23 GEESE ARE AT SANCTUARY

Hastings Jack Miner League Places Them in Bleecker's Woods

Wallace Hawlock Robb, the nationalist, and Walter Turner, owner of the Hastings Jack Miner League, have placed in the sanctuary at Bleecker's Woods twenty-three Canadian geese, seven of which were received from the Arthur T. Stone farm at Madoc.

The geese acted strangely when first put in the sanctuary, but now they are a very contented family. Two of the geese escaped from the sanctuary Wednesday, the fence not being secure close to the ground, but they were soon recaptured. Besides the geese there are a number of English call ducks, mallards, and other species of the duck family in the sanctuary.

LOCAL TRUCK IS DAMAGED WEDNESDAY

S. Zealand's Truck Damaged and Driver of Truck Causing Accident Is Arrested

While a Leo truck owned by S. Zealand, local carter, was parked on the right hand side of the road about four miles west of Brighton Wednesday evening, it was rammed by a truck proceeding in a westerly direction driven by Harry McLean of Toronto and formerly of Port Hope. McLean was arrested by the Brighton police and will likely face a charge of reckless driving.

The local truck was in charge of I. We'll and the driver was accompanied by A. Little. However, when a few miles west of Brighton a fire blew out and the truck overturned, the side of the road, awaiting the arrival of a new tire from Port Hope. McLean was driving westward and possibly may have been temporarily blinded by a car proceeding easterly. He crashed into the local truck, with considerable force and sustained a crushed radiator. The Leo truck was badly damaged and the two occupants of the car were badly shaken up by the jolt but, however, escaped serious injury.

At the time of the crash the car was proceeding towards Brighton and when the collision occurred a tractor that was loaded on the truck was thrown off and struck the car and it sustained a damaged fender. However, the tractor was not damaged.

The Brighton police arrived on the scene and McLean was placed under arrest and taken to Brighton.

LATE MRS. GETTYS IS LAID TO REST

Obsèques Largely Attended On Wednesday—Rev. F. W. Anderson in Charge

Many friends and relatives turned out Wednesday afternoon to pay their last respects to the late Mrs. John Gettys, North Street, who passed suddenly away on Monday. Floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Rev. F. W. Anderson, pastor of the Port Hope United Church, conducted the services and interment was at the Port Hope Union Cemetery.

The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Messrs. Alf Outram, P. L. Curtis, E. King, Wm. Giddly, L. H. Giddly, all of Port Hope and Avery Johnston of Bowmanville.

TODAY'S RAIN BENEFICIAL

Farmers Welcome Today's Rain Which Will Give Crops a Good Start

The rainfall today is welcomed by the farmers in the district and as much of the land is seeded the crops will get away to an excellent start. Local backyard gardeners also appreciate the moisture as it will hurry along a supply of early vegetables, etc.

Most of the seeding in this district is practically done and the ground in the higher areas was badly in need of rain. The farmers here had two weeks of excellent weather to do their sowing, and it is estimated that the rain today is worth several hundred dollars.

Fields and meadows around the country are now taking on the light green tints of early summer. Grains planted a little later this year on account of the prolonged season, are well up out of the ground. The large tracts of farm land develop another aspect, which is good to see after what seemed an endless round of winter weather.

Suddenly, almost overnight, it is said, the brow earth changed into green. From one to two inches of rain are above the ground, and now that the warmth is forthcoming, the growth will proceed right ahead.

Apple trees are producing their leaves in abundance and small pink-colored buds will soon make their appearance amongst the little clusters of leaves in the apple trees. The willow trees, perhaps the most welcomed of the early spring trees to show signs of animated vegetation, is now completing its make up by covering its branches with leaves, long and slender specimens of the return of warm and balmy days, when little boys go bare-foot and carry fishin' lines and poles to the creek.

In fact, everything is taking on a different attitude towards life. Hearts become lighter, and minds easier now that the furnace of winter is let out, and doors open to admit the fresh air. Tourists will soon be coming again to see our part of the country. We must be happy and we will. That's a symbol of summer.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Well, this gentle rain should do a lot of good!

The thirsty land will be much refreshed and the recently planted seeds will show a new impetus.

Perhaps when the clouds pass away and the sun beams forth again we will have nice warm weather as was promised. Warmth and sunshine will bring joy and delight.

The "Pink Tea" the United Church Ladies Aid put on at Mrs. Chas. Roberts, was an astounding success but four ladies who had part in the affair were not mentioned in despatches. Mrs. J. Holden and Mrs. W. H. Walekin assisted in serving tea and Mrs. F. W. Galbraith and Mrs. Jas. Walker were at the door.

The twenty-fifth annual State Convention of the Knights of Columbus for the Province of Ontario will be held in Belleville on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Nearly 600 delegates and visitors are expected in the city and the convention will be graced by the presence of the Papal Delegate in Canada, as well as many supreme officers of the Council.

County pupils will pay $15 a year to attend the Ottawa College Institute, the Board of Education has decided and this disposes of a long debated question. This fee is in addition to the 80 per cent maintenance, and 20 per cent of deputation cost, now paid by the county.

Joseph Theodore Hicks, aged 33 years, and a resident of Prince Edward County, hung himself from the rafters of his barn. The Coroner from Picton with the Provincial Police investigated and considered an inquest unnecessary. Mr. Hicks had been in ill health for some time and this was given as the cause for his rash act.

TO INVESTIGATE TRUCK ACCIDENTS

Crown Attorney Takes Action In Regard to Casualties Near Whitby

Crown Attorney J. A. McGillivray has ordered an investigation into the accident west of Whitby, Monday night, when five were struck down by a fire truck, two being seriously injured.

"I cannot say what action I will take until I have investigated every phase of the accident," Crown Attorney McGillivray said.

The condition of William King of Whitby, who sustained a fractured skull, was reported to be unchanged. The condition of Ernest Stafford of Whitby, who was reported to be slightly improved. H. Gladly, King St. W. Kitchener, had a leg broken in two places and will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

The fire truck was driven by C. F. Lavery, former chief of police of Whitby, and witnesses say that in attempting to avoid striking a number of parked cars he ran into a group of pedestrians who were watching the blazing furniture van.

WILL ATTEMPT WESTWARD HOP

Small Army of European Airmen Preparing for Famous Flight

As warm winds from the south melt the icebergs off the Banks of Newfoundland, and disperse the fog off Labrador, a small army of airmen in Europe is preparing to make the famous air hop from the Old World to the New in the new impetus given aviation by the Noble prize flight.

If all the plans now announced bear fruit this spring and summer, the upper regions between London, Paris and Berlin and New York will be so clogged with airplanes, flying boats and dirigibles and almost any kind of whatnot will be propelled, that the seagulls will hardly stand a chance.

Undertaken by the heavy loss of life last year and already this year, by the attempt to fly from the east to the west, at least a score of airplanes are being constructed, finished or tested up for the long hop. Loosening up in the background are a quartette of giant fellows, the airships.

Almost every nation of Europe seems to have been bitten by the trans-Atlantic flying bug. Not only the larger nations like Britain, Germany, France and Italy, but the smaller nations like Sweden and Holland as well, are entering on the great aerial sweepstakes.

Single Flight
Very soon some of the airmen content with a single flight. A few, like Captain R. H. McIntosh, who attempted a flight last summer, expect to fly over and back, McIntosh, who has a flying school, is likely to make a double and triple crossing of both the North and South Atlantic.

The plans range from modest two seaters like that of Mr. J. S. Charlton of England and his wife, Lady Jane Charlton, to the 135-passenger airplane planned by Professor E. Rumpler of Germany. F. P. Younge, an English pilot is building a plane capable of carrying twenty passengers. He has adopted the unique experiment of advertising for passengers, saying he will fly July 1 from London to New York.

Stimulated by the comparative success of the Bremen, which practically crossed the Atlantic from east to west, German airmen are redoubling their efforts. Three companies, the Junkers, the Heinkel and Rohrbach firms are rushing the entries to completion.

The dirigibles in course of construction are attracting possibly more attention than the heavier than air craft. The R-100 is rapidly nearing construction at Howden, Yorkshire, England. It will carry 100 passengers, a crew of forty-two tons of mail, and make the journey from England to America in forty eight hours. The flight will take place late in the summer. In England, moreover, a sister ship, the R-101, is proceeding more slowly. A semi-rigid airship, the RSH-1, about one-fifth the size of the R-100, is planned by the British Airships, Ltd., for a trans-Atlantic flight to Germany. A Zeppelin is being built, competing in point of constructional speed with the R-100.

H. Larson, 42, was killed at Fairbury, Neb., when his car crashed into a bridge.

INSTITUTE NEW MASONIC LODGE

Pleasing Ceremony Held by Temple Lodge #41 Ottawa—B.D.G.M. Among the Guests

About 150 members of the Masonic order in Ottawa and this district attended the ceremonies instituting Temple Lodge, U.D. Tuesday night. The institution was carried out by Right Worshipful Brother G. Goodfellow, Whitby, District Deputy Grand Master, and his staff, and following the meeting in the Masonic rooms the gathering adjourned to the Grand Cafe for the banquet.

Temple Lodge is the most recent addition to the fraternal bodies in that city, and many members of both Lebanon and Cedar Lodges, sister Masonic organizations, gathered at the function. The formation of Temple Lodge has been approved by the Grand Lodge, and the charter will be issued in the near future.

Representatives were present from practically all of the lodges in this district, and many were the complimentary remarks to the officers and charter members on the formation of a new branch of the craft. The Grand Cafe had been under complete reservation for the banquet, at which an appropriate toast list was followed, interspersed by E. Owen, aged community singer with L. P. Unit, formerly of Port Hope, director of music of the lodge, at the piano.

The toast to Grand Lodge was proposed by Bro. C. F. Cannon and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. G. Goodfellow, Rt. Wor. Bro. Hutchinsan, Port Perry, V. W. Bro. F. H. Baily, Port Hope, Bro. G. C. Stonehouse proposed the toast to the visitors, which was responded to by the Masters of the various lodges of the district represented at the gathering. The toast to Temple Lodge was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. Goodfellow and responded to by Wor. Bro. C. R. McIntosh, W.M. of the new lodge, W. Bro. Geo. Hart proposed the toast to the new Temple to be constructed in the city, with Bro. W. C. ENGLISH AS SPOKEN

We'll begin with box; the plural is boxes.

But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.

One fowl is a goose, but two are called geese.

Yet the plural of mouse should never be meases.

You may find a lone mouse, or a whole nest of mice.

But the plural of house is houses, not hices.

And if the plural of man is always called men,

Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pan?

The cow in the plural may be called cows or kine.

But a bow, if repeated, is never called bine;

And the plural of vow is vovs, never vine.

If I speak of a foot and you show me one foot, the plural will never be shoes.

And I gave you a boot, would a pair be a toothed boot?

If one is a boot and a whole set are teeth.

Why shouldn't the plural of booth be called boote?

If the singular's this and plural is these,

Shouldn't the plural of kiss ever be written keesse?

Then one may be that, and the two would be those,

Yet had the plural would never be hose,

And the plural of cat is cats, and not cose.

We speak of a brother and also of brethren,

But though we say mother we never say methren.

Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him,

But imagine the feminine, she, this and shim!

So the English, I think you all will agree,

Is the funniest language you ever did see.

Leafs Break Even
High class hating by Don Hawkins and a wild pitch by Fowler, Reading moundsmen, saved the Leafs from suffering a double reverse at the stadium at Toronto yesterday afternoon.

The lowly Keystones, displaying more pep and ambition than they ever showed before, won the opener by 4 to 1 and bowed to the league leaders in the second engagement, a scheduled seven inning tilt that went to the tenth before Fowler shot the ball over Catcher Leggett's head to permit Burke to score from third base, the final count was 3 to 2.
Toronto's "Murderers' Row" has ceased to function and all the batsmen seem to be in the throes of a serious slump. They made only six base hits in the doubleheader, dividing them equally, three in each. That kind of slugging will not win them a pennant—not by several miles and a good many metres. Dale Alexander didn't do any slugging at all in six official times at bat while Clayton Sheedy had to be satisfied with one hit, single.

Payne's Lead Reduced

Sala second in the race standing, has an elapsed time of 507.33.12 for the 2950 miles. Andrew Payne of Claremore, Okla., the leader, saw 1:39.52 seconds of his lead over Sala taken away when he fell in a tie for fourth place with Phil Granville, Hamilton, and Lois Perella of Albany.

Their time was 10:25.57. Payne's total elapsed time is 487:23.37, which still gives him a lead of more than 20 hours.
Granville is third in 821:35.07 and Perella sixth in 541:56.33.

CROP CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY

Encouraging Prospects Emphasized by Latest Reports—Wheat Is Above Ground

The encouraging crop prospects in Western Canada this season, which have been emphasized in all address received to date, are borne out by the first report on seeding progress, issued by the Bank of Commerce. The report follows: Manitoba—Excellent progress has been made with seeding throughout the entire province. Wheat seeding is practically completed, and where an early start was made, the wheat is well above the ground and showing an even growth. Moisture conditions are satisfactory, although rains would prove beneficial to keep the crop sprouting evenly, and to check drifting. Heavy winds prevailed during the past week. These caused some drifting, but no serious damage has been reported. Seeding of coarse grains is going ahead rapidly. The increase in wheat acreage is estimated at about 10 to 15 per cent.
Saskatchewan—Wheat seeding began general the last few days in April, and, since it started, has proceeded without interruption. Approximately 40 per cent of wheat is now seeded. Seeding is from two to three weeks ahead of last year. There is sufficient reserve moisture in the soil for germination to carry the crop several weeks. High winds have been general and soil drifting is in evidence at many points. Damage so far has been slight, but good rains would be welcome particularly in central and southern areas. Increase in wheat acreage is estimated at 5 to 10 per cent, with little change in acreage to be sown to coarse grains.
Alberta—Seeding conditions are good, and satisfactory progress is being made. It is estimated that 60 per cent of wheat is seeded. High winds have caused some soil drifting, but little damage has been reported. Beneficial showers occurred in some localities in the southern portion of the province over the week-end. There is ample moisture in the soil, but the surface soil is dry, and rains would be beneficial to the seeded areas.

The Smart Kerchief Has Returned With The Spring

The flattering notions of the kerchief about the neck has been recognized by women of many nations, both ancient and modern as a valuable asset in dress. It is again, not again, this bit of a triangle seems to play into-and-peek with the styles of various ages. It is now fit a while only to be styled and adapted to the prevailing mode. So old and yet so new, it becomes a permanent feature in the woman's wardrobe. In the frock where it serves as a part of the dress and thus reverses the harmony of the whole costume. Tied in a knot at one shoulder will, be said falling over the other, the kerchief is as new and smart as the modern woman as those of elaborate lace and ruffles were in the Colonial days of the 17th century. This complete dress is further made distinctive by the occasional arrangement of plants. The neck brought about the hips and tied in a knot at the waist. The kerchief made characteristic of the Spring mode. Made of printed cotton, crepe de Chine or silk crepe and trimmed in a plain color to harmonize with the figure, this frock is smart and chic for any formal occasion. (Copyright, 1928, by Hatterick)

THE GUIDE STORY

The Pett waited after the other guests had left, and Olwen had with them a consultation about the robbery. They were interrupted by the arrival of the inspector of the police, John Kremp, in a state of pleasurable excitement and impatience.

Mrs. Granby, after a time, grew uneasy at Olwen's absence, and became aware of the buzz of voices in the hall, whereupon Firefly judged it wiser to tell her that there had been a robbery, that Squire Pett was helping Olwen to investigate matters, and that in her opinion Mrs. Granby would do most good by retiring.

Now that the excitement of the carnival was over, Mrs. Granby was so weary that she could hardly realize the new cause of agitation, and, after she had been assured that no murder had been committed, that the house was not on fire, and that the squire would make sure no thief was left on the premises, she went off to bed.

Investigation proved the loss of much more property than a few spoons and forks. As Kremp said, it was a lightly planned robbery. Sufficient clues had been sought to exchange for the silver so that detection might be put off as long as possible.

A careful knowledge of the whereabouts of valuable upstairs was displayed, for only these rooms had been entered that were worth the robbing. Moreover, the thief or thieves had evidently known all about the proposed skating carnival and calculated on all the available men being wanted at the pond to see after the bonfires and torches.

The two waiters from London answered the inspector's questions and further declared their readiness to remain the next morning for a full examination, with the other servants. Jacob Smiles continued tearful and incoherent, until the house had been searched carefully from attic to cellar by the inspector and the two gentlemen, with no result what ever.

Not did the frosty ground disclose any traces of the thief. As Kremp was putting on his overcoat, Jacob smiled forward.

"I never held with the mistress leaving them two waiters down from London. In the master's time, sir, he added, turning to Squire Pett, he preferred as me and the house servants should do all that was required, for the master could not abide new faces about him. And though I acknowledge, sir, as I am not as young as I were, I felt as I was equal to the waiting, with the boy's help. The mistress did not seem to come round to my way of thinking, sir, so when the young man arrived just up and tell me pretty short what they was to do, and where the things was kept, and told the boy to show them their room for the night, and I didn't trouble to take much note of their appearance, Mr. Kremp, beyond noting that they were tall, dark-looking chaps. About half past ten, one of the young men asks me some question about the wine, and it then crossed my mind as he looked a bit different from when I saw him before. He was tall and dark, but that's what impressed I saw, and when I looked at them two young men again just now, sir, when Mr. Kremp was a-questioning them, it struck my mind as neither of them was the young man as asked me that question about the wine. That's all, sir."

"Quite enough, too," grumbled the inspector. "Why on earth couldn't you tell us that before? May I see those waiters again, Miss Ransome?"

Much to their disgust, the men were once more summoned from the comfortable warmth and plenty of the servants' hall, and, after another prolonged discussion, it gradually became a recognized fact that neither of them had asked Jacob Smiles any question about the wine, and that both agreed in thinking that they had seen, in the supper room, another tall, dark waiter, whom they had thought to be one of the Manor House staff, yet whom they now failed to recognize among the servants.

Squire Pett was far more upset over the whole affair than Olwen. He seemed to think that Woodlands would be disgraced should the thief not be brought to justice. When the Greylands carriage was driven away, Olwen, with a laugh, turned wearily to Firefly.

"EAT AND RUN" HABIT RUINING OUR HEALTH

Dietician Warns Against Bolting Food—Pleads For Hot Breakfasts

"In this strenuous age there is every temptation to hurry through meals with an eye on the clock—to bolt our foods and run," says a recent very interesting article on cereals in the New York Evening Journal.

"And of all meals, there is none which suffers more from such neglect than breakfast. Growns must get off to business, children must get to school, and in the hurry and confusion that results, breakfast becomes a meal rife with tension and haste. Too often coffee and rolls suffice and when such a meagre breakfast starts the day, it is a natural reaction for one to feel tired, inefficient and wholly out of sorts. Thus there is a challenge to every housekeeper so to plan the duties of her early morning hours, that breakfast becomes a repose—a meal of those foods which will adequately nourish one for the duties of the day."

"Of all the foods that we might choose for a well balanced yet time-saving breakfast, there are none that adapt themselves more readily in abundance of energy and protein than cereals. Available in all seasons practically the country over, they can be quickly prepared and readily eaten. They are wholesome, flavoured, easily digested and assimilated. In fact, when served with milk or cream, these grain products may supply the major nourishment of the breakfast meal."

This article is especially interesting to all thoughtful people in view of a recent survey made on school children. This survey revealed the astonishing condition that over half of the school children actually came to school hungry. In other words, the hasty "snatch and run" breakfast did not give them enough nourishment to last them through till noon.

And yet the time required to cook a hot cereal can fit into the briefest five minutes. And at the end of that time we have a breakfast that furnished energy and building material in abundance; that is, wholesome, flavoured and easily digested. And that will supply nourishment in abundance for the person eating it.

MITY THE HOUSEWIFE

These are trying times for the housewife. On fine May days she takes the winter clothes and furs and suns and leavens them, removes the grease spots and then packs them away with moth balls or camphor or cedar shavings in cedar chests or paper bags. From the outset times this has been the duty of the housewife. It is her responsibility and her glory, if any. It is a domestic rite which no man shares.

Next fall the toms will be undressed like an apple before the funeral chamber of Tut-Ankh-Amen her nervous fingers untie and un-wrap the precious bundles. Her mind recalls the many pursuits of the errand moth, candle and otherwise, among the living room lampshades, the fringed slapping of palms and the exultant "I've got him," of the kill. Surely none has survived to corrupt the winter garments? Alas! Too often the insidious worm has done its deadly work. And there in the autumn before the housewife's eyes will be the remnants of many a hoary feast.

In such cases husbands are inclined to be unreasonable. With all the processes and inventions of modern civilization surely there is some reliable prevention against moths. And surely a wife should know about it. Poor women! They are so superficial. They put faith in aromatic smells. Now, if a man had to do it he would go into the entomological, biological, gastronomical and statistical history of the destructive little pest. He would study of barbares and quarantines and prepare sermons. And when the time came around for reasserting the winter raiment there would be just as many moth holes as when frigid wife had charge of the spring moth-proofing.—Oshawa Times.

ITALY'S FRUIT INDUSTRY.

About 600 Factories Are Engaged in Preserving Foods. The canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables was first introduced into Italy some fifty years ago, when a small factory was opened at Turin, says an article in the Christian Science Monitor. Since then it has spread throughout the country, dealing with an ever-growing number of products.

The Government, appreciating the economic value of the industry, has taken measures to insure an output of high quality products. The canners against unfair competition and the consumer against adulterated or inferior foods.

At the end of 1925 nearly 600 factories were engaged in the preparation of canned and preserving foods. A capital of over 1,000,000 lire is invested in this industry. No fewer than 50,000 persons are employed in the food preserving industries, which pay a wage bill amounting to over 50,000,000 lire a year.

Statistics are given that tomatoes are valued at some 500,000,000 lire, or which approximately two-thirds is a capital of over 1,000,000 lire. The canning industry has greatly increased the value of farm lands, and in many cases has brought about a real agricultural revolution. For instance, the selling price of a hectare (2.471 acres) of land in the heart of the tomato-growing district has risen from 3,000 lire in 1900 to 30,000 and 100,000 lire in 1925. The area under tomatoes is estimated at 42,000 hectares, from which over 3,000,000 quintals of tomatoes are obtained each year. The canning industry ranks sixth in the list of Italian export trades.

EMERALDS FROM THE SEA.

Perfect Stone Is Even More Costly Than the Ruby. Until recently rubies were the fashionable stone, but the emerald has ousted them from their premier position. The emerald is very liable to cracks and fissures and to spots on its transparency. That is why a ruby is so expensive, because it is so costly that the diamond, and to-day even more costly than the ruby.

The emerald seems to have been the favorite stone of ancient Egypt. Old emerald mines have been discovered so extensive that hundreds of tons must have worked in them at a time, such as they work in the diamond mines of South Africa to-day. Many times Cleopatra's time are set with emeralds deeply cut with her portrait. These she is said to have bestowed on foreign ambassadors as a mark of her favor.

The most productive emerald mines of to-day are in Colombia and Venezuela. There is a famous emerald mine near Santa Fe. Stones are still found, however, in the vicinity of the mines of Egypt, and some years ago emeralds of a lovely color were brought up by the sea near Alexandria. It is possible they came down in the salt of the Nile from the mines of Upper Egypt.

VARIOUS PERIODS ARE ARRANGED

It has been found impracticable to adhere to the original plan for holding the big military camp at Barriefield, commencing on Aug. 21 and continuing for 12 days, for the troops of this military district, and arrangements are now being made for four different training periods at this camp.

The first detachment of troops to go under canvas at Barriefield will be the cavalry regiments, which will be in camp for a period of twelve days, commencing on June 19. From July 9 to July 13 the Ottawa Signal Battalion will be under canvas.

The largest camp will probably be from Aug. 21 to Sept. 1, a period of ten days, when six rural infantry battalions and the machine gun companies recruited in rural districts will attend for training while this period will be immediately followed by three days of intensive training to be carried out by seven city infantry battalions and the machine gun companies recruited in urban centres.
