J. Y. Kellough of Port Hope, is the Show Secretary.

Arrangements are completed for the second annual seed fair of the Quinte Seed Society, which opened at the Armories at Cobourg today. J. Y. Kellough, of the Department of Agriculture, Port Hope, is the Show Secretary. The President of the association is Col. R. Vanderwater, Foxboro, and H. W. Pearson, Belleville, is Secretary-Treasurer. The first day is devoted to judging. A boys' competition has been arranged for Friday. The special speakers on Friday are: George H. Clark Seed Commissioner, Ottawa; J. Buchanan, Field Crop Specialist, Guelph; E. K. Hampson, Kemptville Agricultural School and at the banquet on Friday evening, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, will address the guests.

Six fur farms in Wisconsin sold last season's pelts for $1,020,000.

ENGLISH FLIERS STILL MISSING

Fear that two more names had been added to the long list of flyers lost in Atlantic flights grew worse today as the hours passed with no word of the golden-winged "Endeavour" en route to America from Cranwell Aerodrome, England.

No definite word has been heard from Captain Walter G. R. Hinchcliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay since they took off from Cranwell at 3.40 a.m. (eastern standard time) the day before yesterday.

DEMOLITION WORK HAS COMMENCED

Numerous workmen commenced work at Trinity College School this morning to clean up the debris and tear down portions of the charred walls. Considerable progress has been made.

EARN A LIVING OR MAKE A LIFE

Mr. Frederick Grove Gave Fine Address To Women's Canadian Club

Wednesday evening the Women's Canadian Club was favored by an address from Mr. Frederick Philip Grove, noted Canadian author who proved to be an intensely interesting speaker, to his fair sized audience of people who appreciate literature.

He was introduced by Mrs. H. M. Ryan, president of the club, and without loss of time told that he had been asked to speak of himself by the Association of Canadian Clubs under whose auspices he is making this tour through Eastern Canada.

He opened by pointing out that there has been a cry for a national literature for Canada and defining a nation's literature as its voice; then giving examples of England's great literature at different times.

Literature as Voice

"What, sixty years ago did Britain stand for to the people of other countries?" he asked. "Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Browning, Scotland stood for Burns, Scott, Germany, Schopenhauer, Hegel. At present it stands for Nietzsche. Sixty years ago United States meant Emerson, Lowell, Whitman, of second order of eminence, it is true, but still a definite national literature. Today the United States stands for trade, commerce, mechanical civilization. It is ruthless.

"Canada sixty years ago was a blank in literature to those who lived in other countries. In 1903 a European told me that 'Canada had a bookshelf extending 3000 miles, with not a single book on it. There was no work in Canadian literature of a truly importance with a general acceptance and general echo."

Autobiography

The speaker here gave a sketch of his own life. His mother was Scottish and his father a Swedish farmer. He was born in Sweden, the youngest of a family of eight, the others being girls.

At an early age his mother took him travelling and for the next fifteen years he lived in Paris, Florence, Munich, Berlin, and the principal cities of Europe, with no definite course of education. Although his education was irregular, his was an opportunity not given to every man. At twenty he knew many nationalities, was familiar with many types of people; he could speak all the major European languages with the exception of his native tongue and had an intimate knowledge of past ages by the monuments of great national civilization.

Civilization

"In viewing the pyramids of Egypt," he said, "we realize that a great mechanical knowledge has been lost, from that civilization. Will our civilization last? In the fact of history how can we be so vain as to suppose that ours will endure. It is only through literature that other ages live today. They are vastly more alive today than ever in the past.

"That leads up to a curious desire of mine, as of every young man, to live forever. When I was asked what I was going to do with myself, I realized that there are two classes of endeavour—to do, act and co-operate in material advance or to think, judge, create, in the realms of the intangible. I chose the latter.

Art as Expression

"I felt in myself a certain urge to give expression to my reaction to life, the universe and to God, thru the works of Art. My aim was to give that reaction a form of expression which would stand forever. Today when I enter the declining years of my life, no matter how I have fallen short of that aim in the past, in the future I would rather

19 LIVES LOST IN OCEAN FLYING

Five Paid Price of Efforts To Make Westward Atlantic Crossing

Since May 5, 1927, nineteen lives have been lost in aviation adventures over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Each ocean has claimed one woman. Miss Mildred Doran a Michigan school teacher, was lost while competing in the Doff race to Honolulu, while Princess Wertheim-Lowenstein was one of the victims in the ill-fated Hamilton-Minchin effort across the Atlantic. Will Hon. Elsie Mackay and her companion be added to the list?

The complete record is as follows: May 5, 1927, Captain Saint Roman and Commander Mouneyrics, French aviators, left Senegal, Africa for Pernambuco, Brazil in a Goliath biplane. They were reported to have been sighted 200 miles off Brazilian coast, but this was never confirmed.

May 8, 1927, Captains Charles M. Nungesser and Franco's Coli left Le Bourget, France, for New York in the monomotor biplane, White Bird. It was reported that they were sighted over Newfoundland on May 9, but no trace of them has ever been found.

August 17, 1927, John W. Frost, pilot, and Gordon Scott, navigator left Oakland, Calif. for Hawaii in the airplane, Gold Eagle.

August 17, 1927, J. A. Pedlar, pilot; Lieut. V. D. Knope of United States navy and Miss Mildred Doran (Continued on Page 3) fail in the endeavor than lower the aiming.

Novelists Dominant

"The dominant position in the literary world is held by the novelists. Thos. Hardy, in his novels of the South England peasant, gave his own reaction, views and judgments of life; Galsworthy gives his in a setting of London of today. I gave mine in 'A Search for America'."

Mr. Grove came to Canada when he was twenty-two and worked in the west for an Irish farmer. This man of vision wanted to do his part for the country and chose the work of teaching the children of nearby farms. This task fell to his young helper. In these poor, proud homes was a spirit that was not found elsewhere. At times the young man rebelled against his life and in one of those resurgencies sixteen years ago he came to Winnipeg, entering the office of the Board of Education secretary as a farm hand and left it the principal of a high school on the condition that in the course of a few years he take his degree. It was six years ago, however, when he was then over fifty years of age that he took his degree in the Manitoba University. In 1918 although he was highly paid as a principal of a Collegiate Institute, the spirit of the west drew him back to the pioneer district.

Defining Spirit

"To define that spirit is a difficult task" said Mr. Grove. "These people are concerned with eternal things. They are not reaching out for ease instead of happiness. Theirs is the problem of living rather than making money. They are concerned with truth, duty, the soul's reaction to life and God, and the beauty of the universe. Many can not read or write but they strike for a very great thing.

"They stand for a fine valuation of human life, a recognition of men's place in the nation and a realization of men's relationship to God.

"Art is a medium in which are expressed our emotions, but we feel only when we can express them, it awakens, creates. Tennyson's 'You Ask Me Why' did more to awaken and keep awake patriotism than any other thing. The artist is one who creates, discerns a new emotion already known to us, who gives a depth and profundity not realized before, to known emotions. To give this to a nation is greater than its material prosperity and glory.

Thought Movement

"A national movement of thought or unified spirit is the only thing helpful to a nation's growth.

"We have the germ of such a national experience," concluded the speaker. "It is there it has kept me in Western Canada. It has made a Canadian out of me. It cries for utterance in verse or prose. It will come."

CHAPLAIN SPOKE ON "TOC H"

Padre Gilbert Williams Addressed Men On Movement Of Service

About fifty men met in the Vets' Hall last evening to hear Rev. Gilbert Williams, Chaplain of Sheffield, England, introduce the Toc H movement here.

Mr. Hugh Ketchum acted as the chairman and introduced the subject and the speaker who is known as "Padre Bill" and has an inimitable style of delivery which makes him popular with groups of men wherever he speaks.

He started by telling of the original Talbot House, which served officers and men alike behind the Ypres salient in 1915. The Padre gave word sketches of the house to illustrate the comradeship or ordinary impossible friendships made possible for men of widely different stations in life by being engaged in a common cause and doing the same good actions.

He moved on to the time after the war and told of the rebirth of the Toc H and went on to describe the life of the movement in England, South Africa and elsewhere through out the world.

After he had concluded it was decided to try the experiment here, so a follow-up meeting for Tuesday next was arranged, to be held in the basement of St. Mark's Parish Hall. If a group is finally inaugurated here, it will not be established with a "great blare of trumpets," but will be a spirit felt thru out the community rather than something seen of men.

NEWSPRINT HERE SHOWS INCREASE

Up 39,000 Tons Over February of Last Year—U.S. Production Lower

During February of this year Canada produced 189,882 tons of newsprint as compared with 150,773 tons a year ago. The United States in February of this year produced 112,032 tons.

During the first two months of the present year the Canadian mills produced 63,561 tons more than in the first two months of 1927, an increase of 20 per cent. For the first two months of 1928 United States output showed a decrease of 23,521 tons or 9 per cent as compared with the first two months of 1927.

During February the Canadian mills, although actually producing more than in the previous month, operated at 86.3 per cent of rated capacity, compared with 88 per cent in January. This was due to additional machines coming in. This percentage, however, is higher than for a good portion of 1927, and will be considered as quite satisfactory under present conditions.

Shipments in February from Canadian mills amounted to 188,163 tons as compared with production of 189,882. Shipments from United States mills were 109,666 tons as against 112,203 tons. Total production for the two countries amounted to 297,829 tons, allowing an increase in mill stocks of slightly over 4,000 tons during the month. The United States mills dropped to 78.8 per cent of their rated speed. Stocks of newsprint at Canadian mills at the end of February amounted to 39,145 tons, and of the United States mills to 28,499 tons, equivalent to 4.7 days of average production.

Total production of Canadian and United States mills in February amounted to 302,124 tons compared with 272,091 one year ago. The total output for the two months this year in both countries was 609,498 tons as compared with 569,058 tons for the same period of last year. For the first two months of the present year production in Newfoundland showed a gain of 3,181 tons or 10 per cent. North American production showed an increase of 44,241 tons or 7 per cent, over the first two months of 1927.

ONE LAMP DRIVERS WILL BE FINED

Minister of Highways Seeks Maximum Penalty For Offenders

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, hurled warnings thick and fast in the Legislature yesterday. Speaking in the Budget debate, he went after the one lamp driver; the spotlight driver; and the speed demon driver.

The new bid which he had introduced earlier in the afternoon would, said Mr. Henry take care of spotlights. They were to be done away with. The department had no objection to the "ditch lamp" of the type which is secured under the right front fender and operates with the "dimmers," but the ordinary spot lamp which had been abused in the past by "smart alecs" was to be no more.

Mr. Henry said that only during the last couple of years had the Province come to realize the menace that lay in the one lamp driver. "I am now trying," said he, "to impress upon the municipal police—and they are largely responsible for enforcement of the act—that they must grab these one lamp drivers and give them the maximum penalty that the law permits."

Mr. Henry said it was the Government's intention to keep after the speeders. Extra police and educational methods had combined last year to cut down this type of offense, but the Government did not intend a let up in its campaign against the "whizz" artists. They, too, are to get the limit of punishment when hal ed into court.

In stating that bus drivers often broke the speed limits, Mr. Henry added, "I don't except the Toronto owned transportation system, either," said he. "They have drivers who are just as big offenders as any others with which we have to deal, either in or out of the city."

Mr. Henry noted that "Stop Street" systems were working well in the majority of cities of the Province. He thought that there might be better observance of the Toronto system, too, of the regulations under which it is operated.

LIGHTNING FLASH CURED BLINDNESS

Patient, Long Unable To See, Overwhelmed With Joy—Doctors Incredulous

Is it possible for blindness to be cured by lightning?

The question is raised by the report from Cardiff that a patient in the Royal Infirmary there recovered his sight following a flash of lightning.

Until an official report is made the man's name is not to be divulged.

After the flash of lightning a nurse, hearing screams, ran to the man, and heard him shouting, "I can see."

Eminent London ophthalmic surgeons are incredulous, and are interested to know whether the man was suffering from functional blindness or pathological blindness.

Dr. Oswald Gayer Morgan, honorary consulting surgeon to Guy's Hospital, told a Daily Chronicle representative that sudden recovery from functional blindness is not uncommon.

"It is really a nervous disorder," he said, "and blindness does not, in fact exist. Many shell-shock patients returned from the war suffering from this functional blindness. A sudden shock cured many."

"Lightning, or unexpected immersion in cold water, or perhaps a sudden demand for sight in order to save life would be sufficient to restore sight. It certainly would be a miracle if lightning cured pathological blindness."

When told that the Cardiff patient had been suffering from conjunctivitis, Dr. Morgan's comment was, "He could not have been blind."

"Conjunctivitis is inflammation of the eyelids. This means that there are certain microbes under the lids, and the only cure is by the application of antiseptic lotion. It is incredible that the sight was destroyed by conjunctivitis."

Three stores were destroyed by fire in business section of Kennett Square, Pa.

WILL ARRIVE ON APRIL 9TH

Not Likely That Famous Son Will Accompany Mrs. Lindbergh

Mrs. Evangeline Land Lindbergh—for that is the name by which she chooses to be known—is to travel by air from Detroit to Toronto and will arrive, it is now expected on Monday, April 9.

This is the news conveyed by her in a letter to Trustee Mrs. E. L. Groves, who is on the committee which is arranging for the visit of the famous airman's mother.

There is nothing definite as yet as to whether "Lucky Lindy" will be with his mother. Mrs. Lindbergh, in her letter to Mrs. Groves says: "I have forwarded the telegrams to Col. Lindbergh and hope with you that he will be able to accept your invitation."

The Toronto committee suggested to Mrs. Lindbergh that she fly from Detroit and she is evidently disposed to do so if it can be arranged. But it is not likely that her famous son will be her air pilot. He is now in New York.

Miss Maude Dawson, a teacher friend of Mrs. Lindbergh, will accompany her on her visit to Toronto.

Arrangements are being made for a reception of a private nature to be held by Mrs. Lindbergh at which she will meet her Canadian kinsfolk. One of them, John Land of Hamilton, is 81 years old, and he is anxious to be in Toronto.

BIG WELCOME FOR U. OF T. GRADS

Varsity Grads Will Be Back in Toronto Next Week—A Civic Reception

Varsity Grads, amateur hockey champions of the world, will be back in Toronto next week after their successful invasion of Europe in quest of Olympic honors for Canada. They will receive a royal welcome home after an absence of two months. There will be a big parade formed up at the depot on their arrival which will be at noon on either Wednesday or Thursday of next week. This was decided at a meeting of sportsmen and civic officials at the City Hall.

The march will be started from the Union Station and after a civic reception and presentation at the City Hall will continue to the university, where the Grads will be again honored.

The university has completed plans for a banquet and presentation a week after their arrival home. It was proposed that the city of Toronto give all the players a suitable souvenir.

FIELD SECRETARY ADDRESSES W.M.S.

Miss Lamont Delivers Interesting Address to St. Paul's W.M.S.

The members of St. Paul's Women's Missionary Society were privileged to hear an interesting speaker at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon when Miss Lamont, Field Secretary, was the speaker. Miss Lamont is a very interesting and entertaining speaker and the members derived considerable pleasure from her talk.

In the course of her address she told of the national and overseas work of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society and the great work that the organization is doing.

yer, to know if he could produce any evidence relating to the charge against his clients.

"I have evidence," answered the lawyer, getting briskly on his legs, "which, I believe, sir will justify me in asking for their discharge."

"Where are your witnesses?" inquired the justice, looking hard at the French woman as he spoke.

"One of them is in waiting, your worship," said Mr. Dark, opening the door near which he was standing. He went out of the room, remained away about a minute and returned with his witness at his heels. My heart gave a bound as if it would jump out of my body. There, with his long hair cut short, and his bushy whiskers shaved off—there, in his own proper person, safe and sound as ever, was Mr. James Smith.

The French woman's iron nature resisted the shock with a steadiness that was nothing short of marvelous. Her thin lips closed together convulsively, and there was a slight movement in the muscles of her throat. But not a word, not a sign betrayed her. Even the yellow tinge of her complexion remained absolutely unchanged.

"It is not necessary, sir, that I should waste time and words in referring to the wicked and preposterous charge against my client," said the lawyer, addressing Mr. Robert Nicholson. "The one sufficient justification for discharging them immediately is before you at this moment, in the person of that gentleman. There, sir, stands the murdered Mr. James Smith, of Darroek Hall, alive and well, to answer for himself.

"That is not the man!" cried the French woman, her shrill voice just as high, clear and steady as ever. "I denounce that man as an impostor. Of my own knowledge I deny that he is Mr. James Smith!"

"No doubt you do," said the lawyer; "But we will prove his identity for all of that."

The first witness called was Mr. Philip Nicholson. He could swear that he had seen Mr. James Smith, and spoken to him, at least a dozen times. The person now before him was Mr. James Smith, altered as to personal appearance by having his hair cut short, and his whiskers all shaved off, but still, unmistakably, the man he assumed to be.

"Conspiracy!" said the French woman, hissing the word out viciously between her teeth.

"If you are not silent," said Mr. Robert Nicholson, "you will be removed from the room. It will sooner meet the ends of justice," he went on, addressing the lawyer, "if you prove the question of identity by witnesses who have been in habits of daily communication with Mr. James Smith."

partment has obtained data on more than 500 varieties, including crab apples and other astringent apples, as well as practically all the important varieties found in commercial and home orchards. The manufacturer of cider is able to determine from this information what varieties to use in making a blended product of palatable character.

Other studies have developed improved methods of clarifying cider to remove the muddy or cloudy appearance when pasteurized and bottled.

"Filtration, with the aid of purified infusorial earth, gives a beautiful, permanently clear liquid," says a department statement. "This process also removes certain substances which otherwise would, during pasteurization, undergo changes to cause a boiled or cooked flavor."

PERFORMANCE OF ENGINES

May Run Smoothly in Cold Weather But Gives Poor Results

An engine may be running smoothly in cold weather and still may be giving poor results.

To run efficiently the engine must be hot, although not so hot as to overheat the water in the cooling system. But if the proper temperature is maintained in the water, greater economy will result.

The proper temperature of water as it comes from an efficient engine, no matter what the weather outside, is about 180 degrees Fahrenheit. If it is higher, there's danger to the motor. If lower, there's loss in performance efficiency.

How to maintain this temperature, especially in cold weather, is the trick.

One way to do this is to attach a shutter front to the radiator, keep it closed until the red in the thermometer above the radiator reaches to the point of efficient operation. Then the shutter may be opened, but only so much as to keep the water cooling down to that temperature of 180 degrees.

If the thermometer falls below the mark the shutter should be closed down a little.

Some motors now have thermostats at the upper hose connections. These keep the water from flowing through the radiator to be cooled after it has reached the proper temperature.

Even with use of the thermostats, however, the shutter fronts should be regulated to such opening that would keep the water temperature constant at the required height. This is adjusted in accordance with the temperature outside.

Instead of a shutter front, a piece of cardboard over the bottom part of the radiator will help. The suction of the fan will hold it there while the engine is running.

The fact that there is alcohol or glycerine in the cooling system is no reason why it should be driven with the radiator wide open to the cold blasts. These are merely put in to keep the solution from freezing. They have no other duty to perform. The same attention must be paid to the cooling system, whether anti-freeze is in it or not.

The sooner the engine is heated to the proper temperature, as shown by the motor meter in front, the greater will be its economical performance and the easier will be the driving. The saving will come not only in a more efficient use of the gasoline but in the proper action of the engine lubricant.

THE GUIDE STORY

Our examination was a mere formality. There was no additional evidence against us, and we were remanded again for another week.

I asked the lawyer, privately, if any chance had offered itself of tracing Mr. James Smith. He looked mysterious, and only said in answer, "Hope for the best." I inquired next, if any progress had been made toward fixing the guilt of the robbery on the French woman.

"I never boast," he said. "But, cunning as she is, I should not be surprised if Mr. Dark and I together, turned out to be more than a match for her."

Mr. Dark! There was something in the mere mention of his name that gave me confidence. If I could only have got my poor mistress's sad, dazed face out of my mind, I should not have had much depression of spirits to complain of during the interval of time that elapsed between the second examination and the third.

On the third appearance of my mistress and myself before the justice, I noticed some faces in the room which I had not seen there before. Greatly to my astonishment—for the previous examinations had been conducted as privately as possible—I remarked the presence of two of the servants from the Hall, and of three or four of the tenants on the Darroek estate, who lived nearest to the house. They all sat together on one side of the justice-room. Opposite to them, and close at the side of a door, stood my old acquaintance Mr. Dark, with his big snuff-box, his jolly face, and his winking eye. He nodded to me when I looked at him, as jauntily as if we were meeting at a party of pleasure. The French woman, who had been summoned to the examination, had a chair placed opposite to the witness-box, and in a line with the seat occupied by my poor mistress, whose looks, as I was grieved to see were not altered for the better. The lawyer from London was with her, and I stood behind her chair. We were all quietly disposed in the room in this way, when the justice, Mr. Robert Nicholson, came in with his brother. It might have been only fancy, but I could see in both their faces that something remarkable had happened since we had met at the last examination.

The deposition of Josephine Durand was read over by the clerk, and she was asked if she had anything to add to it. She replied in the negative. The justice then appealed to my mistress's relation, the law

ARE YOU GOING TO PANTOMIME?

ONE OF THE DANCERS

Though most Port Hoppers as a rule like to wait until the last day—and some the last hour—before making up their minds to attend a show, the advance sale at Strong's for "Dick Whittington and His Cat" at the Royal Theatre tomorrow is proceeding rapidly. Yesterday set a record and today is expected to see few seats left. You don't often have an opportunity of enjoying a high-class stage attraction; don't be among those who will say, "I'm sorry I missed it."

FLYING YOUR OWN PLANE

Anybody who can afford an expensive automobile ought soon to be able to fly. In England, the De Havilland "Moth" has been perfected to such a degree that one can be bought for about $4000. It will run 20 miles on a gallon of gas, and achieves a speed of 80 miles an hour. The wings can be folded into such small compass that the plane can be stored in a small garage. "One can learn to fly more quickly and far more cheaply than one can learn to play the piano," says one London writer—an unfortunate comparison, it would seem, for learning to fly is much easier than that. There are two difficulties in the ownership and operation of the light plane, however. One is mechanical. It takes the services of an expert to keep the plane in order. The layman, even though he be a good mechanic, is not always competent to judge as to safety. There are many parts to be watched, each having a limited life; and unless they are renewed in time, flight may result in disaster.

The second trouble lies in the high insurance rates. It is natural that companies should consider flying a business, but the real difficulty is the fact that they have so much experience on which to base their rates. Therefore they stay on the safe side and keep them high. With the accumulation of data, however, a constant improvement in the safety factor, and with a greater number of people becoming expert pilots, the insurance companies will eventually be able to establish a just rate which will be cheaper than any quoted today. The era of the flivver plane is in sight.—Oshawa Times.

Written by Penn, founder of Pennsylvania State, to Earl of Suffolk in 1683 sold for $11,000 in Philadelphia.

SPORTING SKITS

HOCKEY PORTS ELIMINATED

This Port Colborne-South Porcupine disturbance which threatened to last throughout the winter and keep the Kitchener O.H.A. seniors champions lingering in idleness until the crops sprouted, was completely extinguished at the Arena last night.

The boys from the north country collected the goals and the glory. All that Port Colborne got was the grief. It was almost an utter rout for the [intermediate] champions. They were handed the useless end of a 4-0 score, which gave South Porcupine a 7-3 count on the series. The first two games were no decision affairs, 2 to 2 and 1 to 1, respectively.

The North has secured at least a fifty-fifty break on its recent hockey invasion of the east.

The wear and tear of these two previous games, which entailed 150 minutes of strenuous hockey, was plainly evident in the playing of the O.H.A. title holders last night. On the other hand, it was equally plain that the N.O.H.A. representatives from the mining country were just getting acclimatized. The heavier and rangier Ports were outplayed by the lighter and more agile Porcupines. The victory was well deserved. The way those stocky boys from the north stepped into the stalwart Port Colborne players and usually left them in a prone position, was amazing. The Ports didn't like it, but they had to take it. It played havoc with the O.H.A. champions' attack and they only had two or three good openings to score all night. They avoided that Cain-Murray defense in a way that seemed to indicate the South Porcupine pair were shooting quills after the fashion so characteristic of the little animal from which they derive their name.

1st GAME FRIDAY

South Porcupine and Kitchener seniors will meet in the next round of the Allan Cup eliminations as a result of the N.O.H.A. champions' victory over Port Colborne last night. The first game will be played at Arena Gardens Friday evening and the teams will meet in the second game at Arena Gardens on Saturday afternoon.

Owing to the necessity of getting down to the Allan Cup final in order to start the first game in Ottawa on March 24 and arrange for the Memorial Cup series in Toronto next week, it was found impossible to carry the Kitchener-South Porcupine series over this week. The winner of this series will meet the winner of the Montreal Victorias-Arnprior round, the first game to be played at Arena Gardens on Monday night and the second in Montreal or Ottawa on Wednesday.

South Porcupine faces a hard task two games in as many days with only a day's rest between the strenuous final with Port Colborne. But no other arrangement is possible, and Jimmie Jamieson's well-conditioned outfit can be depended upon to give its best. Kitchener seniors have had a long rest, and will have an advantage in that respect over the Northerners.

NEWTON WINS

Arthur Newton, Rhodesia, South Africa, rambler today won the 11th lap of the transcontinental marathon when he paced the 51.7 miles in 7 hours and 50 minutes. Winning the lap of the race mar-

terially increased the 44 year old speedster's lead in elapsed time since the start for Newton is 61 hours 23 minutes. The distance covered to date is recorded as 397.4 miles.

Newton passed Nestor Erickson, Fort Chester, N.Y. after the latter had held the lead for 45 miles. He passed the Finn when the latter stopped to change his shoes. Newton also won yesterday's lap by pacing the 28.6 miles from Oatman to Kingman in the lead of the field of runners.

Giacomo Clarizio, Chicago, who was one of the leaders in elapsed time, was struck by a motorcycle when within ten miles of his goal, and suffered a strained tendon, that probably will prevent him from starting again. He was brought to the hospital at Peach Springs, Arizona. Clarizio ranked eighth in total time when Wednesday's stretch started.

FINE COMEBACK OF SHIPBUILDING

Old Country Yards Turn Out 53.6 of World's Total Tonnage

After seven lean years, the shipbuilding industry in Great Britain and Ireland has made a fine comeback, according to complete returns of mercantile shipping in 1927 issued by Lloyd's Register.

Of a total output of 2,285,679 tons gross from all the world's ship yards the past year, Great Britain and Ireland contributed 1,225,873 tons—53.6 per cent of the total. The 1927 world tonnage represents an increase of 611,000 tons over 1926, and of this increase 586,305 tons came from British and Irish shipyards.

What is particularly pleasing to British shipbuilders is the rising percentage of vessels built in the country for foreign owners. Over 21 per cent of last year's tonnage came in this category, compared with an average of 15 per cent for the three preceding years. This places Great Britain and Ireland almost up to the pre-war averages of 22 per cent of foreign tonnage constructed there.

Analysis of Lloyd's figures show that steamers still hold their own in this country. Steam driven vessels represent about 59 per cent of last year's tonnage. Abroad however, motor ships accounted for 50 per cent of the total.

The largest motor ship launched in this country was the Bermuda, of 19,086 tons, but 29 other vessels of 6000 tons and upward also slipped down the ways.

Tankers accounted for nearly 25 per cent of the total output from British and Irish shipyards. Excluding vessels of 500 tons and under, the average tonnage of motor ships and steamers was 5,193.

Taking the world tonnage as a whole, motor ships represented 62.86 per cent of output; but the tonnage of motor ships actually being built at the beginning of the year is 115,000 tons more than the steam tonnage in hand, thus showing the sustained production of oil engines. Ignoring sailing vessels and wooden steamers, today's tonnage of the world's mercantile fleets is more than 17,000,000 tons larger than in 1914.

The figures are:
 June, 1914—42,514,000 tons.
 June, 1927—59,688,000 tons.
 A dispute that has been going on some months between the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation and the Shipyard Trade Unions, regarding wages, may soon be settled. If a compromise is reached soon, the 1928 tonnage should exceed that of last year.

Several U.S. firms plan to send exhibits to a commercial fair to be held from May to December in Mexico City.

RESURRECTION SITE DISCOVERED

Announcement by the Garden Tomb Association—Not On Spot of Church

New and sensational discoveries by archaeologists in Jerusalem have raised the question if the true site of Calvary, the hill on which Christ was crucified, has not finally been located. The Garden Tomb association, in a bulletin just issued, makes the announcement that further evidence has been unearthed which casts a serious doubt upon the Church of the Holy Sepulchre as the exact spot of the burial and resurrection of the Lord Jesus.

The association's publication of the results of its many years of investigation has caused a lively emotion among the members of the sixteen Christian denominations who at present worship at the Holy Sepulchre church, the site of Christ's tomb, accepted by sixteen centuries of tradition.

The Skull Hill of the Jericho road, near the Damascus gate, is the true Calvary, says the association's bulletin, and the tomb in the garden adjoining, known as the Garden tomb, is the real scene of the resurrection. Though the Garden tomb has never attracted the enormous interest of pilgrims and crusaders of yore as has been the case with the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the existence of two sites for Christ's burial place has always been a puzzle to visitors to Jerusalem. "There can be no further doubt at present," reads the announcement from the Holy Land, "the exact site has now been found."

Two of the discoveries, which may revolutionize theories held for centuries, are the recent location of the third wall of Herod Agrippa and the chance finding of a small carved stone with Roman characters. This third wall was built by Herod ten years after the crucifixion, to take in a straggling suburb that had grown up to the north of the city. When British engineers after the war were laying out the new road leading from the Damascus gate, they discovered traces of this wall. The Palestine Exploration society thereupon took over the work and uncovered it for a considerable distance.

This third wall also fixes the second wall as having been on the same location as the present north wall, the scientists declare. It is well known that no executions ever took place within the walls of the city. It was strictly forbidden by Jewish law and the Roman authorities adhered to this ruling. Yet the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and the site commonly accepted as that of the Hill of Crucifixion lie almost within the center of the present city. The ground covered by these sites was also within the city in the era in which Christ was on earth.

The second important discovery was a small stone by Miss Hussey, one of the women members of the exploration society. When the stone was cleaned it was found to be a tablet inscribed with Latin characters and was identified as having belonged to a temple of Venus. It was discovered about 30 feet from the Garden tomb.

This discovery is considered of the greatest importance. The Roman emperor, Hadrian, it is known, erected a temple of Venus in the year 135 with the purpose of desecrating forever that site which was considered sacred by the Christians sect. He built a temple to Jupiter on the spot where the temple of Solomon had stood, so that the ground sacred to the Jewish religion should also be desecrated.

KERR-BRYSON TOURS—1928

The Canadian National Railways have much pleasure in announcing that the Kerr-Bryson Tours have now completed arrangements for their 1928 summer tours across Canada.

This year's plans provide for a delightful trip from Toronto to the Pacific Coast and return, with stopovers at the cities of Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle; two or three days in each of those famous tourist resorts of the Canadian Rockies, Jasper National Park, Banff and Lake Louise; the famous scenic triangle tour trip of the Canadian National Railways, by rail from Jasper to Vancouver, steamer through the 550 miles of sheltered waters of the Inside Passage of the North Pacific Coast and rail through the wonderful valleys of the Skeena and Bulkley Rivers back to Jasper; and finally a visit to Minaki Lodge, a magnificent summer resort, a short distance east of Winnipeg in the beautiful Lake of the Woods district. Arrangements have also been made for an extension of this trip for those who may so desire, from Prince Rupert north to Skagway and Alaska, and those fortunate enough to be members of this extension party will on the return journey, enjoy the added feature of the delightful steamer sail through the Great Lakes from Duluth to Sarnia, with a short stopover at Duluth and also at the Twin Cities of Port Arthur and Fort William.

These trips, as usual will be personally conducted and on an all-expense basis. Descriptive booklet is now in course of preparation and is expected to be available within the next week and copies of same will be promptly furnished upon request to the organizers of the tours, Mr. Martin Kerr, 4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, Ont.; Mr. A. E. Bryson, 44 Silverthorne Ave., Toronto, or any Canadian National Agent.

Citizens of the Village of Norham, Perry Township, and several farmers in the district now want the Hydro installed in their homes. It begins to look as if the entire county of Northumberland will soon be served. A meeting will be held shortly at Norham, it is expected at which a Hydro representative of Toronto will be present.

At the opening of the Supreme court Wednesday before Justice McEvoy, the grand jury brought in true bills on two counts against David Maracle, Deseronto. The first count was that he did shoot with intent to murder and the second that with intent to do grievous bodily harm he did shoot at one Perry Jaynes. The accused pleaded not guilty. F. M. Field, K. C., was the Crown Prosecutor, and W. S. Herriott, K.C. of Napanee, defended Maracle. Jaynes being a mute, his testimony was interpreted by G. F. Stewart, a teacher at the Ontario School for the Deaf. Witness detailed the alleged shooting by Maracle, which took place at an early hour in the morning of Oct. 18, after a party at Maracle's home.
