MEETING IN INTEREST OF TOC H SOCIETY

To Be Held in Veteran's Hall On Wednesday Evening—Men Invited

In the interests of the famous Toc H society, which is of world wide repute, a meeting of all men over the age of sixteen will be held in the Veterans' Hall on Wednesday evening at 8:30 and the result of the meeting may lead to the formation of a branch in Port Hope...

ORIGIN

Talbot House in the War was "Everyman's Club," open to officers and men alike; it was opened in December, 1915, at Poperinghe, the nearest habitable town behind Ypres...

NAME

It was named in memory of Neville's younger brother Gilbert, Lieut. Rifle Brigade, killed at Hooge on July 30, 1915. The name "Toc H" is merely T. H. (Talbot House) pronounced according to the Army Signaller's alphabet.

RE-BIRTH

Toc H was started again in London in 1919-1920, by "Tubby" and some survivors of the Ypres salient, on a very modest scale. Its first aim was to recapture the War's spirit of comradeship in common service and to pass it on to the younger generation...

GROWTH

Two years later the tiny experiment in London had been repeated throughout the length of England; five years from the start it had gone right round the world. The membership is still small, for Toc H is not a "mass movement," but a personal "infection" spread by one man to another.

OBJECTS

The idea underlying Toc H is as old as Eden—Fellowship and Service. Toc H desiring to join the most lasting Fellowship and to engage in the Service most worth while, seeks above all to be a Christian and a Christianizing society...

METHOD

One keen man in a place collects others and forms a Group; the Group in course of time and after a real test of stability, unity and work, may be made a Branch, with wide powers of self-government...

TO FARM COMMITTEE

Trinity College School Board To Meet Early Next Week

A building committee will be organized early this week to consider plans for the rebuilding of Trinity College school. In the meantime the senior school will continue at Woodstock college...

The tentative plan is to put on a campaign among friends of the school to raise funds for the rebuilding as the insurance money will not cover all costs.

THE GUIDE STORY

"Against her and against you," said Mr. Philip, "the suspicious circumstances have been sworn to by a competent witness, who has declared on oath that your mistress is guilty and that you are an accomplice."

"What witness, sir?" "Your mistress's French maid, who came to my brother this morning and who has made her deposition in due form."

"And who is as false as hell," I cried out passionately. "In every word she says against my mistress and against me."

"I hope—no, I will go further, and say, I believe she is," said Mr. Philip. "But her perjury must be proved and the necessary examination must take place. My carriage is going back to my brother's and you will go in it in charge of one of the men, who has the warrant to take you into custody. I shall remain here with the man who is waiting in the hall; and, before any steps are taken to execute the other warrant, I shall send for a doctor to ascertain when your mistress can be moved."

"Oh, my poor mistress!" I said. "This will be the death of her, sir." "I will take care that the shock shall strike her as tenderly as possible," said Mr. Philip. "I am here for that express purpose. She has my deepest sympathy and respect and shall have every help and alleviation that I can afford her."

The hearing him say that, and the seeing how sincerely he meant what he said, was the first gleam of comfort in the dreadful affliction that had befallen us. I felt this; I felt a burning anger against the wretch who had done her best to ruin my mistress's fair name and mine; but in every other respect, I was like a man who had been stunned, and whose faculties had not perfectly recovered from the shock. Mr. Philip was obliged to remind me that time was of importance, and that I had better give myself up immediately on the merciful terms which his kindness offered to me. I acknowledged that, and wished him good morning. But a mist seemed to come over my eyes as I turned round to go away; a mist that prevented me from finding my way to the door. Mr. Philip opened it for me, and said a friendly word or two which I could hardly hear. The man waiting outside took me to his companion in the carriage, and I was driven away—a prisoner for the first time in my life.

On our way to the justice's, what little thinking faculty I had left in me was all occupied in the attempt to trace a motive for the inconceivable treachery and falsehood of which the Frenchwoman had been guilty. Her words, her looks, and her manner, on that unfortunate day when my mistress so far forgot herself as to strike her, came back dimly to my memory, and led to the inference that part of the motive at least, of which I was in search might be referred to what had happened on that occasion. But was this the only reason for her devilish vengeance against my mistress? And, even if it were so, what fancied injuries had I done her? Why should I be included in the false accusation? In the dazed state of my faculties at that time, I was quite incapable of seeking the answer to these questions.

My mind was clouded all over, and I gave up before the attempt to clear it in despair.

I was brought before Mr. Robert Nicholson that day, and the fiend of a French woman was examined in my presence. The first sight of her face—with its wicked self-possession, with its smooth, leering triumph—so sickened and horrified me that I turned my head away and never looked at her a second time throughout the proceedings. The answers she gave amounted to a laare repetition of the deposition to which she had already sworn. I listened to them with a most breathless attention and was thunderstruck at the inconceivable artfulness with which she had mixed up truth and falsehood in her charge against my mistress and me.

This was, in substance, what she now stated in my presence.

After describing the manner of Mr. James Smith's arrival at the Hall, the witness, Josephine Durand, confessed that she had been led to listen at the music room door by hearing angry voices inside; and she then described, truly enough the latter part of the altercation between husband and wife. Fearing, after this, that something serious might happen, she had kept watch in her room, which was on the same floor as her mistress's. She had heard her mistress's door open softly, between one and two in the morning, had followed her mistress, who carried a small lamp, along the passage and down the stairs into the hall—had hidden herself in the porter's chair—had seen her mistress pass on the way that led to the Red Room, with a dagger in the green sheath in her hand—had followed her again, and seen her softly enter the Red Room—had heard the heavy breathing of Mr. James Smith, that gave token that he was asleep—had slipped into an empty room, next door to the Red Room, and waited there about a quarter of an hour, when her mistress came out again with the dagger in her hand—had followed her mistress again into the hall, where she had put the dagger back in its place—had seen her mistress turn into a side passage that led to my room.

HINKLER GIVEN GREAT WELCOME

Arrived at Sidney From Brisbane—Enormous Crowd Cheer Noted Aviator

Bert Hinkler, who made aviation history when he flew from England to Australia in 15 days, arrived at Sydney Saturday afternoon at exact schedule time after a great flight from Brisbane. He had landed at Newcastle for an hour en route. An enormous, enthusiastic crowd journeyed to the mascot airdrome to greet him, while seven planes escorted the illustrious aviator from the northern outskirts of the city. Hinkler brought his plane down near the air club house, where he was officially welcomed. His mother, brother and sister had travelled from Bundaberg for the occasion and were on hand to greet him.

RUBBER COST REACTS ON TIRES

Price Reduction Will Not Be Effective For Some Time However, Dealers Say

The recent drop in the price of crude rubber to below thirty cents a pound will effect a corresponding reduction in the price of rubber tires, but it will take time. The charts show rubber prices have been fairly stationary for the last year and that the price of tires has not been changed much. The drop in the rubber market did not occur until February of this year, the price has been going down steadily ever since. In January it opened at 40 1-4 cents a pound, in February the high was 37 3-4 cents with a low price of 28 1-2 cents.

Friday's quotations on crude rubber was 25 1-2 cents. This sudden drop has not had time to affect the price of tires which remain very much as it has been for two years. The retail price varies with different dealers. These figures are only approximate:

Goodyear Tires (Retail price)

Present price
31 x 4	$23.00	$18.15	$18.10
30 x 3 1-2	13.80	11.45	11.40

29 x 4.40 bal.	15.75	12.50	12.70
34 x 7.30 bal.	53.00	38.70	38.70

Price of crude rubber, cents per pound: January, 1927, high, 40 3-4; February 39 3-4; March 41 7-8; April 41 3-8; May 41 1-4; June 40 1-2; July, high, 40 1-2; August, 35 5-8; September, 36 1-4; October 34 1-8; November 35 1-4; December 41 1-4.

For some time past many citizens have felt that it would be of immense benefit to the town to have a Horticultural Society. Nearly every town of any size in Ontario boasts of a live organization along this line to look after the beautification of public and private property within its limits. It is hoped that the citizens of Port Hope will support this society and will be present at a meeting in the Dept. of Agriculture, Ontario St., at eight o'clock, Tuesday evening, March 13, to discuss the proposed formation of a Horticultural Society.

PLAN NATIONAL WALES ORCHESTRA

Three Organizations Are Negotiating With Radio Company

The Welsh national Council of Music and the City Corporation of Cardiff, co-operating with the British Broadcasting Company, have drawn up a scheme for a "National Orchestra of Wales" to perform in public and to broadcast nationally. If the scheme survives the experimental stage it may serve as the model for similar schemes to stimulate popular revival of active interest in music.

The Broadcasting Company has undertaken to support these scheme financially. The Cardiff City Corporation will provide the Assembly Rooms at the City Hall on two nights a week, with permission to charge for admission at popular prices. These concerts will be given in three seasons—12 weeks before and 12 weeks after Christmas—with six weeks in the early summer.

The Council of the National Museum of Wales has for one experimental year given the museum for a daily hour of free music and on four days of each week a mid-day (or afternoon) orchestral concert will be broadcast from there.

The orchestra will begin with a personnel of 30 on a permanent salary basis, the contracts being in a form which does not permit of deputies. Warwick Brithwaite, the conductor of the Cardiff station of the British Broadcasting Company, will be the first conductor.

The control of the orchestra is vested in a council consisting of the Lord Mayor of Cardiff and Sir John Daniel (representing the Cardiff City Corporation); Sir Walter Davies and Professor David Evans (representing the National Council of Music); Dr. Fox of the National Museum of Wales, and representatives of the British Broadcasting Company.

COLBORNE GIRL WINS DISTRICT

Oratory Championship Held At Cobourg Goes To Beatrice Purdy

Victoria opera house at Cobourg, was well filled Friday night, notwithstanding adverse weather conditions, for the district oratory competitions in connection with the Toronto Star's oratory contest for secondary schools. The first prize was won by Miss Beatrice Purdy of Colborne high school who will now represent this district at the provincial contest in Toronto.

The beautiful cup given by the Toronto Star was presented at the close of the contest to Mr. Kennedy, principal of the Colborne high school and Miss Purdy received the Star's gold and pearl pin. The cup was held by Bowmanville high school last year. The second prize, a silver medal, won by John Dryden of Brooklin continuation school, and the third prize, a bronze medal, was won by Bernie Hodgetts of the Cobourg Collegiate institute, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hodgetts, formerly of Toronto. The theme of all the orators was "The Future of Canada."

The other contestants were: Roy Jones of Newcastle high school; Gladys Cobbleck of Orono continuation school; Margery Ackerman of Campbellford high school; Margaret Westney of Pickering high school; Bertha Lang of Millbrook continuation school; Ruth Fishleigh of Oshawa high school. Principal Morrison of Bowmanville high school presided and R. D. P. Davidson, principal of Cobourg Collegiate Institute, who made arrangements for the oratory contest was timekeeper. The judges were Dr. Best and Mr. W. F. Ward, Bowmanville and Rev. A. McLaughlin, Grafton. Their work was done without conferring with each other, the chairman and timekeeper receiving and counting the ballots, after which the decision was announced and the prizes presented. Mr. Morrison, in making the announcements, congratulated all of the speakers on their good work. He was quite satisfied that all did their best, which made the contest a worthwhile one. Each had his or her life to live and must prepare for it and the educative work done in such a contest was the means of accomplishing this. The Cobourg collegiate orchestra furnished a splendid program.

Forty-seven persons were arrested for violation of liquor laws in raids during one day at Lorain, Ohio.

This Modern Life! Its Habits Produce Constipation, which "Fruit-a-tives" Corrects

MONTREAL, Que., — "After suffering many years from constipation, I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives.' All my ills are gone now." Mrs. H. Godin.

Indoor work, soft, rich foods, lack of exercise impair our bodily functions. The most common evidence is constipation. Normal intestinal activity, denied to most of us by our way of living, is restored and maintained by "Fruit-a-tives," made of the juices of fresh, ripe fruit, blended with health-building tonics. 25c and 50c a box.

Bows And Diagonal Lines Combine Sophistication And Femininity

For several seasons the sports dress has predominated and straight, severe lines have been decreed for formal afternoon wear. Now all is different. Circular flares, soft bows and uneven hemlines prevail. This frock is made particularly feminine by bows that tie the surplus at neck and hips. The skirt is a one-piece wrap around which ends in a graceful flare that falls slightly below the skirt. The diagonal lines of the neckline and skirt lend an air of smart sophistication which is so desired by the modern miss. A very good style for flat crepe of the new "grège" color—a shade between gray and beige, and worn with brown suede slippers. (Copyright, 1928, by Butterick)

Sweet and palatable, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is acceptable to children, and it does its work surely and promptly. Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, valued at $17,000,000 will be put up for sale on July 1. The Oil For The Farmer—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

Caveat emptor

A few years ago "Let the buyer beware" was; not so far of being the motto of Canadian business. If a man set out to buy a razor he might get a very excellent one—and, again, he might not. There were some very fine products. And some very poor. And there was no way of choosing the good from the bad, except by test.

Today that condition hardly exists. In every line of merchandise there are trademarked, standardized products. Products that are unvarying in quality and performance—that can be depended upon year in and year out. When you buy them you know what they are, and what they'll do and what they'll cost. . . . They're advertised products!

To take full advantage of this—to protect yourself—to save money—watch the advertisements! When you need anything turn to the advertising columns of this paper. Read about the things listed there. When you find the article you need, buy it—not haphazardly, but by name!

The advertisements protects your interests—Read Them.

SNOW DRIFTS HIGH ON OSHAWA ROADS

Blizzard Stopped Traffic North of the City—Kingston Highway Open

The roads leading north and south from Oshawa were practically blocked Friday night following the blizzard which raged all day. The snow has drifted many feet deep in some places, but along the Kingston highway the roadway is fairly free of drifts.

The Oshawa railway kept its snow plows in operation all day in order to keep the tracks clear of drifts. Considerable difficulty was experienced by the cars which run to the lake, the drifts being extremely high along this route.

Some motor cars presented unique sights to their owners, where they had been parked all day. Three cars near the General Motors plant were practically covered with snow. The owners were forced to shovel the cars out before they could get into them.

PORT HOPE IS LATE

Low water pressure is blamed for the heavy loss sustained when fire broke out in Trinity College School, Port Hope. Those who fought the fire declare that had there been suitable pressure, the blaze would have been confined to the building in which it originated and the main structure would have been saved.

Municipalities might well take due notice of this circumstance. Expensive apparatus is of no avail in fighting a fire if there is not immediately available a sufficient high and constant water pressure to enable it to function properly. An adequate supply of water is the fundamental thing to be considered when fire-fighting is under review, and every municipality which fails to possess that supply is in danger of suffering the loss which Port Hope has sustained.

Brockville's experience in this regard is worthy of review. Heavy fire losses attributed to low pressure, coupled with the breaking of water mains when pressure from the pumping station was increased, led the municipality to purchase "booster" equipment with which pressure was immediately increased once that equipment was attached to a hydrant. That equipment has paid for itself several times over since its adoption. Not only has the municipality saved the cost of increasing pressure at the pumping station, with the danger of further breaking of water mains, but, in the more elevated sections of the town particularly, it is now possible to attain a higher pressure within a shorter space of time than was previously the case. Since the acquisition of the "booster" equipment, fire losses throughout the town have been uniformly low and it cannot be denied that the presence of this apparatus has been of home instrumentality in producing such a result.

Only now, after Trinity College School has been laid in ruins, is the town of Port Hope considering the purchase of similar apparatus and testing the products of different manufacturers. Had it followed the example of Brockville and various other communities, its chief institution would in all probability still be intact. — Brockville Recorder and Times.
