Cars Wrecked When Head-on Collision Occurs—Injuries Serious

Two cars are total wrecks and several people are under the care of a physician with serious injuries as the result of an accident at nine o'clock Tuesday morning a short distance west of Newcastle. The accident occurred when Joe Sheehan of Bowmanville, driving east in a light touring car, owned by L. Broadworth, turned out to pass a car and crashed head on into a large Dodge sedan, driven by Thomas McLary, 101 Washington ave., Collingswood, N.J. Sheehan is suffering from severe cuts about the head and Broadworth and a third occupant of the car, Harold Carpenter, are suffering from shock and bruises. McLary sustained two broken ribs and his wife and two small children are severely bruised and shaken up. The cars were taken to a Bowmanville garage. Further developments are expected.

BREAD MUST BE WRAPPED

Health Officials Declare That All Bakers Must Protect Public

The wrapping of all bread sold in Ontario will be compelled by the Department of Health, under Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, just as soon as a suitable paper for such purpose can be devised by the department.

That time, it is understood, is not far distant. Officials of the Trent Institute of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph have been experimenting for some time on this matter, and have just about produced a wrapping that will meet all sanitary requirements, and at the same time effect no change in the taste of the bread, mildew it, or render it less nutritious.

Dr. Godfrey believes that in the interests of public health "wrapped bread" must come. Some concerns are wrapping now. Others will have to fall in line, he says. Dirty hands, he states emphatically, have no business in contact with the table loaf. Proper wrapping is the only means of preventing contamination.

The general feeling among health officials is that the bakers' present margin of profit on bread is sufficient to take care of any increased cost of wrapping without boosting prices to the consumer.

GREAT MYSTERY

PICTURE TONIGHT

All the puzzlement and thrills of a fine detective story, with the added realism of seeing it instead of merely reading it, will be enjoyed by Port Hope theatregoers tonight, tomorrow and Saturday, when the feature attraction at the Royal Theatre will be "Alias the Lone Wolf", based on one of the popular books by Louis Joseph Vance, with Bert Lytell and Lois Wilson in the leading roles. It is exceptionally good week-end entertainment, high-class yet full of action. The last episode of the serial and a special comedy said to be a real scream complete the bill.

OSHAWA AND PORT HOPE BATTLE TO 6-6 DRAW IN EIGHT INNINGS

Wakely, Youthful Southpaw, Saves Locals After Brockenshire Was Driven From Box in Fifth Inning—Owing to Dark- ness Game Called at End of Eighth

Port Hope and Oshawa intermediates battled to a 6-6 draw in an Oshawa district intermediate baseball tilt at the Town Park here on Wednesday evening. Owing to darkness, umpire Rowden called the game at the end of the eighth. The fixture was carded for Saturday afternoon but was called off owing to rain and was played here Wednesday.

Brockenshire took up the mound for Port Hope but after the session in the fifth retired in favor of Wakely, youthful southpaw, who held the visitors in check and permitted one run. Brockenshire was touched up for six hits and he issued two walks. He struck out four batsmen.

The locals nicked Petre, the Oshawa twirler for thirteen safeties. Devine led the parade with three hits, one being a double and Hutchings bagged a scorching triple and Boyd also had a double to his credit. Keller did some good work with the stick for the Motor City aggregation and secured three safeties.

The Ontarios took some time to get to Petre and only one hit was registered up to the third innings. In order to win games, practice is needed and although the locals play good ball in spots, considerable practice is needed for consistent ball.

Oshawa opened the scoring in the second innings. Elliott started off with a hit to left and counted on Creamer's single to the same section. In the fourth the visitors added another on Elliott's slashing triple to right field and he crossed the plate on a wild pitch.

The Ontarios opened their scoring in the fourth. Hutchings walked and Boyd doubled to left counting Hutchings. Curtis dropped a Texas leaguer back of short and Boyd scored. Haskill connected for a hit thru second and Mitchell lined to Keller at second who doubled Ware who ran for Curtis, off the bag. Devine connected for a nice two bagger to left field sending Haskill home.

In the fifth frame the Ontario's scored another marker after two runners had been retired. Hutchings singled though centre, stole second and scored on Boyd's two base clot.

Brockenshire allowed two hits in the fifth and also made an error and Wakely was sent in to stem the onslaught. The visitors touched him up for a run in the seventh making the count read Oshawa 6—Port Hope 4.

Darkness was approaching rapidly and the locals came across with the two tying counters in the eighth. Curtis singled and went to second on a balk. Haskill and Mitchell were retired and Port Hope's chances looked none too bright. Devine singled and stole second. Len Wakeley saved his own game at this juncture, when he slammed a two-bagger to left field, scoring Curtis and Devine. A golden opportunity to win the game was presented when Graham strolled and Ware was hit by a pitched ball but Hutchings lined to first for the final out.

In the last half of the eighth Wakely got himself into hot water when Keller and Creamer, a former Port Hope boy, hit in succession. Wakely settled down and struck out Pellow, Petre and Stacy in succession, a worthy achievement.

As darkness was falling rapidly the game was called and will be replayed at a later date.

POLICE COURT

Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell reserved judgment in the reckless driving charge laid against J. B. Bartram of Toronto. The case came up for a preliminary hearing on July 12th and was adjourned until this afternoon in local police court. Accused was represented by J. B. McColl of Cobourg.

Mr. Bartram told that he was driving on the Provincial Highway west of here. After proceeding up Rose Hill, he saw two cars and a truck ahead of him. He stated that there was a clear view and pulled into line ahead of the other cars. He was stopped by H. T. O. Hallick who, in the first trial claimed he was forced off the road. Miss Grace Fairbrother corroborated Mr. Bartram's evidence.

Decision was reserved for a week.

CORRESPONDENCE

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor.
Consideration has been given to School Areas by placing Traffic Signs in different places. Two of our local Churches being on Walton street and holding morning and evening services on Sundays, could not some means of detouring the traffic (especially trucks and motorcycles) be employed for the short space of an hour or two. Courteous local drivers and tourists would have that much respect and overlook a little inconvenience and possibly an extra nickel's worth of gas and it might be sufficient punishment to brand others as the opposite variety. Heavy traffic could be detoured at the ends of the town by means of warning signs.
Respectfully

INCREASE IN APPLE YIELD

Twelve Per Cent Advance Over Last Year Indicated in Canada

Canada's commercial apple crop points to an increased production of 12 per cent for this year, with 3,157,360 barrels, compared with 2,810,600 barrels in 1927, according to an estimate made in Report No. 2, issued by the Dominion Fruit Branch at Ottawa. Despite this substantial increase the majority of the apple-growing provinces report a lower yield than last year. The advance is due to the remarkable crop promised by British Columbia orchards, where an estimated production of 1,483,200 barrels over last year's 1,079,500 barrels is indicated. The Eastern commercial districts all report a heavy June drop and reduced yields.

The commercial apple crop in Ontario is now estimated at 664,219 barrels, compared with 673,500 in 1927, showing a decrease of approximately 2 per cent. Early varieties such as Duchess, Wealthy, Wolf River and Alexander are heavy throughout the Province, while winter varieties, notably Spies, MacIntosh and Starks, are light. Excessive rains have made it difficult for regular spraying operations, with the result that scab is spreading rapidly.

The Western Ontario crop promises an increase of 10 per cent over last year, or approximately 430,000 barrels, compared with 391,030 in 1927. The commercial estimate in barrels by districts, with the 1927 figures in parentheses, and followed in each case by the leading varieties for the district, is as follows: Burlington, 105,600 (84,500); Greening King, Blenheim, Snow; Niagara, 95,300 (95,300); Duchess, Greening, Norfolk, 40,000 (40,000); Duchess, Spy, Snow Tolman; Elgin and Oxford, 53,100 (50,600); Duchess, Wealthy; Essex and Kent, 11,000 (11,000); Duchess, Greening, Wagner; Middlesex, 21,180 (35,300); Duchess, Wealthy, Greening, King; Lambton, 15,400 (12,300); Duchess, Wealthy, MacIntosh, Snow, Russet, King, Ben Davis; Huron, 9,000 (9,000); no report; Georgian Bay, 79,500 (53,000); Duchess, Spy, Russet, Wagner, Ben Davis. The indications are that Duchess and Wealthy are heavy in all Districts, and Spy and MacIntosh light. Quality will probably vary greatly owing to infestations of scab.

Eastern Ontario
The Eastern Ontario Crop is reported as reduced by 18 per cent with a yield of approximately 234,130 barrels, compared with 282,470 in 1927. Wet, cool weather is held responsible for the poor set of fruit, and the resultant much heavier June drop. The estimate for July, by districts, with the 1927 figures in parentheses, is as follows: Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, 32,060 (42,750); Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne, 73,060 (73,060); Brighton, 20,800 (29,720); Trenton, Belleville, 62,840 (89,780); Prince Edward, 27,780 (37,160); St. Lawrence, Ottawa Valley, 17,500 (10,000).

Nova Scotia prospects are reported as being not so good as the blossom indicated. June drop has been heavy, and is not yet over, making an accurate estimate difficult. A decrease of 4 per cent is looked for, however, with a crop of 886,550 barrels compared with 925,500 in 1927. In British Columbia, however, orchardists are rejoicing in an anticipated increase of 38 per cent over last year. The crop is estimated at 4,449,600 boxes, compared with 3,238,500 boxes in 1927. The June drop is over, and thinning is practically completed. Irrigation water is plentiful everywhere, and excessive moisture is causing a rather rapid spread of scab.

New Brunswick estimates indicate a decrease this year of 20 per cent and Quebec crops promise a yield a little more than 3 per cent less than in 1927. "Fair" is the dominant note struck in the British apple crop estimates, and according to the United States estimates a yield of about a third more than last year is expected in the country.

SISTERS MEET AFTER 18 YEARS

Both Left England and Came To Canada Some Time Ago

In June, 1911, Mary Maud Forrest and Ellen Forrest of Custom House, East London, England, parted at the docks, and in Port Hope, Ontario, on July 16th, 1928 they met again not having seen one another in the span of years between, the former now Mrs. B. Salerni, Dept Harbor, near Parry Sound, and the latter, Mrs. Wm. Woodlock, Shuter Street.

Miss Maud Forrest arrived in Canada in June, 1911, and went to visit an aunt in Haliburton. In November of the same year she married and went to the United States, where in 1912 her only son Francesco was born. While there her letters home seem to have got lost and hence she lost track of her sister during her sojourn in the United States.

In the meantime her sister, Ellen married William Woodlock and with him in 1913, came to Ottawa, Canada, where for a time they resided with his brother, Mr. Harry Woodlock. After Mr. Woodlock went overseas with the 77th from Ottawa she went to Haliburton where she resided with her uncles. On the return of her husband from the war she came to Port Hope where they have resided ever since.

Recently when Father V. Gilgoly, parish priest at Kinnmount, was conducting a fashionable wedding at Parry Sound, Mrs. B. Salerni, enquired of him as to the whereabouts of her sister, of whom she had last heard at Haliburton (which is close to his parish), and he told her that Ellen was in Port Hope and on writing June 5, found that her information was correct so came here last Monday, to find with surprise and delight that her sister has a little four year old daughter.

They both have rejoiced exceedingly in this happy reunion and have resolved not to lose track of each other again.

At home in England they have a brother and sister, James Forrest, who has one daughter Grace and a sister Norah, Mrs. John Cluny who has three sons ranging in ages from 4 to 8 years. There may be a day when they'll have a family reunion which will possibly have more thrill than the meeting of the two sisters. It is something for them all to look forward to.

THE ART OF ENTERTAINING

The gentle art of entertaining has received a hard crack through the innovations of modern society. Existing conditions have put a crimp in hospitality as it was understood a few years ago.

Some of the hostesses in larger centres are having trouble with uninvited guests. Recently a well-known Englishwoman is said to have encountered three hundred people at one of her receptions not one of whom she knew. And one is fairly safe in assuming that not one of these had been invited.

The same is true elsewhere, on a smaller scale. Time was when an invitation to any sort of function held in the home was a delicate compliment. To be asked to a dance, a card party, or the more intimate delights of a dinner shared by congenial spirits, was a much-appreciated social attention—one that was "accepted with pleasure." But changed conditions of life have upset many of the old traditions that made entertaining a fine art.

The demand for smaller homes and the difficulties of domestic service have transferred many social activities to the club or the hotel. The personal element is largely eliminated and invitations lack the touch of intimacy that was associated with entertainments within the home. Motoring has likewise put with the old ideas of hospitable relations of guest further apart.

It is all part of the times in which we live. One must regret the appearance of so many of the traditions of another day, but it may be that there are compensations—if we can but see them.—Kitchen Record.

THE GUIDE STORY

It was all one huge, hideous mistake, this horrible society of which he was a sworn-in member. The other members were men with whom he had, strange to say, but the scantiest sympathy—men, illiterate some of them, ambitious and self-seeking others of them, not one to whom he could give his hand in true fellowship, not one spirit kindred with his own among the thirty-five whom he knew by sight and name in Paris.

The president alone had touched his heart by his eloquence and enthusiasm, his burning tirades against injustice, his championship of the weak and the oppressed against the strong and the oppressors.

But since that night when the said president had seemed to thirst for the lives of the innocent school-girls who had intruded into the house, using unconsciously the watchword of the society, "We have lost the way"—since that night Louis had hated the despot whom he had sworn to obey.

If only without dishonor he could shake himself free of those accursed shackles—if he could go to America—to England—if only he could do that and change his name, and hide. Would it be possible? He had made a mistake; he had joined a society with the noblest intentions, and he found himself more powerless than he had been before to help the cause of humanity.

"Surely secret societies are evil things," he said to himself, "and I was little more than a lad when I joined this one. The world is just as evil as he paints it, the wrongs and injustices are as deep, but his society does nothing to set these right. Murder and vengeance are not the guiding stars to prosperity and happiness. I have never had a duty given to me since I have joined these men until they gave me a murder as my task, and I dare not even speak my thoughts, or I am judged as a traitor to my oath."

He buried his face in his hands, and while he longed for anything that would snap the chain that bound him, yet his youth, and strength, and the genius, and the power that was in him, shrank from the idea of death.

Meanwhile, was Hesperus the president, or not? That was the question that tortured him, and almost seemed as if it would drive him mad.

Vesta, too! What a look there had been in her eyes that afternoon; but he had seen that light in them before.

CHAPTER XII

The Count de Costa was an Italian noble who had married a very wealthy South American lady with a great fortune in silver mines.

The count belonged to one of the oldest, noblest of Venetian families, and the prestige of his rank, joined to the immense wealth of his wife, would have secured him a position in the upper circles of any capital in Europe.

Republican Paris then opened her arms to him, and in return he established himself in a house that might be termed a palace in the Champs Elysees, and gave fetes that royalty might have envied.

To the Villa Costa, to a ball, the finest and one of the last of the winter season, the Earl and Countess of Glendinning set forth, accompanied by their talented, if somewhat eccentric, son and heir. Eccentric, that is, inasmuch as he had astonished his parents by thinking his own thoughts, and casting off many of the trammels they would have imposed upon him.

The Earl of Glendinning was one of the haughtiest of Englishmen, an ideal type that does not, perhaps, flourish so strongly as its prototype did some sixty years since, but that still exists in strength and prosperity, and has a grace all its own that many persons admire and honor.

A handsome, fair man, upright, stately, with classical features, proud blue eyes, and a mouth which told of pride. He knew the necessity of gold to keep up the honor and dignity of an old title, and he was anxious that his son should secure the fortune of the Russian lady.

The said lady was handsome enough, haughty enough, clever enough to please even him; indeed, the

CANCER NOT A GERM DISEASE

U. S. and English Physicians Arrive Independently at Same Conclusion

Theories announced by a United States specialist at the British Empire Cancer Conference were held Wednesday to directly challenge the contention of Gye and Barnard three years ago that cancer was caused by a living external virus. These new views have already awakened an interest in the press akin to that bestowed upon those of the two English investigators.

In addition to the declaration of Dr. James Ewing, of Cornell, against microbe theories, special prominence was given in yesterday's newspapers to a paper submitted by Dr. James B. Murphy, of the Rockefeller Institute, New York.

Dr. Murphy stated that it was his conviction that cancer was not caused by a virus but by a ferment in the tissues. In other words, it was produced within the body and not by an outside agent.

Dr. Murphy announced that in cooperation with his fellow workers he had been able to extract a growth-producing substance from tumors in chickens and to further show that this substance exists normally in the tissues of those birds. This substance is an enzyme or ferment which Dr. Murphy was able to extract by an electrical process.

Dr. Archibald Leitch, of London, whose experiments were made independently of Murphy's and led to similar results discussed the American's paper before the conference. He contended that the aforesaid growth-producing substance apparently exists in many normal tissues of the body.

Dr. Leitch further stated that in healing wounds, nature produces a rapid growth which bears some resemblance to cancer, but that when the wound is healed the growth stops. This, he said, must lead to a study of the question of the healing of wounds. His inference was that besides possessing a growth-producing substance nature also possesses growth-preventing substances. He claimed that this latest discovery had destroyed the contention of Gye and Barnard.

The Times said: "A new principle has been demonstrated and a new vista in biology opened to view. The work of Dr. Murphy and Dr. Leitch carries the study of cancer on what may prove to be a long step forward."

The Daily Sketch said that Dr. Gye was preparing a detailed reply to the criticisms of the present conference and to criticisms of the last thirty years. He will claim that his recent work consolidated beyond assault the positions that he had and Barnard took.

The Oil of the People—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Its sterling qualities have brought it to the front and kept it there, and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

RADIO QUESTION TO BE STUDIED

Government Commission Will Go Abroad—National System Will be Examined

When a commission to inquire into the whole question of radio broadcasting is appointed it will not only investigate conditions in Canada, but as well go to Great Britain and France to inquire as to how the national system of broadcasting works there. Nationalization in Canada is one of the ideas. First step, however, will be to sound out the provinces and their attitude. Particular interest seems to be displayed in the west more than in the east.

As to relative federal and provincial rights over radio, the position is somewhat obscure. No such thing as radio was dreamed of when the constitution was enacted. Anything, however, is possible by mutual agreement.

As to the position of the commission, there is yet no definite idea, but it will consist of three members, one from the Maritime, one from the central provinces and one from the west. Its purpose will be to advise before the session of parliament as to what form the control of broadcasting recognized as a necessity should take.

BRINGING UP FATHER—

400,000 WORDS IN DICTIONARY

New Edition to Oxford Dictionary Has 3,000,000 Quotations

The completion of Oxford English Dictionary after seventy years' labor termed by Premier Stanley Baldwin the greatest work of its kind in history, was the occasion of a notable dinner given by the Company of Goldsmiths in London recently to the editors and staff of the dictionary. Outstanding among the workers was Prof. Sir William A. Craigie of Oxford, knighted by the King for his work. The Company of Goldsmiths financed the sixth volume.

Premier Baldwin pointed out the immensity of the work in his address which was the feature of the affair.

It comprises 15,000 pages, 400,000 words and 3,000,000 quotations.

"Prof. Craigie has indeed stood by and helped to rock at the cradle of our tongue, and has listened to the alliterative babbling of our ancestors in the nursery," the premier said. "He has watched that tongue through the ages, in its births, its marriages and its deaths, and in its associations with foreign countries and he has brought it up to the time when, as we have known it for long, it is the most efficient instrument that has ever been used by the tongue of man."

"What was the genesis of this great work? It was to record and establish for all time the manifold riches of the English tongue. It was that desire that led a small group of my men to lay the foundations of that structure whose completion we are celebrating tonight. It is half a century now since Dr. Murray had his first interview with the delegates of the Clarendon Press."

Lord Oxford not long ago said that he would choose the forty volumes of Balzac, if he were cast away on a desert island, and could only choose one work. It would be the dictionary every time. It is a work of endless fascination. It is true that I have not read it—perhaps I never shall—but that does not mean that I do not often go to it."

Prof. Craigie recalled a similar occasion more than 30 years ago when, in the hall of Queen's College at Oxford, there was gathered a goodly company of those who had helped in the beginning of the Dictionary. He was the infant of the party—a child of three months—so far as the Dictionary was concerned and he felt himself very new and insignificant compared to the veterans then present, including the grandfather of the whole, Dr. Furnivall, who even then had been connected with the work for forty years, and the immediate parent of the Dictionary, Dr. Murray, who had been the main guide of its fortunes for nearly twenty years.

"It might be thought that after 70 years of such work very little would remain for the English lexicographer to do," said Prof. Craigie, "but that is very far from being the case. The English language, even in the past, to say nothing of the present and the future, is too vast, too rich, to be mastered by the labors of a single age. Each of the periods into which it might naturally be divided still call for closer study and fuller illustration."

OLD 'OGOPOGO' NOTICED AGAIN

Waters of Okanagan Lake Disturbed by Large Monster

The Ogo-pogo mysterious monster, which inhabits Okanagan Lake is again in evidence. During the summer of 1926, it made frequent appearances always while the weather was hot. Last year, a cool summer, it was seen but seldom. On Friday, July 13th, about 5 a.m., the Robbin Patrol of Girl Guides and Miss L. Price, nurse of the 22nd I.O.D.E. Girl Guides, had a good view of the monster which was disporting itself in Otter Bay.

The lake was very calm at the time and Miss Price, who was sitting on the beach, observed a motion in the water north of the camp. In a few minutes a long creature swam swiftly from the rocky points across the bay in a southerly direction.

According to Miss Price and the members of the Robbin Patrol, it was between forty and forty-five feet in length and swam with an undulated motion.

The shouts of the girls brought all the guides to the scene but by the time they arrived only the ripples could be seen on the surface of the water. The creature made quite a noise as it rushed through the waters of the bay.

Bitten by pet monkey of hotel at Colorado Springs, Colo., M. McConnell got $10,000 damages.

The proposed flying field site between Whitty and Oshawa can satisfy all the conditions required for the location of an aviation training centre, in the opinion of the Whitty Town Council, which recently received a communication from G. J. Desbarats, Deputy Minister of Defense, Ottawa, outlining the principal factors which might influence the Government in determining a suitable site when Camp Borden is moved. The communication stated that the Government owned land at various places and had been offered sites in others. The Council believes, however, that in the final analysis the Department of Defense will choose a site on its merits and not on its cost.

THE HAPPY HOME

I love the hearth, where evening brings
Her loved ones from their daily tasks;
Where virtues spreads her spiritless wings,
And vice, fell serpent! never basks
Where sweetly rings upon the ear
The blossoming daughter's gentle song,
Like heavenly music, whispered near,
While thrilling hearts the notes prolong.

For there the father sits in joy,
And there the cheerful mother smiles!
And there the laughter-loving boy,
With sportive tricks, the eye beguiles;
And love, beyond what wordlings know,
Like sunlight, on the purest foam
Descends, and with its cheering glow,
Lights up the Christian's happy home.

Contentment spreads her holy calm
Around a resting-place so bright;
And gloomy sorrow finds a balm,
In gazing at so fair a sight;
The world's cold selfishness departs,
And discord rears its front no more;
There pity's pearly tear-drop starts,
And charity attends the door.

And there, amid a holier sphere,
Where the archangel bows in awe,
Here sits the King of glory near,
And executes his perfect law,
The ransomed of the earth with joy,
Shall in their robes of beauty come,
And find a rest without alloy,
Amid the Christian's happy home.

Leafs Lose

"Lefty" Leverenz is beginning to believe that Old Man Jinx is on his trail. The veteran has pitched some remarkably fine ball but the Leafs invariably fail to do any clutching when Levenz is on the mound and this was just what happened yesterday when the Baltimore Orioles won the opening game of the series by 2 to 1. It was a battle of lefthanders with Bolen, late of Buffalo, restricting the faltering O'Haramen to five hits, scattered through four innings. It was a heart breaker, made particularly so when seven Toronto batsmen struck out.

CANADIAN COMMERCE

Inter-Trade Between Canada and the U. S. Greatest in World.

Among the most important developments in Canada's foreign trade during 1927 were the increase of imports from the British West Indies by $2,519,000 and of exports to the British West Indies by $348,000.

"This improvement augurs well for the success of the closer trade relationship which was inaugurated by the treaty of 1925, says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

At the present time, the volume of trade between Canada and the United States exceeds that between any other two countries in the world. During the last calendar year Canada's imports from the United States amounted to $797,000,000, and exports to that country to $475,000,000. To some extent the unbalanced trade between the two countries is offset by the expenditures of United States tourists in Canada. For the past year these expenditures have been officially estimated at $200,000,000. One important factor in the trade relationship that has never been properly estimated is the expenditure of Canadians who winter in Florida or California or who spend part of their summer on the coast of Maine. The Royal Bank letters point out.

The recent trend of trade has increased Canada's interest in foreign markets as compared with Empire markets. In 1927 there was an increase of $53,000,000 in imports from foreign countries as compared with an increase of $27,500,000 in imports from other parts of the Empire. There was a decrease of $57,000,000 in exports to countries within the Empire, as contrasted with an increase of $5,000,000 in exports to foreign countries. The important increases in exports were those to the United States, amounting to $9,000,000; Germany, $9,500,000; and Italy, $8,500,000; and in imports from the United States, $38,000,000; from Great Britain, $17,000,000; and from France, $4,500,000.

"Perhaps the most significant fact concerning the increase in imports is that the greatest proportionate growth was in the importation of commodities for use in Canadian industry. With the exception of machinery, most of the large increases were in commodities not indigenous to Canada, and the increase was, therefore, one that did not affect the competitive position of Canadian industry," says the bank letter.

A NEW PALESTINE ERA

Inauguration of a Harbor at Haifa Will Mark Boom.

It was only in 1918 that Palestine discovered that it could no longer do without a harbor—that is modern Palestine; for in pre-war Palestine there was no thought of modern harbors. This year, however, will see the inauguration of the construction of a new modern port at Haifa at a cost of $5,000,000.

Haifa Bay swines from Mt. Carmel in the south in a wide sweep to Acre, twenty miles to the north. Acre peninsula faces west-south-west. Mt. Carmel faces north; so the sea basin is landlocked save to the northwest. When it is completed, Haifa harbor will be the largest and best equipped port along the hitherto inhospitable coast between Port Said and Smyrna.

Haifa topographically and geographically is the commercial key position of the Near East. It is the junction of the broad gauge railway from Egypt and the narrow gauge system which runs east through Belsan into Syria to join with the Damascus track to the north and with the Pilgrim line through Transjordan to Medina and Arabia. Belsan is the future junction of the Jordan Valley branch whereby the inexhaustible potash deposits of the Dead Sea will be carried to the seaboard at Haifa, which will by then have been modernized to cope with the strain of the new mineral traffic. Further east lies Irak and the newly tapped oil-fields of Mosul, where the international Turkish Petroleum Company already is speaking of pipe lines across the desert to Haifa to test its new capacity with yet another category of traffic. Finally there is the tourist traffic to the Holy Land, which in the last five years has developed out of all knowledge, especially from America.

AN INVENTIVE WAITER

Ingenious Yet Simple Devices For the Table.

Many ingenious yet simple devices for the table have been invented by the head waiter at a Mayfair (London) hotel.

One invention is a machine which makes mustard in just the right quantities and of just the right consistency.

Other devices are a spring for fixing on the handle and lid of a teapot which makes it impossible for the lid to fall off; a strainer inside the teapot; an attachment for a soda-water siphon which controls the flow in such a way that, however hard the "trigger" is pressed, the liquid falls into the glass without a splash; a drip-catcher for fixing on sauce bottles; and a combined knife and fork for one-armed people.

THE HIGHWAYS OF BUYING ..

"Follow the highway markings and you can't go wrong." . . . That's the advice the Automobile Club gives you before starting on a motor trip. You follow the well-known, well-marked roads. And you reach your destination the safest, most comfortable way.

Why not follow the same rule in your shopping? Why not stick to the "highways of buying?" They have been just as carefully plotted and are just as carefully marked as the great motor roads you've come to depend on. Marked by the trade-marks of reliable, advertised products.

The next time you go shopping follow these "highways." Before you start, look through the advertisements in these columns. Pick out the products you want. Notice the names and trade marks that identify them. And then ask for them by name.

The advertisements are the sign-posts to guide you to the best merchandise.

HEARD ON THE STREET

So here hath been dawning another blue day!

The Humane Society which is holding a garden party at the home of Mrs. A. Grant, Provincial Highway east, will be tremendously pleased with the brand of weather.

Mr. J. F. H. Wyse, Secretary of the Ontario Safety League and member of the Ontario Highway Safety Committee, is to broadcast a short address from station CKNC this evening at 8 o'clock daylight saving time. Mr. Wyse devotes all his efforts to the cause of safety and he will deal particularly with motor car accident prevention.

Mrs. Irene Bruce, District Deputy and installing staff were in Oshawa last night to put on the installation of officers in Rebekah Lodge No 3 in that city.

Oh! Just smell the burning rubber! This is the continual treat for the people at or near the foot of Walton street hill. Drivers coming down like a falling star see the way blocked so tires and brakes both smoke and screech and everyone cranes a neck to see the smash but only get the sweet scent of burning rubber.

Darlington Township Council, at its last session, placed itself on record by repealing a by-law, made forty years ago, allowing cattle to run at large. The new bylaw prohibits cattle from running at large upon public property, and is a step that will meet with approval from very many people, it is claimed.

Two flat cars, belonging to the Oshawa Railway Company went on a rampage Wednesday and ripped a hole in the corner of Emmanuel Baptist church. The cars, which were in the middle of a train, ran off the rails some 200 yards away from the building. No one was hurt.

"I am entirely of the view that it is unnecessary to have any more breweries in Ontario," said Sir Henry Drayton, in a communication referring to the recent resolution of the Oshawa Ministerial Association. The resolution stated that the association entirely disapproved of the establishment of a brewery here. The resolution was to be presented to the City Council.

A further development in the labor situation, as affected by the strike of the journeymen plumbers, which has continued since the first week in May, took place Wednesday, when those journeymen carpenters who recently laid down their tools in protest against the employment of non-union plumbers and tinsmiths returned to their employment.

No Argument
An Englishman touring in Scotland came across an old couple arguing in the road, and stopped to ask the cause of the dispute. "We're no disputin' at all," answered the man. "We're baith o' the same mind. I have got half a croon in ma pooch, an' she thinks she's no gaon to get it, and I'm agreein' wi' her."

Twenty six lawn bowling rinks commenced Wednesday morning in the annual tournament for the Stratton Trophy at Peterboro. Five outside rinks competing. Sedgwick welcomed the bowlers to the tournament on behalf of the Peterboro club and Mayor Denne for the city.
