His boxes were packed, and now he had but one more evening in the old home. It was made less pleasant than it might have been by a piece of information upon which he by chance alighted in a newspaper. The result of the Honours examination for the First B. A. at London had just been made known, and in two subjects a high place was assigned to Bruno Leathwaite Chilvers -not the first place happily, but it was disagreeable enough.

Pooh! what matter? What are academic successes? Ten years hence, which name would have wider recognition-Bruno Chilvers or Godwin Peak. He laughed with scornful superiority.

No one was to accompany him to the station; on that he insisted. He had decided for as early a train as possible, that the dolours of leave-taking might be abridged. At a quarter to eight the cab drove up to the door. Out with the trunks labelled 'London!'

'Take care of the cabinets!" were his last words to his mother. 'I may want to have them sent before long.' He implied what he had not ventured to say plainly, that he was leaving Twybridge for good, and henceforth would not think of it as home. In these moments of parting, he resented the natural feeling which brought moisture to his eyes. He hardened himself against the ties of blood, and kept repeating to himself a phrase in which of late he had summed his miseries; 'I was born in exile-born in exile.' Now at length had he set forth on a voyage of discovery, to end perchance in some unknown land among his spiritual kith and kin.

CLEAR-CUT AND CONVINCING SPEECH

DEFICIT OF $553,363.25

Canada, that such is not the case, and that as a matter of fact the old treaty was injurious. The honorable gentleman, I repeat. Sir, has taken on durng this debate an extremely heavy oad. He has swallowed his own past cord with reference to taxation of orporations, the Succession Duties' Act, the Brewers and Distillers' Licenses, the proper classification of accounts, as to Indian treaty No. 3; out he now, Sir, adds to this the Herulean task of swallowing the whole past commercial history of the Domnion Conservative party at Ottawa. says in effect with reference to those great chieftains, the late Sir John A. Macdonald, the late Sir Leonard Tilley, the late Sir John Thomp-son, and others, 'I shouted for you in your lifetime, but under pressure of party exigiences now I recall all were all wrong." I repeat, Mr. Speak-er, that this is rather a heavy load that the Honorable the Provincial freasurer attempts to lay upon the shoulders of his provincial following: and I apprehend that he will experience very considerable difficulty indeed in getting them to swing into line on such a heretofore unheard of and absurd proposal.

Honorable gentlemen opposite have been even fulsome in their laudation of the Honorable the Minister of Lands, him frankly but firmly the question Ware we doing the square thing by the Northland, by ourselves, and the Province of Ontario?" The Honorable the Premier, in his speech on the Address, took the strange position, that if Ontario increases its population there is apparently no beneficial result, but there is an extra outlay by way of aid to municipal government, providing lockups, etc. The inference from such an argument is that it does not pay this province to secure settlers for our Northland. It is a strange coincidence, of course only a coincidence—a case of great minds, etc.-that almost on the very day upon which the Honorable the Premier delivered himself of this strange doc-She examined his face, and seem- life being fled, Coroner Tucker was tring, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, speaking before the Empire Club, advanced exactly the same argument. The argument of both, and that of the latter as published by sister of Mr. Jos. Henry, of this Toronto Saturday Night, simply means this: that if the province spends money in securing settlers for Northern Ontario, and opens up and settles new townships, that the results will be increased expenditure by the province, with the further inferential re-'My cousin-Christian, you re- terday forenoon we were startled to sult that the province derives no benefit from these settlers; but that the Dominion is greatly benefited by way of revenue received under tariff regulations. There is an element of truth in the contention, namely: that increased population encouraged by this province would indirectly be a benefit to the whole Dominion; but it is economic heresy to say that the same increased population is not a Whereupon Godwin performed a happened, which an investigation direct benefit to the province. If, Sir, we roll back the man of settlement do we not thereby of absolute necessity increase the value of the crown lands and crown timber lying immediately beyond the line of settlement? Does any same man doubt this? Sir. if we increase the population, or as I have already said, roll back the map of land we must be more liberal in our settlement, do we not "ipso facto," of necessity, increase the land and timber wealth of the province lying directly behind the line of settlement? These settlers will in time form companies, and develop interests, pay for commercial and other charters through the Provincial Secretary's Department, and will thus directly increase the finances of the province, to say nothdeliberately retarding the development of Northern Ontario, owing to the fact and Northern Ontario Railway as a colonization road, but has endeavored by excessive freight and other charges to make it pay. Then again, Sir, the Temiscaming and Northern Ontarlo Railway should have branch colonination lines. If, for example, the mining camps are real camps, and I think they undoubtedly are, why should the Government not at once build into Kik Lake, Gowganda and Montreal River district. Shoot out your feeders to the main railway-you cannot afford to stand shivering on the brink of duty! We must build these roads, and they will prove effective and paying feeders of the main road. The original conception of this Government road was that it was to pass through the clay beit and reach James Bay, and thus tap the untold fishery wealth of these waters. This is the only way to develop this Northland. The Government should at once adopt an up-to-date, aggressive and progressive policy.

Town Sites Should Be Taxed.

Let me deal with other points, Sir, that are hindering and retarding the progress of the north. Years ago this House unanimously decided that some recognition should be made by way of land grants to the volunteers for their services; but this House unanimously made the mistake of allowing such land grants to be taken up in different townships, and so long as they remained in the hands of the volunteer they remained untaxed. This retarded development and progress, and steps have been taken to remedy this evil. Why then Sir should a similar mistake be made by this Government in connection with town sites? If the Province of Ontario is determined to own one out of every four town lots, then, I say, the Government should pay taxes on these lots. Why should the province take the unearned increment, the increment earned by the hardy settler, and not join with the settlers in paying their fair share of taxes in order that proper municipal improvements may be undertaken?

Prospector's Rights.

Then again, Sir, the Government's extreme desire to make money out of the north is shown in its dealing with prospectors. When it was proposed to tax the prospector before he could go out and search for a mine, and the amount fixed by the Government was placed at $10, we, on this side of the House vigorously opposed this, and this House, as elsewhere, the loyalty argued that if it was requisite to cry raised, and the fear is expressed charge any fee the fee should only be that the opening of another market nominal. That $10 fee, I am glad to Canadian goods will mean disintesay, has since been reduced to $5. It should have been reduced to $1.

Then again, Sir, if this prospector is fortunate enough to make a discovery, the province charges him $10 for filing his claim, and $3 for transfer of the some. This is more than is charged in any of the Old Provinces the fact that the honorable member's for a similar service. Assessment Work. Then again, Sir, as if we did not place difficulties enough in the way of the prospector, under our law and regulations at present, if he makes a discovery in the late November of December, what happens? Within ninety days from the date of filing his claim he must do thirty days' work on that claim. Now, what in actual practice does such a ridiculous requirement mean? It means, Sir, that during the winter months when there is probably four feet of snow on the ground, that poor fellow must go forth with snowshoes on his feet and snow shovel on his shoulder to do practical mining work! After he has built his little hut, and moved his provisions out, he commences trenching in the snow, and the practical result is that he is obliged to spend thirty days in a pretence of doing mining work, when practically all that he has done is washed away by a spring freshet. I say, Sir, that it is an uncalled for hardship to the prospector to ask him to spend a month there, doing work which is of no benefit whatever, and which he might well be allowed to do in the summer months, when his actual trenching would be done, not in the snow, but in the earth, and when he could work intelligently and with some beneficial results. If, Sir, all these discoverers were allowed to do such work in say, August or September, they could then do practical trenching, blasting and drilling if necessary. In fact, Sir, they could go to their work singing the little ditty "Drill, Ye Tarriers, Drill"; but this, under the arbitrary regulations of the present Ministry has been changed into the unwilling chorus, "Shovel, Ye Prospectors, Shovel." In a word, Sir, if we are going to get our fair share of people for the North Country, if we are to get our fair share of the population coming to Canada for our own North Country as against the inducements of the West and the Far West, we must build railroads, and other roads, and make the conditions such as to be inviting to immigrants, mining and our land regulations. We, Sir, must all along the line be fair and even liberal to the pioneer, whether he be settler, miner or prospector.

Effects on C.P.R. Stocks.

Returning again to the question of Reciprocity, let us follow to their logical conclusion the remarks of the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer. ing of the indirect benefit that will I He says in effect, if the Reciprocity be obtained by developing trade be agreement is consummated and the tween the Northland and North Bay, duty is taken off our grain, that the grain from the West will go south, and our whole transportation system will be injuriously affected. On the I fear, Sir, that this Government is other hand, Conservative newspapers say "Let us stay our hands. The Democrats are likely to get into powthat it does not treat the Temiscaming; | er, and the duty will be taken off anyway." What difference does it make as to how the duty is taken off once the American duty is taken off? Would the effect on transportation not be the same? Or, is it not better if the duty is to be taken off anyway, thatit should be removed as a result of an agreement whereby we get advantages to counterbalance any seeming Get Your Job Printing at disadvantages? Hal, In view of the doleful wail of honorable gentlemen opposite as to the effect this agreement will have on our whole transportation system, is it not very peculiar that, since the announcement of the agreement, C.P.R. stocks have run up to the highest figure they have reached in the history of that company? The purchasers of that stock are sane, intelligent business men. If, therefore, the result of the agreement meant destruction to our whole transportation system, of which the Canadian Pacific Railway constitutes a very important part, one would naturally expect that the price of C.P.R. stocks would have greatly declined. As against the vagaries of honorable gen-tlemen I place the substantial fact that these stocks have greatly advanced in price.

Disloyalty.

When argument fails, we have in gration of the whole Empire. The bonorable member for West Hastings closed his speech with an expression of fear "that the obtaining of reciprocal distintegration of the Empire." This House might be pardoned in view of name is Johnson, if his remarks drove honorable members to a recollection. of a statement made by the greatest Johnson of the line, namely, that "Loyalty is often the last refuge of a scoundrei." Of course, such a remerk would not apply to any honorable gentleman in this House, but the statement is absolutely true, nevertheless. Loyalty is too often dragged in as a cover, or a cloak where argument and reasoning fail. May I be allowed, Sir, to address an "argumentum ad hominem" to the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer? Suppose he has a horse to sell, and a purchaser for the British market offers $200. A purchaser for the American market offers $225. Which will he accept? It that extra $25 is flaunted before his face by the buyer from the American market I venture to say it will be a case of "Now you see it, and now you don't see it." The larger price would be accepted. I desire, Sir, to use this homely illustration to make the point that by accepting the larger price the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer would be a more loyal Brit-Bher than if trade barriers prevented him from receiving the greater price. Canny Scot that he is, he would be better pleased to receive the larger price, and let me say, Sir, that contentment with one's lot and one's environment produces, nay is, twin sister to loyalty, and discontent with conditions, including trade relations, produces disloyalty, nay is, twin sister to disloyalty. If a man is prosperous, if he is satisfied with conditions, including trade relations, if he is satisfied that they give fair play, he will be contented, and if contented he will not only be contented with such conditions and trade relations, but naturally contented with and loyal to the national flag that guarantees him such. I repeat, Sir, that # trade relations help to make a man's circumstances more prosperous he will be the more loyal. Further then, Sir, in the last analysis, the question of a reciprocal agreement comes down to a straight question of business, pure and simple. If, Sir, trade with our American cousins tended to make Canadians disloyal and to make "Old Glory" float over this whole continent,

I wonder, Sir, that we did not long ago become disloyal, and that "Old Glory" is not already flying over Can-ada. Look at the figures of our trade with the United States: For the year ending March 1st, 1910, we shipped in value seven times as many horses to the United States as we did to Great Britain; of sheep 52 times as many; of poultry about 800 times as many, of eggs twenty per cent. more; of oats a greater quantity; of pease about 60 per cent. more, and so on with a large list of produce that might be named. If then, the argument of the honorable gentleman is true, our farmers, may our dairymen who sent $3,-000,660 worth of cream last year, must by this time have their legalty pretty well tested. It is not fair to any man in Canada, it is an insult to his intelhim disloyal if he follows that law implanted in him by God and nature, which is part of the warp and wood of his very existence, namely, that he has a right to sell in the dearest and buy in the cheapest market: This, Eir, is a law of the human race, and it is an insult to the intelligence of any community or any people to practically tell them they are disloyal if they desire to follow that law. As well at once argue that, if a man ships a horse across the line he must ship his nationality with it. Generally speaking, the parties that are loudest-in preaching the doctrine that every man's loyalty will be affected, if allowed to trade with his neighbors; will be found as a matter of fact to be directly, or indirectly, interested in trading with that very neighbor. I have already clearly shown, Sir, that both political parties from time to time since 1866 down to the present date endeavored to make better trade relations with our neighbors to the south of us, and yet, Sir, no truer Britishers were ever in this Dominion than the two leaders of the Governments who attempted to secure such trade relations. Sir, when the unbiased historian comes to write the history of Canada, and when through the lapse of time he will have a better perspective, he will give an outstanding place to two Premiers of this Dominion, both of whom sought wider and freer trade relations with the great nation to the south of us, and both of whom were British to the core. The names of two great nation-buildets will stand distinctly out, two men. who by different methods and means did much to make a united and contented Canada, two men who sought in a similar way, whose endeavor it was, to obtain larger markets for the produce of the soil, to make a more happy, more prosperous, and a more contented people. These two names are none other than those of the late. Rt. Hon. Sir John A: Macdonald and the Hon. Sir Willrid Lautier! The British Preference.

The tremendous anxiety of honorable gentlemen opposite as to the loyalty of their fellow-Canadians is in. strange contrast to the cry that was heard when a preference was granted by the present Liberal Government at Ottawa to British goods entering Canada. Then one heard frequently the statement that there was no "quid pro quo," and occasionally a harking back to the statement "so much the worse" for British connection!" But, Sir, every intelligent Canadian knows that. nothing else in the history of the Dominion of Canada, nothing else that any Government ever did in Canada, brought this nation out so conspicuously, not only before John Bull himself but before all the nations of Continental Europe. We know the opinion then expressed by British statesmen, how the newspapers and journals dealt with it; but perhaps, Sir, nothing that has been said or written, so beautifully describes the situation as the words of Rudyard Kipling. when he says:

"A Nation spoke to a Nation, A Throne sent word to a Throne: 'Daughter am I in my Mother's

But Mistress in my Own. The gates are mine to open." (The gates of commerce, if you will), "The gates are mine to close; And I abide by my Mother's House," Said Our Lady of the Snows."

Honorable gentlemen opposite, who talk loyalty, forget that British Preference remains still intact. If honorable gentlemen opposite urge that now. (To BE CONTINUED.)

MARRIED AT WELCOME. - Miss Manetta Martyn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martyn, Welcome, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Beighton on the 1st inst., by Rev. Rorke of that Circuit. The bride was attended by Miss Bertie Martyn, while Mr. Allie Nichols assisted the groom. Miss Mabel Andrews, of Peterboro, presided at the organ. The bride was brought in and given away by her father, and was wearing white silk mull trimmed with lace and insertion. Her travelling suit was brown diagonal cloth, with silk trimmings and hat to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch ligence to tell him that it will make | and chain, and to the bridesmaid a pin set with diamonds. The home was beautifully decorated. Sir James Whitney Brings It Up in Legislature, South Perth Man Says Ontario Is Well Represented at Ottawa If It Wants to Protest-Premier Alleges That Treaty Means Annexation and Waves His Flag With Vigor -Several Other Speakers.

Toronto, March 10 .- Sir James Whitney moved an anti-reciprocity resolution in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. Visitors thronged the galleries, while wives of Cabinet Ministers and other privileged guests of the Speaker, occupied seats on the floor of the House.

For sixty-five minutes the Prime Minister vigorously criticized the Taft-Fielding pact. There was no apology needed for bringing the question before the Provincial House, as it directly affected the interests of the province. He could quote precedents in abundance if that were necessary. A former Government had even brought in a resolution asking for the abolition of the Dominion Senate.

It was at a time when Canada was at the zenith of prosperity, contentedly going her own way, that the President of the United States had declared that Canada was "at the parting of

Sir James attributed J. J. Hill's advocacy of reciprocity to his desire to deflect millions of bushels of grain from the Canadian west to the western states. He reviewed the insurgeney movement in the Republican party in the United States, and argued that President Taft saw in the reciprocity move a way for discounting the Democratic tariff revision policy, and of furthering his own designs for the annexation of Canada. The widespread sentiment in the United States in favor of the annexation of Canada was demonstrated by resolutions of various state assemblies and the utterances of Champ Clark and other political leaders there,

The farmers of the United States were opposed to reciprocity, it was said, on the ground that it would lower prices there. If that was the case, the greater export of Canadian farm products would intensify the high cost of living, which has reached so extreme a point here already.

If this agreement was ratified and the traffic diverted to the south the rails of the Grand Trunk Pacific and C.P.R. would lie still and rust. This was not a party question, and as a Canadian he was glad to notice that only one Liberal, in discussing it, had even referred to its effect on the future of his party. There was only one lonely, shrunken and shrivelled soul who, at the Toronto Board of Trade meeting, shrieked that they were voting against the Government In conclusion, Sir James declared his confidence that the people of Canada would, in the future as in the past, stand shoulder to shoulder with the other overseas British dependencies, proud of the British traditions, redolent with measures of greatness. Canada would continue steadfast for the permanence of British institutions and for the consolidation of the Brit-

C. M. Bowman, North Bruce (Lib.), said that Sir John A. Macdonald was on record as expressing the view that a reciprocity treaty with the United States would round off and complete his trade policy. R. R. Gamey declared that the reciprocity argeement meart "one step farther from the Union Jack, and one step nearer Uncle Sam. Not in its annexational effect, but as a gradual result of placing the commerce of Canada on a continental instead of an independent national or British imperial basis. The debate was resumed at the evening session by J. McEwing, Liberal, West Wellington. 'The manufacturers," he said, "are afraid that if this tariff arrangement goes through it will be such a success that there will be an overwhelming demand for a general lowering of the tariff. This has been considered, and admitted by a great many of the manufacturers."

W. H. Hoyle, Conservative, North
Toronto, replying to W. Proudfoot said: "They say Canadians are suspicious toward annexation. I ask why Canadians should not be suspicious. We have never had a commercial treaty with the United States but what we have found that Uncle Sam had a Bad Pair Get Four Years. Toronto, March 10 .- Four years in Kingston penitentiary and twenty lashes apiece was the dose handed to Carl Epstein and Charles Sandler, both of Montreal.

These two young men, 19 years of age, were found guilty on a charge of robbing and assaulting Lena Miller at 1 Plymouth avenue a week ago. Sandler in the box admitted buying the chloroform but said it was with Epstein's money. He also blamed Epstein for the whole thing and said he was induced by him to go into the matter. He said Epstein took everything that was stolen.

Epstein took the box and blamed Sandler and said it was Sandler's own money that purchased the chloroform. Sandler took the money and the coat, "I think they are a bad pair," said the colonel. "They will go to the penitentiary for four years each and also get twenty lishes, ten when they go there and ten when they have served half their sentence."

Eloped With Brother's Wife. Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., March 10 .-With the deportation yesterday of William Hall, a deserter from the U. S. army, a story of a brother's in-gratitude was unfolded by Inspector Armstrong, of the Dominion Immigration Service.

Hall, after deserting his post at Fort Shelling, St. Paul, fled to the home of his brother James, at Fibre, Mich., where he lived with his wife and two small children. Finding on his arrival that his brother was absent in Saginaw, he importuned the wife to elope with him to Canada. With the knowledge that he was a dangerous character and was already wanted for shooting, and fearful of the consequences should she refuse, she started with him for Blind River, Ont., where her husband located them.

British Naval Estimates. London, March 10.- The naval estimates issued last night provide for the expenditure of $231,962,500, an increase of $19,000,000 on the previous year. The cost of new construction is fixed at $75,319,385. The program includes five Dreadnoughts, three protected cruisers, one unarmored cruiser, 20 destroyers, six submarines, and an increase in the personnel of the navy of 3,000 men.

The naval building proposals have caused a good deal of discussion of late. According to the reports, the Admiralty wanted six new Dreadnoughts laid down this year. Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, favored five, but the radical section of the Cabinet and Liberal party insisted that four would suffice.

Magistrate's Name Was Forged.

Carleton Place, Ont., Marche 10 .-Alf. James, a young man arrested at Smith's Falls, charged with attempting to pass a forged check on the Union Bank here on Monday, was committed for trial. Mayor Smythe held court in the place of Magistrate McNully, whose name was forged to a check for $355.50.

Shot Over Bag of Peanuts.

Chicago, March 19 .- A quarrel over a bag of peanuts resulted in the probable fatal shooting of Fred. Meyer, in the presence of an after-theatre crowd. After a few words with Meyer, who was a railway ticket agent, W. D. Page, a bookkeeper, shot him through the brain, stepped over the body and started leisurely down the steps.

Result of Division on Wednesday Has Rallied the Waverers and the Government Forces Are Encouraged--H. H. Miller Speaks on the Subject-A. S. Goodeve Bitterly Attacks the Measure.

Ottawa, March 10.-The debate on the reciprocal trade agreement has once-again settled into its stride. The division of Wednesday night, with its significant result, has temporarily disheartened the Opposition, and they are marking time for developments. out by Magistrate Denison yesterday On the other hand, supporters of the Government are well pleased and encouraged. It is recognized that the final registration of approval will resuit in additional strength to the Goverament, and that as the merits of the case develop in debate there is assurance of constant augmentation of popular approval. There was a breeze over the information regarding the wages, prices of commodities in Canada supplied to members. Mr. Borden asked again that information be given the mempers similar to that afforded the U.S. Congress. He repeated that it was necessary in order to discuss the reciprocity agreement intelligently. Mr Fielding said such information had been compiled by an official of the Department of Labor and had been published some time ago. Dr. Reid of Grenville said this was not what was wanted. If Mr. Fielding wanted to get the resolution through the House in decent time, he would and it better to produce the informa-formation," he declared. "If we can't get it one way we will get it in another. If he can't bring down a pamphlet, he will have to give us the information in the House itself. It is his duty to do so." H. H. Miller (South Grey), who moved the adjournment of the debate on the reciprocity agreement Wednesday, then resumed the discussion. He said that the agreement when it went into effect would tend to regulate the prices of commodities in both counrries. He quoted statisties to show that the experts of the United States in cattle, beef, wheat, butter and other products of the farm were decreasing rapidly, and will soon be at the vanishing point.

Mr. Miller argued that if these prelictions were to come true, it meant hat the agreement would remain a ermanent thing, and that when the lay came when Canada's production would have increased by one hundredfold we would be very glad to have the big American market.

A. S. Goodeve (Kootenay), was essecially severe on the manner in which the agreement was negotiated. He said the Government was desirous of detracting the attention of the peoale from the reign of graft and corruption that had prevailed. Two men ad been sent to Washington. They had entered into a surreptitious agree. ment. When the announcement was Tade to the House, he observed that the "stage was prepared and the claquers were in the rear. At the psychological moment the Minister of Finance entered and laid his Pandoras box on the desk. Then after a few moments he rose, touched a spring, opened his box, and forthwith there merged a Trojan horse." Loud laughter greeted this oratical bull.

Orange Lodge Will Vigorously Fight Bilingualism.

Barrie, March 10.-The Orange Or-der has plunged into politics. It has been accused of "dabbling" for years and years but it has now taken the "dive" to recover "the game as well as the name." Bi-lingual schools is to the issue. The 600 odd delegates to the Grand Lodge of Ontario West unanimously pledged themselves to vote only for those candidates for the Legislature who will promise to abolish bi-lingual schools and are willing to confine the religious teachings in the schools to what the Department of Education authorizes.

The Pape's interdict regarding mixed marriages was volleyed at with leared decks, but the discussion and the resolution resulting from it are withheld from publication. However, it was decided to ask for legislation from the Federal Government which will declare that a marriage legally contracted in any province shall be of the Dominion. This is a dead set against the canon law of Quebec. Also there was the perennial resolution against Irish home rule.

Munroe Books In Court. New York, March 19 .- In the trial yesterday of George Munros, for using the mail to defraud, Albert P. Smith, an accountant, who had made a special examination of the Munroe books for the Government, testified that on Dec. 31, 1907, just before the Munroes clos I shop and fled to Canada, the labilities over the assets amounted to $115.111. There were 12.428 shares of stock undelivered, of which 8,190 were shares of English Marconi Wireless. The firm at that date had but 101 shares of English Marconi. During he year 1907, the books showed that he Munroes had delivered 1,011 shares of Marconi Wireless. The cash on hand on Dec. 31, 1907, including bank accounts, amounted to $8.50

Vast fortunes made selling popcorn. and peanuts were cited by Munroe in his campaign to float a "boot black trust," according to the testimony of Walter M. Watson, who was recalled at the afternoon session. Watson testified that he received $10 a week salary as president of the Metropolitan Syndicate, a Munroe concern, the business of which he said was "nothing." Watson said he had carried 500,000 shares of the bootblack trust for Munroe.

Alaska Central Land Fraud. Chicago, March 10 .- Inside information on the most gigantic land fraud ever under investigation by the Government came to light with the seizure by special agents of books, correspondence, deeds and various documents at the offices of A. C. Frost, promoter of the Maska Central Railway and c the receiver, George M. Seward,

The Covernment's claim is that original prospectors were never paid for their options. It is said that, after the Alaska Central went into the Frost's agents, continued a manipulation of the coal land claims, and implicated several Canadians whom he represented in the United States Government land investigation. Two witnesses from Canada will arrive in Chicago to-day and go before Federal grand jury, which began an invesigation yesterday morning.

John Hays Hammond Accused. New York, March 10 .- In a suit filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, John Hays Hammond, the rich mining engineer, friend of President Taft and by him appointed special ambassador to represent the United States at the coronation of King George V. of Great Britain, is charged with fraudulent dealings in connection with the affairs of the General Cotton Securities Co.

Included in the charges against Hammond and some of his associates are falsification of the minutes of the company, illegal removal of the assets of the company and permitting dummy directors to participate in carrying out an alleged conspiracy to wreck the company. Prospective profits of millions of dollars are involved.

Wild Youth Gets 23 Months.

Windsor, March 10-Hanlon Wright, who demanded $5,000 in cash from his rich uncle, William Wright, of Harrow, faced five charges before Judge McHugh at Sandwich yesterday, and was found guilty of three. He received one year for carrying offensive weapons, six months for assaulting Nick Ballard, a hotel pro-prietor at McGregor, and 23 months for demanding $5,000 from his uncle by threats. Charges of threatening to burn down Ballard's Hotel and writing threatening letters were dismissed. The sentences will run concurrently.

Doctor Led Night Riders.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 10.-Alleg-ed secrets of the "Night Rider" organization, which operated in the western Kentucky tobacco war of 1907. are laid bare in the confession of Milton Oliver, star witness in the trial of Dr. David Amos, prominent physician and alleged "general" of the Night Rider army which stormed Hopkinsville in 1907 and destroyed half a million dollars' worth of property. Oliver was brought here from his present home at Maropolis, III., under military escort.

OBITUARY.-Mrs. Thomas Quinlan passed away Tuesday morning after a protracted period of illhealth from cancer, the last few weeks of which she was mostly! confined, her passing being particularly sad from her being in the age. She leaves with the bereaved husband a family of one son, Ed-See Gould's west window display ward, and four daughters, of whom and the eldest about sixteen, and thus able to look after her father's household affairs, but they all have the sincerest sympathy of the village mother's love and guidance. The funeral took place Thursday morning at nine o'clock from St. John's R. C. church to Port Hope ceme-WILL ENTERTAIN. - The Brother- tery for interment. - Newcastle
