UPWARDS OF $750,000 LOSS SUSTAINED WHEN TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL BURNS

Fanned By Gale, Conflagration Destroyed Rink, Gymnasium and Senior School—The Headmaster's Residence Partially Damaged Junior School and Hospital Escape.

BOYS LEAVE FOR HOME AND SCHOOL WILL BE RE-BUILT.

Only the charred walls and smouldering debris held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, plans were formulated for the re-building of the institution and the temporary lodgement of students. Members in attendance at the meeting Sunday included the Headmaster, Rev. Dr. F. Graham Orchard, Dyce W. Saunders, Toronto Secretary of the governing body, F. Gordon Osler and Percy Henderson, also of Toronto.

It was announced to The Guide by the Headmaster that the students of the senior and junior schools would be granted two weeks holidays now in stead of their regular Easter vacation. Circular letters were mailed to the parents of all students advising them of this action.

The Headmaster stated that forty pupils would be quartered at the hospital; twenty more at the Town Hall, and a number at the High and Public Schools and at St. Mark's Parish Hall. It was also thought that a class of the Middle School would be opened in the vacant Arlington Hotel at Cobourg.

To Take 18 Months

It was announced that the modern edifice to rise from the ashes of the former building, would not be completed until the fall term of 1929. The architects for the drawing up of the plans and specifications are Messrs. Darling and Pearson, Leader Lane, Toronto. The Board of Governors are to be commended on their prompt and ready action. The late Mr. Darling of the architect firm named, was an old T.C.S. boy.

Those that comprise the entire governing body include:

The Rev. Provost of Trinity College, the professor in arts, Trinity College, Toronto, and the Rev. F. G. Orchard, head master of the school. The elected members of the governing body are: Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, M.A., D.C.L., Guelph; the Hon. Mr. Justice Hodgins, R. Max Dennistoun, Winnipeg; His Honor Judge H. A. Ward, Port Hope; J. A. Houston, M.A., Toronto; R. P. Jelliff of Montreal; L. H. Baldwin, Toronto; F. Gordon Osler, Toronto; G. B. Strathy of Toronto; the Rev. O. Rigby, M.A., L.D., Port Hope; Clarence Dogent, Toronto; Brigadier-General G. S. Cartwright, C.B., C.M.G., Toronto; Norman Seagram, Toronto; J. H. Maynard, M.D., Toronto; Percy Henderson, Toronto; Lieut.-Gen. Sir A. C. Macdonell, K.C.B., Calgary; and the Hon. Mr. Senator G. H. Barnard, Victoria, B.C. Those on the governing body and elected by the Old Boys are Dyce W. Saunders, K.

walls can be utilized for reconstruction."

The disastrous conflagration on Saturday afternoon originated in the western end of the skating rink and grew from very small proportions to a raging inferno in a very short time. The Port Hope fire brigade answered the alarm in a few minutes and owing to lack of water pressure, the fire became uncontrolled. Three lines of hose were trained on the blaze but the pressure was woefully weak. The brigade, under the command of Fire Chief Richard Ware and Assistant Fire Chief Fred Little were also hampered by the lack of ladders. As the hook and ladder wagon attached to the rear of a truck from Zealand's cartage, was rounding the corner of Walton and Mill Streets, the wheels skidded on the slippery road surface and crashed into a pole. The right rear wheel was shattered and the truck was rendered useless. Late Saturday night the wagon was towed back to its haven in the fire hall and will likely remain there for some time as the truck has outlived its usefulness. Every time an alarm is sounded, be it a false alarm or a grass fire, the clanging rattling truck of ancient vintage is hauled to the fire and is rarely used. The wagon has become the laughing stock of the town.

Fire Spread Quickly

The seething tongues of fire, fanned by a bitter northwest wind, spread with alarming rapidity. Word was communicated to the pump house to turn off the water supply to other parts of the town so that the highest pressure could be devoted to fighting the fire at Trinity College. When it became evident that the senior school was doomed, emergency calls were sent to Oshawa and Cobourg Fire brigades and although record runs were made by the trucks, they were of little avail as the fire had gained too much headway.

The rink of frame structure, soon fell prey to the devastating flames and in a short time the gymnasium caught on fire. The main school is connected to the gymnasium by an overhead passageway and at one time it was thought advisable to dynamite the passageway in order to impede the fire.

The seething tongues of flames ate their way underneath the eaving and cornice at the north west corner of the main school which is of brick and concrete structure with slate shingles. Owing to lack of pressure no water could be poured on the smoldering embers at this point, which at four o'clock developed into a blaze.

"The Lodge" Saved

The flames carried by the strong gale, spread to the chapel and "The Lodge," the beautiful residence of Head master F. G. Orchard, situated at the extreme eastern end of the property. Hundreds of volunteer workers carried the fixtures and contents of the residence to safety. Valuable books and treasures of the Head were saved by the willing workers. Sparks ignited the shingles and in a few minutes a peak of the house was burning fiercely. The local brigade extended their hose length and by dint of hard work the blaze was gradually subdued. Considerable water damage was done but the residence was saved. By an odd coincidence the residence of Dr. Bethune was saved in the 1895 disaster, and in the fire on Saturday the head master's residence was saved.

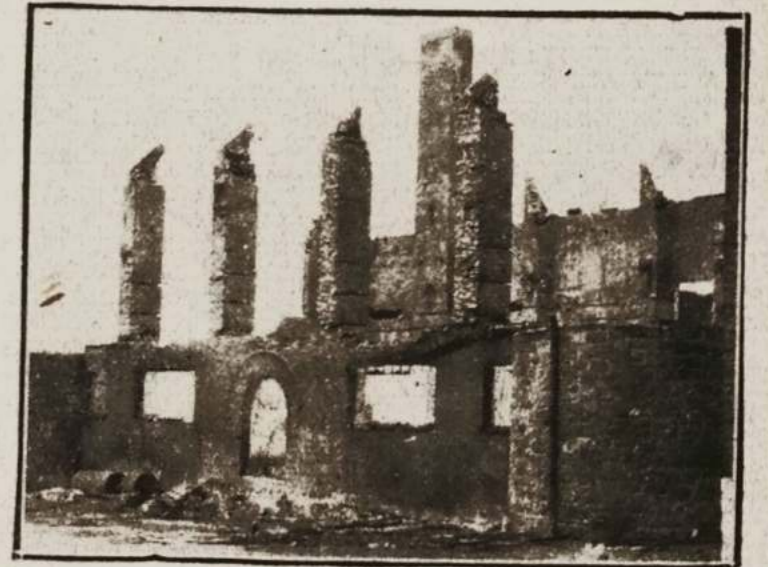

Chapel Razed

The fire spread throughout the main school and completely razed the building to the ground. The dining room and beautiful chapel were roaring pits of fire and flames shot high in the heavens. The fire weaved its trail of fury through the corridors at alarming speed.

The chapel was one of the most chaste and beautiful of its kind in the Dominion and was noted for its beautiful pipe organ and its hand carved engravings. The windows were of stained glass of artistic design several of which were memorials. It was a most painful sight for the students of the college and other witnesses to stand by and watch this historic edifice where many a solemn and inspiring service had been held. The dining room was completely demolished, together with the school dormitories and quarters of the masters.

Hundreds Assisted

The temporary loss of Trinity College to the Town of Port Hope will be appalling. Hundreds of townspeople turned out and carried furniture and equipment to safety. There were 136 boys quartered in the senior building and many lost all their personal belongings except the clothes they were wearing. The students under the command of Serg.-Major S. J. Batt, Physical Training Instructor of the school, displayed coolness and restraint under heavy odds. A number of the Toronto students left for home on Saturday evening and the rest left on Sunday together with the Junior School boys.

Every available truck driver in town volunteered their services and loads of personal property and furniture, etc., were transported to the drill shed to await assortment and distribution. Sunday afternoon while some of the boys were looking for lost articles the high wind threatened to blow away the roof of the drill shed and was badly cracked in some sections.

Masters, school boys and Port Hope volunteers did their utmost to clean the building of its valuable contents. Although quite a large portion of the movable contents were saved, some of the most valued mementos of the school, along with priceless furniture and equipment were demolished.

Situated on one of the highest eminences in town, the blaze was seen for miles around and telegraph communication from Rochester this morning stated that the conflagration was seen in the American city.

The people of Port Hope responded nobly to the distressing conditions which faced the heads of the school, and before six o'clock the boys left here were billeted in the homes in this town. As in the 1895 fire the citizens of Port Hope responded nobly and billeted the boys.

Deplores Loss

Dr. Orchard deplored the loss of the institution at the present time, when many of the students were preparing for their matriculation, but stated that plans were already under way to have all the classes return to their studies within three weeks.

"I appreciate very much the kind offers of Ridley and Upper Canada in wishing to take care of the boys in their studies, but I feel we will have arrangements made downtown that classes may be continued in Port Hope," he stated. "I want to thank all the citizens of the town who in the hour of stress came forward last (Saturday) night and took the students into their homes. I also feel grateful toward our college physician, Dr. R. F. Forrest, for his wonderful work in arranging and caring for the students in the hospital. Through his timely efforts all were safely removed to the town hospital."

Noted Old Boys

Trinity College School has the distinction of sending out to the world boys who have taken a most prominent part in building of Canada and the world. Numbered amongst the old boys are such noted men as Sir William Osler, Professor Fessenden, noted scientist; Archbishop Worrell of Nova Scotia; Bishop Grant, of Western New York; Bishop Frank Dumoline of Philadelphia; the late Chancellor Worrell; General A. C. Macdonnell, General Victor Williams, Chief of the Ontario Provincial Police; General Sir George Kirkpatrick, Chief of Staff of the British troops in India, and many others. During the recent war Trinity sent 500 of her boys overseas and 121 paid the supreme sacrifice. The memorial cross bearing the 121 names stands as lasting testimony on the brow of Dyce W. Sanders, secretary of the governing body of the Trinity College School, who visited the scene of the disastrous fire at Port Hope yesterday, stated that no interruption in general routine will occur.

"The students will be given a vacation now, instead of at Easter, and in about a fortnight we can make all arrangements toward temporary quarters. The hospital, the junior building and the headmaster's home are intact and with outside space we can care for the students until the end of this term.

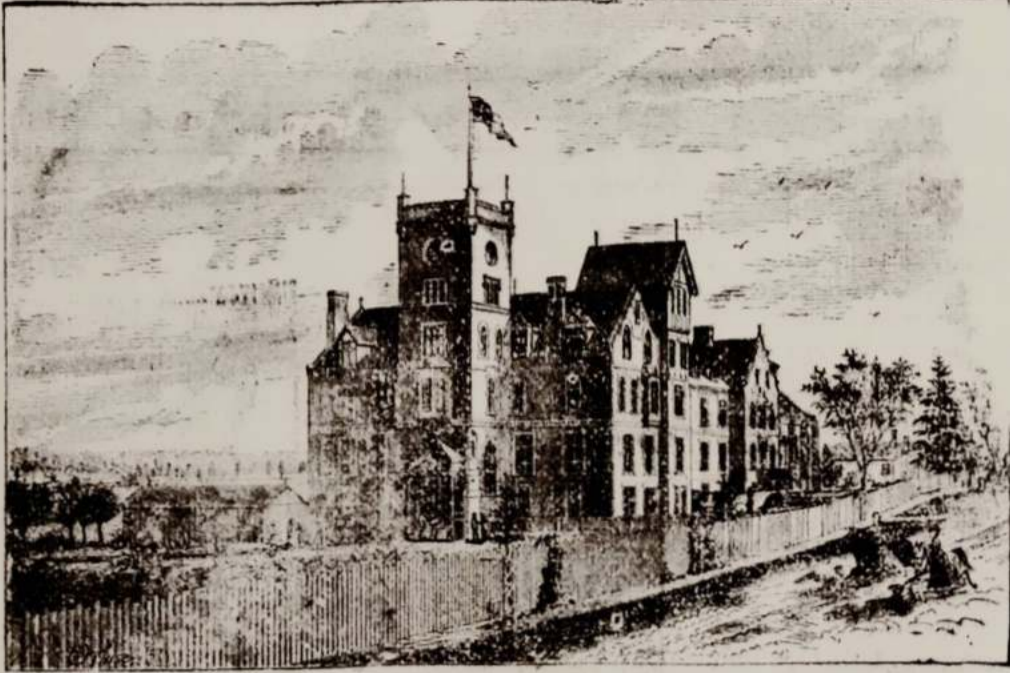

It is too early yet to say how much rebuilding will be needed, but we hope that a portion at least, of the Fire that started early Saturday afternoon in the skating rink to the rear of Trinity College School, Port Hope, and spread from there to the gymnasium, and thence to the main school building, completely gutted

next to the gymnasium, which was connected to the main building by a passageway, not shown in the photograph. The lower illustration shows a front view of the school after the flames had wrought their havoc, roof gone and smoldering debris still throwing a smoky pall over the ruins. Inset is a picture of Rev. Dr. F. Graham Orchard, Head Master of the school.

This view shows Trinity College building on February 9th of that year. An $80,000 loss was sustained and the fire originated in the top of the tower at the front of the building.

This view shows the inside of the Chapel which was completely destroyed in Saturday's fire. The loss in this building is very heavy as it contained many beautiful memorials.

the hill to the south of the school overlooking Lake Ontario.

Fire Chief Richard Ware characterized the blaze as the worst in his 40 years of experience as a fireman, and stated that if he had been equipped with a fire pump or even had the pressure been normal in the hydrants that the fire would not have reached the proportions it did. He also blamed the gale which blew from the northwest and not only fanned the flames but drove burning embers to other parts of the building.

While the roof of the school was of slate and fireproof under ordinary conditions the terrific heat of the flames from the adjoining gymnasium ignited the woodwork under the slates and in a very short space of time the fire had gained such proportions that it was utterly impossible for anything to be done with it. Fire Chief Ware also pointed out that strictly speaking, the firemen were not required to attend the fire, as the college is situated outside the town limits, but every member of the volunteer brigade was on hand from the first alarm until after midnight.

Four More Alarms

On Saturday afternoon five alarms had been sent in and were responded to by the Port Hope Brigade. Besides the first alarm, four subsequent calls were received. The second call came at ten o'clock Saturday night when it was rumoured the College Hospital was on fire. The next came at 1.30 Sunday afternoon due to an outburst of flames from the debris and a similar alarm was responded to at 6.30 and another at 9.15. It was feared that owing to the high wind the outbursts might assume alarming proportions.

Hospital and J. S. Escaped

The college hospital, on the south side of Ward street, directly opposite the main building, wherein lay several patients, suffering from minor ailments, escaped damage. The patients were later removed to the Port Hope hospital.

The new junior school dedicated in 1924, which is situated three hundred yards across the campus from the senior school, was out of the path of the flames. The heating and water supply was temporarily shut off as the building is heated from the boiler room at the main school. The pupils were given two weeks vacation in order that repairs could be affected. There are eighty four pupils at present in the junior school.

Rope Still Hangs

The rope attached to the bell at the north side of the main school used for the summoning of classes, still hangs in silent testimony of the disaster.

Other Losses

Besides the clothing, etc., lost by the students, their trunks which were stored in other sections of the building were consumed by the flames. One lamentable occurrence in connection with the saving of the effects was the stealing by some unprincipled vandals of anything they could lay their hands upon.

Masters Suffer

The resident masters of the school sustained considerable loss by the conflagration. They included Lt.-Col. C. Goodday, S. Geldard, P. H. Lewis and R. T. Graham and they had considerable personal property and other valuable effects in their quarters.

Offer Assistance

The headmaster of T.C.S. is indeed grateful for the many kind offers of sympathy which have been extended him. The Governors of Colleges, including Upper Canada, Appleby, etc., and others have offered aid of any kind. A message of regret was received from W. R. Nesbitt, president of the Lakefield Preparatory School Old Boys' Association, which held their annual dinner over the week end. Old boys of the school rallied to the call and did everything in their power.

On Sunday morning and afternoon long queues of people visited the scene of disaster. People from Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Toronto and many other points came to view the remains. A high wind was blowing on Sunday and at times portions of the brick walls left standing as if in monumental mockery, would crash to the earth.

The hospital was first erected in 1906 and was later moved and rebuilt into the modern building it now is through the generosity of Mrs. Harry Patterson, and a legacy left by the late Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnston, who was the first boy to enter Trinity College school.

After Dr. Bethune severed his connection at the local school, Rev. R. Edmund Jones took charge, and was succeeded by the late Dr. Symonds. Dr. Symonds left to become rector of Christ Church Cathedral, in Montreal and Dr. Oswald Rigby succeeded, who served from 1903 until 1913 when the Rev. F. G. Orchard, the present incumbent took over his duties.

The school rink was erected before the war, by the Old Boys' Association, while that body have been very closely connected with the furnishing of the new building.

Another body which has been intimately connected with the progress of the school is the Trinity College School Ladies' Guild whose work has been with both alumni and students. It was the Ladies' Guild, which in 1922 unveiled the giant Memorial Cross on the rise overlooking the entire district, to the memory of the boys who fell. Mrs. Lawrence Baldwin has been president of the guild for several years, while the daughter of Dr. Bethune, and the elderly gentleman himself have also watched the growth of the school.

School Staff

The members of the present staff of the senior school include, headmaster Rev. Dr. F. G. Orchard, S. Geldard, house master; and Lt.-Col. C. Goodday in charge of the middle school. The assistant masters include, Rev. R. S. Tippett, A. C. Morris, P. H. Lewis, W. Ogle, H. F. Ketchum, C. P. Gwyn and R. T. Graham. The junior school staff includes Rev. C. H. Boulden, W. H. Morse, H. G. James, F. Wilcox and P. N. Y. Craig. Sergt.-Major S. J. Baer is the Physical Training instructor and Edmund Cohe, organist.

Well Insured

It was learned that the buildings and contents were well insured, but the authorities would not divulge the exact amount carried. Besides destroying the main school, gymnasium and rink, the ice house and root cellar were also burned. The passage-way from "The Lodge" to the school was partly scorched. The farm out buildings were saved.

Much credit is due those who, in face of such obstacles, fought the flames, and it is considered fortunate in view of the circumstances, that the adjoining Head-Master's house and hospital were saved. The fire-fighters, exhausted after ten hours' labor, left a mass of ruins and smoldering smudges, only to be called out again Sunday when the latter, accelerated by the Sunday afternoon blizzard, again took flame and for a time, threatened to continue on their way toward further destruction.

The absence of any accident was again considered to be a very fortunate circumstance, during the time the firemen were at work. It was feared many times that the wind-swept walls would topple, and repeatedly the men had to run for cover when an extremely strong wind bore against them.

In a statement to The Guide, Dr. F. Graham Orchard, Head Master, complimented those who took part in the work of rescue and in fighting the fire in face of such difficulties. "With the water supply giving out and the wind so strong, it is very fortunate that we were able to save what we did. My house caught on fire several times, but the efforts of the men eventually saved it," he said.

To Rise From Ruins

It will be a source of gratification to learn that the new Trinity College will rise from the ruins, a better and more influential building to serve the generations in years to come.

Last Fire in 1895

The last disastrous fire which destroyed Trinity College School occurred on Saturday, February 9th, 1895, some thirty-three years ago. The loss occasioned at that time totalled $80,000.

It originated in one of the highest rooms in the tower which was situated at the extreme western end of the school buildings. The room was occupied by a Mr. Watson, one of the masters, who left his lamp burning and went to another part of the building. The fire was discovered by one of the other masters whose room adjoined Mr. Watson's but the interior was entirely enveloped in flames and the cause was either the amp exploding or some coals falling from the grate. The boys were aroused and when all had given their "present" work was started. Chemical engines were used but with no effect; these were abandoned and an effort made to save the contents. When the firemen arrived the fire was confined almost entirely to the tower. The wind hitherto had been blowing from the north but it veered around to the west and the gale swept the fire down the large long corridors, which ran east through the building from the tower. The firemen had no appliances with which to work (there being no water supply) except the two chemical engines, their labors were completely useless. The chief and his gallant men had to stand by and view the gambols of the destructive fiend, unable to cope at all successfully in the prevention of the destruction. They could assist only in removing the contents. Before the fire had burned through the roof, and the sparks and burning chunks of wood had begun to be blown about, the wind again shifted and blew from the northwest. This lessened the labors of the firemen in saving the handsome residence of Dr. Bethune, principal of the school, which was situated fifteen or twenty yards to the east of the school building. The sparks were blowing across the southwest corner of the house but the firemen by throwing snow on the building and by hanging west blanket on the woodwork stopped any incipient blazes.

Forced To Flee

The fire then had full control of the west end and with the aid of the wind was making rapid headway along each of the three floors. The firemen and those inside were forced to flee before they were trapped in its uncomfortable embrace. The embers were flying down into the barn yard of the farm then occupied by Paul Bennett and men were kept busy extinguishing the coals that lighted threateningly around.

Most of the contents were saved except in a damaged condition. The greater part of the boy's library was destroyed but the more valuable—the general library—was saved. The main building which was destroyed contained the class rooms, dormitories, and was four stories high. The chapel was also destroyed.

School's History

The school was first established in the village of Weston, near Toronto, and was opened on the first of May, 1865, under the headmastership of Rev. C. H. Badgley, M.A. During the summer of 1868 the school was removed to Port Hope. In January, 1872, the first portion of the new buildings were completed and occupied. The school premises then consisted of over twenty acres of land and affords ample place for cricket, rugby, etc. Trinity College School was, by an Act of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, passed during the session of 1871-72, constituted a corporate body consisting of the Lord Bishop of Toronto, the Chancellor, the Provost and the Professors in Arts of the University of Trinity College, the Head Master of the School and such other persons as may, from time to time, be appointed by the governing body.

This view depicts the main dining room at Trinity College situated in the main building immediately demolished, but considerable equipment was saved.

THE GUIDE STORY

It is unnecessary to state that his designs on the girl were of the most dishonorable kind, and that he represented himself to be a single man. Aided by his advantages of money position, and personal appearance, he had anticipated that the ruin of the girl might be affected with very little difficulty; but he soon found that he had undertaken no easy conquest. The mother's vigilance never relaxed and the daughter's self-possession never deserted her. She admired Mr. James Smith's tall figure and magnificent whiskers; she showed the most flattering partiality for his society; she listened tenderly to his compliments, and blushed encouragingly under his look of admiration; but whether it was cunning calculation, or whether it was pure innocence, she seemed absolutely incapable of understanding that his advances toward her were of any other than an honorable kind. At the slightest approach of undue familiarity she drew back with a kind of contemptuous amazement in her face, which utterly daunted and perplexed Mr. James Smith. He had not calculated on that sort of resistance, and he was perfectly incapable of overcoming it. The weeks passed; the month for which he had taken lodgings expired. Time had strengthened the girl's hold on him till his admiration for her amounted to absolute infatuation; and he had not advanced one step yet toward the execution of the vicious purpose with which he had entered the house.

At this time he must have made some fresh attempt upon the girl's virtue, which produced a coolness between them, for, instead of taking the lodgings for another term, he removed to his yacht in the harbor and slept on board for two nights. The wind was now fair, and the stores were on board; but he gave no orders to the sailing master to weigh anchor. On the third day, the cause of the coolness, whatever it was, appeared to have been removed, and he returned to his lodgings on shore. Some of the more curious among the townfolk observed soon afterward when they met him in the street, that he looked rather anxious and uneasy. The conclusion had probably forced itself upon his mind by this time that he must decide upon pursuing one of two courses. Either he must resolve to make the sacrifice of leaving the girl altogether or to commit the villainy of marrying her.

Unscrupulous as he was, he hesitated at encountering the risk—perhaps, also, of being guilty of the crime—involved in the last alternative. While he was still in doubt, the father's coasting vessel sailed into the harbor, and the father's presence on the scene decided him at last. How this new influence acted it was impossible to ascertain, from the necessarily imperfect evidence of persons who were not admitted to the family councils. The fact, however, was indisputable that the date of the father's return and the date of Mr. James Smith's wicked resolution to marry the girl might both be fixed, as nearly as possible at one and the same time.

Having once made up his mind to the commission of the crime he proceeded, with all possible coolness and cunning, to provide against the chance of detection. Returning on board his yacht, he announced that he had given up his intention of cruising to Sweden, and that he intended to amuse himself by a long fishing tour in Scotland. After this brief explanation he ordered the vessel to be laid up in the harbor, gave the sailing master leave of absence to return to his family at Cowes and paid off the whole crew from the mate to the cabin-boy. By these means he cleared the scene, at one blow, of the only people in the town who knew of the existence of his unhappy wife. After that the news of his approaching marriage might be made public without risk of discovery; his own common name being of itself a sufficient protection in case the event was mentioned in the local newspapers. All his friends even his wife herself, might read a report of the marriage of Mr. James Smith, without having the slightest suspicion of who the bridegroom really was.

A fortnight after the paying off of the crew he was married to the merchant-captain's daughter. The father of the girl was known among his fellow-townsmen as a selfish, grasping man, who was too sordidly anxious to secure a rich son-in-law to oppose any proposals for hastening the marriage. He and his wife and a few intimate relations had been present at the ceremony. After it had been performed, the newly married couple left the town at once for a honeymoon trip to the Highland Lakes. Two days later, however, they unexpectedly returned, announcing a complete change in their plans. The bridegroom (thinking probably that he would be safer out of England than in it) had been fascinating the bride by his descriptions of the soft climate and lovely scenery of the South. The new Mrs. James Smith was all curiosity to see the shores of Spain and Italy; and, having proved herself an excellent sailor or on board her father's vessel, was anxious to go to the Mediterranean in the easiest way, by sea. Her attached husband, having now no other object in life than to gratify her wishes, had given up the Highland excursion, and had returned to have his yacht got ready for sea immediately.

Women Approaching Middle Life Find "Fruit-a-lives" of Great Benefit

MRS. O. GODIN.

Paquetville, N.B.—"I am giving this testimonial, hoping it will benefit every woman suffering as I did at the change of life. I was obliged to go to bed, had terrible dizziness and felt extremely weak. 'Fruit-a-lives' were really a God-send to me. Now I am in perfect health."

—Mrs. Onesine Godin.
This stage of life takes heavy toll of woman's health unless stomach, kidneys and bowels are in first-class condition. "Fruit-a-lives", in a natural, gentle way, keeps the whole system toned up to withstand this trying experience. Made from the intensified juices of ripe, fresh fruit and health-building tonics. 25c and 50c a box at all druggists.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

This shows a clear view of the interior of the gymnasium which was the second building to fall prey to the flames in the $750,000 fire at Trinity College School Saturday.

The three quarter million dollar fire on Saturday at Trinity College School originated in the rink which is shown in the above illustration. The fire spread with startling rapidity from this building to the gymnasium.

RAYNOR GIVEN 4 YR. SENTENCE

Former Automobile Dealer Found Guilty of Three Counts

R. H. Raynor was found guilty of fraud, wrongful conversion and failure to account for funds before Judge McLean late Saturday afternoon, and was sentenced to four years in Portsmouth Penitentiary. The accused took his sentence in a calm manner, and the cases having lost considerable of their interest, there were only a few spectators when the sentence was pronounced. Raynor has 30 days in which to appeal the sentence, but F. L. Ward, his counsel, stated that no appeal would be entered. It was learned that Raynor will be taken from Pictou County jail Monday to the penitentiary by Sheriff Barker and Bailiff Hoover. At the resumption of court on Saturday, Judge McLean found the accused guilty of fraud in case of Industrial Acceptance Corporation against Raynor, Col. Kailler McKay, special prosecutor, then asked for right to proceed with another case of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation against accused. This case dealt with a car sold to a Mr. Clancy in Toronto in which the car was not paid for. On this evidence Judge McLean also found the accused guilty. The case of Mrs. Yerex against Raynor for failure to account for funds was heard. Mrs. Yerex stated that when her husband died, she gave to Raynor a car to sell. This he did and obtained nearly $1600. Instead of giving Mrs. Yerex the money, he converted it to his own use. No defense was offered in any of the cases.

Judge McLean stated in sentencing Raynor that it was a painful duty, as he had known accused all his life and could hardly imagine why the sudden wealth had turned his motive to shady deals. Whether Raynor will be tried for the 17 charges pending in Hastings county could not be determined.

TOURISTS SPEND LARGE AMOUNT

Revenue From This Source Equal's Half Dominion's Wheat Crop

Revenue from foreign motor tourist traffic in Canada is equal in value to half the wheat crop of the Dominion, according to an estimate prepared by the Highways Branch of the Federal Government. For the year 1927 the interesting calculation is that $276,288,140 was spent by visiting motorists in Canada. The number of United States cars entering Canada during the year was 3,153,800, and while many of them came for 24 hours only, the great bulk of the revenue was derived from those who remained in the country for an average of 15 days. The estimate is based on the assumption that each vehicle contained four persons and each person made an outlay of $5 daily for supplies and exportable purchases.

On the same method of reasoning the amount spent by Canadian motor tourists in the U. S. last year was approximately $70,000,000. The number of Canadian cars crossing into the United States was 495,929.

The department reckons that tourists who visited Canada for 24 hours spent $48,201,740; that those who remained for a maximum period of 60 days (using 15 days as the probable average stay) spent $222,119,400, and that the leisure classes who spent the entire summer in Canada expended $5,967,000.

Perhaps it should be mentioned that the calculation of the Bureau of Statistics is more conservative than that of the Highways Branch. Their estimate of the amount spent in Canada by tourists is around $200,000,000 per annum, and that includes people coming in by rail and steamer as well as by motor car.

VALENTINO'S BILLS CUT DOWN ESTATE

Clothing Bought By Actor In London Alone Amounts to $27,000

Bills ranging from $160,000 for 111 acres of land to $77.70 for bow ties were revealed as reasons for the shrinkage of the estate of the late Rudolph Valentino from $677,550 to $287,462. Included in other bills are those of London merchants for clothing, one of these alone amounting to $27,059.77. Approximately two hundred claims have been filed.

TOWN LEAGUE FINAL TUESDAY

What promises to be the best game of the Port Hope junior town league will be played at the Young street rink next Tuesday night commencing at 8.15 when the Maple Leafs and the Victorias lock horns. Each team have one game and the fixture Tuesday night will be for the league championship.

Some mighty fine hockey is shown in the junior league and the final game will prove no exception. During the last few games the attendance has been picking up and a capacity crowd should be on hand Tuesday night to see these two rivals play.

Personals

Mrs. G. Nantel and two children, Opal and Gideon, are spending a couple of weeks in Grafton.

Mrs. J. H. Byers and son, Harold, have just returned from a three weeks' visit to Peterboro and Toronto.

Wm. Croft, Queen street, has sold his 100 acre farm three miles east of Rossmount to John R. Lightie of Hamilton township. The property for the past several years was worked by James Croft. The sale was made by auctioneer J. H. Wilson of Port Hope.

With reference to the above item which we published in good faith, from what we believed good authority, in our issue of Friday, Mr. Wm. Croft informs the Guide that the sale was not made by Mr. J. H. Wilson, but that he (Mr. Croft), made the sale himself.
