

POPULATION ON INCREASE

One Telephone for Every Four; One Car for Every Ten in Toronto

According to figures released yesterday by the Greater Toronto Directory Limited, Greater Toronto has a population of 778,498. There are 671,540 people living in Toronto proper, and its 21 suburbs are credited with a population of 106,958.

This year's figures for great Toronto show an increase of 2.14 per cent over those of last year which were 762,149. The census was computed after a careful canvass of every place of business and every residence in the area.

In 1926 total assessment was given as $886,839,808. In 1927 it is $910,949,398 an increase of 2.66 per cent. Fifty nine per cent. of the population own their own dwellings.

Other interesting statistics revealed by the canvass are: 172,265 telephones or one to every four people. There are more Italians in Toronto than any other foreign born citizen and enough automobiles to provide one to every ten of the population.

Successful Parlor Social

A joint parlor social given by Mrs. W. E. Beamish and Mrs. Baird in aid of the talent system of St. John's Church was held at the home of W. E. Beamish on Bedford Street on March 17th, 1908. About $45.00 was realized. The candy booth was presided over by Misses Smith, Delye Ramsden and Muriel Read and the ice cream and cake booth was in charge of Mrs. Ramsden and Mrs. Barnes. Rev. E. Daniel acted as chairman. The program consisted of selections by Mrs. C. C. Gamble, Miss Jessie Coleman, Miss Delye Ramsden, Mr. Beverly George; violin numbers by Miss Smith, Miss Phyllis Ramsden, Miss Hagerman and Mr. Holdsworth; piano selections by Miss Ada Mulligan, Miss Honor and Miss Jessie Powers; a whistling solo by Mr. Norman Choate and a reading by Mr. T. A. Kirkconnell.

MARLBOROS ARE ELIMINATED

Gunners Victorious in Hard Fought Struggle—Kitchener Wins in Toronto

South Porcupine looked good enough against Kitchener seniors at Arena Gardens last night to have walked off with a victory, but the luck of the game decreed otherwise and the laurels went to the O.H.A. senior champions by a score of 3 to 2. It was a small score for a game that provided both teams with numerous chances to beat the goalkeepers, and even when Kitchener scored what proved to be the deciding counter, after fourteen minutes of play in the last period, the Northerners did not appear to be beaten. They kept on storming the Kitchener net until the final bell halted their efforts and they battled merrily for the tying counter that failed to come.

This afternoon the teams met again, and Kitchener's one goal advantage may not prove much of a handicap to the men from the mining country. They were not outplayed last night, except for a few minutes in the last period, when the O.H.A. champions, smarting under a 2 to 0 score against them, opened up a frantic attack and equalizing the count in less than a minute. South Porcupine's hard earned lead disappeared in the twinkling of an eye, so to speak, and the Northerners were unable to forge ahead again, although they had plenty of scoring chances.

Although on the night's play Kitchener may have had a slight edge the O.H.A. champions were given no breathing spaces. They were forced to extend themselves through every period by the fast pace that the South Porcupine set, and it was only the experience of the more seasoned Kitchener team that spelled the difference in the score.

MARLBOROS ELIMINATED

Imagine five Marlboro men milling around the Gunners' net and five Gunners hoisting the puck desperately to the far end of the rink out of reach. Picture a seething population, 100 per cent for Ottawa Gunners and then think of the plucky Marlboro players slowly cutting the lead down from 3-0 to 3-2, and likely to tie it up before the game gets many minutes older and the reader will get some faint idea of the pandemonium that reigned in the Kings ton rink last night, when Ottawa Gunners put the highly touted Marlboros out of the Memorial Cup series by a score of 3 to 2, the scene would almost have baffled description. Ottawa had qualified to meet Regina for dominion honors.

The spent and exhausted lighter Ottawa team staggered off as best they could. The goalkeeper collapsed. Others were borne off. The crowd dashed on the ice, delirious with excitement. Kingston had taken the Gunners to their hearts, and could not accord them too much eulogy. Meanwhile, the Marlboros, stunned and dazed, and only too recently having quaffed the bitter cup of rue after they had thought the championship wine to be theirs only for the sipping, wandered off the ice entrances. A few patted them on the backs, and said: "Good work, kids," or something equally appropriate, but, as usual the spoils went to the victors and they were, pro tem the darlings of the Kingston population.

PRESTON SPEAKS AT TORONTO

Brands Edwards' Propaganda as "Foul Outrage" At Liberal Rally

A large gathering from Ward 3 Liberal Association of Toronto, attended North Toronto town hall on Thursday night to hear an address by W. T. R. Preston of Port Hope, for many years dominion commissioner of immigration in Europe.

"You cannot make me believe," said Mr. Preston, "that in a city of the wealth and intelligence of Toronto, the Liberals have no chance whatever of a seat in one of the ridings. I don't believe it." (Applause)

Mr. Preston referred to immigration as being very much before the public at the present time and said this question was altogether too big to be settled from a partisan or biased standpoint.

"I yield to no man," said Mr. Preston, "in his allegiance to the English language and the Protestant faith, but I must accord my Catholic friends the same freedom. This propaganda of Dr. Edwards to carry the sectarian warfare through the country, first in the west, and now to be carried into England, I think is the foulest outrage that was ever offered by a public man throughout the history of constitutional government. What kind of government are we going to have, if this sort of thing is to go on?"

Mr. Preston concluded by referring to a matter he said had been discussed in the press during the past few weeks.

"During the past few weeks I've been receiving letters from many parts of the dominion from soldiers making statements which, if I were to publish today, would, I think, shake this country to its very foundations."

"I am not surprised that public opinion about another matter has brought letters to me containing details and incidents of those who suffered in that great war of which, I say in all seriousness, if they are proven, no government could exist in this country that would not enquire into every phase of that war, no matter whom it hurt.

"Let us know the facts, and get from them the lessons to be learned, and let no mushroom general, born like Jonah's gourd, in a night, send our men to slaughter."

A vote of thanks was moved by J. E. Parsons and seconded by Mrs. Grant Needham, past president of the women's section. Mrs. Needham said there were far more Liberals in Toronto than people had any idea of. She referred to the city hall as being equal to Tammany Hall in its worst days. "Why should people who are related to high-ups only, be dismissed for stealing thousands of dollars, whilst the poor man found guilty of stealing food or clothing from a store goes to prison?" (Hear, hear) "If the official is guilty no party, Liberal or Conservative and no lodge should be able to protect him."

ALL HOPE HAS BEEN GIVEN UP

Bare Possibility Fliers May Have Landed in Frozen Wastes

Report that William A. Cole, postmaster of Kokodjo, 20 miles from Grenville, Me., had seen an unidentified plane flying northward at 6 o'clock Thursday morning was denied by him last night. He told investigators sent out by Deputy Sheriff Adelbert G. Rogers that he had neither seen nor heard the plane, according to the deputy.

The report, coupled with a further notification that John Dyer and his wife, in the same vicinity, had heard the plane's motor at that time, led to hurried telephoning to camps and small communities throughout the Moosehead Lake region, in the belief that the craft might have been the missing Hinchcliffe monoplane Endeavor.

Search by woodsmen, however, failed to reveal any plane in the region. Two men sent into the territory in automobiles today returned with the same report.

If a Government or a commercial plane were ordered to search the section, as indicated in an earlier dispatch from Washington, it would have an opportunity to land on Moosehead Lake. Reports were that the ice was solid and the surface smooth.

SPRING IS ADVANCING

Weather Man Is Active—Snow And Ice Is Fast Disappearing

This kind of weather reminds us of James Whitcomb Riley's poem on the subject:

Rain and slush, and rain again, Just dribble, drip and blow And hail and frost and winter wind, Then some more rain and snow.

But it seems as if the weather-man is going to give us just an inkling of the sort of weather he is keeping from us, and which he denies us as a regular diet. Spring certainly was present with all the favors and flavors of real April, or perhaps May. The rain served its purpose, and has finished the job of getting rid of the snow and melting the ice. It rather looks as if skating is done, and rinks have taken on that bleak and forbidden aspect which characterizes the empty house, the spirit of Spring having taken possession and wafted the cold and dreariness to the north wind but to reappear in late Fall.

But there is a sort of lump enters one's throat at the sight of winter going. Skating, hockey, snowshoeing, snowballing, skating and other sports have died their deaths. The thought of Christmas and wood fires, of plum pudding and open grates all flee from one's mind as the heralds of Spring ride the south and west winds and wake the badgers and bears and bring back the feathered creatures from the realms of the South.

We are too happy at the approach of another season, which opens more possibilities of outdoor sports to say goodbye to Old Man Winter. It is as with the other seasons. After the novelty has worn off, we are only too glad that the next season is thrust upon us with its new glorious pastimes.

The marbles have made their appearance in the little boys' hands, and the latter may be seen out on the street making bargains and plying "migs" with the other youngsters. And that isn't all. The banished umbrella and parasol have returned and are held with dignity over young and old, hiding features and serving many purposes too numerous to mention.

Thoughts turn to the farm and the green. Soon will the "lowly" herd again wind "o'er the lee" and lassies and laddies take to walking in the dim twilight of a summer evening.

OCTOGENARIAN CELEBRATES

Mr. C. Crossley Is Honored On His 80th Birthday

Friday evening, March 16th, Belmont Farm, Port Hope, was the scene of a very pleasant birthday party when Mr. Cornelius Crossley of Millbrook, was honored at the home of his son, Thos. Crossley, it being his 80th birthday. During the afternoon and evening, thirty or more relations and friends from Millbrook, Newtonville, Newcastle, Welcome and Port Hope assembled. Precisely at six o'clock the guests were invited to the dining room to enjoy a bounteous repast which consisted of oysters, meats, jellies, cakes, etc. The table was beautifully decorated in mauve and white with bouquets of roses added to its charm. The main attraction of the table was the handsome birthday cake, surrounded by eighty candles, which were lighted by two of Mr. Crossley's grandchildren, Verna and Dorothy Crossley.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games, music, etc. Mr. Crossley, though advanced in years is enjoying good health and we extend to him our best wishes for many returns of the day.

SEEING THE ROCKIES ON FOOT

One of the best ways of seeing any mountain district is on foot. In the Alps it has long been a favorite form of travel but in the Canadian Rockies until recently roads have been few and far between. The extension of the highway system in Rocky Mountain national park has opened up new possibilities for the pedestrian since it is now possible to traverse the entire length of the park on foot and even to go on to Field and the Yoho valley in Yoho national park.

COUSIN OF PORT HOPE MAN IS BELIEVED LOST IN SOUTHERN FLOOD

Word Has Been Received in Port Hope That Fred Hawkins, a Former Port Hope Boy, Perished in The California Disaster.

Word was received in Port Hope Friday that Fred Hawkins, a former Port Hope boy and who will be remembered by many in town, was lost in the California flood disaster on Tuesday and is believed drowned.

The catastrophe in the south occurred on Tuesday when a cloudburst turned the famous Los Angeles Aqueduct into a giant of destruction, leaving a death toll of nearly five hundred persons and uncounted property damage when it broke the St. Francis dam in San Francisco Canyon, 45 miles north of Los Angeles and sent a mountainous wall of water down on a sleeping community.

It is believed that Fred Hawkins perished in the raging waters as he has not been found since that date. He was born in Port Hope thirty-seven years ago and was the son of the late George Hawkins.

He lived on Barrett Street and his father was in charge of the glue factory which was situated near the old Barrett's Mill on Barrett Street. He left Port Hope twenty-two years ago and will be remembered by many Port Hoppers.

His home was made in Seattle and he served in the American Army during the great war. He was engaged in construction work in California. His wife and one son survive.

He was a cousin of Joseph Hawkins, Ontario St.

In two interesting games of basketball at the High School gymnasium Friday evening when the local basketball players participated in exhibition fixtures with the Cobourg Collegiate teams. The C.C.I. girls defeated the Port Hope girls' team 25 to 4 while the boys from Cobourg handed the locals a 44-19 defeat.

The adjourned hearing of the inquest to probe the death of the late Mrs. Geo. Kidd of Bewdley, who died on Thursday will be resumed at the Town Hall on Monday evening.

Numerous radio enthusiasts of Port Hope listened with interest to radio station CKGW of Toronto on Thursday evening when Miss Elfrida Boulton formerly of Port Hope, sang over the air.

An incident relating to the activities in the vicinity of Port Hope, are recalled in a recent issue of the Quebec Chronicle Telegraph, taken from the files of 100 years ago. The item is as follows: "Stage Accident—York 16th February—Last Friday about midnight the York and Kings ton stage being on a hill about seven or eight miles this side of Port Hope close to Farley's tavern, the horses descended at full speed, and one of the wheels going over the embankment of logs six or seven feet high, the vehicle upset, and rolled over twice down the steep slope. There were four passengers and the night was quite dark, but the horses did not start off. Mr. Chambers, engineer, received a broken thigh and a young gentleman whose name we have not learned, is greatly hurt, but the doctor has some faint hopes of his recovery; the other two drivers escaped without injury."

St. John's A.Y.P.A. on Monday night have one their year's best meetings entitled "Our Parish" when they will have a very entertaining program which will include live singing and a well planned playlet.

There was an enjoyable dance held at the Campbellcroft Womens' Institute Hall last evening.

Alfred Mastin, elderly resident of Belleville, who was on trial all day Thursday at the Supreme court sitting for a serious offense against a young girl, was found guilty by the jury empanelled to hear the evidence on an early hour today. Justice McEvoy sentenced the accused to two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph. A scathing rebuke was administered to the prisoner by His Lordship, who stated that had the prisoner been a young man the sentence would have been considerably heavier with lashes. Mastin took his sentence quite calmly.

The musical pantomime "Dick Whittington and His Cat" drew only half a house at the Royal theatre last night but should have packed the theatre, as a better show has never been seen in Port Hope. The cast is a really clever one, including several comedians who provided good clean fun, the chorus was young and pretty and the singing was excellent. The scenery and costumes would do credit to a much higher priced production. At the conclusion of the performance, the audience paid the company a well deserved tribute of sustained applause that necessitated several extra raisings of the curtain.

"How do you find marriage, Tony?" she asked. "Well," replied Tony, "during the honeymoon I talked and she listened. Then for six months she talked and I listened. Now we both talk and the neighbors listen."

WHERE WHITE MICA IS FOUND

Occurrences in Canada of white mica or muscovite, some few of which have been worked at different times, are known from Labrador in the east to British Columbia in the west; and Arctic expeditions have brought back good samples from the far north. Perhaps the most important mica deposits are those of the Saguenay district, in the lower St. Lawrence, in the province of Quebec. Other deposits occur north of Buckingham, Quebec, and at several places in Ontario and British Columbia. Deposits of lepidolite or lithia mica are also found in Quebec and Manitoba.

THE GUIDE STORY

After he had gone, the lawyer, addressing Mr. Robert Nicholson, said that he had an application to make in reference to the woman Josephine Durand.

At the mention of that woman's name, my mistress hurriedly whispered a few words into her relation's ear. He looked toward Mr. Philip Nicholson, who immediately advanced, offered his arm to my mistress, and led her out. I was about to follow when Mr. Dark stopped me, and begged that I would wait a few minutes longer, in order to give myself the pleasure of seeing "the end of the case."

In the meantime the justice had pronounced the necessary order to have the French woman brought back. She came in as bold and confident as ever. Mr. Robert Nicholson looked away from her in disgust, and said to the lawyer: "Your application is to have her committed for perjury, of course?"

"For perjury?" said Josephine, with her wicked smile. "Ah, well, I shall explain some little things then, that I have not explained before. You think I am quite at your mercy now? Bah! I shall make myself a thorn in your sides yet."

"She has got scent of the second marriage," whispered Mr. Dark to me.

There could be no doubt of it. She had evidently been listening at the door, on the night when my master came back, longer than I had supposed. She must have heard those words about "the new wife"—she might even have seen the effect of them on Mr. Smith.

"We do not, at present, propose to charge Josephine Durand with perjury," said the lawyer, "but with another offense, for which it is important to try her immediately, in order to effect the restoration of property that has been stolen. I charge her with stealing from her mistress, while in service at Darrock Hall, a pair of bracelets, three rings and a dozen and a half of lace pocket handkerchiefs. The articles in question were taken this morning from between the mattresses of her bed; and a letter was found in the same place which clearly proves that she had represented the property as belonging to herself, and that she had tried to dispose of them to a purchaser in London."

While talking Mr. Dark produced the jewelry, the handkerchiefs and the letter and laid them before the justice. Even the French woman's extraordinary powers of self control now gave way at last. At the first words of the unexpected charge against her she struck her hands together violently, gnashed her sharp white teeth, and burst out with a torrent of fierce sounding words in her own language, the meaning of which I did not understand then, and cannot explain now.

"I think that's checkmate for marmzelle," whispered Mr. Dark, with his invariable wink. "Suppose you go back to the Hall, now, William, and draw a jug of that heavenly ale of yours? I'll be after you in five minutes, as soon as the charge is made out."

I could hardly realize it, when I found myself walking back to Darrock a free man again. In a quarter of an hour Mr. Dark joined me, and drank to my health, happiness and prosperity in three separate tumblers. After performing this ceremony, he wagged his head and chuckled with an appearance of such excessive enjoyment that I could not avoid remarking on his high spirits.

"It's the case, William; it's the beautiful neatness of the case that quite upsets me. Oh, Lord, what a privilege it is to be concerned in such a job as this!" cried Mr. Dark, slapping his stumpy hands on his fat knees in a sort of ecstasy. I had a very different opinion of the case, for my own part, but I did not venture on expressing it. I was too anxious to know how Mr. Smith had been discovered and produced at the examination, to enter into any argument. I guessed what was passing in my mind, and telling me to sit down and make myself comfortable, volunteered, of his own accord, to inform me of all that I wanted to know.

"When I got my instructions and my statement of particulars," he began. "I was not at all surprised to hear that Mr. James Smith had come back. (I prophesied that, if you remember, William, the last time we met.) But I was a good deal astonished, nevertheless, at the turn things had taken, and I can't say I felt very hopeful about finding our man. However, I followed my master's directions, and put the advertisement in the papers. It addressed Mr. James Smith by name, but it was very carefully worded as to what was wanted of him. Two days after it appeared, a letter came to our office in a woman's handwriting. It was my business to open the letters, and I opened that. The writer was short and mysterious; she requested that somebody call from our office, at a certain address between the hours of two and four that afternoon, in reference to the advertisement which we had inserted in the newspapers. Of course I was the somebody who went."

"ANNIE LAURIE" HERE MONDAY

Famous Highland Classic With Lillian Gish in the Title Role Coming

Bearded Scots, in tartans and shields, with claymores and other weapons of the romantic Highlands, march, a thousand strong, in impressive ceremonies to the martial tunes of the bagpipes and battle in the rugged Highlands in tremendous conflicts in the most spectacular historical drama of years, "Annie Laurie" a Metro-Goldwin special which will be seen at the Royal Theatre. The new spectacle is Lillian Gish's latest and most sensational starring vehicle.

The picture, based on Scottish history, is laid about the Massacre of Glencoe. A small army of huge Scots is seen in reviews in baronial halls, in the huge gathering of the clans at Maxwellton Castle and other vivid and picturesque detail in the mighty drama.

Miss Gish plays the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, the woman who, in history, was the Joan of Arc of her land. Her love for an enemy clansman turned the tide of a huge battle and changed the history of Scotland.

This production is on a tremendous scale and has proved to be one of the outstanding successes of the season. The engagement is for two nights only—Monday and Tuesday—prices being 25c and 35c.

ALL RIGHT IN THE END

Your heart is bowed with transient grief, Your eyes are misty with tears; There's a sorrow deep and there's no relief

Ahead in the maze of years, So it seems to you as you weep today,

Yet, sorrow may be your friend; So keep up your courage a while and pray, 'Twill come out right in the end.

There never was day so dark and drear

But what, ere the sands had run, The clouds would shift and the Heavens clear

To the smiling face of the sun. There never was cruel stab or blow Inflicted by foe or friend,

But there was a balm—God willed it so— 'Twill come out right in the end.

There never was love so cruelly wronged,

Or throttled by vengeful lies, But time atoned for the joys you longed

And love that was crushed would rise.

O, heart, rise up from the slough's despond, Your faith must not swerve or bend;

Let Hope be pinned above and beyond— 'Twill come out right in the end.

Cobb Joins

The holdouts so far as baseball veterans were concerned had been narrowed down to Peter Donohue, Cincinnati pitcher, with Waite Hoyt, Huguen hurler, the latest to sign his contract.

Hoyt signed Friday after considerable dickering with officials of the New York Americans, while Rube Bressler, erstwhile Red Leg performer, has joined the Brooklyn Robins after having bought his release from Cincinnati. Hoyt's new contract is understood to call for two years.

"Ty" Cobb, veteran outfielder, who has been doing his conditioning at his home city, Augusta, Ga., joined his team-mates, the Philadelphia Athletics when they went to Augusta to play an exhibition game with the Giants.

At Avon Park Bill McKechnie, St. Louis Nationals manager, announced that Danny Clark, 31 year old infielder, had been released to Houston of the Texas League.

E. S. Barnard, President of the American League, assisted Bradenton, Fla., citizens during the day in honoring Bill Doak, Brooklyn pitcher, who is a citizen of that town.

With all the slow contract signers now in the field except Donohue, the remainder of the training season, with only a few days to run before the clubs begin to head northward, will be marked by departure of many rookies to the minors.

Jet is the blackest substance known. It is a species of powdered wood or charcoal and that was produced from pieces of rock and shale washed up on the coast near Whitby, England. Now, however, it is obtained almost entirely by mining. The finest quality of jet comes from the Yorkshire coast near Whitby. The industry there furnishes employment for many. Jet is found also in Bavaria, Bohemia, France, Germany and Spain. Some jet is found in the United States, but not much attention has been given to its production.

Steeplejacks Defy Death.

A wager of £5 has inspired four steeplejacks, who have been repairing one of the tallest chimney stacks in the Mebden bridge district of Yorkshire to extraordinary feats, according to the London Westminster Gazette.

They hoisted a bicycle to the top, and on a wooden platform one of their number balanced himself on the saddle, while a second sat straddle-legged on his shoulders with outstretched arms. Two other thrilling feats were performed. One of the steeplejacks stood erect on a narrow iron spike on the top of the chimney. Then he seized the topmost stave of a ladder, raised his legs to the sky and balanced himself for a few seconds on his hands as calmly as if he were on parallel bars on the ground. Thousands of spectators were thrilled by these extraordinary feats.

Object to Paying "Saxpence"

Scotsmen object to having to pay sixpence when visiting Westminster Abbey to view the Stone of Scone which forms the seat of the Coronation Chair. According to legend this stone was Jacob's pillow at Bethel, and in the year 840 it was taken to Bèrnie, in Scotland, from Tara, home of the Irish kings. All the Scottish kings were crowned on it until 1296, when Edward I. of England had it taken to Westminster, where all the British sovereigns have since been crowned. The Scotsmen admit that in viewing the stone one gets a lot of history for a "saxpence." Nevertheless they want Parliament to prevail upon the Westminster clergy to permit the public to view the "Stone of Destiny" for nothing, or send it home to Scotland where it belongs.

A Comprehensive Prayer.

A minister in his diary once wrote that he feared his prayers were too much like "begging letters." A bad fault, if true.

A new minister preached recently in a Toronto church. His sermon was eloquent and flowery, and in his prayer he seemed to cover the whole category of human wants.

"Fine prayer, that," a deacon said afterwards to the colored janitor. "Hit sholy was, boss," said the janitor. "Why dat man asked de Lord fo' things our old preacher didn't even know He had."

ADMISSION 25c

J.Y. KELLOUGH, Agricultural Representative, Durham County.

"I wish I'd known"

There's always a new experience ahead—something you haven't done before and which calls for a decision.

You become engaged—and immediately you are called upon to decide on the purchase of many, many things you never bought before.

You marry—and furniture, draperies, china, radios, oil burners, gas stoves, autos claim your dollars and call for your choice.

A baby comes—and again you face a new experience in purchasing clothes and powders and blankets; in buying a crib, baby carriage, foods, toys.

Next—what school? For the years pass incredibly fast. Again, a new decision.

Every room in your house requires a choice. Every meal served in your dining-room results from your having decided on what to serve. Every day confronts you with a multitude of possibilities from which you must select those which make life happier and better and make the dollars go farther.

How on earth are you going to make those decisions? How can you know what you want and what you don't want? How can you buy to such advantage that you'll seldom, if ever, have occasion to use that futile phrase, "I wish I'd bought something else"?

Read the advertisements—read them carefully. The advertisements are an encyclopaedia of news and information on the things you want and need.

Here and There

Work on the Royal York, new hotel in Toronto, is ten days ahead of schedule and there is now every probability that it will be completed by May 1, next year. It will tower 395 feet above the sidewalk, being the tallest building in the British Empire.

A. Allerton has been appointed general manager of hotels and bungalow camps east of Fort William, operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway; and H. F. Matthews, general manager of hotels and bungalow camps from Fort William to the Pacific. The appointments were consequent on the death of C. E. E. Usher, late general passenger traffic manager of the railway.

Palle Huld, 15-year-old Danish boy, who is travelling round the world in 46 days, passed through Montreal and the east of Canada recently on his way to Vancouver, whence he will sail by Canadian Pacific All-Red route to Yokohama. The exploit is in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Jules Verne, whose book "Round the World in 80 Days," has always been a favorite with boys.

Fort William.—Elevator capacity at Fort William will probably total 100,000,000 bushels by 1930. Present storage capacity of the twin cities is recorded as 72,540,000 bushels and between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 bushels will be added before the 1928 crop is garnered. Expansion in the following two years will take about 20,000,000 bushels, one of the largest terminal building projects either in the history of the lake-head ports or any of the other centres of the continent.

Winnipeg.—So many applications have been received from farmers in Manitoba to engage the services of youths who are being sent out from Great Britain under the Boy Immigration scheme, that the Provincial Government has requested the authorities to increase the number from 50 to 100. Hon. Albert Prefontaine, Minister of Agriculture, stated that 175 farmers have filed applications for boy help. It is expected that the first batch of youthful immigrants will reach Manitoba late in March.

Substantial reductions in express charges on packages up to 15 lbs. in weight originating in Europe and with Canadian destination have been announced by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Express companies. These cuts run as high as $1.77 and for the purpose of the change Canada has been divided into three zones: Maritime Provinces and Quebec; Ontario and Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. Within these zones charges are the same no matter how widely separated points within them may be.

Wetaskiwin.—Wetaskiwin district has the distinction of being the home of a Shorthorn cow which holds the record for all Canada in the production of milk and butterfat as a three-year-old. She is owned by J. O. Harvey in the northwestern part of the city, and a letter from Ottawa advises that the production of this cow has never been equalled in Canada. Gladys No. 20699 produced 10,504 lbs. of milk and 509 lbs. of butter fat in a test extending over 305 days. She is now undergoing her best as a four-year-old and is averaging about 58 lbs. of milk a day.

SHOW AUTHORITY WITH WHIP

Bridegrooms in Certain Parts of Africa Assert Their Mastery in No Uncertain Manner.

On the day of a marriage in Jubaland the girl issues from her father's house surrounded by throngs of women, dancing, singing and making a great deal of noise. She is taken to the bridegroom's hut, where he awaits her. As she passes in through the low doorway he gives her two or three sharp cuts with a rhinoceros hide lash, to intimate that he intends to be master.

She then has to attend to the various guests who come with gifts for the newly married couple; but she is not allowed to speak to them; neither does her husband address her. All his commands, given by signs, have to be obeyed promptly, and should the girl be slow or not understand the meaning of his gestures, she is instantly smartened up with a sharp blow from the lash. It is a point of honor that she utters no sound, however hard she is lashed.

The husbands of a certain section of Somalis tie a rope round the bride's wrists on the first evening of marriage, and attach the end of the rope to a branch, tightening it so that the girl's toes only just touch the ground; they then proceed to administer a sound flogging. But the girl never utters a cry; and, as soon as the husband has administered a good hard beating he takes her down, washes and anoints her wounds, and looks after her tenderly until the cuts heal and the stiffness passes.

FAIR GIRLS SCARCE

Outnumbered by Dark, Who Get Along Better in Factories.

The chorus beauty of the traditional fair type is, various theatrical managers tell us, becoming increasingly difficult to find, writes a physician.

The fair-haired type of English beauty has long been famous, and yet the women with this coloring were comparatively late arrivals to England's shores, coming after at least two dark-haired races.

Unfortunately England, as a whole, does not possess the ideal conditions for the blonde types, and we are told by anthropologists that they are slowly and imperceptibly dying out.

However, this may be for the country as a whole, town life most certainly seems to be inimical to blondes. Thus it is found that there is a much greater preponderance of brunettes among the population of cities than in the country districts. Further, the dwellers in the most thickly populated parts of towns are darker than those who reside in the suburbs.

The cause of this is not definitely known. It is claimed for the fair northern type that being on the whole more intellectual they have more money and can therefore better afford to live in the suburbs.

But while making all possible allowance for such factors there is undoubtedly a progressive dying out of blondes in cities and a replacement by brunettes.

Blonde children are found to be more susceptible to disease such as diphtheria, scarlet fever and rheumatism, with its fatal sequel of heart troubles.

Blondes are essentially an open-air type, and are most unsuited to factory work.

Living in cities they often suffer from a peculiar kind of etched spaces and an unceasing longing for country life. The glare and heat of city summers is bad for them owing to the fact that they have less protective pigment in their skins for the same reason they frequently suffer from neurasthenia.

The blonde type of beauty flourishes best in the cold, rather arid climates, such as the northern part of our island, and especially the north of Scotland.

As the Scots sponger or later in the day the blonde type, and even if we cannot keep our city blondes English, and will probably always remain a field for colonization for the fair-skinned and blue-eyed type as usually famous.

Same Mace

The British House of Commons once has an interesting history attached to it. For a long time it was believed that, when Oliver Cromwell dissolved the Long Parliament and made a soldier "take away that fool mace," the mace had gone for good. It was said to have been removed to Jamaica and used in the assembly there.

The fact is that the Charles I mace, being an emblem of royal authority, was removed within a few days after the execution of that monarch, and has not been heard of since. A new mace was ordered to be made by one Thomas Mainy, and was first used on June 8th, 1649, and it continued in use until Cromwell dissolved the Long Parliament in April 29th, 1653. Its replacement was made during the Restoration Parliament, and probably during Oliver Cromwell's Parliament.

On May 21st, 1669, at the restoration, new maces were ordered to be made for the two Houses. The speaker was not literally carried out of the Commonwealth and were consecrated by carefully eliminating all the symbols and devices of the Commonwealth and adding the royal emblem and the words of the mace now in use, therefore, it is really the same as the one Cromwell ordered to be removed in 1653.

It is a tradition that the mace should be kept at the end of every Parliament. No business can be done in the Commons without the mace. It goes away with the speaker and comes back with him when the mace is on the table, the Commons is a House when under the table, it is a committee.

"HEADY" HEIGHTS.

Air Passengers Need Not Be Afraid of That Giddy Feeling.

From a few inquiries the writer has made recently, it would appear that the greater part of the men and women who would like to fly, but dare not, are deterred, not by the thought of any danger in consequence of going up some thousands of feet into the air without any "visible means of support," but are afraid of air-sickness brought on by looking down from such a colossal height.

"Even to stand on the top of a building and look down a hundred feet or so makes me go all dizzy," said one lady. "What should be like at five thousand feet?" And so say the majority of people.

But the truth of the matter is that this line of reason is based entirely on a fallacy. As a matter of fact, it is a truth well known to science that looking down a lift-shaft gives one a very much worse feeling than does looking down from an airplane at any height.

Why is this? It is because, in order to create an unpleasant sensation in these circumstances, it is necessary that there should be a definite, visible line to carry the eye from the place where one is standing or sitting down to the earth below.

With a lift-shaft you have four perpendicular lines all carrying the eye down, and you get a very bad sensation indeed. Almost as bad is the giddiness that comes of looking down from a high building. Here you have the sheer line of the wall to follow. Next, but much better than either of the foregoing, comes looking down from a captive balloon. In this case there is the cable which anchors the balloon to give a straight line.

But with an airplane you have no line at all, and, consequently, no giddy feeling either. So, next time you have the opportunity of going up, don't refuse on grounds of possible giddiness. If this fear is all that worries you, you can take it for granted that you will thoroughly enjoy your first air trip.

"BRANDY CREEK."

Alcohol in Water Made Cattle Act Like Drunken Men.

Brandy Creek has doubtless excited the curiosity of many people as they travelled through Norfolk county or perhaps saw the name on a map. It is a name to quip the curiosity of the most indifferent mind, but it is probable that the makers of books on place names have not gone to the root of the matter as did a reader of the Toronto Globe who, in an article, sends a story that sounds plausible, whether further confirmation of it can be found or not. It is given on the authority of Mrs. Mollie Armstrong, who lives at Brandy Creek, and who, now, at the age of ninety, still raises ducks for a living on the small farm upon which she was born. Her story of the origin of the name of Brandy Creek is this:

About fifty years ago a farmer named Melton lived about eight miles up that river. He raised cattle and sheep. One day he went out to milk and the cows were dancing about in the yard, turning about in all sorts of strange positions, sitting down and, according to the story current at the time, walking on their hind legs. The sheep staggered along, too. The farmer looked up the disease of cattle in his "Farmers' Friend," but found nothing like this defined. He was going to send to Bradford for a veterinary the next morning, but as he was hitching up to do so he found that his animals were all as well as they had been in the first place. So he unhitched and went about his day's work in the usual way. At night when milking-time came, however, they were, as on the previous day, jumping capriciously and incorrigibly about the barnyard.

They behaved so like a man when he is drunk that Mr. Melton suspected that the water in the river had alcohol in it. His suspicions were doubled when he heard that moonshiners lived on some hills not far away. He went to the river with some officers with his story, and they came and searched the hills where the river had its origin, and there found what they called the largest still they had ever seen. And there were several of them. The water was amber-colored with the old still, and made a human being feel funny after drinking it. They were making brandy there, and so, although until then the river had never had a name, it was called from then on Brandy Creek. Brandy Creek is now a railway station, and a centre of prosperous poultry farming.

Floorless Bridge.

New Mexico boasts of a unique automobile bridge, believed to be the first of its kind in the world. The bridge was constructed by a man and his partner stage line to span the Macho, a creek on the route. The beams were thrown across the chasm, with no other support than the banks. Hence no concern need be had for freshets. Moreover, to save expense, as well as to secure a most effective cattle guard, no floor was laid. The automobile that traverses this bridge practically runs on a truck. The track is constructed in the form of two shallow, narrow troughs, so that the tires fit in, with no danger of the machine meeting disaster. The drivers cross the bridge at full speed, with no more concern than if the bridge were of the usual sort. Nervous passengers do not enjoy this feature of the ride, however. In length the bridge is sixty-four feet and has proved most satisfactory.

DIRECTORS ARE ELECTED

Three Rotarians Were Appointed For a Term of Two Years

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Port Hope Rotary Club held at the Queen's Hotel Friday evening, three directors were appointed for a term of two years. At a subsequent meeting, the officers will be elected. The directors include: Messrs J. B. Holland, Dr. M. S. Hawkins and M. U. Ferguson.

Here and There

(20) Forty-five years of faithful service to the Canadian Pacific Railway were honored recently when George A. Fowler, former lumber agent of the company, was presented by George Stephen, freight traffic manager, with a purse of gold, contributed by Mr. Fowler's colleagues in the railway's freight traffic offices east of Chicago in the United States and east of Port William in Canada.

Fergus.—A special train of 35 cars left for Vancouver and points en route the other day with over 11,000 consignments of washing machines and barn equipment. This trainload, the largest of its kind ever to originate in Canada, is from a Fergus firm and was handled by the Canadian Pacific Railway as a special train, stopping at Fort William, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton and other centres. Nearly all the consignments were for rural communities.

Immigrants are beginning to pour through the port of Saint John and Montreal en route to Ontario and the West. With the arrival of Canadian Pacific liners Montclare and Montclair recently, in the neighborhood of 600 settlers of the best type have been distributed. Among these were British farm laborers going to selected farms under the scheme of the Canada Colonization Association, and many more will be coming in during the next few months.

Toronto.—In accordance with his promise to Western Ontario tobacco growers, Hon. W. R. Motherwell has appointed a commission to investigate all phases of the tobacco-growing industry, for which two of the commissioners have already been named. The probe will extend to every phase of the industry, from seeding to marketing, and one of the most important features will be the effort to ascertain the best method of operating a proposed co-operative marketing pool.

Port Arthur.—Eventually Canada will produce a 1,000,000 bushel crop of wheat and will have no difficulty in finding a market for it, predicted Hon. T. A. Crerar, President and General Manager of the United Grain Growers Limited, and formerly Minister of Agriculture for the Dominion. Referring to the development of Western Canada, Mr. Crerar said there was no country in the world where so great a development had taken place in the past few years and there was no country having such great possibilities.

In order to meet the increasing popularity of the Canadian Rockies among tourists, and also to aid in developing trans-continental travel, the Canadian Pacific Railway will run a quintette of trains across the Dominion from Montreal, Toronto and Chicago to the Rockies, Vancouver and Victoria this coming summer. These trains will be "The Trans-Canada Limited", "The Imperial", the Toronto-Vancouver Express, and "The Mountaineer" and "Soo-Pacific Express" from Chicago. The Trans-Canada and the Mountaineer will be all-sleeping-car trains.

Vancouver.—"Maizie," the famous white Leghorn hen owned by the University of British Columbia farm, officially known as Hen No. 6, the world's champion layer with 351 eggs in a year, is proving a substantial revenue producer for the University of British Columbia. Last year the sale of pedigreed poultry stock from Maizie returned to the University $2,225. Two of her cockerels fetched $500 each when sold to Ohio poultry raisers, while another cockerel sold in New Jersey for $300. The University receipts on sale of pedigreed British Columbia stock totalled $7,225 for the year.
