chapter has always stood high in the honor roll of generosity toward all worthy objects while the war lasted and for long after, and I trust we will not now lag behind. We look forward to the coming year as one of renewed activity on the part of all our members; we have a fresh incentive before us, the completion of a splendid monument erected in a central park which will help to give added beauty to our already beautiful town.

In closing may I express the hope that the members of this Chapter will rise to their responsibilities this year, will come to the meetings more regu-

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Items of interest taken from the files of copies of The Guide of twenty years ago.

JANUARY 31, 1905

The residents in the vicinity of the east beach are worried at the appearance and very strange actions of a collic dog in that locality. A week ago they noticed the canine roaming about the icebergs. He is still there in the same place all cuddled up at the water's edge. Many people have visited the scene and seem to think that the dog's master has been drowned. It is indeed a very strange occurrence and is causing much comment among the citizens. The animal was without food for a week but food is now being taken to him by kind neighbors in that vicinity.

Madame Regent and Ladies:—I have pleasure in bringing for your consideration the tenth annual report of the Col. Arthur Williams Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire. The Chapter, as you know, has been held together for the purpose of carrying on the War Memorial work undertaken twenty years ago. We had hoped to see this work completed this year, but owing to the difficulty in securing the site we wanted, this has not been possible. However, we are assured by the Parks Commission that the site will be cleared and available for us this coming summer and we hope that our own finances will be in such good shape as to enable us to finish the work this year without difficulty.

The Society now has a membership of forty-six. There have been five regular, two special and one executive meetings. The regular meetings have had an average attendance of seventeen. As we had raised a large proportion of our objective by public subscriptions early in the year we thought it not wise to make many other appeals and so we have not had many entertainments to raise money. In May, Mr. G. A. Reid of the Art School, gave us an address on War Memorials. In July we enjoyed a visit from Mrs. Geo. Black, of the Yukon, who delighted us with her address on "Her life in the north country." We also had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Black socially at a reception given for her by our Regent, Mrs. Mulholland. Our tenth birthday we celebrated in August by an afternoon tea at the home of Mrs. Hughes-Charles, who kindly placed her house at our disposal for this. During the summer we discussed the plan of putting on a pageant under the direction of the John B. Rogers Co., but decided we could make more money with less expenditure by a Summer Fair in the Drill Hall, and so in September we had "Vanity Fair." Mrs. Forrest and Mrs. Charles kindly acted as Head Conveners for this and all our members, and many ladies outside the Chapter, united their efforts to make it a great success. The Fair lasted two days; the evening entertainments being given by local talent assisted by Mr. Jules Brazil. This fee added a large amount to our treasury. In November, at the request of the Mayor and Council, we took part in a Civic Reception tendered to His Excellency, The Governor General, Lord Byng of Vimy and Lady Byng. On this occasion Mrs. Reid on behalf of the Chapter presented Her Excellency with a bouquet of roses.

In order to have as large an amount as possible available for our memorial work we have not diverted our funds, and have made no grants to outside causes, except our usual ones to the Children's Aid Society, and the Salvation Army. We have had no bills to pay for maintenance in our ward in the Hospital.

We are grateful for many extra donations to our funds. Mr. Shay held a fashion show in the Opera House at

DR. PIDGEON ON CHURCH UNION

A statement received from Rev. George C. Pidgeon, Convenor of the Joint Committee on Church Union, reads as follows:—

"The strength of the United Church of Canada will be far beyond the dreams of its supporters. Out of a total of 9,259 congregations or preaching stations of the three Churches forming the United Church of Canada only 324 so far have voted non-concurrence. Of these 226 are in the Province of Ontario, which province will ultimately contain approximately 3,000 preaching stations within the United Church.

"The number of congregations voting non-concurrence in Ontario makes the loss to the United Church appear far greater than it really is. In each such congregation there is a large minority determined to go with the Presbyterian Church into Union. These include the leading workers and contributors of the congregation in most cases.

"The revolt against the Presbyterian Church is largely confined to Ontario. The reactionary element is strong in certain sections of this province, but in so far as their influence goes they are setting their province against the rest of the Dominion.

"East and West are practically a unit in favor of Church Union. Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are as emphatic in favor of a united Canada religiously as well as politically as are the West and North. No vote will be taken in the provinces of Manitoba and New Brunswick until after June 10. These sections will be as strongly in favor of the Union of the Churches as their sister provinces. Newfoundland has, as yet, no legislation.

"The vote thus far demonstrates that the United Church of Canada is already a great and Dominion-wide reality as well as a great ideal."

All of which is respectfully submitted.

St. Paul's Church choir held a social last evening in the primary classroom. After a "scrumptious" supper, they had a musical program, to which Misses Jean Dickenson and Jean Thompson and Mr. Chas. Dr. J. A. Bean, V.S., Winchester, owns a flock of 30 Barred Rock hens which during the month of December laid 558 eggs, or an average of 18.6 eggs per hen. All of the 30 birds are pullets, five of which number are June pullets. The record of eggs received during one day was 24. The above egg production, as far as known, constitutes a record for December.

Representatives from Cobourg, Belleville and Toronto have waited on the minister of provincial highways asking that the highway between Cobourg and Bowmanville be kept open for traffic, as trucks nor cars have been unable to get through since last Wednesday. One truck last week took six hours between Bowmanville and Welcome, while W. J. McDonnell took about ten hours to get through last Friday evening, having to dig his way through. It is understood that orders have since been received to open the road, but no effort seems to have been made to carry out the orders.

Radio users in Port Hope have for some time been bothered with considerable local interference, and after some investigation it has been found to have resulted from amateur broadcasting, several boys having small sets that they use for communicating with one another by means of the Morse code. It should be borne in mind by those who broadcast by any means that a license is required, and that the broadcasters are only to be used under certain conditions, so as not to spoil the receiving sets of others who enjoy the radio programs sent out by the large broadcasting stations, these being spoiled through local influences.

Time to Move

Workmen were making repairs on the wires in a Norwood schoolhouse on Saturday, when a small boy wandered in.

"What are you doing?"
"Installing an electric switch," one of the workmen said.
The boy then volunteered: "I don't care. We've moved away and I don't go to this school any more."

TUCK-SHOP AN EVIL ABOLITION DEMANDED

"The tuck-shop is an evil institution and should be done away with. No schoolboys or girls should be allowed to gorge indiscriminately at a tuck-shop."

So declared Dr. Harry Campbell, who, under the auspices of the Food Education Society, lectured on school diet at the conference of educational associations at University College.

Each pupil should have at least three ounces of butter daily. Next to codliver oil butter contained most fat. Eggs might be given once a week. Sugar was not an essential food. The body got all the necessary sugar from starch, and it should be used in moderation. No jams or sweets were permissible.

The country would gain vastly if all sweet-shops were converted into green-grocers' and fruiterers' shops. Fish, uncooked fruits, and raw salads were of great importance. Puddings and pastry of all descriptions should be barred.

A good conscience is to the soul what health is to the body: it preserves a constant ease and serenity within us.

When Victoria, the evergreen city of the West bids you welcome, which it will whenever you choose to visit the capital city of British Columbia, it will "say it with flowers," and at most unexpected times and places will present bouquets for your appreciation throughout your stay, whatever the season may be.

What an extraordinary city this is. Though very young compared with many other cities on the continent it has, no doubt through the agency of its temperate climate, drawn about itself such a mellowed atmosphere as is usually associated with more ancient places. Whatever is offensively new is given a covering or a background of foliage and flowers and it soon fits into the general scheme of things Victorian. Even down in the business and shopping districts—where there is much coming and going you will find your flowers, suspended, of all places, from brackets on the street light stands.

And yet it must not be thought that this is a city of gardeners alone although one does wonder in looking over the city and its suburbs that its citizens can find time for anything other than gardening. Those who do business do it in much the same way as it is done in other up-to-date cities of its size and, unless one happens to know them, the stores of Victoria are quite a surprise. As most of the merchandise sold comes over the cheaper water routes, tourists have found it most advantageous to shop there, to the advantage of the merchants and the city generally. On this account, as much as to take care of local requirements, large stores have evolved which may be fallen back upon if ever the sights and scenery pall.

But apart from its own immediate glories and attractions, Victoria is

SOME CORRESPONDENT

Forty years is a very long period of service in any capacity and exceptionally lengthy for a correspondent to the same newspaper and under the same chief editor. Mr. Arthur L. Pascoe, R. R. 1, Hampton, has acted as the Solina news editor for The Statesman for that long period and has requested to be released from further duty in that position, having secured a capable successor for that service. The publishers had no desire whatever to make any change and have requested Mr. Pascoe to continue on the staff as a special contributor.

The relationship is unique in another particular. Not only has Mr. Pascoe acted under one chief editor for over 40 years as correspondent, but he was a scholar at Bradley's School while the same editor was teacher in that school for four years—1871-1874. A third relationship also may be noted. Mr. Pascoe's wife is a niece of the editor and has been a valuable helpmeet, sometimes doing the writing in his absence and often helping to gather the news by telephone. It is doubtful if any other Canadian weekly newspaper can boast of a similar record. One other thing may be mentioned—that is, no community or centre has been better served during these 40 years than has Solina and district, and we hope to receive many more articles from Mr. Pascoe's versatile pen.—The Bowmanville Statesman.

ROMANCE

You often hear people refer to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when knight-errants roamed the earth to do honor to a lady's blue eyes.

These folks say we are living in an age of realism!

An age of "realism" where the human voice is hurled across the world without wires; where the temperature of Mars is taken more than thirty millions of miles away; where tons of steel and people ride easily and safely through the air or under the sea!

An age of realism! Why this is the most romantic of all ages!

The advertising columns of this paper are full of romance—of the romance of men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures for mankind.

Advertisements tell these stories, not with the romantic exaggeration of a jongleur, but with the calm, simple words of sincerity. Here is a firm that spent millions to develop a product that makes your baby comfortable. Here is a company that has labored fifty years to cut a single hour of toil from your day's work. Here is a man who has searched the Seven Seas to produce a new flavor for your dinner.

Romance—this age is full of it. Not just empty romance, but the true romance of achievement of progress, of the betterment of mankind.

Advertisements tell you what the romance of business is doing for you. Read them in the Guide.

THE GUIDE STORY

It was late in the afternoon when Juliette awoke—awoke, with a dull, heavy impression of a deep grief, for which she could not at first account. Then, as full consciousness returned, she groaned. Fanchette, who had been sitting sewing at the foot of the bed, arose and went to her.

"Do you know if Colonel Dent is in the house?"

"No, miladi; monsieur set out for Versailles about three hours ago."

"Did he leave a message, or a note?"

"No, miladi."

Juliette clasped her hands over her brow, and sighed.

"Will you rise now, miladi?"

"What is the hour?"

"Five o'clock, madam."

"Yes."

Indifferently, almost stupidly, Juliette resigned herself to the hands of her dressing-maid—the bath, and after that a strong cup of coffee somewhat restored her spirits. Throwing on a loose dressing gown, and giving directions that no one should be admitted, she passed to her boudoir, sank into a lounging chair, and bade Fanchette wheel to her side the little table upon which stood the mother-of-pearl basket that held the visiting cards, notes of invitation and some letters that had been left in the course of the morning. With these she tried to occupy herself, opening and reading each in succession, and impatiently casting them under the table. At last she gave over her occupation, and with a sigh leaned back in her chair. Fanchette was looking at her, and with more kindness than discretion ventured an attempt at comfort.

"Miladi."

Juliette replied only by lifting her languid eyelids.

"It will blow over; believe me, it will. I have seen so many of them—and if you had only seen monseigneur this morning—"

But by this time the girl had met her lady's eyes fixed upon her in haughty surprise, looking her into the eyes, into annihilation, and she stopped short, wondering at having met a mistress who would not make a confidante of her maid. One clause of the girl's speech had struck Juliette forcibly, electrifying her heart with hope—"If you had only seen monseigneur this morning." Had he relented, then? Was he, too, suffering? She was too proud to ask any questions. Upon this evening there was to be a bal costume given by Madame de Champagny at Versailles. Juliette had accepted an invitation to attend. Now she determined to keep her engagement. Colonel Dent, after the dinner, would doubtless remain to the bal. There she would find the first opportunity of meeting him; and then, too, they might ride home together. Rousing herself, she called Fanchette to attend her, and went into her dressing room. Setting aside the elegant sultana's dress she had caused to be prepared for the occasion, and sending for a plain black domino, she assumed it, took a black velvet mask, and entering her carriage that stood in readiness at the door, she was driven toward Versailles.

The festival was half over when she arrived. The company had already laid aside their masks. It was not many minutes, however, before she was discovered. Monsieur de Champagny approached her, saying:

"You must pardon me for not having recognized you before, dear lady, for, in truth, I have not seen any eclipse of the sun foretold for today."

Without noticing the flattery, Juliette said: "I will tax your kindness, monsieur, to ascertain whether Colonel Dent is in the room."

"He is not, madam. Immediately after dinner he set out on his return to Paris."

"Then, monsieur, shall I trouble you to have my carriage called?"

With a bow, he retired to do her bidding. In a few minutes Juliette was driven along the road leading from Versailles to Paris. It was near the dawn of day when she arrived.

"Where is Colonel Dent?"

"Retired to rest, madam."

She sought her own chamber. He was not there.

"Where is he, Fanchette?"

"On a couch in his dressing-room, madam."

She hurried thither—the door was closed. She tried the lock; it was fastened on the inside. And then, overwrought by the fatigue, suspense and disappointment, the torture of the day, she sank down at the outside of the door and wept, that haughty woman! like a heart-broken child.

Presently Fanchette came looking for her, and assisted her to bed. Exhausted with bodily fatigue and mental anxiety, Juliette sank into a deep sleep—a natural sleep—from which she awoke late in the day, refreshed. Her bell summoned her maid, who soon entered. Juliette did not ask now, as upon the preceding day, "Where is Colonel Dent?" Nevertheless, the girl took upon herself to inform her. "He is gone, miladi, off post-haste to Versailles this morning. Don't mind him, madam. There ain't no of them worth minding. Have your bath, and look charming in the saloon of the Empress to-day."

I have to live up to my name and bloom early in the Spring. Otherwise I'm afraid they'd change my name."

"And may I ask what that may be?" Dotty bowed politely. "My name is Dotty."

"And mine is Wake-Robin," replied the white flower. "Some folks call me Dwarf Wake-Robin, so you see I have to push my way up through the snows to deserve that title. But it's worth it. I love to hear folks say, 'Well, the Wake-Robins are in bloom and our merry songsters will soon follow.' You see, after the long, almost silent winter, I guess they are glad to welcome Spring time again. And when they see me smiling on the cold ground, they know that Spring is here and Summer will soon follow. So now you see I must be an early riser to hold that title."

"Well, I guess you are in plenty of time this Spring," laughed Dotty. "For I haven't seen a Robin as yet. They always come hopping around in March, you know."

"Indeed, I do know they come in March," laughed the white blossom. "That's why you can always find my relatives in bloom in March. We make it a rule to be the first to welcome Mr. Robin and his family. I'll tell you something else, I'll bet you didn't know, when we stop blooming some time the last of May, you'll find I have the dearest little seed pods you ever saw, a three-lobed, reddish berry, just about a half inch in diameter. That is if folks don't come around and pick all my blossoms. I like to have some berries left so I can feed the birds."

"Well, I won't pick your white blossoms," laughed Dotty. "I'm going to come back and see those pretty berries, but I must be on my way now. I hope we don't have any more snow."

"I hope so, too," agreed Miss Dwarf Wake-Robin. "For I'm just as hungry to hear old Robin Redbreast's merry song as you are," and she waved her white blossom goodbye as Dotty ran down the road to the school house.

DOTTY DISCOVERS AN EARLY RISER

WHEN Dotty spied the one pure, white blossom, pecking out from between three green leaves, she nearly jumped out of her shoes with glee.

It was the first little blossom she had seen since the Winter's snows had covered the ground.

"Oh, you dear, brave little blossom!" Dotty cried, falling down on her knees beside it. "Aren't you cold this frisky-frosty morning? My, but you did get up early. Why, yes, terday you would have had to push up through the snow. I'd just give the —"

"The First to Welcome."

"Wait a second, wait a second," laughed the wee blossom. "Be careful what you offer, until you learn who I am."

"That's just what I was going to wish, that I knew your name," laughed Dotty. "But isn't it too early for you to be above-ground? I should think you'd freeze, blooming so early."

"Gracious, no; I may look delicate, but I'm strong and hearty," laughed the pretty white blossom. "You see,

A quartet of the world's greatest organists—From left to right above are: Maro Enrico Bossi, the great Italian organist; Mlle. Nadia Boulanger, great woman master of the instrument; Charles M. Couprain, Belgian master; and Marcel Dupre, great French organist. M. Dupre played in Toronto recently. They all met by chance at the organ console in the Wanamaker store, Philadelphia. Mlle. Boulanger is making her first visit to America.

"The Enemy Sex," James Cruze latest production for Paramount, coming to the Royal for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has one of the strongest casts which has ever been directed by the man who made "The Covered Wagon."

Betty Compson's role of "Dodo" Baxter brings together an actress and a part remarkably well suited to each other. "Dodo" Baxter is a girl who goes to New York armed with beauty and wit. She disturbs the equanimity of New York's smart set and teaches a number of the male members that money does not buy everything. The part is ideally suited to Betty Compson. Contrasting with the tragic character she portrayed in her recent Joseph Henabery production for Paramount, "The Stranger," the role she plays in "The Enemy Sex" is all merriment and fire.

The supporting cast is headed by Percy Marmont, Kathryn Williams, Huntly Gordon and De Witt Jennings.

As a special treat for "first night" patrons, the management have engaged Stagg's orchestra to provide the music on Monday. This talented organization is deservedly popular with local theatregoers and the up-to-date music they play so well is entirely suitable for a comedy-drama like "The Enemy Sex."

GIRL'S LIP LANGUAGE IN NOISY FACTORIES

A correspondent of the London Mail describes the remarkable feats of Lancashire mill girls in the silent language.

In the rattle of the weaving shed and the drone of the spinning rooms it is impossible to hear the spoken word unless shouted in the ear. The factory hand, however, relieves the monotony of mechanical labor by exchanging gossip across the weaving shed or over the spindles by talking with a silent movement of her lips.

Attracting the attention of a friend by a drawn-out "S-s-s-s," distinctly heard above the drone of the machinery, the weaver or spinner "talks" rapidly and confidentially with her lips. So expert are these women and girls that they can carry on a silent conversation over a considerable distance.

The art of lip-speaking is also practised in Lancashire homes when members of a family desire to keep secret their frank comments on other members.

SWEETUM FACES MANY CHARGES

Alleged Fraudulent Schemes Said to Involve Over $2,000

Facing 17 charges of fraud said to involve from $2,000 to $2,000, John Sweetum appeared in Toronto court of general sessions Thursday before Judge Denton, and a jury. According to the charges, Sweetum forged the names of Andrew Muscovitz and Sam Pernovitz upon postoffice receipts and upon checks of the Bank of Montreal and Toronto.

Sweetum was also charged with having obtained money by fraudulent practices in Port Hope some time ago, and local witnesses were employed in the Toronto courts at the preliminary hearing.

Discretion is the perfection of reason, and a guide to us in all the duties of life.

Casual thoughts are sometimes of great value. One of these may prove the key to open for us a yet unknown apartment in the palace of truth, or a yet unexplored tract in the paradise of sentiment that environs it.

SPORTING SKITS

HOCKEY

Trenton Downs Oshawa and Clinches the Group
The curtain was dropped on Intermediate O.H.A. hockey in Oshawa last night when the puck-chasers from Trenton went to Oshawa to play Ed. Donald's green-swattered crew, and by grabbing off a 6 to 2 win are champions of the group.

Trenton scored the first goal as a result of a scrimmage, which was the only score of the period. Oshawa evened it up at the start of the second, but the visitors bulged the nets for two more before the bell rang for the second rest, making the score Trenton 3, Oshawa 1.
In the final twenty minutes Trenton outscored Oshawa 3 to 1, and the score at the end of the game was: Trenton 6, Oshawa 2.

Schensel, right wing, and Bowen in goal were best for Trenton, while Houck and Rowden starred for Oshawa.

Trenton—Goal, Bowen; defence, Anderson and Burns; centre, Shoniker; wings, Schensel and Wells; subs, O'Rourke and Blakely.
Oshawa—Goal, D. Smith; defence, Clarke and Palmer; centre, Houck; wings, Rowden and Stevens; subs, J. Smith and Morris.

Referee—D. A. Lowrey, Toronto.

Final Group Standing

The standing of the Intermediate group, including last night's game, is as follows:—

	Won.	Lost.	For.	Agst.
Trenton	9	1	34	24
Port Hope	7	2	54	25
Oshawa	5	4	34	28
Whitby	4	6	35	50
Bowmanville	4	6	24	38
Cobourg	0	10	7	23

Are We Downhearted?—No! Trenton's win last night puts Port Hope definitely out of the running for the group.

We still have some hope for hockey laurels this year. The locals have entered the consolation series with Belleville and Bowmanville, and if they show the same class displayed in the O.H.A. group, they will go far in the new series.

Representatives from Bowmanville and Belleville will meet with the local Intermediate team officers Monday afternoon at two o'clock in the Queen's Hotel. Matters pertaining to the Consolation series will be discussed.

Monday's Game Cancelled

Notice was received this morning by the Secretary, that Oshawa will not play here on Monday night. This is a big disappointment to the local fans.

Midnights Trim Bankers 4-2

The merry and mysterious Midnights put up a wonderful struggle against the Pen Pushers Thursday night and issued victorious with the big end of a 4-2 score.

The Bankers were in tip-top shape and were strong opposition for the Midnights, scoring two goals in the first period and blanking the Sande's aggregation. In the second period Wilson, Meeking and Jones pressed hard, and tucked the rubber behind Bradley for four goals.

Wright and Lawrence starred for the Short-Changers, Wilson and Meeking for the Midnights. Coach H. Collins promises to have the Bankers in shape for a real come back in the return game. The line-ups:—

Midnights	Position	Bankers
McMahon	Goal	O. Bradley
Nelson	R. Defence	McCannell
Sanders	L. Defence	Horgan
Meeking	Centre	Hancock
Wilson	R. Wing	Lawrence
Jones	L. Wing	Wright
Taylor, Travin	subs	Bradley, Tozer

The Taxis Boys and Midnights will provide the entertainment in the six to seven game Tuesday night.

Special trains seem to be unlucky! Monday night the locals took a special train to Trenton and lost out—Wednesday night Bowmanville Juniors went to Cobourg in a special and lost their first game of the series.

The High School team are having numerous practices to get into shape for their next game in the Inter-scholastic series.

Reds Tie With Whites

The Reds and Whites tussled for supremacy for an hour at the rink this morning, but the game ended in a tie with 1 goal for each team. There were a great many off-sides, but the play was generally good and fast.

A fine trophy was presented to this league by Spalding Co., which is put up for annual competition. When a team wins it three times, it becomes their property.

The first games are to be between Oshawa and Orono and Cobourg and Port Hope on May 25.

CURLING

Peterboro curling club's open bonspiel will open on Tuesday, Feb. 3. Four trophies are up for competition, with valuable individual prizes. It is expected some curlers will go from here.

HIGHER SUICIDE RATE AMONG MIXED PEOPLE

Lowest Found in Ireland—General Trend Upward During Century

It has long been recognized that the suicide rate is higher among the Nordic race than among Alpine or Mediterranean peoples. Mixed peoples usually have a higher rate than either of the pure races to which they belong. Foreigners in New York, for instance, show a higher suicide rate than in the countries from which they came.

The lowest rate is found in Ireland and the highest in Saxony, while the rate varies in different parts of France according to the racial composition of the population.

Among Asiatic peoples the Japanese and Chinese rates are high, while in India it is low (4.8 per 100,000). India appears to be the only country where female suicides exceed the male.

The general trend of suicide rates has been upward during the last century, but the higher rates tend to become stabilized. Germany, France, Denmark and Sweden have high rates; Britain, Norway and the Netherlands low rates.

REMEMBER THE BIRDS

Remember the birds! Also remember that the same howling winds that cause you to turn up your coat collar make it practically impossible at this time of the year for these feathered friends to obtain much food. Ground that is frozen and barren, shrubbery that is bare of berries, and bird baths, and pools that are now firm ice offer little in the way of food or drink for these associates who spread their song so cheerfully. Why not scatter a few bread crumbs in some sheltered spot in the yard? Why not set out a pan of water, now and then? A piece of sari tied to a shrub would be welcome. You will feel amply repaid when you see the little fellows feast on your refreshment. Remember the birds!

Every man rejoices twice when he has a partner of his joy.

Quick is the succession of human events; the cares of to-day are seldom the cares of to-morrow, and when we lie down at night, we may safely say to most of our troubles: Ye have done your worst, and we shall meet no more.

Do not be over fond of anything or consider that for your interest which makes you break your word, quit your modesty, or inclines you to any practice which will not bear the light, or look the world in the face.

OLD TIME DANCE FOR BAND

Port Hope Citizens Band Made Additional Money for Uniform Fund

Both Bandmen and those, who attended their old time dance in the Town Hall last night were much pleased with the success of the evening.

Everybody had a jolly time and enjoyed the excellent repasts served during the evening.

It was a profitable event for the band and they hope to provide another night's entertainment for their good and the enjoyment of those who like to trip the light fantastic.

Brains are Shrinking.—Sir Arthur Keith, president of the Anthropological Institute, declares the human brain is growing smaller and he, for one, is glad of it because less intellect gives a man a better chance at happiness. Besides, he says, we don't need it. The brain of primitive man, Keith explained, was bigger than that of man today. Man's brain, throughout the ages, has been gradually getting smaller. It may be that nature, economizing, found that dispensing with quantity, she could improve on quality.
