Address and Presentation

On Tuesday evening last about forty friends and neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Murphy to say farewell to Mr. Murphy and Howard, who were leaving on Wednesday for Vancouver, B. C., where they will make their future home.

A very pleasant evening was spent, progressive euchre and other games being played. A dainty lunch was served, after which Mr. Howard Murphy was made the recipient of a well-filled purse and the following address was read by Mr. J. S. Keeler:

To Mr. Howard Murphy.

DEAR HOWARD, -As the time is drawing near when "good-bye" must be said, we, a few of your friends, cannot allow the opportunity to pass without expressing to you in some small way, our appreciation of your friendship and good citizenship. We trust that fortune may smile on you in your new field of labor, and that your steps may be guided by Him who has promised to guide the steps of all those who put their trust in

We would therefore ask you to accept this purse as a slight remembrance from those whose hearts are full of good wishes towards you, and may you never look into it and find it empty. We will not say "tarewell" but only "good-bye," trusting that God will be with you till we meet again.

Signed on hehalf of your friends, MRS. G. NANTEL. MRS. JAS. KEELER.

Mr. Murphy was taken completely by surprise, but made a suitable reply, thanking those present for their remembrance and assuring them that their kindly words and best wishes would not soon be fora produce dealer to The Star. "For the last month we have been depending on the American supply to meet the demands of the Canadian market. There is hardly a Canadian onion to be bought in Toronto, and the Canadian crop will not be on hand until August or September. What is our source of supply in the meantime? The United States and Liverpool. And we pay 30 per cent duty on all the onions which come in from across the border. It will be a fine thing for the Canadian consumer when the duty is wiped off and onions and other vegetables enter free. As there are no Canadian onions in the market, there is no injury to the Canadian grower by these importations. Then there are the opinions from Egypt and Spain-"

"Do we eat onions from Egypt?" "Lots of them - shipped via Liverpool. These also will come in free of duty under the favored nation arrangement and help to keep down prices during the months when the Canadian enion is not available. The Egyptians are due next month. We are using old onions from the States at present. We will have their new crop in

THE CUCUMBERS "Then take the case of cucumbers. There are practically no cucumbers grown here, and they do not get on the market until August or September. What do we do inthe meantime? Well, we pay thirty per cent. duty and bring them in from the States. Don't you think it will be to the consumers' advantage to have that duty removed? The first cucumbers come from Florida. Of course the haul is long and they are rather expensive, especially with the duty to pay. But as the season progresses, they come along from other States, South Carolina, Louisiana, North Carolina, Texas, Georgia, right up to Maryland, and as the haul becomes shorter and the supply increases, they become cheaper. They do not compete with Canadian cucumbers, which are not on the market until late summer, but they do supply the Canadian demand, and will do so to a still greater extent when the 30 cent barrier is removed."

"What about tomatoes?"

"The tomatoes we are getting now are from Florida. Toronto got carloads of them last week. They will be coming in now at the rate of from four to ten carloads per week, and, of course, there will be a thirty per cent. duty to pay. We will have none of our own until late in July or the first of August to amount to anything. Until then, why should the duty be added to the cost? This is just another instance in which the Canadian consumer would benefit by the abolition of the tariff without the Canadian producer being injured."

NO INJURY TO CANADIAN GROWER.

His job has been perhaps a little extensive, and certainly much more difficult than he bargained for. It is estimated that 124,000 yards of earth have been removed as it extended about half a mile long and about 48 feet in the deeper parts. Then owing to frost, etc., the work has been unusually hard on men, machinery, cars and horses, making it a very expensive section, but we all hope the contractor may pull out with something to his credit.-Orono Cor. of Newcastle Independent.

I have sear the enclosed letter to The News for publication, and I would be pleased if you would publish it in The Star to-day, as The News most unjustly made an attack upon me last night in regard to reciprocity.

Your paper of last evening gives my name and features some prominance on your first page. You accuse me of political volte face and acrobatism. Allow me to request you to read my remarks at Brockton in November last on reciprocity carefully and fairly, and you will find that I was speaking against reciprocity in manufactured articles and not in reference to products of the soil. I believe the time is yet far distant when Canada can afford to pen her ports free to American manufactured goods. The present trade proposals affect only infinitesimally the Canadian manufacturer. I was speaking against unrestricted reciprocity at Brocton, and you will find, it you will but quote my address in full and not by extracts, there is no contradiction whatever. The United States did knock some bricks off their wall. The Canaadians did fully protect the manufacturer, and open new doors for our products of land and sea, and I am glad to see that the great manufacturers of our country are not crying out and seconding your hysterical and nonsensical appeals to passion and prejudice. In a word, the Canadian manufacturer has not been hurt. You can count on your fingers the interested producers who are egging you on and using your paper to further and promote their own selfish ends. The public cannot be fooled for long, and already they know these interested parties and can read between the lines you write and spell the motive that drives your pen. To use a well-known Irish bull, it is now time for the Liberals to strip to the waist and turn up their shirt sleeves. The time has come for cold steel, to deliver the coup de grace to the insulting and unpatrio tic agitation waged in particular by your paper against these trade proposals, and I would have thought that your long association with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Fielding, and Mr. Patterson as a trusted adviser of the Liberal party would have at least left you a ve tige of respect for men whose whole lives have been laid upon the altar of Canada and sacrificed to the weal of the Canadian people. Yet you impute to them every wrong motive imaginable, but, worse than all, you have deliberately insulted the Canadian people by reminding them again and again, that the seat of their loyalty is in their pocket and not in their hearts, and that their love for and allegiance to the British "Empire was a thing to be purchased by a foreign people through trade and commerce. You have never yet answered the question, "Are two markets not better than one for the produce of our soil and sea?" You have never yet fully explained why one thousand Western farmers came thouspublic opinion of the great Western half of Canada. You know well that good prices for the farmer mean good times all along the line in country, town, and city. You have carefully avoided speaking of the benefits to the three Maritime Provinces by the adoption of these proposals, and Quebec you have severely left alone, knowing well that the French people were overwhelming in favour of these trade proposals. But in Ontario you have raged and shrieked up and down the side lines, invaded the peaceful villages with your hysterical performances, and sought to stampede the large cities by the beating of drums and waving of flags with the cry of "Down with the traitors," and to the tune of "Britons Never Shall Be Slaves." But excitement has your campaign.

It is impossible to fool the people all the time, and once they find out sire to be convinced that agnostithe fooler they make short work of cism is respectable, they are eager

As he spoke, his ear caught a familiar name, uttered by Christian house. Moxey, and he turned to listen. Moxey and Earwaker were again Earwaker, as they walked away. talking of the Rev. Bruno Chilvers. Straightway disregarding Marcella, Peak gave attention to the men's dialogue, and his forehead wrinkled into scornful amusement.

'It's very interesting,' he exclaimed, at a moment when there was ands of miles at a cost of easily silence throughout the company, 'to $100,000, if it were not to voice the hear that Chilvers is really coming to the front. At Whitelaw it used to be prophesied that he would be a bishop, and now I suppose he's fairly on the way to that. Shall we write letters of congratulation to him, Earwaker?'

'A joint epistle, if you like.' Mr. Morton who had brightened since dinner, began to speak caustically of the form of intellect necessary nowadays in a popular clergy-

It's quite pathetic to watch the enthusiasm with which they hail any man who distinguishes himself by this kind book from a scientific point of view. Only let it obtain vogue, and it will be glorified as the new evangel. The day has gone by for downright

There was a murmur of laughing approval. The speaker had worked himself into eloquent nervousness; he leaned forward with his hands straining together, and the muscles of his face quivering.

'And isn't it surprising,' said Marcella, 'in how short a time this apologetic attitude has become necessary?

Peak flashed a triumphant look

'I often rejoice to think of it!' he cried. 'How magnificent it is that so many of the solemn jackasses who brayed against Darwin from ten to twenty years ago should live to be regarded as beneath contempt! I say it earnestly: this thought is one of the things that make life toierable to me!

'You have need of charity, friend Peak, interposed Earwaker. 'This is the spirit of the persecutor.'

'Nothing of the kind!' It is the spirit of justified reason. You may say that those people were honestly mistaken; -such honesty is the brand of a brainless obstructive. They would have persecuted, but too gladly! There were, and are, men who would have committed Darwin to penal servitude, it they had had the power. Men like Lyell who were able to develop a new convolution in their brains, I respect heartily. I only speak of the squalling mass, the obscene herd of of idiot mockers.'

(To BE CONTINUED.) SENT DOWN,

How the Undergrad Lightens His

Few undergraduates at Oxford or Cambridge spend their time in burnng the midnight oil. The average undergrad, is far more interested in the lighter side of things, and when there is an opportunity for a practical joke he jumps at it.

Only a week or two ago, for instance, some Cambridge men were 'sent down"-or temporarily expelled-for disorderly conduct. So their friends promptly decided to give them mock funeral. A procession took place to the railway station, with forty cabs of mourners, a dozen mounted men, and scores of under-graduates 'He must write a good deal,' put marching solemnly behind. All the mock mourners were long crepe weepers," and some had their faces adorned with black stripes, and led dogs in the heaviest mourning. Most of the mounted men carried cards with inscriptions, such as "He was me f-riend!" and "R.I.P."

If a don is very unpopular, the usual way the undergraduate adopts of showing his displeasure is to screw his "oak," or door, in the night. A very distinguished man, who was once a don at Merton, has reported a funny conversation between a don inside the screwed-up door - perhaps himself!--and a "scout," or servant, outside. "But what on earth am I to for anti-dogmatic books, written do?" wailed the poor don. "Well, Muff is screwed up, sir, 'e allus sends for the blacksmith."

Many years ago, the dean of one of the Oxford colleges started a crusade against the wearing of hunting them. They take their rationalism coats. His methods were tactless, and undergraduates swore revenge. One fine morning he found, on leaving the deanery, that the building—walls and windows—was painted ex-

The great enemy of the frolicsome undergraduate is the "proctor"-a college dignitary, who, with his assistants-known as "bulldogs"-parades the streets after nightfall. Let him catch an undergraduate out in the evening without cap and gown, or in a hotel or public billiard-room, and he approaches politely with, "Are you a member of this university, sir?" raising his cap. "Yes, sir!" says the of apologetic skill, this pious juggl- criminal, also raising his cap. He ery. Never mind how washy the is then asked for his name and college, and requested to call on the senior proctor to-morrow at nine.

There are many old regulations on the books of the universities that are long since out of date. One, at Oxford forbids undergraduates to play marbles on the steps of a certain church, or bowl hoops on the Broad Walk. Some years ago a few daring spirits bought for a lark some hoops and marbles, and started solemnly playing like children in the forbidden places. But was the senior proctor at a loss? No! He promptly fined them all round, just as they would have been fined a couple of hundred dard of respectability. If Chilvers years ago.

sociate Cobalt with stirring deeds of adventure, and the word restriction is one that would seem to have lost its bearing when applied to such a place. Yet restrictions there are, and of a rather peculiar sort, when the nature of the place is considered. According to the game laws, prospectors are forbidden to carry weapons. Now, the Cobalt district might almost be described as a place where emergency is the rule, so that the restriction is a serious one, and not only in regard to the danger to life, but in regard to the cost of living, because, in spite of the fact that moose and other game animals are plentiful, the "protection" of them raises the price of meat

Some entertaining stories are told of the unexpected and unwelcome visits of Mr. Bruin to the prospectors' camps. On one occasion recently he made a nocturnal call upon the preserve of George Grogan and his partner in the Porcupine, and literally clean up the grub supply. The partner was despatched for more provisions, and while Grogan was in sole charge of the fort the bear repeated his complimentary visit. Giving up all thought of a romantic death, George hastily got the pack sacks together and spent the remainder of the night in the canoe in midstream. Such an undignified retreat would, of course, have been quite unnecessary had Grogan been provided with a rifle and the right to use it. A party of three, including a Frenchman, engaged upon assessment work had a similar experience while camping. The distance of the camp to the place where they were operating was about a mile. They were in the habit of taking their grub with them, but one day they took a chance. It proved fatal, for in their absence Mr. Bruin called and swept the board. of the party were sent for provisions to Gowganda, bringing back with them thirty pounds of bacon and a large quantity of other foodstuffs. At nightfall all the goods were hung up in a tree and believed by their trustees to be in a safe place. However, Bruin landed it all right and demolished every scrap of it. Stimulated by his success the bear would call almost nightly, and the French-man became so frightened that he there was perspiration on his fore- would not go to bed, but used to sit head. Partial success was awarded the first attempt. Mr. Bruin injudiciously placed his paw in the noose, but with wonderful woodcraft he climbed a cedar and was able to release his pinioned limb even while his enemies were trying vainly to belabor him with an axe. After this failure the party removed the cedar and prepared for real war. They carefully spliced the handle of a huge carving knife on a pole and made up their minds that the torment must cease. Failing to regard his lesson, Bruin came again and got entangled in the snare. Once the party got him suspended the work of execution was divided. While one attended to the pole another got the bear to elevate his forepaws and box, and another did desperate work under the belt with

The bear was literally hacked to pieces, but the fight was a long one, the bear being game to the core. He was so weakened, however, that the man with the knife was at length able to reach the heart. Needless to say, bruin was skinned and eaten, and so atoned in a very personal way for his

Such encounters, while they may appeal to the venturesome, are not to the prospectors' liking, and it does seem only reasonable that the men should be allowed to protect themselves against any such risks when eut prospecting. She is resigning from the staff of Westbourne School to give her entire time to the work of the National Council. Besides her university work in languages, Miss Riddell spent a year traveling in Spain, France, Italy and Switzerland. This knowledge of the Continental languages is of the greatest benefit to the new corresponding secretary of the National Council in editing for publication the three volumes of the Year Book of the International Council which is to contain the entire proceedings of the meetings held in Toronto last summer. The first and second volumes are already in the hands of the printers.

Limantour, Secretary Knox and General Reyes Will Meet With President Gomez of Cuba, and Lay Plans to Quell the Insurrection In Mexico-Reyes May Be the Candidate to Succeed Diaz.

New York, March 16 .- A conference to quell the revolution in Mexico is arranged to take place on Cuban soil between Jose y Limantour, Secretary of State Knox, and General Reyes, and is slated for the second week in April. It was stated positively last night that President Gomez of Cuba is named as intermediary. It is said he arranged the proposed conference. As a result of the conference it is prophesied that General Reyes will consent to run for the Presidency of Mexico, with the united support of the Diaz Government and Madero followers. Limantour will succeed Enrique C. Reel as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Secretary Knox is now in Florida and within a few hours' reach of Cuba. General Reyes is in Paris. Reports received by Mexican refugees here last night stated that Reyes is about to leave, ostensibly for Vera Cruz, to answer a message from President Diaz asking him to return home whence he was exiled in 1909, but really to go to Havana for the conference. Limantour is in this

Will Have Fair Trial. Viterbo, March 16.-Carbineers, cavalry and Government agents yesterday started a crusade against suspicious strangers in Viterbo as a resuit of the halt of the great Camorrists trial through inability to secure a jury. All persons known to have been intimidating talesmen or suspected of such crimes are be-

The afternoon session was given over to minor details. When the clerk of the court read the indictment, which is very lengthy, the accused men appeared indifferent, and at its conclusion laughed ironically, as though to demonstrate their contempt for the proceedings.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 15 .- At the Cana dian Pacific live stock market the re ceipts were 600 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 550 hogs and 1600 calves. A feature of the trade was the weaker feeling in the market for cattle, and prices ruled 1/4c per pound lower than on Monday, which was attributed to the fact that the supply was in excess of the requirements. The was in excess of the requirements. demand was slow; the weather was much warmer, and, this being the Lenten sea son, the consumption of beef was cur tailed to some extent, and butchers gen erally are only buying from hand to mouth for the time being. A fair trade was done in hogs this morning, and, as the sup ply was smaller, prices ruled steady, with sales of selected lots at $1.25 to $1.35 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. Onterio House Spends Another Day in Debate.

IS GOOD FOR CATTLEMEN

d. Kohler, After an Investigation of Prices, Says Proposed Reciprocal Tariff Will Do a Lot to Boost the Cattle Trade Because of High Prices Across the Line-Much Due to the Northwest.

Toronto, March 16.—Speeches for and against reciprocity occupied the attention of a bare quorum of members of the House at the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Mackay (Lib.) North Oxford, resuming the debate on the anti-reciprocity resolution, argued that the proposed agreement involved no tinge of disloyalty. As a loyal Canadian true to her best interests and to the British Empire and British institutions he could but welcome any equitable trade arrangement which was designed to strengthen the friendship of the Dominion and the Empire with the American people.

W. S. Brewster, Conservative, South Brant, referred to the protest of the Brantford Board of Trade the other night against reciprocity. Brantford was content to let well enough alone, and this applied to every city in the Dominion. At present, Americans were compelled to come here to make investments in order to extend their trade, while, with the proposal of the Dominion Government, a fiscal policy would be adopted that would be ruinous to Canadian trade. It was the most "jug-handled" agreement ever heard of, and Mr. Brewster saw in it elements that would tend to wreck Confederation.

J. Kohler (Lib.), Haldimand, quot-ed statistics gleaned from the Toronto Stock Yards and the Buffalo Stock Yards, to show that the price of cattle, calves, sheep and hogs was much higher in Buffalo than in Toronto, and had been without variation for the past three years. If the duty were taken off and the reciprocity bill proposed, what a splendid profit would accrue to the Canadian farmers upon their stock if sold on the Buffalo market. & D. Jamieson (Con.), South Grey, said that his first impression of the bill was that it was a good thing for this country; but he had since changed his mind. At the same time, he was of the opinion that the feeling of loyalty towards the Empire was so strong in Canada that even with such an arrangement in force, the spirit towards Britain would not be changed. He was very heartily in accord with the resolution presented by Bir James Whitney.

S. Clarke (Lib.), West Northumberland, said that the members of the House had not been in close touch with their riding since the House met, or he believed that most of them would find that they were not voicing the views of the rural constituencies in denouncing reciprocity. The relief the treaty afforded the Canadian northwest was but a sop, a drop in the bucket compared with what was due them.

At the night session E. Fraser (Cor.), Welland, said that a large number of Liberals thought Mr. German a disgruntled politician, but the fact was Mr. German had a mandate from the farmers of Welland, who are opposed to reciprocity. In the last lew years sixty manufacturers had been established in Welland County, of which 55 were offshoots of factories on the United States side of the line.

Allan Studholme (Labor), East Hamilton, said that he would vote against the anti-reciprocity resolution, as the joining of the industrial forces on this continent would be in the best interests of the wage-earners.

A Simple Explanation.

Ottawa, March 16.-There is a simple explanation to the complaint of A. S. Goodeve, in the House of Commens as to Lord Strathcona's alleged statement that the Canadian Ministers had been hypnotized by the brilliance of the American offer and had fallen into a "trap."

Mr. Goodeve read the Canadian Associated Press cable in The Ottawa Journal. By an error this paper had joined a paragraph interview with the Canadian High Commissioner in London to an editorial in The London Standard, the latter carrying the obnoxious expression.

President Konenkamp, representative | Farmers' Bank Irregularities After Charter Issue.

> ASKED FOR

David Henderson In House of Commons Takes Government to Task for Granting the Certificate to the Bank, But the Premier Says the Trouble Occurred After the Papers Were Made Out.

Ottawa, March 16.-While Parliament's ratification of the reciprocity agreement, and the voting of supplies for the fiscal year, beginning two weeks hence, waited, the Commons again devoted a day to discussion of another issue without forwarding by a single step the actual work of legislation.

David Henderson (Halton) asked for a royal commission on the motion to go into committee to discuss reciprocity. He referred to the disaster as a financial holocaust, and declared that Mr. Fielding, in response to warnings, said, "I put it up to Travers." He urged the Government to release the shareholders from the imposition of the double liability, on the ground that those involved would have to mortgage their farms with little hope of ever redeeming them. R. L. Borden said "There is no doubt that the Treasury Board of Canada had the most direct and positive notice that these irregularities were committed."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier claimed that the wreck of the bank was due to the deception of the agent of the share-

T. W. Crothers stated that the certificate had been illegally issued by the Treasury Board at a meeting at which there was not a quorum. Mr. Borden stated that E. B. Osler and others who, if the royal commission was appointed, were prepared to swear that they had warned Mr. Fielding. The Minister should have ordered the production of the minute book before granting the certificate.

The Premier, who rose a few minutes before midnight to sum up the whole of the six hours of argument, put the matter in a nutshell. The case as made out by Mr. Henderson for the relief of the shareholders from the double liability, he pointed out, rested on the assumption that the ultimate failure of the bank resulted from the fact that whereas Travers had represented that the full $250,000 required by the Bank Act to be deposited in cash before the certificate was granted, it was in reality $80,000 short of the amount, the balance being made up by discounting shareholders' notes.

David Henderson (Halton), in introducing an amendment to the motion to go into committee of ways and means on the reciprocity issue, took up cudgels in behalf of the rained shareholders of the defunct Farmmers' Bank. His amendment was: "That this House is of the opinion that a royal commission should forthwith issue to enquire into and investigate the corporation and organization of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, and the granting of a certificate by the Treasury Board permitting the said bank to issue notes and commerce business and all circumstances connected therewith, and generally to enquire into and investigate the operation and efficiency of the Bank Act in relation to the affairs and trans-actions of the said bank."

Mr. Fielding expressed sympathy with the misfortune that had come to those who had invested in the bank, but thought they were in no different position than others who had made unfortunate investments. He did not think a royal commission would secure anything more than could be obtained by the proceedings before the courts. That would lead to a full investigation into the conduct of the affairs of the bank. Should anything arise later to indicate that the investigation was insufficient, the question could be brought up later.

He regretted to have a difference of opinion with Mr. Henderson, but he was obliged to say that the member for Halton was mistaken when he claimed that he had uttered a warning against the issue of the certificate. However, he remembered having had conversation with Mr. Henderson regarding the bank. Hon. George E. Foster admitted that so far as the granting of the charter was concerned, the House was responsible and not the Government. The incorporation was the one nonessential part of the transaction. The grating of the certificate, he said, was the important matter. Theoretically the Treasury Board was responsible, but actually it was in the hands of the Minister of Finance. It was upon his recommendation entirely that it was granted. Mr. Fielding was re-sponsible for the bona fides of the subscription.

U. S. Official Presents Tariff Arguments in Maine.

Lortland, Me., March 16 .- That the United States will enjoy a greater export trade to Canada in five years' time than any other country should the Canadian reciprocity agreement be adopted, was the prediction made here last night by John Ball Osborne, chief of the bureau of foreign commerce of the State Department, and a member of the reciprocity commission, in an address before the Econonic Club. He estimated that Canada's total imports in 1915 should be about $540,060,000, and that the U.S. will supply $350,000,000, or 65 per cent.
I its imports. This, he said, is an xtremely conservative estimate, and may be augmented to $400,000,000 by assuming that the United States' hare will be at least 74 per cent.

In reviewing the history of the neotiations which led up to the present eciprocity agreement between this country and Canada, Mr. Osborne pointed out that no more appropriate field than the Dominion of Canada ed States for the application of the reciprocity policy in regulating trade

The speaker discussed the advantages that would accrue to the American people by the adoption of the agreement. Mr. Osborne contended that while the reciprocity arrangement may not immediately cheapen he cost of living, it surely would equalize and steady prices, arresting he upward movement which is bearng so heavily on a large proportion of the population. Taking the free admission of Canadian wheat as an example, the speaker declared that this would operate to prevent speculative disturbances in domestic markets. The speaker did not think that any fear need be felt in the border states lest the agreement should prove injurous to the farming interests, Generally speaking, he said, it may be confidently asserted that the free movement across the border of farm products will benefit the farmers on both sides of the line and the reciprocal removal of existing tariff restrictions will make the surplus for export in either country readily available for supplying any deficiency in the other.

Must Stop the Train.

Cornwall, March 16 .- An interesting case was tried before Judge Liddell and a jury in the Division Court at Cornwall, in which Duncan Monroe of Cornwall was awarded damages against the Grand Trunk Railway, Mr. hunree purchased a ticket at Cornwall for Lansdowne, Ont., on Oct. 11. In the early hours of Oct. 12 he went to Hollerytown, a flag station, for one of the morning trains and asked to have the train flagged. The night operator complied with the request, but the engineer failed to stop, and Mr. Monroe was detained an entire day. It developed that as a matter of law the timetable is a contract with the public and that the refusal of the engineer to stop when signalled, was a breach of that contract.

The jury agreed on a verdict for Mr. Monroe for $50. So far as the public legal records show, this is the first time that an action of this sort has ever been tried in the Province of Ontario.

Twenty-five cents buys 2 lbs. of steak in St. Hyacinthe, Que., 114 lbs. in Toronto, and only 1 lb. in Vancouver, according to a table showing beef prices in May, compiled by the Labor Department at Ottawa. Generally speaking the further west you go, or the bigger the city, the higher the price of beefsteak. There are decided exceptions, however. For instance, in Glace Bay, N.S., beefsteak was 22c as against 15c. at Westville, N.S. Halifax folks paid 24c. for their steak as against 22c. paid by the people of St. John, N.B. Unless there is some error in figures, or some clear difference in quality in different places, the anomalies shown by the table mean rank injustice which the people affected should inquire into. For instance, why should beefsteak be sold in Edmonton at 15c. in Calgary at 20c., and in Regina at 25c.? Or, why should Torontonians pay 20c. to 22c. while Hamiltonians get off with 16c. to 18c.? Or, why should St. Thomas folks be charged 22c. while Londoners, just next door, pay 18c.? Perhaps the worst case of all is 18c. per lb. in New Westminster, B.C., and in Vancouver, at the other end of the trolley line, 25c., which is within a fraction of 40 per cent. more. The next lowest price to St. Hyacinthe is at Charlottetown, P.E.I., whose fortunate citizens breakfast on steak at 14c. per lb. Fourteen places are reported as paying 20c. for beefsteak in May. These places are mainly the larger cities, including Toronto and Montreal. Locality seems to make little difference, for, besides the central places named, this twentycent list includes such widely separat-

Canada might do worse than engage Earl Grey as press agent at the close of his vice-regal term, supposing that he is not booked in advance for one of the more conspicuous pro-consulships. Every Governor-General says nice things about Canada as a matter of course when he gets away, but Earl Grey's observations have a certain pith and forcefulness that distinguish them from the commonplace testimonial as a Kipling sentence differs from an illuminated address.

FEAT OF MARKSMANSHIP. - To cut down the flagstaff in front of the City Hall from a boat near the mouth of the Humber would be a feat of marksmanship possible to the gunners on H. M. S. Neptune. > THE RIGHT TONIC .- The greatest admirers of Sir Wilfrid agree that his ministry was losing somewhat in strength, was taking on rather the condition of an old boat still seaworthy but less staunch than formerly, and that something needed to be done to restore it to its best estate, and the thing has been done by means of the reciprocity agreement. It gives his administration a first-class measure to support and battle for and put the opposition into such a quandary as
