WELCOME EXTENDED TO NEW PASTOR

Tabernacle Congregation Joins in a Formal Reception to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke

Last night all the various branches and societies composing the Tabernacle congregation met at The Board was opposed to this. the Sunday School room to bid ormal welcome to the r new pastor, coming pastorate will be one of the duties. most successful in the history of this live and progressive church.

Rev. Amos Campbell, a veteran of the Methodist ministry, presided and from his fund of lokes and repartee he kept the audience in a spirit of merriment.

The first number on the program was a well rendered plano duet by Misses Strong and Davis.

Mr. S. A. Gardner, recording ste and, then read a formal address of wicome to Mr. and Mrs. Clarke on beialf of the congregation.

Mr. las. Dyer, leader of the chell, in a brief and amusing address, weice ned the new pastor on behalf of the coir, as Mr. and Mrs. Clarke were be old students of Albert College in coming to Belleville they were mercy coming back to the old home.

Dr. Dyer was called upon and told of the success Mr. Crke had attained while acting as muncial agent for the Albert College, He was sure he would prove equity strong as a pastor. Mr. Kenny ha left everything in good shape, with together harmonious y. sure they would have in Mr. Clarke a pastor who would -ustain and advance the work.

Welcome was den extended by Society by Mrs. A. Campbell and Mrs. J. C. Seymour, from the

Mr. Jas. Dyer rendered in his usual acceptable style the solo, "I am Waiting for Thee Asthore." Little Miss Morton sang in a remarkably expressive manner "Take Me Back to Babyland." Miss Davis gave a very clever piano solo.

Mr. Clarke on rising to respond received a hearty greeting. He said they were all assembled as a family—the family had apparently been a happy one. He had come to do whatever was possible to advance the work. There were certain duties devolving upon him as a citizen. These he would try to percitizen. These he would try to per form conscientiously, but his first and best attention would be devoted to the church and the congregation. He already felt at home in Belleville. He had met with a hearty welcome at the depot, again at the parsonage, and now at the church. He closed with an earnest plea for co-operation with the pastor in all the work of the congregation

HARBOUR BOARD

Considerable Criticism About Captain Colwill's Work

The athly meeting of the Harbor Bod has held yesterday afternoon with the attendance present. There was massiness to transact but consideral witicism was passed upon the meeting that the Standard Idea was notified that the Neepawa was o call at port and take on a was not present and the boat of a should be a so to present and the boat of a thout paying the usual toll. paying the usual toll.

The Captain explained by he waited until nearly eleven cock for the boat and as it had not ark ed at that hour he fell asleep act consequently missed it, but he has since collected the tolls.

Complaints were also made that Capt. Colwill did not furnish monthly reports to the Board as to the arrival and departure of boats and also of the freight coming in and leaving Port Hope. Further a derrick belonging to the Harbor Board was being used by McMahon Brothers and no rental charged.

The Mayor though that Captain Colwill did not realize that these Rev. W. G. Clarke, M. A., and his were his duties and felt satisfied estimable helpmeet. #### A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

And the longer she brooded on this peril, the more it allured her. For therewith was connected the one satisfaction which still remained to her: however little he desired to keep her constantly in mind, Godwin Peak must of necessity do so after what had passed between them. Had but her discovery remained her own secret then the pleasures of commanding her less pure emotions, of proving to Godwin that she was above the weakness of common women, might easily have prevailed. Now that her knowledge was shared by others, she had lost that safeguard against lower motive. The argument that to unmask hypocrisy was in itself laudible she dismissed with contempt; let that be the resource of a woman who would indulge her rancour whilst keeping up the in-ward pretence of sanctity. If she erred in the ways characteristic of her sex, it should at all events be a conscious degradation.

Yet it was undoubtedly Mr. Warricombe who presented himself. He came forward with a slightly hes-itating air, but Christian made haste to smooth the situation. With the help of those commonplaces by which ever intellectual people are at times compelled to prove their familiarity, with social usages, conversation was set in movement. Marcella desired to talk agreeably, but a weight lay upon her tongue; she was struck with the resemblance in Warricombe's features to those fof his sister, and this held her in a troubled preoccupation, occasionally evident when she made a reply or tried to diversify the talk by leading to a new topic. It was rather early in the afternoon, and she had slight hope that any other caller would appear; a female face would have been welcome to her, even that of foolish Mrs. Morton, who might possibly look in before six o'clock. To her relief the door did presently open, but the sharp creaking footstep which followed was no lady's; the servant announced Mr. Malkin.

Marcellas eyesgleamed strangely Not with the light of frendly welcome, though for that it could be' mistaken. She rose quietly, and stepped forward with a movement which again seemed to betoken eagerness of greeting. In presenting the newcomer to Mr. Warricombe, she spoke with an uncertain voice. Buckland was more than formal. The stranger's aspects impressed him far from favourably, and he resented as an impudence the hearty hand-grip to which he perforce submitted

'I come to plead with you,' exclaimed Malkin, turning to Marcella in his abrupt, excited way. 'After accepting your invitation to dine, fiud that the thing is utterly and absolutely impossible. I had entirely forgotten an engagement of the very gravest nature. I am conscious of behaving in quite an unpardonable way.'

Marcella laughed down his excuses. She had suddenly be-come so mirthful that Christian

Mr. Borden Finding the West a Hard Proposition.

RECEPTION AT SASKATOON

He Speaks at Rosthern and Saskatoon and While He Is Well Received as a Public Man His High Tariff

Proposals Are Mct With Respectful Silence - Farmers' Minds Are Fully Maie Up.

Saskatoon, July 4 .- The last week of the Opposition leader's campaign in the prairie provinces opened with quiet meeting at Rosthern and su enthusiastic reception here last even-

Ir. Borden was met at the station by several hundred people, and was then driven out to the fair grounds, where he was tendered a luncheon and addressed by the fair directors. Subsequently he met the grain growers and addressed a public meeting. Ros-thern and Saskatoon are both in the constituency which is represented at Ottawa by George McCraney, Liberal. Rosthern especially is a strong Liberal town and the chairman of the meeting made to attempt to dis-guise that fact. "If there is a little band of Conservatives from the Atlantic to the Pacific," he said, "that needs encouragement, it is the band at Rosthern. We have been fighting against it. But I can say this to Mr. Borden, that I do not think there will ever be an acclamation from Ros-thern. We will always put up a fight. As each victim puts up his deposit and generally fails to redeem it, all we do is to put a piece of beefsteak to our black eye and hunt for the next victim."

There were about 300 people at the meeting and, as usual, they gave Mr. Borden an excellent hearing.

There were no interruptions, but there was little cheering. There was, however, a ready response to any appeals to loyalty. They cheered Mr. Borden when he spoke of the value of the British markets. They cheere references to British preference. Thy cheered his emphasis on the new of administering the public funds of that the people should get a dollar sworth for every dollar spent. They bered his platform on the Hudson of Railway, the grain elevators of the restoration to the province of their natural resources, but the did not cheer arguments against ciprocity and they did not cheer hen he asserted his belief that the people would not ratify the recipalty agreement. references to British preference. Blind Pigs Raided. Wingham, July 4.—On the night of June 17. Provincial Constable Phippin, and assistants, surprised the local option town of Teeswater by swoop-ing down on a couple of the hotels where he supposed liquor was being sold. The Vendome Hotel, managed by Jacob Lambartus, and his son was searched, liquor being found by the barrel; also one blind pig, owned by David Kaplen, was raided and a quan-tity of whisky was found.

Hand Shattered by Dynamite. Ottawa, July 4.—P. Dallaire was fishing by the dynamite method in Brewery Creek, Hull, yesterday afternoon, when a stick of explosive went off in his hand. The member was horribly shattered and had to be cut off in the Ottawa Hospital, to which he was brought.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

Montreal, July 3.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was fairly good, and the prices tid for No. 2 northern were 41-d per quarter higher than on Friday, consequently some business was done for July-Angust shipment. The local trade in coarse grains was quiet, the demand being only for small lots to fill actual wants. A fair volume of business continues—to be done as spring wheat flour for local consumption at steady prices. Demand for bray and shorts is good, and sa's so of latter were made for export account.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 3.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 1 were 1920 cattle, 1250 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 1251 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 200 cattle, 675 sheep and lambs, 1625 hogs and 500 calves.

A steady feeling prevailed in the market for cattle, notwithstanding the fact that the supply was rather larger than a week ago, and the weather exceedingly hot, which tended to curtail the demand from local buyers to some extent; consequently trade was rather slow.

Cable advices from Liverpool were much stronger, and noted an advance in prices of le per pound over a week ago, on account of the small home supplies and the stoppage of Irish cattle coming forward thru the vessels being held up by the shipping strike, which, if it is continued very long, will no doubt tend to put prices still higher in the near future and increase the demand for cattle for export account here.

A few sales of extra choice steers were made here at 6½c; choice at 6½c; good at 6½ to 6½c; fairy good at 5½c to 5½c; fair at 5c to 5½c, and common at 4½c to 4½c per pound. There were a number of cows among the offerings, which sold at from 3½c to 5½c per pound, as 10 quality, while bulls brought from 4½c to 5½c per pound.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for hogs, except that the feeling was more settled, and prices in consequence were more regular. The supply was ample to fill all requirements, and a fairly active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at 1250; mixed lots at $7 to $7.25; sows at $5 to $5.50, and stags at $1 per 100 lbs., weigned off cars.

A more active trade was done in sheep, lambs and caives on account of the presented offerings; but, as the demand was good, the tone of the market fuled steady and prices show no change. Sheep soid at 4c to 4½c per pound; Spring lambs at 41.50 to $5 each, and caives at from $2 to $5 each, as to size and quality.

INDIA'S RACE TROUBLE

THE PUNJABES IS THE UGLY DUCKLING OF THE LOT.

He Is a "Dour" Type of Mortal and Thinks He Must Interfere to Save the World-Labor Member Criticizes the Method of the Punjab Government In Handling Question of Sedition Among the Hindus.

Bengal gives life to Indian nations alism, but the Punjab supplies it with its problems, writes J. Ramsay Macdonald, the British Labor mem-Macdonald, the British-Labor member, in a recent article. To begin with the Punjab is "dour," and the Punjabee has been described as the Scotsman of India. A vervival in Hindu religion there means an uprising of Puritanism, whilst in Bengal it produces somewhat akin to a Catholic movement. It was because Swami Sayanand, the founder of the Arya Somaj, was a rough Philisting like Luther that his society has floortshed in the Indus valley.

There is a good deal of the West about the Punjabee. But he is an Indian. He will have no importations other pointes of of faith. If he throw the priesthood of the Brahmins to the four winds, he will not create as his justification. pot create as his justification a new eclectic faith like that of the Brahmo Sonaj; he goes back to his own scrip-tures with the same fidelity as the scientific Christian goes back to his creeds. When he found his faith anew, moreover, the Punjabee has not been content to say, "This is for the salvation of India," but "This also be for the salvation of the world." being for the salvation of India must

Now, if the political stage of the Punjab were occupied by this "dour" man and the British official alone, things would be lively. But the situation is not so simple as that. The Punjab is the Ulster of India, for in it there is a Mohammedan community somewhat greater in numbers than the Hindu community, and the Mo-hammedans have pitched a political camp of their own where their own flags fly and their own drums beat. The difference between the two is soon discovered; but if you try to find it in a program you will be baffled, for the Mohammedan as a representative on a Council will back practically everything which his Hindu colleague will propose. But the Indian Mohammedan is not a Nationalist—at present. He speaks of "my community." not of "India." He thinks of religious associations, not of political ones.

Above all, he distrusts the Hindu. He knows that he has neglected opportunities of education which the Hindu has embraced, that he has been careless of his well being when the Hindu has been nurturing his own. To the Punjab Mohammedan Hinduism in public life is a Free-masonry. Wherever a Hindu goes he leaves the breach open for a stream of Hinduism to follow. The Mohammedan regards the Hindu as the suffragette regards man.

This is the present frame of mind of the Mohammedan. He feels he must have a camp of his own, a party to look after him, and, above all, that his community must be regarded that his community must be regarded as a separate political entity and be represented as such on all legislative councils. Then, and then only, he says, will he be safe.

In addition to these things, he talks of his greater loyalty, of the impossibility of Indian self-government on paper, but I smile at that. In the Mohammedan camp there is a store of spare arms, and his is a store of spare arms, and his acute leaders naturally show them. The camp and everything in it is brand new

Before exploring the Hindu camp I must say something about the part which the Government plays. It is generally conceded in India that the most incompetent of the Govern-ments is that of the Punjab. It takes "Prestige" and "Sedition," the meaning of the former being that it can do what it likes, and of the latter that if any Indian questions its do-ings, his house will be raided and he will be deported. The very dangerous condition of the province in 1907, when the Sikh regiment became tive and riots broke out in the Rawal Pindi district, arose mainly from blundering but well-meaning acts of the Government, which, had it been in touch with the people, would never have proposed its Colonization Bill in the form it was drafted, and would have seen that the increased assess-ments required delicate and not autocratic handling.

When the storm burst upon it, it shrieked "sedition." There was a man of the name of Lajpat Rai active in politics at the time. He was a member of the Aryra Somaj, he was a good speaker, he was a "Congress good speaker, he was a "Congress wallah." He was marked for deportation, and at no time had the Government a scrap of evidence against him, except that he was opposing its Colonization Bill and holding political meetings. The result was that Lajpat Rai had to be liberated, and from being a propagandist he found he had become a leader. He was soured, quite naturally, and even to-day he cannot take a ticket from Lahore without some detective finding out where he is going and without someone molesting him on the way to show his ticket—a thing which never happens to the ordinary passenger on Indian railways.

In the frankest possible manner the Punjab Government announces from the housetops that every Arya is an anarchist and every critic a seditious person. It has no notion of statesmanlike handling, no idea of political methods. The man in pow-er simply uses his power, whether it is in the form of a not too honest detective department, or a not too dis-criminating executive and judiciary.

CLEARING SHIP FOR ACTION.

A Lively Time While the Decks Are Being Stripped of Everything that Would Impede the Fire of the Qune. Working the Torpedo Nets.

It is a little after two bells in the forenoon watch, or, in shore going talk, 9 a. m., and the officers and men of the battleship wear an expectant air. The ship's company is fallen in at stations for general exercise. The com mandes; surrounded by his staff a midshipman, a bugier and the chief boatswalm's mate—is standing on top of the after barbette. A kind of tes hush is over all hands and, inded, over the rest of the squadron at anchor in the bay. It is a general drill morning, and the ships of the squadron are about to compete against each other at various evolutions.

On the after bridge the glasses of the signal boatswain and his yeomen are glued on the flagship. Presently couple of gayly colored flags are holsted at her main. Hardly have they left the rail when the signal boatswain spins round. "Signal's 'place net de-fense, sir!" he cries. "Out nets!" fense, sir!" he cries. "Out nets!" bawls the commander. "Out nets!" shout the boatswain's mates. Instantly bordes of men dash at the neat roll of wire nets lying on the shelf round the ship and push it overboard. One edge being held in place, it uprolls as it falls, making a vell on the side. "Clear the net shelf!" The men van-ish. "Man the purchase!" Somet are above a bugle blares out a "G."

The marines, handling large bearing out spars, shove the upper ends of the booms, from which the nets hang, outboard. They revolve slowly about their lower ends, which are near the water line and hauled by the steam capstan on one side and the seamen on the purchase on the other, extend themselves at right angles to the buil. "Break!" bellows the commander, and a signalman jerks the halyards. A red, white and blue pendant, hitherto waiting in a ball at the topsail vardarm, breaks from its confinement and floats out on the breeze, announcing to all and sundry that the ship has finished the evolution and is now pro tected from torpedo attack by he crinoline of nets. "First ship, sir," re-ports the signal boatswain, and the men, once more at their general stations, grin contentedly and make contemptuous comments on the struggles of the remainder of the fleet. There is a short pause till these are ended; then another hoist rises from the flagship's bridge. "In nets!" is the order, and the ship's company is once more galvapized into action. Amid a scene of orderly confusion the buge booms return to position, shut back against the ship's side, the brails which pass beneath the nets every few yards are manned, all hands haul with a will, the mass of steel meshes is rolled up and secured on its shelf, and the bright pendant at the topsall yardarm is again broken by the signalman.

A short "Stand easy!" follows, soon ended by another signal, "Clear for action? To the mind of the bewilder-ed spectator pandemonium follows. But it is only in appearance. Each man knows what he has to do and does it. Under the onslaught of the seamen davits, stanchions, ralls, stovepipes-in fact, all things that can possibly restrict the fire of the guns-disappear with a rapidity that gives the impression of their being mowed down; skylights are masked by steel hatches, boats are turned in and secured, and in two or three minutes the decks are stripped bare and the men again fallen in, awaiting the order to replace gear. This done-a longer job, but still accomplished with celerity-the last and most exciting signal of the forenoon appears-"Away all boats" crews; pull round the fleet."

The men tumble into their bosts at: the davits, the lowerers pay out the falls, and in a few moments the cutters, whalers, gigs and galleys are pulling for dear life, a midshipman in charge of each. On the after bridge the commander, waving two small hand flags which control the huge steam derrick, is lifting the pinnace and launch from the boat deck and depositing them in the water. Men drop into them, double and treble banking the long oars, and soon these are pounding after the lighter boats.

The evolution is a race, ship against ship. Who will have the first boat back? Who will have all boats back and boisted first? Midshipmen, probably with bets on the matter, are urging their crews on. Every man is putting his back into it for the honor of his ship. Telescopes watch prog-ress from all the vessels of the fleet. Here comes the galley-the captain's boat, manned by a picked crew and dancing through the water under the long sweeping strokes of the oarsfirst boat back. Again the tricolored pendant flies out, and the captain's "doggie" (midshipman) climbs out of the galley's stern sheets, beaming all over his boyish countenance.

The boats are hoisted as they return, the men left on board manning the falls and running away with them to the sound of the ship's band playing on the shelter deck. Presently all is square again. The boatswain's mates pipe "Hands carry on smoking." The forenoon's drills are over, and officers and men alike are in good humor, proud of the final signal received from the all powerful flagship:

"Evolutions smartly performed."

NAVAL PRIZE BILL

It Passes Second Reading in British Commons.

U. S. IS A GREAT FACTOR

In Support of the Measure Sir Edward' Crey Advises That Attitude of the United States Be Concurred In Because That Country Was Great Britain's Best Friend If She. Ever Fought European Power

London, July 4-The naval prize bill, which is tantamount to approval of the Declaration of London, the international agreement covering prizes in naval warfare, passed its second reading in the House of Commons yesterday. An amendment introduced by John G. Butcher, Unionist member for York, to defer consideration of the bill until reported on by a committee of experts, was defeated after a prolonged debate by a vote of 301 to 231. The bill passed without division.

The feature of the debate was Sir Edward Grey's speech in support of the bill, in which he referred to the attitude of the United States. He argued as that country holds the view "that under restricted conditions sinking would be allowed," it would be useless to attempt to bring in a law abolishing it. He contended that in case England was at war with a great continental power, the one great neutral power, whose interference would be useful was the United States, which was greatly interested in supplying food to this country and was possessed of a fleet of sufficient strength to make interference effec-

The United States, he insisted, would never have signed the Declar-ation of London, if they believed in time of war their commerce would be interfered with. "The United States," said Sir Edward, "have been no re-luctant party to signing the Declara-tion of London, and the establishment of a prize court, and in their view ac-ceptance of the Declaration of London

reptance of the Declaration of London is essential to the establishment of a successful prize-court.

"The belief that the U. S. Government regards the policy of a prize court convention and the Declaration of London with indifference, is a very dangerous misapprehension, which it would remove it was well as were at war with would remove if we were at war with a continental power. That continental power, knowing perfectly well the risk and desiring to avoid the danger of any friction with the U. S., the great maritime neutral power interested in our food supply, would in all likelihood prefer to accept the rules of the Declaration of London and be prepared to refer to arbitration any ques-tion which arises with regard to it."

City 'Phones For London.

London, July 4.—A municipal tele-phone system for London is being advocated by Water Commissioner Stevenson. Telephones at $7 a year, and paying a 30 per cent. dividend to the city on the outlay, is one result he claims.

By the use of the new "cross-over system," he would string the telephone wires on the city hydro-electric poles, and use the underground and it down town for the same purconduit down-town for the same pur-poses. The top floor of the new City Hall he suggests for the exchange.

Nearly $800,000.

Toronto, July 4.—Hon. A. J. Mathesons estimated income from succession duties will be very much exceeded this year. For the month of June the receipts were $82,313 against $57,-875 for the same month of 1910. Up to the 30th of June last year the re-ceipts aggregated $379,055 and for the first six months of this year the total amount received is $692,870. There is yet about $100,000 to come in from the McLean end of the late Senator Fulford's tstate. The estimate for the present year was $750,000.

Counterfeit U. S. SI .. Note.

Washington, July 4.—A new counter-feit $100 gold certificate, so well made in many details, that the secret service regards it as highly dangerous, was found yesterday in a shipment of money from a National Bank in Louisville to its correspondent in New Yesterday York. When the bridegroom sent a messenger in great haste to the Earl of Liverpool's residence to enquire for her, the reply returned was that Lady Constance "went out shopping this constance "went out shopping this morning, and has not yet returned

The Earl of Liverpool stated last evening that he had received from Lady Constance a message to the ef-fect that she was quite safe and

According to the message, Lady Constance, who left London on a train yesterday morning, had simply chang-ed her mind and decided that she did not wish to be married.

May Be Trouble in Hull.

Ottawa, July 4.—Before the Huli City Council last night petitions ask-ing that the Orange celebrations plan-ned for July 12 be stopped, were pre-sented. These were from the Cercle Reboul, Catholic Orders of Foresters. Reboul, Catholic Orders of Foresters, St. Joseph's Union, L'Alliance Nationale, Catholic Mutual Benefit Association and the Catholic School Commissioners. The mayor wrote Dr. Sproule, saying that trouble would likely arise, and the doctor denied the imputation, and said he had no power to direct the Orange lodges in their selection of a place to celebrate. He assured the mayor, if there was no interference, the Orangemen would cause no trouble. The council will meet to-night to consider if they shall refuse permission for the celebration.

Suing Municipalities.

Montreal, July 4.—Following the in-structions of the Provincial Board of Health, Messrs. Geoffrion, Geoffrion & Cusson, have entered action against six municipalities which refused or neglected to carry out the instructions of the Board of Health regarding compulsory vaccination.

The municipalities being sued are: Maskinonge, St. Fidele, County of Charleboix, St. Charles Borromee, Charleboix, St. Charles Borromee, County of St. Joseph de Blanford, and St. Lazare, County of Vaudreuil.

Each municipality is being sued for $100, which is the amount of the fine for four days' delay in adopting measures for compulsory vaccination.

Shaw Will Recover.

Cornwall, July 4.-R. A. Pringle, K.C., of the firm of Pringle & Smith, liminary hearing, and both the crown and defence refuse to divulge the line of action they are likely to take when the prisoner appears. Shaw's condi-tion is reported by his physician as being fairly good, and it is confidently hoped that he will recover.

Brakeman Killed.

Trenton, July 4.-While the way freight train was shunting at Trenton station yesterday morning, one of the cars was derailed and badly smashed. The auxiliary train from Belleville was quickly on the scene and busy clearing the tracks. Daniel Loller, a brakeman of the auxiliary train, was sent back to signal No. 5, the pas-senger train from the east, and not returning after the tracks were clear-ed, some of the train crew went to look for him, and found his body bad-ly mangled between the rails. He was a married man, and leaves a widow and one child.

No Fireworks In New York. New York, July 4 .- Determined to lead in the movement for a safe and sane celebration of the fourth, fire and police department heads declare that at least a record for safety and sanity will be established in this city

It is asserted that no fireworks or firecrackers have been on sale within the city for a month, and those who have planned to outwit the authorities by buying a supply elsewhere will fined that they have purchased in vain, for the police are insistent that public sport with gunpowder will be absolutely prohibited.
