Don't Shake Hands With the Bride, He Says—Always Best To Attend Church Sober

The Vicar of St. Philip's church is not altogether satisfied with the deportment and responses of bridegrooms in his Battersea district.

In his magazine he gives the following tips to prospective bridegrooms:

"Don't rush at the blushing bride when she joins you at the chancel steps and shake hands with her. One bridegroom did this at a recent wedding and exclaimed 'Ow yer mate?'"

"When the priest tells you to say after him 'God's holy ordinance,' don't say 'God's holy audience.' Some of the audiences we have seen at recent weddings here could never by any stretch of imagination be called holy."

"It is always best to refrain from drinking anything stronger than tea before the ceremony. The smell of alcohol is rather objectionable, and

NICHOLSON FILE WIN FROM C.N.R.

Cavan Street Team Emerge Victorious 12-8 in Interesting Game

Take a tip, gentle reader, that some mighty fine exhibitions of soft ball are being dished up at Viaduct Park, foot of Queen street, every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and last night another fine exhibition of the popular summer pastime was displayed when the Nicholson File defeated the C.N.R. 12-8.

The Nicholson File finished in third position last season and the C.N.R. a new entry to the league, led the parade four to two at the end of the fourth innings, but the File found their batting eye, and corralled five runs in the fifth stanza.

Softball has taken a firm hold in Port Hope, judging from the attendance of the games this week, and it is likely that the attendance will increase as the race warms up. Last night, by actual count, thirty five cars surrounded the diamond.

In the first four innings, Sherry, on the mound for the railroaders, kept the File sluggers in check. Guy at short, made a nice catch of Foote's bid for a hit for the second out in the first innings. In their half the C.N.R. shoved across two runs. Guy received a base on balls and Hills advanced him with a hit. Both runners advanced on a passed ball and Hamilton whiffed and O'Neill skied to left field. Manager Bird drew a pass, clogging the runways, Bill Jones poled out a hit to centre field and Guy and Hills counted.

Everything went along swimmingly until the third session when the File makers tied the count. Travin got on due to an error and Nelson advanced him on a hit to centre. Foote bagged a hit to left field and Travin and Nelson scored. The File were blanked in the fourth while the losers went into the lead by securing two runs. Francy drew four wide ones and stole second. Highfield socked a hit to right field and Francy crossed the rubber. Sherry got on owing to an error and Highfield scored on Guy's fielder's choice.

The winners annexed a commanding lead in the fifth, when they ran in five markers. The entire side batted around and the five runs represented but two hits, a fielder's choice and four errors. They counted for a single run in the sixth and four more in the seventh to sew up the old ball game. The C.N.R. notched three in their half of the fifth and seriously threatened in the last of the seventh. O'Neill was walked and Bird advanced him on a hit to the left garden. Jones was called out on strikes and Francy fouled out to first. Highfield secured a life on Travin's error and O'Neill scored. Sherry drew a walk and filled the sacks. Guy, a dangerous hitter in a pinch was at bat with the bases full, but Nelson tightened up and the batter rolled feebly to second, ending the game.

Sherry and Nelson both hurled a good brand of ball and will improve as the season progresses. Sherry gives promise as a good pitcher, but was out of the game last season owing to a fractured arm secured in practice.

The File were presented with three easy runs in the first of the seventh due to Jones' glaring error. The bases were clogged and Welsh popped an easy fly to centre field after two runners were retired. Jones had made some good catches previous in the game and was to sure of the ball and it dropped out of his hands. By the time it had been relayed three runs came in.

The C.N.R. play the Sanitary in a scheduled game next Monday night and a good contest is looked for.

Score by innings R H E File. 0 0 2 0 5 1 4—12 9 6 C.N.R. 2 0 2 3 0 1—8 5 9 Umpires—Rowden at plate; Henderson on bases.

CHARGES AGAINST FRIAR AND MOORE ADJOURNED UNTIL MONDAY, MAY 21

Former Faced Charge of Unlawfully Permitting Drunkenness on His Premises and is Being Defended by Hon. G. N. Gordon and Mr. W. F. McMahon.

Court was adjourned until Monday, May 21st at 2.30 in the afternoon in the case of Jonas Friar, Toronto Road, who appeared before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell this afternoon on a charge of unlawfully permitting intoxication on his premises on April 28th, contrary to Sec. 89 of the L.C.A. It is understood a selling charge is also laid against him while John Moore faces a charge of being intoxicated. Hon. G. N. Gordon of Peterboro and W. F. McMahon of Port Hope are the defending solicitors.

Constable H. Storey of the Provincial Police told that he raided Friar's residence in company with Chief of Police Thomas Murphy at eleven p.m. on Saturday, April 28. He stated he found Moore and Marshall in an intoxicated condition and Friar himself slightly under intoxication. There were four or five other men in the room.

There were three bottles of beer on the table as well as some glasses.

Mr. Kerr—"What were the men doing around the table?"

"They had been drinking."

"Any talk with the defendant?"

"I asked him what the men were doing," told Constable Storey. "He said they were his friends and he was giving them a drink of beer as he thought there was no harm in that. Moore was so drunk he did not know what he was doing. Marshall said he was going to fire the Chief of Police."

"From the control of the house or town?" interjected Mr. Kerr.

"From the town altogether."

Under cross examination by Mr. Gordon Constable Storey told that he did not know Moore's business in the place. He further stated he was talking silly and could not say anything to him. He took no notice of anything and slipped out while he was asking the other names.

"What indicated that Marshall was drunk?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"He jumped about the house and threatened the Chief."

"There was no suggestion that this man got the liquor at the house?"

"Every indication of it. Friar said the men were his guests and that he was giving them a drop of beer."

"He did not say that he had given beer to Moore and Marshall."

"That included everybody."

Chief Testifies

Chief of Police Murphy told of making the raid on Friar's house, accompanied by Officer Storey, on April 28th. There were nine men in the house and three bottles on the table as well as seven glasses. There were men around the table and their names were obtained.

"I asked Moore his name and he said he had none," said the Chief.

Witness stated that Marshall followed him about and threatened him and that there was every indication of drinking.

Mr. Kerr—Any talk with Friar? Chief Murphy—No, sir.

"Hear anything said?"

"He said he was treating his friends."

"You did not go there on account of any complaint of disorder?" asked Mr. Gordon in cross examining the witness.

"No."

"Did you know that the men were permit holders?"

"No."

"Do you know that Marshall lives there?"

"He boards there."

"Regarding Moore, what does he do?"

"Nothing in particular."

"Does he work?"

"Sometimes."

"This day?"

"No, that I know of."

"Does he deliver groceries?"

"Never knew him to."

"I suppose you don't know if he was delivering groceries on that date?"

"No."

"I suppose the member who threatened to have you dismissed did not talk any more intemperately than members of the Town Council?"

"I don't care to compare them." Mr. Gordon related that he could get evidence that every man in the house on that night was a permit holder and would like the opportunity to get confirmation from the Board.

Defence Witness

"Were you in Friar's house on April 28th?" questioned Mr. Gordon after John Moore was called.

"Yes."

"What was your business there?"

"I was delivering groceries from W. Bye's store and was just going out."

"Had you been drinking?"

"No."

"Were you the one that was arguing with the Chief?"

"No."

"Well, you say you got no liquor?"

"No, I was not there long enough. Any liquor that night?"

"No."

"You seem to think that these two officers have no knowledge of your intoxication?"

"No, if they say so, they are telling lies."

"Did you remember seeing the Chief?" asked Crown Attorney Kerr in cross examination.

"Yes."

"Where?"

"At the back door."

"When did you see the chief?"

"When I was going out."

"Their belief that you were staggering and tottering is all moonshine?"

"I went out when the Chief was talking and don't think he saw me."

This concluded the evidence and by consent of court was adjourned until Monday, May 21st, at 2.30.

A WORD OF CHEER

Carbon Monoxide Gas Is Not So Deadly As Many People Thought!

The Saskatoon Star brightens up the atmosphere for a few pedestrians—

The motor car, as everyone knows imperils the life and limb of the pedestrian if it is driven carelessly. To what extent do motor cars pollute the air of the cities and thus present a danger to health? This question has been the subject of an inquiry by public health officers in the United States. Their results are encouraging. One is so accustomed to reading of new threats to health and happiness, it is cheering to read that a supposed danger has turned out to be imaginary. The gasses emitted by motor cars in the streets do not constitute a "health hazard," it is found, but one is warned about breathing the air of a small enclosed garage.

The car is the avenue to the heart.—Voltaire.

CANADA'S GARDEN BLOSSOM TIME

Glory of Blossom Time Comes to Grimsby District

Blossom time in Grimsby and in North Grimsby! This picture presented each year during fruit blossom time in Grimsby and surrounding district, including North Grimsby, is one which is looked forward to with keen delight by all who have seen it. This year the indications are for a full bloom of practically all varieties and kinds of fruit trees, including sweet and sour cherries, plums, peaches, pears and apples. It is somewhat difficult to determine at an early date, but the weather during the past few days would warrant the prediction that for the next two weeks the blossoms will be at their best.

"The geographical position of Grimsby and North Grimsby in the centre of the Niagara Peninsula—the Garden of Canada—its mild climate and excellent soil make it possible to produce in commercial quantities fruits of the most tender kinds, such as cannot be produced in any other part of Canada east of the Rocky Mountains," said an official of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday. "The easy access to the larger market centres has made the district of Grimsby and North Grimsby one of the most important fruit-producing and distributing centres in the province of Ontario.

"Sweet and sour cherries and plum trees are now in full bloom, with peaches and other fruit blossoms rapidly developing. There are other wonderful spots in Ontario that may be seen at their best at any time during the summer, but 'blossom time,' is a short season, so people would be well advised to plan their next week end trip to Grimsby and the surrounding district. The merchants and residents of Grimsby and North Grimsby, through the Grimsby Chamber of Commerce, extend a most cordial invitation to all, especially our friends to the south, to visit this district during 'blossom time,' May 10 to May 20."

THE GUIDE STORY

Firefly did try and was promptly snubbed by Olwen, who declared the doctor was wrong. Not being interested in the matter, and not at all wanting to leave Woodlands, she dropped the subject, and proposed to help Olwen by writing invitations for the skating party, throwing out hints regarding Hal Pett's fears as to a change of weather.

For the Manor people the days passed quickly, most of them being kept so busy with rehearsals. Neither Firefly nor Olwen had time to visit Mrs. West. All that Firefly knew was that she had not let her threat into execution and left Woodlands, for she heard praises of The Briars on all hands; so she concluded that the widow's fears had proved groundless.

Olwen kept her own counsel about the mysterious stranger, but, after discovering in the village that he had arrived by train on the day she had encountered him at The Briars and had left the same evening, she, too, dismissed the matter from her mind.

Meanwhile, Doctor Forrester, in spite of his disclaimer to Firefly, was growing worried. True, he had a private income that safeguarded him against poverty, but no man likes to see the result of several years' hard work dwindling away. No doctor worthy of the name likes to realize that his services are unvalued, that he is becoming unpopular that an unfavorable opinion is steadily gaining ground. John Forrester cared for his patients far beyond the mere fact that they paid him for his skill and attention. He knew that he could do them good; he knew that he understood his business; he knew that if they refused his help it would be to their disadvantage. He was not conceited; he was not unduly egotistic. A doctor ought to believe in himself before he can make his patients believe in him. He felt vexed that one after another refused to make use of his learning and his experience. How could he help bothering them about the impure state of the water supply upon which Woodlands depended? How could he as an honest man who saw plainly what was coming on the town refrain from warning people, even when he knew that they would rather close their ears, and hear nothing? How could he avoid tilting against abuses that met at every cottage he visited, even if it meant, as it often did, that the tenants closed the doors against him? How could he be conciliatory to the man who held the nominal post of sanitary inspector, and yet, to his knowledge, accepted bribes to close his eyes and shut his ears? How could he hold his peace when even good hearted men like Squire Pett counseled peace, when the days of peace were already over and the danger close upon every man, woman and child in the place?

"We have done very well so far, why should we not do the same for the future?" How tired John grew of this answer to all his expostulations, warnings, scoldings! Unpopular. He knew very well that he was becoming more so every day. Unsuccessful? He knew from his books that he was qualifying for that title too! Bigoted? Pessimistic? He knew that was what people styled him throughout the neighborhood, and though he knew he was right and that public opinion was wrong, the knowledge saddened if it did not embitter him; troubled him, though it could not make him cancel one of the statements for which he was becoming feared as well as hated.

AFTER XXI

The Mysterious Stranger

The great night of the theatricals came at length to be followed next day by Olwen's ice carnival by torch light, which novelty was attracting a good deal of attention from both young and old.

Miss Granby, in spite of all Firefly's warnings that not only would she be very tired before the end of the evening, but that in all probability her feelings would be considerably shocked, announced her intention of witnessing the play.

"If the play is suitable for young girls to see," remarked Miss Granby, "it must be fitting for an old woman of seventy to witness."

Woodlands, small as it was, boasted a town hall, and on the night in question it was crowded to overflowing. Behind the scenes all was merriment, the members of the company experiencing the various agitations of nervousness, excitement, depression and stage fright, customary to first nights.

Firefly was, with the exception of Doctor Forrester, really the only self-composed member of the company.

Olwen felt discontented as she sat with Miss Granby in solemn grandeur in the reserved seats. Not even the consciousness of being well dressed compensated for the feeling of being outside the fun and excitement that she knew was going on behind the scenes.

She glanced over the audience and noticed Mrs. West.

CANADA'S NATIONAL WEALTH

Discussing the latest estimate of Canada's national wealth, now figured at $26,000,000,000, or $2,700 per capita the Monthly Journal of the British Empire chamber of commerce says that "to make comparison with the United States it would be necessary to multiply Canada's national wealth by twelve (to equalize population)." This would give the dominion an aggregate of $300,000,000,000, a sum which does not differ greatly from the estimate of the national wealth of the United States as of 1925. The Journal adds that there is reason to believe that the Canadian national wealth figures will expand at a rate to exceed the United States from a percentage standpoint.

The relative rate of increase in Canada's national wealth will be of interest, but the really important facts of development of dominion resources lie elsewhere. Canada is in a position to profit from every advance science has made and will make; its industrialists and statesmen are so situated that they may guide their activities not only by the successes but by the failures of the others; the distressing results of waste and wanton destruction, the possibilities of conservation and replacement of natural resources, are an open book to which chapters are added every day from experiment and experience. Machinery economically far more efficient than anything now known, devices today only speculatively projected as remote possibilities, transportation facilities that will make what we are pleased to call marvels seem clumsy and immature, wise legislation and enlightened practices; these headings suggest but do not define the advantages that will arm men in the future as they unlock the treasure houses of natural resources.

What is true of development in Canada is true of every other land hitherto unexploited. Today there is no measuring stick by which may be even faintly suggested the stupendous potentialities of tomorrow's utilization of the earth and the fullness thereof by man if he exercises ordinary common sense; and Canadians have given many exhibitions of possession of that endowment.

SLAYER'S FATHER TOUGH CHARACTER

Newspaper Files of 50 Years Old Relate Death of Montgomery's Father

A prelude to the killing of Provincial Constable N. F. Maker by David Montgomery, co-proprietor of the Montgomery hotel, who was subsequently shot to death by Constable Leonard Mathews last Thursday, while endeavoring to escape, occurred in Peterboro just fifty years ago.

On December 14, 1878, Bill Montgomery, a brother of David was shot by R. M. Roddy after a quarrel in a Hunter St saloon. He died a few hours later.

Excerpts from the story of Bill Montgomery's life read like an old-fashioned blood and thunder tale and are to be found in the Peterboro Times of that date.

Under the headline, "A desperado's death," an extract from the Toronto Mail is quoted: "Showing what the Toronto detectives thought of Montgomery." It reads in part as follows:

"Montgomery, the desperado who was shot and killed by an hotel keeper at Peterboro on Saturday night, was known to the Toronto detectives as a most villainous character. Detective Reid, in an interview last evening, said that Montgomery had been the terror of Victoria county for years. In 1876 the police authorities of this city were asked to undertake his capture, as no one could be found in the country who cared to come into contact with him so much was his violence feared. Under instructions from the Ontario government, which had taken the matter up, Detectives Reid and Brown were despatched to Bobcaygeon, where the ruffian was at that time holding high carnival by keeping the residents in such dread that they were afraid to call their lives their own.

The officers arrived in that town on the 22nd of November. They had not far to search for their man. He was found in Godfrey's saddle shop, and when told by the detectives that they had come from Toronto to arrest him, he immediately showed fight. As Montgomery was a powerful man, standing six feet high and weighing about 230 pounds, the detectives apprehended a struggle, but having come fully prepared to defend themselves, were determined to secure their prisoner at all hazards.

Montgomery drew a revolver in each hand and said that he would never be taken alive. Reid can boast of both pluck and strength, and Brown is possessed of hard sinews and considerable quickness of action, so they made a determined advance on Montgomery. As is usually the case, when a bully meets men who manifest a disposition to defend themselves, he never presses matters so he retreated, throwing down his pistols. After a short parley, he surrendered without a blow being struck.

He was removed from Bobcaygeon to jail that night. It was found that there were warrants against the prisoner for acts of violence, and crime reaching over a period of ten years. The charge on which he stood his trial was one of assault committed upon a whiskey informer named Wallace. Montgomery had met Wallace in Bobcaygeon and had kicked his face to pulp. He was convicted and sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment. On one occasion when Mr. J. S. Merrick of Toronto was electioneering in Victoria county, Montgomery assaulted him very severely in a Peterboro hotel.

"Once Montgomery was arrested by two county constables and placed in a buggy to be conveyed to the jail. On the road he threw the two constables out of the vehicle and drove off with it. Whenever he took the fancy, he would walk into a house and carry off whatever he pleased, his lawless character awing his victims into submission.

"Montgomery had no settled occupation, usually travelling as a groom to stallions in the summer and hunting in the winter. A violent death is no surprising termination to such a wild career. He leaves a wife and two children, some where in the vicinity of Peterboro.

BREMEN READY TO TAKE OFF

Plane Has Been Put in Shape For Future Flights

The first official announcement that the transatlantic monoplane, Bremen, would be flown from Greenely Island, was made by Robert Cannon, head of the Canadian Transcontinental Airways, in a statement issued Thursday. The plane, which was damaged in landing, following the eastern ocean's crossing by Captain Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and Major Fitzmaurice has been repaired and is ready to take off at any time.

The Bremen was made fit to fly by Pilot Dr. Cuisiner and Mechanic Thiabeault, of the Canadian Airways company, who have been on Greenely Island since Sunday, April 15 two days after the Junkers mono plane landed. They accompanied "Duke" Schiller in a relief plane and remained on the island while Major Fitzmaurice returned to the mainland.

AIR PASSENGERS REACH MONTREAL

Pass Over Port Hope at 12.23 p.m. Wednesday at 3600 Feet

From Toronto to Montreal, a distance of approximately 325 miles, over the air mail route in three hours and seven minutes was the experience of the first passengers Wednesday in a Fairchild five-passenger cabin monoplane. The machine left the airport of the Toronto Flying Club, Leaside, at exactly 11.48 a.m., and averaging almost two miles per minute all the way, the aeroplane landed in Montreal in 187 minutes.

This, however, cleared in places, giving a view at between 5000 and 6000 feet of about twenty miles or more. The Ottawa river was picked up, for instance, fully ten minutes before it was actually reached.

called for by James Woodsworth in respect to the withholding of the broadcasting licenses of the International Bible Students Association. The file of correspondence tabled includes approximately two hundred letters, reports, petitions and copies of newspaper clippings of open letters complaining of broadcasting of the Bible Students' stations.

The principal complaints are that the stations flooded the air for local receiving sets, making it impossible for them to tune out the Bible Student station and that much of the material broadcast was sheer bunk. Complaints with respect to their broadcasting began to be received as far back as 1918 when the stations first began to operate. The complaint then was that they were not content to be on the air the period of five and a half hours allotted to them but persisted in their effort to get on the air almost continuously. In this connection a report from Inspector J. MacKlin of Saskatchewan sets out that although allotted approximately five and a half hours a week, largely used for the broadcasting of religious propaganda, they were not content with this allotment.

"If they had their way," reads MacKlin's report, "they would be on the air with their propaganda morning, noon and night, very much to the disgust of the general public"—he adds, "a little of their propaganda goes a long way." This related to the situation in Saskatchewan some years ago.

A number of other complaints in 1926 from Toronto citizens appear on the file and not the least of these is the complaint of the inspector at Toronto to the department that some means should be found to force the Bible Students to keep the power of their station down to 500 watts—he states that they appear to be using superpower of up to 1,000 watts which results in flooding out all local sets, causing numerous complaints and protests.

The medical officer of health of Edmonton writing at the instance of the Edmonton board of health protested to the minister on behalf of the board and local listeners on the type of material being broadcast by the Edmonton station of the Bible Students. "On instructions of the board of health," he writes, "I desire to make formal complaint and demand that the license of the station be cancelled. The radio speaker in the course of his remarks stated that he had been at the war and that dirty doctors had inoculated filthy disease into the bodies of soldiers by the use of filthy putrid animal material." A western radio popularity contest put on in Saskatoon had resulted in the Bible Student station receiving a total of 214 out of 17,000 votes cast.

Latterly complaint reports from local inspectors and petitions have been coming into the department in increasing numbers, all much of the same tenor, complaining of the nature of the material broadcast, and of the lack of consideration on the part of the Bible Students' stations for the wishes of local listeners-in, and particularly a disregard for the rights of other broadcasting stations. The file also contains a number of letters reporting the broadcast appeals by the Bible Students' stations for listeners-in to write in their behalf to the minister when it became known that the license might be suspended and particularly during the closing days of their broadcast license privilege, which terminated with the close of the government fiscal year, March 31, 1928.

AFRICA HAS OVER 500,000 LEPERS

Efficient Treatment Can Be Had for 50c a Head

The annual meeting of the British Empire Leprosy Relief association was held recently at the India office, writes the London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The report, he says, noted the 26,000 miles tour of the secretary in British East and Central Africa, and the widespread distribution of drugs and seeds, in particular the new preparation of hydnocarpus oil. Branches of the association have been established in various parts of the empire and a great fund has been formed in India for the furtherance of leprosy work there.

"From the latest survey it is estimated that there are more than half a million cases of leprosy in that country," he continues, "whereas the original estimate of the association was that there were only a quarter of a million is the whole Empire."

"Sir Leonard Rogers, the authority on tropical diseases and honorary medical secretary of the association, said that there was most complete evidence that early cases of leprosy could be cured. The leading authorities in Calcutta and Culin in the Philippines, were agreed that nearly every early case of leprosy was curable. Within the last few years nearly a thousand patients has been released on parole at Culin."

"The South African reports showed that, although segregation was compulsory, the settlements had little experience with early cases. This was owing to the tendency to concealment which was so unhappy a feature of enforced segregation unalleviated by outdoor treatment, in the early non-infective stage. They now have a cheap, painless and efficient remedy in sodium hydnocarpate at a cost of 50 cents for a year's treatment. The association had sent out more than 100,000 doses in the last few months and would far exceed that number this year.

"Several thousand hydnocarpus plants had been grown from seed sent out by the association, and in a few years most of the British possessions affected would have their own supplies of the oil. In countries sufficiently advanced to carry out the simple plan of examining the households and close contacts of all lepers every six months for five years, 80 per cent. of probable infections could be detected and cleared up in the early stages."

The Poor Man's Friend—Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil possesses power in concentrated form. Its cheapness and the varied uses to which it can be put make it the poor man's friend. No dealer's stock is complete without it.

Jersey City Wins

Frank Gilhooley, former star centre-fielder with Toronto, brought plenty of grief to Maple Leaf Stadium when he made his Toronto debut as a manager and led his Jersey City team to a 7 to 5 victory over the league leading Leafs. The game wasn't what could be called a baseball classic, both teams faltering on defence and attack, but the Skeeters won, and thus put it strictly up to O'Hara's men to win the remaining three games if they hope to outscore the invaders in the series.

"Lefty" Shoffner pitched a heady game for Gilhooley's team, but he swung an even more effective bat, his home run drive in the seventh with one on and his single followed by Rabbitt's error in the ninth, resulting in four runs, enough to win the battle. Jess Doyle, who went the route although hit hard at times, also connected for two safeties, a double and a single, and he sacrificed on his other trip to the plate. Shoffner drove in three runs and Doyle sent the same number of his teammates across the home platter.

MANY RETURN TO OWN COUNTRY

More Canadians Coming Home Than Are Crossing The Line

If the tide of Canadians coming back from the United States to Canada is any measurement of prosperity then that happy condition is to be found right in the dominion. O. G. Adams, immigration inspector in charge at Windsor, stated decidedly that there are more Canadians coming back from the United States than are going across the line.

A more interesting fact made by Mr. Adams is that this influx of Canadians to Canada is not distinctly a new thing. "It became noticeable four years ago at this point," the federal immigration inspector said.

The Windsor inspector had his last monthly report on his desk, ready to send. "During the last month," he said, "there were 506 Canadian-born citizens returned to this port, who had resided for a period of more than six months or more in the United States."

Many Britishers

Another significant feature of this inflow back to Canada is the number of people who were born in England. "Of these 506 last month" Mr. Adams pointed out, "104 were British subjects with Canadian domicile; that is, five years residence in Canada. On the list are also 41 naturalized Canadians who could prove Canadian domicile."

Mr. Adams said decidedly that, "There were more coming back than are going out."

"Of course," the immigration inspector added, "as long as there is a border, there will be people going back and forward. "But it is all ridiculous to try to prove that there is a Canadian exodus to the United States. There is no distinct exodus and the figures prove it."

Quota Would Help

Discussing the suggestion raised in some quarters that the government of Canada should persuade the United States government to place Canadians on the quota list to keep them at home and prevent the use of this country as a back door for illegal entry of many immigrants to the United States, Mr. Adams pointed out that this was a matter of policy to be decided by the governments concerned. His only comment was that the United States were probably only too glad to get Canadian immigration.

"Incidentally," he said; "it might help Canada if Canadian immigration was placed on the quota basis. It would hurt the pride of Canadians a bit but would help the country."

United States immigration officials at Detroit agreed with the Canadian inspector that any distinct influx of Canadians across the border to find employment had long since ceased and that the trend was now all the other way.

They minimized the illegal entry of people from the British Isles, and

THE THING CALLED DEFINITE POLICY SHOULD BE MADE

LUCK

You may call it luck if you wish to, but luck is a double jade. And never by luck does a lazy man come into the skill of a trade; And never by luck does an artist paint or a wise man wisdom learn.

For the thing called luck by the foolish tongues is the thing that the brave must learn. You may call it luck if you wish to, but never never fashions a dream. Never sinks a well where oil runs deep, or bridges a mountain stream; And luck never plays with a lazy man or a careless man or fool; 'Tis the man who fishes the most who takes the big fish from the pool.

You may call it luck if you wish to, but luck never paints a scene. Never writes a book or a song to sing, never thinks of a new machine; It may whisper a hint to a thinking man or a man who will dare to try, But the man who won't or the man who can't, good luck goes dancing by.

You may call it luck if you wish to, but the man who wins the game By a lucky stroke or a lucky break Has been fighting just the same; And whether it's oil, or gold, or art, or catching a bass or pike, If its luck you want, you must put yourself in the place where luck can strike.

continental countries across the Canadian border. The strict scrutiny and questioning of every person crossing at Windsor-Detroit practically makes it impossible for any quota people entering the country through the regular channels. As for the smuggling of aliens across the Detroit river, United States officers declare that it has been cut down almost to the vanishing point. With fast government speed boats and look out men along the river line it has become too dangerous a game. Even rum-runners now admit that they lose one boat in three.

Oppose "Vigorous" Immigration Until New Comers Are Assimilated

Urging that the provincial and federal governments should co-operate in drawing up a definite immigration policy and that the department of immigration should bear the responsibility of carrying out that policy and further that all immigration activities should cease until the whole question has been thoroughly examined on a scientific and economic basis, a telegram has been sent to the chairman of the colonization and immigration committee at Ottawa by J. A. Stoneman, president of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, stating the attitude of that organization:

"The attitude of our organization" the wire reads, "towards the immigration problem is shown in the following resolution passed at our convention at Moose Jaw last year: 'Resolved that the United Farmers of Canada in convention assembled do not approve of a vigorous immigration policy on the part of the government until our own unemployed are cared for and those brought out in former years are assimilated and stabilized. And that we go on record as being opposed to the granting of any special privileges to those coming into the country which are not granted to our own citizens.'"

TOWN GRADER MUCH IN USE

Unpaved Streets Are Being Graded and Conditions Are Improved

The purchase of a grader by the Corporation was a step taken in the right direction and the machine has been constantly in use for the past few weeks. Many unpaved streets in Port Hope, have been graded and their condition is thus considerably improved.

Prior to the purchase of the grader, the town used the Hope Township machine at a cost of seventy five cents per day, as the grader then owned by the corporation was inadequate. A few weeks ago the corporation purchased an up to date Adams turning wheel grader and now the town owns a machine of its own and is relieved of the necessity of paying a daily rent for one.

The grader has been active on many streets in Englishtown and at present is putting Hope street into fine shape. The machine is drawn by tractor.
