

DECLARES WOMEN NEVER GROW UP

Haven't Done Anything Important Anyway—Dr. Cody Marsh Waxes Somewhat Cynical

A maturist movement to enable women "to grow up to an intellectual and emotional adulthood," was proposed by Dr. Cody Marsh, former professor of psychology at George Washington university, in an address at Albany, N.Y.

"Women have never graduated from baby clothes or baby talk," he said, citing their pet words, "darling," "precious," "angel," "cute," and the flair for ribbons, silks and fluffs.

"Women have never done anything important," he said. "With the possible exception of Sappho, they have not a single achievement to their credit.

"The large fortunes possessed by women have been obtained only by inheritance or as alimony, or heart balm. In business, as in politics, woman is just doing the dishes. And also, as a companion to man, woman is a failure. There is no such thing as perfect companionship between men and women."

OSHAWA MAYOR'S TENTH BIRTHDAY

Mayor R. D. Preston Is Youngest Mayor in the World

His Worship Mayor R. D. Preston was the recipient Wednesday of congratulations on the occasion of his tenth birthday. Born in 1884, Oshawa's Mayor was 44 years old Wednesday, but since he is a leap year baby, he has only one birthday in four years.

The following address was read by Mrs. Wilbur Baulch and the presentation of several beautiful pieces of silver made by Mrs. R. B. Thompson and Mrs. Fred Oke.

Port Hope, Feb. 28, 1928 To Mr. and Mrs. Broadbent—Dear Friends:—

Just a word of explanation as to why we have invaded your home uninvited. Just twenty five years ago we read in the Daily Guide that Catherine Hooper Baulch was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Edward Broadbent by the Rev. E. B. Lancelley and we, a few of your friends and neighbors desire to celebrate with you the anniversary of this very happy event.

We know too, that you would overlook our seeming rudeness, remembering that you dear people have in the past been guilty of similar offences.

To remind you of this anniversary occasion, we ask you to accept this gift as a small token of our friendship for you both and pray that the God from whom comes every good and perfect gift, may continue to grant to you prosperity and health in all the future years He may be pleased to spare you. Signed on behalf of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadbent who were quite overcome, thanked the friends fittingly for their kindness, and threw their home open to all to have a good time.

Different games were played and all seemed to have a jolly time, after which a most dainty lunch was served.

25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Broadbent Were Honored by Friends

HORTICULTURIST GIVES ADVICE

Jas. A. Neilson of Port Hope, Gives Instructions On Tree Pruning

During the season of 1927 several thousand apple trees were top-grafted in the apple districts of Ontario. In the great majority of cases the results were satisfactory and consequently but little attention will be necessary in respect to further grafting on the same trees, writes James A. Neilson, Extension Horticulturalist at Port Hope. Trees which were only partly grafted last year, or other trees on which there was a poor stand of scions, will, of course, need to be completed or re-grafted again.

In the operation of grafting a considerable number of branches are removed and as a result there is usually a strong growth of new shoots. This is especially noticeable on Starks and other vigorous growing varieties. The new growth is likely to be most abundant near the point where the branches were cut off, and if it is allowed to remain will interfere with the proper development of the scions.

Remove Suckers

It will, therefore, be necessary to remove some of this sucker growth, particularly near the scions. It will also be advisable to take some branches which were left to carry on growth when the tree was first grafted. When removing undesirable sucker growth or extra branches one should leave a sufficient amount of stock branches to carry on growth processes until the scion branches are well developed, and also to shade the central part of the tree and thus prevent sun scald. Some varieties, the Ben Davis, for example, are liable to sun scald badly if all the branches are taken off shortly after grafting.

After the scion variety has become well established, the excess stock branches should be removed, thus leaving the top composed entirely of the scion variety.

Cull Off Scions

In the grafting over of most trees the majority of branches require two or more scions. Where more than one scion grows all should be left until they begin to crowd each other. When this condition is noted the least desirable should be cut out, leaving good, strong graft on each stub. The leaving of more than one graft on a stub until a crowded condition appears is recommended because of the more rapid healing over of the stub which takes place when two grafts are left. When these crowding grafts are cut out the cut should be made slightly beyond the end of the stub so that some of the basal part of the graft remains as living tissue for protection of the original cut.

PUBLIC MEETING WILL BE CALLED

Port Hope Could Show Considerable Interest in Horticultural Society

In recent years there has been a great improvement in the appearance of home grounds, streets and parks in many towns and villages in Ontario. Much of this improvement is due to the splendid work of the Ontario Horticultural Association, an organization that is said to be the largest of its kind in the world. This society has about 75,000 members and, with a few exceptions, is found in nearly every town and village of any size and importance in Ontario. Port Hope is one of the few towns without a branch of the Horticultural Society. We are informed that there was a good live society in operation a few years ago, but for some reason it was discontinued. This is most regrettable indeed, as there certainly is a need for such an organization in Port Hope. Quite possibly an active Horticultural Society could help to make Port Hope the prettiest town in Canada instead of one of the prettiest. It has been said that the Rotary Club are doing the work of the Horticultural Society in Port Hope and consequently there is no need for such a society. The Rotary Club have done excellent work in civic improvement in Port Hope but it is believed that there is also a need for the activities of the Horticultural Society particularly in home ground improvement. The Rotary Club are doing and have done good work in many ways in which a Horticultural Society does not function—and likewise there are lines of work for Horticultural Societies which the Rotarians do not usually undertake as a unit. In many other places both societies are operating without any conflict of interests and the same condition should obtain in Port Hope. Arrangements are being made by the local Department of Agriculture for a public meeting in the near future at which there will be an illustrated lecture by Mr. H. J. Moore, of Toronto, on Home Ground Improvement. Following this meeting there will be a re-organization of the Horticultural Society. Further announcements will be made concerning the date of the meeting.

SECOND GAME IN TOWN LEAGUE

Victorias and Leafs To Hook up in Play Off Fixture This Evening

What promises to be the best junior town league game of the season will be played at the Young street rink this evening when the Maple Leafs and Victorias hook up in the second game of the playoffs. On Tuesday night the Victorias stole a march on the Leafs when they handed them a decisive 4 to 1 defeat and the Leafs will be out in force tonight to get revenge. The game will start at seven o'clock and Johnny Rowden will referee.

A record crowd should be out for the contest tonight as the players give all they have and a fine class of hockey is shown. Interest will be at fever heat tonight and if the Vics capture the game tonight they will clinch the league championship and thus, the Giffen skates and the Gould boots.

Following are the probable lineups: Leafs—Goal, Wade; defense, B. Sherry and Giddy; centre, Clement; wings, Strong and Sneyd; subs, Paedon and Leuty.

Victorias—Goal, Haskill; defense, D. Trew and Stephens; centre, Berbert; wings, Davison and Highfield; subs, McElroy and F. Sherry.

HEARD ON THE STREET

How about it? Did March come in like a lion or a lamb?

We seem to have enjoyed a little of every kind of weather, so it was a little difficult to determine how you would put the first of March down.

There will be general skating at the rink tonight from eight to ten following the Town League hockey game.

The Port Hope Music Study Club are journeying out to Welcome tonight to put on a concert program at the United Church there.

Four leap year babies, three girls and one lonesome boy, were born in Hamilton Hospital Wednesday forenoon.

The farmers and agricultural men who went to England and Denmark recently on the Canadian farmers' marketing tour under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture to get European ideas on marketing of farm products, arrived back in Toronto Wednesday morning on the C.N.R. train at 7.30 from Montreal. The party included Jas. Walker, Canadian Bank of Commerce; C. W. Buchanan, Port Arthur; and H. C. Borrance, Brantford, who were in the outgoing party of R. S. Duncan and S. C. Hart of the department. Mr. Duncan and Mr. Hart staying in England for some weeks yet. Others were W. Hewson, Weston and farmers from Rockwood, Caledonia, Woodbridge, St. Thomas, Picton, Bloomfield and Brampton. They expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the tour and felt sure that many benefits would accrue from the ideas of farming and economics that they had picked up.

Durham County breeders have had good sales of Shorthorns the past year, and are enthusiastic over a successful future in beef cattle. They consider that the industry has now passed the low-price period and that more and more breeders will be looking out for pure-bred stock to replenish their herds so that they may get in line for the period of prosperity that is apparently coming.

The Seymour Agricultural Society is co-operating with the Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture in their work of conducting a better seed campaign in Northumberland county. A meeting was held Wednesday afternoon in John L. Hay's Community Hall at Campbellford, at which addresses were delivered by the agricultural representatives relative to the improvement of seed.

A small storekeeper, much to the astonishment of his neighbors, suddenly decorated his shop window with a gorgeous new blind. "It was the sensation of the day, and few of his brethren failed to make some remarks to him about it. "Nice blind you have there, Isaac," said one.

"Yes, Aaron." "How much did it cost you Isaac?" "It didn't cost me anything, Aaron. My customers paid for it." "What! Your customers paid for it?" "Yes, Aaron, I put a needle box on my counter, "For the Blind," and they paid for it."

The early history of the lumbering industry in Canada is practically the history of the lumbering of white pine. In the early days of lumbering the white pine was considered the main, if not the only, tree of value in the forests. It was the premier lumber tree and for years held first place as lumber producer both as to quantity cut and the value of the product.

CAME HERE OVER 77 YEARS AGO

Mrs. J. Haslett, Now 100 Years of Age, Came to Port Hope To Visit Brother

All the way from historic Londonderry, Ireland, to Canada, in a sailing vessel owned by her cousin, seventy-seven years ago, came Mrs. John J. Haslett, of 48 Howland ave. Toronto, who Tuesday celebrated her hundredth birthday.

It was a very happy day for the centenarian who, considering the weight of years carried by this gentlewoman of the Victorian era, is in splendid health. A profusion of spring flowers and a birthday cake with one hundred candles marked the occasion.

Mrs. Haslett, youngest daughter of the late Andrew Woods, of Ard-came House, near Londonderry, came to Canada to visit her brother at Port Hope. She met and later wed John Haslett, one of Ontario's pioneer surveyors, at Belleville. Later Mrs. Haslett and family removed to Toronto on the death of her husband some thirty-five years ago.

Tuesday was spent quietly receiving congratulations from a wide circle of friends. At the dinner four generations were present. Mr. Thomas C. Haslett, K.C., of Hamilton, and his two daughters, his son-in-law, and three grandchildren. Other children present on the auspicious occasion were Mrs. Ferguson and William Haslett of Simcoe and the two Misses Haslett at home.

Condit to Hop Off For the Planet Venus—Will Only Carry One Sandwich As Food

Robert Condit, inventor, hopes to leave Monday on his projected "rocket flight" to the planet Venus, he announced Wednesday.

Atmospheric conditions, he said, were favorable for the trip, which he estimated would take about 48 hours. He will carry one sandwich for food en route, he said, and will figure how to get back after—and if—he reaches his destination.

2ND FORM TEAM DEFEAT ORONO

Orme Gamsby's Stalwarts Go Down to 5-0 Defeat on Wednesday

In an exciting game of hockey at Orono Wednesday evening, the second form team of the Port Hope High School defeated Orme Gamsby's team from the Continuation School, 5-0. Roach in centre for the Blue and White played good hockey and ran in two goals, while Sherry, Graham and Hudson accounted for the others. The ice was in good condition and the locals played stellar hockey throughout. Following is the lineup for the locals: Goal, Car-ruthers, defence, Hudson and Mc-Elroy; centre, Roach; wings, Sherry and Graham; sub, Rowden.

MANY HAVE LEAP YEAR BIRTHDAYS

Britain Observes Once-in-Four-Years Event With Special Revels Where Women Foot Bills

More than 28,000 citizens of England and Wales yesterday celebrated their first birthday in four years, it was disclosed at the British Records Office. Everyone seems to have profited by leap year except spinners and convicts.

Despite Great Britain's two million surplus women, Government statistics show so few availed themselves of the traditional privilege of proposing on leap year that the marriage rate for the first two months of 1928 is far lower than in ordinary years.

The extra day added to the calendar by Pope Gregory in 1582 only meant another day of imprisonment for the British convicts who are doing long stretches.

On the other hand, Feb. 29 brought an additional day's pay to British soldiers and sailors. Season ticket holders to the London subways rode free all day. Apartment dwellers with a year's lease got a day's rent for nothing.

Advance booking at the hotels and night clubs showed that the day was regarded almost like New Year's Eve. All night life centres are holding special leap year revels at which the women order the cocktails, the dinner and the wine and ask the men to dance. The women also foot the bills and tip the waiters. Only wines of leap year vintage are served.

THE GUIDE STORY

I got him the ale before I announced him. He winked at me as he put it to his lips. "Your good health," says he, "leave the jug and glass, will you, in case my master keeps me waiting."

I announced him at once, and was told to show him into the library. When I got back to the hall the jug was empty, and Mr. Dark was comforting himself with a pinch of snuff and snorting over it like a grampus. He had swallowed more than a pint of the strongest ale in the house; and for all the effect it seemed to have had on him, he might just as well have been drinking so much water.

As I led him along the passage to the library, Josephine, the French maid, passed us. Mr. Dark winked at me again and made her a low bow. "Lady's-maid," I heard him whisper to himself. "A fine woman to look at, but a damned bad one to deal with." I turned round on him, rather angry at his cool ways, and looked hard at him, just before I opened the library door. Mr. Dark looked hard at me. "All right," says he, "I can show myself in." And he knocks at the door and opens it, and goes in, with another wicked wink, all in a moment.

Half an hour later the bell rang for me. Mr. Dark was sitting between my mistress (who was looking at him in amazement) and the lawyer (who was looking at him in approval). He had a map on his knee, and a pen in his hand. Judging by his face, the communication of the secret about my master did not seem to have made the smallest impression on him.

"I've got leave to ask you a question," says he, the moment I appeared.

"When you found your master's yacht gone, did you hear which way she had sailed? Was it north toward Scotland?"

"Yes," I answered. "The boatmen told me that, when I made inquiries at the harbor."

"Well, sir, if he said he was going to Sweden," says Mr. Dark, turning to the lawyer, he seems to have started on the road to it, at all events. I think I have got my instructions now?"

The lawyer nodded and looked at my mistress, who bowed her head at him. He then said, turning to me, "Pack up your bag for travelling, William, and have a conveyance got ready to go to the nearest post-town."

"And whatever happens in the future," added my mistress, her kind voice trembling a little, "believe, William, that I shall never forget this proof you now show of your devotion to me. It is still some comfort to know that I have your fidelity to depend on in this dreadful trial—your fidelity, and the extraordinary intelligence and experience of Mr. Dark."

Mr. Dark did not seem to hear the compliment. He was busy writing, with his paper upon the map on his knee. A quarter of an hour later, when I had ordered the dog-cart, and had got down into the hall with my bag packed, I found him there waiting for me. He was sitting on the same chair which he had occupied when he first arrived, and he had another jug of the old ale on the table by his side.

"Got any fishing-rods in the house?" says he, when I put my bag down in the hall.

"Yes," I replied, astonished at the question. "What do you want with them?"

"Pack a couple in cases for travelling," says Mr. Dark, "with lines and hooks and fly-hooks all complete. Have a drop of ale before you go—and don't stare, William. I'll let the light in on you as soon as we are out of the house. Off with you for the rods! I want to be on the road in five minutes."

When I came back with the rods and tackle, I found Mr. Dark in the dog-cart. "Money, luggage, fishing rods, paper," says he, "copy of anonymous letter, guide-book, map," says he, turning over in his mind the things wanted for the journey. "All right so far. Drive off." I took the reins and started the horse. As we left the house, I saw my mistress and Josephine looking after us from two of the windows on the second floor. The memory of those two attentive faces—one so sad and so good, the other so smiling and so wicked—haunted my mind perpetually for many days afterward.

"Now, William," says Mr. Dark, when we were clear of the lodge gates; "I'm going to begin by telling you what you are. You are a clerk in a bank; and I'm another. We have got our regular holiday, that comes, like Christmas, once a year; and we are taking a little tour of Scotland to see the curiosities, and to breathe the sea air, and to get a little fishing wherever we can. I'm the fat cashier who digs holes in a drawerful of gold with a copper shovel. And you're the mathematical gentleman who sits on a perch behind me and keeps the books. Scotland's a beautiful country. William. Can you make whiskey-toddy? I can; and what's more, unlikely as the thing may seem to you, I can actually drink it, into the bargain."

"Scotland!" says I. "What are we going to Scotland for?"

CAPITOLIANS AT THEIR BEST

Seventeenth Musical Revue Delights Packed House—Every Number Good

After an absence of six weeks, the Royal Theatre Capitoliens returned last night in a musical revue entirely different from its immediate fore-runners and made one of the greatest hits they have ever scored. There are two outstanding features of this new program, the uniform excellence of the specialties—every number being almost beyond improvement—and the instrumental work of the augmented orchestra.

As a rule, one or two numbers stand out as better than the rest, but this time all drew the same enthusiastic applause, and subsequent discussions of the revue showed that no one could pick out any act and say it was the best. Al Stagg and Jimmy Thomas, those never-failing funmakers, excelled themselves both individually in "Get 'em in the Rumble Seat," and "Momma's Gone Young," and together in "Henry's Made a Lady out of Lizzie," while their jokes as usual soon had the audience in uproars of laughter. Marie Cancilla's delightful little song "Sleepy Hollow Time," was a treat, indeed, and Walter Fraser's trumpet solo, a well-rendered novelty. The new Junior Capitoliens—Billy Elms and Adeline Armstrong—had a charming number, entitled "Sunbonnet Sally and Overall Jim," in which their pleasing voices and clever acting "stopped the show," while Nancy Gutteridge contributed a dance that lent variety to the program.

The orchestra, enlarged to seven pieces, is by far the best the Capitoliens have ever had and presented four numbers that received well-merited applause; including a knock-out comedy piece, "Ice Cream." Their playing would do credit to a professional "band." Lack of space prohibits reference to the photoplays but it was the consensus of opinion that the whole show is excellent and no doubt another capacity crowd will see it tonight.

OSHAWA PROTESTS

The protest filed with the O.H.A. by the Oshawa intermediates protesting the third goal at Kitchener and the eligibility of the pads of the Kitchener net minder, is coming up shortly, when it is expected Harold Farlow's report of the first game will be reviewed. The Oshawa team would probably have left the ice in the first game, after the goal was declared in, but Farlow assured them that it would be taken up with Secretary Tackaberry of the O.H.A. Referee Ernie Collet measured Ruppel's pads after the game at Whitby on Monday night and they were found oversize.

KITCHENER DEFEATED

Ernie Doyle's Newmarket intermediates hooked up with the fast Kitchener intermediates at Newmarket Wednesday night and when the smoke of battle had cleared away, Newmarket was leading by three goals, having won the game by the score of four to one. This is the first N.O.H.A. intermediate semifinal between these teams and the winners should hold the margin when they meet the same team at Kitchener on Friday night.

29-MINUTE GAME

Kitchener defeated Preston 4-3 on Wednesday evening in the remaining 29 minutes of the game which was called last Friday evening when the score was 2-1 in favor of Kitchener. Tonight's win gives Kitchener second place in this group of the O.H.A. senior series, and them the right to meet U. of T. in the group finals.

The fans got a surprise when Guy Smith of Hamilton skated out on the ice to referee in place of Munro of London. As was expected the game was clean. There were five penalties, four of them going to Preston. Julke led the parade with two, one for a body check and the other for a butt-end in the dying moments of the game. Seagram drew the only Kitchener penalty for holding Clark's stick near the Kitchener goal when the Preston forward was rushing.

GREEK MEETS GREEK

What promises to be the greatest junior hockey game of the season takes place at the Toronto Arena tonight, when Marlboros meet St. Michael's in the second game of the semi-finals. On Monday night a tremendous crowd turned out to pay homage to junior hockey, and it is expected that the total attendance this evening will be even larger. The drawing power of these teams is not hard to understand once a junior game has been witnessed. The juniors go from bell to bell with all the stamina of youth. They say nothing. They give everything.

BASEBALL

It was mostly a case of checking in new arrivals and holding down those already on the scene at the major league Southern training camp Wednesday as most of the squads swung into a regular conditioning program of batting and fielding practice, pitchers' workouts, and in some cases, abbreviated games between patched up lineups.

Whether a former horsehoe pitching champion can make good as a baseball flinger will be determined by the Boston Braves, from whose camp at St. Petersburg, came the announcement that Putt Mossman, 21 year old former champion at "barnyard golf" of Eldora, Ia., had been given a recruit's uniform. He formerly played semi-pro ball at Rochester and was credited with striking out 21 batsmen in one game.

Probably the first curves of the season were attempted by Clarence Griffin, diminutive southpaw obtained by Washington from Memphis, who drew a tirade from Trainer Mike Martin to the general tune of "cut it out." Reports indicated that the same problem was bothering the other pilots and battery coaches, who continually were on the watch for curves so far forbidden their charges.

Rogers Hornsby of the Braves and Lou Gehrig of the Huggens, who are also at St. Petersburg, smashed the ball all over the lot in their respective parks. Babe Ruth didn't get into action with anything larger than a golf club, but expects soon to forsake the course for the diamond. Hauser, whom Connie Mack said will play first base regularly for the Athletics, got a clean home run in his first time at bat at Fort Myers.

Twenty Chicago White Sox led by Manager Ray Schalk, reinforced 16 players who had preceded them at Shreveport, La., and shortly after their arrival got in a light workout. In New Orleans the Cleveland Indians indulged in a stiff practice round.

The day's new arrivals also included Eddie Moore and Andy High of the Braves; Jimmy Ring and Bill Deitrich with a corps of Philly regulars at Winterhaven; Luque and Picinich of the Reds at Orlando; Collins, Dyke, Boley, Bishop, Hauser, French Hale and Sabo of the Athletics at Fort Myers with Tris Speaker expected tomorrow, and Todt, Hinson, Rollings, Barkowitz, Lajeski, Regan, Williams, Tait, Tarbert and Ruffing of the Red Sox at Bradentown.

The St. Louis Browns had Lou Blue and Heinie Manush for their workout at Palm Beach while the Cardinals, at Avon Park, expected to greet Jim Bottomley and seven other absentees tomorrow and later.

The first casualty of the season was marked up at Tampa, when Pitcher Hopkins was spiked by Bob Reeves during a practice session of the Washington Senators. The hurler was not seriously hurt.

THE SPARE MINUTE

Oh! what will you do with the minute to spare,
The gay little, stray little minute to spare?

That comes from the clime
Of old "Plenty-of-Time,"
With never a worry, and never a care.

Oh, what shall we do with the minute to spare?
The dear little, queer little minute to spare,

Who's only content,
So long as he's spent,
No matter, however, whenever, or where.

We'd better take care of that minute to spare,
The wee little, free little minute to spare,

And never refuse
That minute to use;
It always is ready some burden to bear.

Carving Lines Lead

Slimness To
The Figure

Warm days come with such a rush after the ground thaws and on occasions when the average young lady least expects it. And certainly her last season's wardrobe can never do justice to the delightful fresh Spring days. This design is a suggestion which will prove helpful for those who realize the necessity of having a smart dress in readiness for the days, when heavy wraps are put aside. The simple binding at the neck affords opportunity to wear a two skin cross-for-for scarf. The long lines crossing from the under-arm end in pleats on either side and is a very naive feature. Long tight sleeves cuffed with straight buttoned bands and a narrow leather belt add a chic tailored appearance. Made of light weight wools, printed silk crepe or shantung, this frock is very smart for street or sports wear. With a twisted gold necklace, gold belt buckle, dark brown bag and brown walking shoes as accessories, this frock in beige would make a quite perfect effect. (Copyright, 1928, by Butterick)

MILADY'S HAIR TO BE SHORT

Former Hairdresser at Buckingham Palace Says Shingle Bob Is Necessity Not Fad

"Long hair for women will no more come back to stay than the obsolete horse and their old-fashioned pompous carriages," said Monsieur G. Valentin, self avowedly the only practising lady's hairdresser on the continent with the right to add the words "By Royal Appointment to Their Majesties the King and Queen" to his name.

M. Valentin is a modest-looking man in the middle fifties. He arrived in Toronto shortly after noon, accompanied by his daughter, with whom he is to attend the third annual exhibition of the National Hairdressers' Association of Canada.

"American women have their own ways of having their hair dressed," he said, "but all the various and new styles originate in Paris. The shingle bob is now no mere fad; it is a necessity. Present conditions of life demand women's hair short and not alone as a time-saving improvement."

STYLES CHANGE

Styles however, must change, he admitted, as women grow tired of them. And this is the point where the hairdresser of today has to be prepared to become an artist. "A hair dresser must know how to fit the coiffure with the general appearance and features of his client. Hair dressing is not merely a matter of 'chopping off' the hair, but it is the duty of the hairdresser to know which particular style is most becoming to his customer," he averred. The change of style, he said, is just as necessary as the change of dress for a woman. "No woman will forever wear her most beautiful dress," he found, "and it is the same with the coiffure."

By birth M. Valentin is a Pole, but at a tender age, a craving for travel asserted itself. He studied his profession in Vienna, Dresden, Berlin, Hamburg, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris. Later, as a hairdresser, on a large ocean liner, he did fourteen trips to South Africa, before going to London to settle.

ROYAL PATRONS

In London he made partners with Henry Blanc, for 40 years hairdresser to the Royal family at Buckingham Palace. And when age assailed his senior partner, the younger Valentin was called in. He first worked on the grandchildren of the then King Edward, then on the older generation, including King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

Most of the Royal visitors and guests to the Palace also came under the clever scissors of M. Valentin. Only the Kaiser always brought his own man to look after him. "He had his difficult moustache to look after," M. Valentin explained. But most others, including the late Czar of Russia, Prince George of Denmark, later King of Greece, and his son, the Duke of Sparta, the later King Constantine, also of Greece, were attended to by Valentin.

Some twenty years ago he left London to come to this continent; and is now resident of New York, but he has demonstrated his ability also in Chicago, Havana and Mexico.

AUTO INDUSTRY IN CANADA GROWS

Majority of Motor Cars Used in Dominion Made Here

The Canadian automobile industry has reached the stage where the majority of the motor cars used in this country are made in Canada and exports are practically equal in value to imports. A return issued also indicates that the people are buying higher priced cars. During 1927 the number of cars produced in Canada was 179,383 for a total value of $117,569,132, as compared with 205,116 cars valued at $124,000,000 in the preceding year.

Exports last year totalled $28,886,297, while imports aggregated $31,542,416. The imported cars were of the more expensive makes.

Production during January numbered 8463 cars, an advance of 146 per cent over the 3435 made in the previous month by 45 per cent. less than the 15,376 cars reported for January of a year ago. Of this month's total 3902 cars were made for export and 4516 were intended for sale in Canada.

Compared with the previous month there was, in January, an increased output of all types of cars. The number of open model passenger cars advanced to 1780 from 705, closed model passenger cars increased to 4671 from 1166; the number of chassis rose to 1905 from 1463, while the number of trucks was slightly higher at 105 as against 101 in the previous month.

YUKON IS LAND OF FLOWERS

Yukon Territory in Canada, is a land of flowers. Hundreds of types of flowers, plants, and shrubs grow wild on every hill and valley. Nature responds generously where flowers are cultivated and one of the lasting impressions left with the visitor is the variety and beauty of the flowers which decorate the homes and beautify the grounds of Dawson City.

CANADIAN GRAPHITE DEPOSITS

Graphite is found in Canada in the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and British Columbia and in the northern parts of the Dominion, in the North west Territories and on Baffin Island. Nearly all of the production, however, comes from Ontario and Quebec, where graphite has been mined for nearly sixty years, most of the producing mines and concentration mills being situated within a radius of 150 miles of Ottawa.

ALBERT MANN

Grand Old Man of Finance Passes

The late Mr. Isaac Governour Ogden, Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who died Saturday, February 4, in his 84th year, was born in New York on October 10th, 1844. Educated in local schools, he commenced business in a New York mercantile house in 1860, subsequently entering the local banking firm of Fish and Hatch. He began his railway service as paymaster and accountant of the Chicago and Pacific Railway in 1871. He was auditor of the same road from 1876 to 1881. When he joined the Canadian Pacific Railway at its inception in 1881, he was made auditor of the Western Division, with headquarters at Winnipeg. There he remained until 1883, when he was promoted to a senior position as auditor at Montreal. In 1887, he became Comptroller, in December 1901, Third Vice-President, and in June, 1910, Vice-President.

The accounting system established in the Canadian Pacific Railway by Mr. Ogden is as near perfection as any human can make it be. All financial matters were under his direction. It was written of him that "Mr. Ogden's statements grew in bulk and value and meaning. He was precise to a cent. He was methodical to the smallest numeral. He was a model for accuracy and precision and clarity. He made a study of the financial conditions in the United States and the Dominion. In the sweep of his financial regard he included the whole world."

Mr. Ogden's life story, when it is written, will be well worthy of being termed an epic, for it will embrace, among many other matters, the entire story of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Canada's greatest commercial enterprise, from its beginning down to the present time. He was born when railroading on this continent was in its infancy. He had already reached early manhood when the American Civil War was raging. He saw Canada united by Confederation. He heard the cry of a country which knew that until it was bound together by steel rails it could not be a nation. He helped the Canadian Pacific, which was to carry out that high task, through its early difficulties, saw it flung across the Dominion from ocean to ocean, assisted it in its great work of filling the empty spaces of the West with prosperous settlers and, mounting steadily with it up the ladder of success, was able at last to look upon it in the hour of its triumph, when it had grown into the mighty organization it is today. He was one of the very few men now remaining who had been on the payroll of the Company from the start and who had been colleagues of such men as Mount Stephen, Van Horne, Angus and Shaughnessy. Under his guidance, the audit department of the Canadian Pacific grew from a strength of just six clerks to that of more than 900.

Long after he had passed the seventieth milestone, Mr. Ogden remained at his work, "the youngest man," as many people said, "in the entire Company." This youthful note seems to have impressed all who knew him for one finds it constantly repeated in sketches of his character. Says one of these: "Not only is the heart of Mr. Ogden big, it is young. It is perennially and blithesomely young. One never thinks of the age of Mr. Ogden. His step is light; his eye is clear; his laugh is fresh and debonair. Time may have powdered his hair a little; but, essentially, the vice-president is the young man who, in 1881, was engaged in Winnipeg as the sole accountant of the great new enterprise then beginning to take shape." Again, they emphasize his kindness: "He was geniality itself. He was an optimistic philosopher. He had ample magnetism and enthusiasm. . . . Although formal to a degree with figures, whose dignity must never be invaded, he expressed the genius of democracy in his hearty manner, his affability, his willingness to please and serve."

It is because he had these qualities, as much as it is because of the work he accomplished for the Company that the Canadian Pacific will miss Mr. Ogden. In the great shops at Calgary which bear his name he has his monument. But perhaps his finest monument, next to the esteem of his fellow-members of the huge Canadian Pacific family, is the super-efficient auditing and accounting system which he created and expanded.

A FRIEND OR TWO

There's all of pleasure and all of peace, In a friend or two;

And all your troubles may find release With a friend or two;

It's in the grip of a clasping hand On native soil or in alien land, But the world is made—do you understand? Of a friend or two.

A song to sing or a crust to share, With a friend or two;

A smile to give and a grief to bear With a friend or two;

A road to walk and a goal to win An inglenook to find comfort in, The gladdest hours that we know begin, With a friend or two.

A little laughter; perhaps, some tears With a friend or two;

The days, the weeks, and the months and years With a friend or two;

A vale to cross and a hill to climb, A mock at lugs and a jeer at time— The prose of life takes the lilt of rhyme, With a friend or two.

The brother-soul and the brother-heart Of a friend or two;

Make us drift on from the crowd apart, With a friend or two;

For come days happy or come days sad, We count no hours but the ones made glad, By the hale, good times we have ever had, With a friend or two.

Then brim the goblet and quaff the toast To a friend or two;

For glad the man who can always boast Of a friend or two;

The fairest sight is a friendly face, The brightest tread is a friendly pace, And heaven will be a better place For a friend or two.

WOULD TEACH BOYS TO COOK

English Woman Physician Argues That Such a Proceeding Would Solve Many Problems.

"Should boys be trained in housecraft and cookery?" was the question debated at a meeting of the Women's Freedom League of London. Dr. Elizabeth Sloan Chesser argued that the teaching of housewifery and cooking to men and boys would help to solve many social problems and improve the health of the community, reports the London Daily Telegraph. Housekeeping, she said, was much more arduous work than journalism, public speaking and medical practice and, therefore, men were more fitted for it than women. Men excelled in executive work, and if they could create better music, painting and poetry than women, they could also create better savories and soups.

A. Clephan Palmer said women were becoming more masculine and to hold their own men must become still more masculine. They did not do that by cooking chops or dusting ornaments. Moreover, it was unnecessary, as the modern idea was to be as homeless as possible. Two rooms and a car was the American ideal. He advised men to follow the precedent of King Alfred and let the cakes bake.

Britain in the Sudan.

Great Britain, instead of giving up the Sudan, as demanded by the Egyptians, is increasing her interest in that country by the construction of an enormous dam for irrigation purposes at Makwar, three miles from Sennar, on the Nile. The dam, which a special correspondent of the London Times describes as another of the engineering wonders of the world, will be nearly two miles long, and over eighty feet high, and it will be so constructed that it can carry along the top a line of railway, which in time will be a link in the main trade route from Darfur and Kordofan to the Red Sea.

The object of this dam is primarily to raise the water in the river to such a level that it will flow into a main canal and thence by gravitation through branch canals directly on to 300,000 feddans (a feddan is slightly larger than an acre) in the Gezira, one-third of which will be put under action annually, one-third under green crop, and one-third will be fallow. Secondly, the dam will store water for irrigating the cotton crops on this area during the two or three months in the spring when the Sudan cannot be permitted to draw on the natural flow from the river. There are 19,000 men, half Sudanese and half natives of Upper Egypt, employed on the work, which is to be completed by July, 1928.

Primitive Icelandic Homes.

Lava blocks roughly quarried provide the rural peasant with his building material. This material consists of a group of small cottages joined together. The lava blocks are laid one on the other and the crevices are stopped up with moss or earth. Some of these houses have wood rafters, but the majority of them have walls of lava. They are covered with breadwood, on top of which turf is heaped. The turf bears a good crop of grass, which is carefully cut for hay. The houses have no chimneys, and a fire is never kept in any room except the kitchen even in the coldest weather. The smoke passes out through a hole in the roof. The only windows are pieces of glass, or thin skin is given pieces of square, or rectangular glass, and the atmosphere of the house is almost insupportable to a stranger. The natives' sense of direction is developed by the universal habit of being drunk.

An Early Adventure.

Who was the pretty girl who, when Dickens saw in the jail at Rochester making his tour of Canada and the United States in 1842? According to his version in his "American Notes," the girl had beauty and adventure enough to make a hero of a novel or a play. Dickens was always on the lookout for some aspect of social reform, but he was also a student of dramatic possibilities. Hence he wrote in a manner which excited curiosity thirty years after "There is an admirable jail here," he wrote in Kingston, "with an wisely governed and excellently regulated in every respect. The men were employed as shoemakers, blacksmiths, tailors, carpenters and stone cutters, and in building a new prison which was very far advanced toward completion.

The female prisoners were kept in needlework. Among them was a beautiful girl of twenty, who had been there nearly three years. She acted as bearer of secret dispatches for the self-styled patriots on Navy Island during the Canadian insurrection; sometimes dressing as a girl and carrying them in her stays; sometimes attiring herself as a boy and secreting them in the lining of her hat. In the latter character she always rode as a boy would, which was nothing to her, for she could govern any horse that any man could ride, and could drive four-in-hand with the best whip in those parts. Setting forth on one of her patriotic missions, she appropriated to herself the first horse she could lay hands on, and this offense had brought her where I saw her. She had quite a lovely face, though, as the reader may suppose from this sketch of her history, there was a lurking devil in her bright eye which looked out pretty sharply from between her prison bars."—Toronto Globe.

Safety Pins Long in Use.

Safety pins can be traced back to the Fifteenth century B. C., when pins were made of bone and bent over, shaped like the modern safety pin. Many of them have been found in graves of that period. Since then the safety pin has passed through many changes and been made of various metals. An average of 1,000,000 gross of safety pins are now manufactured yearly.

Huge New Lighthouse.

At Slettringen, near Titten on the west coast of Norway, an exceptionally large lighthouse has just been put into operation. It is one of the largest in the world. It is built of concrete and is 150 feet high. The main lantern has an intensity of 465,000 normal candle power and flashes two beams in quick succession every fifteen seconds. A supplementary light illuminates dangerous rocks in the vicinity. In foggy weather a powerful siren will give the necessary warnings.

Most of our good times come unexpectedly.

The Boston Globe tells of a stenographer who was so fast she had to use a water cooling roller and an asbestos ribbon. Some of Port Hope stenographers do their spelling that way, asbestos they can.

Some people who claim they have not enough patience to fish will fool with the radio for hours and get nothing but static.

Our Daily Fairy Story

Once upon a time a lady really did propose to a bachelor in Leap Year.

Sometimes four of a kind make a full house.

Maybe they call jazz bands hot because they play close to harmony.

A tax on bachelors would prove unpopular, because every single man would object.

"How will men look in the future?" asks a writer. It all depends on how the women dress.

That school girl complexion is great stuff if you can get it on both cheeks at the same elevation.

Wife—"It is possible to cut some people by ignoring them completely."

Husband—"That is so and I wish I could cut the lawn that way."

To think correctly is of greater value than to be considered smart.

It takes a rough sea to tell the good sailors from the bad.

She—"Are you in favor of clubs for women?"

He—"Yes, if kindness has no effect."

HALL IS FILLED FOR OPERATTA

"Princess Chrysanthemum" Was Colorful Lively Musical Entertainment

A very colorful Japanese operetta was put on last evening in the United Church Sunday School Hall under the direction of Mr. T. W. Stanley, who with all those responsible for the affair, is to be congratulated for the delightful musical treat which was so capably put on by the student talent.

From the moment the curtains parted to reveal a charmingly appraised chorus, which sang lovely until the curtains were drawn again, there was not a dull instant.

The whole plot moves along with its choruses and solo parts delightfully intermingled and the children all did their roles exceptionally well.

Mr. Stanley directed the production and Mr. Fred Skitch played the accompaniment. Miss Netta Brownlee trained the youngsters for the dialogue parts and Miss K. Staples got the drills up. The Costume Committee, composed of Mesdames Geo. Ward, J. L. Westaway, A. B. Skitch, C. B. Kelly and Wm. Evans are greatly to be praised for the colorful part of the production, which gave it the true and lovely spirit of the "Flower Kingdom."

LAD IS THOUGHT TO BE POSSESSED

Queer Manifestations Surround English Boy—Psychical Research Experts Investigating.

Eight-year-old Douglas Drew, who in psychic circles bears the reputation of being possessed of a poltergeist or unruly spirit, must have felt like a goldfish in a glass bowl Wednesday.

For the purpose of observation Douglas began sittings at the National Laboratory of Psychological Research in a great glass enclosure with Director Harry Price and others peering at him from all sides for an hour.

His relatives and friends of the family claim that in a room when this fair-haired, blue-eyed boy is around, chairs frequently slide about the floor, teapots flit from one side of the room to the other and equally inexplicable things occur.

Sir Oliver Lodge is among those who are taking a keen interest in the tests which continue for one week.
