CROP REPORT

Seeding operations were in full swing in Western Ontario during the past week and splendid progress made according to weekly report of the Agricultural Representative Branch. In Eastern Ontario however, there has been little seeding, although a few were working on the higher and more rolling fields during the latter part of the week.

With the exception of the counties bordering Lake Erie, reports are more optimistic in regard to the condition of fall wheat and clovers. Although damaged severely through out the province these crops have improved considerably in appearance during the past week.

Warm weather has developed the apple buds rapidly and in a few counties the pre-pink spray has already been applied.

A light silage crop in 1927 and a shortage of grain in many counties has resulted in cattle already turned out to grass. Generally speaking, cattle are in lower flesh than usual.

ALGOMA—Fall wheat improved very much in appearance during the past week. Fields that looked bad are now beginning to show considerable growth and the crop may have wintered better than appeared at first. Some fields of alfalfa are looking extra good. New seeded fields are looking fairly good and making satisfactory growth. Red Clover has been killed out to some extent.

BRUCE—Farmers have been rushing the seeding this week in practically all sections although in some localities the ground has been scarce dry enough as yet. Barley and mixed grains will show some increase in acreage while in one town ship an unusually large number of farmers are sowing peas.

DUFFERIN—The lamb crop, according to reports received by this Branch, is above the average. There is very little report of mortality to date.

DURHAM—Many farmers are co-operating with the Corn Borer Inspector in making a real clean up along the lake front this year. In several places corn fields are being cultivated, double disced and then plowed. A keen interest is being evinced in spraying and more of our fruit growers are making a real effort this year to be prepared to do a real good job on spraying their fruit trees. A keen interest is being shown by the farmers of this district in fertilizing and lime this year and several car loads of these materials have been sold in this county.

ESSEX—Seeding of spring grains is still going on although a large percentage of the early fields are up and showing quite green. With reference to small seeds a good deal of injury has been reported. Your correspondent was in a field of new seeding of alfalfa which is drained and had a nice protection of old stubble. This field has come through the winter in wonderful shape. However, some of our farmers are already apprehensive and are inquiring as to suitable crops for growing annual hay mixture.

BRANT—Some stock has been turned out although there is very little pasture as yet. Much stock is in only fair condition. Farmers in this locality are just about one month late as to an average season. Farmers generally are busy on the land and making what progress they can under present conditions.

GREVILLE—There has been an improvement in the weather during the past week and some men are able to get on the land. A little seeding had been done but it is by no means general. A good many men find that their potato land is only ready to work and they are consequently in their potato crop now.

HALDIMAND—The weather was favorable and the ground was in ideal condition and as a result farmers were able to complete the bulk of their seeding this week. In talking with several farmers they stated that the land never was seeded under better conditions and with favorable weather the spring crops should be at least a normal yield even if the seeding is late. General farm conditions are not encouraging.

There is no question but what there will be poor crops in hay and fall wheat and many farmers are not looking for any improvement in farm conditions during the coming year. Many fields of fall wheat have been cross seeded with oats to produce a crop of feed. The Better Seed Campaign is having its results and there is a strong tendency for farmers to use better seed and to pay particular attention to running water furrows in order to give the land every opportunity to drain off quickly and produce maximum crops.

HURON—The past week has been a busy one for farmers. Seeding came in fast when it did come. Most land has been working fairly well. Orchards are ready to spray in many cases and the pre-pink will likely be applied to all orchards early next week.

LINCOLN—Fruit trees in general are in much healthier condition than last year and fruit buds are opening fast the past two days, which have been extremely warm. Peach buds in particular seem to be in dieate about 90 per cent bloom and blossoms of early fruits will begin to open about the middle of May or earlier. Strawberries are nearly 50 per cent heaved and winter killed and young asparagus roots are also badly heaved and killed.

ONTARIO—Fert wheat is looking much better than it did a week or two ago and except in low spots it looks like an 80 per cent crop. Alfalfa and Clover also are looking better and damage through heaving by frost will not be as extensive as at first thought.

RENFREW—Alfalfa has made no growth but we do not anticipate more than 10 per cent winter killing. In spite of high prices there will be a large increase in the acreage of alfalfa this year.

NORTH SIMCOE—There is very little fall wheat in the county that does not show some injury and it is estimated that 35 to 40 per cent of the fields are killed out beyond recovery. Most of this killing is of a scattered or patchy nature. Clover apparently, has fared better than fall wheat but considerable heaving has been reported, especially with sweet clover.

TEMISKAMING—From a brief inspection of clover and fall wheat fields this week it would appear that they are coming through almost 100 per cent. This may be accounted for by the fact that snow has remained as a covering over the fields later than usual. Meadows are beginning to show some signs of growth although it is not very marked this week end. Weather has been warm and spring like during the week.

COLLEGE EDUCATION

Investigation has revealed the fact that a college education has a direct effect upon the pay envelope. College graduates average higher salaries than high school graduates, and the latter rank higher than the ones who have had only a grade school education.

There is nothing unreasonable in such a summary of values. It is only natural that the man and the woman with the highest mental equipment should command larger remuneration for their services at least in certain lines of employment. It is not only the knowledge acquired from books that counts, but the broader training, the association with talented educators, and the "rubbing shoulders" with different types of fellow students.

Not only is the college education of material benefit as regards salaries, but it gives a man one more advantage. A man with a trained mind, broadened by contact with many phases of culture, can enjoy his life more. He can make more money and he can be happier while he is making it.

A college education is not one of the necessities of life. Many men and women who have been unable to avail themselves of its privileges have made good without it. They have in numberless cases far outrun others who have had greater advantages in higher education. For after all it is personality that counts most and a college education is of little use to the graduate who does not know how best to use it. It is part of one's stock in trade. And everything depends on the way in which it is invested.—Kitchener Record.

SHANGHAI BEGGARS.

W.C.T.U. Are Educating One Hundred Beggar Girls.

A valiant effort to convert a portion of the army of beggars in the foreign and Chinese cities of Shanghai into self-respecting and self-supporting citizens is being undertaken by the Women's Christian Temperance Union of China, which has been a purely Chinese organization since 1922. The members became interested in the beggar problem five years ago, and appointed a group of American-educated Chinese women to investigate and experiment toward some solution. The experiment has been so successful that the W.C.T.U. has now determined to extend the work on a large scale, and the more optimistic women even declare their hope of eliminating the beggars from Shanghai altogether.

In its experimental school, the W.C.T.U. has had 100 women beggars as students, training younger women as skilled workers in factories, teaching sewing to older ones, and finding remunerative work for aged women with poor eyesight in string-making. It has found women beggars of the casual class willing and eager to find an opportunity to earn their living in some other way, says the Christian Science Monitor.

THE GUIDE STORY

"My dear child, I have been more troubled this week, thinking that my old friend's son might be a thief, than I have been over the orphanage scheme."

"Then, Aunt Charity, I can explain matters with a clear conscience. Mr. Fortescue is not a thief, neither is your great niece a stony hearted young person. Your fortune was all invested in a poor unfortunate bank that collapsed and though there was enough money left to give you an amount every year, there is nothing to spare. Therefore, when you asked the poor man to realize your shares he got flurried, he did not want to grieve you by telling the truth, and he has been trying to temporize. Don't forget, Aunt Charity, that you said you would be relieved to find that he was honest."

"I am not forgetting," answered Miss Granby quietly. "Don't talk to me for a few minutes. I must think this over."

The girl went back to her seat in the window, satisfied that Miss Branby was not going to upset herself over the news.

"Bless the dear man!" said Miss Charity. "I ask his pardon. Now who has been giving me this money every half year?"

"I suppose there was enough left out of the wreck for that."

"My dear"—Miss Granby looked troubled—"don't, I beg of you, out of the kindness of your heart, descent to subterfuge on my behalf. It would distress me greatly. I am an old woman and my memory is not as good as it was, yet I am fully aware that if any principal has been lost, someone has very kindly been providing me with an income. Who is that person?"

"Miss Sansome"

Firefly, much as she knew Olwen would dislike her part in the matter being known, saw that it was hopeless to evade the question.

"Thank you. I shall now write to Mr. Fortescue and apologize for the trouble I have caused him of late. I also wish to see my great-niece. Meanwhile, dear child, I wish you to fully understand that I am not agitated, that I think I should have preferred having been told all this at first, but that, in spite of everything, I mean to complete my orphanage scheme."

The old lady pursed her mouth and looked mysterious.

"How are you going to manage that, Aunt Charity?"

"Never you mind, child. That is my business. I am a foolish old woman but I refuse to be conquered by a mere bank. In spite of them all, I shall found that orphanage yet!"

As Miss Granby lay back, smiling happily at her own thoughts, Firefly went out to tell Doctor Fortescue that the momentous communication had been received with no bad effects whatever. She then asked Olwen to go up to receive her aunt's thanks.

"Now I will be off" said John, going into the hall and beginning to struggle into his overcoat. "I thought probably she would take it all right."

"Doc?"

"Well?"

"Yesterday I was fighting your battles with old Mrs. Rogers."

"Ah!" John smiled as he joined her on the front doorstep. "I fancy I know who came off best."

"She is a horrid old woman, but I think you are foolish."

"Do you?" John was in high spirits, having found Olwen in a marvelously good temper and he smiled at Firefly in a patronizing manner.

"Yes, I do. It is all very well to have a hobby, but why do you ride it to death—to your own undoing? I am sure it would be wise to let these people go on their own way. You get no thanks for meddling, and certainly no good. If you prove yourself right in the long run, you can doctor them up and say, 'I told you so.' Do you know what they call you in the village? The 'Sanitary Nuisance'! Leave them to their bad water and smells until something happens. That new man, Doctor Grey, is really coming!"

"I don't care. Let him come. Your plan might in some ways be the pleasantest, you foolish child, but it wouldn't be honest. Sooner or later I shall make some impression."

"Suppose you lose all your patients over it, doc?"

John shrugged his shoulders.

"In that case, I shall quit the field in favor of Doctor Grey, but I don't fancy that things will come to that, as there will not be time. I have been urging Miss Ransome to move you all away for a few months. I wish you would add your persuasions. Travelling will not hurt Miss Granby as much as a possible illness in the house would, later, and I can't promise that the Manor will escape all the results of Woodlands' stupidity. But if you can't persuade her to go away, do see that all the milk and water used in the house are boiled."

"Do you think I shall exercise more influence than you have?"

John laughed good-humoredly.

"Well, as you seem able to accomplish most things, you might try your hand on this."

BATTLE AGAINST NOXIOUS WEEDS

Hon. John S. Martin Calls Attention to Amendments To Act

INSECTS CAUSE HUGE LOSSES

Entire Crop Revenue Wiped Out Once In Every Ten Years

The annual loss to Canada thru destructive insects and pests in field and fruit crops amounts to approximately $125,000,000, according to the Department of Agriculture. In other words, once every ten years our entire revenue from field and fruit crops is entirely wiped out.

Canada's chief safeguard against the introduction of destructive insects is her Destructive Insect and Pest Act.

The apple sucker was found in Nova Scotia in 1919, and since that time has spread to New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. To prevent its spread to other parts of Canada, the regulations provide for quarantining.

Corn fodder, corn stalks, shelled feed, sorghums, broom corn, popcorn and seed corn, green sweet corn, roasting ears, corn on the cob and corn cobs are under quarantine in certain parts of Ontario and Quebec. The regulation has been rescinded which prohibited the movement of confiers, Christmas greens, etc., from certain areas in Quebec on account of the gypsy moth.

On account of the satin moth attacking poplars and willows over a considerable area in British Columbia, the movement of the stress is prohibited from the coast and all sections of British Columbia.

The regulations affecting foreign importations are with respect to potatoes and the wart disease and potato tuber-moth; the European cornborer, the alfalfa weevil, the Oriental peach moth; the num moth, while all species and varieties of the genus ulmus (elms) are barred from European countries.

Regulations provide for the entry of the products, trees and shrubs mentioned under certificate.

THE CIRCUS HAS THRILLS

Charlie Chaplin Is In His Element in Picture Now Being Shown

Charlie Chaplin appears to his best advantage in "The Circus," now being shown at the Royal Theatre, because there is so much scope for his style of comedy. The famous comedian has a way all his own to keep the public in roars of laughter by his clever acts. His way of speaking with a gesture is one of his most amusing stunts.

"Buffalo Bill's Last Fight," is a splendid story beautifully shown in color and an excellent indication of what we are to expect in motion pictures of the future. For a photoplay in the wilds showing Indians and troops the colored picture brings the action and spirit of the story most vividly to the audience.

The final chapter of "Blake of Scotland Yard" is also on the bill with the above mentioned popular attractions and if you've seen any episodes you will certainly want to see the ending.

Another evening of "Capitol Entertainment" at the Royal Theatre, join the merry crowd if you aren't too old to enjoy some fun and a good laugh.

MINERAL SPRINGS OF CANADA

The production of mineral waters in Canada in 1927 amounted to 303,529 gallons, valued at $14,686, and was derived from mineral springs located in Ontario and Quebec. Spring waters containing minerals in solution or as they are usually termed, mineral waters, occur in many parts of the Dominion. Many of them are utilized commercially, both as potable waters and for bathing purposes. At several of the springs where waters have curative properties, hotels and sanitariums are operated. Some of the thermal springs are utilized principally for mineral baths.
