Oddfellows At Home

The committee in charge of the "At Home" in the Oddfellows Hall on March 19th have completed arrangements. This "At Home" marks the 89th anniversary of the society. An orchestra comprising Messrs. Webster, Blood, Thompson, McGibbon, Bonnetta, Ward, Underwood, Nichols, Reynolds, Reid, Roberts, Burford, Alsthorpe and Coggan will supply the music.

In 1848 gold rush spades sold for $10 each in California.

Mrs. Ralph Engle of Lawrill, Ind., was fatally injured and her two children killed when their automobile was struck by a train.

SKULL FRACTURED BY FALLING LIMB

Roger Tamblin of Zion Is In a Serious Condition at Port Hope Hospital

Roger Tamblin, a middle aged farmer residing near Zion, is lying in the Port Hope hospital suffering from a fractured skull which he sustained when engaged in cutting down a tree on Monday. He is in a serious condition. Mr. Tamblin was cutting down a tree near midday when a limb fell and struck him a heavy blow on the head. He was rendered unconscious and was rushed to the local hospital.

Mr. George Harwood, Ward Street, is confined to his home with scarlet fever.

Mr. Howard Walsh of Orono is visiting his brother Mr. Alex Walsh, who has been very ill but we are glad to say he is improving.

HOSPITAL IS CROWDED—NEW WING NEEDED

This Point was Discussed By Hospital Mission at Meeting On Tuesday

At the regular meeting of the Women's Hospital Mission held in the Council Chamber Tuesday afternoon, the need of a new wing for the hospital was discussed to considerable extent by the members present.

The visitors for the past month included Mrs. J. A. Winfield and Mrs. S. Brickell and they reported that the hospital was filled to capacity and even the reception room was utilized. The need of a new wing was greatly emphasized in the great work that the hospital is doing.

Mrs. McBeth and Mrs. J. E. Smart were appointed visitors for the ensuing month. Considerable other routine business was transacted.

SOCIETY TO BE REFORMED SOON

Horticulture Lecture Will Be Given On "Home Beautification" March 23rd

Despite that last night was somewhat disagreeable, a number of interested people turned out to formulate plans for reforming the Horticultural Society here, which will be a great help in beautifying Port Hope's public and private places.

Mr. J. Y. Kellogg, of the Department of Agriculture, made a few introductory remarks and explained that Mr. J. A. Neilson, who had been instrumental in getting this under way, was unavoidably absent owing to the fact that he was in the hospital. Mr. Neilson is making a very nice recovery from his operation of Saturday and may be able to assist in getting the organization started. (Mr. Kellogg also said that Mr. H. J. Moore, of Islington, had been communicated with and will be here to give a lecture on "Home Beautification" on Friday, March 23rd. He then asked the meeting to elect a chairman.

Forthwith Mr. M. U. Ferguson, who has shown a great interest in the project, was elected to the chair, and brought with him a petition signed by nearly enough people to comply with the act, asking that the Government establish a branch of the Horticultural Society here and immediately sufficient names were added by those present.

Mr. James Sinnott was asked to procure the Town Hall for Friday, March 23, for the lecture by Mr. H. J. Moore and it was decided that the meeting should be advertised in the press.

It was thought advisable to call another meeting at seven-thirty next Wednesday night, by which time the by-laws would be here and other information. Mr. Kellogg was asked to write, inviting Mr. J. H. H. Jury of Bowmanville, district representative of the Society to come to the meeting next Wednesday when it is hoped that a large and enthusiastic crowd of home lovers and believers in our slogan, "Port Hope, the Prettiest Town in Canada," will be present to get the thing rolling.

In the discussion before the conclusion of the meeting it was decided it was necessary to stir up the spirit of progress, to get everyone boosting to make the society a success and of real value to the town as a municipality and the homes of its citizens.

STILL SEARCHING FOR MAJOR LEAN

No Trace Yet of Insurance Broker Reported to Have Been Seen in Port Hope

To date there has been no trace of Major Osborne Lean, missing Toronto insurance broker who disappeared from his home, 187 Albany avenue, Toronto, during the latter part of November. On the evening of December 7th, he was reported to have been seen in H. W. Mitchell's drug store, but after an exhaustive search, he was not located in this district.

In the current issue of the Salvation Army War Cry, under the caption, "We Are Looking For You," the following notice is inserted:

LEAN, MAJOR OSBORNE—Age 52 years, height 6 ft., weight about 200 lbs., dark hair and complexion, clean shaven, but may have grown a beard. Has slight scar across lower part of nose, second finger off left hand, carries a walking stick, and walks with decided limp. Is a returned wounded soldier. He wore a dark grey suit, grey overcoat, fawn fedora hat. His wife and son anxious for news. Anyone who knows his present whereabouts, please communicate with this office at once.

George W. McLaughlin was elected President of the Oshawa Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the Board of Directors last night. The complete executive was selected by ballot and the officers for the coming year are as follows:—
First Vice-President—G. D. Conant;
Second Vice-President—H. A. Brown;
Third Vice-President—E. A. Lovell;
Treasurer—Frank Redding.

500 REJECTED AS IMMIGRANTS

Canadian Doctors in Great Britain Examined 12,000 Persons in Month

Canada has established a new system for the examination of immigrants in Great Britain and on the continent. To the Parliamentary committee which is investigating the Department of Immigration, Dr. J. A. Amyot, Deputy Minister of the Department of Health, Tuesday outlined the new system. Examinations are now conducted by the staff of Canadian doctors located at important centres in Great Britain and on the continent. In Great Britain 330 stations at which these examinations are conducted now exist. Since Feb. 5 about twelve thousand examinations have been made, resulting in rejection of some five hundred intending immigrants. The staff of doctors numbers twenty and is equipped with motor cars in order to visit the different stations.

GIVEN 2 MONTHS ON THEFT CHARGE

Edward Varnum of Solina Convicted of Theft At Newcastle

Edward Varnum of Solina, was Monday convicted of theft before Magistrate W. F. Ward in Bowmanville police court and sentenced to two months' imprisonment. He pleaded guilty.

On March 10 last, A. F. Gibson of Newcastle, reported to the police that a quantity of groceries and articles of clothing, to the value of $10.00 had been stolen from the buggy in the church shed. The case was investigated and it was found that a man bearing the description of the accused had left the premises three quarters of an hour previous to this time.

Arthur Millsen, county constable, was notified, and proceeded to intercept the accused while entering his own home. All the stolen goods were found in the possession of the accused. He was immediately brought back and charged with theft. Chief of Police Richard Jarvis took the prisoner to Cobourg.

TRAFFIC HALTED AT PICKERING

Provincial Highway is Flooded Whitby Bus Turned Back

A torrent of water was last night pouring across Provincial Highway No. 2 at Pickering and rendering it absolutely impassable, following the sudden blocking of Duffin's Creek by ice-cakes.
During the afternoon ice jammed in a crook in the stream below the highway bridge, and by late at night the water was several feet over the floor of the structure and raging across the highway at either end. Larke cakes of ice have been thrown up on the road by the force of the water.

Traffic Officer Reid took a station below the blockade and stopped all northbound traffic, so that a long line up of traffic had collected by midnight, with no prospect of getting through. The night bus for Whitby was obliged to return to Toronto with its passengers, including F. Howard Annes of Whitby, who announced his intention of attempting to interest the municipality in straightening the course of the stream.

NOTED AUTHOR TO SPEAK HERE

Frederick Philip Grove Will Address Women's Canadian Club

Frederick Philip Grove, author of "Over Prairie Trails," "The Tune of the Year," "Settlers of the Marsh" and other equally interesting books, will be noted visitor in Port Hope this evening, he having been secured as the speaker at the Women's Canadian Club at the Town Hall.

"A Search for America" his latest work, has attracted much favorable comment. Mr. Grove was born in Malmoe, Sweden, of wealthy and cultured parents. He was educated in Sweden, England, France Germany and Italy. At the age of twenty-four his family fortunes failed, his parents died, and he set forth without resources, without experience, to earn a living, to find himself and discover a soil in which he could grow. That soil, after many wanderings and trials, he at last found in Canada and for many years he has been school teacher and writer on the prairies of the west. His home, now, is in Rapid City, Manitoba.

Abraham Morganstein, who pushes a handcart in New York City, was fined $50 for speeding on the side walk.

Rabbit that had been in Atlas Mine, Petersburg, Ind., since mine closed last October was found almost starved to death.

Edward McDermot, 40, was killed in Dubuque, Ia., when he fell into a coal crusher at Milwaukee railroad shops.

Claiming their marriage was not a success, Martin Vna Buren Reeves, 103, and Mrs. Elizabeth Reeves, 95, of Salt Lake City, Utah, have separated.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Good morning! Are you going to the meeting about Toc H?

The meeting in the Vet's Hall tonight to be addressed by Chaplain Gilbert Williams is not for ex-service men alone but for all men from sixteen to sixty.

Frederick Philip Grove, a famous author, speaks before the Women's Canadian Clubs in the Library Hall tonight and we expect he will be received by the literary people of Port Hope.

It won't be long now until we are turned out of house and home for the annual house cleaning.

"The Prettiest Town in Canada" should have a Horticultural Society and our corner friend is glad to see that one is to be started, but he advises everyone who loves flower and Port Hope to boost and work for the success of the Horticulture Society which will mean so much to Port Hope.

Judge Lawrence V. O'Connor has purchased the residence of John E. Quinn at Cobourg and expects to take possession in about two months' time. The residence is one of the attractive dwelling places and is situated on the north side of King Street, east of College Street. The purchase price is said to have been between $15,000 and $20,000.

The Whitby Town Council met as a committee to consider the estimates for the year, preparatory to striking the tax rate for 1928. Last year's rate was 38 mills, but owing to increased expenditures facing the council, including new road machinery, new scales and an increased amount to be paid to the county, it may not be possible to keep it at the rate of last year.

On Tuesday evening, March 20th, a Father and Son banquet will be held at St. Paul's Church.

Down by the riverside you are likely to get your shoes wet today owing to the fact that the mild weather and rains have raised the waters so that the swelling tide is bubbling over in many places. The Ontario House stables have considerable water on the floors but the flood is abating, so barring a heavy rain we should escape any serious deluge.

Don't get your dates mixed! It's often fatal. The particular case we have in mind is the presentation of "A Kentucky Belle" in the United Church Sunday School a week from tonight. This evening it is to be given in Canton and a week from tonight Port Hoppers will have the pleasure of enjoying the play.

Harry Wood, 15 years old of Oshawa, was reported by his father, Harry Wood, to the police Monday. The boy left home last Thursday, presumably to go to school. He has not been seen since. The father did not report the disappearance before, expecting his son to return home.

Radio is responding superbly to every call made on it. Yesterday Station CKCL was asked to broadcast the Wedding March at 4 o'clock sharp this afternoon from the Robert Simpson Tea Room for the home wedding of a popular young West Toronto couple. Thousands of listeners-in were interested in this innovation of having a wedding with the wedding music by radio. The general effects of this novelty is expected to make radio wedding music very popular, and for a time at least other instrumental music for home weddings will likely sink into the background.

DIVINING NOT A SURE MEANS

Takes No Account of Permanence of Supply—Engineer Credits it to Luck

I have waited patiently for some authoritative comment on the practice of "divining," witching or dowsing. Failing to find any, I offer the experience of an engineer who makes his living by sinking artesian wells, writes R. L. Matthews, M.I.M.E., a member of a firm of artesian well engineers, in the London Daily Mail.

My conclusion is this—that however successful the Abbe Bouly may be with his guesses or divinations, the fact remains that whenever the cold light of scientific test and reasoning has been applied to diviners they have been a total failure.

The success of diviners are trumpeted far and wide—the failures are hushed quietly into oblivion. In a reasoned and able paper Professor Gregory recently rejected the "diviner's" claims; the United States Geological Survey condemns the practise and belief in no measured terms; and tests in South Australia and New South Wales were entirely discrediting. The tests at Guildford are almost sufficient of themselves to convince an open mind.

Added to these is the fact that the German government was officially advised by Professor Schmeisser, after prolonged and thorough tests, to abandon experiments in divining which were "ludicrous and detrimental to the intelligence of the people."

The very methods contains the seeds of failure. What reckes the diviner of the permanence or otherwise of any water supply which he may find? If we are ready to draw water stored in the porous beds of the earth's crust and continue this draft indefinitely, the need for replenishment of the store is obvious.

To secure this replenishment certain geographical conditions must obtain, and it is here that science and logic step in.

In my profession I am constantly brought into touch with diviners and their work, and I know of many cases where supplies of water have been secured (at about double the usual cost, by the way), but have gradually diminished in volume until useless. I know of only one well boring firm of any repute in this country which confesses to any belief in divining.

Unfortunately the public are gullible and they dearly love the mysterious. It is difficult to credit a board of business men directing the affairs of a great concern, in the north, putting down five consecutive unsuccessful borings on sites located by diviners, before consulting a geological expert. Yet this actually happened.

Another concern employed three diviners before commencing to bore. The three disagreed as to site, each condemning the other's location. How was a decision arrived at? I confess I am at a loss. So, by the way, was the boring, which was a total failure, costing some $5000.

I had occasion to test a diviner some years ago. I moved the pegs he had previously placed to indicate where two streams crossed—incident ally, an almost invariable "location."

The streams must have moved at the same time for although the pegs had been moved 30 yards, yet the diviner, when called upon the show the routes taken by the alleged underground streams, located the junction at the new position of the pegs. A very slight knowledge of the earth's crust would prevent diviners making ridiculous claims that they can find streams where streams are not and cannot be.

Where divining is not undiluted chicanery it is undoubtedly self-delusion. The evidence, as Professor Gregory states, is "overwhelming."

YOUNG TO LEARN ART OF FLYING

Canadian Civil Aviation Corps Organization Has Been Completed

Organization of a Canadian civil aviation corps in Toronto calling itself "a non-profit civilian aviation and educational association," has just been completed. Several members have already signed up with the corps and a drive is now on to increase the membership.

The primary object of the organization is to interest Canadian people in civil aviation. It is proposed to purchase an airplane to be used for training young people to fly, and in this way promote commercial aviation.

Seven aims are outlined as forming the purpose of the corps and towards the realization of these each member pledges himself to work. The corps proposes to bring Canada to line with the other nations of the world in aviation activities, to give every possible assistance towards providing a properly constructed and correctly marked airport for the city, to assist in preventing carelessness and accidents by co-operating against the use of unlicensed craft by unlicensed pilots, to organize free aviation training classes for members, to provide correct information regarding flying schools and to raise the standard of instruction, to encourage former pilots and existing organizations to aid in this movement, and to correlate and harmonize flying activities so as to attain the highest results and the general development of aviation in Canada.

The officers of the organization are: George H. K. Mitford, president; Capt. Chris Evans, vice-president and Chas. G. Roos, secretary-treasurer.

"Commercial aviation will develop more and more as time goes on," Mr. Mitford said, "and we must have young men trained as pilots if we are not to import them. We hope to train young men for this work and thus promote development of aviation."

COBOURG COUNCIL PASSES BYLAW

Dogs Prohibited Running At Large Following Attack

Five persons are now undergoing Pasteur treatment for Hydrophobia, and it is expected that others will also apply for treatment, following the shooting of a dog last week in Cobourg, found to be suffering from rabies. Every one who came in contact with the animal should be treated immediately, Dr. Anderson, Chief Provincial Analyst warns.

As a result of the alarm occasioned, the Town Council has passed a by law prohibiting dogs running at large without a muzzle and any dog found at large without one will be impounded and subsequently destroyed if not claimed.

VIVID COLORING IN PANTO SCENES

Costumes and Settings of "Dick Whittington" Form Pleasing Pictures

One of the truly remarkable features about "Dick Whittington and His Cat," the pantomime which marks F. Stuart-Whyte's first return to the Canadian theatre since 1921, is color—and then more color.

The color schemes are brilliant and daring—occasionally exotic—but the effectiveness of the picture which each scene presents exceeds anything Mr. Whyte himself has ever before presented or anything that has been seen on a Canadian tour in years.

The secret is in the advance preparation. The entire production was first carefully worked out on a specially built miniature stage, experiment after experiment, down to the last detail. When the actual task of building the settings and creating the costumes began, everything had been laid out as exactly as if it had been plotted on blue prints. It was possible to obtain the amazing effects which mark the production because, worked out on the completely-equipped miniature stage, Mr. Whyte had obtained perfect synchronization of lights, settings and costumes.

Some of the scenes, in their brilliance are reminiscent of the vivid splashes of the Russian, Leon Bakst. Some of them have the delicate tint of Dresden china. But all of the nine major scenic creations in the new Stuart-Whyte pantomime are outstanding in the harmony of design and color which have made them symphonies of light and shading.

"Dick Whittington and His Cat," presented by an English and Canadian company of thirty, will be seen at the Royal Theatre on Friday. Reserved seats are now on sale at G. V. Strong's.

BIRDS OF THE SPRING TIME

Spring is Coming and the Following List May Be Expected

Though fields are brown and the woods, gray, birds are already coming back from the south, to warn us that spring is almost here. In the zoological section of the Royal Ontario Museum a most interesting exhibit has been arranged, showing stuffed specimens of the more common early spring birds, arranged in the order of their arrival. Each one has a label fast to it, telling the date it may be expected to appear in the vicinity of Port Hope. The actual date may vary a little, and be earlier or later according to the season, but those given are the average dates over a number of years.

First of all that glossy and much maligned villain, the crow, makes his appearance on February 20, and he is accompanied by the horned lark. On March 5 the lovely blue bird flashes into view, followed by the black duck, which is really brown the handsome red winged blackbird, and our old friend robin redbreast.

The little gray song sparrow, the sly, slim black grackle, and the pretty yellow and gray meadow lark all arrive in the middle of March.

Towards the end of the month, by the twentieth, we may look for the killdeer, stone gray in color and by the twenty second, the warm gray Phoebe bird, the black spotted flicker, and the golden crowned king let, a tiny bird with a touch of orange on its head. By the 25th, the hooded merganser, a water bird with a white breast and white fan on its head, and the cowbird, black, with a sheen of green in its feathers should have arrived, and also the long brown marsh hawk.

The birds apparently do not fear practical jokes for April Fool's Day brings horned and pied billed greks, the belted kingfisher, the mourning dove and the migrant shrike, followed in a day or two by the sparrow hawk, the rusty blackbird, and the tiny chipping sparrow.

Wilson's snipe, with its long thin beak, and the vesper, swamp, fox and red and grey sparrows all come on the seventh of April, the sparrows apparently travelling in a family party. The next day the gay colored, yellow-bellied sapsucker, with its fine red throat, arrives, and also the towhee, the hermit thrush, the tiny speckled winter wren, and the tree swallow, with his coat of iridescent blue. They are followed on succeeding days by the savannah and white-throated sparrows, which bring to an end this line of beating wings, bringing the early spring birds back to the shores of Lake Ontario.

THERE ARE STRANGE AND BEAUTIFUL SIGHTS ON THE PACIFIC COAST YOU CAN SEE THEM THIS SUMMER

Great snow-capped mountains—glaciers that tower high above the water's edge—floods of surpassing scenic beauty—all await you along the Pacific coast and in Alaska. You can see the beauty and the grandeur of the finest scenery in the world by taking one of the Canadian National Railways intensive tours to the Pacific coast and Alaska.

The tour includes a visit to Jasper Park—the playground of the Rockies.

Out of the heart of the Rockies the tour brings you to Vancouver and Victoria—the two most attractive cities on the North Pacific Coast.

Now you leave the centres of population for a thousand mile sail along the famous inside passage to Skagway, Alaska. From comfortable modern steamers you will sail through picturesque and awe-inspiring channels where you will see nature in her most rugged and alluring dress—scenes beyond imagination, and beauty spots that bring thrills to the most sophisticated traveller.

All these wonders can be visited in one complete tour. Ask any Canadian National Railway agent about this trip. He will help you plan your itinerary and give you full information and illustrated literature.

UP AND DOWN THE HILL

Down the broad, grey road of years Slowly toward a goal we ramble While the course each mortal steers Is beset by thorn and bramble. Fondness, too, for looking back Often finds the chance retarded. And so many things we lack We have missed through words unguarded.

'Tis a quest, this life we live, Yet we scarce know what we're seeking. Thrills which certain pleasures give Turn our minds from thoughtful speaking.

Prone are we to take the view That our lives should brim with rapture; Then—our golden deeds are few, Satisfaction hard to capture.

Fain I'd offer good advice On the truly proper measures To ensure the manner nice, And to keep from rust life's treasures.

But, in common with the throng Down the broad, gray road I stumble, Trying hard to raise a song, Often ending in a grumble. Aubrey S. Williamson.

THE GUIDE STORY

"It is a very serious thing," the lawyer went on; "it is a downright offense against the law of the land to make any private offer of a compromise to this man. Knowing what we know, our duty as good citizens is to give such information as may bring him to trial. I tell you plainly that, if I did not stand toward your mistress in the position of a relative as well as a legal adviser, I should think twice about running the risk—the very serious risk—on which I am now about to venture for her sake. As it is, I have taken the right measure to assure Mr. James Smith that he will not be treated according to his deserts. When he knows the circumstances are, he will trust us—supposing always that we can find him. The search about this neighborhood has been quite useless. I have sent private instructions by today's post to Mr. Dark, in London, and with them a carefully worded form of advertisement for the public newspapers. You may rest assured that every human means of tracing him will be tried forthwith. In the meantime, I have an important question to put to you about the French woman. She may know more than we think she does; she may have surprised the secret of the second marriage, and may be keeping it in reserve to use against us. If this should turn out to be the case, I shall want some other chance against her besides the chance of indicting her for perjury. As to her motive, now, for making this horrible accusation, what can you tell me about that, William?"

"Her motive against me, sir?"

"No, no, not against you. I can see plainly enough that she accuses you because it is necessary to do so to add to the probability of her story which, of course, assumes that you helped your mistress to dispose of the dead body. You are coolly sacrificed to some devilish vengeance against her mistress. Let us get at that first. Has there ever been a quarrel between them?"

I told him of the quarrel and of how Josephine had looked and talked when she showed me her cheek.

"Yes," he said, "that is a strong motive for revenge, with a naturally pitiless, vindictive woman. But is that all? Had your mistress any hold over her? Is there any self interest mixed up along with this motive of vengeance? Think a little, William. Has anything ever happened in the house to compromise this woman, or to make her fancy herself compromised?"

The remembrance of my mistress's lost trinkets and handkerchiefs, which later and greater troubles had put out of my mind, flashed back into my memory while he spoke. I told him immediately of the alarm in the house when the loss was discovered.

"Did your mistress suspect Josephine and question her?" he asked, eagerly.

"No, sir," I replied. "Before she could say a word, Josephine impudently asked who she suspected, and boldly offered her own boxes to be searched."

The lawyer's face turned red as scarlet. He jumped out of his chair and hit me a smack on the shoulder that I thought he must have gone mad.

"By Jupiter, William," he cried out, "we have got the whip hand of that she-devil at last."

I looked at him in astonishment.

"Why, man alive!" he said, "don't you see how it is? Josephine's the thief! I am as sure of it as that you and I are talking together. This vile accusation against your mistress answers another purpose besides the vindictive one—it is the very best screen that the wretch could possibly set up to hide herself from detection. It has stopped your mistress and you from moving in the matter; it exhibits her in the false character of an honest witness up against a couple of criminals; it will give her time to dispose of the goods or to hide them, or to do anything she likes with them. Stop! let me be quite sure that I know what the lost things are. A pair of bracelets, three rings, and a lot of lace pocket handkerchiefs—is that what you said?"

"Yes, sir."

"Your mistress will describe them particularly, and I will take the right steps the first thing tomorrow morning. Good evening, William, and keep up your spirits. It shan't be my fault if you don't soon see the French woman in the right place for her—at the prisoners' bar."

With that farewell he went out. The days passed, and I did not see him again until the period of my remand had expired. On this occasion when I once more appeared before the justice, my mistress appeared with me. The first sight of her absolutely startled me—she was so sadly altered. Her face looked so pinched and thin that it was like the face of an old woman. The dull, vacant resignation of her expression was something shocking to see. It changed a little when her eyes first turned heavily toward me; and she whispered, with a faint smile, "I am sorry for you, William; I am very sorry for you." But as soon as she had said those words the blank look returned and she sat with her head drooping forward, quiet and inattentive, and hopeless, so changed a being that her oldest friends would hardly have known her.

LEAFS REPORT

Tuesday was the 13th and there were 13 members of the Toronto club of the International league in uniform at the first regular workout of Bill O'Hara's prospective pennant chasers. The combination may not be conducive to good fortune, but the townfolk seem to think so, as the sun is shining brightly for the first time in over a week and they attribute the change in conditions to the arrival of the baseball athletes.

There is a rival for Dale Alexander's job in camp. He is a twenty-year-old youth named Davis, who's sponsored by Johnny Prudhomme and who apparently has the goods. He has all the actions of Mickey Heath and struts his stuff around the bag in the same smart way. Like that jaunty near veteran, Davis does everything lefthanded. There is nothing much else the matter with him, however.

Whether he will beat Big Boy to the berth is another story entirely. It is not likely that Alex is worrying very much about it. He won't need to if his batting at the initial workout is any criterion. The pitchers didn't do any more than balloon the ball to the plate, and that kind of pitching was just pie in the face to Alexander, who crashed several out of the park and indicated even at this early date that he hasn't forgotten how to make his long war club behave.

All the pitchers took a turn in the box. Doyle was out there longer than any of the others, as he is rather overweight and needs the work. Les Burke also seems to be carrying more poundage than is good for him and he will have to hustle to get down to playing trim.

Among the arrivals was Keyes, the outfielder purchased from the Asheville club of the Sally League. He is a husky gent and his appearance bears out the reports of his batting prowess. He was the leading slugger of that loop last summer, specializing in circuit soaks.

Joe Rabbit, the speed boy from Omaha, hasn't come along as yet, much to Manager O'Hara's regret, as he is keen to see the diamond paddock in action. Rabbit is one of the fastest runners in the game, according to all reports.

The Toronto club manager is pleased with the camp and says it is one of the best that the Leafs have ever had.

CRONICK LEADS CANADIANS

John Cronick of Saskatoon, Sask., finished first among Canadians entrants in the 28.8 mile stretch from Otman in the transcontinental marathon. He came in in 4:54 to post a total elapsed time of 62:32.55 and put himself in fifth place for a total of 345.7 miles covered to date from Los Angeles.

Philip Granville, the Hamilton walker, held down tenth place with an elapsed time of 67:51.05. His time Tuesday was 5:20.30.

Finishing among the first 35 on Tuesday were the following Canadians with their times noted: George Liebergall, Bellevue, 5:55.30; elapsed time 70:05.40. Henry Swabey, York Township, Ont., 5:55.30; 73:26.53. Eugene Germain, Montreal, 6:36.30; 80:48.25. Harold McNutt, Calgary, 7:03.30; 96:02.40. S. Stevens of Calgary made the lap in 8:16.30 and has an elapsed time today of 104:23.20.

R. D. Lesage of Montreal and David H. Davies of Sandwich, Ont., were among the late finishers on Tuesday. Lesage finished one hundredth. Their times were respectively, 8:57.50, elapsed 102:34.10 and 10:08, elapsed 87.48.35.

Osmond Metcalfe of Toronto, who was thought to have dropped out, was found early Tuesday. After crossing the Colorado River he got lost and slept out all night. He started on the stretch again.

CAN WEIGH ATOMS VERY ACCURATELY

Scientists Have Amazing Way to Count Tiny Particles They Cannot See

Before you lies a pound of copper—a reddish, shining metal lump. To your eyes it seems solid enough. If anyone told you that pound of copper was for the most part empty space, that it was inhabited only by countless swarms of tiny buzzing particles of matter that gave it shape and weight, you could hardly be blamed for incredulity. Nevertheless, it is true. Forty-three million million million separate copper atoms, declares Dr. Paul D. Foote of the United States Bureau of Standards, go to make up that single pound lump.

How does he dare to make such a statement? What tells him he is right? No one has ever seen an atom. The most powerful microscopes in the world cannot even reveal molecules, which are groups of atoms. After all, what right have experts to believe that molecules and atoms exist at all?

The answer is that they do not need to see them! Ingenious proofs, writes George Lee Dowd, Jr., in the April Popular Science Monthly, at last furnish them with irrefutable evidence to bare the innermost secrets of matter.

Chemists say they can measure the heaviness of one atom compared with another far more accurately than a grocer weighs his merchandise. Sir Ernest Rutherford, the world's greatest authority on the atom, calculates that a cubic inch of helium gas contains precisely seventy-seven billion billion atoms. As for molecules, the next thing larger than atoms, as final an authority as Prof. R. A. Millikan of Pasadena, Cal., says: "We can now count the exact number in any given volume or weight of a uniform substance with even more certainty than we can count the population of a city or state." For instance, he places the number in a cubic centimeter of air (about the size of a large pea) at "exactly 27.05 billions."

How do they know? It remained for Laue, a Swiss physicist, to give the conclusive proof that atoms really do exist, grouped in molecules. By turning X-rays on small crystals, he succeeded in taking the first photographs of atoms. An X-ray picture of a diamond showed a carbon atom at the centre of a four sided figure and four other carbon atoms at the corners, just as chemists had already conceived it. With such X-ray patterns to work from, it was easy to construct models of molecules that could not be far from the truth.

By another application of the X-ray it is possible to measure, with the astonishing precision of one one hundredth of one per cent., the distance between two layers of atoms in a crystal. Armed with these measurements, it is an easy step to the actual size of the molecule and of the atom itself, as well as the number of them that can inhabit any given space.

To calculate the size of the atoms themselves, the chemist must help. By the character of the reactions in his test tubes, he can tell how many atoms any molecule contains. He can make an excellent estimate of the distance between them from his studies of the frequency with which a radioactive projectile like a radium ray collides with them a collision that gives a visible flash of light. Immediately he can get out his pencil and paper and tell the size of the atom.

The chemist, again, weighs the atoms against each other. All he requires is the relative weights in which the atoms of the elements enter into combination with each other, and this he can determine with the utmost accuracy. Because he knows, for instance, just what weights of oxygen and hydrogen combine to make water that every high school boy knows as H<sub>2</sub>O, he can tell that the oxygen atom will weigh just a little less than sixteen times as much as the hydrogen atom.

CROP REPORT

The Better Seed Campaign being conducted in Ontario is bringing results according to reports received from the county branches of the Agricultural Representative Branch for the fortnight ending March 10th. From practically every office reports state an increased interest and demand for high quality seed and information on better cultural methods.

There is a wide difference of opinion regarding the condition of fall wheat and clovers as a result of the lack of covering on the fields in most parts of Southern Ontario. In some districts considerable heaving is reported, however, the extent of the injury cannot be estimated at the present time.

Live stock in general is reported in good condition with a plentiful supply of roughages available. Grain however, is scarce and some difficulty is being encountered in locating grain of sufficiently high quality to be suitable for seed.

The demand for farm labor is much keener than usual for this time of year in many sections of the province.

BRUCE—There is more than the usual demand for farm labor this spring, regular farm employers stating that local help is more difficult to secure than for a number of years.

DURHAM—Shorthorn breeders of the county held a very successful sale at Bowmanville on Thursday of this week with prices ranging from $55 to $600, the average price of the animals being 30 per cent. higher than a year ago, the male animals of the sale averaging $160. There are fewer auction sales this spring than usual in the county and prices at auction sales are good for live stock and machinery.

ESSEX—Supplies of grain appear to be getting more scarce all the time. Oats are worth around 70c and our mills and elevators report that it is practically impossible to secure any wheat or barley. There is quite a wide spread interest in seed barley at present. Supplies of good seed barley are scarce and hard to locate. We look for the acreage of barley to double in Essex county this year. A lot of tile is being drawn from the kilns to the farms at present in anticipation of a heavy summer's work in drainage operations.

HALDIMAND—Farmers are busy setting their incubators and some of the early hatches are off. These report that about 55 per cent. of the eggs hatched out. The lamb crop is beginning to arrive. There is an increased demand by farmers to have their seed tested and germinated before sowing and there is an unusual demand for choice seed oats and barley.

HASTINGS—A farmer stated yesterday that he has eradicated rust from his grain crop by following the advice of the department and cutting down all barberry and buck thorn bushes. He claimed that last year this simple operation saved him $1,000 on his grain crop.

HURON—The seed train has already shown results if the number of inquiries as to the source of clean seed is any indication.

LANARK—All classes of stock are showing in better condition than usual at this time of the year due to more feed being in the country and the better prices being offered for cattle in particular. There is a slight increase in the number of sheep and young cattle and a decided decrease in the number of hogs. The Americans are buying quite large numbers of milk cows, carrying on probably a more active campaign than they did a year ago. Ordinary grade cattle are selling at around $100 to $150.

PEEL—Seed grain is beginning to move and there seems to be quite a demand for good clean O.A.C. No. 21 barley. Alfalfa is moving slowly at good prices while alsike is a drug on the market.

RENFREW—There is quite a large quantity of Registered Extra No. 1 and No. 1 seed wheat, barley and oats and a limited number of good seed peas available in the county.

SIMCOE SOUTH—Live stock at recent auction sales is selling well. Good grade ewes are bringing as high as $31.50 each; grade cows from $80 to $135 and brood sows are also selling well. All classes of horses are selling from $25 to $50 a head more than last year. A car load of Western horses sold at auction in Alliston and brought $100 to $200.

ASSIZES OPEN AT HASTINGS

David Maracle Is Arraigned On Charge of Attempted Murder

Tuesday afternoon, before Mr. Justice McEvoy, the Supreme Court Assizes for Hastings County convened with a comparatively small docket. F. M. Field, K.C. Cobourg, is acting as Crown Prosecutor, with B. C. Donnan, Belleville Crown Attorney, assisting. This is the first time that Mr. Justice McEvoy has visited Belleville since his elevation to the Bench some time ago.

The case of most interest is that of David Maracle, who is facing a charge of attempted murder. This alleged offense took place in the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve in October of last year. Perry Jaynes, a mute, visited the home of Maracle and allegedly during a drinking party, Jaynes was shot in the head by a gun in the hands of Maracle. The other case is that of a serious offense being preferred against a Belleville citizen, Alfred Mastin.

FLIER STARTS ACROSS OCEAN

Hinchcliffe Leaves Cranwell on Flight To New York— Passes Near Cork

Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, one of England's most daring fliers, is believed to be speeding on his way across the Atlantic from England to New York. At 8.40 Tuesday morning, with Captain Gordon Sinclair, he went up at Cranwell Airdrome in his plane for what was at that time thought to be an unknown destination. His agent a few hours later, said that he was bound for America and Mrs. Hinchcliffe admitted to the Associated Press that New York was his objective.

At 1.30 the plane was reported passing over Mizen Head, County Cork, about four hundred miles from Cranwell. The "Adventure" had sufficient fuel aboard for at least a three thousand mile journey and prior to his start, Hinchcliffe had made inquiries regarding the atmospheric conditions on the Atlantic. He had been informed by the Meteorological Office that ocean conditions were fairly good.

CONSTITUTION IS ADOPTED

Port Hope Retail Merchants Association Hold Regular Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Port Hope Retail Merchants Association held in the council chamber Tuesday evening the constitution and bylaws of the association were discussed and later adopted.

Those present at the meeting included, President, H. Fulford; Sec. E. Brown and Messrs. D. A. Shay, W. Boyd, H. W. Mitchell, George T. Hancock, L. B. Randall, Geo. V. Strong, Frank Flood, Geo. Garbutt, Fred Oke, F. L. Curtis, Wm. Youmans, R. C. Mann, W. J. Moore, Paul Haggis and W. A. Southgate. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

CONSTITUTION

The following constitution was presented and each clause was discussed:

NAME

This organization shall be known as the Port Hope Retail Merchants' Association in affiliation with the Board of Trade.

OBJECTS

The objects of the association are:
(a) To enlist the co-operation of all branches of the mercantile interests in Port Hope for mutual benefit; having regard always for the best interests of the purchasing public in town and country.

(b) To foster a spirit of brotherhood among all its members; recognizing the fact that the gain or loss sustained by any one or more of its members operates to the advantage or disadvantage of the entire membership.

(c) To disseminate by publicity or any other worthy methods among the inhabitants of town and country the desirability and duty of loyally supporting the merchants of Port Hope—who are among the largest ratepayers by obtaining all necessities, personal or otherwise, from them, who from necessity are bound to meet all competition from every source.

Officers and Executive

The officers shall consist of a President and three Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Treasurer, who shall be elected annually; these shall constitute the Executive of the Association.

Membership Fees

In order that the association may be able to fulfil its financial obligations and maintain a position worthy of its aim and purpose in the community; an annual fee of one dollar per member to be paid in advance will constitute a membership in the association and entitle every member to all the privileges connected therewith. Provision is also here with made that members failing to pay the usual membership fee before or at the Annual Meeting shall not have the privilege of holding office or of voting on any question arising at any regular or special meeting of the Association.

Quorum

Ten bona-fide members shall constitute a quorum for any regular meeting of the Association.

Auditors

Two auditors shall be appointed prior to the Annual Meeting by the members present.

Committees

The following standing committees shall be appointed at the Annual Meeting, viz:—

- A—Nominating
- B—Finance
- C—Publicity
- D—Welfare

Additional special committees may be appointed at any regular or special meeting of the association as necessity arises.

Meetings

Regular meetings of the Association shall be held the Second Tuesday of each month in the Council Chamber or other place provided at 8 O'clock P.M., at which the President or one of the Vice-Presidents shall preside. If at any regular or special meeting of the association, a vote by ballot or otherwise shall result in a tie, the presiding officer shall have the casting vote, but shall not vote on any other occasion.

Rules of Debate

Parliamentary rules shall obtain at all meetings of the association. The ordinary rules of debate in common practice among all public bodies—where decorum is upheld and the chair respected; shall be the guiding principle actuating the members during the discussion of all questions.

Assam teas are known by experts as the finest teas grown—a fact which explains why Red Rose Orange Pekoe has become so deservedly popular in Canada. For Red Rose Orange Pekoe is chiefly composed of Assam teas, which accounts for its distinctive quality and value. Every package guaranteed.

reports, and resolutions submitted at all business meetings.

Amendments

The Constitution and By-laws of the association may be amended when a previous notice in writing has been given by a member at a regular meeting; and thirty days shall elapse before consideration of the same can be given at a regular meeting or one called for the purpose and shall be adopted only by two-thirds of the members present and voting in its favor.
