Mrs. Alice P. Barney Gives Her Fortune to Daughters

Christian Hemmick, who is to Wed Widow Objected to Reports That He Sought Riches

Washington Post

New York, March 17.—A Paris copyrighted cablegram to the New York World says, in part:

"Mrs. Alice P. Barney, widow of Albert Clifford Barney, the banker, has transferred to her daughters, Natalie and Laura, the $3,000,000 she inherited from her husband.

This step is taken, it is announced, at the request of young Christian Hemmick, of Washington, to whom Mrs. Barney is to be married in Paris the latter part of April. Hemmick, who is a son of Ronald Hemmick, former United States consul at Geneva, Switzerland, is well to do in his own right, and it is said he has been much embarrassed by the report that he was poor, and was going to wed a rich woman nearly twice his age.

"Friends of Mrs. Barney say she was born in 1860. Hemmick has given up his preparations for the consular service, and he and his wife will settle in Washington, where he will go into the real estate business with Frank Poe.

Mrs. Barney's daughters each inherited $2,500,000 from their father's estate. They will remain in Paris, where they have many literary and artistic associations.

TOM MARKS COMING

When a theatrical promoter plans to put a Company upon the road he asks himself two questions, "How cheaply can I do it?" and "Will it pay?" Fortunately, the necessity of these questions was passed years ago by Mr. Tom Marks. The only question he asks is, "How good a show can I give the public this year?" Repetition is the show man's stock in trade. The public is loyal but it is also fickle and demands the best possible and will not tolerate inferior amusements. Mr. Marks is more than willing to leave it to the theatre goers of this town if the program offered by his splendid company at the Opera House for three nights commencing Monday, March 27th, is not one of the best stock organizations they ever attended. They will present "Wanted a Wife" for the opening bill, including many noteworthy vaudeville numbers introduced between the acts. If the press and packed houses they always call are to be taken as a criterion they are the best.

THE IRISHMAN

The savage loves his native shore, Though rude the soil and chill the air, Then well may Erin's sons adore Their isle, which nature formed so fair.

What flood reflects a shore so sweet, As Shannon sweet, or pastoral bann? Or who a friend or foe can meet So generous as an Irishman.

His hand is rash, his heart is warm, But honesty is still his guide. None more repents a deed of harm, And none forgives with nobler pride. He may be duped, but won't be dared—

More fit to practice than to plan, He dearly earns his poor reward, And spends it like an Irishman.

If strange or poor, for you he'll pay And guide you where you safe may be,

If you're his guest, while e'er you stay His cottage holds a jubilee.

His inmost soul he will unlock, And if he may your secrets scan, Your confidence he scorns to mock, For faithful is an Irishman.

By honor bound in woe or weal, Whatever she bids he dares to do; Try him with bribes—they won't prevail, Prove him in fire—you'll find him true.

He seeks not safety, let his post Be where it ought—in danger's van, And if the field of fame be lost, It won't be by an Irishman!

THE McMASTER BAND

Beginning to-morrow (Friday) evening, the Evangelistic Band of McMaster University, Toronto, will conduct a week-end series of special services in the Baptist church. The "Band" is not an organization of instrumentalists, but consists of five young men—one of them a son of Port Hope—who speak and sing the gospel with much acceptance and power.

There will be no admission fee or offering at the Friday and Saturday meetings. Every one is cordially invited to attend the meetings, which begin with a song service at 7:45 p. m. The Band Quartets and soloist will sing at each gathering. On Sunday services will be held at 11 a. m., 3:15 p. m. and 7 p. m., all conducted by the members of the Band.

C. P. R. READY

TO PUSH WORK.

The middle division of the C. P. R. in preparing to man and equip no less than 28 construction trains, for use in connection with the projected work on the Victoria Harbor line, the double tracking of the road from the Union station to Leaside junction and the enlargements and improvements to the Toronto freight and passenger terminals at West Toronto, North Toronto, the Don and Cherry street. The work will begin as soon as the frost is sufficiently out of the ground, and will be rushed as fast as possible in order that a great part of the construction may be completed during the coming summer.

EASTWARD HEN BREAKS RECORD

The Lindsay Post was shown a monster egg laid on Monday by a Black Minorca hen, the property of Mr. Jas. Powers, Caroline-st., east ward. The egg weighs over four ounces and is 8 3/4 inches in circumference, and 6 1/2 in. longitudinal circumference. It is certainly eggs extraordinarily large hen fruit, and a hen that can furnish its owner with eggs like the sample shown is worth its weight in gold.

INSPECTING HIS OWN STOMACH

Philadelphia, Pa., March 14.—B. J. Sykes, of Cardston, Alberta, Canada, paid a friendly call on his stomach to-day at the American stomach hospital here.

"Yes," said Sykes, "I hadn't seen it for a year. True, it gave lots of trouble while I had it, and I have got along well enough since, but then you know, I once had a personal interest in my stomach, and I wanted to see it in a glass bottle. If I had kept it I would have been dead long ago."

"If your stomach doesn't agree with you, have it cut out." That's what Sykes commends. The doctors a year ago gave him one month to live, and told him he had one chance in a hundred of surviving the operation. He took the chance.

Last summer he raised several thousand bushels of wheat on his 500 acre farm in Southern Alberta and will go back this spring to raise more wheat and to once again enjoy life.

Among other things that Sykes enjoys are three square meals a day. He says he eats anything that anyone else would eat and never felt better in his life, but he doesn't disclose his secret. Neither will the physicians.

PORT HOPE, MARCH 23 1911

A TROUBLESOME MISGIVING

In his rebellion, he could not hate them. He hated the malodorous rabble who stared insolently at them and who envied their immeasurable remoteness. Of mere wealth he thought not; might he only be recognized by the gentle of birth and breeding for what he really was, and be rescued from the promiscuity of the vulgar!

Yet at this time he was drawn into connection with the movement of popular Radicalism which revolts against religious respectability. Inherited antipathy to all conventional forms of faith outweighed his other prejudices so far as to induce him to write savage papers for The Liberator. Personal contact with artisan freethinkers was disgusting to him. From the meeting of emancipated workmen he went away with scorn and detestation in his heart; but in the quiet of his lodgings he could sit down to aid their propaganda. One explanation of his inconsistency lay in the fact that no other channel was open to his literary impulses. Pure science could not serve him, for he had no original results to announce. Pure literature seemed beyond his scope, yet he was constantly endeavouring to express himself. He burned with the desire of fame, and saw no hope of achieving it save as an author. The Liberator would serve him as a first step. In time he might get foothold in the monthly reviews, and see his name side by side with those of the leaders of thought.

Occasions of course offered when he might have extended his acquaintance, but they were never of a kind that he cared to use; at best they would only have admitted him to the homes of decent, semi-educated families, and for such society he was altogether unfitted. The licence of the streets but seldom allured him. After his twenty-fourth year he was proof against the decoys of venal pleasure, and lived a life of asceticism exceedingly rare in young and lonely men. When Christian Moxey returned to London and took the house at Notting Hill, which he henceforth occupied together with his sister, a possibility of social intercourse at length appeared. Indeed it was a substantial gain to sit from time to time at a civilized table, and to converse amid graceful surroundings with people who at all events followed the intellectual current of the day. Careless hitherto of his personal appearance, he now cultivated an elegance of attire in conformity with his aristocratic instincts, and this habit became fixed. When next he visited Twybridge, the change in his appearance was generally remarked. Mrs. Peak naturally understood it as a significant result of his intercourse with Miss Moxey, of whom, as it seemed to her, he spoke with singular reticence.

But Marcella had no charm for Godwin's imagination, notwithstanding that he presently suspected a warmth of interest on her side which he was far from consciously encouraging. Nor did he find among his friends any man or woman for whose acquaintance he greatly cared. The Moxeys had a very small circle, consisting chiefly of intellectual inferiors. Christian was too indolent to make a figure in society, and his sister suffered from peculiarities of mind and temperament which made it as difficult for her as for Peak himself to form intimate friendships.

When chance encounter brought him into connection with Earwaker the revival of bygone things was at first doubtfully pleasant. Earwaker, himself, remarkably developed and become a very interesting man, was as welcome an associate as he could have found, but it cost him some effort to dismiss the thought of Andrew Peak's eating-house, and to accept the friendly talk with which the journalist avoided all hint of unpleasant memories. That Earwaker should refrain from a single question concerning that abrupt disappearance nearly ten years ago, sufficiently declared his knowledge of the unspeakable cause a reflection which often made Godwin writhe. However, this difficulty was overcome, and the two met very frequently. For several weeks Godwin enjoyed better spirits than he had known since the first excitement of his life in London faded away.

One result was easily foreseen. His mind grew busy with literary projects, many that he had long contemplated and some that were new. Once more he aimed at contributing to the "advanced" reviews, and sketched out several papers of sociological tenor. None of these were written. As soon as he sat down to deliberate composition, a sense of his deficiencies embarrassed him. Godwin's self-confidence had nothing in common with the conceit which rests on imaginary strength. Power there was in him; of that he could not but be conscious; its true direction he had not yet learned. Defect of knowledge, lack of pen practice, confusion and contradictoriness of aims, instability of conviction,—these faults he recognized in himself at every moment of inward scrutiny.

On his table this evening lay a library volume which he had of late been reading, a book which had sprung into enormous popularity. It was called Spiritual Aspects of Evolution, and undertook, with confidence characteristic of its kind, to reconcile the latest results of science with the dogmas of Oriental religion.

Colors of the Stars.

Although there is no relation apparent between the two phenomena, yet it is interesting to recall the fact that among the stars certain colors appear to characterize different stages of change, or evolution. Red stars, according to the testimony of the spectroscopist, differ widely in their constitution from white or yellow ones, and it has been thought that varying colors may give a clue to progressive changes in the heavenly bodies. Sirius, for instance, is said to have changed from red to white, and some have suspected that Arcturus is fading from red toward yellow.

A Fairly Good Appetite.

Kaffirs, North American Indians and the fat boy in "Pickwick" may well be quoted as fearful examples of voracity, but even their gastronomic feats are exceeded by the full grown Eskimo, who will daily eat twenty pounds of fish and oil if he has the chance, while on the authority of Admiral Saricheff a Yakut of Siberia has been known to consume in twenty-four hours "the hind quarter of a large ox, twenty pounds of fat and a quantity of melted butter for his drink."

To Be Avoided.

"Well, he certainly might have done so, he has plenty of money."

BISLEY BOMBSHELLS.

Sensations That Have Startled Spectators at "The Great Shoot."

Nearly every Bisley meeting has its own peculiar, distinguishing feature, though, at the moment of writing, it is not possible to say what will be the outstanding feature of the 1910 Bisley.

Last year's was not without its sensation; but in the case of the 1907 meeting there were several circumstances which made it the most sensational on record. It was remarkable for the amazingly high standard of the scoring, due, in a large measure, to the introduction of the new bullet.

But it was still more remarkable for the highly sensational finish to the chief event—the King's Prize. Armorer Padgett was proclaimed the winner, and carried on the shoulders of his comrades. But directly afterwards an objection was raised. When Armorer Padgett missed at 1,000 yards he claimed it was owing to a bad cartridge. He was, therefore, allowed another shot in place of it.

Now, one of the rules of the National Rifle Association reads: "No allowance will be made under any circumstances for a defective rifle or cartridge, except that in case of a miss-fire, due to a defective cartridge, a second cartridge may be allowed."

The council had no alternative but to sustain the objection, and to award the prize to Lieut. W. C. Addison, the lucky Australian, who was the next nearest competitor.

But others experienced exceedingly hard lines at Bisley that year. Take the case of Armorer-Sergeant Lawrence. In the 900 yards firing he had the misfortune to put a magpie on the wrong target. To people who know nothing about the Bisley competitions this may seem the result of rank carelessness. As a matter of fact, however, mistakes of this sort are difficult to avoid. But to Lawrence it meant not only the payment of a fine, but also the forfeiture of the value of the shot. But for this one fatal misfortune, he would, undoubtedly, have run out the winner.

The advantage of early training in rifle-shooting was never better illustrated than by the phenomenal achievements of Mr. Martin Boyd at the 1907 Bisley. He won the Wimbledon Cup at 1,100 yards, and at the same time made the highest score on record to that date. In the Match Rifle Aggregate, he also figured second, and was the second highest scorer in the Scottish Eight, while his name appeared in nearly every other prize list the shooting for which was with the match rifle.

Yet, for thirteen successive years he had been absent from Bisley, and throughout that time had not even handled a rifle! But he is a veteran shot, having made his first appearance at the National Rifle Association's meeting just thirty-four years before.

Thirteen years ago there was a very curious, and no less amusing, series of coincidences in the Alexandra competition. There were two competitors squadded together in this competition of almost identical surnames. One, named Dodd, belonged to the 2nd Liverpool, while the other, named Dodds, was a member of the 2nd Dumfries. To carry the coincidence still further, each made a score of twenty-four at the same range, with the same marks, shot for shot.

The climatic conditions under which the King's Prize was shot for at the 1902 meeting caused it to become known as the "hurricane" final; while the year 1894 was one of the worst in the whole history of the National Rifle Association meetings. To one competitor the elements were particularly unkind. Just as he was in the act of pulling the trigger the wind blew a marking-board down upon him. The humor of this unexpected happening appealed more to the spectators than to the unlucky competitor, who was aiming at something more tangible than amusement.

An Unwilling Passenger.

A more amusing than serious mishap befel an Irish pedler of curios named Edwards lately who boarded a White Star liner at Queenstown to sell his wares, but got so weary that he sat down in a chair on the promenade deck and fell asleep. He was awakened by a sailor, who told him he was an hour or more from the harbor of Cork. The captain set Edwards to work in the stokehold and being vigorous he did not mind it. He arrived in New York listed as a stowaway, but decided that he did not like the frowning aspect of the town as seen from the Hudson River. He preferred to work his way back to "Ould Ireland."

An Irish Revenge.

They have a peculiar way of "getting at" their enemies in Ireland. In the Gorey district Police Inspector O'Neil recently found one of his favorite cows lying dead in a field with a few bullets in its head. A couple of months ago the inspector buried another cow, which was thought to have died a natural death. The other day he received an anonymous communication suggesting that if the carcass of the former cow was disinterred, the cause of death might be found in her body.

Too Busy to Wait.

Prof. Leacock of McGill, to illustrate Goldwin Smith's fund of energy, which seemed to be absolutely untiring, tells this story:
"One day when he was over eighty years of age I met him in one of the new skyscraper buildings of Toronto, about to start upstairs."
"Won't you take the elevator, Dr. Smith?" I asked.
"I haven't time to wait for it," was his reply."

Learned Late in Life.

It is never too late to learn. An octogenarian laborer who was complimented by the judge at the Holt County Court on the neatness with which he had made out an account, stated that his daughter had taught him to read and write when he was ill, a few years ago.

FULL VALUE PAID

Indians Were Not Robbed of St. Peter's Reserve.

GOOD THING FOR RED MEN

Minister of Interior Replies to Bitter Attack by George H. Bradbury in Attempt to Revive Question of Sale of Lands—Government Has Told All and Has Nothing to Conceal or Apologize For.

Ottawa, March 23.—Most of yesterday's session was spent in a discussion of the sale of St. Peter's reserve in Manitoba. George H. Bradbury (Selkirk) introduced the question and moved for a royal commission. His motion was lost on division.

Mr. Bradbury said the St. Peter's Indians had been the first to safeguard the interests of the white settlers. They were loyal to the crown during the Red River rebellion, at Fish Creek, and had piloted boats up the Nile to rescue Gen. Gordon. He described the transaction as "reeking with dishonesty," and made a plea for British justice. He argued it was not a question of politics, as the Indians had no votes.

Mr. Bradbury declared that bribery had been resorted to by the superintendent of Indian Affairs, Frank Pedery, to secure the surrender of the reserve. Only 25 of the band were present at the meeting, and after two days' active canvass, the Government managed to squeeze out nine of a majority, less than 38 per cent. of the band, who were never qualified to vote. He considered it was not a legal surrender.

Mr. Bradbury drew a vivid picture of the loyalty of this band of Indians to the British people. Yet in return for their services to the Empire, they had been thrown to the wolves by this Government. He described it as one of the most rascally transactions perpetrated by the Indian Department. The Minister was afraid to let daylight in on it.

Hon. Frank Oliver, in replying to Mr. Bradbury's charges, said that it was absurd to say that the Indians had been robbed. For a reserve of 48,000 acres they had been paid the market value at the time of the sale, and had been given another reserve containing 74,000 acres in a situation much more suitable to their requirements, both from a material and moral point of view. The Indians had agreed to the sale of the lands under specified conditions, and these conditions had been fulfilled to the letter. Before the meeting about which Mr. Bradbury had said so much, the matter of the sale of the reserve had been canvassed for weeks.

He denied that there had been any attempt made to bribe the Indians. There was no reason for an enquiry, because all the facts in connection with the sale of the reserve had been laid before the House. The Department had nothing to conceal and nothing to apologize for, and he felt entitled to ask the House to refuse to assent to the request of the member for Selkirk, on the merits of the transaction.

Mr. Oliver said that it was a good thing for the Indians that they had been removed. Contact with civilization and the white man had not been a good thing for them, and they were not as good men as they were forty years ago. They would have an opportunity of doing better in their new surroundings.

T. W. Crothers (West Elgin) supplemented his vigorous arraignment of a year ago by another attack upon the Government. He charged the administration with playing upon the instability, simplicity and improvidence of the Indian, and said that Frank Pedley, superintendent of Indian affairs, had virtually gone to the St. Peter's band showing them the $5,000 in cash, adding the words, "If you will agree to the surrender of the reserve, I will distribute this money among you." "That," said Mr. Crothers, "was in substance and in fact a bribe to those Indians."

Hon. George E. Foster said he was surprised that the Government had no disposition to reply to the charge that the surrender had not been legally executed. He declared that the officials of the Department had displayed either utter callousness to the rights of the Indians, or that there had been open-eyed knowledge that the Indian was being disposed for the benefit of the speculator.

C. J. Doherty (St. Anne's, Montreal) declared that he would have remained silent were it not that the sublime indifference of the Minister of the Interior, as whether the sale had been illegal, impelled him to enter into the discussion. The Minister had not asked the Department of Justice for a legal opinion on the question, and said Mr. Doherty it was not an exaggeration to say that Mr. Oliver had shown contempt for the rights of those Indians.

Dr. Molloy (Provencher), who closed the debate with a brief speech, quoted the price of lands in the vicinity of the Indian reserve to prove that the Indians had received full value for their property.

In reply to a question by Capt. Tom Wallace (Centre York) the House of Commons was informed yesterday that the expenditure on the Newmarket Canal for the past fiscal year had been $135,892.81, making a total expenditure to date of $459,832.76. The Government expects that the canal will be completed in 1913, and the entire cost will be in the neighborhood of $1,100,000. This excess over the preliminary estimate of $328,500 is occasioned by a change in the plans, to provide for cement works instead of wood, which had originally been intended.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower. Chicago Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 23.—Excessive dryness in the northwest, breaking the record of thirty years, gave the wheat market here a new upward turn to-day. The close was firm, 1/4c to 1/2c higher than last night. Latest trading left corn and oats either unchanged or with a slight advance. Hog products, on the other hand, finished all the way from yesterday's level to 2 1/2c decline.

Liverpool close 1/4c to 1/2c lower than yesterday on wheat, and 1/4c to 1/2c lower on corn. Buda Pest wheat was 1/4c lower, Berlin 1/4c lower, Antwerp and Paris unchanged.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, March 23.—Cables on wheat came weak, owing to weakness in Argentine and the pressure to sell Plata and India wheat, and cables covered with favorable Russian advices and general reports of liberal supplies from all points. The demand for Manitoba spring wheat was poor and bids were 3d to 4 1/2d lower. The local trade in wheat is quiet, the demand being only for small lots to fill actual wants. A steady business is passing in flour in a small way, but prices are being cut 1/2c to 3/4c per barrel in many instances. Bran and shorts are firm under a good demand.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 23.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the offerings this morning were 500 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 1800 calves. A firm feeling prevailed in the market for cattle, which was due to the fact that supplies were not so abundant as the requirements, consequently the advance in prices noted on Monday was firmly maintained. Attendance of buyers was fairly large, and as they wanted some beef to carry them over for the balance of the week, the demand for cattle was good and a more active trade was done than of late. Choice steers sold at 5 1/2c, good at 5c to 5 1/4c, by goods at 4 1/2c to 5c, fair at 4 1/4c to 5 1/4c and common at 4 1/4c to 4 3/4c per lb. Cows met with a good sale at 4 1/2c to 5 1/4c for good to choice, and 3 1/2c to 4 1/4c for the lower grades. Very few calves sold, but brought 5 1/2c to 5 3/4c, and the common ones sold from that down to 4c per lb. The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet on account of the continued small offerings and the fact that butchers' requirements are still well supplied with frozen mutton and lamb and therefore the demand at present is very keen for live stock. A few small lots of old sheep sold at 4 1/2c to 5c, and spring lambs, at $5 to $8 each. The tone of the market for hogs was firm under a good demand from packers and sales of selected lots were made at $7.40 to $7.50 per cwt., weighed off to the car. The market for calves was weak, owing to the steady increase in receipts and prices were lower at from 2 1/2c to 3c, as to size and quality.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE SEA.

Origin of Most of Them Is Wrapped In Deep Mystery.

While most sailors will stoutly deny that they hold superstitions and that the occult has no stronger hold on them than on land men, the popular belief is to the contrary. It is likely that the seaman's isolation from outside influences and the weeks and months spent aloft with only his mates for company served to foster superstitious notions in the days of sailing vessels, while the general spread of knowledge works but slowly in these occult matters, concerning which Jack is peculiarly unreasoning.

"The Finn is the most superstitious of all sailors," according to a writer in The London Globe. "There are many of this race who still believe in the ominous portent of the phantom ship, the folly of starting a voyage on a Friday (a notion by no means confined to seafaring men), the low burning blue lights which are ghost spirits hovering near to give warning of approaching disaster, and many other things, all of which.

"Fill the sailor's mind with murmurings, and speak to him of wrecks."

"A story is told of a brigantine which numbered several extremely superstitious men among her crew. One night when there was no moon and a slight ground swell was running, the watch, who happened to be the most superstitious of them all, heard an unearthly wailing coming apparently from the very surface of the sea. The mate and the helmsman also heard it, but the former lacked imagination and although he was certainly interested, he nearly blew the watch's head off when he ventured to suggest mermaids. The helmsman did not feel quite happy, but he had to stick to the wheel. The watch was pale with terror, but he kept silence owing to the mate's complimentary references to his courage and abilities. Slowly the sound began to move along the ship's side, becoming more and more agonized as it approached. This annoyed the mate, and going to the side of the vessel he waited until he had located the sound and then emptied a bucket of water over the rail. There was a gasp, and then dead silence, and nothing more was heard that night.

"When the watch went off duty he, of course, gave a detailed and lurid account of the incident to his shipmates, who listened, as he thought in awed silence, and then called on one of the audience for his version of the matter. This man, a Tyne-sider, who dearly loved a joke and had no respect at all for hoary superstitions, had conspired with his fellows to play a trick on the watch. On the night in question he

He Murders One Woodsman and Wounds Two Others.

POLICE SLOW IN STARTING

Port Arthur, March 23.—To get possession of three woodmen's time checks, a man, whose name is not yet known to the authorities, held up a party of three woodmen, all Finlanders, on their way out from the Pigeon River Lumber Co.'s camp, near Silver Mountain, killing one of them and very seriously wounding the others, using a revolver as a weapon.

The men were on the road leading from the camp to a railroad, intending to take the train to Port Arthur, when they were met by a stranger, who offered to direct them to the railway by a short-cut. His offer was accepted, and at a convenient moment the stranger opened fire on the three, killing one and incapacitating the others. He took their time checks, which are of no value to him because he cannot cash them. The revolver was not his only weapon. The murderer also used a hunting knife freely.

One man has nine cuts about his body. Leaving his victims to their sufferings, the assailant made off. The two laid out, wounded and bleeding, beside the dead body of their companion all night and yesterday, managed to reach the railway and get the news sent to Silver Mountain, whence it was forwarded to Port Arthur. Provincial Constable Simons left for the scene yesterday afternoon, but will not in any case be able to get on the track of the fleeing murderer before this afternoon.

Farmers Want Help

Toronto, March 23.—The shortage of farm help for Ontario is greater this year than ever. A great number of farmers are coming into the city in search of recruits from among the new arrivals from the old country, but for one that has his quest gratified, there are dozens that will not obtain even one man. Many are under the impression that the majority of the new-comers arrive here with no set idea of how or where they are to obtain employment, while the truth is that nearly everyone who comes knows exactly what he is going to do before he leaves the old country.

The wages being offered are not very high. An experienced man of ordinary physique will be offered from $12 to $15 per month and board, while one who can plow, milk, and in every other way fulfill the duties required of him can get from $25 to $35.

Ashamed of Themselves.

Montreal, March 23.—An official apology from the student body of McGill will probably be tendered to Hon. Mr. Stifton for the indignities to which he was subjected on Monday night by the rowdy element of the undergraduates. A memorial is being circulated in the university and largely signed.

Civil actions for damages amounting to $1,400, including the cost of the carriage that was burned, may also add to the discomfort of the students, and somebody will have to pay. About a dozen students will be made the defendants, it is stated.

Object to the Smoke.

TO REFUSE TERMS.

Roblin Will Not Accept Sir Wilfrid's Offer.

Winnipeg, March 23.—The Manitoba Government will refuse the offer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for a settlement of the boundary question and will insist upon equality with other provinces of the Confederation. The Government's stand was set forth in a resolution, notice of which was given by the Premier yesterday afternoon and which will be moved to-day, when a big debate, practically the winding up of the session, is expected. The resolution sets forth that Manitoba is willing to consider each claim of all public lands, minerals, etc., such as Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario have, or financial and other considerations of a character similar to those given or to be given to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The resolution is prefaced by a preamble which points out that at the time of the passage of the British North America Act, it was clearly the spirit and intention of the framers that all of the provinces should be dealt with on the basis of equality. It also observes that Manitoba has not since its confederation received fair treatment at the hands of the Federal authorities, and at the present time occupies a position of gross inequality with the provinces to the east and the new provinces to the west. It is also pointed out that for forty years Manitoba has been endeavoring to obtain relief, but without success.

N. Y. Smuggler Sentenced.

New York, March 23.—Alexander Hollander, sole member of the firm of Alex. Hollander & Co., customs brokers, pleaded guilty in the U. S. Circuit Court yesterday afternoon to a charge of forgery in connection with customs frauds aggregating $500,000. He was arrested in Naples last July and after a long fight was brought back to this city in December.

Hollander was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment in the federal prison at Atlanta.

The first specific charge against him was based on a customs entry of an automobile for Henry Clews, the banker. Hollander, as customs broker, entered the machine at the customs at a valuation of $850, but charged Mr. Clews duty on $1,550. An examination showed that Hollander had been doing business in the same way for years among his clients being J. P. Morgan, Andrew Carnegie, and other millionaires, for whom he acted as agent in the importation of various objects of art. Hollander was a member of exclusive clubs, and lived among the wealthy. He is a good musician, a connoisseur in art, and was a patron of the art clubs.

Smuggling by Aeroplanes.

Geneva, March 23.—The first attempt to use the aeroplane for smuggling will likely result in the death of an Italian aviator named Smergolio. He is in Geneva Hospital to-day with both legs and his collarbone broken, and suffering from exposure to the cold.

Smergolio came to grief on Tuesday while flying over Mount Cenis, with a cargo of dutiable goods, which he was attempting to bring in from Italy. His machine fell and was wrecked. Terribly injured Smergolio lay all night in the snow, and was found yesterday by custom officers nearly dead from cold.

Scheme of Moderate Reform.

London, March 23.—Lord Selborne made a notable speech in Glasgow Tuesday night on the reform of the House of Lords, in which he outlined the plans of the Unionist party for making the Upper Chamber a more effective assembly and one which will represent more adequately the feeling of the electorate.

He strongly advocated a scheme for moderate reform, coupled with a conference between the two Houses in the event of a disagreement and the referendum as a reserve for occasions.

SESSION IS FINISHED

Ontario Legislature Ends Its Business For the Year.

BI-LINGUALISM DISCUSSED

Resolution Is Amended and Passed Unanimously After a Brief Debate—Nothing Can Be Done Until Inspector Reports on the Situation—Ownership of Navigable Streams Given Third Reading

Toronto, March 23.—With "three cheers and a tiger" for the King, the Ontario Legislature closed its legislative session at seven o'clock last night. Sir James Whitney led the cheering. The afternoon was one of the most strenuous in the history of the Assembly. The formal prorogation will be held on Friday afternoon.

Bi-lingual schools were discussed for a brief but spirited few minutes, when G. H. Ferguson (Con., Grenville), introduced an amendment to his original notice of motion, "That in the opinion of this House no language other than the English language, should be used as a medium of instruction in the schools of the province."

The amendment read: "That the English language shall be the language of instruction and communication of the pupils of the public and separate schools, except where, in the opinion of the Department of Education it is found impracticable because the pupil does not understand English."

The question of bi-lingual schools, he said, was a subject that loomed large in the destiny of the country. It had had a wide discussion and much publicity, and as the House was familiar with it, he did not propose to go into it at length. The brevity of his original resolution was its only weakness. His sole object was to better the facilities for diffusing the English language throughout the country.

He wouldn't say that the abuses that were reported could be obliterated in one fell swoop, but they could be gradually got rid of without disadvantage to the country at large.

Premier Whitney pointed out to the House that the amendment was in the exact words of the statute law of the land, and, strange as it might seem to some people, there was no such real entity in the province as a bi-lingual school.

People outside the Legislature and reckless journalists were apt to confuse the question of the study of the French language with the legalization of the French language as a means of communication. They were as far apart as the north and south poles.

"The position of the Government is and will be," said the Premier, "to stand by that mandate. Whenever it is found impracticable to carry out the provisions of the first part, the latter part shall be applied. We take our stand upon it and are prepared to stand or fall by it."

"The chief inspector of the province has made a thorough and complete examination into the situation, and we can't say what we will do till we can learn from him what the situation is. If we find that any abuses have occurred, this Government will take steps to abolish them. In other words, the Government pledges itself to stand by the provisions of the statute."

The amended resolution carried unanimously. Hon. Frank Cochrane moved the House into committee on the bill for the protection of public interests in the bed of navigable waters.

W. Proudfoot said the bill was revolutionary in asserting public ownership of the streams.

Hon. A. G. MacKay: "It was always understood the other way, that the water was considered the same as land."

Hon. J. J. Foy pointed out that the critics of the bill assumed that the general opinion in Canada had been that the possession of land gave proprietary rights to the centre of navigable waters. This was not the case. Where purchases had been made in such an assumption, the claims involved were protected by the bill. The bill was reported and given its third reading.

Some Negroes Are Barred.

Winnipeg, Man., March 23.—A party of 170 negroes with seven carloads of goods from the Southern States arrived at Emerson, Man., yesterday and passed an examination as to their fitness for becoming residents of Canada.

Those in the party appeared to be in good physical condition, except the men in charge of the cars of household goods. Those were rejected. The men of the party declared that unless all were passed the entire party would return to the United States.

Had to Live on Sago Roots.

Melbourne, Australia, March 23.—Seventeen native policemen, members of the party that accompanied Stanforth Smith, British administrator of Papua, or New Guinea, on his exploring expedition into the interior of the great island, were drowned from rafts in the Strickland River.

The expedition cut its way through 300 miles of dense jungle, and for five days was without food or fire, the explorers' sole sustenance for many days being sago roots. Valuable discoveries were made.

Forged Officers' Names.

Heavy Snowfall at Montreal.

Montreal, March 23.—Montreal was yesterday in the grip of one of the heaviest snow storms of the season. Fully seven inches of snow have fallen already.

THE DOCTORS' QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

The doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98% of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Remedy Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. I am so certain of their great curative value that I promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Remedy Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c. and 10c. Sold only at my store—The Rexall Store. H. W. Mitchell, Phm. B.

Pat's Retort

A one-legged Welsh orator named Jones was pretty successful in battering an Irishman, when the latter asked him:

"How did you come to lose your leg?"

"Well," said Jones, "on examining my pedigree and looking up my descent I found there was some Irish blood in me and, becoming convinced that it was settled in the left leg, I had it cut off at once."

"By the powers," said Pat, "it would have been a very good thing if it had only settled in your head."

STILL IN THE RING.—"I hear your engagement with young Gotrox has been broken off," said the first fair daughter of Eve. "Well, you are entitled to another hearing," rejoined fair daughter No. 2 as she held up a graceful hand on which a solitaire sparkled. "You can see for yourself that I am still in the ring."

ORIGIN OF THE SAW.—According to Apollodorus, the invention of the saw came about in the following way: Talus, so the account goes, having found the jawbone of a huge snake, used it to cut through a piece of wood and, finding that it worked so well, formed an instrument of iron similar to it. The first sawmill concerning which we have any clear knowledge was erected on the island of Madiera somewhere about the year 1400. A few years later one was built at Breslau. There were no sawmills in England prior to 1663. In that year one was built there by a Dutchman, but he was forced to abandon it. Sawmills were erected near London about 1770.
