BIG PICNIC AT SYLVAN GLEN

United Church Sunday School And Congregation Have Pleasant Afternoon

Despite the threatening look of the overcast sky large numbers of young and old went to the United Church picnic at Sylvan Glen this afternoon.

The children had a most glorious afternoon swimming, racing and playing games, and at the close a sumptuous picnic supper was served to the hungry multitude.

The Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. W. A. Meadows and his staff of teachers were in charge of the sports program and the new minister, Rev. G. A. Sisco, and family, joined in the enjoyment of the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Tufford and family, of New York, who have been spending a few days at Clayton's camping grounds, left yesterday for Toronto intending to return in September to spend another few days before going home.

WELL KNOWN YACHT HERE

Mavis, of Erie, Pa., Cruising Lake Ontario Stopped at Port Hope

Among our summer visitors are Dr. and Mrs. Guy Cluxton Boughton and children, Anne and Bob, of Erie, Pa., aboard their pleasure yacht "Mavis," docked here for three days and will visit his aunt, Mrs. Thos. Ambrose, Ward street, while in port. Dr. Boughton and family are on a vacation cruise and have had a most pleasant time from the outset of the trip. Before coming to Lake Ontario they visited numerous ports on Lake Erie and since coming on this water they have touched at Hamilton and visited the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto.

The Mavis is well-known in these waters being a Canadian built boat and sailed as flagship of the Hamilton Yacht Club for about three seasons. It is also outstanding from its unusual narrow lines, presenting a very racy and tidy appearance. Despite the short beam of this craft the deck is spacious and there is ample room for a family to travel in comfort with the large cabins below.

While Dr. Boughton has previously visited Port Hope he never came in this most lovely way over the blue waters of the lake. The family have found this the ideal way of spending a vacation, out of the dust and noise of traffic, and are very much enjoying their visit in Port Hope which they speak of as a most delightful and beautiful town.

THE NOW CREATED FOR FIRST PLACE

Bankers Swamped Nicholson File in Listless Game by 13-4 Score

The Bankers, led by the indomitable Manager Tozer, rasped Buck Tweed's league leading File machine to a 13-5 defeat in a scheduled fixture at Viaduct Park Tuesday evening. The win for the Bankers put them on an even footing with the File with eight wins and three reverses.

The game was listless from start to finish and none of the fast fielding usually exhibited in the Bankers-File struggles was exhibited. Only two spectacular catches, both the losers' infield, provided the highlights of the fixture which was marked by a comedy of errors by the File.

Buck Tweed prodded his hirelings until the last man had been retired, but the Bankers cinched the tilt in the first frame when they took the File-makers by surprise and ran in six runs on three hits and four errors.

The File scored their four runs in the first and second frames, two in each inning, while the Bankers increased their total to thirteen. After the second session, the File made but one hit.

The Bankers collected eleven hits off Nelson with Spicer, Wade, Melville and Martin bagging two each. Ware, Tweed, Winters and Travin koralled the four safeties for the File.

In the fourth frame Perry made a hair-raising running catch of Winfield's foul down the left-field foul line, while Tweed brought the fans to their feet by a diving catch of Brockenshire's drive in the fifth to retire the side.

The teams—
Bankers—Spicer, 3rd; Wade, rf, Smith 2nd; Brockenshire, c; Fitzsimmons, cf; McCannell, p; Winfield, ss; Melville, lf; Martin, 1st.

File—Welsh, ss; Ware, 2nd; Nelson, p; Tweed, cf; Winters, 1st; Wakely, c; Foote, 3rd; Travin, rf; Perry, lf.

THE PHENOMENON

Astronomers Finding More and More on "Northern Lights"

The following letter appears in today's Globe from the pen of W. J. Helm, Port Hope.

To the Editor of The Globe: In the current number of The Journal, published by the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, there is published a ten minutes' radio talk given by Mr. W. E. Harper on April 25 last over Station CFCT at Victoria, B. C., on the subject "The Northern Lights."

As time goes on astronomers are finding out more and more about this phenomenon, which, briefly expressed, is now generally thought to be caused by the bombardment of our upper atmosphere by electrified particles shot off from sun spots. In this particular radio talk, Mr. Harper stated that we ought to expect an increasing number of aurorae to be seen in this and the following year or two and that we might be favorably long. The recent display referred to by your correspondents was evidently predicted by astronomers.

In Norway hundreds of experiments have been made to determine at what height the display takes place. The height is obtained by stationing a few miles apart two observers who will at the same instant note the position of some particular detail of the aurora with reference to the background of the stars. From such observations made in Norway the average height of the lowest part of the aurora is 66 miles. Mr. Harper also mentions that aurorae are known in the Yukon, where great displays are frequent, of an aurora being seen only a few hundred feet from the earth's surface.

GOVT. TO ISSUE AIR MAIL STAMP

Daily Mail Plane Service Will Link Up With U.S. Points

It was announced Tuesday that the Postmaster-General has authorized an air mail stamp to be issued at an early date.

The stamp will be used at first on the postal air routes which are to be opened up between Montreal, Schenectady, Albany and Toronto. This daily mail service will connect Canadian mails directly by airway to New York.

Later in the year it is understood the Canadian air mail service will be extended to cover the territory between Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor, connecting up also, with the United States air lines at Buffalo. The first service will be between Montreal and New York, with connecting lines possibly from Ottawa and Toronto.

The Postmaster-General, Hon. Mr. Veniot, is inclined to the view that the air mail service should yield some revenue to the Dominion hence the decision to issue a special stamp. In the next session of the Federal Parliament, Hon. Mr. Veniot has intimated provision will be made in the estimates for the beginning of an air mail service in Western Canada. Preliminary survey work is at present under way, to determine the most feasible routes.

BAIL FURNISHED DRIVER OF CAR

E. Maxwell of Bancroft to Appear in Port Hope Court Next Saturday

Following an auto accident on the Provincial Highway west of Port Hope early Tuesday morning, E. Maxwell of Bancroft appeared in Port Hope police court Tuesday afternoon on a charge of being intoxicated while in charge of a car. Maxwell was driving east in a new Chevrolet and crashed into the rear of a parked car on the side of the road. Both cars were damaged.

Maxwell was brought into the local lock-up and appeared before the bench Tuesday afternoon. The case was adjourned until Saturday afternoon at 2.30 and bail of $100.00 was furnished. One surety for $200.00 was furnished by Jas. Massie Port Hope while the accused furnished the other surety.

Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K. C., of Cobourg acted for the Crown.

At the home of Mr. E. Fogarty, Bruton Street, on Thursday evening, Miss Jessie Colman was presented with a kitchen shower by a number of her friends.

Dr. A. B. and Mrs. Clayton and son Bobby of Chesterville, visited with his brother, Cal. Clayton and family, Toronto Road, last week.

PREMIER KING TO GO TO GENEVA

Had Intended to Sit in at Imperial Conference in '29

It is probable that Premier King will go to Geneva in September as a Canadian delegate to the League of Nations assembly and also as a member of the council of the league, on which Canada now has a seat. An announcement is expected at once.

The Premier had expected an imperial conference next year and did not relish the two trips, but advances have been received that there will be no conference in 1929. The probabilities, therefore, are that he will go to Geneva after returning from Saskatchewan, where he is to spend the first two weeks in August.

POULTRY SHOW BEING NOTED

Meeting to Create Interest in Poultry Business to be Held Shortly

Inasmuch as Port Hope is one of the chief poultry centres in Ontario, it is felt that a larger poultry show should be held here in connection with the Fall Fair, or else a separate Poultry Show should be held. It is felt that the time is now opportune to interest many of the young men and boys of the town in poultry raising, not only from a commercial standpoint, but also from the poultry fancier's standpoint. It is to be hoped that everyone in this community interested in poultry will be present at a meeting to be held in the Department of Agriculture, Ontario street, Thursday evening, Aug. 2nd.

THE GUIDE STORY

"Mademoiselle, I thank you for your solicitude about my life; but how is it that you are in the secret counsels of my enemies?"

"Not only of yours. There is nothing going on in Paris that I do not know of. I know, for instance, the story of your secret entry into a room on the fourth floor in a tall house in the Rue La Forte. It was an act as wild as that of the brave man who perished in trying to swim the Niagara Falls."

"Mademoiselle, there is but one explanation possible of your knowledge of that escapade—some friend of yours belongs to that society, and has told you that I was there?"

"Some friend?" she said; and she smiled, and the soft, strange fire in her eyes burned more brightly. "I have not a friend in all the width of this wide world, monsieur, not one!"

She followed up this odd assertion by a long sigh. She looked down—he hoped that a tear was trembling on her long black eyelash; such a sign of emotion would have made her almost dear to him in that moment; but he never knew either then or afterward if one single tear wet those gray eyes that night.

"Not one? Your uncle?"

She laughed a short laugh of scorn.

"Truly that is a friend!"

"And you, with your great wealth," he went on bravely, "have the power of making friends. What sorrows you can assuage! what health you can restore to the sick! what desolate homes you can fill with comfort and gladness! Great wealth must confer a power for good that is almost divine."

She laughed again.

"And you would call all these people upon whom I had spent my wealth my friends? Oh, Lord Dacre! they would be grateful to me in hopes of further favors. Is that friendship?"

"No, that is not friendship. Nevertheless, he or she who devotes himself or herself to the good of others shall be beloved."

"Oh, you are a dreamer!" she said, impatiently. "You are young, and you are a dreamer. I am older than you are—a few years."

"Are you, mademoiselle?"

"Yes; you know that. I am not a silly school-girl like the one you met today."

"You know everything, Made" moiselle Katalinka."

"I know everything connected with you, and most of the thoughts that you think; but I know, first and foremost, that there is a knife ready sharpened to be plunged into your heart."

"Denounce the intending assassin, then, if you know him!" said Robert, half fiercely.

She shook her head.

"If I did that, the friends of the man would soon put a shot into my brain, and I don't think I could escape annihilation in that case."

"There was something awesome and weird in her face as she spoke. It is impossible to express in mere printed words the soft, caressing, almost enervating power of her manner, the subtle fascination wherewith Elizabeth Katainka led men whithersoever she would.

While Robert half shrank from her, he felt drawn strangely toward her. She inspired him with an indescribable sensation akin to fear. But it was not fear of the ordinary kind; it was rather a spiritual horror; and that is the most terrible of all fears, though laughed at so loudly in the daylight of common sense, and denied so stoutly by all who would escape ridicule.

"There are many dangers to which I am impervious," she went on, speaking in a low, confidential tone that somehow flattered Robert immensely; "but if I were shot at by some one in a hurry, while I was off my guard, I would not answer for my escape."

"How could your being on your guard protect you, mademoiselle?" "Ah! my lord"—she shook her head and looked at him—a long, strange, wistful look—"you could not learn all that I know in one lesson, nor in twenty lessons, nor in a hundred lessons. It has cost me much to gain the knowledge that I possess. Oh, unutterable things!"

A look of deep and profound melancholy spread over her fine face. Then a smile lighted it up—a wondrous and bright smile, like the gleams of the sun breaking through a sullen bank of cloud—her gray eyes glistened, her white teeth gleamed.

"But I have no reason to mourn, and I am anxious to save you from danger. Will you put on the mail-shirt I will give you? and will you wear it all the while you remain on the Continent, and during the voyage to England? If you do this, you may even capture your would-be assassin."

"That would be something gained," said Robert, half to himself. Then, acting upon a sudden impulse, he said: "I can guess how it is that you know so much; your uncle is in the service of the Russian secret police?"

A GENTLEMAN OF TEN

I knew him for a gentleman
By signs that never fail,
His coat was rough and rather worn
His cheeks were thin and pale—
A lad who had his way to make,
With little time for play:
I knew him for a gentleman
By certain signs today.

He met his mother on the street—
Off came his little cap;
My door was shut—he waited there
Until I heard his rap;
He took the bundle from my hand;
And when I dropped my pen,
He sprang to pick it up for me—
This gentleman of ten.

He does not push the crowd among;
His voice is gently pitched;
He does not fling his books about
As if he were bewitched;
He stands aside to let you pass;
He always shuts the door;
He runs on errands willingly,
To forge, and mill, and store.

He thinks of you before himself;
He serves you if he can;
For in whatever company
The manners make the man;
At ten or forty, 'tis the same;
The manners tell the tale;
And I discern the gentleman
By signs that never fail.

BATSTONE AT QUEEN'S FOR NEXT TWO YEARS

Football rumors regarding Harry Batstone, the great Queen's University backfielder, have been flying around of late, but Batstone will be back at the Kingston institution of learning where, in two years more, he will graduate as a doctor.

Batstone would like to play for the Tricolor again, but he is through unless the four-year rule is rescinded. It is a pity that this sterling athlete, whose clever and sportsman-like play did so much for football and the college union, should have to pass out of competition under a ruling that many regard as being somewhat ridiculous.

BREAK EVEN

It could have been worse—much worse for both teams here Tuesday at the Stadium. For after the dust and habitual noise that attends baseball had subsided, the Leafs and the Royals had each won a ball game. Royals surprised every one with a truly remarkable rally in the eighth inning of the opener to win, 9 to 4, while the Torontonians, behind Walter Leverenz's steady hurling, shut out Montreal, 4 to 0 in the second game.

Both Ready

Radiating confidence and good-nature, Gene Tunney Tuesday wound up his own training course for the defense of his title against Tom Heeny Thursday night by going through a hard workout.

When the session was over Jimmy Bronson, the champion's chief second, breathed a sigh of relief, for Tunney had escaped without a mark. This is the first time that Gene has ever finished training for a major bout without suffering some annoying injury, generally in the last workout.

Two years ago when he was preparing to wrest the title away from

Heeny Fit

"I'm feeling great. When a fellow goes through this thing the way I have he certainly should be in great condition. I'm looking forward eagerly to this bout. If it rains on Thursday night I'm going to burst out crying."

This was Tom Heeny speaking as he stretched his massive frame on the rubbing table in the room up under the eaves in the privacy of the old coach chamber on the Rumson Farm Kennels. He had just finished his last training for this world's heavyweight championship with Gene Tunney and his body was being soothed by a massage from the hands of Jimmy Hennessey, his trainer.

A Smart Tailored Frock That Welcomes The Summer Vacation

ANNE has slipped away from the noisy dormitory to her favorite spot on the campus. And for an hour she has tried very hard to cram geometry into her pretty head. It seems quite useless! Everything from plans for her vacation to admiration of her new dress which she has put on to go shopping in the village later, pass through her mind. Madder was so sweet to send her the frock at the last minute. It will be just the thing for the last days at college and, worn with a little felt hat, it will be ever so smart for street wear when she returns home for her summer vacation. The light weight wool material and accompanying scarf, make it very comfortable for cool days without a coat. The off-side closing of the blouse and a parallel row of buttons and a smart tailored effect. The fullness of the skirt is achieved by pleats set in the skirt at the side front. A wide leather belt adds the finishing touch to this chic street or sports frock. Silk crepe, linen, pique or raw silk are materials that would be suitable for the design. FEATURE COMEDY AND NEW SERIAL

Another Fine Week-End Program at the Royal Begins Tomorrow

"The Gay Retreat" is the happy title of Fox Films...

And the story is just what the title suggests—a hilarious picture of the adventures of three chaps who start out with the wrong outfit—A.W.O.L.—and who go through the entire war in the same condition.

Holmes Herbert returns to comedy to be the father of the handsome young hero, Gene Cameron...

Charles Gorman is a tough, top-scientist. An added week-end attraction of exceptional interest is the first episode of a new serial, "The Masked Menace."

HOW DREAMS MATERIALIZE

It is our desire at certain times of the year to get away from the din of city traffic, and out to where the slightest noise would be instantly noticeable.

we ever think of such possibilities? They do exist and think of it, for two whole days on an ocean of your own, embarking at Port McNicholl...

PET WAS TROUBLESOME

Cheetah Gave Lunatics of African Station a Lively Time.

Some years ago a certain Governor of Uganda came to stay with me at Zaria, writes Capt. J. F. J. Fitzpatrick in the London Evening News.

That was his pet leopard, or cheetah, I forget which it was. There isn't much difference anyway; the cheetah is longer in the leg, but it has spots and the same friendly tractable character as the leopard.

It took an hour to find the groom person, and I got no dinner. But my staff notified me through the steward that they wished to resign.

Next day my guest and I had some conversation about his pet. He said it was incredible, the story of its damages to my staff; a most gentle, lovable creature it was, he said, less fierce than a rabbit.

Conditions vary, however, in the different countries of South America. In Chile, for example, the girls are vastly freer.

In other parts of South America the opportunities the average traveler gets of seeing South American women are confined to the opera and the races.

In using the barometer as an indicator of the state of the weather, we must not forget that it really only serves to measure the weight of the atmosphere and that it only rises or falls as the weight increases or diminishes.

The women of South America, in Argentina especially, present a curious anomaly. In the matter of clothes they are always abreast, and often ahead, of the latest Paris fashions.

NATURE CALLS A HALT.

Athletes Are Now Near the Human Speed-Limit.

Now records in both motoring and flying have been set up recently, but perhaps even more people are interested in the endeavors of our athletes to break existing records for speed on the cinder-track, says a writer in Answers.

Prof. Hill, the well-known English authority of track athletics, and winner of the Nobel medical prize in 1922, has just perfected a method of measuring the characteristics of an athlete in the expenditure of energy.

When travelling at a high speed, the runner must pay a tremendous price in energy for even a slight increase in speed.

It is improbable that athletes of the future, unaided by mechanical devices, will be able to beat the records now in existence.

THE HIGHWAYS OF BUYING

"Follow the highway markings and you can't go wrong." That's the advice the Automobile Club gives you before starting on a motor trip.

Why not follow the same rule in your shopping? Why not stick to the "highways of buying?" They have been just as carefully plotted and are just as carefully marked as the great motor roads you've come to depend on.

The next time you go shopping follow these "highways." Before you start, look through the advertisements in these columns. Pick out the products you want. Notice the names and trade marks that identify them. And then ask for them by name.

The advertisements are the sign-posts to guide you to the best merchandise.

FIRST PAPER MONEY.

Issued by the Intendant Jacques de Meulles in 1685.

What seems to have been the first paper money in Canada, was that issued in 1685 by the Intendant Jacques de Meulles. As there was neither printing-presses nor paper mills in the colony, he used the only suitable paper available, which was playing cards, stamping each with his own seal.

Stone Petrol Tin.

A petrol tin figures in a statue in Madrid, Spain, which commemorates an incident in the Spanish War in Cuba. A certain house was known to shelter a number of insurgents, and a Spanish soldier executed the idea of creeping up to it at night armed with a tin of petrol and a box of matches.

They were very much in love, but at last came the day when they had a bitter quarrel and they parted, each resolved never to see the other again as long as they lived.

Off Fly Ravages It.

Two soldiers were killed and five others injured, two of them seriously, when a special C.P.R. train, carrying troops to Petawawa, collided head-on with freight at Sand Point, 61 miles northwest of Ottawa at 6.05 a.m. today. Fifteen cavalry horses were killed outright or were so badly injured they had to be shot. ## HEARD ON THE STREET

All was suspense!

Again the weatherman is hanging uncertainty over our heads, but it did not stop the flow of Port Hoppers toward the various picnic grounds.

Summer campers at Point Comfort, a few miles west of Prescott, had a unique experience while fishing Tuesday. Mrs. William Carroll and William Fleming a few weeks ago hooked a fish of unusual size, but lost the fish and also their line and plug. A few days later Joseph Layahre had a similar experience. Tuesday Edward Kennedy of Saranac Lake landed a gamy bass weighing three pounds and three quarters. In the mouth of the fish was found the tackle Mrs. Carroll lost several weeks ago and also that which Mr. Layahre lost a few days later.

Away Ahead

Babe Ruth made one of the longest home runs of his walloping career off Pitcher Dan MacFayden in the sixth inning Monday, but it failed to help the Yankees score materially, and the Red Sox won by 8 to 3. Ruth's drive came with two out and none on. It cleared the high fence in centre field and knifed its way through the east wind that brought the fog in off the Atlantic and made things unpleasant for the 9000 spectators. It was the Babe's fortieth of the season and put nearly a month ahead of his 1927 record.
