

Oil Company Can Erect a Retaining Wall on Own Property

Question Comes in For Considerable Discussion at Council Meeting—Councillor J. A. R. Elliott Wants Company to Assume the Liability—Contractor Gibson Thinks Wall Would Prove a Benefit.

The proposed erection of a cement retaining wall to be erected at the western side of the property recently acquired by the British American Oil Company at the corner of Mill and Walton street, was brought to the attention of the Port Hope Municipal Council at their regular bi-weekly session at the Town Hall on Monday evening. In the opinion of D. H. Chisholm, K.C., as a rate payer of the town, the company is privileged to erect a wall on their own property and there would be no power to prevent them from so doing.

This question was expected to come in for considerable discussion at the meeting and at 8.55, after Mayor Edmunds stated that there was no further business before the

MARCH 27, 1908

A Jolly Time

About forty Englishmen of Port Hope and Cobourg held a large banquet at the American Hotel last evening and a very enjoyable time was spent. The new proprietor Mr. Walter Couchman, provided a sumptuous spread and did everything to make the affair a pleasant one.

It is only fair for the company to bear the liability. In 1910, the Jordan people asked for a retaining wall, but were refused. If the wall now goes up, we will lose the flooding privileges which we now enjoy. We give up an easement which we have exercised for forty-five years and hand it over to the company.

"Is it fair to the citizens?" asked Councillor Elliott. "Liability is what I'm asking for! The matter should be taken up with the solicitor and looked into. The town should not be saddled with everything."

Mayor Edmunds told that this question was put up to the representatives when they conferred with the council a short time ago, and as it is a point of law, it would have to be decided upon later.

His Worship thought that the deepening of the stream would assist matters and the corner had the tendency to hold the water. If the wall was constructed it would catch the water and turn it down the creek.

Councillor Elliott—The width of the creek can't take care of the water now. It doesn't seem fair for the company to be coming in and the town assuming the liability. Reeve Giddy—If there is any legal advice the town can get, we are entitled to have it. In discussing the matter with Mr. Parsons, he agreed to round the corner and run it to Mill street and guarantee there would be no flow on to Mill street. The question is: Can we stop them building or not?

Beneficial Wall

W. G. Gibson, who was in the gallery, and who has the contract for the erection of the wall, was asked to come forward and relate his views on the subject. Mr. Gibson stated, in his opinion, the wall will be a benefit. It would direct the water more quickly to the channel and it would go through more quickly. If the wall was erected as far back as Brogden's Lane, it would be high enough to prevent any water from flowing onto Mill street.

Deputy-Reeve Rosevear thought that the building would be an improvement in that section and voiced the opinion that the extra money obtained from taxes might be used to deepen the channel.

Town Solicitor D. H. Chisholm was called upon to discuss the subject, but told that he could only appear before the board as a ratepayer, as he had acted for the British American Oil Company in the purchase of the building at the present site.

In his opinion as a ratepayer, no legal points were involved and that the rights of the oil company were the same as that of any person who applied for a permit to build on their own property within the provisions of the fire bylaws.

Mr. Chisholm thought that the water in flood time, would be directed by the course of the stream, and not form an eddy in the corner of the present Jordan block, but would be forced down the creek.

Mr. Chisholm disliked to express an opinion of the "easement" mentioned by Councillor Elliott, and was afraid that the word would not go very far in a court of justice.

Sewerage Question

At a recent joint meeting of the council and the governing body of Trinity College School, a questionnaire was submitted to the board and two sections came in for discussion.

Councillor Mitchell—The T.C.S. body want to know if the council is willing to assist in procuring the necessary sewerage and if the sewers are able to accommodate them.

WASHOUT OCCURS NEAR BETHANY

Special Ballast Train Was Called To Repair the Damage.

Railways are having their share of troubles as a result of the spring floods. On Sunday extra gangs of men from Lindsay were called out to grapple with a washout that occurred on the C.P.R. near Bethany.

There were no trains over the line Sunday to impede the work and as a consequence the danger spot was patched up in time to permit traffic Monday.

Before the damage could be repaired it was necessary to call a special train from Toronto with cinders to pack in between the ties where the swirling waters had washed away the ballast.

Trouble was also experienced at various points on other lines. The ditches and swamps are filled with waters and fields are flooded in low lying places for miles.

MRS. THOS CRIBBEN BURIED HERE

Former Port Hoper Died In Ottawa After Lengthy Illness

Mrs. Thomas Cribben, after a lengthy illness, passed into rest at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. J. J. McDonald, Ottawa, on Saturday afternoon and was buried here this morning.

Mrs. Cribben's maiden name was Ellen Driscoll. She was born in Port Hope seventy years ago, and was very well known here, having resided in Port Hope, until she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. J. J. McDonald of Ottawa about twelve years ago.

Mr. Cribben predeceased her by about twenty seven years. She is survived by her brother, Mr. D. Driscoll, her daughter Nellie, and four grandsons.

The funeral left the residence of her brother, Dennis Driscoll, Alexander street, to The Church of Our Lady of Mercy where Requiem Mass was conducted, after which her remains were laid to rest in the local Catholic Cemetery.

The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: Messrs. T. J. McMahon, P. Roach, B. Fallon, T. J. O'Neill, Martin Curran and Joseph Cook.

SAYS PRISONERS HAVE PRIVILEGES

Hon. Ernest Lapointe Outlines Methods in Canadian Institutions

In answer to a series of questions asked by A. E. Bougeois, Liberal member for Keeweenaw, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, related the rules and regulations affecting prisoners in the penitentiaries in Canada as follows:

1—Prisoners are permitted to receive and despatch letters to and from relatives, and, if special circumstance require it, to and from friends.

2—Inmates are permitted to receive all proper letters and to write one social letter to relatives each month. Prisoners are also permitted to write all necessary letters to transact bona fide business and should necessity arise, permission is granted to write "special letters."

3—No regulations were in effect prohibiting correspondence by a prisoner until after the expiration of any special time following the beginning of his confinement.

4—Inmates working on farms or at such outside employment are not given exercise. Instructions call for all other prisoners employed in buildings, shops, etc., to have 15 minutes' outside exercise each forenoon and afternoon—a total of 30 minutes per day.

TRIMMERS STRIKE IN OSHAWA PLANT

General Motors Manager Declares Vacancies Can Be Filled Easily—Sees Radical Influence

With about three hundred trimmers, employees of General Motors of Canada, Limited, out on strike, and as many more out of work as a result of the strike, no steps have yet been taken in regard to a settlement. The trimmers, at a mass meeting in the skating rink Monday afternoon, decided not to return to work until the old scale of wages was put into effect. The cut against which the men are protesting is said to be between 30 to 40 per cent. On the other hand, the management, according to a statement issued by H. A. Brown, General Manager, are prepared to fill the vacancies should the men not return at the lower scale. Mr. Brown declares that the production will be very little affected. The executive of the employees' association through which the men may present their complaints to the management, held a meeting Monday night and it is understood that a report will be presented to a mass meeting. The other branches particularly of departments.

The Manager's Statement

The General Manager's statement is brief, but defines clearly the company's attitude toward the situation. Mr. Brown said, in part:

"We have in existence in our plant an employee's association. Representatives from every department of the plant are elected to this association by popular vote. The purpose of the association was to deal with all grievances and complaints, also with all welfare work, including athletics and so forth. The elected representatives of this association number approximately eighty, and the governing body is the Board of Directors which is elected from the group of representatives.

"The present difficulty with the trimmers has been given consideration by the executive of the employees' association and action of the management has been upheld, consequently the action taken on the part of the trimmers caused the management of the General Motors of Canada to consider each and every one as released from our employ, and, instead of dealing collectively with the trimmers, each case will be dealt with individually.

"The management of General Motors of Canada has always shown a very keen interest in the welfare of the employees, and has, in all cases, paid a fair wage; in fact, prices paid to trimmers in this division has been in the past in excess of the rates in the United States divisions of this corporation.

"We also appreciate that many of these men are permanent citizens of Oshawa and own their own homes, and have been unduly influenced by a small group who have rather radical ideas, and for that reason our personal service will be equitable as possible with individual cases.

"Due to the present condition of the labor market in Canada, we will have little, if any, difficulty in filling the positions vacated and if none of the trimmers return our production for the current months will be little, if any, affected."

THINK DYNAMITE THEORY WRONG

No Sign of St. Francis Dam Being Blasted—Sheriff Has Made Careful Investigations

If a charge of dynamite shattered the St. Francis dam and started its waters on their race of death and destruction to the sea, the blast left no evidence of itself behind so far as sheriff's officers have been able to determine.

This was the declaration Friday night, of Sheriff Harry Wright, head of the criminal investigation department of the sheriff's office.

Home brew mash was blamed for blocking of sewers in Manitowoc, Wis.

Second Rampage of Ganeraska Results in Heavy Damage

Stores on Ontario Street Flooded and Heavy Damage Occurred at Ontario Hotel—The Cellars on North Side of Walton Street Suffered From Water Damage.

The river Ganeraska, swelled by Monday's torrential rains again went on a spree and the turbulent waters did more damage than in Sunday's early morning flood. Many cellars in the downtown districts were flooded and heavy damage occurred in other sections.

About ten o'clock Monday evening the waters gradually began to rise and at two o'clock this morning the river was considerably enlarged by the water collected from the back country.

The brick cottage occupied by T. Roberts, situated just west of the tracks, again was marooned and its occupant forced to flee. The water was somewhat higher than on Sunday morning and practically reached the same height as in 1921 when the embankment at Beamish's pond gave way under the weight of ice and water.

Ontario Hotel Suffers

The Ontario Hotel, after being renovated after Sunday's deluge again suffered heavily. The livery yards and stables were completely inundated and tons of water poured onto the main floor. The dining room and manager's office and kitchen suffered heavily from water damage.

The ballast on the tracks of the Midland Railway Division just north of the Ontario Street bridge was washed away to the extent of fifty yards but a relief train brought car loads of cinders to fill in the holes early this morning. The filling between the rails on the paved section of Ontario Street was also washed away to the depth of several inches. Fields of ice and heavy stumps lodged on Ontario Street and at nine o'clock this morning deep pools of water remained. All the stores on Ontario Street were flooded to capacity and the merchants not anticipating a second flood, suffered heavily.

The stores on the north side of Walton Street from J. L. Westaway's to the foot of the street suffered more or less. On the south side of Walton Street the stores of Geo. J. Gould and I. S. Margles came in for their share of the water. The premises of Wm. Yeomans and T. J. McMahon escaped water damage as the boards in the wooden sidewalk immediately in front of the stores were removed early this morning and the water was allowed to escape into the creek beneath.

Saw Mill Damaged

The mill situated on Ontario St., operated by John Marshall, experienced damage as a result of overflow of the Ganeraska. Heavy streams of water poured through the mill yard and it is thought that a small quantity of lumber was washed away. The saw mill, which was somewhat damaged on Sunday, was completely wiped out this morning and only parts of the machinery are left.

The beer warehouse at the foot of Walton Street came in for its share of the flood waters and the cellar was completely inundated. The veterinary office of Dr. J. N. Johnston on Ontario Street was also blocked with ice and wood.

Employees of the Nicholson File Company worked the entire night in an effort to relieve the situation by preventing water from going into the factory and allowing an easier means of escape. Today a number of employees are off work. The heavy chunks of ice smashed the chain supports on one side of the set of stop logs and the only alternative was to raise the logs and let the swift current carry them downstream where they will later be collected along the banks. A portion of the railway embankment near the plant was washed away.

The Barrett Street mill shared badly and traffic was blocked in that section this morning. A portion of the heavy iron railing was washed away by force of the water and ice. Residences on the west side of Cavan street were flooded to some extent.

Cavan Street Blocked

Cavan Street, just north of the Hydro sub station is impassable for traffic as portions of the gravel road were swept away and cakes of ice are piled several feet high. The wooden bridge spanning the creek near the Ontario College of Art was badly damaged.

For some time past it has been discussed in certain quarters the feasibility of erecting a new bridge in order to straighten out the road and it is thought the present would be opportune to consider the project.

The county road leading to Canton is in fair condition but certain spots are somewhat soggy owing to numerous washouts. The central pier at the dam near Muir's mill was washed away, carrying the stop logs with it. The low lying country in that district was flooded and piled high with ice. The rustic bridge at the bend near the residence of W. H. P. Jarvis has had its underpinning demolished and being unsafe for traffic is blocked. The Dale-Walcome road is in fair shape. All the concessions wooden bridges between Canton and Kendal are reported to be wiped out.

Numerous residents of Port Hope stayed up during the early night watching the progress of the flood. Late last night a good sized muskrat, driven from its winter home by the waters was noticed on Walton Street by R. Goodman who effected its capture. Today the waters of the creek have receded and the lowering of the waters early this morning was due, somewhat to the drop in temperature.

KEEP U.S. AUTOS OUT OF EUROPE

The Paris Herald Thursday said a huge European automobile cartel is being organized to keep American automobile makers out of the continental markets.

Italians are the prime movers in the project. They will broach it at a meeting of the leading automobile manufacturers of the world, to be held in Paris in May. They will propose putting American cars on a quota basis in the European market and will ask American manufacturers who will be represented to agree voluntarily to the proposal.

MONARCHS TAKE FINAL

The Memorial Cup goes West! After making a real hockey game of it for 55 minutes last night, Gunners cracked in the dying seconds of the all important titular match, and allowed Regina Monarchs to run in four goals in five minutes and make the final score read: Monarchs 7, Gunners 1. Thus the worthy young hockeyists from the Saskatchewan bear west with them the Memorial Cup, emblematic of the junior hockey championship of the Dominion of Canada.

The big ice surface proved very much to the westerners' liking, and enabled them to repeat their triumph of last Wednesday night, when they out dashed and out skated the slower Ottawa team in to defeat. Gunners, good as they are at back checking and stick handling, had no way of coping either offensively or defensively with the flashing skaters from Regina, and could only hold on as best they could. True, they should have had more goals but there is a wide world of difference between what teams do have and what they should have, and conditional verbs never won any team a championship; goals do.

As a hockey match it was inferior to the first two games. But it looked as if the cup might be either team's until Regina got its third goal half way through the second period. Even then optimistic Ottawa supporters believed that the Gunners could cut down a two goal lead. The collapse of McInenly, however, after an accident down near his own goal, totally eclipsed any chances his team had of winning and with Murphy on the ramparts and with only one sub. left to give the other players a breather, the Gunners could only hold on as best they could. With McInenly off the defense the team might be likened to a man astride a rearing broncho trying to hold on to his hat and the reins at the same time. The Westerners finally threw the Gunners over.

ALLAN CUP THIRD GAME

Manitoba University poured a shower of goals in the net of the Montreal Victorias in the third period of a nerve wracking game at Ottawa last night to force the Allan Cup final series to go into a third game. The students turned a withering bombardment on the Vic citadel to score four goals in the closing frame and forge to the front to defeat their Eastern opponents 6 to 3. Blake Watson, curly topped left winger for the Westerners, rose to the heights to count three times in the last 12 minutes of the contest.

The final game for the trophy and the title of Canadian senior amateur champions will be fought at Ottawa Wednesday night, with Winnipeg decided favorites on the strength of their closing rush that brought them victory.

It was a vastly different team that skated out against the Montreal crew from that which went down to a 2 to 0 trouncing before the Easterners in the first contest Saturday.

Baseball

3 NEW ARRIVALS

There was a new development in the Jacobson situation Monday. Even if the old timer is beginning to realize the error of his ways, and also that it takes two to make a fight,

Bill O'Hara has no wish to get tangled up with the hold out outfielder and has studiously refrained from entering into any controversy with him. He named his terms early in the winter and when Jacobson sent back his contract unsigned, accompanied by the comment that he thought he was worth more than the figures contained in his indentures, he let it go at that.

Monday Jake wired that he would accept a cut, but not of the dimension stipulated in the document presented for his approval. He asked for a salary and bonus conditional on his batting .310. The terms he suggests come close to the emoluments he drew down but did not earn last season. He also asked what price the Toronto club would be willing to take for his release. The club was forwarded to President Solman and the owner of the Leafs will have to deal with the matter.

Jacobson is a good ball player when he cares to be, but he was not that in 1927. He did little more than go through the motions for the Leafs, and Manager O'Hara did not hesitate to "tell him where he got off." With the material at present in camp Jacobson can easily be spared. Sexton, on what he has shown the last few days, lacks only the experience to fill the gap in the outfield. He is young and ambitious and Schepner, manager of the Albany Southern League club, would only be too well pleased to take him on option. He made a proposition of that sort but was turned down cold. Schepner is also smitten with the style of Whitehouse, who has been clubbing the ball "far wide and handsome" in the exhibition games, but the bulky youth will likely be placed with some Class AA club if he is disposed of at all.

Three recent arrivals, Rip Collins, Sheedy and Rabbitt were in uniform Monday and the latter, who is more in an advanced condition than the others, immediately got into the game, and featured with a rattling catch and throw for a double play at second base.

He also exhibited a lively sprint when he raced to third on a line drive to right that at the best should have been good only for a double. He is another Archdeacon in style and speed but apparently a harder hitter than the Baltimore flash. He made his smack off John Prudhomme, and followed it with a liner to the box which the long twirler caught in self defense. He promises to be a decided acquisition to the Leafs and to the league.

Sheedy put in a fine day's work, and it won't be long before he will be able to take his regular place in left field. Rabbitt played center and covered plenty of territory.

fore the New York State Athletic Commission considers the case of champion Gene Tunney and the sturdy seven who filed challenges for his heavyweight title, Rickard Monday swung the club he hopes will beat his contenders into line. Through Matchmaker Jess McMahon, the Madison Square Garden promoter, ordered Tom Heeneey to agree to a match with John Risko or lose whatever chance he has of meeting Tunney for the championship.

McMahon informed Charlie Harvey, manager of the New Zealand blacksmith, that unless Heeneey accepts the match today, Risko will be named as Tunney's challenger. The Cleveland baker boy tentatively has agreed to a contract that will guarantee him a title shot in the event that he wins one more bout. With Heeneey out of the picture, Risko probably would be called on to eliminate Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight, who has not yet been defeated, his full quota in tournament engagements.

ACTION IS EXPLAINED

Offered Good Offices in Settling Question of Attendance at Queen's

In another brief statement about the students' 24-hour strike which terminated Friday morning, the Senate of Queen's University says it wishes it emphasized that R. O. Sweezy of Montreal spoke to the mass meeting without either its knowledge or its authority.

"The university authorities feel," the statement continues, "that Mr. Sweezy may not have appreciated the real issue which is whether the university has any jurisdiction over students off the university grounds. On this matter the university authorities have definitely pronounced themselves.

"It is not contemplated that any difficulty will arise over the matter of attendance."

Mr. Sweezy states that his promises to the students did not go beyond the offer of his good offices in adjusting the matter of attendance during the strike, which he believed to be the only issue remaining between the Senate and the students, and he was confident of the fairness of the Senate that he felt justified in giving assurances that this would be satisfactorily settled, which appears to be justified by the last sentence of the Senate statement.

HAIRDRESSERS O.K. BOB A NECESSITY

So Many Out Of Jobs They Need To Look Younger To Get Work

Bobbed hair is going to be with us again this coming year, and girls, you'd never guess the reason. It's the unemployment situation, says Miss Alice S. Ryan, secretary of the American Master Hairdressers' Association, in its three day ninth annual convention at New York.

"So many women are out of work," said Miss Ryan. "They come to us and tell us that employers simply won't give them jobs because they look too old. They beg us to make them look younger.

"Bobbed hair does make one look younger.

"It's for economic reasons that we endorse the bob."

"Yes," put in Leon Pollack, the convention's director of public relations. "And besides, a woman has to have her hair bobbed every two weeks at least, and when she's once in the beauty parlor you can sell her a lot of other beauty culture."

Miss Ryan disregarded him and went right on:

"We are helping the unemployment situation among the men, too, by making them look younger with toupées and dyed hair."

At any rate, bobbed hair, at so much per bob, and rippling hair, at so much per ripple is the hairdresser's dictum.

The new curls, moreover, are not to be achieved with the aid of a set of ten cent store combs and the bathroom mirror. It takes a master of artistry.

Among the models, one little girl had a little curl at regular spaces all around her forehead. This effect has been christened the "Palm Beach swirl." Another is the "American beauty," with a fluff of tousled ringlets, typical of the new feminine note which has succeeded the boyish effect.

The hairdressers also advocate a longer and almost unshingled hairline in the back, and the complete hibernation of the ears.

They further have emphasized their noble purpose by issuing a "manifesto" and a challenge.

They offer $5,000 to any beauty who can prove she got that way without the aid of beauty culture. George White of the Scandals, and Charles Neesler, inventor of the permanent wave, will pass on her claim.

To be well groomed—not for aesthetic but for purely economic reasons—a woman must spend, said Miss Ryan, at least $1 every day.

DIRTY EGGS ARE HURTFUL TO TRADE

That one of the most aggravating problems confronting the egg trade at the present time is the far too frequent marketing of dirty eggs, is the opinion of Mr. W. A. Brown, Chief of the Poultry Division of the Dominion Live Stock Branch. Farmers should realize, states Mr. Brown, that they can do much towards improving the egg industry by taking steps to prevent the production and marketing of dirty eggs and by discontinuing the very undesirable practice of washing eggs before marketing.

Under any circumstances, it is inevitable that a few slightly dirty or stained eggs will appear. But the farmer who consistently produces and markets large numbers of dirty eggs surely does not realize the bad effect of this practice on his market. These eggs are unpopular with consumers and in many cities it is almost impossible to sell at any price. Washed eggs are even more dangerous to the poultry industry than dirty ones. Washing destroys the natural protective bloom of the egg shell and the shell being damp, mould spores often enter causing the egg to become unfit for food.

At the same time it is not difficult to prevent the production of dirty eggs. What is needed is an abundance of clean litter on the floor, plenty of nests and frequent gathering of the eggs.

HANDWRITING A QUALIFICATION

English Employers Said to Submit Applicants' Penmanship to Experts

Before engaging employees many business men, a London Daily Mail reporter was told, now send specimens of the applicants' handwriting to an expert in graphology for his opinion of the writers' probity and abilities.

"It is very valuable to a business man to be told whether an applicant is indolent, slovenly, inefficient or dishonest," said a director of a London company.

A handwriting expert explained that he magnifies handwriting 8 times for ordinary investigation, but if there is something really wrong with the applicant, he may magnify the indication 125 times.

He showed the writing of a girl who had been convicted of stealing in a drapery firm. To the naked eye it looked frank, clear writing, but under the microscope it was easy to see how the letters had been "touched up"—one of the symptoms of mendacity.

The writer, he said, is half-conscious that she has written something that might prove her ambiguity and returns to her work and attempts to efface the trace by correcting it.

No two people, the expert declared, have the same characteristics in their writing. But no characteristics always tell the same thing, for it depends on whether the writing is slow or fast. If it's are not crossed in quick writing it means nothing, but if in slow writing it indicates superficiality.

TREE PLANTING IS IMPORTANT

Government Hopes to Reduce Waste to Minimum—Pulpwood Demand Continues to Show Increase

There is no general agreement among foresters as to the length of time before the supply of wood gives out. The large areas in the north cannot be surveyed accurately enough to determine the number of cords of pulpwood or the number of thousand feet of lumber. National reforestation is considered to play a very small part in adding to the supplies of timber, though with approved methods it is possible that renewal will do much to offset the yearly cutting. In the case of spruces it is predicted that there will be a shortage before new crops can be raised though even here regulated cutting methods will likely be enforced before many years and help to balance the situation.

Demand for pulpwood has grown by leaps and bounds and were it not that other trees than the spruce and balsam are being utilized the danger point would have been reached some time ago. The pulpwood commission reporting in 1923 stated that the total stand of trees in Canada suitable for pulp is 1,400,000,000 cords including jack pine, lodgepole pine and poplar. The total for sawn timber is 441 billion feet of softwoods and 42 billion feet hardwood. Annual consumption and losses by fire and insects are estimated at 50 million cords. Following out this calculation it is seen that there is only about 25 years' supply left. Conservation policies adopted by the Dominion and the provincial governments give grounds for hope that waste will be reduced to a minimum and that replanting will be carried out as far as practicable. A wood famine is a calamity that is to be carefully guarded against.

WHEN FATHER WAS A BOY

My father sometimes likes to tell how when he was a boy, That chopping kindling wood was fun and milking such a joy; And how he'd hustle home from school as fast as he could run, And never think of playing till every chore was done.

He says he thought it was a treat to pick the plums and cherries, And even tries to make believe he liked to stem gooseberries! But when he's telling of the time when he was just a "kid," And what a busy one he was and all the work he did—

My grandpa, he just sits and smiles, but never says a word! About what father's telling, as if he hadn't heard; But I'll bet you 'most anything you'd mention, like as not Grandpa remembers many things that father's just forgot!

Air liners, which will span the world in a hundred hours before very long, are predicted by Thomas H. Sinley, inventor of the Sinley motor.

There is a possibility of seven separate buildings being erected and is the present system from the junior school adequate enough to handle the sewage from the other buildings?

Mayor Edmunds—Town Engineer Ferguson said, No, but figures carrying it down College street to Elgin street.

Reeve Giddy—There are three sewers, one on Ward street, one on College street and the other on Croft street, and if they cannot get enough sewerage, it's a funny thing to me.

Deputy Reeve Rosevear—I think it would be well to wait and see what the college authorities are going to do.

Mayor Edmunds—I think it depends a great what they do, to what extent we help them.

Finally it was moved by Reeve Giddy, seconded by Councillor Mitchell that the matter be left in the hands of the Street and Bridge Committee.

It is generally agreed that, if possible, in the event of rebuilding the Senior School, in order to allow of elasticity in the design of these buildings, the diversion of the road running to the south of the old building is very desirable, and this suggestion present several advantages, viz:—

1. The new school buildings could be sited to the best advantage on a commanding position and so greatly add to the picturesque surroundings of the town.

2. The road would be distinctly improved as the new suggested route would be along the foot of the hill, and the present steep gradients over the hill would be thus avoided.

The assistance of the Port Hope Council is asked in this matter, both as regards approaching the County authorities and to facilitate this proposal in any way they can.

The above statements were included in the questionnaire given to the council.

Councillor Sinnott—I don't think Ward street should be closed. I don't see any need to close it and it really isn't necessary.

Deputy Reeve Rosevear—People have travelled Ward street for years and there would be considerable expense to open another road around the park.

As the land east of the park is in Hope Township, and the township council would have to be consulted, it was moved by Councillor Mitchell and seconded by Councillor Hewson that a conference be held with Hope Township Council regarding the closing of Ward street and the proposed new road.

To Buy Grader

It was moved by Councillor Sinnott, seconded by Councillor Elliott, that the council purchase a No. 34 grader from the J. F. Adams Co., at a price of $660.00.

To Repair Roller

The steam roller will have to be sent away for repairs to the Waterloo Engine Company of Brantford, and a motion to this effect was moved by Councillor Sinnott, seconded by Councillor Hewson.

Mr. Sinnott advised that a representative advised that the engine be sent to the factory as there was no place in Port Hope where satisfactory boiler repairs could be made. The steam mogul would be completely overhauled and the estimated amount of expenditure would be sent the council before the work was commenced.

Asked For Increase

Bert Fulford addressed the council on behalf of the teamsters conveying gravel to the eastern part of the town and asked that their remuneration be increased from $5 to $6 per day.

Thank Hospital

The clerk was instructed to convey to the officers and members of the Port Hope Hospital Trust an expression of appreciation for the very kind and hospitable manner in which the members of the Town Council were entertained at the hospital on Wednesday afternoon last.

To Prepare Affidavit

A resolution requesting that an affidavit be prepared to be served on the Township of Hope in accordance with Chap. 32, an act to amend the Division Court Act, 1927, was carried. It was sponsored by Councillor Mitchell and seconded by Councillor Hewson.

Appointment Asked

A resolution which was passed at the last meeting of the Port Hope Board of Health, requesting the appointment of Allan Meadows of Dale, was read.

Thanked Outside Brigades

The following resolution was moved by Councillor Hewson and seconded by Councillor Mitchell.

That the Town Clerk be, and he is hereby instructed to write the Mayor and Councils of Oshawa and Cobourg, thanking them for allowing their respective Fire Departments to come to Port Hope on March 3rd inst. rendering valuable assistance in the recent fire at Trinity College School.

Threatens Action

The following letter was received from W. F. McMahon, local barrister and solicitor:

I have been consulted by Mr. William O'Neill, who advises me that, owing to the negligence of the corporation in failing to clean out the culverts on Bramley street, his cellar has been flooded for a week past with water coming from Bramley street.

Mr. O'Neill has suffered damage to the extent of $75.00, and I must request that this amount be paid to him forthwith, otherwise I will enter suit.

Ready for Work

Mr. E. J. Wormington, local C.N.R. Agent, sent the council the following communication:

In connection with the meeting held recently whereby certain information was laid before the Town Council by our superintendent, I am now requested to advise the Town Council that orders have been received to proceed with the work along the lines arranged at the meeting.

It is hoped the town authorities will arrange for the paving of Hayward street as early as possible, and I shall be much obliged if you will advise me in due course when it is expected to commence the work.

High School Estimates

Dr. J. F. Thompson, secretary-treasurer of the Port Hope High School Board, advised the council to set aside the sum of $18,106.35, and place to the credit of the Board to cover the 1928 estimates.

Ask For Light

W. P. Tickell, wrote the council as follows:

On behalf of the Baptist church, I am writing your honorable body in regard to the inefficient lighting on John street in the vicinity of our place of worship.

At the time John street was paved and the poles changed, the light in front of the church was, for some reason unexplained to us, omitted.

The consequence of this is that the corner at John and Augusta streets, being so dark, is quite dangerous both for autos and pedestrians, and we feel quite confident that the unfortunate fatal accident that happened at this point a few months ago would not have occurred had conditions been otherwise.

We trust that you will give this matter your earnest consideration at your earliest convenience.

Ask For Grant

A. J. Chesher, President of the Port Hope Band, addressed the council regarding the grant for the band. He stated that the band needed a substantial grant in order to make it a success and a credit to the town. Fred Douglas also spoke and outlined the proposed work of the organization and hoped that a good sized grant would be made by the council.

Mr. Chesher explained that a grant of $600 was made last year, but 95 per cent of this amount was devoted to the purchase of uniforms. Mr. Chesher sent the council the following letter:

It is our intention to render to the public, providing our town council is willing, at least one concert a week, weather permitting, from June to the first week of September.

This will mean much heavy work on the part of our instructor, the Bandmaster, and we feel we cannot expect him to give of his time and talent without due compensation. The executive feel that $800 is a very small amount from which to pay a capable bandmaster, buy music, pay rent, fuel, janitor and the repairing of instruments, etc.

We know the citizens of your town are a unit with the band and we sincerely trust the members of our council will see their way clear to acknowledge the Port Hope Band as a public asset and grant the means whereby our band shall be enabled to give of their best to the public of Port Hope.

The members of the Port Hope Band having as their objective, a better band, have practiced long and faithfully through the winter season, this being necessary that we may be prepared to present to our ratepayers, and to those who visit our town, a class of music that will not only entertain, but will be a drawing attraction to all who love music.

In the past month we arranged to present to the public two concerts which were given in the Opera House, through the courtesy of Mr. Smart and Mr. Roper, and I am led to believe as a result of those concerts the public feel our band is a real asset to our town.

One Absentee

All the members of the council with the exception of Councillor Brickell were in their accustomed pews when the roll call was taken at 7:59. Those present included Mayor L. H. Edmunds, Reeve L. H. Giddy, Deputy Reeve Fred Rosevear and Councillors H. W. Mitchell, Jas. Sinnott, J. A. R. Elliott, Moss Hewson and H. Merrifield. The minutes of the last meeting were read and duly confirmed.

AL STAGG'S ROYAL THEATRE CAPITOLIANS

This illustration was made for "The Capital News," weekly paper issued by the Famous Players' Canadian Corporation, which described the local organization as the most successful small town stage orchestra in Canada. They will be heard at the Royal tomorrow and Thursday in another fine program of instrumental and vocal music, with new assisting artists—their eighteenth before crowded houses.

THE GUIDE STORY

Only one passenger alighted, a small, fair haired young lady, attired in a mackintosh and storm hat. The doctor started to meet her, cap in hand; then he paused throwing a keen glance at the delicate, flowerlike face.

The girl, with a start of surprise, halted; then she advanced boldly, holding out her hand with a half-pleading, half mischievous look in her hazel eyes.

"What does this mean, Firefly?" asked Forrester abruptly, as he shook hands. "Where is your sister?"

"In bed with influenza," answered the girl. "She was physically incapable of fulfilling her engagement, so here I am—Miss Jane Fenton, prospective companion to the heiress' elderly relative. Don't look so disgustingly savage, doc! I will behave circumspcctly."

By this time the station master and the guard were looking at them interrogatively. The porter was making ineffectual dabs at the traveller's handbag, which she prevented by seeming unconsciously to change from one hand to the other; the nondescript boy was disappearing with one of Miss Jane Fenton's boxes on his shoulder; while the ticket collector, a slim, delicate looking youth, was vainly trying to make an enormous suit case assume a perpendicular position.

"Folly!" shouted the doctor, and really the wind was some excuse for raising his voice. "Egregious folly. What on earth was your mother about? She must have known you were about as suitable as a merry-go-round would be. You must stay for the night, I suppose, but back you go tomorrow, young lady."

"No, I don't," remarked Miss Fenton firmly, "I've come to stay."

With a slightly imperious gesture, the doctor turned away, and with a mutinous shake of her head and a surreptitious grimace at the broad back, Jane, otherwise known as "Firefly" Fenton, meekly followed to where the Manor horses were stamping the ground restlessly and the Manor coachman was looking impatient.

"How many trunks have you got, Firefly?" asked the doctor, measuring the box seat with his eyes, having a dim recollection of seeing a mass of luggage on the platform.

"One—two—three—a hat box—a bicycle—and a typewriter," answered Firefly, counting the items on her fingers and shivering as the wind swept over her.

John groaned.

"Your mother must have been mad, quite mad; and I always imagined her a sensible woman."

"She didn't know," said Firefly, with such a merry, careless little laugh that even surly old Giles turned to cast a glance at her from the box seat. "She knows now, though," she added hastily, seeing a stiffening of Doctor Forrester's lower jaw.

"I wired from the junction and said it was all right. You had asked me to come instead of Gwenda."

"Firefly," exclaimed the horrified doctor. "What an atrocious fib!"

"Yes, wasn't it," said Miss Fenton, skipping into the carriage, "but, after all, it is not as bad as it sounds, and once I'm settled in I'll write and beg pardon You see, I knew you wouldn't want the old lady, about whom you wrote so rapturously, to wait for a companion until Gwenda was well. Influenza is very weakening, you know, and she will probably have relapses and congestion, and go through all the correct stages."

Suddenly discovering that she was talking to air, and that John had disappeared, Firefly leaned back against the soft cushions, laughed a little and frowned a little.

"He is certainly the rodest man I ever came across—and the biggest—and the handsomest—and it was a blessing I thought of coming in time," she concluded.

Your traps are coming upon a cart," said John, as he swung himself into the carriage, and they started off at rather a breakneck pace down the steep road.

No response came from the other occupant. John frowned, then smiled to himself.

"What's the matter, you silly fellow?" he asked good naturedly, having somewhat recovered from the shock of her arrival. "I suppose that because I did not receive you rapturously as a substitute for your sister, you are pretending to be very cross."

Still silence and the darkness kept secret the smiles that were dimpling Firefly's face.

"You may sulk just as much as you like," continued the doctor, his eyes beginning to twinkle. "I know from experience that you are rather partial to that habit, but you are just going to hear my side of the question. To Woodlands, Miss Ran some and her aunt are new people. They have known me for about three months; though, as it happens, I had met Miss Ransome occasionally. They consulted me as to engaging a companion. I recommended a certain young lady of my acquaintance, as likely to fulfill all their requirements; being quiet, sympathetic, contented with a quiet life and quiet ways. They engaged this young lady solely on my references. Do you think for one moment that a will-o'-the-wisp of eighteen can take the place of gentle, quiet, sedate Gwen? It is an impossibility, and you might have saved your mother the expense of your return journey to say nothing of her anxiety, you self willed child."

Throw Out The Laugh Line!

It's the song ye sing And the smile ye wear That's making the Sunshine everywhere.

Instead of complaining of this weather, one might better admire March's versatility.

Cooks are often decorated in France. The man on the corner says he feels like crowning his.

"Well, I guess I'll be going," said the clock as it was wound up.

Since it got whispered around that gentlemen prefer blondes it looks like all the girls are trying to get light headed.

"That's the lay of the last minstrel," fittingly cackled the hen as she laid an egg on the piano stool.

Writing up a Wedding

Most newspaper men shrink from the task of writing up a swell wedding and prefer to pass the responsible duty to a female society editor. Yet there are exceptions. Occasionally an editor is found who can paint word pictures of nuptial events that any lady reporter might envy.

We just discovered one like that, who appears to be hiding his great talents in an obscure town while he ought to be holding down a big city job. Here is a sample of his literary ability which proves our point: "It was a wonderful wedding. The girl was as sweet as any girl who ever lived, but modern. As she walked up the aisle on her father's arm, her lips lightly tilted at the corners with a happy smile, she was a picture of modest beauty. Her filmy wedding gown and gossamer veil floated about her fair blonde head like a halo. She was as nearly an angel as girls get to be in this world. At the altar as she passed from her father, the man she had always loved to the other man to whom she would devote the rest of her life, her dainty slipper touched a potted lily resting on the floor and turned it over. Smiling again, she turned to the dear old pastor waiting at the chancel and said: That was a he— of a place to put a lily."

A Rare Treat in Store

A telephone rang loud and long. Henpeck took up the receiver as if he didn't care whether school kept or not. "Hello! That you, Henpeck?" yelled an excited voice at the other end. Hen said it was. "Say, old man, this is Jerkum the dentist. I accidentally gave your wife too much gas! She's unconscious! Hasn't spoken a word for half an hour! What shall I do? What shall I do? Giv'er more gas, Doc!" cried Henpeck gleefully. "I'll be right over."

Embarrassing Moments

"Did you wear your rubber boots down street this morning?"

The way some girls talk nowadays would lead one to believe that they had been vaccinated with a gramophone needle.

"Taxi Driver Says Trio Held Up Gas Station." Heading in London Advertiser. It seems that in Port Hope less than a trio are trying to hold up the erection of a gas station.

Taxi, please.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

HEARD ON THE STREET

Hello! Out all night?

A lot of citizens have lost their sleep twice this week with the spring freshets. Spring like the coming of teeth, seems a bit of a nuisance.

Sweep! Sweep! The boys were not heaving the stones along the ice last night, but the ice along the pavement.

Night operator at the Bell Telephone company did valuable work again last night in notifying businessmen that their stocks were being flooded.

By Hee! a lot of ice was shoved along last night.

Sunshine after storm. Today was quite a contrast—very nice indeed.

To probe the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. George Kidd of Bewdley, an inquest was conducted here last Monday evening and owing to the absence of certain witnesses the hearing was adjourned until this evening.

The demand for farm help is keen in many counties. There is an increased demand for boys of from 15 to 18 years of age. J. Y. Kellogg of Durham county states he has received more applications for British boys this season than for some time past. "In the majority of cases, these boys seem to be giving good satisfaction," he writes, "and they are helping to solve our labor problem."

Helen Martin, young domestic servant who had been missing for over a week from Peterboro, and had been sought all over Ontario, was brought in the city Monday from the farm of Henry Doleman, about two miles out of the city. She was seeking lodging there on Saturday. Her whereabouts for the previous week has not yet been determined.

Wife—Wire you insulate? Wants the matter?

The Other 50 Per Cent—Fuse where I was you'd be late too.

Wife—This is positively shocking. If it happens again, I'll get a switch and socket to you. I conduit, too.
