EPIDEMIC SHOWS SIGNS OF WANING

Deaths Still Range Around 50 a Day in Japan—But Influenza Is Taking Fewer Victims

The influenza epidemic which has struck Japan, causing the death of thousands, including the six-month-old Princess Hisa, daughter of the emperor, apparently is somewhat decreasing on the basis of figures made public by the metropolitan police.

Deaths now range around 50 a day, including bronchitis and pneumonia, which are attributed to the influenza. Most of the deaths are among infants. The official police figures show influenza deaths from November 1, 1927, to March 8, 1928, at 5490, which is an increase of 500 over the figures of last winter.

The home office disagrees with the police records stating that cases of fatalities have been exaggerated.

Does Port Hope Want Fire Truck? Question Discussed By Town Council

Fire and Light Committee Bring in Recommendation Regarding Purchase of a Fire Truck and Matter Was Left Over Until The Next Session.

As expected, the question of the purchase of the fire pumper and the equipment came in for considerable discussion at the regular session of the Municipal Council Monday evening and the pros and cons from every angle were threshed out. Following the conclusion of the meeting, a round-the-table conference was held in the clerk's office and the question was further discussed.

The sum and substance of the wishes of the Fire and Light Committee is this: Is the Council as a whole ready to back the Fire and Light committee in the purchase of a fire truck, etc., providing the people approve of a by-law to purchase it? Some members of the board did not desire to vote on the subject whether to buy it or not, until the plans and specifications were first ascertained while others wished to know how the council felt about it and then table specifications, plans, etc. It was brought out that it would not be advisable to secure plans, etc., and then have the proposition turned down, but at any rate, plans, etc., will be obtained from the various companies and submitted at a later meeting of the council.

The Recommendation

The board has transacted considerable business such as resolutions, communications, finance report, etc., and following a lull in the proceedings, the following recommendation was read:

To the Mayor and members of the Council of Port Hope—

In view of the facts from the recent fire at Trinity College school, your Fire and Light Committee feel that the present fire fighting appliances are very obsolete and not adequate to the needs of Port Hope. Your committee therefore recommend to this council that a by-law be submitted to the ratepayers of Port Hope for the purchase of a modernly equipped fire truck so that the property of the citizens may have better protection from the hazards of fire.

Respectfully submitted,
M. Hewson
S. Brickell
H. W. Mitchell.

It was moved by Councillor Hewson, seconded by Councillor Brickell, that this council go into a committee of the whole that the above resolution may be openly discussed.

Discussion Opens

Councillor Hewson, Chairman of the Fire and Light Committee opened the discussion.

"During the past week, the town has had something to talk about," related Councillor Hewson, "and the Fire and Light Committee have had several meetings to talk over the situation. We have come to the conclusion that we have one of the best volunteer fire brigades in Ontario but they are hampered by insufficient equipment. We feel that a large number of ratepayers wish to have a vote.

"I have been talking to two old residents of the town," continued the speaker, "and they said we had three fire brigades forty years ago, one on Protestant Hill, one down town and one in Englishtown. We had the best equipment money could buy then, but since then times have changed."

Councillor Sinnott said the matter was rather vague and thought it would be advisable to learn what the town was going to buy and what it would cost.

"If the town is going to spend a big sum of money on a truck, there must be a mechanic to run it and I don't think a man who drives a Ford car can drive the fire truck. There is different machinery and we would not go about it in any haphazard manner. We should know what we are going to get and the ratepayers should know what they are voting on before it is put up to them."

"I agree with Councillor Sinnott," said J. A. R. Elliott, "I saw the pumper at work a few days ago and do not know if the mains will feed it. If the engine stalls, we have to have a mechanic to repair it and I think the town needs it if it can afford it, and the water mains can handle it. Port Hope has been pretty free of fire but whatever the council does, I don't want to be a holdup, but want to know what the cost is, first."

"There is a communication before the council regarding the purchase," related Councillor Brickell, "but it does not mention what kind. We favor a first class outfit, and one that could give service in every emergency. The details are not worked out yet. If various trucks were demonstrated, we could find out if the people want one. We haven't decided regarding the cost and if any town needs a truck, Port Hope does."

No Protection in Outskirts

Reeve Giddy was the next to outline his views. "I agree with Councillors Sinnott and Elliott. I think we have plenty of fire protection for any building on the main street. We had the pumper here and two streams of water were trained on the College. If you haven't the water," declared Mr. Giddy, "then what good is the pumper? No use at all."

"There are a great many outlying districts that have no fire protection at all. North of the Canadian Northern station on Hope street, there is none, up the valley there is none, Victoria street from Bruton North there is none. No, not a drop, not a drop."

"And still," pronounced the Reeve "the town wants to spend $5,800.

Broke His Ankle

Mr. James Hunter while returning home last evening slipped and fell on the pavement near the Sunshine Amusement Parlors and had the misfortune to break two bones in his ankle.

No. I will retract that statement—wants to buy a pumper for protection when there is no water. I think the council should assist the Waterworks in getting water mains and having plenty of water."

Reeve Edmunds—"Are you under the impression that if the pump house is telephoned, more pressure can be exerted?"

Councillor Hewson—I don't know if I have been lax in my duties as Chairman of the committee or is it my duty every time there is a fire to telephone the pump house?

Mayor Edmunds—In case of fire, Mr. Chesher telephones the pump house and it has no control unless the water is shut off at the tower.

Decision First

Councillor Mitchell—My conception of the truck is, if an alarm is sent in, there is no use for a pumper, but it is a good auxiliary. If the firemen get to the fire in time the chemicals can extinguish the blaze and nine times out of ten water does no good. The Fire and Light Committee doesn't want to be made fools of—we don't want the fire companies to come in to demonstrate until we know—we want to know the wish of the citizens whether to purchase. Why go into details, when we are ready, then it's time for the facts. What we want to know, is the council ready to back up the Fire and Light Committee to give the people adequate fire protection? We don't want to go wildly and blindly at it and when we are ready it's time for the details.

Deputy-Reeve Rosevear—I think we need a fire truck all right, and the time has come when we should have one. We want something to carry the ladders, etc., as the other wagon is out of date.

Councillor Merrifield—I also believe we should have a truck and many houses could be saved with it. The horses get played out on the run up the hills and the truck is one of the best things we can get to save a lot of property.

Councillor Mitchell—If an apparatus should be purchased, the payment would be made through a debenture issue over a period of years and the entire amount would not come out of the taxes of any one year, but spread over a number of years and the amount would not be so great.

Councillor Sinnott—Would the purchase of a truck affect the insurance rates?

Councillor Elliott—To get a lower rate it would require a day and a night service.

Councillor Mitchell—It's a disgrace to the town if people who live within its precincts have no protection.

After a short discussion regarding the water pressure in the downtown district, Mr. Mitchell inquired: "I would like to see the firemen come out to make a test from the downtown hydrants. I'm from Missouri and have to be shown."

Reeve Giddy—That's the privilege of the committee who handle the business of the municipality.

Councillor Brickell—The committee wants to know whether a truck is wanted or not so there would be something to work on.

Councillor Elliott—I could not vote on it unless we knew the details.

Councillor Brickell—This is the time to know and not turn the proposition down after the facts are known.

Councillor Elliott—What we want to know is, can we get the support of the council for adequate fire protection?

Deputy Reeve Rosevear—It would be best to leave it over until the next meeting and then bring in a recommendation.

California Power Dam Breaks Disaster May Claim 500 Lives

Towns Swept Away by Mountainous Walls of Water and Hundreds of Persons Are Reported Drowned. Buildings and Homes Carried Away.

A cloudburst today turned the famous Los Angeles Aqueduct into a giant of destruction, leaving a death toll estimated at from 200 to 500 persons and uncounted property damage, when it broke the St. Francis Dam in San Francisco Canyon, 45 miles north of Los Angeles and sent a wall of water down upon a sleeping community.

The dam, a part of the aqueduct system which carries water 200 miles through the desert to Los Angeles, gave way without warning, releasing 62,000 acres of water—1,344,000,000 gallons—upon an unsuspecting mountain residence and ranching community.

Buildings and homes were carried away. It tore a path through the cities of Newhall, Fillmore, Saugus, Piru, Santa Paula, Satcoy, Castaic, Oberg and Camarillo.

An unknown number of persons were trapped between the canyon walls. They included about 25 families who made their homes below the dam; a working camp of about 75 employees of the Southern California Edison Company; and a group of employees at a power sub-station in the path of the deluge.

Sheriff's officers said there was no chance of escape for the vast majority of them.

The Los Angeles Power and Water Bureau office at Newhall, has received a report that 150 men employed of 1-2 inch pipe, threaded to be used for sewers.

Hewson-Elliott—That the Ontario Amiesite Company be paid $493.69 made up as per statement attached.

All Present

All the members of the Council advised the Council that he had received in their respective positions when the board came to order at 7.30 and included Mayor R. J. Edmunds, Reeve L. H. Giddy, Deputy-Reeve Fred Rosevear and Councillors H. W. Mitchell, S. Brickell, H. Merrifield, J. A. R. Elliott, Moss Hewson and James Sinnott. The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

Indigent Patients

Miss E. M. Elliott, superintendent of the Port Hope Hospital, sent the Council two accounts for indigent patients, one for Nellie Henderson for keep from January 31st to February 29th, $43.50 and Lloyd Kemp from December 25th to March 2nd, $102.00.

Neil MacNaughtan, Counties Clerk, received word from the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital that Dorothy Thompson, aged four, was admitted to that institution on February 25th and is a ward of the Children's Aid Society. If the patient proves to be an indigent, the municipality will be liable for 50 per cent of the cost of maintenance at $1.50 a day.

Clean Up

The following communication was received from D. J. Gibson, Inspector R.R. No. 4, Bowmanville. It reads as follows:

I have been instructed by Prof. Caesar, Guelph, to notify you that as the county of Durham has been put under the Corn Borer Act, he would like you to advise your police or weed inspector to insist on a thorough clean up of all corn stubble and remnants of last year's crop in gardens and canning factories early this spring in your town, and to assist in every way possible to keep down the terrible pest.

Express Appreciation

The following communication was received from Rev. Dr. F. G. Orchard, headmaster of Trinity College School:

"One of my first duties is to write and thank you and the prominent citizens associated with you for the very practical sympathy you have shown us in our troubles. The town to a man was with us on Saturday and it is due to their ployees of the bureau in camp at Kemp, had all perished except one man.

These were a rancher, E. W. Hunlich, his father, Charles, a rancher named Holschau and his wife and father.

The Holschaus lived a mile and a half above Saugus and were asleep in their home when the wall of water came roaring down the canyon. They joined hands and floated to a bank, but here the human chain was broken and a 12 year old daughter and a baby were said to have been swept away.

Hunlich reported that his uncle and sister, whose names were not given, were missing.

Advices from Oxnard declared the residents of that section, hearing of the break in the dam, were moving out of their homes and taking to high ground.

As no tremors were reported from any other localities and the belief was expressed in several quarters that the dam had given way under the pressure of approximately 1-344,000,000 gallons of water behind it.

Aside from the loss of life, the collapse of the St. Francis Dam will cripple an important link in the city of Los Angeles water system and release a big urf of water, accumulated through the winter for the summer use.

efforts that so much has been saved from the fire and we are deeply grateful.

"The plans which I formed for housing the boys in the town were made possible by your co-operation, but since I saw you all on Monday night, the offer of Woodstock came, and on going into it very thoroughly, I found we were presented with a priceless opportunity to do our work under similar conditions to those we had before the fire, only unfortunately away from Port Hope, and our Governing Body decided to accept it.

"However, a building committee has been appointed to arrange plans for rebuilding here as soon as possible when we shall have a bigger and better school.

"I know that our Governing Body joins in thanking you all very heartily for the splendid support we have received from you and all in Port Hope."

On motion, it was decided to acknowledge the letter.

TRAIN WINS RACE AGAINST DEATH

Unconscious Huntsville Boy Was Rushed to Orillia for Operation

The swaying caboose of a freight train served for five hours Sunday night as a hospital while 5 year old Roy Plowright of Huntsville was being rushed to the hospital at Orillia in a desperate and finally successful effort to save his life.

Unconscious from acute appendicitis and rapidly sinking, the boy was kept alive during the journey, with the assistance of members of the train crew, until Orillia was reached and the operation performed and Monday night he was expected to recover fully.

All day, Sunday, at the home of his father, A. W. Plowright, a Huntsville carter, the boy's condition became more and more grave, and as a final resort Dr. Davis ordered that he be rushed to the Memorial Hospital at Orillia for an immediate operation.

The passenger train crew offered their services but arrangement was made to have the young sufferer put on the night freight. He was placed aboard in an ambulance cot, and accompanied by his father and attendants, and the long race began.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the train arrived in Orillia and the surgeons were waiting at the hospital. At 11.30 o'clock, six hours after the hurried departure, Mrs. Plowright received a long-distance call from her husband saying the boy was doing well. Since then he has continued to progress favorably.

CANADA DEMANDS EXCLUSIVE WAVES

Washington Reveals Formal Request for 12 Instead of 6 Lengths

Canada's demands for additional exclusive wave lengths has become an important element in the discussion of the radio bill which is expected to be passed by the House of Representatives after a day of vigorous debate.

The state department has disclosed to members of the committee which handles the radio legislation that Canada has laid a formal request, which is in the nature of a demand, before the United States government for a doubling of the present radio facilities of the dominion.

The Ottawa government wants 12 instead of six exclusive wave bands and a total of 20 instead of 12 wave lengths which they will share with the United States.

This is the minimum that Canada can do with, according to the formal note from the Canadian government now before the state department.

Canada's plan to build up a communication system with its outposts in the far north also is involved in its plans for the future of radio. Stations are to be maintained beyond the Arctic circle and patrols of the snow regions are to be equipped with radio.

The department of state and particularly Secretary Kellogg look with favor on Canadian requests, because they feel the original allotment of wave lengths was somewhat unjust to the dominion. The Federal Radio Commission, however, wants to go slowly about any change which might upset the structure of the American broadcasting system.

Dr. Gertrude Staples Mentioned in Culver City Paper As Speaker

The following newspaper extract is taken from a newspaper published in Culver City, California, and the Dr. Gertrude Staples referred to is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lockhart, Walton street and is well known here, having practiced in Port Hope for a number of years.

(Parent Teachers' Association) "The Study Circle of the Culver City Grammar school P. T. A. held its regular weekly meeting from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday in the school.

Mrs. Grantham, chairman of the circle, had secured Dr. Gertrude Staples, local chiropractor, to speak on diabetics. The talk was very complete and immensely interesting to the large number of mothers present. She pointed out that proper diet is most essential to healthy normal life and named the foods most valuable for children. Many questions propounded by the mothers were answered by Dr. Staples and she left an outline for the study group to read.

The latter part of the morning session was taken by Mrs. J. M. Connon, of Santa Monica, who is conducting a class in Parenthood for the Study Circle. A suggested list of objectives to be striven for by all taking the Parent Education work has been compiled by the State Board of Education and copies of these were handed to the members, the second objective being given as: Establish the habit of sympathetic observation of child activities and interests.

EVILS OF DRINK ON THE YOUNG

Text Book Endorsed by Minister of Education, Originator of L.C.A.

New York schools are to have "prohibition instruction" for all pupils above the age of six, according to a despatch.

Ontario pupils have for years past been taught the evils of alcohol, by means of the Ontario public school health book. Even when Premier G. H. Ferguson in 1926 was asking the province to adopt his plan of sale of liquor the school children were being taught through this book—which bore the endorsement of G. H. Ferguson as minister of education—that "alcohol has a powerful and harmful effect upon a man's body and upon his mind. Upon a boy or girl it would have a more serious effect. It is especially poisonous to them."

D. B. Hanna, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, has many times said that the proper procedure for temperance people is to educate the children in temperance. "It may not be possible to do a great deal with the old people who are set in their ways," says Mr. Hanna, "but the young—you can do things with them."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

THE LITTLE BOY WHO WAS NEVER SATISFIED

"O H, DEAR," sighed Willy Boy, "I just wish I had a million feet so I could cover more ground when I play. Then, too, if I had more feet maybe I wouldn't get so tired."

"That's right," laughed a funny voice. "I don't see how you can get along with only two feet. Look at me! I have at least fifty feet, and sometimes I wish I had more."

Willy Boy looked down at the queer little fellow at his feet, and sure enough, along his long, slender, worm-like body he had one leg after another, until there wasn't room for any more feet.

"Goodness, how lovely you look with so many feet," Willy Boy cried. "I'll bet you never get tired. Dear, I wish I had as many feet as you have."

"Well, if you wish hard enough you'll get them," laughed the funny worm, as he trotted on his way.

Willy Boy watched him until he disappeared around a bush; then he sat down on the steps to do some wishing for himself.

The last time he nodded he opened his eyes and felt rather queer. My, how heavy his legs felt, and when he glanced down, instead of only two feet, Willy had so many feet dangling

"I Have At Least Fifty Feet," under him he could hardly count them.

He was happy as a lark when he jumped up to run and show his mother his many feet. But, sad to say, his feet didn't all want to walk in the same direction and Willy Boy had a hard time getting into the kitchen where his mama was.

"Goodness, isn't that fine," his mama cried. "Now you can run that many more errands for me and you won't tire so easily. Run put your shoes on, son."

Willy Boy laughed. He knew he only had one pair of shoes and he wondered what he was going to do for shoes on the other feet. But when he went to his cupboard, instead of only two shoes, there sat a shoe for every foot that Willy Boy had.

He began to put them on. My, what a time he had tying them up. Willy Boy never did like to lace up his shoes. Two weren't so bad to lace up, but when it came to fifty shoes or more he was pretty tired when he had finished. Then when Willy Boy stood up and tried to walk with his many shoes on he found he couldn't budge a step. He sat down and began to cry.

"Why, Willy Boy, what in the world is the trouble?" asked his mother, as she gave him a shake. "Wake up, son, you must be having a bad dream."

Willy Boy opened his eyes, rubbed them with his hands, looked down at his two feet on the porch step and laughed merrily.

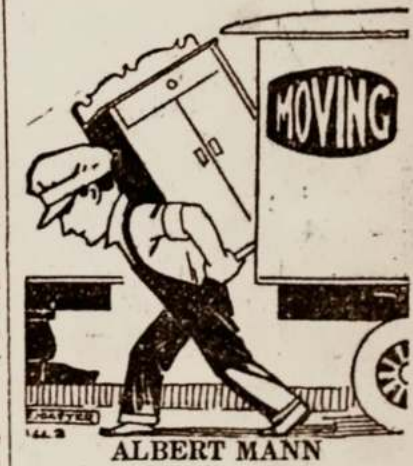

"Goodness, mama, but I'm glad that was only a dream." He hugged his mother's neck and related his dream. "Two feet are enough for any little boy, don't you think so?"

"Indeed I do," laughed his mama. "Two legs are enough for any little boy if he just uses them right. I wonder if you'd like to run to the store for mother."

"Sure enough," laughed Willy Boy, and away he trotted, with the basket for his mama and all the way Willy Boy was glad he only had two feet. He could walk much faster with two feet than he could in his dream.

THE GUIDE STORY

She had heard her knock at my door, and heard me answer and open it—had hidden again in the porter's chair—had, after a while, seen me and my mistress pass together into the passage that led to the Red Room—had watched us both into the Red Room—and had then, through fear of being discovered and murdered herself, if she risked detection any longer, stolen back to her own room for the rest of the night.

After deposing, on oath, to the truth of these atrocious falsehoods and declaring, in conclusion, that Mr. James Smith had been murdered by my mistress, and that I was an accomplice, the French woman had further asserted, in order to show a motive for the crime, that Mr. Mecke was my mistress's lover, and that he had been forbidden the house, by her husband, and that he was found in the house, and all alone with her, on the evening of Mr. Smith's return home. Here again there were some grains of truth cunningly mixed up with a revolting lie, and they had had their effect in giving to the falsehood a look of probability.

I was cautioned in the usual manner, and asked if I had anything to say. I replied that I was innocent but that I would wait for legal assistance before I defended myself. The justice remanded me; and the examination was over. Three days later my unhappy mistress was subjected to the same trial. I was not allowed to communicate with her. All I knew was that the lawyer had arrived from London to help her. Toward evening he was admitted to see me. He shook his head sorrowfully when I asked after my mistress.

"I am afraid," he said, "that the horror of the situation in which the vile woman has placed her has affected her brain. Weakened by her previous agitation, she seems to have sunk altogether under this last shock, tenderly and carefully as Mr. Philip Nicholson broke the bad news to her. All her feelings seemed to be strangely blunted at the examination today. She answered the questions put to her quite correctly but at the same time quite mechanically, with no change in her complexion, or in her tone of voice, or in her manner, from beginning to end. It is a sad thing, William, when women cannot get their natural vent of weeping, and your mistress has not shed a tear since she left Darrook Hall."

"But surely, sir," I said, "if my examination has not proved the French woman's perfidy, my mistress's examination must have exposed it."

"Nothing will expose it," answered the lawyer, "but producing Mr. James Smith, or at least legally proving that he is alive. Morally speaking, I have no doubt that the justice before whom you have been examined is as firmly convinced as we can be that the French woman has perjured herself. Morally speaking, he believes that those threats which your mistress unfortunately used, referred (as she said they did, today) to her intention of leaving the Hall early in the morning, with you for her attendant, and coming to me, if she had been well enough to travel, to seek effectual legal protection from her husband for the future. Mr. Nicholson believes that; and I, who know more of the circumstances than he does, believe also that Mr. James Smith stole away from Darrook Hall in the night for fear of being indicted for bigamy. But if I can't find him; if I can't prove him to be alive; if I can't account for those spots of blood on the night-gown, the accidental circumstances of the case remain unexplained—your mistress's rash language, the bad terms on which she has lived with her husband, and her unlucky disregard of all appearances in keeping up her intercourse with Mr. Mecke, all tell dead against her—and the justice has no alternative, in a legal point of view but to remand you both, as he has now done, for the protection of further evidence."

"But how, then, in Heaven's name is our innocence to be proved, sir?" I asked.

"In the first place," said the lawyer, "by finding Mr. James Smith; and, in the second place, by persuading him, when he is found, to come forward and declare himself."

"Do you really believe, sir," said I, "that he would hesitate to do that when he knows the horrible charge to which his disappearance has exposed his wife? He is a heartless villain, I know; but sure—"

"I don't suppose," said the lawyer, cutting me short, "that he is scoundrel enough to decline coming forward, supposing he ran no risks by doing so. But remember that he has placed himself in a position to be tried for bigamy, and that he believes your mistress will put the law in force against him."

I had forgotten that circumstance. My heart sank within me when it was recalled to my memory, and I could say nothing more.

SPORTING SKITS

SHARKEY BEATEN

Fat, pudgy Johnny Risko cuffed and clouted his way to a surprising but decisive victory last night over the subdued Boston sailor, Jack Sharkey, in a 15 round mauling match.

While a crowd of barely 10,000 looked on, mildly interested and occasionally bored, the big rough and tumble man from Cleveland battered Sharkey out of the heavyweight elimination tournament with an awkward, but nevertheless tireless and frequently effective attack.

It was a battle of no particular thrills and only one spill—that one experienced by Sharkey when he took a count of three in the tenth round, half from the effects of a left hook and half from slipping feet. It was a wrestling, mauling, hit-and-miss battle most of the way, too drab and unexciting to add any lustre to an already somewhat listless and lifeless heavyweight elimination tournament.

Risko won because of his aggressiveness, but he also outpunched and outgamed the big Boston sailor. Jumping Johnny, at least, appeared anxious and willing to make a battle of it, but Sharkey, except for a few flashes, either back-pedalled or missed like the veriest tyro.

There was no doubt of Risko's margin. On the Associated Press score sheet Risko was credited with nine rounds and Sharkey with the remaining six. Johnny staggered Sharkey with vicious left swings and hooks in the second, eighth, ninth, tenth and thirteenth rounds.

From the viewpoint of the crowd the most exciting prospect occurred in the first few minutes of the 10th round, when Sharkey, backed into a corner, went down to one knee after taking two stinging lefts to the head and slipping as he tried to dodge. A third left delivered by Risko landed as the sailor was on his knee, but it was an unintentional blow, and did no particular damage. Sharkey was up and boxing back with one of his few aggressive spurts, winning the round as he poked and cuffed Risko around the ring. Sharkey was much the better boxer of the two. In the few rounds he won, notably the tenth, eleventh and twelfth, he had Risko missing wildly. Risko had to grin foolishly himself as he lunged and swung, only to miss his target by sometimes as much as a foot. But the big sailor seldom sustained his efforts. His legs acted as though they had lead in them. They moved slowly in any direction he pursued, and it was chiefly backward.

HOCKEY

ANOTHER TIE

A jammed house watched the O. H.A. intermediate champions, Port Colborne and the N.O.H.A. senior winners, South Porcupine, try in vain through 90 minutes of hockey to reach a decision as to which team shall meet Kitchener, senior O.H.A. champions, for the right to proceed in quest of the Allan Cup. Last night's game ended 1-1 and leaves the round tied up at 3-3.

The teams played a 2-2 draw in the first game at Toronto Saturday night. Last night's game found two teams giving their all for 90 minutes. The brand of hockey exhibited was of good intermediate calibre, and anything the teams lacked in finish they made up for by hard work, and the loud din kept up by the multitude gave the episode a big league aspect. Close calls on goals were many, and the crowd was on its toes often when it looked like one team or the other would net that much-needed odd goal.

The crowd was strongly pro-Colborne, but as the game progressed the aggressive little Northerners made themselves solid with the fans and many a neutral glad hand came to the help of the little band of thirty Porcupine followers.

The Porkies had a little advantage in speed, Spence at left wing being about the shiftest on the program. Jemmett and McHutchison were both aggressive and hard working forwards. The former carrying off the hook-check honors a la Frank Neighbor.

Back on the defense, Murray was the bump king of the evening, landing out many telling body jolts to opposing rushers. Cain, his mate, was also conspicuous in handing out the slowing-up medicine and contributed some good offensive offerings.

SOO ELIMINATED

Quite apart from the fact that Marlboros won the game 8 to 3 and the round 13 to 3 from the Soo Juniors, the most impressive thing about the match last night at the Arena Gardens was the great sportsmanship of the Toronto crowd. Toronto has been labelled Hog Town by pretty nearly every paper in the province that can afford a linotype machine, but last night they showed, by their insistent cheering for the game little bantams of the north that Torontonians as a whole are real sportsmen. The valiant young lads from the Lock City had few supporters to egg them on, as they battled futilely before a strange crowd on strange ice. So the Queen City patrons took up the Northern cause and cheered every good play, and when the Soo scored their first tally, one would think that Marlboros had netted the one goal that was needed to give them the world's championship, so great was the cheering.

Apart from the fine sporting display of the audience, and the game stand of the youngsters from Algonquin, the match was not much. Marlboros amassed a comfortable lead, then eased up and never pressed very hard thereafter. Sault Ste Marie showed their best hockey of the series in the third period, when they scored three goals. Nevertheless, in all kindness, it can be said they were outclassed. The Dukes were bigger, faster, smoother, more experienced and more wily. It will take a better aggregation than the brave Soo sextet to put the Marlboro team out of the running.

BASEBALL

UNCERTAINTY IN CAMPS

Major league baseball teams started the fourth week of training in Dixie Monday with uncertainty reigning in many camps in regard to starting line ups a month from today when the campaigns actually get under way.

Probably the New York Yankees had less troubles of this nature to worry over than any other, Miller Huggins expecting to send the identical combination to the season's starting post that won the 1927 world series.

As for the other 13 clubs conditioning in the south, all admittedly had many breaks likely to occur that would make the starting line ups problematical. Most of the clubs however, continued exhibition games today, a process through which managerial eyes were observing the situation in realistic regular season fashion.

Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, training at West Palm Beach, was confronted with no less than a half dozen additions from other major league clubs and twice that many recruits to build his 1928 team from. Three recruits from Tulsa of the Western Association, Sturdy, Brannon and Kress, are all admittedly making impressive showings in the Browns' infield workouts.

Washington Senators at Tampa, have three places still undecided—first base, short stop and centre field. Sisler and Judge are the problem at first, Hayes, Gillis and Reeves at short and Sammy West competing with several others at centre field.

The Brooklyn Robins at Clearwater have three new stars to make room for, Bancroft from the Braves, Riconda from Milwaukee and Bissonette, Buffalo.

As for Connie Mack's principal "if" at Fort Myers, Fla., he has expressed the belief that it has passed with the display of form shown by Hauser, first sacker, attempting a comeback.

The Philadelphia Nationals at Winter Haven, Fla., were watching five newcomers including Schulte, catcher, and Kelly, first baseman, in the hopes that they will strengthen the club.

Others have similar hopes pinned on recruits and more seasoned players secured from other major league clubs.

The day was given over to a number of exhibition contests. At Clearwater and Orlando, Fla., respectively, officials of the Brooklyn and Cincinnati National League clubs discussed angles of a possible deal, which if completed, would send Rube Bressler, veteran outfielder of the Reds, to the Robins.

With President McDiarmid of the Cincinnati club present, Red Leg officials discussed in addition to Bressler's demands for release, the unsigned contracts of two holdout pitchers, Carl Mays and Pete Donohue. Bressler has been quoted as offering to buy his own release from Cincinnati.

Meanwhile, Wilbert Robinson, the Brooklyn manager, admitted at the Clearwater camp that he would be glad to talk with Bressler about a Robin contract should he be released by the Red Legs.

Three Indian children were drowned when they fell into Merced River near El Portal, Cal.

FAMINE IS THREATENING

Further Practical Assistance Needed by Indian and Eskimo

The problem of securing for the native population of Canada's Far Northern regions a source of food and clothing to supplement that provided by the diminishing wild life is one which has engaged the attention of the Dominion Government for a number of years. The Department of the Interior, which, through its Northwest Territories and Yukon Branch, administers the affairs of the natives in the vast expanse of the Northwest Territories, has by lessening the wolf menace and providing game preserves endeavored to conserve the wild life and provide better hunting conditions for Indian and Eskimo. Although these measures have to a certain extent ameliorated conditions, it would appear from reports that further practical assistance must be provided, especially for the Eskimos. To this end investigations have been under way since 1926 to determine whether reindeer herds can be established in the Northwest Territories.

With a view to ascertain what areas are best suited for the raising of these animals, the Department of the Interior engaged two brothers,

A. E. and R. T. Porsild, experienced botanists and Arctic travellers, to inquire into the reindeer industry in Alaska and to investigate grazing possibilities in the Mackenzie district and along the Arctic coast to the east. An area of about 15,000 square miles lying east of the Mackenzie River Delta and inland from the coast, was surveyed as a possible reindeer grazing area. It is reported to compare in every respect with the best types of reindeer pasture in Alaska, with plenty of forage and water, and is conservatively estimated as sufficient to provide grazing for 250,000 reindeer.

This year the reindeer investigation will be continued in the area to the north of Great Bear Lake.

YOUR MISSION

If you cannot go on the ocean
Sail among the swiftest fleet,
Rocking on the highest billows,
Laughing at the storms you meet
You can stand among the sailors,
Anchored yet within the bay;
You can lend a hand to help them,
When they launch their boats away.

If you are too weak to journey
Up the mountains steep and high,
You can stand within the valley
While the multitudes go by;
You can chant in happy measures,
As they slowly pass along;
Though they may forget the singer,
They will not forget the song.

If you have not gold and silver
Ever ready at command,
If you cannot toward the needy,
Reach an ever open hand;
You can visit the afflicted,
O'er the erring you can weep;
You can be a true disciple,
Sitting at the Savior's feet.

If you cannot, in the conflict,
Prove yourself a soldier true;
If, where the fire and smoke are thickest,
There's no work for you to do;
When the battlefield is silent,
You can go with careful tread,
You can bear away the wounded,
You can cover up the dead.

If you cannot, in the harvest,
Garner up the richest sheaves;
Many a grain, both ripe and golden
Which the careless reaper leaves,
You can glean among the briars
Growing rank against the wall,
For it may be their shadow
Hides the heaviest grain of all.

Do not, then, stand idly waiting
For some greater work to do;
Fortune is a lazy goddess,
She will never come to you.
Go and toil in any vineyard,
Do not fear to do and dare;
If you want a field of labor,
You can find it anywhere.

Ross got the surprise of his life

HE had asked Long Distance for a New York number, and planned to dictate several letters while waiting for the connection. Before he could hang up, the operator said:—

"Hold the line, please!"

"Surely she can't expect me to hold this line half an hour!" he said to his stenographer.

"Half an hour? It probably won't be over two minutes. This new speedy Long Distance service is very quick."

To provide increased facilities, many new Long Distance circuits are being installed. Most of them will be in use this Spring. Here are some of the important additions:

"I wish I'd known"

There's always a new experience ahead—something you haven't done before and which calls for a decision.

You become engaged—and immediately you are called upon to decide on the purchase of many, many things you never bought before.

You marry—and furniture, draperies, china, radios, oil burners, gas stoves, autos claim your dollars and call for your choice.

A baby comes—and again you face a new experience in purchasing clothes and powders and blankets; in buying a crib, baby carriage, foods, toys.

Next—what school? For the years pass incredibly fast. Again, a new decision.

Every room in your house requires a choice. Every meal served in your dining-room results from your having decided on what to serve. Every day confronts you with a multitude of possibilities from which you must select those which make life happier and better and make the dollars go farther.

How on earth are you going to make those decisions? How can you know what you want and what you don't want? How can you buy to such advantage that you'll seldom, if ever, have occasion to use that futile phrase, "I wish I'd bought something else"?

Read the advertisements—read them carefully. The advertisements are an encyclopaedia of news and information on the things you want and need.

Good bye skating!

The constant flow of water is destroying the ice so that there is little possibility of skating again this season yet it may tighten up so we can have another Band Night.

The Bell Telephone men were busy taking water out of their man hole in front of the exchange where they are going to do some work on their underground cables.

Of course all the merchants are going to attend the R.M.A. meeting in the Town Hall tonight. Live stores make a live town. If you are a merchant it is to your interest to attend.

St. Patrick's Day greetings are now in the Christmas card class, at least so far as the postal authorities are concerned. An any rate a warning that greetings for March 17 be mailed early just issued. Appropriately enough, the warning is printed in green.

The meter rate charge for all electric current used in the Town of Orillia has been reduced to one cent per kilowatt hour. This is the lowest rate quoted for current anywhere on the North American Continent, it is believed. Rates formerly were three cents commercial and two cents domestic, dropping to one cent after a certain consumption monthly.

Spring arrived Monday in Tillsonburg district. Side roads that were good Monday morning contained deep ruts and in some cases were almost impassable by noon. One of the happy features was the first hanging of the sap buckets. Sugar making will be a general thing in Tillsonburg district by the end of the week with a promise of a good yield.

In an attempt to clear up the Toronto radio muddle, a new allocation of wave lengths will be made, effective April 1. CKOL and CKNC are to be changed from 357 to 516 metres. CFCA and CNRT will remain on the 357 metre wave. The changes are being made in response to complaints from thousands of listeners, whose chief grievances is against a station which prevents their reception of more desirable broadcasts. If the changes contemplated do not prove satisfactory, it is understood, another realignment will be made.

LINDBERGH MAY GO TO TORONTO

Authorities To Ask Him to Attend Life Membership Presentation

Now that Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh has accepted the invitation to visit Toronto in April during the O. E.A. convention, a vigorous effort is being made to bring her famous airman son to Toronto to see his mother honored by the presentation of a life membership in the Ontario Educational Association.

An invitation from both the association in the city and the province will probably go to "Lucky Lindy" in an effort to have both mother and son there in Easter week.

It is hoped that Mrs. Lindbergh will be in Toronto three days—April 9, 10, 11.

On April 10 there is a probability of a great meeting in the Coliseum at the exhibition grounds when the presentation of the life membership pin will be made the mother of the flier.

It is possible that Mrs. Lindbergh may fly from Detroit to Toronto, and she has already been assured that in that event there would be provisions made for her plane at Leaside.

There is one thing about which the airman's mother is very definite—she will not be exploited. She will not be treated as a circus performer. She makes that plain. But she is proud of being a teacher and proud of her work as an instructor in the Cass technical school at Detroit. But authorities are well aware that she will not be favorable to any plans which may be made as a means of merely exploiting her.

Incidentally, however, her visit, while not designed as a money-getter for Ontario, will have the effect of bringing many Americans over and it is estimated that it means many a million dollars more in Ontario's pocket.

Many women's organizations are bidding for the honor of entertaining the famous Detroit woman. The Women Teachers' Association feels that as she is a teacher it has first call on her presence. The Women's Canadian Club also is interested. The American Women's Club is moving in the matter. Then there is also the United Empire Loyalists Association. For Mrs. Lindbergh comes of that stock.

It is not known yet whether any of her Canadian relations may meet her. There are branches of the family on her father's side still in Canada, the Land, Lodge and Kisan families.

Trustee Mrs. E. L. Groves is broadcasting a message on Tuesday night in reference to the visit of Mrs. Lindbergh, and it is expected that it will be heard by thousands in the United States.

New Raglan Sleeve Comes To Point At Shoulder

Everyone is glad when, at the first sign of warm weather, heavy coats can be tossed aside and light weight ones worn in their stead. The fresh invigorating air calls us out on long walks and short trips to the country. This charming coat is very adaptable to the many demands made upon a Spring wrap. It is particularly becoming for it has the new raglan sleeve which comes to a point at the top giving a narrow shoulder line. In fact it is just the thing for sports or run-about wear. This style is also good for an ensemble with dress to match the coat and blouse of same material as the lining. (Copyright, 1928, by Designer)

Mr. James Pienikowski will sell by auction on Elizabeth street on Saturday, March 17th, at 2 o'clock, a six-roomed frame dwelling with furnace, electric lights, town water, garage and large lot, also a Ford ton truck and set of scales. Conditions made known at time of sale.
