

INSPECTION OF WRECKED BRIDGE

Town Council and Engineers Make Inspection of Cavan Street Bridge

Town Council together with road engineers, conducted a thorough inspection this morning of the frame bridge spanning the Ganeraska river on Cavan street, just south of the Ontario College of Art. The bridge was damaged to a considerable extent as a result of the recent flood. The railing and other parts of the structure were wrecked and the roadbed south of the bridge was partly washed away.

County Engineer George Greer and Provincial Engineer Austin N. Fellowes, together with the members of the municipal body made the investigation. For some time past it has been urged that the bridge be straightened out in order to avoid the treacherous turn in the road. Mr. Greer told that eight of the bridges in Percy Township had to be replaced as well as others in the county and the amount of appropriation would not cover the total cost of erecting new structures.

However, the matter is being considered and it will be decided upon later what action will be taken.

FACES PRISON LIFE CALMLY

Wife of Executed Slayer Becomes Model Prisoner Once More

Doris McDonald, whose husband, George C. McDonald, paid the supreme penalty at Vallyfield on Friday for their joint slaying of Adolard Bouchard, Lacbine taxi driver, on the Montreal-Malone highway, near Huntingdon, last summer, quietly is awaiting the development of her fate, it was learned from a reliable source.

Still housed in the cell in the Fulum street jail, in which she awaited execution, Doris is reported to have made rapid recovery from ill-effects following the execution of her husband, and to be once more the model prisoner in all respects.

Papers are now being completed for her transfer to Portsmouth penitentiary, Kingston, Ont. to start her term of life imprisonment.

Mothers can easily know when their children are troubled with worms, and they lose no time in applying a reliable remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

HONORED BEFORE LEAVING TOWN

Mrs. B. Levitt and Daughter Receive Gifts From the Home League

A very enjoyable evening was spent by the Home League members of the Salvation Army, when they gathered at the home of Mrs. Burton Levitt, Hope Street, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Levitt, who is leaving town in a few days to join her husband, was presented with a lovely bed lamp and her daughter also was presented with some ivory pieces from the League.

The following sentiment from the League was read:

Mrs. Levitt and Daughter;— In appreciation of your work of love and untiring interest in the happiness and welfare of others. We feel that we can do but little to repay you.

As a body of Home League members, we have realized the interest you have taken in the development of the League. Also, how ready and willing to do your bit in a practical way to maintain its success. Then, too, we cannot neglect to speak of one of the outstanding characteristics which has so often given buoyancy to our League. It has caused us to forget the cares and perplexities of the day. The way has seemed brighter because of your jovial spirit.

We feel very keenly the loss that is ours, in your departure. Your vacant chairs will often recall fond memories of the past. You have made many friends in Port Hope who will regret saying farewell. We feel that none will regret it in a greater measure than we, who have associated with you so closely.

Not only have you been a friend, but you have been a sister. In sorrow you have comforted us, you have entered our joys with a will. Your heart has been large and tender to those who needed a helping hand. Our wish for you is that you will make many true friends in your new sphere who will be as kind to you as you have been to others. We also wish you every success and may the blessing of God be upon you. Be obedient to His voice and He will shelter you beneath His great Arm of Love.

Please accept these small tokens of love, from affectionate friends.

Officers and Home League Members.

O'NEILL IS REMANDED

Tottenham Man's Case Again Laid Over for Two Weeks

A further remand of two weeks was granted Wednesday in the preliminary trial of George O'Neill, the Tottenham hired man charged with the murder of Azor Robertson, his former employer, and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Ruby Martin, whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of the Robertson barn on Feb. 4 last.

O'Neill was also remanded on the charge of attempting to take his own life following his arrest. The man spent 38 days in hospital recovering from wounds he inflicted on himself with a dull knife.

On Monday of this week Inspector Ward of the Provincial Police who has charge of the investigation, had Robertson's body exhumed and a post mortem examination was made by Dr. Erb of Tottenham. The purpose of it is understood, was to determine if the skull was fractured. The finding of the pathologist will not be made known until the trial. The authorities state that the exhuming of Robertson's body has no special significance, except that it is part of a general plan to develop thoroughly every angle of the evidence given at the inquest. The investigation is to be most thorough, they state.

Chief Wilkins of Deseronto arrested two lads under 16 years of age Tuesday night in the act of robbing the grocery store of Stober & Sager. The youths appeared before Magistrate Bedford of Deseronto in Juvenile Court, charged with theft and breaking and entering. One of the boys was placed under guard at his home and the other taken to the Children's Shelter in Belleville. They were remanded for one week.

SMALLPOX SCARE STARTLES OSHAWA

Girl Working in Grocery Store, Had Disease—Detained at Toronto

A smallpox scare was started in the south section of Oshawa Tuesday as the result of a girl having developed the disease and continued working in a grocery store at 84 Park road south. When it was learned that the girl had the disease Dr. F. J. Rundle, M.O.H. for East Whitby began an investigation but the girl had just left the store for Toronto. The Queen City authorities were notified by a telegram and detained the girl as she stepped from the train in Toronto.

According to a notice posted by the M.O.H., everybody who has purchased groceries from the store during the past two weeks are to consider themselves exposed to quarantine and the health authorities advise everybody who has been in the store to take precautionary measures to safeguard against a smallpox epidemic. This will be done by the family physicians or the medical officer of health of both Oshawa and East Whitby. Dr. Rundle declares that the risk of contracting the disease from these foodstuffs is very great.

JUNIOR CHOIR'S FINE PRODUCTION

"The Stolen Jade" Was Presented to Large and Appreciative Audience

The junior choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian church completely won the hearts of the large and appreciative audience when the operetta "The Stolen Jade," in two acts, was presented in the auditorium of the church on Wednesday evening. The choir, composed of upwards of forty voices of the members of the Sunday school practiced faithfully for Wednesday night's production and Miss Gladys Black, A.T.C.M., organist of the church and the able conductor of the choir, is deserving of the highest credit for the success of the performance. This is not the first time that the junior choir of St. Paul's has presented masterful entertainments.

The leading parts of the two act operetta which was presented were taken by Misses Dorothy Doney, and Audrie Brown and Robert Brown, Malcolm Mark and Russell Broadbent. Solos were sung by Misses Dorothy Doney, Audrie Box and a duet by Misses Audrie Roberts and Lillian Keeler.

Musical numbers and a vocal solo were rendered as a prelude and between the acts, by some of Miss Black's and Miss Jean Dickinson's senior pupils. The following contributed: Piano solos by Misses Elva Collins and Annie Brown. Piano duet by Misses Mary Thompson and Grace Davison. Organ and piano duet by Misses Gladys Black and Dorothy Roberts. Vocal solo by Miss Marjorie McElroy.

Violin solos by Miss Kathleen Beckett, Mervyn Lawson and Osler Dickinson. The choir loft was very attractive with its Chinese settings consisting of Japanese lanterns, flowers and festoons of all descriptions with draperies in the background. The girls were gowned in gay attire, while the boys were garbed with mandarin coats and some possessed coolie hats.

A characteristic atmosphere was added to the occasion by the presence of Miss Helen Wong among the choir, and the little girl appeared to be happy amongst the oriental surroundings.

Following the operetta, the junior choir were entertained by the senior choir to refreshments.

SUPER AIRPLANE WILL BE BUILT

Britain Planning One With 7200 Mile Radius—Will Travel To Cape Town

Construction of an airplane capable of making a non-stop flight of 80 hours over 7,200 miles is contemplated by the air ministry, it was disclosed Tuesday. The airplane is a part of the British plan to capture world records for speed, height and endurance.

It is believed by authoritative persons that the new super-airplane will attempt a record non-stop flight from Cape Town to Scotland. The distance is 6,000 miles, but the flight would be planned with a margin of safety of 1200 miles to meet adverse winds.

If the plane made a 7,200 mile non-stop flight it would establish a record almost twice that of Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, who flew from New York to Germany, about 3,900 miles.

Woodstock Hopes To Retain Trinity College Senior School

Committee of Woodstock Board of Trade is Appointed to Consult With City Council Regarding Permanent Establishment of T. C. S. in Woodstock.

At a meeting Wednesday of the Woodstock Board of Trade a program of activity embracing many subjects were considered and one question which vitally concerns Port Hope and vicinity came in for considerable discussion.

A committee composed of Mayor B. C. Parker, ex-Mayor E. A. Rea and B. L. Cope, President of the Board was appointed to consult the city council of the possibility of retaining Trinity College School permanently in Woodstock.

Should the Trinity College School authorities entertain the proposition the loss of the senior school to Port Hope, would be a heavy one. Not only does it furnish employment to a considerable number of men, but heavy business is transacted in the town.

However, it is thought that the Governing Body will not plan to remain permanently in Woodstock, as plans have been formulated for the erection of a modern edifice on the former site in Port Hope. With the junior school firmly established at Port Hope, there is little likelihood that the senior school will be retained in Woodstock after the new buildings here are erected.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Will the cold snap last?

The parade of coal wagons with half ton lots seem to prove two things, yea, three things; that it isn't as warm as it was; that some people thought they could do without fuel till next winter; and the general size of the loads would indicate that most people believe the cold spell won't last so very long.

Most of the logs which were swept away from Canton dam in Tuesday morning's heavy flood have been salvaged and it is believed that the work of reconstruction will commence immediately.

A large meeting of crows was held yesterday afternoon just east of Deblaquire Street and north of Peter Street. The weather, we understand was the primary cause of this but we have not heard the conclusion yet. No doubt they decided to stick around and wait for it to warm up.

In a judgment handed down Judge L. V. O'Connor confirmed the conviction registered against the Ocean Blend Tea Company for peddling in Cobourg without a license. The judge ruled that blending of tea was not a manufacturing process, and that therefore the company could not claim that its product was made in Canada. Similar cases are pending in other towns of the province, but this is the first judgment reserved. The company was fined $75 on conviction by Magistrate W. H. Floyd.

Tonight the Bowlers are having another Smoker and Euchre and we are lead to believe there is going to be a little fun over and above the usual for such an affair. Better be there.

William Oliphant, electrical contractor, of Belleville, was seriously injured Wednesday afternoon when the car he was driving left the road and crashed into a tree. Oliphant received a broken jaw and a cut in the hand which required eight stitches to close and several of his teeth were knocked out.

Throughout this district comes the word that the past winter has been very severe on fall wheat. Although there have been few days of extreme cold, the alternating spells of thawing and freezing have kept the tender shoots of the grain exposed with disastrous results. Some farmers fear that the crop is practically destroyed while others think it may pick up later on.

Roseneath Agricultural Society has taken a forward step by deciding to erect a new building on its grounds at Roseneath. This will greatly improve the facilities of the fair. The present building will be used for a poultry building and the new structure for the exhibition of ladies' work. A committee has been appointed to proceed with the work.

There is not much maple syrup being made in this district but the seasonable spring delicacy has made its appearance upon some Cobourg markets where a proportion of it sold at 65 cents a quart or $2.50 a gallon, others asking from 70 cents to 75 cents for the delectable product.

PLAN ELEVATOR AND DRYDOCK

Kingston Officials Look Forward To Regaining Importance as Lake Terminal

The erection at Kingston of a large transshipping elevator, for which arrangements are said to be almost complete, has been announced. It is to be controlled by a private company largely composed of Kingston men.

The announcement comes after two requests by representatives of the lake shipping interests to the dominion government for provision of elevators at Kingston when the new Welland canal is opened.

The elevator, it is said, will be of sufficient capacity to handle the very heavy business which is expected to come to that point.

It is also stated that plans are completed for the erection of a large new dry dock, which will be able to take care of the largest boats coming down Lake Ontario when the new canal is opened.

THE GUIDE STORY

Like most strong characters, John disliked to be beaten in a struggle by what he judged to be the weaker will. To be vanquished by one who was his superior, or, at any rate his equal, was no hardship. His irritation increased in strength during that walk home as his memory dwelt on the glib, clever inventions to which he had been forced to listen in silence, falling from Firefly's pretty lips. The more he realized how Firefly had managed, in that short time, to make even Olwen believe every word she said, and to look upon him with surprise when he here and there attempted a mild objection to the veracity of some of the statements, the more he determined to call at the Manor next morning and try to persuade Olwen at any rate, to reconsider the advisability of retaining Miss Fenton as companion for her aunt.

John, once he had arrived at a decision, rarely changed his mind. Perhaps, had there been a mother or sympathetic sister at home to advise wiser measures he might not have made as many mistakes as he did from that night onward. He ate his dinner that night in a decidedly dreary room of a decidedly dreary, damp-smelling house, and was, waited on by a decidedly cross, dreary-looking woman who went by the name of Mrs. Jenkins the house keeper.

The drawing room was no better, for the chimney smoked, the lamp spluttered and emitted a vile smell, and the northwest wind sounded every whit as dreary there as in the dining room.

The discomforts of a bachelor's residence are trifles, perhaps, but trifles make an impression for good or ill. Discomfort, trouble, difficulty, whether great or small, were wont to have a hardening effect on Doctor Forrester. As the poor folk said of him: "If ye're had enough, our doctor be the man to pull ye through. He do love a stand-up fight against a coffin, for sure."

The discomforts of his home being more to the fore than usual, John sat up later than his custom that night, nominally reading a medical treatise, in reality meditating over the "cheekiness" of the girl at the Manor House, and concocting various arguments that could not fail to open Miss Ransome's eyes to the folly of harboring a bit of quicksilver and expecting to get work from it.

Unfortunately, John was not the man to concoct arguments at night, and to forget them by morning. Next day, as he rode along up the long, winding carriage drive, he remembered them quite clearly and perfected them still further.

It was a gray day, and the wind blew keenly, bringing with it a threat of snow and ice. John loved the cold. He loved a bleak north-wester. It brought the light to his eyes, it brought ambition to a mind that was already ambitious, it brought the love of power and conquest to his heart. Therefore, he walked into Olwen's sitting room in a combative frame of mind.

When steel meets steel, sparks fly. Olwen was proud, hot tempered and of an unsubmitive nature. She preferred advising to being advised; she preferred commanding to obeying. Furthermore, she was conscious of her own deficiencies, with that curious form of self-consciousness which constrains its victims to act as though they gloried in that of which they are most ashamed.

Within three minutes they were both on the verge of quarreling. In five minutes they were quarreling in earnest, and Olwen, at any rate, was allowing her tongue to run away with her judgment in a manner she would probably regret later.

"Then, you refuse to be advised, Miss Ransome?" said Doctor Forrester, turning to the door with an air of finality.

"Certainly. I should be lowered in my own eyes if I accepted advice from one who is ungentlemanly enough to speak against a girl behind her back."

"Tut!" John's eyes flashed and his voice became more dictatorial. "I notice that you are catching your visitor's habit of exaggeration already, Miss Ransome. I have not said a word to you that I would not repeat to Miss Fenton. I merely said, and I repeat my words, that she is not the right person to act as your aunt's companion. She is far too young and excitable, and, for want of a better word, frivolous. There is no harm in the girl, but down here, with a lot of young fellows about, she is bound to get into mischief. You can't keep her shut up. Knowing her as well as I do, I foresee trouble for both you and your aunt."

"To my mind there is something despicable in a man who backbites his friends," remarked Olwen.

John felt inclined to leave the house and shake the Manor dust from his boots once and forever. Fortunately, however, he possessed a kindly memory for Miss Granby, and he rang the bell to find out if she were ready to receive him, knowing that after the past excitement in all probability she needed a little attention.

Firefly was at that moment busy at work with some bits of lace in Miss Granby's sitting room, sitting close to the old lady, who, in the bright morning light, looked white and frail.

When Doctor Forrester was shown in the girl looked up at him with demure eyes.

RUSS FARMER HOARDS GRAIN

Queues Form in Cities—Soviets Face Task of Compelling Peasants to Yield

The problem of compelling the Russian peasant to yield up his grain to meet the serious shortage of flour in the cities seems as far from solution as ever. Not since the days of actual food shortage has the campaign to buy up grain throughout the country excited so much attention as in the present year. The end of 1927 left the soviet grain buying organization with a bad record. They had accumulated only 5,000,000 tons of wheat, as against more than 7,000,000 tons during the preceding year. And this notwithstanding the fact that 1927 was the third successive year in which Russia had enjoyed a fairly good harvest and that the grain reserves in the country were estimated at anywhere from 13,000,000 to 17,000,000 tons.

Queues Before City Stores

The serious effects of this slack progress in extracting the grain from the peasants' barns were not slow in making themselves felt. The long patient queues before the Moscow provision stores began to form not only for eggs or butter or milk or soap but for a more basic commodity, flour. The export figures for the last three months of 1927 showed a decline as compared with the same period in 1926; they dropped from 208,300,000 rubles to 164,480,000 rubles. Not only the foreign but the internal trade of the country was disturbed. The northern and western provinces which do not raise enough grain for their own needs and specialize in flax production, began to clamor for grain shipments which were not forthcoming in adequate quantity.

One element in the initial failure of the grain buying campaign was the shortage of goods which could be offered to the peasants in exchange for their grain. The production of Russian industry has grown steadily during the last few years; but the demands of the consumers have grown even faster. The years of inflation which finally wiped the old Russian currency out of existence have made the peasant wary of accepting money unless he sees before his eyes tangible goods which can be bought.

Another factor was the widespread talk about the danger of war last spring and summer. The soviet leaders, especially after the breach with England, were convinced that Russia was in serious danger of being attacked. They said so repeatedly in speeches which were circulated all over the country and penetrated even into the remotest peasant villages. Every peasant remembers the seven years of foreign and civil war from 1914 until 1921, and his first instinct when he heard rumors of new war was to cling to his grain as an insurance against shortage and hunger. The subsequent explanations that the war danger, while real, was not necessarily imminent, and should not interfere with the grain buying campaign, were not altogether successful in counteracting the original impression.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation the communist party mobilized all its forces in the struggle for grain; and January witnessed an intensive campaign which yielded a substantial result. The amount of grain purchased leaped from 650,000 tons in December to 1,300,000 tons in January and the figures for the first 10 days of February kept up the January pace.

Compulsion Attempted

In this campaign every means was employed, from arresting "kulaks," or rich peasants as speculators, to despatching shipments of goods to the points where they would be most useful. The strenuous campaign against samogon, or home brewed liquor, which began shortly after the New Year, was also motivated by the desire to prevent the peasants from using up their grain in this unprofitable manner. A peasant loan of 100,000,000 rubles was floated and in some cases accompanied by extremely energetic methods of salesmanship.

Not since the inauguration of the new economic policy has the word "speculation" been so freely applied as in this grain-buying campaign. The suppressed and banished Trotskyist opposition last autumn proposed to take from the peasants some 3,000,000 tons of grain by means of a "forced loan," to be taken from the richer classes of the peasants. This suggestion was rejected as economically unound and politically dangerous; but the dominant group in the party has shown its readiness to go at least a little way along the road of compulsion recommended by the opposition by applying rigidly the soviet laws against speculation to peasants who have in their possession more than 2,000 poods (about 33 tons) of grain. Grain stocks in excess of this amount are to be confiscated and the poor peasants of the community are to receive 25 per cent of them for seeds and food on the basis of long-term credits.—Christian Science Monitor.

MUSICAL EVENT OF SEASON WHEN THE WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS COME HERE

No other musical event of the season holds half the interest that attaches to the concerts to be given at the Royal Theatre on Tuesday, next, April 3rd, by the Westminster Glee Singers.

The singers, while they perform both sacred and secular music, do not overload any one program with any one class, but endeavor to present a judicious admixture of both, having due regard to the popular tastes of the day for music that entertains.

They have paid particular attention to the finest gems of English minstrelsy, many old songs and ballads of bygone days, and have had these specially arranged for them in a charming manner.

This body of singers comprises both adults and boys, and consists of vocalists selected from the greatest cathedral choirs in England, and noted for their outstanding voices.

Wherever the Westminster Glee Singers have appeared, they have been received with great enthusiasm and have scored phenomenal success. They recently concluded a two year tour of Australia, New Zealand and India, and during that period they gave 625 concerts, including forty-two in Sydney alone. The present tour of Canada is under the special patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General, Lord Willington, and His Grace the Primate of All Canada, Archbishop Matheson.

Dry enthusiasm is sure to kindle better than wet propaganda.

CAPITOLIAN'S SMASHING HIT

Popular Local Entertainers Surpass Themselves in Latest Revue

Never have Al Stagg's Royal Theatre Capitolians made a greater hit than last evening, when they presented their eighteenth musical revue before the largest first night audience of the season. The applause accorded the various artists frequently "stopped the show," and the consensus of opinion was that this program is the best yet.

The orchestra opened with a tuneful new number entitled, "My Ohio Home," which showed these six solo instrumentalists at their best. The first assisting artist was Charlie Stephenson, who sang "Hurrah for the Rolling Sea," in that splendid baritone voice for which he is noted. Mr. Stephenson was making his first appearance with the Capitolians and certainly received a warm welcome from the audience. Another newcomer was Susie Hopps whose Irish jig proved her exceptional ability as a dancer and made such a hit that she had to respond to insistent applause with an encore.

Al Stagg chose for his number the very popular sentimental song, "Among My Souvenirs," and in recognition of many requests for a violin solo interpolated the classical selection, "Souvenir"—an artistic combination that was thoroughly appreciated. The first real comedy piece on the program was "Bologna," played and sung by the orchestra to the accompaniment of much laughter. Jimmy Thomas then offered a musical monologue entitled, "Tony on da Phone," something quite out of the ordinary and cleverly done. Jack Winfield provided one of the treats of the evening with a trombone solo that revealed him as a master of that instrument, while Al Stagg and Jimmy Thomas again made good as comedians with a new line of good jokes and a nutty song.

Like the stage entertainment, the photoplay part of the program left nothing to be desired. Will Rogers in "Hiking Through Holland," was instructive and amusing; the comedy produced uproarious laughter and the feature, "Service for Ladies," starring Adolph Menjou, proved to be out of the ordinary, interesting and exceptionally well acted. If Port Hoppers realize just what is in store for them to night, the Royal will be filled to capacity.

GOOD-BYE—GOD BLESS YOU

I like the Anglo-Saxon speech With its direct revealings; It takes a hold, and seems to reach Way down into your feelings; That some folk deem it rude, I know, And therefore they abuse it; But I have never found it so— Before all else I choose it. I don't object that man should air The Gaelic they have paid for, With "Au revoir," "Adieu, ma chere," For that's what French was made for. But when a cory takes you hard At parting, to address you, He drops all foreign lingo and He says: "Good-bye—God bless you!"

And soothes the weak and fearful. Into the porches of the ears It steals with subtle unction, And in your heart of hearts appears To work its gracious function; And all day long its pleasing song It lingers to caress you— I'm sure no human heart goes wrong That's told "Good-bye—God bless you!"

I love the words—perhaps because, When I was leaving Mother, Standing at last in solemn pause We looked at one another, And I—I saw in Mother's eyes The love she could not tell me— A love eternal as the skies, Whatever fate befell me; She put her arms about my neck And soothed the pain of leaving, And though her heart was like to break, She spoke no word of grieving; She let no tear bedim her eye, For fear that night distress me, But, kissing me, she said goodnight, And asked our God to bless me.

This seems to me a sacred phrase, With reverence impassioned— A thing come down from righteous days, Quaintly, but, nobly fashioned; It will become an honest face, A voice that's round and cheerful; It stays the sturdy in his place,

OSHAWA STRIKE STILL CONTINUES

Hundred Girls Also Out—Both Sides Remain Steadfast

With about eight hundred men, employees of General Motors plant, actually out on strike and about seven hundred more idle through lack of work directly due to the strike, the situation is anything but promising.

The strikers and the General Motors executive remain steadfast in their original decisions, and at the present time the only means of a solution rests with the Labor Department of Ottawa.

Official on Way

A reply to the strike committee's wire to the Capital Tuesday was received from Hon. Peter Heenan Wednesday afternoon to the effect that M. S. Campbell, Chief Conciliation Officer was on his way to Oshawa.

Excitement reigns throughout the city, and Wednesday was a little hectic. For the strikers it has been a continual round of mass meetings and parades.

Strikers' Views

About 3 o'clock the strike committee issued its first official statement since the three hundred trimmers launched the strike Monday morning. The statement read as follows: "Regarding the trimmers' differences in prices in 1927 and 1928, in December the first cut received was 45 per cent. In March 1928, the next cut was 30 per cent, making a total of 75 per cent., in four months.

"Mr. Brown states in his reports to the press, that we (the trimmers) are not skilled labor, which is strongly contradicted by the men. Seventy five per cent of the men employed on the Pontiac and Chevrolet trim line have averaged ten years at the trimming trade exclusively, and as new men are brought on the line, the older heads are expected to show the new men the work.

"We would also like to add that in view of the prosperous condition of the company that we can see no reason for this cut."

Men to be Retained

Fifty new men were engaged on Wednesday morning for the Chevrolet and Pontiac lines in addition to the thirty taken on Tuesday. H. A. Brown, General Manager of General Motors of Canada Limited, declared that these men would be kept on.

"The men disregarded their organization, the employers' union, in staging the strike," said Mr. Brown. "And therefore if they desire to be taken back will be dealt with individually. They would not be taken back in a body."

When Cæsar Was a Boy

The Forum was the common market-place for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present day complex civilization, market-places have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in the morning—or even in a day.

Advertising, instead, has become the convenient Forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the auto advertising.

Furthermore, as you leaf over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information.

Advertising has become the common market-place of this 20th century.

CANADA SEEKS ST LAWRENCE DATA

U.S. Officials Disapprove Rumored Effort to Link Tariff Issue

Rumors from Canada that tariff and power matters as well as the Chicago diversion question would be made conditions to the completion of the St. Lawrence joint waterway treaty have caused considerable interest at Washington.

Both Washington and Ottawa have denied that tariff and power matters were laid down as requisite conditions to negotiation of a treaty. Nevertheless it is generally understood that these matters were referred to in Canada's note of January.

Until Canada agrees on simultaneous publication the state department at Washington refused to discuss the note at all. The note has passed through many hands, however, in the course of technical examination into its proposals and by this time interested parties on Capitol Hill appear to have some knowledge of its provision.

Thy own heart's counsel wisely keep And in the right he strong!

Although grown weary, strive not less, No duty leave undone; Soon will oppressors join to bless The deeds thy daring won.

Have faith—have courage—never fear, The promise is in sight; The lamp of Truth is shining clear, To banish Error's night.

CASE OF TOP GRAFTED TREES

Grafting in Apple Orchards Proves Successful In Ontario

During the season of 1927 several thousand apple trees were top grafted in the apple districts of Ontario. In the great majority of cases the results were satisfactory and consequently but little attention will be necessary in respect to further grafting on the same trees.

That tidying mania. Things a Woman Puts Away Are "Lost to Sight." Man puts things out of the way whenever the occasion for doing so arises.

IN THE RIGHT BE STRONG

Go boldly forth and fear no ill, When fierce oppressors rise; Let mental strength, abounding still, Such puny foes despise.

In the grafting over of most trees the majority of branches require two or more scions. Where more than one scion grows, all should be left until they begin to crowd each other.

THE CHRISTIAN SOWER

Scatter the germs of the beautiful By the wayside let them fall, That the rose may spring up by the cottage gate,

Scatter the germs of the beautiful, In the holy shrine of home; Let the pure, and the fair, and the graceful there

Scatter the germs of the beautiful Wherever thy footsteps stray, To bless and cheer the weary ones Who toil life's rugged way;

In the depths of the human soul; They shall bud, and bloom and blossom While the endless ages roll;

DON'T MAKE THE WRINKLES DEEPER

Is father's eyesight growing dim, His form a little lower? Is mother's hair a little gray,

There's nothing makes a face so young As joy, youth's fairest token, And nothing makes a face grow old Like hearts that have been broken.

Be lavish with the kindly deeds, Be patient, true and tender; And make the path that ageward leads,

Be patient, true and tender; And make the path that ageward leads, Aglow with earthly splendor.

THAT TIDYING MANIA

Things a Woman Puts Away Are "Lost to Sight." Man puts things out of the way whenever the occasion for doing so arises.

He resolves to straighten things up, which means putting them away somewhere else. The superfluous boots are crowded under the bed;

To put things away, as women put them away, is equivalent to complete concealment. The feminine desire to put things away in this manner amounts almost to a passion.

Her own she wishes where they are ready to hand. It is only the possessions of others that she considers out of place when they are visible.

Her chief object in life is to put these things away where no one can see them, and she puts them away so thoroughly that she herself cannot remember where they are.

Books and papers that a man is apt to need at any moment are always "tidied" away by women with eager enthusiasm. Nothing, indeed, is safe from them.

Term "Four Hundred." This term was originally applied by a well known society man of New York, Ward McAllister, to the wealthiest residents of that city.

ALLAN CUP GOES WEST

The west climaxed its challenge for supremacy of the Dominion's amateur hockey circles when Manitoba University trimmed Montreal Victorias, 1 to 0, at Ottawa last night, to lift the Allan Cup and carry it westward to keep the Abbott and Memorial Cups, emblematic of the junior hockey title, company in their new home. Regina Monarchs won the Memorial Cup on Monday, when they beat back the Ottawa Gunners, and last night's victory for the western six made a clean sweep of the titular boards. The Allan Cup carries with it the all-Canada senior championship.

Gordon McKenzie, who had just recovered from a back strain suffered in the first contest against the Victorias on Saturday, returned to the game to tally the lone goal that brought his university victory in the sixty exciting minutes of hockey which the tussle produced.

Checking the disc away from a Montreal rusher, who was menacing the western citadel, the youthful McKenzie breezed the full length of the right boards and let a blistering shot fly from just inside the Victoria blue line. The margin of victory was just about the margin of the play. It was a thrilling contest throughout, that kept the crowd in constant suspense, but in the final minutes, when the easterners tossed a steady stream of four man rushes into the students' territory, it was nerve wrecking in the extreme.

"All right, Jake," said the grocer. "If you need a sack of flour and have no money to buy it with we'll give you a sack. But, see here, Jake, there's a circus coming to town in a few days and if I give you a sack of flour, are you sure you won't sell it and take your family to the circus?"

"Oh no," said Jake, "I got the circus money saved up already."

TIE IN PRO GAME

Stratford and Kitchener played a 1-1 tie in the first of the Canadian Professional Hockey League finals played at Kitchener last night. There was little to choose between the two teams on the night's play, though taken on the whole Kitchener had a slight superiority. They won the first two periods, but Stratford had the better of the third by a fair margin. It was a gruelling game, with the checking exceedingly close and as a result, there was little combination, a two man attack being the best at any time, and most of the sorties were individual. There was plenty of speed in the contest, and in this the homesters had the better of it.
