DURHAM COUNTY TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE

Held Two Sessions Here Monday—Large Crowd in Attendance

The President and Secretary of the Dominion Alliance having called a Convention of Temperance workers of the County of Durham for Monday last, delegates from the several municipalities of the county, about fifty in number, assembled in the Town Hall in the afternoon.

The delegates were met by the Provincial Secretary, Rev. Mr. Kettlewell, who called the meeting to order and suggested that a business committee be named. The following were appointed:—Rev. W. G. Clarke, Rev. A. M. Irwin, Messrs. Rundle and Ives, who met and reported as follows to the meeting. Chairman of the meeting Rev. A. M. Irwin, of Newcastle, Secretary, H. Fulford. The committee also recommended an outline of business for the session. The report of the committee was adopted.

The Rev. Mr. La Flair opened the proceedings with prayer. Mr. Norris of the Sherlock Quartette rendered two vocal solos during the afternoon with much acceptance.

Roll Call. From the several municipalities 7 responded from Port Hope, 1 from Bowmanville, 1 from Newcastle, 2 from Township of Hope, 7 from Darlington, 1 from Cavan, 3 from Manvers. Quite a number of delegates after roll call took seats.

Rev. Mr. Kettlewell addressed the Convention in the course of which he drew attention to the importance of county conventions, also the great convenience of having the several municipalities organized in order to have a better equipment of the temperance forces.

The speaker made much of the argument that the temperance forces were now realizing that the enthusiasm of the temperance people of 40 years ago was not well directed, inasmuch as that while total prohibition then was the chief plank of all effort, now local option has proved to be the wiser course.

He also argued that if three-fifths of the votes of the municipality were good enough to establish a prohibitive measure for the unit, surely three-fifths of the counties enacting local option should be good enough to warrant a Provincial measure.

Discussion followed in which Rev W. G. Clarke said he had in the past opposed county effort as such; but now he was inclined to the opinion that the next step to Provincial prohibition should be County prohibition. This entailed, he said, county organization.

Mr. Rowe said he was pleased to recognize the fact that the previous speaker, Rev. Mr. Clarke, was in favor of county local option as he, the speaker, was impressed with the importance of such a move.

Rev. E. Daniel approved of and strongly urged the importance of county organization and to commence at once, in order that the better education of our people along temperance lines should be obtained and a better enforcement of the present License Law.

Rev. Mr. LaFlair concurred in the remarks of Rev. E. Daniel and favored county organization.

The Chairman believed that a county organization would be a great advantage because a sympathetic feeling would be maintained among the several municipalities.

Moved by R. J. Rowe, seconded by W. A. Jakeman, That an organization, to be known as the Durham County Temperance Alliance, be effected, in affiliation with the Ontario Branch of the

That all resident ministers, any part of whose work lies within the county, shall be ex-officio members of the Executive. That this convention name officers for the various municipalities, whose duty it shall be to call together the temperance members of each municipality as early as possible for organization. Carried unanimously.

A nominating committee composed of Rev. W. G. Clarke, W. A. Peters, Mr. Ives, Rev. A. M. Irwin, A. E. Rundle, Mr. Sharpe and Mr. Jakeman recommended that the following constitute the officers and executive of county organization.

Conservatives Praise Reciprocity

President and Ex-President of Durham Conservative Association Unite in Declaring Reciprocity a Boon to Rural Communities.

Toronto Star.

Port Hope, Feb. 24.—The resolution of Port Hope's Board of Trade, protesting against ratification of the tariff pact, may represent the opinion of certain of the town's business men, but it does not coincide with the attitude of the farmers who spend their money here. Agriculturists who have been lifelong Conservatives assure the Star that they are in favour of the agreement, and go so far as to say that they would vote for the Government were the tariff made an election issue.

What opposition there may be among a certain section of the town's people is traceable, as usual, to manufacturing interests. It is the old story of the latter's unwillingness to allow any measure of reciprocity lest its popularity should lead to cuts in duty on manufactured articles. In Port Hope the origin of the objections is an enamel-ware plant which the town bonused and exempted from taxes, and which is located right on the harbour, where vessels once did a busy trade but which is now almost deserted so far as lake traffic is concerned.

"BARLEY DAYS" RECALLED.

What a north-and-south traffic across the lake would mean to the town is illustrated by stories of the time when such a traffic existed. Coal Merchant Rosevear, who looks upon the reciprocity agreement very favorably, recalls the days when as many as thirty-eight vessels were to be seen loading at Port Hope's wharfs at one time. "I have seen as many as a 150 men loading vessels," he told the Star, "and I have seen parties come up to town to get more men at 4 o'clock in the morning. Lumber was the chief product shipped. That trade, of course is gone beyond recall. But barley was shipped nearly every day. I think reciprocity would be the best thing that ever happened. It would certainly help this part of the country."

John Curtis, grocer, also remembers the activity which the cross-lake trade engendered at Port Hope's $150,000 harbour. He says that apples used to be extensively shipped by boat when the tariff laws were such as to make it profitable. As one who has the interests of the farmer at heart, he is thoroughly in favor of freer trade as provided by the agreement. He believes that apple growing along the north shore could be made an exceptionally profitable business under the new conditions.

AN OBJECTION THAT FAILS.

Mr. Borden's argument as to north and south trade channels is met only occasionally in the lake shore towns, and for a very good reason.

As for the farmers hereabouts, they seem to have the courage to throw politics to the winds. They favour the agreement because it means prosperity for themselves.

CONSERVATIVE, BUT IN FAVOR.

"As a farmer," he said, "I approve of the reciprocity agreement. I am interested in fruit, and I think it will help our market for fruit, especially the winter varieties.

ANOTHER TORY SPEAKS OUT.

Dust Laden Records.

Searching for important old manuscripts at the British public record office, whether by Shakespearean students or others, is disagreeable work. Nine-tenths of the manuscripts are covered with the dust of ages, and an hour among them makes the searcher as black as a sweep. Some of the documents are so fragile that they can scarcely be touched without their falling to pieces, such as those rescued from the House of Lords fire in 1834, which were so hopelessly saturated with water that bundles of them had to be squeezed dry in powerful presses. It has been estimated that it would take fifty housemaids fifty years to spring clean the contents of the record office.

Former Colleagues Disagree on Tariff Issue.

EX-MINISTER STEPS OUT

Member For Brandon Breaks With His Party and Delivers the Soundest Criticism of the Tariff Measure That Has Yet Been Offered—Mr. Fisher Makes an Able Reply—Country Comes First.

Ottawa, March 1.—With Minister pitted against ex-Minister, the Commons yesterday heard the soundest argument and the best expert opinion yet advanced for and against the reciprocity agreement, in the light of its actual economic effect upon the Canadian people. The day's debate, replete with interest throughout, opened with the somewhat sensational declaration by Hon. Clifford Sifton, who for twenty-three years has represented Brandon in the Liberal interest, and who for nine years was Minister of the Interior, that he could not follow his friends of the Government in this new and radical change of fiscal policy. In a compact and close-reasoned speech of two hours' duration the ex-Minister gave the reasons for his course and furnished practically the only logical criticism that has yet been offered to the agreement. In comparison the arguments advanced from the other side of the House by Messrs. Borden and Foster were admittedly weak and ineffective. Mr. Sifton was the first critic to deal with the details of the agreement in their economic aspect.

Almost in his first sentence did the ex-Minister make plain his attitude. He regretted that on a subject so important he could not follow the lead of the party with which he had been identified all his life.

"In the Liberal reciprocity campaign of twenty years ago he had, he said, participated, but almost before the campaign was over he had come to believe that the party was wrong. Since then he had steadily set himself against reciprocity."

Mr. Sifton declared that he had made no mystery about his opinion, although he had not tried to force it upon his political friends.

"We don't leave our party for a small reason," said Mr. Sifton, "but we adhere to a party because, in general, it adheres to principles in which we believe."

But when there is a basic difference, Mr. Sifton thought it time that political allegiance be dissolved. "That is the position in which I find myself to-day. I take the only course possible for me, however painful it may be."

Mr. Sifton went on to criticize the conduct of the Government in this deal. In a matter of this importance the fullest enquiry is usually made—for instance, at the time of the German question 20,000 enquiries were made.

"In this case I believe we should have consulted the most-favored nations," he said. "But in this case Mr. Sifton showed how ingardly the Government had been furnishing information. Members had had to dig their statistics out of various blue books as best they could."

Mr. Fielding, too, had failed to argue the merits of the question, he thought.

"I dissent altogether with the proposition that Canadians have been in favor of reciprocity for the past forty years," declared Mr. Sifton.

There had, however, he explained, been several attempts at an approach. But when it came to the election of 1908, neither party made the least mention of reciprocity.

"I agree that the Government has had no mandate to make these proposals," went on the ex-Minister.

"The Government, it was true, was not elected to pass upon specific measures. They have to exercise a discretion within the constitution, but they abused it in turning away from a policy that had three times been discussed, debated and approved."

"Nothing has given Canada such a shock as that four or five gentlemen, of their own will can commit this country to so radical a change. I do not think that there can be a more dangerous condition," was Mr. Sifton's assertion.

This Government had three planks in its platform—British preference, reduced duties on some articles used by farmers, and a reduction on raw material used by manufacturers. But the underlying principle was still protection. In 1900 the people endorsed the tariff of 1897.

"I am firmly convinced that the system was the best for Canada, and one which it will be unsafe radically to change," went on Mr. Sifton, who proceeded to deal with the British preference.

He believed there was some idea of increasing it, but he would not support any substantial increase at the expense of the Canadian manufacturer.

As a result, in the last fifteen years, the Dominion has prospered more than any country on earth. Man for man, Canadians were better off than any equal population. The farmers were prosperous.

A few "hear-hears" emanated from the silence in which the Government watched the bolt of the man from Brandon.

A blue book by the Minister of Labor furnished Mr. Sifton valuable statistics of the movement of prices from 1890 to 1899. Grain had risen 49 per cent., dairy produce 33 per cent., cattle 48 per cent., and, what the farmer buys, wooden goods, up 43 per cent., boots 25 per cent., etc. The farmer, therefore, was getting more than his share of the general prosperity.

"Now, the proposition is made that we revolutionize this policy which has worked so auspiciously. What will be the result? Individuals will suffer greatly. As to the general prosperity, the development of our resources is so vast that, no mistake could prevent Canada making enormous advances," argued the speaker.

Mr. Sifton could not see why certain innocent industries should be sacrificed. He firmly believed that the beef packing industry would be destroyed.

"The Canadian packer could no more stand up against the beef trust than I could against this building if it fell on me," he put it.

As to Mr. Burrell's presentation of the disaster to the fruit and vegetable growers in the west, no answer had been attempted by the Government.

Then such industries as the Quaker Oats factory at Peterboro would be curtailed 60 to 70 per cent. They have been manufacturing mainly for export, and formed a most advantageous industry for this country.

"These industries were formed because it was thought the fiscal policy of Canada was settled. (Conservative applause.)"

"Now, is it reasonable that people will invest their money in building factories in this country unless they receive a definite assurance that what is happening now will not happen again? And I do not see how they can receive such assurance," was the next onslaught.

"One short year ago the United States was brandishing a club over our head. Now they say they are friendly. How long will they remain so? At any time, a thousand things may cause friction serious enough to make it easy for an American political party to court popularity by moving against Canada. Certainly, we are putting our head in a noose," said Mr. Sifton, amid cheers.

Mr. Sifton went into figures. Hogs had prevailed at higher prices in the Canadian market than in the States. Lambs had brought less at Chicago. Only for the higher grade of butter was the American price more than the Canadian.

Mr. Sifton could see no gain for the farmer even if present market conditions were not demoralized. This agreement meant practically free trade in agricultural products. The market would be absolutely dominated by the United States and the most favored nations.

Mr. Fisher's reply to Mr. Sifton was courteous. He congratulated his colleague on the manner in which he presented his convictions to the House. He valued party really as much as Mr. Sifton, but thought that the country came before the party, and it was a man's duty to declare his position when he differed on a vital question for his party. In bringing down the reciprocity agreement, Mr. Fisher thought the Government was continuing its wise and farseeing administration of the affairs of the country.

"But if I did believe with the member for Brandon," said Mr. Fisher, "I, too, would resign my position and oppose this resolution."

Mr. Fisher challenged the statement made by Mr. Sifton that the Government had not fully informed itself on the question, and had not provided the country with full information. It was all very well to consult one's industry, and base an argument on the conditions affecting that industry. An industry regarded a tariff from the point of view of profit, whereas the Government had to regard a schedule as it affected the industry concerned, and every other industry in the country.

Mr. Fisher answered the charge of the member for Brandon that the Government had revived reciprocity, by pointing out that when the present Government assumed office, the Prime Minister sent a joint high commission, which went to Washington to negotiate a trade treaty. It failed in this, and the announcement was made that any future proposals would have to come from the United States.

The Minister of Agriculture criticized Mr. Sifton's statement that he would have been justified in standing pat when President Taft was about to enforce the provision for the imposition of the maximum clause in the Payne-Aldrich tariff, when a few immaterial concessions prevented a state of non-intercourse in commerce existing between the two countries.

In conclusion Mr. Fisher argued that it was an insult to the Canadian people to suppose that they would be influenced by trading with the United States when the motherland had a trade largely in excess of that of Canada.

W. M. German (Welland) moved the adjournment, and the debate will be resumed on Thursday. The House does not sit on Ash Wednesday.

Raided Illicit Still.

Ottawa, March 1.—Shortly after midnight Monday the police raided a house, 385 Gloucester street, in the central part of the city, and placed four men under arrest on charges of maintaining an illicit still and illegally manufacturing liquor. It is alleged that the liquor was being supplied to the "blind pig" trade in Cobalt.

Seven Hundred Are Laid Off.

Chicago, March 1.—The retrenchment order of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad has resulted in the discharge of 75 per cent. of the force on the main line construction, car repairs, round-house work and maintenance of way. In St. Paul alone 700 men have been taken from the pay rolls.

TAX ON DEALS IN STOCKS

Heavier Levy on Railways and Express Companies and on Race Meetings Are Also Among Col. Matheson's Plans For Increased Provincial Revenue — Bars Must Pay Part of Their Earnings.

Toronto, March 1.—Hon. W. J. Hanna transformed the scene in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon when he announced, speaking very slowly, that he moved, seconded by Hon. Dr. Pyne, the first reading of a bill "to amend the liquor license act."

The words acted like magic on the Assembly.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said the bill did not propose to change the conditions with regard to fees with respect to the hotels doing a small bar-room trade, but to increase the revenue from license holders where the day's business exceeded $40 a day by taxing the amount in excess of that sum 5 per cent.

The Provincial Secretary said: "In making this provision, we have departed somewhat from the present principles applied to the imposing of licenses. The licenses are as they stand at present, however, and the sections of the act relating to licenses we leave unaltered and untouched. Our thought has been in imposing these conditions to reach the licensees who can afford to pay, without doing an injustice to those who are not in this fortunate position."

"The reduction of the number of licenses going on throughout the province," said Hon. Mr. Hanna, "is giving the increased value to those licenses that remain, and there is no reason in the world why the province should not get a share of this unearned increment of the effort to protect the people of the province."

Hon. W. J. Hanna also introduced a bill to discipline chemists who sell alcoholic liquor for beverage purposes. It provides that where a chemist has been twice convicted he shall be reported to the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and empowers the college to cancel the pharmacy certificate one to three years.

Heavier taxes in railway and express companies, new taxes on horse-race meetings and stock transfers were the features of a supplementary revenue bill introduced in the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon by Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer.

The increased taxes on railways will amount to about $22,000, while the tax on express companies will be also largely increased.

The new tax upon the clubs of the Canadian Racing Association and the Metropolitan Racing Association for their seven days meetings will be $1,400 for each meeting, that is $200 a day, to be paid in advance.

For trotting and pacing race meetings the license fee will be $10 for a one-day meet; $40 for a meeting lasting two days, and $60 for one of three days' duration.

The clause to tax all stock transfers will be two cents for every $100 or fraction thereof of the par value upon every change of ownership, consequent upon the sale, transfer, or assignments of shares, bonds, debentures. The tax will not apply to the original issue of security by any joint stock company. It also will not apply to the transfer or assignment of securities, security for loans, or transfers owing to death. A penalty will be imposed on any company entering a transfer of such securities upon which the tax has not been paid.

Sir James Whitney gave consent to a bill from an Opposition member, Mr. Proudfoot going to committee. It was to empower municipalities to purchase and operate large spraying machines for the destruction of pests on fruit trees.

The Premier said he could see no objection to it.

Death of J. C. Ford.

Oakville, March 1.—Oakville lost one of her public-spirited citizens in the death Monday afternoon of Mr. James C. Ford. An attack of the prevalent grip gave no cause for alarm until a few days ago, when complications arose which defied medical aid.

The late Mr. Ford was a native of Halton County, having been born 45 years ago in Trafalgar Township. About twenty years ago he came to Oakville and became chief partner and manager in the Oakville Basket Co. He was for years of member of the Town Council, and for the last seven years had been a member of the County Council, his name being prominently identified with the good roads movement in this county and the establishment of a House of Refuge. The Town Council met in regular session Monday night, but adjourned immediately after passing a resolution expressive of their sense of the loss sustained in the death of their colleague. Mr. Ford is survived by a wife and daughter.

Woman Dies in a Dental Chair.

Montreal, March 1.—After having thirty teeth extracted yesterday, Marie Goulet, aged 19 years, collapsed suddenly and died. She had recovered from the chloroform, and death is said to have been due to heart failure. Deceased was accompanied to the dental institution by her sister, who, with the physician, explained the circumstances to coroner McMatheson, and he disposed of the case without calling a jury. The girl had twice previously taken chloroform for operations without ill effect.

Customs Increases.

Ottawa, March 1.—An increase of $10,316,464.31 is shown in the customs collections of the Dominion for the eleven months of the fiscal year ending yesterday, the total being $64,696,491.55. Collections for February total $5,990,030.64, an increase of $315,253.38.

No Impairment of Bait Law.

St. John's, Nfld., March 1.—The action of the Government in subsidizing cold storage plans for fish to be conducted at St. John's and at several other places in the colony by an American firm has brought protests from the followers of the former Premier, Sir Robert Bond, in the Colonial Assembly, who argue that the granting of the subsidy to Americans is the first step toward an abandonment of the colony's treaty rights, and has nullified the Newfoundland bait law.

In answer to a memorial from the St. John's Board of Trade the Premier, Sir Edward Morris, declared that the Government has in no wise impaired the effectiveness of the bait law. To confirm his contentions, he suggested the matter be placed before a committee of lawyers without partisan interest, and the lawyers in their decision confirmed the Premier's view.

Buy Painting For Nation.

London, March 1.—The announcement that the Marquis of Lansdowne's famous Rembrandt "The Mill" is going to America has been followed with the suggestion that the picture be acquired for the national gallery by public subscription.

Sir Charles Holroyd, director of the national gallery, who has been recalled from Vienna to conduct such a campaign, said yesterday that the marquis had offered the nation the refusal of the work, and promised $25,000 towards its purchase. Sir Charles, however, despaired of raising the amount necessary, unless some millionaire was prepared to give the bulk of the sum, as in the recent case of Holbein's "Duchess of Milan," when $225,000 was given by an anonymous contributor.

It is stated that an American collector has offered $500,000 for "The Mill."

The deceased was born in England, and came to this country over fifty years ago, and resided in the neighborhood of Elmview ever since. He was always kind and obliging, ever ready to give a helping hand, and was much respected by all. He was married to Sarah Jones of Omeme, over forty years ago, who is left with five daughters and one son to mourn his loss. Mrs. Henry Yelland, Cobourg, Mrs. Franklin Ough, Elmview, Mrs. Fred Ough, Dale, Mrs. Herbert Davey, Baltimore, Mrs. Fred Davey, Precious Corners, and Sydney at home.

The funeral took place from the family residence and was largely attended by friends and neighbors. Services were conducted at the residence and cemetery by Rev.
